WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Deny it who can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer.

It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises. Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pooked your purse to-day and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

"ROXY."

BY EDWARD EGGLESTON.

CONTINUED.

Mr. Whittaker was a New Englander, and to him this revival was something appalling. Not that he did not believe in revivals; but he believed in revivals like Dr. Payson's and Jonathan Edwards'—of the quiet, awful, and persuasive kind, which would not have been possible among the inflammable people of Ohio in the last generation. Mr. Whittaker, believing that some good must be done in spite of the "wild-fire," thought it no more than right that he should attend the Methodist meetings. He could not do this in any spirit of patronage as he might have done in New England, for here the Methodists were more than half the town. Still he could not but feel that it would be a condescension for a college-bred man like himself to lend his countenance to these people whose minister had laid down his hatter's bow to become a preacher on an education consisting chiefly of a reading of Wesley's Sermons and Clarke's Commentary. He went one evening and did his best to get into sympathy with the meeting, but the loud praying, the constant interruption of responsive "Amens" and other ejaculatory cries, the kneeling mourners weeping and sobbing, fifty at a time, in the space around the pulpit, the public prayer offered by women, the pathetic melodies and choruses, the occasional shouting—these and a hundred other things offended his prejudices and grieved his sense of propriety. He wondered how Roxy could seem oblivious to the din about her as she moved among the penitents on the women's side of the house, to comfort them with her special vocation. He saw how everybody loved her, how the gladness of her face seemed to mollify the terribleness of Dale's fiery preaching. He watched the two on the night of old Tom Walters' "start," and Whittaker saw that after the old man had wept and cried, lying prone upon the floor during the whole evening, he seemed not a little cheered by the words which sister Roxy spoke to him at the close of the meeting; not by the words, perhaps, but by the radiant face and hopeful tone.

But Whittaker did not go again. How could he? To him this religious intoxication was profanation, and he wrote a strong letter to the Home Missionary Society setting forth the "wild and semi-barbarous character" of many of the religious services at the West, and urging the importance of sending men to plant "an intelligent and thoughtful Christianity" in its place. This was because he was an exotic. The religion he despised was indigenous. A better and more thoughtful Christianity has grown up there since he has grown thoughtful. But it has developed on the ground. It is not chiefly New England thoughtfulness, but the home growth of Western intelligence that has done it.

But though Whittaker washed his hands of this roaring revivalism, he wished that he were free to dislike it wholly. Tom Walters, he reflected, would no doubt slip back into the mire as soon as the excitement was over, but all in this ingathering there must be some good grain. And so he found himself in that state which is least comfortable of all—his sympathy dividing the ground with his antipathy. And such is the solidarity of people in a village that an excitement of this sort is sure to affect everybody sooner or later. Whittaker soon saw in his own congregation an unmistakable drift. He was unwilling to admit that the Methodist revival had influenced him, but he found himself appealing more earnestly than ever to his few hearers to become religious. He found himself expecting something. What to do he did not know. At last he appointed an "Inquiry Meeting" at the close of his Sunday evening service. Not one person remained as an "inquirer." To Mr. Whittaker's amazement this was Twomet. There were many others a week later, but that first should be the volatile Twonnet, whose gay banter and chaffer had made him afraid to speak to her seriously, quite upset him. After the enquiry meeting was over and he had sunk into himself alone in the little parlor at Mr. Lefaure's where a melancholy ticking was kept up by an old Swiss clock screwed to the wall with the weights and pendulum hanging exposed below, he looked into the blazing fire on the hearth and wondered how it was that Twonnet, who, at other times of year evening, had been as gay as ever, was to have suddenly remained after an Enquiry meeting. He tried to think what there was unusual in his sermon that might have impressed her.

Just then the brass knob of the door was turned hesitatingly, the old-fashioned latch, big at one end and little at the other, was raised with a snap, and the door was opened a little way by some one who immediately began to close it irresolutely.

"Come in, Twonnet," said the minister, gravely.

Thus reassured, Twonnett entered, took up the broom mechanically, and swept the ashes on the hearth into the fire-place, set the broom down and stood halting by the fire.

"Sit down, Twonnet," said Whittaker, gently, as though he were addressing a little child. "How long have you been thinking seriously of becoming a Christian!"

"Ever since I can remember."

"Yes, yes, but lately!"

"All the time." Then, after a pause, "I would like to be as good as Roxy, but I can't. I can't be serious long at a time. I'll be laughing and teasing somebody tomorrow, I suppose. That's the reason I haven't tried before. I can't be much of a Christian anyhow."

"But divine grace can help you," said Whittaker, using the form of words to which he had always been accustomed.

"But divine grace won't make me somebody else, will it? It won't make me like to look inside as Roxy does, and to keep diaries and all that. It won't make me want to be a martyr, as she does, I'm sure. I'll never be good all over. It doesn't seem to make other people all alike, and I suppose I'll be the same giddy-headed Twonnet as long as I live, and father will have to keep shaking his head and saying, 'Tais-toi, Toinnette,' in that awful way, for ever. If I ever get to Heaven, I'll laugh one minute and get mad the next," and at this she laughed in her sudden mercurial fashion.

The minister was silent. He was afraid to say anything that might discourage her. There was not a trace of cant or mimicry in her piety. But, on the other hand, it seemed to him that there was a strange lack of the seriousness which he had always been taught was the first step of a Christian life. The cold Saxon New Englander was trying to apply Puritan rules to one of a different race.

"But I thought," continued Twonnet, gravely, "that if I couldn't be as good as I wanted to, I would just try to be as good as I could." And here she began to shed tears. "I thought that was the common sense way. I've got a temper—all of us Swiss have; but then we don't stay mad, and that's a good thing." Here she laughed again. "Any way, I'm going to do my best."

Mr. Whittaker thought it safe to approve of this last resolution, though the girl was a puzzle to him. This certainly was not an experience according to the common standard. He could not dissect it, and label its parts with the approved scientific names.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Miscellaneous.

"What I'd like to know," said a schoolboy, "is how the mouths of rivers can be so much larger than their heads."

Dr. Johnson was once asked. "Doctor, don't you think a man involved in trouble from which he cannot see how he can extricate himself would be justified in making away with himself by taking his own life?" "No," said the doctor: "let him go to some country where he is not known: not to the devil, where he is known."

There is the kiss of welcome and of parting; the long, lingering, loving, present one; the stolen or mutual one; the kiss of love, of joy, and of sorrow; the seal of promise, and the receipt of fulnilment. Is it strange, therefore, that a woman is invincible, whose armory consists of kisses, smiles sighs and tears?

"Ticket, sir," said a conductor on the Intercolonial railway, to a gentleman who, having been a season ticket holder for some time, believed his face was so well known that there was no need for him to show his ticket. "My face is my ticket," replied the gentleman, a little annoyed. "Indeed!" said the conductor, rolling back his waistband and displaying a most powerful fist. "Well, my orders are to punch all tickets on this train."

A lecturer who had been criticized for "being too long winded," referred to the fact and said: "I shall speak as long as I please." The critic, who was in the audience, cried out: "All right. If you'll only stop speaking when you stop pleasing we shall be satisfied."

"Ma, has your tongue got legs?" "Got what, child?" "Got legs ma?" "Certainly not; but why do you ask that question?" "O nothing; only that I heard pa say that your tongue was running from morning till night." Then pa had to take another "running."

A lady inquired of a neighbor how a certain friend of theirs—notorious for his laziness—who had been ill, was getting along, and the reply was, "I believe he is now able to sit up at his meals, but has to lie down at his work."

The Sun for 1879

THE SUN will be printed every day during the year to come. Its purpose and method will be the same as in the past. To present all the news in a readable shape, and to tell the truth though the heavens fall.

THE SUN has been, is, and will continue to be independent of every party and everything save the Truth and its own convictions of duty. That is the only policy which an honest newspaper need have. That is the policy which has won for this newspaper the confidence and friendship of a wider constituency than was ever enjoyed by any other American journal.

THE SUN is the newspaper for the people. It is not for the rich man against the poor man, or for the poor man against the rich man, but it seeks to do equal justice to all interests in the community. It is not the organ of any person, class, sect or party. There need be no mystery about its loves and hates. It is for the honest man against the rogue every time. It is for the honest Democrat as against the dishonest Republican, and for the honest Republican as against the dishonest Democrat. It does not take its cue from the utterances of any politician or political organization. It gives its support unreservedly when men or measures are in accordance with the Constitution and with the principles upon which this Republic was founded for the people. Whenever the Constitution and constitutional principles are violated—as in the outrageous conspiracy of 1876, by which a man not elected was placed in the President's office, where he still remains—it speaks out for the right. That is THE SUN'S way to preserve Independence. In this respect there will be no change in its programme for 1879.

THE SUN has fairly earned the hearty hatred of rascals, frauds, and humbugs of all sorts and sizes. It hopes to deserve that hatred not less in the year 1879, than in 1876, 1877, or any year gone by. The SUN will continue to shine on the wicked with unmitigated brightness.

While the lessons of the past should be constantly kept before the people, THE SUN does not propose to make itself in 1879 a magazine of ancient history. It is printed for the men and women of to-day, whose concern is chiefly with the affairs of to-day. It has both the disposition and the ability to afford its readers the promptest, fullest, and most accurate intelligence of whatever in the wide world is worthy attention. To this end the resources belonging to well-established prosperity will be liberally employed.

The present disjointed condition of parties in this country, and the uncertainty of the future, lend an extraordinary significance to the events of the coming year. The discussions of the press, the debates and acts of Congress, and the movements of the leaders in every section of the Republic, will have a direct bearing on the Presidential election of 1880—an event which must be regarded with the most anxious interest by every patriotic American, whatever his political bias or allegiance. To these elements of interest may be added the probability that the Democrats will control both houses of Congress, the increasing feebleness of the fraudulent Administration, and the spread and strengthening everywhere of a healthy abhorrence of fraud in any form. At present with accuracy and clearness the exact situation in each of its varying phases, and to expound, according to its well known methods, the principles that should guide us through the labyrinth, will be an important part of THE SUN'S work for 1879.

We have the means of making THE SUN, as a political, a literary and a general newspaper, more entertaining and more useful than ever before; and we mean to apply them freely.

Our rates of subscription remain unchanged. For the DAILY SUN, a four page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price by mail, postpaid, is 65 cents a month, or $6.50 a year; or, including the Sunday paper, an eight page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents a month, or $7.70 a year, postage paid.

The SUNDAY edition of THE SUN is also furnished separately at $1.20 a year, postage paid.

The price of the WEEKLY SUN, eight pages, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free. Address

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, NOV. 1.

A Certificate of Character.

The Irish Canadian is not satisfied because there are not two Irish Roman Catholics in the Cabinet, still it gives Mr. Mackenzie and the Grit leaders the following parting compliment: "Bankrupt intellectually and morally as the Grit leaders are in the acceptance of the public generally, the struggle they continue to lead is clearly hopeless. The purity which they had carried in any event into hypocritical cant, is considered by all the better order of men a fraud which cannot be mentioned without disgust. The political principles which those would-be leaders have preached, have proved in their hands mere trading impostures. Broad, generous, true, though most of those principles are in the convictions of a majority of the electors of this country, they can never again be advocated before a meeting of earnest men by those juggling sword-swallowers without exciting derision."

This pen picture is as acurate as if the Grit leaders had formed themselves into a group and sat for their photographs.

The Grand Trunk.

A cable telegram informs us that the ordinary half yearly meeting of the shareholders of the Grand Trunk Railway Company was held in London on Oct. 29th, when the report of the business from January 1st to June 30th was submitted. From this it appears that the total receipts (deducting discount on American currency) were £881,003. The working expenses amounted to £667,253, being at the rate of 75·73 per cent against 77·23 per cent for the corresponding half of the previous year. Thus, deducting the further sum of £540 for interest on postal and military bonds not retired, there remained the sum of £213,210. The sum of £108,673 18s 1d, having been paid for interest on lands, temporary loans, debentures and leases, and the further sum of £94,855 3s for interest on first and second equipment bonds and five per cent perpetual debenture stock a balance of £668 18s 8d remained to carry over to the next half year.

The gross receipts for the half-year (after deduction of discount on American currency) show an increase of £20,617, or 2.39 per cent. as compared with 1877.

The working expenses, including renewals, amounted to £667,253, or 75.73 per cent., against a total charge of £664,467, or 77.23 per cent., in 1877, showing an increase of £2,786, or 0.42 per cent., against the above increase in the receipts, of 2.39 per cent. The per centage of the total working expenses has been reduced 1.50 per cent., namely, from 77.23 to 75.73 per cent.

The passenger receipts were less by £3,-911, or 1.63 per cent., though the numbers were increased by 10,389, or 1.20 per cent., as compared with 1877.

The receipts from freight traffic increased £12,815, or 2.18 per cent., and the tonnage increased 103,172 tons, or 9.80 per cent.

The total number of passengers carried was 876,361, as against 865,972; and the quantity of freight was 1,156,045, against 1,052,870 tons. The average receipt per passenger was 5s. 4¼d., against 5s. 6d., and per ton of freight 10s. 4¼d., against 11s. 2d.

As regards the International bridge, the Grand Trunk Company have now received shares in the Bridge company for the bal ance of £141,678 1s. 8d. which has been expended in providing accommodation on the Buffalo side of the Niagara river and for works necessary to the due completion and practical working of the undertaking.

There has been a reduction in the charges against capital account of £383,171, arising out of the conversion of postal and military bonds into debenture stock.

The whole charge against capital for new works and rolling stock was £12,753.

The "loans" which stood in the corresponding half year of 1877 at £261,042, have been paid off.

On the whole, considering the depressed state of business, the exhibit is satisfactory, especially the reduction in the rate of working expenses, which can scarcely, it would seem, be reduced much further until the track can be doubled.

WEST INDIA FAILURES.—The failures of the West Indian merchants, Cottom, Morton & Co., of London, and the manufacturers agents, Heugh, Balfour & Co., of Manchester, have seriously affected the Island of Jamaica. Cottom, Morton & Co. have nineteen plantations there, all of which have, in a very large measure, stopped cultivation and the circulation of money. Six others on the north side of Kingston and near to Montijo Bay have turned their cattle into the cane pieces, having resolved to throw up further attempts at cultivation.

Business and Advertising.

The New York Herald comes to the conclusion that business in that city and throughout the United States is reviving, which decision it arrives at from the fact that its last Sunday's issue contained no less than seventy-three columns of advertisements. Our contemporary's taking the amount of advertising which is done as a barometer of the condition of business is probably correct, as it is certain that merchants advertise much more extensively when trade is briak than when it is dull. This we take to be a mistaken idea, because judicious advertising, if good when business is lively—as it admittedly is—must certainly be more profitable when the times are dull and trade requires to be stimulated. Nevertheless the fact is as stated. As the Herald truly says:—"Business men in these days are not content to wait behind their counters for customers, but they go out into the world and by the aid of the newspaper cry out their wares to thousands upon thousands of people who can be reached in no other way. That it is profitable to advertise is shown by the steady increase of such notices, and it has now become one of the maxims of mercantile life that success in business can only be attained by judicious and persistent use of the columns of the daily paper."

It affords us pleasure to note this indication of a revival of business in the United States, which cannot but have a favorable effect upon the trade of the Dominion.

Political Notes.

The official returns give White a majority of 686 in North Essex; Parkhill 341 in South Simcoe; and McLaws 220 in West Elgin. This leaves parties as they stood previously.

Mr. Cartwright is having a hard fight in Centre Huron, and his defeat seems not improbable.

A petition has been filed against the return of Mr. Charles Burpee, in Sunbury, New Brunswick.

The resignation of Messrs. Blair and Thompson, members of the Local Legislature, in York County, New Brunswick, having rendered another election necessary, writs have been issued and election day fixed for Nov. 14th. The nomination will take place on the 9th.

Grand Junction Railway.

The Campbellford Herald says: "There are evidences in the operation of this line that unmistakably point to its successful issue. The grading left unfinished through the Mason farm, has been completed, and the work of distributing the ties is giving the road more signs of life than it has ever shown before. Two forces of men, one at the farm of Mr. R. B. Bennett, working towards Campbellford, and the other in the direction of Stirling, are employed depositing the ties on the track, at the required distance, preparatory to the laying of the rails. The iron, we understand, will arrive on Monday next, when track-laying will be comenced with a stronger force of workmen. The Sub-Contractor, Mr. Newman, of Toronto, stated here, recently, that with no delays, he will accomplish the laying of one mile to one mile and a quarter of track a day, so that when a beginning is made, its completion to Campbellford, will be the work of only a few days. With the Grand Trunk to stock it im mediately after the road is built, we believe a good share of the grain export of this and adjoining townships will yet have shipment over the Grand Junction Railway."

RAILWAY COLLISION.—A collision occured on the Grand Trunk Railway on the 31st ult, two miles and a half west of Toronto near Dundas Bridge. A special freight train from Stratford was given the order to go a head at Carleton about four o'clock that morning, the operator apparently forgeting that the regular freight train, No. 16, was due to cross there about that time, the consequence was that the two met and came into collision with terrible force. The driver of the regular train saw the special rounding the curve, but the Toronto, Grey and Bruce runs parallel with the Grand Trunk track at this point and he though it was an engine on that line that was approaching. A brakeman named Frederick Still was horribly scalded, the skin peeling off from the flesh from head to foot, his left arm was broken in two places and there was a hole in the small of his back several inches deep. There is no hope of his recovery. Both engines were completely wrecked a number of cars were smashed. Loss $30,000. Alex. Hay, the operator at Carleton, has been arrested and will be examined before the Police Magistrate at Toronto to-day.

SITTING BULL.—Mr. Edwin Allan, of Cornwall, Indian agent, is at present in Ottawa. He has just returned from Fort Walsh, North-West Territories, where he has been since 1874, and reports that he left there on the 5th of October, and it took just twenty-one days to make the journey home. He travelled over land from Fort Walsh to Wood Mountain, a distance of about one hundred and thirty miles, and from there to Bismarck, on the Missouri River, some three or four hundred miles further. From thence he journeyed by rail. He says that Sitting Bull and his gang are at present at Wood Mountain, where Major Walsh and some twenty members of the Mounted Police force are also stationed. There are about five hundred lodges in all, and they are very peaceably disposed. There are some fifty houses, trading posts and all, at Fort Walsh, but Fort McLeod is somewhat larger. When Mr. Allan left Fort Walsh there was but one white family there, who were merely remaining over the winter and intend to remove to Fort McLeod in the spring. About one hundred and thirty members of the Police force are stationed there, and the rest are stationed at Battleford, Fort McLeod and Wood Mountain. Game is plentiful, and the Indians appear to be content.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 31.—The Greek Minister here has received information that the British note urging the strict adherence of the Powers to the Treaty of Berlin will recommend mediation on the Greek frontier question.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—A Berlin despatch states that Russia intends to raise her army in Turkey to 200,000 men.

The Russian press is extremely hostile to England. The Moskowsty says the great struggle with England which has been preparing for centuries will occur in Afghanistan. The Russkis Mur declares that the hour has come when England will be held responsible for past delinquencies.

A Simla correspondent says it is no secret that the Indian Government has urgently and repeatedly remonstrated against according further delay. The Viceroy has used his whole personal influence in favor of immediate action. The sending of the ultimatum is universally regarded as a cruel and humiliating mistake.

The same correspondent says the ultimatum demands a full apology and a reception of the British mission by the Ameer, with others conditions. There is no expectation that it will be accepted. It is hoped the Ameer will refuse to permit the emissary, who started on Monday, to cross the frontier, but it is believed that he will temporize.

A despatch from Simla says the ultimatum gives the Ameer a very short time to answer, at the expiration of which it is believed there will be a general advance.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately favored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Services Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemist, London, Eng." d&w

THE GLASGOW BANK FAILURE.—A Glasgow newspaper has printed the melancholy list of stockholders in the city bank that recently failed. It takes over six columns to contain the entire list. Many of them are women, not a few clergymen, and a large number of school teachers. Only those who owned at least £1,000 of stock could be Directors, and the fewness of such holders show how generally the shares were distributed among the middle classes. Every shareholder, even though he owned but one share, is responsible for the debts of the bank to the full amount of his property. This is of course financial ruin to a large number of poor and worthy people.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—In your issue of the 29th ult., you stated that you had been informed that the bridge over Beaver Creek, near Thwaites', had been carried away by a freshet. I am happy to state that the bridge has not been carried away by the freshet, but has been a very dangerous state from broken and decayed timber, but is now repaired and safe for the travelling public.

Yours &c.,
JOHN FRANCIS,
County Surveyor.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, OCT, 1.

City and Vicinity.

THE CELLS.—There was but one tramp in the police station last night—no prisoners.

GRAIN MARKET.—There was a further fall in barley to-day, the price declining to 90c for No. 1.

GRAIN SHIPMENT.—The Sidney Grangers are loading the schooner Wm. Elgin with barley at Sutherland's wharf.

VITAL STATISTICS.—The vital statistics of the city, as registered, for October, were : Births 31 ; Marriages 7 ; Deaths 21.

DREDGING.—The work outside the harbor having been completed, the dredge is now working at the southern end of the island in the eastern channel.

GALE.—A furious gale from the southwest began to blow about 10 o'clock this morning. Disasters on the lake and bay may be looked for.

THE FERRY.—Owing to the violence of the gale to-day, the ferry steamer was obliged to temporarily discontinue her trips at noon.

ALL SAINT'S.—This religious festival was celebrated to-day with the customary services in St. Michael's Church at which large, congregations atttended.

INLAND REVENUE.—The collections in the Belleville district for the month of October were : Licenses-fees $250 ; Spirits $4,068.28 ; Tobacco $1,731.20 ; Malt $503.-92 ; Total $6,553.40. Same month last year $4,286.17. Increase $2,267.23.

THWAITES' BRIDGE. — The statement made to us that the bridge near Thwaites' on the Snow road, had been carried away by a freshet, proves to be incorrect, as will be learned from a letter from the County Surveyor, which appears in another column.

A COLD BATH.—A youth who went to water a horse at the river this morning, was obliged to take a cold bath very much against his will. The horse insisted on having a swim, and the boy, being afraid to free the animal by letting go the halter, was obliged to share its bath.

THE NEW FERRY.—The Trenton Courier says : "Capt. Porte and Mr. Anderson have let the contract for the building of the machinery for the new ferry to the Messrs. Martin, of Belleville. They have the hull of the old Norfolk, burned two years ago, at McLellan's wharf, here, and have taken the machinery out and are now overhauling the boiler."

CHURCH PARADE.—Nos. 1 and 4 Companies of the 49th Battalion will have a church parade on Sunday. The Companies will muster at the Armory on Pinnacle Street at 2:30 p. m. and will proceed, headed by the Oddfellows' band, to St. Andrew's church where service will be held by the Rev. M. W. Maclean, pastor of the Church.

AN EARLY WINTER.—Vennor, although very far wrong in his predictions for October, seems to have hit nearly the truth in his last attempt at prophecy. Last night there was a heavy frost, the effect of which was seen this morning in ice of a quarter of an inch in thickness on water barrels, pools and even on the shores of the bay, whilst the muddy surfaces of the streets were hard frozen. Snow commenced to fall shortly after 8 o'clock this morning but did not continue long.

HALLOWE'EN.—The police report that last night was the quietest Hallowe'en that has occured in town in years. A few boys and, the constables state, some girls, were abroad in the early part of the night, carrying off gates and making uncouth noises, but their operations were stopped by the police, who also found that many people had removed their gates to places of safety in anticipation of the coming of Hallowe'en visitors. There were a number of dancing assemblies in various parts of the city, in celebration of the festival.

FATAL ACCIDENT.— A telegram from Grafton on the 30th says :—"An unmarried woman named Mary Coulson, about twenty-five years of age, was killed at Jamison's Crossing, two miles east of this station, this afternoon. The deceased was a music teacher, and while returning home from giving lessons paused upon the railway crossing, facing the east. A freight train at this moment coming from the west struck her, carrying her a hundred yards down the track, and throwing her lifeless body into the ditch. The train was stopped, and the trainmen brought the body back to the crossing, where it was taken charge of by the friends of the deceased."

A "PAPER HUNT."—"The Halifax Herald of a recent date says :—" A number of army officers were engaged in a "paper hunt" yesterday afternoon. They started from Robie Street, near the Spring Garden Road, westward to Rosebank, over Quinpool Road, and by the fields past the Industrial School to Dutch Valley, and returned by the fields to the Polo grounds, where a large and fashionable party had gathered. All the riders kept well mounted, and the "hunt" was an exceedingly interesting one." Thus it will be seen that a paper hunt, which was somewhat derided here, is not considered beneath the dignity of such fine horsemen and ardent sportsmen as the officers of the British army.

CUSTOMS.—The following exhibit gives the totals of exports, goods entered for consumption, and amount of duty collected thereon, at this port during the past month, as compared with the corresponding month of last year :—

DUNKIN IN NORTHUMBERLAND.— The Colborne Express says : "Prompted by no other motive than a desire to stem the tide of drunkenness and its wretched influence upon society in general, we, last summer, by all the legitimate means in our power, supported the by-law in these counties where it was carried by an overwhelming majority. For a couple of weeks, or months at most, men seemed to be weaned from the use of the drug, when once more it became apparent that, as the expression goes, there was more drinking than under the license system. Taking this result in conjunction with the miserable and demoralising prosecutions, we, after mature deliberation, have come to the conclusion that municipal prohibition is a remedy which works as much if not more evil than the disease. We are ready to support and vote for the suppression of the liquor traffic in the Province or the Dominion, but we don't want any more Dunkin Bill fudge." We are informed that petitions are being circulated in Northumberland for the repeal of the Dunkin Act, to show the insufficiency of which it is stated that on a tavern-keeper in Brighton being asked to sign the petition for its repeal, he refused to do so, on the ground that he sold more whiskey under the Dunkin law than before, with the added advantage that he had no license to pay.

NORTH FRONT STREET.—Residents on North Front Street and carters and others who have to travel over that street are very indignant at the state in which it now is. A considerable quantity of large stones was placed on the surface of the street, there to be broken, but the late rains having interfered with that portion of the work, the stones remain unbroken and form a very serious impediment to travel. Drivers have had to take off a portion of their loads at each end of the obstruction, and to take a highly dangerous passage on the side of the street, where, it is stated, some upsets have occurred. A representative of the INTELLIGENCER visited the locality this morning and found the complaints to be well founded. The stones have been laid in the centre of the street, and in many places they are so large that to drive over them with a loaded vehicle is dangerous. Hence the sides of the street have been utilized, and the ground there being soft, it has been cut into to a depth of upwards of a foot in several places. Thus the damage done to the street owing to the placing upon it of unbroken material will probably cause an expenditure twice as large as there should have been for placing it in a proper state of repair, added to which is the temporary inconvenience caused by the slip-shod action of the Board of Works. This morning there were seven men engaged in breaking the stones which had been laid down. Of these five were, by years and infirmity, almost incapable of labor, and the other two took care not to do more work than was done by those beside them. Should the weather prove favorable, the stones may be broken in a week or ten days, but the damage to the sides of the street will take additional time to complete. We submit to the Board of Works that the breaking of stone, especially large stone, on the roadway is all wrong. The stone should be broken at some convenient place and ought not to be put on the streets until it has been rendered fit for the purpose. Immediate action in the case under notice is required.

EATEN BY HIS BEAR.—A despatch from Weldon, N. C., of Oct. 16th, gives the following particulars of the terrible fate of an itinerant showman, one of the individuals who visited Belleville and other places in Canada with a performing bear :—"A few days ago an Italian, calling himself Felix Bernichi, came to this town with a big black bear, which he exhibited on the streets. The animal was trained, and afforded entertainment for men and boys. It danced, performed somersaults, stood on its head, and performed all the usual tricks. As it was inclined to be ferocious at times, its master kept a heavy muzzle on it as a safeguard, and never upon any occasion took this off, for it was made large, and in such a way as to afford ample provision for the animal to partake of its food with it on. To-day Bernichi's receipts were greater than usual, and on the strength of this fact he partook himself to a sample-room near by, where he got gloriously drunk. He then came forth again with Bruin and told the crowd and bystanders that he would show them something they had never seen before. He unfastened the muzzle and took it off. No sooner had this been done than the pet bounced him and commenced to "chaw" on his throat. The crowd thought this was only some part of the show, and looked on with increased interest. The poor man yelled, but as he was in the habit of yelling and making a great noise when he was exhibiting the bear, no attention was paid to that. Presently the blood gushed out, Bernichi fell. Some one then rushed to his assistance, and found that he was dead. The bear had taken a large piece of flesh out of his neck and devoured it, and in a few minutes the showman was dead. It then flashed across the minds of the lookers-on what had happened. The struggles of the man with the bloody monster were terrible. The bear was shot, and Bernichi was buried in the town cemetery."

The Invigorating, Fattening and Nutritive properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime are such as would indicate its sufficiency to "sustain the body in the performance of its various functions," with the aid of but little solid food. Hence its superior remedial worth in the "Wasting Diseases of Childhood," the "Wasting Away," in those of "Consumptive tendency."—in Consumption itself, as well as in General Debility, and all cases of Prostration and Emaciation. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle ; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Gen. Sheridan's annual report sets forth at length, that the military force in his division is entirely inadequate to perform its duties. He says no other army in the world has such an amount of work put upon the same number of men. Sheridan says the Indian situation is wholly unsatisfactory. The Indian department, owing to the want of sufficient appropriations, or from wretched mismanagement, has given to western settlements constant anxiety during the last year.

Sheridan states that he hoped that agencies of Indians would have been retained on the Missouri River, but that this would not have suited the traders and contractors who have gained this point and located the Indians on poor ground, and at more inaccessible points outbreaks will certainly continue unless measures are adopted to prevent them. Sheridan believes that the kind treatment administered with steadiness and justice would remove our western frontier from all its appalling horrors, arising from Indian outbreaks. Sheridan thinks that if the Mexican Government fails to suppress the lawlessness the Congress should pass an Act declaring that if the depredations do not cease at a certain date troops will be sent across the border and kept there until it becomes safe.

We have much pleasure in thanking the citizens of Belleville and adjoining Counties, for the large and satisfactory trade we have so far done this season.

Up to this date our Cash sales have exceeded those of any previous season, and we are aiming to make this the largest Fall and Winter trade yet done by us.

To do this, we have imported direct from the leading Manufacturers and Warehouses of Great Britain, an unusually large, varied, and attractive Stock of new Dry Goods, all of which have been personally selected by a member of our Firm, who has had a long experience in catering to the tastes and requirements of the people of this section of the country, and also from having so frequently visited the Home markets, has acquired a thorough knowledge of the best places and houses to purchase the different lines of Dry Goods from. Every intelligent person can easily understand that in this particular we have a decided advantage over others, who send their orders to Commission houses, and allow these houses to do their entire buying.

Notwithstanding the statements of an opposition House to the contrary, we beg to state and challenge successful contradiction, that the value of our Importations Direct from the European markets in original packages—all of which were selected by our own buyer, and of which we are prepared to produce the original invoices—largely exceed those of any other Dry Goods house in the City of Belleville.

To the general public, the most important and interesting part of what we have to say is, that we are prepared to furnish them with a large portion of their Fall and Winter Dry Goods at prices whereby they can save from ten to twenty-five cents on every dollar's worth, by buying them at our Warehouse. To some this may appear impossible, but to those who doubt the truth of our statements, we say, Compare the prices and qualities of our goods with those sold by other Stores. It is not necessary to buy, should they not prove equal to what we advertise them.

We are now selling a large lot of new Dress Goods at 12½, 15, 20, and 25c. per yard, which are admitted By all to be the cheapest lot of Dress Goods ever offered in this City. And although our sales of Dress Goods this season have already been very large, we are still able to show an immense variety of all the leading colors and materials which have been produced this season.

In addition to the above, the following lines are particularly worthy the attention of parties wanting first class value in these goods :

Black Silks, Silk Velvets, Velveteens, Crapes, Black and Colored Cashmeres, Kid Gloves, Jackets and Mantles, Corsets, Table Linens, Table Napkins and Towels, Scarlet and White Flannels, Wincies, and all kinds of Millinery Goods.

The Provincial Ploughing Match.

(From the Mail, Oct. 31.)

The grand Provincial Ploughing Match, under the auspices of the Toronto Electoral District Society, took place yesterday near Eglington, on Glengrove farm, the property of Mr. Beaty. As it was very near this city, quite a large number of retired farmers and others interested in agricultural matters went from here, but the majority of the visitors were farmers who drove to the grounds in their own conveyances. Notwithstanding the disagreeable state of the weather, fully a thousand people assembled to see the match. The competitors were early on the ground with their ploughs and teams, the latter making an exceedingly creditable appearance that was only surpassed by the knowledge and training they exhibited during the contest. The fields in which the trial of skill was made are located in the back part of the farm, and were of smooth, unbroken sod. The soil varied from sandy loam to a light clay loam, and was in splendid condition, though in a couple of places the grass was a little too long, and made the work appear slightly ragged. Altogether there were 51 entries, and every man was present to answer to his name. In this large number there was not one that could be properly called a poor ploughman, but all did credit to themselves and the townships they represented.

Messrs. D. McLean, York Mills, J. L. Courtice, Seaforth, and Simpson Rennie, Miliken, acted as judges in the first and third classes, and Messrs. A. Gibb, York, James Weir, Malvern, and John Dryden, Brooklyn, in the second and fourth classes. In the fifth class Dr. Smith, V. S., J. P. Barnes, V. S., and Mr. David Walker, were chosen judges. The fields were divided into plots containing a trifle less than one third of an acre, and four hours were allowed for the completion of the work, at which rate it would take fourteen hours to plough an acre. It would be exceedingly difficult to make any criticism on the work, for every one was well satisfied with the awards made by the judges, and the prize list will furnish a good comparative statement of the merits of the competitors, whose names are mentioned in it. Those who received no prizes need not feel at all humiliated, for they were not badly beaten, and lost the awards by small odds, and perhaps can make up the slight difference in skill by another year, and making an improvement on the ploughs and horses used.

PRIZE LIST.

FIRST-CLASS.

(Open to all)—11 entries.—1st prize, purse presented by the innkeepers of Toronto, $100, awarded to Mr. Thos. Hood, of Scarboro'; 2nd, cash $40, Mr. John Tweedle, Whitby; 3rd, cash $30, Mr. Wm. Milliken, Markham; 4th, cash $20, Mr. John Smith, Glandford; 5th, cash $10, Mr. Robert Pardur, Whitby.

Stewart, Scarboro'; 3rd, cash $30, Mr. George Robb, Whitby; 4th, cash $20, Mr. Wm. Hood, Markham; 5th, cash $10, Mr. J. W. Smith, Saltfleet; 6th, cash $5, Mr. Geo. Robb, Markham.

THIRD-CLASS.

Iron beam, wood-handled plough—12 entries.—1st, prize, mowing machine, presented by Mr. John Abell, Woodbridge, value $85. Awarded to Mr. Adam Hood, Markham; 2nd, cash $40, Mr. James Patton, Scarboro'; 3rd, cash $30, Mr. William Robinson, Vaughan; 4th, cash $20, Mr. Archibald McLean, Thorah; 5th, cash $10, Mr. Samuel Morgan, Lamarox; 6th, cash $5, Mr. James Fennell, West Gwillambury.

FOURTH CLASS.

For youths under 18 years of age—4 entries. 1st prize, mowing machine, presented by Messrs. Patterson & Bro., of Patterson; value $85—Master John McLean, of York; 2nd prize, $25—Master J. H. Wood, Scarboro'; 3rd prize, $25—Master Robert Gibb, York Township; 4th prize, $20—Master James Smith, Glanford. 5th prize, $15, 6th prize, $10, 7th prize, $5, were not awarded, as there were only four competitors.

SPECIAL CLASS.

Open to all the teams on the ground competing. 1st prize, for best groomed horses and best kept harness, a pair of horse blankets, presented by Mr. R. Malcolm, Toronto; value $10—awarded to Mr. James McLean, York; 2nd prize, cash, presented by Mr. William Rennie, $5—Master John McLean, York; 3rd prize, pair of halters, presented by John Williams, Toronto; value $3—Mr. William Jackson, York.

After the match was finished, the visitors, competitors and judges adjourned to Beaty's Hotel, Eglington. The President of the Society, Mr. Philip Armstrong, made a short address from the balcony, and the Secretary, Mr. J. P. Edwards, read out the names of the successful ones, paid the awards and presented the prizes.

In the evening a complimentary dinner, which was largely attended, was given to the Judges at the Walker House, Mr. Philip Armstrong presiding.

After dinner,

The Chairman rose to propose the health of the Queen. Before doing so he alluded with gratification to the day's ploughing, adding that he was present at the first ploughing match which took place on this side of the Atlantic, which, strange enough, was held on Captain McGill's farm, on which now stands part of the City of Toronto.

The toasts, "The Queen," "The Prince and Princess of Wales," and the Administrator of the Government of Canada and the Dominion Parliament and Provincial Legislature, were heartily responded to.

Hon. M. BOWELL, who was called upon to respond to the last-mentioned toast, pointed out that on the departure of the Governor-General the administration of affairs fell upon the officer commanding her Majesty's forces in this Dominion. That officer was Sir Patrick Macdougall, whose record was, as all present knew, the record of a soldier, and who, no doubt, would conform to the constitution of the country in the performance of his duties. He would shortly be succeeded by the newly appointed Governor, the Marquis of Lorne, who would be received by the people of this country with the devoted loyalty to the crown of Great Britain—of which his wife was a scion—for which this Dominion was celebrated. The people of this country were truly loyal; they gave expression to their loyalty more freely than, perhaps, the people of the United Kingdom themselves, and the Marquis of Lorne and the Queen's daughter would no doubt be fully impressed with the devotion of this country to the British crown, and the feeling entertained by the people of Canada, that under no circumstances would they consent to the separation of Canada from the dear old mother land. (Cheers.) With regard to the Dominion Parliament, he might say that as the members had been but recently elected, it would be as well not to speak of their merits or demerits until the people had had an opportunity of judging of their capabilities. He might say, however, that his experience had been that the great majority of those whom the people sent to represent them acted from conscientious motives and with a desire to do the best they could for the country. Parties certainly differed; but he hoped that in political matters gentlemen would agree to disagree; and for his part he could say that though he differed from his opponents, he was sure they acted in a manner they believed to be in the interest of the people. He believed the people of Canada were devoted to their country, and that they desired to make the British Empire one united Empire comprising an united people. Nothing gave him greater pain than to hear Canadians spoken of in England as foreigners; and nothing was more painful than to hear Englishmen, Irishmen and Scotchmen spoken of as foreigners here. It should be remembered that Canadians and those belonging to the Mother Country were one people; and as such they should be spoken of. (Applause.) In conclusion, he expressed his pleasure at the opportunity afforded him of attending the ploughing match, and expressed a hope that ere long a match would be held open to the whole Province of Ontario. (Applause.)

A number of other toasts were drank and speeches made in response, and the company separated about midnight.

EPPS'S COCOA.—All the Year Round says:—"Let us stroll to the Euston Road, hard by the Regent's Park, to Epps's Cocoa Manufactory, where may be studied the making of cocoa on a stupendous scale, giving a just idea of the value of these articles, not as luxuries, but as actual food."

EPPS'S COCOA.—Christian World says:—"If I am to take cocoa," said I, "I must see and judge for myself what are the ingredients of which it composed; with this view I made my way to the cocoa manufactory of James Epps & Co., in the Euston Road."

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.
EMPRESS RELIEF.
THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.
AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly, "Deny it who can," it is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer.

It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time.

Pocket your pride ioe and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain.

The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "Domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price. 25 cents per Bottle.

"I'LL TRY."

You will? well that's a good resolve,
Now keep it, little man,
In everything you undertake,
Just do the best you can.
One never knows what he can do
Until he sets to work;
If you should try and sometimes fail,
'Tis better than to shirk.

All honor to the earnest boy
Who tries to do his work,
A heart of principle may beat
Beneath a time worn vest.
Not always does the outward man
Reveal the hidden worth,
That goes to make up character
And forms the brave of earth.

The world has need of heroes,
Who will struggle for the truth,
And you, my boy, may find a place,
There's room for age and youth.
Yes, always room for those who try
To speed the glorious day,
When evil, everywhere shall lie
Shall yield to right the sway.

"I'll try" has conquered many a time,
And conquer yet it will;
Though hard the task and slow the work,
The brave will struggle still
For God, whose word is ever sure,
Directs the powers of might,
And those who look to Him for aid
Shall conquer through His might.

Whose annual wound in Lebanon allured

Shall we meet no more, my love, at the binding of the sheaves,
In the happy harvest fields as the sun sinks low,
When the orchard paths are dim with the drift of fallen leaves,
As the reapers sing together in the mellow misty eves—
Oh, happy are the apples when the south winds blow!

Love met us in the orchard ere the corn had gathered plume—
Oh, happy are the apples when the south winds blow!
Sweet as summer days that die when the months are in their bloom,
When the peaks are ripe with sunset, like the tassels of the broom
In the happy harvest fields as the sun sinks low.

Sweet as summer days that die, leafing sweeter each to each—
Oh, happy are the apples when the south winds blow!
All the heart was full of feeling; Love had ripened into speech,
Like the sap that turns to nectar in the velvet of the peach,
In the happy harvest fields as the sun sinks low.

Sweet as summer days that die at the ripening of the corn—
Oh, happy are the apples when the south winds blow!
Sweet as lovers' fickle oaths sworn to faithless maids forsworn,
When the misty orchard breathes like a mellow drinking horn
Over happy harvest fields as the sun sinks low.

Love left us at the dying of the mellow autumn eves—
Oh, happy are the apples when the south winds blow!
When the skies are ripe and fading, like the colors of the leaves,
And the reapers kiss and part at the binding of the sheaves
In the happy harvest field as the sun sinks low.

Then the reapers gather home from the gray and misty mores—
Oh, happy are the apples when the south winds blow!
Then the reapers gather home, and they bear upon their spears
Love whose face is like the moon's fallen pale among the spheres
With the starlight's blithe spon it as the sun sinks low.

Faint as far off bugles blowing soft and low the reapers sung—
Oh, happy are the apples when the south winds blow!
Sweet as summer in the blood when the heart is ripe and young,
Love is sweetest in the dying, like the sheaves he lies among
In the happy harvest fields as the sun sinks low.

Be Civil to Children.

There is not care enough taken on the part of many parents and teachers to be civil to children. Children are taught—or have been and ought to be—to be respectful to their parents and older people; but the converse obligation is often enough insisted upon or practised. There is no reason in this. If there be more in older persons to call forth respect, which may not always be true, there is as with little to do, more to increase; who always save money; who are never in debt or difficulty, as other men are; who are regular in their devotions; who are valuable on committees, where they always get their own way without any fuss or trouble. They habitually wait till everyone else has spoken, and then make the single remark which concludes the matter, and which seems as if it had risen to the surface, like cream, of itself.

Paganism and Christianity.

It has been truly said that 'human nature is the same in all ages.' The nations and tribes of the earth have certainly always acknowledged a Supreme Being, which acknowledgement gave rise to heathen mythology. After the fall of man, when the nations forgot the true God, having no light to guide them save nature, they saw a deity in each of their different phases; they felt that there must be a first great Cause.

The more enlightened a nation, the more exalted its idea of divinity, the vice versa. In the classic ages of Greece and Rome, when the cultivation of art and literature was at its height, graceful superstitions peopled the forest with beings half human, half divine. An individual deity presided over the different departments of art, literature and agriculture. This religion sprang from Egypt and the mystic religion of the Nile. It was but a shadow of what the vast original was meant to represent. There is something very wild and terrible in the dark lore which that ancient race possessed. It required deep thought to weave the immense fabric which constituted the whole. The wisest men felt that there must be a Great Author of all things, and they searched into the hidden mysteries of the world and of life, and out of those researches they thought they had discovered the Author of life, and they called their deity

Quiet People.

The misgovernment of the world is carried on with such an amount of talk that one has seldom time to think how little words suffice. Half a dozen well chosen words would generally be better than whole conferences and debates. But, since people must speak first and choose their words afterward, everybody's time is taken up in saying that something was said in saying that something quite different was meant, and in saying something fresh, which has to be explained in its turn. It naturally results that both wise and foolish people have broken much silence in praising it; and that, like abstract virtue, is admired, but seldom practised. It is in vain to point out that the silent fool often passes for a man of wit, because the fool who has wit enough to know this and act accordingly is not properly a fool. Were he a fool he would not keep quiet. The negroes attribute this wisdom to the chimpanzee, who they say, is a man, but will not speak lest he should be made to work. Silent people get through the world as well as their talkative neighbors; everyone talks to them; their nod is interpreted where another man would have to make a speech; and every one is willing to excuse them, as the sailor excused his parrot, for, if they do not speak, they think the more. Poole, the actor, boasted of his horse that it could stand still faster than some horses could trot; and the silent man is often enabled, by the value attached to his rare utterances, to say more by his silence than a voluble talker by a string of phrases. No doubt there is a kind of silence which is the reverse of talk, and is in itself eloquent. A prisoner who reserves his defence, a witness who refuses to answer a question, a man who holds his tongue when his character is assailed—in short, all the cases in which 'silence gives consent,' are rather silence as the negation of speech, than as a positive quantity.

It is quite easy to imagine loquacity in a deaf mute. He may not have power to utter a sound, yet in the strict sense, he is not perhaps a silent person. His silence kept on purpose to express, by its very existence, an emotion of the mind, is only a substitution of signs for speech. Such is the reticence displayed by the well-known epitaph on a tombstone in Fulham churchyard, where, after the name, age and date of death of the lady buried below, three words only are added by way of epitaph—"Silence is best." The estimation of the deceased by her surviving relations could not be more fully expressed had the whole stone been covered. When a character is to be given to a drunken or dishonest servant, the omission of the words honest and sober is sufficient. But this not the silence of quiet people. Too often they resemble rather the chimpanzee than the parrot, and are not talkative because talk may involve them in further exertion. But it is not easy to pry into their motives of action, or rather of inaction. The Dister fable has a proverb, "Nobody can tell what is in the pot when the lid is on." It is not the most unselfish people who talk least about themselves. To some the facts which relate to their personal history are too serious for words.

Unspeakable are the emotions of silent people; a sense of personal dignity or shame keeps them quiet; but to most of them is vouched a single confidential friend, into whose ear all the pent up feelings are poured from time to time.

This is especially the case with quiet girls. What they say in their moments of confidence we cannot pretend to know. Whether they are really quiet or only shy is equally beyond the superficial observer. That they are not found to impede the pleasant flow of soul in ordinary society is often because they are eminently good listeners, and do not yawn at the utmost commonplaces. That another should commit himself to speech, with or without anything to say, is enough to interest them. They are thought sympathetic, and often draw forth the tale of woe long hidden. Men begin by telling them of other loves, and often end by loving them for themselves. In this they have a great advantage over the more gushing sister. They take no notice of a foolish speech, and a man imagines he is safe in their hands. He can say things to them which, said to any one else, might have serious consequences. A quiet cousin is thus often a great blessing to a man. He can talk a matter out as with himself, and imagine afterwards that he has counsel upon it. The quiet girl hears him with outward sympathy, agrees with all his views, and, when asked to help him to a decision, gives her casting vote in favor of the course he already prefers. He finds after a while that her quiet receptive mien is grateful to him; and, when she has seen him safe through an engagement or two, and had a dozen flirtations more or less serious, he suddenly finds out, or at least tells her, that he has really been in love with her only all the time.

Quietness is sometimes a sign of bodily health. The nervous man who is always stirring, is seldom strong. But when a man is thoroughly wrapped up in himself and his own importance, perfectly satisfied with his position and prospects, the cut of his clothes, the length of his whiskers, the attenuation of his umbrella, and the lustre of his hat,—in short, when all the little things of life are right, the chances are that he is very quiet. Such men are habitually well dressed; but as they get on in life they cling to old fashions. They are not considerate for others, yet they give very little trouble. They exact the utmost service, but make no fuss about it. They are painfully regular and punctual, but never seem put out by other people's want of order. They are bores at a dinner party, wet blankets at a picnic, mere sticks at a ball; but excellent as officers, admirable parsons, and much sought after by match making mothers. It is they who carry off the increase; who always save money; who are never in debt or difficulty, as other men are; who are regular in their devotions; valuable on committees, where they always get their own way without any fuss or trouble. They habitually wait till everyone else has spoken, and then make the single remark which concludes the matter, and which seems as if it had risen to the surface, like cream, of itself.

Conversational Powers.

The burdens of social life rest chiefly on women, when man and intuition reside them charming companions. Good talking must be revived by them. Women who belong to the highest circles will allow us to remind them of what they can do to make life interesting, not to say enjoyable, if they will cultivate their conversational powers at the table and in the leisure hours of the circle of people to which they belong; and women who move in any circle can take a new departure here, which will react both directly and indirectly upon their own personal happiness. It is rare to-day to find women who respond to their duties as leaders in conversation, or who seem to give the matter any thought. Nothing should be allowed to supply the place of good, old-fashioned conversation. The importance of this matter is not more to grown up people than to young persons in one's family. Where children have learned to tell in good, easy language what they know or think, you will in most cases find them well-bred and interesting companions, and where the time spent at meals is enlivened by rational and interesting conversation there is not only good digestion, but good, healthful living also. The revival of conversation is to-day one of the great needs of society, and, though most of us are tempted to too much silence, it is not wise to carry what is at times golden, into so confirmed a habit, that it helps to make life weak and contemptible.

The Old Norse Mythology

also contained much that is wonderful. The sublime and the terrible had the greatest fascinations for them. The great northern icebergs were transformed by their vivid imaginations into the cows of the giant Hymir, and when the thunder rolled through the heavens, the angry voice of the god Thor was recognized in the dark masses of clouds were his angry brow, and the vivid flashes of lightning were his countenance glowing with wrath.

The aborigines of America all had an idea of God. These, poor children of the forest worshipped this Great Spirit, and still they expect to be restored to the "happy hunting ground" by the power of the deity they worship.

How strangely does all this contrast with the Christian religion, and yet how strikingly does it resemble it in some points. We, too, see a Divinity in nature; in the whisperings of the wind, in the singing of birds, in the murmuring of brooks, as well as in the ocean waves and in the deep solitude of a lonely wilderness, we hear the voice of the Great Creator.

While the Egyptian astrologers sought to read their destinies in the stars, we know that our destinies are only known to Him who made the stars. The most powerful heathen empires have scattered and fallen before the steady march of Christianity. Where are now the gods of the Greeks? Where are now the gods of the Nile? To that which the Egyptians worshipped as a divinity we have given a new name—science. We know that the mystery of ages is solved in our All-powerful God, and we can point to the Saviour Redeemer in our religion which empires while it elevates, and awes while it subdues.

No Time.

No time to mend to your dress, but when the little hole catches on a nail and becomes a great rent, then you will say you have to mend it, and it will be an hour's work; while five minutes would be enough for the little hole.

No time to pull up the weeds, but when your garden is full of weeds you will find you must exterminate them, and will toil in the hot sun for a week to do it.

No time to teach that little child of yours, to give it habits of neatness and show it what is right and what is wrong; it is time! Ah! but you will have time enough in the after years to bewail your forgetfulness of that little immortal soul entrusted to your keeping!

We all have time for twenty things a day which we do not do, busy as we may think ourselves.

Gems of Thought.

First realize your aim, then cast it off.

Man loves little and often; woman, much and rarely.

They only have lived long who have lived virtuously.

The hatred of those more nearly related is the most inveterate.

Liberality consists less in giving profusely than in giving judiciously.

The greatest difficulties are always found where we are not looking for them.

Labor to keep alive in your heart that little spark of celestial fire called conscience.

Politeness is not always a sign of wisdom, but the want of it always leaves room for suspicion of folly.

A light, gay way of speaking, how pleasant it is, and how rare! Most men's talk drives as through clay.

To smell of a turf of fresh earth is wholesome for the body; no less are thoughts of morality cordial to the soul.

Grief knits two hearts in closer bonds than happiness ever can; and common sufferings are far stronger links than common joys.

If only for the look of the thing, people should avoid speaking so much ill of others. Why do what is sure to make you disliked?

What you most repent of is, a lasting sacrifice made under an impulse of good nature. The good nature goes; the sacrifice sticks.

True love is eternal, infinite, and always like itself. It is equal and pure, without violent demonstrations. It is seen with white hairs, but is always young in the heart.

It is a pleasure, as you get on in life, to feel so much more self-trust in your opinions; to know what you know more decidedly, to feel that you can pass judgment with decision.

There is this difference between those two temporal blessings, health and money; money is the most essential, but the least enjoyed,—health is the most enjoyed, but the least envied.

There are no little events with the heart. It magnifies everything; it places in the same scales the fall of an empire of fourteen years and the dropping of a woman's glove, and almost always the glove weighs more than the empire.

You can never convey a real idea of what a man is by detailing his qualities. You may say just the same things of several men, who yet are strongly alike. A man must have a command of words indeed to be able to set forth those light and shade which colors blending into each other, which yet make the man what that man is, as against any other man.

It is not so much what a man says that tells as his way of saying it, and what he is who says it. One man's sermon, or talk, or speech, charms you, and another sends you to bed or thinking for another never touches you at all. What you must care for is the force of the speaker.

The clearest window that ever was fashioned, if it is barred by spider's webs, and hung over with carcases of dead flies, will not light his fireside to find its way through, of what use can it be? Now, the Church is God's window: and if it be so obscured by errors that its light is darkness, how great is that darkness?

NORTH HASTINGS.

On Wednesday next, November 6th, the nomination of candidates to fill the vacancy created in the Parliamentary representation of the north riding of this county by the acceptance of office by Mr. Bowell, village of Madoc. Up to the present time no candidate has appeared in the field in opposition to the Minister of Customs, who, it is probable, will be returned by acclamation.

Shortly after it became known that Mr. Bowell had accepted office in the Cabinet, rumors of opposition were plentiful; but the people generally recognizing the undesirability of another contested election with no new principles at issue, so soon after the general election, and not a few prominent Reformers having expressed their intention of supporting their old representative in case of a contest, it became apparent to those factiously inclined that they would waste their strength in offering any opposition to the return of the Minister of Customs. Hence the constituency is likely to escape the trouble incident to a contested election in which the opposition could have no hope of success.

Mr. Bowell spent a few days of the present week in his constituency, and was warmly received by his old friends, as well as by several of his former opponents, who are prepared to give him a hearty and earnest support in case a contest should be forced upon them.

Upon this point, the opposing of Cabinet Ministers, the St. John News, a Reform journal, says:—

"The Telegraph and Globe think with us that no good purpose would be served by opposing Mr. Tilly at the coming city election. The conclusion seems to be concurred in by all the most influential men of the local Reform party. Indeed, the general opinion is that fighting for fighting's sake, as fighting in this case would be, is mere folly. A severely contested election is no joke for any constituency. At the call of duty, the summons of principle and patriotism, it is true, the arena must be entered, the unpleasantness of a contest must be faced, and the best fight possible made. But when duty does not call nor the voice of principle or patriotism summon to a conflict, it is wise to forego strife.

"Mr. Tilley's unopposed re-election would not compromise the Liberal party in this constituency. The party's abstention would not be misunderstood, nor its future be in any wise marred by its refusal to get up a needless and useless contest at the approaching election. Mr. Tilly himself will not misunderstand the reserve of his opponents. The party elsewhere will readily comprehend the situation. If anywhere in this Dominion the local Liberal party is entitled to act in accordance with its own sense of what is best and wisest to do under the circumstances, it is in this constituency. That party cannot defeat the National Policy Government by anything it can do in this election. It could not, even by the defeat of Mr. Tilley, prevent the testing of that policy by experience. The policy will run its course, like every other political epidemic. But, meanwhile, it is desirable that New Brunswick should be efficiently represented in the Government that has undertaken the treatment of that policy."

We understand that arrangements have been made for the running of a passenger train to Madoc on the day of nomination. The train will leave here at 9 a. m., proceeding first to Stirling and thence to Madoc, where it will arrive at about 11 a. m. This will be a great accommodation to many of our citizens who desire to attend. Bills will be published on Monday giving full particulars.

United States Neutrality.

Our neighbors south of the line were very noisy a few years ago on the subject of the building in British ports of Confederate cruisers, which were subsequently fitted out elsewhere with armaments purchased in Great Britain. They succeeded, also, in obtaining the appointment of a Commission, which not only made the mother country pay smartly for the carelessness of her officials, but which laid down authoritatively and in a specific manner the principles of neutrality; but these rules being felt by our "cousins" to be too strict to meet their views—at present—they have quietly disregarded them. Their object in doing so is to permit of their carrying on a profitable business in fitting out vessels for Russian cruisers, the avowed object of which is to carry on operations against Great Britain, in case of war with Russia. This neighborly action of United States citizens seems likely to be checked ere long, as the Marquis of Salisbury has addressed a strongly worded note to the United States Government on the subject, reminding them of their duties in connection with the fitting out of vessels, and the supply of arms, to a power which may become an open and declared enemy of Great Britan at any moment. It is to be hoped that this representation will have the desired effect, although it has been made without any preliminary fuss. Were the case reversed, what a howl would be heard from the noisy Anglo-phobists amongst our neighbors.

The London "Times" on Canadian Trade.

The London "Thunderer," in a recent issue, gives Canadians one of its periodical lectures, the one in question being on the commercial policy which should be pursued by this country. The advice given to Canadians by this mentor is probably kindly meant, but it is so evidently dictated in the interest of the Manchester school of politicians that it will find but little favor in this country, more especially that part of it in which Canada is recommended to follow the example of Switzerland, which, the Times tells us, "amidst countries subject to restrictive tariffs, has itself next to no tariff, and is a standing example of commercial and industrial prosperity."

The holding up Switzerland as an example to Canada is particularly unhappy, as the circumstances of the country are as widely different as can well be imagined. As the Ottawa Free Press—itself a free trade journal—points out: Switzerland is not a young country like Canada, and it exists under a different political and commercial condition. It enjoys the advantage of a reciprocal treaty of commerce with Italy, and, if we mistake not, with France. It is not, like Canada, an agricultural country, though agriculture flourishes. On the contrary, the genius of its people lies in the direction of the finer lines of manufactures—notably, watches, silk stuffs and ribbons—the annual value of those articles exported amounting to no less than $35,000,000. It employs no less than 58,000 cotton operatives in 163 mills, and its exports of cotton embroidery alone are set down at the annual value of $2,000,000. The total population of the country at the last census was a little over two and a half millions, and the value of its foreign trade was set down at $93,600,000 of exports and $84,000,000 of imports—a wonderful exhibit, taking into account the smallness of its territory and the number of its people. The Times thinks that a country like this, surrounded by restrictive tariffs, and withal wealthy and prosperous, affords a fair conception by which to judge of the exigencies of Canada's commercial and manufacturing position, and that because Switzerland, with half a dozen neighbors, enjoys perfect freedom of trade, Canada, with only one neighbor, and that an exceedingly jealous one, is in a position to follow her example. That may be the opinion of the plutocrats and the Manchester manufacturers, but it is not likely for some time to commend itself to the people of the Dominion.

Death of Chief Justice Harrison.

We very much regret to learn of the death of Chief Justice Harrison, which took place at his residence in Toronto on the 1st. inst., from fatty degeneration of the heart. Robert Alexander Harrison was a son of the late Richard Harrison, a native of County Monaghan, Ireland. He was born in Montreal on the 3rd August, 1833. He was educated at Upper Canada and Trinity Colleges, at which latter institution he graduated in 1855, receiving the degree of B. C. L. and afterwards of D.C. L. He was called to the Barin Michelmas Term, 1835, and was made Queen's Counsel in 1867. He was Chief Clerk of the Law Department of Upper Canada from 1854 to 1859, and besides having an immense practice at the bar he wrote largely on legal subjects. For a number of years he was editor of the Upper Canada Law Journal; he established the Local Courts' Gazette; and many legal works were written by him, amongst which his Municipal Manual is perhaps the most widely known. Having reached a position second to no other counsel at the bar, he was, in 1875, appointed by the Mackenzie Government to the important and honorable position of Chief Justice of Ontario in place of Chief Justice Richards, who was placed at the head of the Supreme Court.

In politics Mr. Harrison, previous to his elevation to the bench, was a Conservative. He was elected to represent West Toronto in 1867, defeating Mr. John Macdonald by a large majority, and made a fine reputation as a debater during his parliamentary career, which, however, was short, as he retired from political life in 1872.

The deceased was one of the most eminent of the several honored occupants of the Chief Justiceship in this Province, and his decease at the comparatively early age of 45 years, with apparently a long career of usefulness before him, will be lamented throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion.

The Jacques Cartier Election Fraud.

At the close of Wednesday's proceedings, Mr. E. Carter, Q. C., for the defence, raised the point that there was no case to go the jury as no election had been proved to have been had. He also stated that Christin, the deputy returning officer, had not taken the oath prescribed by the law and that the election was in consequence voided.

Judge Ramsay reserved his decision on this point till to-morrow morning.

THURSDAY, Oct. 31.

At the opening of the Court this morning His Honor gave his decision on the points raised by the counsel for the defence yesterday afternoon, deciding that the case must proceed and go to the jury.

Mr. St. Pierre moved that the action against his client, Lemay, be not pressed, as there was not sufficient evidence against him.

His Honor refused to entertain the application, saying that it ought to have been made earlier.

Several witnesses were called for the defence, the testimony of all of whom was of a negative character.

THE BRITISH LIVE STOCK TRADE.—Arrivals at Liverpool from Canada and the United States for the week ending October 12, amounted to no less than 2,120 live cattle, 6,509 sheep, 809 pigs, and 10 calves, numbers which far exceeded those of any other week since the trade in live stock was initiated. It appears, however, by London reports that a new source of meat supply has been opened by the arrival there of 408 fine sheep from Southern Russia, being the first shipment to the London Meat Importation and Storage Company. The sheep were sent direct by rail from the Kherson district to Antwerp, where they were slaughtered, and then shipped for the Company's storage, wharf, Upper Thames street.

The Murchison Club.

The regular monthly meetings of the Murchison Club were resumed after the summer recess, on Wednesday, 30th ult., when the members met at 8 o'clock p. m., in the committee room, Shire Hall. The President, Professor Bell, occupied the chair, and the subject of the evening was "The land and fresh-water Mollusks of the Hastings district," on which a very capital paper was read by Mr. W. R. Smith. After giving a succinct sketch of this interesting, though much neglected class of animals, Mr. Smith proceeded to enumerate the genera and species which inhabit our woods and waters, fields and gardens, describing very graphically their forms, habits, modes of life, and the localities in which they may be looked for. He enumerated upwards of eighty species which had awarded his assiduity as a collector, in which capacity he has explored the waters of the bay, river and creeks, the marshes and swamps of the neighborhood, the logs and stumps of the woods, and the stones and ditches of the fields and commons; and illustrated his remarks by exhibiting specimens of the shells of the animals, and drawings of their teeth and other organs. Mr. Smith succeeded in investing his subject with the interest which a genuine and earnest enthusiasm always excites among appreciative minds. Though but a recent acquisition to the ranks of our scientific workers, he has already given earnest of energy and enthusiasm in the delightful pursuit of Natural Science; and it may be accepted as a valid testimony to the utility of such associations, that he owes much of his devotion and progress in the study of Natural History to the influence of the Murchison Club, and that besides himself, several other members may be expected shortly to make their debut in the world of science under its auspices.

MAYNOOTH COLLEGE.—A cable telegram gives the following additional particulars of the fire at Maynooth College:—"At midnight the fire was extinguished. Two wings of the college were destroyed and the library was slightly damaged. The loss to the college is estimated at $50,000. The students lost all their personal property. The fire was caused by the over heating of the warming apparatus."

IS TIRED OF PUBLIC LIFE.—Mr. Boyle, of the Irish Canadian, was anxious to have Sir Francis Hincks return to public life and lead the forlorn hope of a new Reform party. Sir Francis has written a letter to Mr. Boyle from which we take the following extract:—"It is now nearly six years since I stated, in my place in Parliament, that it was my fixed determination to withdraw from public life. Such a decision should only be made, in my judgment after deliberation, and I can scarcely conceive of a case in which it would be proper to reverse it. If you had communicated with me before publishing the article now before me, it would have spared me the necessity of making this correspondence public, which I am reluctantly compelled to do."

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—It is rumored that the negotiations between Portugal and England in regard to the cession of Delagoa Bay, an inlet of the Indian ocean in South-east Africa, have been concluded,—that England pays £60,000 for it. A railway connecting the new port with the Transvaal will be begun at once.

PARIS, Nov. 2.—The Jete given last night by the Figaro to the foreign commissioners to the Exposition, was most brilliant. Schneider, Sara, Bernhardt, Judic, Theo, and other leading male and female artists of the great theatres, participated.

The Prince and Princess of Wales entertained Sir Philip Owen and Commissioner McCormick at breakfast yesterday. The only other guest was the Crown Prince of Denmark, the Princess and brother.

THE AFGHAN AFFAIR.

RUSSIA STILL INTRIGUING.

Caucasian Army to be Reduced—Proffered Assistance to England.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov.—The Golos and other journals to-day deprecate the giving of direct assistance to the Ameer of Afghanistan, and advocate benevolent neutrality. The Golos treats the English ultimatum as a positive postponement of military operations to an indefinite period, and advises Russian diplomacy to endeavor to prevent an open collision between England and Afghanistan.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief of the Caucasus army all troops in the trans-Caucasian district are reduced to a peace footing. The Erwan and Rion detachments are to be demobilized, and furloughs are being granted.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The Premier of Hyderabad has placed the whole treasury and army of that State at the disposal of the Government, to be used against Afghanistan.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Contents of the British Note to Russia—The Reforms in Asia Minor.

PESTH, Nov. 1.—The Pesther Lloyd says the British note protesting against the Russian movements in Turkey was presented at St. Petersburg on Oct. 24th. The note expresses the hope that Russia will soon be able to resume the withdrawal of her troops, and that they will not pass the line which they have now occupied, as such a step would compel England to take precautions.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa, Nov. 1.—Thorough investigation into the rumors from London that Russian cruisers in American waters had been ordered to prepare for active service this month, proves that no such orders have been received.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 1.—The Porte has informed Minister Layard that the proposed reforms will be introduced into the provinces of Asia Minor, but a complete realization of the project will be postponed until the state of the Turkish finances permit it.

London, Nov. 1.—A despatch from Berlin says Russia, replying to the Porte's overtures, declared her readiness to reopen negotiations for a definitive treaty.

A Berlin despatch says France is expected to issue a note shortly advising diplomatic pressure in favor of Greece.

FROM MORRISBURG.

Severe Fire.

MORRISBURG, Ont., Nov. 2.—About four o'clock this morning, W. C. Gibson's steam bakery, was discovered to be on fire. It is a total loss. Insured in the Western for $2,000. His dwelling house is also slightly damaged. Loss covered by insurance. Also a new dwelling in course of completion was slightly damaged. The fire spread rapidly, destroying the sheds and stables belonging to the Exchange Hotel and slightly damaging the Hotel. It is not known whether it is insured or not. Kilgour Bro's. furniture establishment is a total loss. The building was owned Messrs. Meikle and insured in the Western for $900. Kilgour Bro's. loss is heavy in lumber and furniture. Insured in the Western for $1,000. Messrs. Meikle's new block was somewhat damaged, also their stock. Insured in the Royal and Phoenix. Messrs. Smith and Montgomery's tailoring establishment, in Meikle's block, is also damaged. No insurance.

NEWSPAPER CORRESPONDENTS.—Mr. Sidney Hall, who acted as a special artist for the London Graphic during the Franco-Prussian war, is now on his way to Canada to illustrate the progress of the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise. Lieut.-Col. Burnaby, author of "A Ride to Khiva," who is now in the Dominion, it is thought, will represent the Daily News, and Mr. William Boyd will represent the London Times.

ILLICIT STILL SEIZED.—The Revenue officers of Toronto a few days ago, seized an illicit still in the Township of Mara and destroyed it. The still was the largest that has been seized for some time, and seemed to have been in use for six years. The worm was two inches in diameter, weighed over 2,000 pounds and was capable of running off several hundred gallons a day. Four fermenting tubs, a mash tub and five puncheons were also destroyed.

In this Present Age, when the lifebattle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the strongest the tug and stress of it tell so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for the keeping up of our reserve stock of mental and physical stamina by the use of such a nerve-tonic and vitalizing agent as ROBINSON'S PHOSPHORIZED EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH LACTO-PHOSPATE OF LIME! the good, satisfying and nutritive-tonic properties supply the materials, and assist Nature in her efforts to keep up with the exhaustive demands upon her reserves. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, NOV. 2.

City and Vicinity.

Night School.—The Ontario Business College night school is to open on Monday night, as previously advertised.

Nomination.—The nomination for North Hastings is to take place at the Town Hall, Madoc Village, on Wednesday next, November 6th, at noon.

Grain Market.—Grain reached the lowest price of the season to-day; Barley sold at 60c for No. 2 and 80c for No. 1; Rye 45c; Peas 55c.

Heavy Barley.—Mr. Samuel Brickman, of Ameliasburgh, sold to Mr. Dempsey this fall, 800 bushels of barley, which averaged 54 lbs per bushel

Christ Church.—The Rev. L. Des Brisay, who has accepted the the invitation of the Congregation of Christ Church to become their pastor, will preach in that church to-morrow morning and evening.

Second Growth Barley.—Mr. J. J. McWilliams, of lot 13, in the 4th concession of Thurlow, left at this office to-day a sample of second growth barley. The grain is very plump and well filled—better filled, in fact, than the first crop.

Thanksgiving.—Several of our contemporaries urge the proclamation of a day of thanksgiving for the late bountiful harvest. A day has already been set apart for that purpose by the President of the United States, and doubtless our rulers will pursue the same course ere long.

Military.—Nos. 1 and 4 companies of the 49th Battalion continue steadily the performance of their annual drill, and show good progress. These companies will have a church parade to-morrow afternoon, when they will proceed to St. Andrew's Church, preceded by the Oddfellows' band.

Shipment of Apples.—We learn from the Picton Gazette that about 3,500 barrels of apples were shipped from Picton and other ports on the Bay, on Monday last, per strs. Picton and Alexandra. The quantity yet remaining for shipment is still large.

Close Season.—The close season for white-fish and lake trout commenced on the 1st, and continues until the 10th inst. We clip the following from the Department circular: "Each person guilty of violating the regulations is liable to fine and costs, or in default of payment is subject to imprisonment." All concerned will act accordingly.

Gunpowder Plot.—The anniversary of Guy Fawkes' day will be celebrated on Tuesday by the Orange Young Britons, 'Prentice Boys, and True Blues of the city, who will march in procession in the afternoon to the St. Andrew's Church, where a sermon will be preached by the Rev. Mr. Maclean. The procession will be headed by the Oddfellows' band. In the evening a ball will be held in the Metropolitan Hall.

Sporting.—Ducks are much more numerous on the bay this season than for many years previous, and corresponding success has attended the hunters, one of whom bagged eighty birds in one day lately, whilst others got from ten to fifty on the same day. Deer, bears, and partridge, are also reported plentiful in the woods, and large numbers of these descriptions of game have been killed of late in the northern townships.

Fake Notices.—The Peterborough Examiner says:—"The Belleville Intelligencer gives notice that in the future no business notice intended as an advertisement will be inserted in the editorial or local columns, but will be arranged under the head of business notices and charged for accordingly. Wherever practicable this is certainly the best method to pursue, and in the long run will be found to be the most satisfactory to both the advertiser and the newspaper. What say our contemporaries?"

More Bears Killed.—The Campbellford Herald says:—"Messrs. Locke and George Dunk, residents of Seymour Township, were recently successful in despatching two bears on the premises of the latter, during the present month. The last captured was on the 19th inst. The one weighed 222 pounds; and from its carcas were taken 4½ gallons of oil. The length of its skin, from nose to root of tail, was 6 feet 3 inches, and its breadth across the arms, 7 feet. At this rate of destruction, bears will shortly become scarce animals."

Incendiarism.—Shortly after 7 o'clock last night a boy who was passing near the butcher market observed a bright light in the interior of that building, and looking closely he saw that the woodwork of a vacant stall on the north side, about the centre of the structure, was in flames. He at once gave an alarm, which being heard by Mr. James McCrudden and some persons in his shop, one of the parties procured an axe and broke open the door of the stall where the fire was, and Mr. McCrudden extinguished the flames with a pail of water, before any damage of consequence was done. There can be no doubt that this fire was the work of an incendiary, but there is no clue to the guilty person and no suspicion as to his identity.

A Singular Fact.—Mr. John Cooke, of Rawdon, says he has a duck, which commenced laying eggs in the spring and continued laying until last week. This is an unprecedented freak of nature. Has any one else a similar duck?

Religious Calendar.—The following is the religious calender for November:—Friday 1st, All Saints Day; Sunday 3rd, Twentieth Sunday after Trinity; Sunday 10th, Twenty-first Sunday after Trinity; Sunday 17th, Twenty-second Sunday after Trinity; Sunday 24th, Twenty-third Sunday after Trinity; Saturday 30th, St. Andrew.

Mapleson Grand Operatic Concert Combination.—This company of first class operatic artists, composed of Mme. Marie Roze, (Prima Donna) Mr. Tom Karl and Signor Brignoli, (tenors), Mr. W. T. Carleton (baritone), Mr. Blumenberg (violincello) Mr. Alfred Pease, (pianist) and Mr. Kaiser, (violinist) under the direction of Mr. Henry Mapleson, are to visit Toronto and Montreal shortly, and Mr. Hanwell and Mr. Reynolds are making efforts to induce the company to give one nights performance here. The company is one of the finest ever organized for concert purposes Mme. Roze having during her engagement with Strakosh last year, earned the distinction of being one of the most brilliant singers ever heard on the American stage, whilst the other artists are unexcelled in their line. The terms demanded by the company are heavy, but it is believed they can be met if the music loving public of Belleville are prepared to do their part. A subscription list will be circulated, and if a sufficient amount be subscribed to secure the guarantors against loss the engagement will at once be consummated.

The Tramp Question.—In opening the assizes at Brockville, Mr. Justice Armour threw out a suggestion about tramps, says the Toronto Telegram. Tramps are becoming rather numerous in Canada, and as the cold weather begins to set in they begin to gravitate towards the cities. By the time winter arrives the jails are full of able-bodied vagrants who are too lazy to work and who know that they can always calculate upon finding comfortable winter quarters in the county jails, where they are well housed, well fed, and well used. Mr. Justice Armour said he was glad to see that an effort was being made by the Ontario Government to surmount the difficulties which beset the tramp question by supplying outside labour for all vagrants who were sent to jail. In case no suitable labour could be provided, he thought it would not be a bad idea to try the treadmill, which would be the means of deterring many vagrants from obtaining good easy quarters, where they are fed and clothed at the expense of the hard-working classes. The truth is, we have made our jails and prisons so comfortable and inviting that every tramp and vagabond looks upon them as houses of refuge, and has got hold of the impression that the country would feel offended if he did not patronise them by going into winter quarters. The treadmill would soon disabuse their minds of that idea.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 2.—For the first time in many years this city is under a prohibitory liquor law. All the residents are forbidden to sell liquors during November, by a vote at the last election. The new election will be held in December, when the liquor sellers will, no doubt, carry the day.

Havana, Nov. 2.—The Government has issued positive orders that no employee receiving a salary from the State or from any Province or Municipality, shall be allowed to be, long, openly, to any of the political parties contesting, approaching the elections. Such employees are only to be permitted to vote.

Ithaca, N.Y., Nov. 2.—Cornell has challenged Harvard University to an 8-oared race on Owasco Lake.

Greenville, S.C., Nov. 2.—Bright Moore, one of Redmond's outlaws, has been arrested. The Revenue Officers report that Redmond has been reinforced by outlaws from Tennessee and North Carolina. Trouble is apprehended.

New York, Nov. 2nd.—A despatch from Thompson, Pa., says: The story about a teacher having been outraged and her tongue cut out, is untrue.

It is said that the Western Union stockholders who have petitioned for a special meeting to pass opinions on the matter of the proposed increase of capital stock, represent about $19,000,000 of the stock. A special meeting cannot be held before December, as by law it requires 30 days' notice. It is stated that a similar movement was carried out in "Lake Shore" in 1871, and in consequence in 1873 the earnings were insufficient to pay a dividend on old and new stock, and a crash followed, from which it never rallied.

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 2.—Frank Sturgeon fatally shot Miss Mary Buffam, a school teacher, on her way home from school at Milon yesterday. He was her discarded lover.

Reading, Pa., Nov. 2.—Henri de Courcelles, a young foreigner, was arrested here. He has been ordering supplies of machinery at different cities in Pennsylvania and the east, paying with bogus checks. He obtained no benefit from the transactions beyond sumptuous treatment by manufacturers and is believed to be crazy.

South Granville, N. Y., Nov. 2.—During a quarrel yesterday, Judson Carpenter fatally shot his brother Cassius.

Queenstown, Nov. 2.—Arrived, the Wis consin from New York.

London, Nov. 2.—The Daily Telegraph commenting upon despatches from Philadelphia about the fisheries dispute says: In a world where no two well informed people think alike on any subject, why should the fact that Lord Salisbury and Secretary Evarts are unable to take quite the same view of this question, create in Philadelphia such a profound sensation? Let the whole of the facts be put before the public and we are sure that men of common sense, in both contries, will soon arrive at a friendly agreement. There are no other comments on the subject in the Daily or Weekly press. There is not sufficient information published here to justify the expressions of an opinion, all that is known publicly, regarding the controversy, has come from the United States.

Circular to the Public.

We have much pleasure in thanking the citizens of Belleville and adjoining Counties, for the large and satisfactory trade we have so far done this season.

Up to this date our Cash sales have exceeded those of any previous season, and we are aiming to make this the largest Fall and Winter trade yet done by us.

To do this, we have imported direct from the leading Manufacturers and Warehouses of Great Britain, an unusually large, varied, and attractive Stock of new Dry Goods, all of which have been personally selected by a member of our Firm, who has had a long experience in catering to the tastes and requirements of the people of this section of the country, and also from having so frequently visited the Home markets, has acquired a thorough knowledge of the best places and houses to purchase the different lines of Dry Goods from. Every intelligent person can easily understand that in this particular we have a decided advantage over others, who send their orders to Commission houses, and allow these houses to do their entire buying.

Notwithstanding the statements of an opposition House to the contrary, we beg to state and challenge successful contradiction, that the value of our Importations Direct from the European markets in original packages—all of which were selected by our own buyer, and of which we are prepared to produce the original invoices—largely exceed those of any other Dry Goods house in the City of Belleville.

To the general public, the most important and interesting part of what we have to say is, that we are prepared to furnish them with a large portion of their Fall and Winter Dry Goods at prices whereby they can save from ten to twenty-five cents on every dollar's worth, by buying them at our Warehouse. To some this may appear impossible, but to those who doubt the truth of our statements, we say, Compare the prices and qualities of our goods with those sold by other Stores. It is not necessary to buy, should they not prove equal to what we advertise them.

We are now selling a large lot of new Dress Goods at 12½, 15, 20, and 25c. per yard, which are admitted by all to be the cheapest lot of Dress Goods ever offered in this City. And although our sales of Dress Goods this season have already been very large, we are still able to show an immense variety of all the leading colors and materials which have been produced this season.

In addition to the above, the following lines are particularly worthy the attention of parties wanting first class value in these goods:—

Black Silks, Silk Velvets, Velveteens, Crapes, Black and Colored Cashmeres, Kid Gloves, Jackets and Mantles, Corsets, Table Linens, Table Napkins and Towels, Scarlet and White Flannels, Wincies, and all kinds of Millinery Goods.

CATARRH

THE EYE, EAR and THROAT

Successfully Treated with

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE.

SUCCESS is the test of merit, and success in the treatment of Catarrhal Affections, after so many miserable failures, means undoubted specific curative properties in the remedy used. Does SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE for Catarrh possess such properties? The evidence, in the shape of unsolicited testimonials from the most respectable people in all stations of life, must be conclusive on this point. Never, we believe, in the history of popular medicines has such valuable testimony been offered, freely offered, in favor of any remedy than that in the possession of the proprietors of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE. And valuable as it is, it does not represent a thousandth part of the recommendations which are to-day offered by friends to friends in its favor. People of wealth and refinement in all parts of the country daily admit its superiority over any method of cure known to the regular medical profession, but shun the publicity incidental to a published statement. Hence the testimonials in our possession represent but a small part of those withheld, for the reason mentioned. The following unsolicited testimonial from HENRY WELLS, Esq., of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, is an outspoken indorsement of which we are justly proud.

INVALUABLE.

Messrs. WEEKS & POTTER, Wholesale Druggists, Boston, Mass.: Gentlemen,—I have for some months felt it a duty that I owe to suffering humanity to write you, stating the great benefit that I have derived from the use of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH. For more than 20 years I have been afflicted with this very troublesome complaint. I have tried all the remedies that I could find, but without material or permanent benefit. Last fall the disease had arrived at that state that I must have relief or die. The entire membranous system had become so inflamed, and the stomach so disordered, that it was a doubtful matter whether I could go to the Pacific coast, or if I did go whether I should live to come back or not. I saw an advertisement of this medicine, and although being very incredulous about specifics or nostrums of any kind, yet in sheer desperation I tried this, and was at once benefited by it. The changes of climate, a chronic disease of the liver, and my age—over 70—may prevent my entire restoration, but the benefit I derive from its daily use is to me invaluable, and I am hoping to be completely cured, and at last arrive at a respectable old age.

If this statement of my case can be of any service to those afflicted as I have been, and enable you to bring this remedy into more general use, especially on the Pacific coast (where it is much needed), my object in writing this note will be obtained.

Very truly yours, HENRY WELLS,
AURORA, N. Y., June, 1876. of Wells, Fargo & Co.

Each package contains Dr. Sanford's Improved Inhaling Tube, and full directions for use in all cases. Price $1.00. For sale by all Wholesale and Retail Druggists and Dealers throughout the United States and Canadas. WEEKS & POTTER, General Agents and Wholesale Druggists, Boston, Mass.

JOHN BARLEY-CORN, MY FOE.

John Barley-Corn, my foe, John,
The song I have to sing
Is not in honor of you, John,
E'en though you are a king.
Your subjects they are legion, John,
I find where'er I go ;
They wear your yoke upon their necks,
John Barley-Corn, my foe.

John Barley-Corn, my foe, John,
By your despotic sway
The people of our country, John,
Are suffering to-day.
You lay the lash upon their backs,
Yet willingly they go
And pay allegiance at the polls,
John Barley-Corn, my foe.

John Barley-Corn, my foe, John,
You've broken many a heart,
And caused the bitter tear, John,
From many an eye to start,
The widow and the fatherless
From pleasant homes to go,
And lead a life of sin and shame,
John Barley-Corn, my foe.

John Barley-Corn, my foe, John,
May Heaven speed the hour,
When Temperance shall wear the crown
And Rum shall lose its power ;
When from the East unto the West
The people all shall know
That greatest curse has been removed,
John Barley-Corn, my foe !

A Married Man's Misery.

A man of forty-five, having a wooden leg, and the look of one who had suffered long with the toothache, sat down in the chair vacated by the boy, and after a smile of encouragement began :

'If matters don't mend pretty soon I'll either murder her or take my own life.'

'Domestic trouble, I suppose ?' queried Bijah.

'That's it, sir, and I'm getting desperate. I left home thinking, I'd jump from the dock, but I happened to think of you, and so I thought I'd ask your advice.'

'Is the bread heavy ?'

'Blast the bread ! I can stand heavy bread, sloppy tea, raw meat, and half cooked potatoes, but I won't or can't stand this infernal whining, complaining and jawing around !'

'Fellow traveller along the tow-path of Time's broad-gauge canal, I think I see the hint. You have been married about two years ?'

'Not quite.'

'You are fifteen years older that your wife ?'

'Yes ; eighteen.'

'You have a wooden leg, and she—she—?'

'She hasn't ; but I wish she had two of 'em.'

'She likes good clothes ?'

'You bet !'

'She likes the mad whirl of society $16 bonnets, reserved seats at the opera, $8 boots, forty-button kidgloves and trains on her dresses ?'

'She does ; that's her to a dot !' exclaimed the husband.

'And you prefer your home—evening fire, newspapers, snow apples, game of checkers, glass of cider, cat on the hearth and so on ?'

'That's the sort of man I am, sir, and she harasses me to death. She's on the trot all day and on the gad all the evening, and if I remonstrate she says I want to make a slave and a prisoner of her.

'Don't you go along with her to the theatre and parties ?'

'I used to, but for the last year she's got awful particular about my wooden leg ; says the public will think I was shot while stealing chickens.'

'Does, eh ? and you sit at home and keep your heels warm by the cook-stove while she gallivants.'

'The same, sir, and now what shall I do about it ? Something has got to be did, and that right off. I'll be hanged to Davy Crockett if I put up with it another day. You are an older man than I am, and you've had three wives to my one, and I'll do just as you say about about it.'

'Fellow man, you have been wrong from the beginning,' slowly answered Bijah, as he looked out of the window in a weary way. 'The man who married a woman only half his age is a d. f. (deceived fried-cake) at the start. Youth may reverence old age, but isn't reverence. Youth and old age don't like their taters cooked the same way, and the man who says they do is a forger. They don't see alike and its a cat-and-dog life. Then, again, you have a wooden leg, and you should have married a woman with a glass eye or a broken nose as an offset. In that case neither party could have anything to twit the other about. If I was to marry again bald-headed as I am, I should look for a lady wearing No. 10 gloves and No. 9 shoes as an offset. Do you love your wife ?"

'Well, to be honest about it, I don't think either of us are dying of love.'

'Then my friend, you go home and have a candid talk, divide up the things, and part good friends. Give her the largest half, and throw in some small change, and see that she gets safe home to her mother. By-and-by you can quickly secure a bill of divorce, get on some store clothes, and look out for a woman of fifty, who has the rheumatism so that she can't gad.'

'That's honest, is it.'

"Honest Injun. If you don't live happy together, don't hesitate to live happy apart. No use in any scandal or hard words, but divide up and call it a bad misdeal. This killing one's self on account of domestic troubles is all bosh."

"That's so, and I'll walk straight home and begin the dividing-up business. Thank you, Bijah ; may your feet stop growing as a reward for this."

When he had departed Bijah took a short cut through the alleys, and presently gained a position from whence he could view the house where the man lived. Developements did not tarry. The husband had not been in the house five minutes before he rushed out again, hat and cane flying, and his share of the things, consisting of three flat-irons, a kettle and two bricks, overtook him before he could dodge.

"So young and so artless" mused Bijah, as he turned away ; and yet that last brick thumped him between the shoulders as purty as if I'd throwed it myself !"—Detroit Free Press.

An orator who was much in demand in political campaigns, being asked by an admirer the secret of his success, replied : "When I have facts, I give 'em facts ; but when I haven't I yell and saw the air."

At one of the Boston churches it was seriously proposed in the Sunday school to invite "Mr. Dean Stanley, who had just arrived from England," to attend their Sunday school concert and "speak to the children about his wonderful experience in Africa."

Wit and Humor.

Literary characters—the alphabet.

A cold in the head is apt to lead to blows.

The birthplace of burns—The kerosene can.

Those piping times—stove piping.

A man in financial difficulties has been compared to an ostrich in wet weather—he can't find the dust to cover his bill.

"Why do you eat in the market ?" someone asked of Diogenes. "Because I'm hungry in the market," was the laconic reply.

In France and Germany they are thinking of making the word "phonograph" a feminine noun, principally from its capacity far talking back.

Only men with absolute faith and trust in the integrity of their fellows really enjoy hot sausage for breakfast.

In choosing a wife be governed by her chin, says the Phrenological Journal. That is just what most husbands object to.

A lady thought she'd pose a Wall street man by asking him : "What sort of razors are used in shaving notes ?" but he quietly answered : "Raisers of money."

"Ah ! your grace," said Lord Palmerston to the lovely Duchess of Sutherland, "your beauty kills time." "And time always kills beauty at last," sighed the duchess.

A fashionable young lady accidentally dropped one of her false eyebrows in the opera box, and greatly frightened her beau, who, on seeing it, thought it was his moustache.

"Judge," said a lawyer to "his honor" during a lull in a case on trial, "what do you consider the best illustrated paper ?" "A thousand-dollar bank note," growled the judge.

A farmer, speaking of the thinness of his hay crop, said :—" The grasshoppers have all got lame trying to jump from one blade of grass to another."

The man who is not afraid of war or yellow fever is generally afraid to take out a paper of tobacco in the presence of a crowd.

It must be decidedly disheartening to a western farmer to be compelled not only to clear a ten-acre lot, but to clear a six-rail fence after he has stumbled over a nest of double-barreled hornets.

An out of town man, travelling in a Boston horse-car, pulled the bell-strap vigorously, and made the bell ring at both ends. "What are you ringing at both ends for ?" said the conductor. "Because I wish the thing to stop at both ends."

A physician finding a lady reading "Twelfth Night," said : "When Shakespeare wrote about patience on a monument, did he mean a doctor's patients ?" "No," she answered : "you don't find them on monuments, but under them."

If there is one time more than another that a man tells a downright lie, it is when he tacks this sign on his door :—"Will return in a few minutes."

Bashful lover (to his sweetheart)—"Ahem, Miss, I want to see your father. I've an important matter to propose to him." Young lady (considerately)—"I'm so sorry papa is not at home, but couldn't you propose the matter to me just as well ?" He did, and with perfect success.

"I wonder why Lawyer Bradfoil don't get more verdicts in his favor !" said an old farmer for whom Lawyer B. had lost a case. "Because," responded a neighbor, "he uses too many figures of speech in summing up his case to the jury."

Jodkins felt complimented when he was told that he could be selected from the common herd at a glance, but his spirits fell when the flatterer added : "I mean from the common herd of respectable people."

It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your prejudice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain.
The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

BY EDWARD EGGLESTON.

CHAPTER IX.

THE MEMBER FOR LUZERNE.

During this revival regret was often expressed that Mark Bonamy was absent. If he were at home he might be converted, and his conversion might tell upon the other young men of the town. And then he might come to be a preacher. What a preacher he would make! He would doubtless come to be a famous presiding elder, like John Strange or Allen Wiley. He might some day get to be a great bishop, like Elijah Hedding. But he was away attending the session of the Legislature. None regretted this more than his mother, a devout Methodist, who prayed day and night that the son who "had wandered into the paths of worldly pleasure and ambition" might be led to ground the arms of his rebellion, and enlist under the banner of the cross."

As for Mark, his ambition seemed in a fair way to be gratified. For the first time the State Government was in the control of the Whigs. He had hopped on the change just in time to come in on the rising wave, and all Luzerne recognized him now as destined to become a distinguished citizen. Some days before the time for the legislature to meet, Mark buckled on his leggings, packed his saddle bags, and mounted his horse. He rode for four days through thick, yellow clay, fast enough to let his horse sink down one or two feet at nearly every step, arriving late in the evening of the fourth day at Indianapolis, a straggling muddy village in a heavy wooded morass. The newly projected capital had been laid off with true Hoosier magnificence and hopefulness. The Governor's house, remarkable for a home[illegible]ligness and a dirty color, stood in the middle, surrounded by a circular street which left his Excellency's family no back yard—all sides were front. Around this focus most of the new wooden churches were built, so that the people going to meeting might inspect the Governor's wood pile and count the inmates of his chicken coop, whose death-warrants had not yet been signed. Outside of the "circle" the city was laid off with nice rectangularity, except that four great diagonal avenues running from the centre gave the town on the map the appearance of a blazing sun in a cheap picture. Now-a-days, when more than a hundred thousand people have filled up this rude outline with many costly buildings, and when the unsightly "Governor's mansion," having ceased to exist, no longer presents its back door to the Episcopal church, the beautiful Hoosier metropolis has justified the hopes of its projectors. But in Bonamy's time the stumps stood in the streets; the mud was only navigable to a man on a tall horse; the buildings were ugly and unpainted; the people were raw emigrants, dressed in butternut jeans, and for the most part afflicted either with the "ague" or the "yellow janders;" the taverns were new wooden buildings with swinging signs that creaked in the wind, their floors being well coated with a yellow adobe from the boots of the guests. The alkaline biscuits on the table were yellow, like the floors; the fried "middling" looked much the same, the general yellowness had extended to the walls and the bed-clothing, and combined with the butternut jeans and copperas-dyed linsey-woolsey of the clothes, it gave the universe an air of having the jaundice.

It is quite depressing to a man who has been the great man at his town, and who has been duly communicated to as a deliberative body, to find that all his fellow-members consider themselves the central objects of interest. Mark was neglected at first by all except those members who wanted to get State roads or other projects of local interest carried through the House. He was only "the young fellow from Luzerne." Nevertheless after he had made his maiden speech on the necessity for internal improvements by the general Government, he was more highly esteemed. A young man with so telling a style of declamation was not be slighted. A shrewd old member nodded to his neighbour as Mark sat down at the close of his effort, and said, "Congress some day." For that was the day before the reign of newspapers. Declamation was the key to promotion.

One day when the session was drawing to its close, a messenger came for Bonamy. The man had ridden hard over frozen ground for two days, and now, with horse worn out, he came to tell Mark that his mother was dying of one of these bilious fevers which made the west a graveyard in those days. Mark was a man of strong feeling. He had often disregarded the advice of his mother, but she was the good influence of his life, so that it was with a mixed emotion of grief and remorse that he mounted his horse and turned his back upon the Legislature, then in its last week, to make a forced ride of eighty miles in two days over frozen roads of horrible roughness, with only the faintest hope of seeing his mother alive.

But Death does not wait for us. When Mark rode his tired horse up to his father's gate, the serious faces of those who met him at the door told him he was too late. It only remained to receive her blessing at second-hand from the old woman who had been with her to the last, and who gave the message to Mark in a tone that seemed to say: "Now, you reprobate, you! don't you feel mean that you did not repent as your mother wanted you to? Now you see in a time like this how superior to you we picus people are; aha!" It is the persuasive way of some people—this crowing over a sinner. Mark wouldn't have taken a short step in the direction of Paradise on any account just then.

His two sisters were full of sorrow, though Amanda the elder, showed it in a severe and dignified way, quite becoming in a Bonamy. Even Colonel Bonamy looked softened—just a little.

Mrs. Bonamy was buried after the village custom. The funeral tickets were distributed on the day of her death. The little printing-office, conducted by the editor, publisher, proprietor, and printer of the Weekly Palladium, and one small boy, kept a black ornamental border all set up for funeral tickets. The type of the set phrases, such as "Yourself and family are respectfully invited," were never distributed; the name, and date, and hour only were changed as occasion required. As soon as the tickets for Mrs. Bonamy's funeral were ordered, the printer set the form of the funeral ticket on the imposing-stone and proceeded to make the alterations needed to render it appropriate to the present occasion. He pulled it apart, placed the lines needing change in his composing-stick, took out the name of John Raymond, the last deceased, and replaced it with Mrs. Bonamy's, changed the dates and other particulars, "justified" the lines, and then replaced them in the form and proceeded to "lock up." In a short time the small inky boy was rolling and the editor was working off with an old hand-press, little tickets much like this:

Yourself and family are respectfully invited to attend the funeral of
OLIVIA W. BONAMY, from the residence of her husband, DANIEL K. BONAMY, on Wednesday, February 10th, 1841, at one o'clock P. M.

You will find many of these tickets lain away between the leaves of old books in Luzerne. When the proper number were printed, the inky, impish-looking lad made a feint of washing his hands, put on his roundabout, and started out to distribute them, with the greater part of his face in appropriate mourning. He did not go to certain select families set down on a prearranged list. A small town is democratic; the tickets were left at every house, and you might have seen the village folks discussing the matter over their division fences; for people must discuss something—it is the great preventative to insanity. So now every symptom of Mrs. Bonamy's disease was gone over, and what Mrs. So-and-so said about it three days ago, and what the doctor thought, and when "the change" took place, and who were "sitting up the night she died," and whether she "died happy" or not, and what she said, and whether the corpse looked "natural," and how old she was, and, "what time Mark got home," and "how he took it," and "the old Colonel took it," and whether he would agree that coming just at this time it was a "mighty solemn call" to Mark, and Jemima Dumbleton expressed herself very positively on this point. She said he needed a solemn call, "for that ere Mark Bonamy," she went on, "haint got no other god but Mark Bonamy. And worshippin' himself is like bowin' down to a god o' brass, or to Aaron's calf, so it seems to me."

An Electric Lamp.

A new electric lamp was exhibited in New York on Friday. The New York Journal of Commerce referring to it says: —"The lamp is inclosed in a hermetically sealed glass globe filled with nitrogen gas and some secret preparation, and consists of a small piece of carbon about the size of an ordinary pin, heated by electricity to a temperature of from 30,000 to 50,000 degrees Fahrenheit. As there is no oxygen in the globes the carbon is not consumed, and thus a steady light is obtained. The inventors claim that a steam-engine of 1,000 horse-power will produce the light of 30,000 five-foot gas burners, at a cost of $10 per hour, while at the present rates the cost of 150,000 feet of gas required per hour to produce the same amount of light would be $412.50. Another important point in this invention is that the light is completely under control, and may be reduced to that of a taper or increased to that of thirty gas burners. The experiments yesterday were with five lights, and they were successful."

Miscellaneous.

Talmage says he met judges and statesmen in the haunts of vice he visited. Certainly he did; they were there to take notes and warn their constituents to shun the broad road—and travel he had.

The St. Louis Spirit says to the retail merchants:—

"Honor and shame from no condition rise,
Act well your part, and then go advertise.
Just as I set all the ends thou aim'st at be
To make the public buy their goods of thee."

The man who will go about grumbling and wear a long slyspeptic face is a brother to that other man who was "not moved with the concord of sweet sounds," that lived as long ago as Shakespeare's time.

People generally are probably not aware that the table celery which is now being brought into our markets in large quantities, is one of the best nervines that the vegetable kingdom produces. It is claimed that persons possessing nervous temperaments, with particularly sensitive nerves, should partake freely of this plant. The effects of its medicinal properties upon the human system are stimulating and entirely harmless.

There were two lawyers in partnership with the peculiarly happy names of Catchem and Chetum. People laughed at seeing these two names in juxtaposition over the door, so the lawyers thought it advisable to separate them by the insertion of their Christian names. Mr. Catchem's name was Isaac, Mr. Chetum's Uriah. A new board was ordered; but when sent to the painter it was found to be too short to admit the Christian names at full length. The painter, therefore, put only the initials before the surnames, which made the matter still worse than before, for there now appeared: "I. Catchem & U. Chetum."

The best foundation on which to build your hopes of prefement is the consciousness that you deserve it. No work, however menial, can make an honest poor man a less self-respect. Do what you can get to do, and do it so well that your employer will see that you are fit for something better, and the time is not far off when you will login to rise.

It is not true that the world is getting worse and worse. The man who is always looking behind him gets nothing but a bad crick in the neck for his pains.

The invigorating, Fattening and Nutritive properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lactophosphate of Lime are such as would indicate its efficiency to "sustain the body in the performance of its various functions," with the aid of but little solid food. Hence its superior remedial worth in the "Wasting Diseases of Childhood," the "Wasting Away," in those of "Consumptive tendency," in Consumption itself, as well as in General Debility, and all cases of Prostration and Emaciation. Prepared solely by J. R. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

WEST HASTINGS.

We understand that a petition has been lodged against the return of James Brown, Esq., as member in the Commons for West Hastings. The petition alleges bribery in various forms, personally and by agents; and we may add, without any desire to prejudice the case, that very strong evidence on all points alleged has been secured.

The Afghan Affair.

Mr. Gladstone, the ex-Premier, seems, judging from his recent utterances, to have sunk to the level of a petty obstructionist. In a speech at Rhyl on the 31st of October, he is reported by the cable telegram as follows:

"He pointed out that the weak power which a professedly chivalrous Government threatened to punish for refusing a Russian Embassy was less culpable than the sender of the embassy. The sending of the embassy was apparently a breach of Russia's engagements to England, but he feared Russia would cite as its justification the unfriendly conduct of the British Government. Mr. Gladstone declared that to saddle India with the expense of a defence against imaginary dangers would be an injustice as monstrous as any recorded in the history of the world."

Provided that the report has not been incorrectly summarized, Mr. Gladstone's utterances are certainly remarkable for their infelicity. He recommends war with the Czar rather than with Shere Ali, because the latter refused to receive a British embassy after having received one from Russia. Doubtless this was the result of Russian intrigue, but as the refusal to receive the British embassy was the action of the Ameer of Afghanistan, and as the Czar of Russia has exercised no hostile pressure on the native ruler, we utterly fail to see why Russia should be held to be responsible. The attempt of Mr. Gladstone to cast a slur upon the courage of Earl Beaconsfield by insinuating that he is about to punish the weak Ameer for the offence of the powerful Czar, fails entirely to hit the mark, as the Premier, by his action previous to and at the Berlin conference, showed that he maintained the honor of his country, and compelled the arrogant Russians to yield every contested point. It is sad to confess, but it is true, that Mr. Gladstone was not always so mindful of the honor of England, and hence it is that he and his party are in a great minority to-day, and sadly divided in their counsels. The Indian Princes and their subjects, for whose well-being the ex-leader of the Liberals is so solicitous, show their appreciation of the situation by flocking in thousands to the British head-quarters to offer their services. Should Shere Ali reject the ultimatum forwarded to him, it now seems quite probable that his territories may be invaded at once, in which case his early overthrow is certain.

KINGSTON ELECTION.—The Kingston News announces that a protest will be lodged against the return of Mr. Gunn as member for that city. The petition alleges corrupt acts by the respondent and his agents.

POOLING ARRANGEMENTS.—An arrangement between the Montreal and the Dominion Telegraph Companies for the pooling of profits was arrived at on Saturday. On the same day the latter Company opened its lines to the Maritime Provinces.

THE JACQUES CARTIER ELECTION CASE.—The taking of evidence in this case closed on Saturday, nothing of importance being stated by either the witnesses for the defence or by those who testified for the prosecution in rebuttal. The addresses of counsel were to be delivered to-day.

DEAD.—Fredrick Shull, the brakesman injured in the Grand Trunk collision on Thursday, died on the 2nd Nov. An inquest is ordered to be held before Coroner Riddell, when the evidence will probably establish who it was that caused the collision and death.

—A granite company in Maine has quarried a piece of granite said to be the largest ever turned out in the United States. It is sixty-five feet long, ten feet square, and weighs eleven thousand and twenty-one tons. It will form part of a monument in Ohio which will cost $150,000.

A Serious Charge.

Whilst taking part in the active field of political strife the Hon. Joseph Cauchon, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, was noted for his unscrupulousness and jobbery, which earned for him an unsavory reputation throughout the country. The people generally condemned his appointment to the office which he now holds, but which it was hoped he would not disgrace by any retort to his former practices. These hopes have not, if a correspondent of the Montreal Star is to be believed, been realized, for a communication appeared in a recent issue of that journal in which the following very serious charge against Lieut.-Governor Cauchon is contained:

"It was well understood before the last election that Salkirk would give Mr. Morris a majority; "but we must help poor Smith," said His Honor the Lieut. Governor; and he was helped in the following fashion: The sheriff (Taks or I believe is his name) applied in due course to the Clerk of the Council for the necessary lists with a view to issuing the usual proclamations. These would be about twenty in number, including the lists for Springfield and St. Paul. The proclamation appeared, but did not include either of these two localities. The Sheriff being questioned as to the omission, he replied that Springfield and St. Paul would in future be a portion of the constituency of Lisgar, and, as to his authority, why Lieutenant-Governor Cauchon knew all about it and had directed it. Now it so happens that the votes thus arbitrarily transferred from one constituency to another number about six hundred, three-fourths of whom were manufactured at Griffintown Conservative vote, the latter of course, a little more pronounced as to majority, but that signifies nothing."

This charge will probably form the subject of an investigation, as the correspondent states in concluding his letter that the facts are in possession of Mr. Morris, who has communicated them to the authorities. It would of course be unfair to condemn Mr. Cauchon unless on investigation his guilt should be made to appear, and we accordingly reserve comment until after a determination has been reached in the matter.

The Huntington Copper Mines.

The London (England) Echo of the 12th ult. contains the following paragraph:—

"A summons at the instance of the shareholders of the Huntington Copper Company was yesterday served upon each of the original directors and promoters. The sum sued for is £150,000, and the grounds upon which the action is raised are that the directors and promoters floated the concern by false and fraudulent representations. Amongst the directors proceeded against are Sir James Bain, Sir John A. Macdonald, and the Hon. Lucius S. Huntington."

It is to be hoped that the prosecution in this case will not be choked off, as it is alleged was done by some of the directors of the same concern in another case brought against some of them. Mr. Huntington has been a "purist" of the first rank in politics, and as serious charges have been time and again circumstantially formulated against him in regard to his connection with the Company which bears his name—charges which, if untrue are highly libelous in their character—it is very desirable that the truth should be made to appear, which can only be done by judicial investigation.

HEROIC DEED.—On Friday night, a sailor named James Jack on going on board his vessel at Montreal fell into the water. His comrades could render the unfortunate man no assistance, and were unable to do anything beyond listening to his struggles and cries for assistance. At this instant Mr. Wm. F. Flynn, a laborer employed on the barque "Emma," near by, rushed to the spot and fearlessly attempted a rescue, but in doing so he also fell a victim. Both bodies were recovered next morning.

NEARLY STARVED TO DEATH.—Several weeks ago a Montrealer named Rivet, with two companions, left to try their luck in Manitoba. By some means Rivet missed his comrades and was left behind at Detroit. He endeavored to obtain work, but was unsuccessful. He soon became penniless, and then, like the prodigal son, thought of returning home. He secreted himself in a freight car bound for Montreal, and was locked in. He had to fast about three days, and when the car was unlocked yesterday, he discovered that he was in Point St. Charles.

A RIGHTEOUS JUDGE.—At the Court of Queen's Bench, Quebec, on the 2nd Nov. A. Cardinal, accused of the outrage upon Miss Giguere at Little River, whom he indecently assaulted, attempted to violate, robbed, and then left half murdered, made an arrangement by his attorney with the counsel representing the Crown to plead "guilty" to the first charge preferred against him, that of indecent assault, provided the other charges of attempt at rape and larceny were withdrawn. This was done, when Judge Monk, to the disgust of the prisoner and his counsel, but to the satisfaction of all law abiding citizens, sentenced him upon his plea of indecent assault, to fourteen years penitentary.

AN UNKNOWN LAND.—Mr. D. McCulloch, editor of the Hamilton Spectator, who is at present making a tour of the old country, in a letter from London says:—"I must confess that my Canadian pride has not been flattered by my sojourn in this country. Where I have lately been, and am now, Canada is almost an unknown land to the general public. I hear of America quite frequently, and immediately after being introduced as a Canadian I am often asked how long it is since I left America, how business is in America, etc., but scarcely ever is Canada mentioned in conversation by an Englishman; and with its history, its politics or its resources I have not met an Englishman who is familiar, unless he has travelled in Canada. These are not pleasant facts to record, but they are facts."

—In a gambling room in Nevada the janitor, in opening the place in the morning, found a man sitting dead at a table, with cards still in his hands. He had been shot at poker by his adversary, who had fled.

Canadian Affairs in England.

The Honors to the Canadian Commissioners.

BANQUET TO LORD DUFFERIN.

The Farewell to the Marquis and Marchioness of Lorne.

(Special by Cable to the Globe.)

LONDON, Oct. 2.

The Prince of Wales received Mr. Keefer and the other Canadian Commissioners to-day, and presented them with the Order of St. Michael and St. George. His Royal Highness took occasion to express the hope that the interest shown by England in the Colonial exhibits would increase the feeling of affection that now existed between the Mother Country and the Colonies.

A banquet will be given in honor of Lord Dufferin at Belfast on the twenty-fifth of November.

The Duke of Connaught and Prince Leopold will accompany the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise to Liverpool on the fourteenth of November. The Corporation of that city has decided to give them an official reception. On the occasion an address will be presented, which says:—"The relations between the inhabitants of this port and our Canadian fellow-subjects are so intimate that everything affecting their welfare is a matter of concern to us. We cordially congratulate them upon an event so well calculated to advance their interests, and to strengthen the ties which bind the Dominion to the Mother Country. The circumstances under which the Princess Louise visits Canada are unprecedented in the history of the Colonial Empire. The appointments of the Marquis of Lorne is, therefore, a signal mark of Her Majesty's favor, and of her recognition of the proved loyalty of Canada." A luncheon will be given at the Town Hall.

Books and Magazines.

EARL DUFFERIN'S ORATIONS.—The New York World says, a collection of Lord Dufferin's Canadian Speeches carefully and intelligently made, would be a popular book on both sides of the Atlantic. Mr. George Stewart Jr.'s book on "The Earl of Dufferin's Administration in Canada," published by The Rose-Belford Publishing Company, Toronto, by Lord Dufferin himself. The book will be issued very soon, and will contain his farewell address. It is not generally known, perhaps, that during the stay of our esteemed Governor-General in Canada, he has given to the various Societies, Religious Institutions and Educational Establishment of the country upwards of five hundred beautiful medals in gold, silver and bronze. The work will contain a complete list of these medals, with the names of the parties who have received them, the object for which they were given, and the various dates of issue. This will add largely to the interest of Mr. Stewart's book, which we learn is being largely subscribed for.

BRITISH QUARTERLY REVIEW.—The October number presents the following excellent table of contents: The Universities and the Renaissance; Lessing as a Philosopher and Theologian; Joubert; Butter and Cream; Bosnia, Herzegovina and Austria; Tent Work in Palestine; Mr. Hughes and the Establishment; The Three Treaties; Contemporary Literature. Published by the Leonard Scott Publishing Company, 41 Barclay Street, New York, at $4 per year.

BLACKWOOD FOR OCTOBER.—The American reprint for October has been received, and contains a highly interesting table of contents as follows: The New Ordeal—Preliminary; Fire-Flies; Poetry—Visions in the South; Through the Ivory Gate, Holyday; The Troubles of a Scott Traveller; John Caldigate—Part VII.; "Fred" a Tale from Japan; Translations from Heine, by Theodore Martin; The New Routes to India; Eastern Prospects. New York: The Leonard Scott Publishing Company, 41 Barclay Street; $4 per annum.

THROUGH THE KEEP-IT-DARK CONTINENT; or How I Found Stanley. By F. C. Burrand, author of "Strap-More," by Weeder," One in Three," by Victor Nogo, &c. Published by the Rose-Belford Publishing Company, Toronto, Belleville, E. Harrison.

The author of this rousing little book is one of the cleverest parodists of the present day. Those who wish to enjoy a hearty, healthy laugh, (and who does not?) cannot do better than get a copy of this funnily written and funnily illustrated book.

THE HAUNTED HOTEL: a Mystery of Modern Venice. By Wilkie Collins, author of "The Woman in White," "The Law and the Lady," &c. Toronto: Rose-Belford Publishing Company. Belleville, E. Harrison.

For some months past, the above story has been one of the chief attractions of the Rose-Belford Canadian Monthly. It has had a wide circulation, and was worthy of it. Wilkie Collins is, perhaps, the most successful writer about "mysteries" of the present day, and the present work has his characteristic merits as to plot, style, and the delineation of character. The "Haunted Hotel" is certainly very fascinating—the sort of thing to make a late reading at night rather a dangerous experiment for people of sensitive systems. But when you once get interested in the work you are not apt to put it down until you have read it through.

THE CANADIAN METHODIST MAGAZINE, pp. 96, illustrated. Toronto: S. ROSE. $2 a year; single numbers, 20 cents.

The November number of this popular magazine is of especial interest to Canadian readers. The opening article gives an admirably illustrated account of Toronto and the Provincial Exhibition. The large engravings of the New Exhibition Building will give a clear conception of its magnificence to those who have not seen it. The Rev. Dr. Scadding, author of "Toronto of Old," gives a very interesting account of the old French fort, which was the first germ of the city; and Mr. John Macdonald has an admirable farewell poem to Lord and Lady Dufferin. These three articles give the number quite a patriotic character. "Summer Travel on the Reading Railway" is illustrated by a number of really exquisite engravings. S. H. Janes, Esq., contributes an interesting scientific article on "The Earth's Infancy." In "A Hundred Years Ago" the Editor gives a graphic account of the social and moral condition of England in the last century, and an interesting sketch of the Governors of Mission. Miss Johnson, of Ottawa, an accomplished lady contributor, tells the strange life-story of "Father Taylor," the Sailor Preacher of Boston. The editor discusses succinctly the Elections, the Hymn-book and Church-meeting questions, and other current topics, and announces as a splendid programme for the year 1879.

INTERNATIONAL REVIEW.—The November-December number of the International Review will devote forty of its pages to an exhaustive review of Social Democracy in Germany, by Dr. Huber, of the University of Munich, which will be found of unequalled interest. The subject forms the life question of European Governments, as they now exist, and no man could treat it better than Dr. Huber. He discusses succinctly the Elections, the Hymn-book and Church-meeting questions, and other current topics, and announces as a splendid programme for the year 1879.

City and Vicinity.

GRAIN MARKET.—The market to-day was dull, without change from Saturday's prices.

ARRIVAL.—The steamship Persian arrived at Father Point at 5 p. m. on Saturday.

THE HOUNDS.—The next meet will take place at the residence of David R. Leavens Esq., Kingston Road, on Wednesday, 6th inst., at 1:30 p. m. sharp.

THE "JOHN BRIGHT."—This tug, which was caulked at Mill Point last week, returned on Saturday afternoon She will probably be fitted out for service next spring.

POLICE.—Winter clothing is badly needed by the policemen, most of their overcoats being worn out. Satuaday night was more than usually lively, eight arrests being made.

COLD.—Winter seems to be advancing with rapid strides. Last night's frost was the heaviest of the season so far, and the weatherwise predict an early closing of navigation.

SPRINGLESS TRUSSES.—Dr. Holchkin is now in town, at the anglo-American Hotel, with a supply of springless trusses and supporters prepared to treat various forms of diseases. His treatment is said to have been very successful

RAILWAY GUIDE.—Messrs. Chisholm's Railway and Steamboat Navigation Guide for November has been received. It contains all the railroad time tables and those of many steamboat routes, besides a considerable amount of interesting reading matter.

COMING BACK TO CANADA.—The Ogdensburg Journal says:—"C. J. Hynes has purchased the Prescott Plaindealer office and will revive the Prescott Messenger as it was before he moved to the States. Mr. Hynes belongs to the Conservative party, which recently came into power in the Dominion."

RIFLE MATCH.—A rifle competition, open to residents of Sidney only, is take place at the Town Hall in that township on Tuesday, 12th inst. There are to be two matches, in the first of which there will be 5 rounds each at 300 and at 400 yards. In the second match there will be five rounds at 300 yards. Snider-Enfield rifles only to be used. Sergeant Hegle, of No. 3 Company of the 40th Battalion, has the matter in charge.

CHURCH PARADE.—The turn out of Nos. 1 and 4 Companies of the 49th Hastings Rifles on Sunday afternoon for church parade, was largely attended and highly creditable to the companies, which presented a fine appearance and marched with praiseworthy steadiness. The field and staff officers also turned out, and as the troops proceeded to and from St. Andrew's Church, headed by the Oddfellows' band, which played a choice selection of sacred music, they were the cynosure of hundreds of admiring spectators. The services lasted during about one hour, the Rev. M. W. McLean preaching a highly appropriate sermon.

GAY.—We find the following in the Guelph Herald of Saturday:—"On Friday evening the fence of the post Gay, Waterloo street, was destroyed and pulled down by Wm. Scrivens. Mr. Gay had a warrant taken out for his arrest, but Scrivens settled the damages before the case came into court. Mr. Gay says that he is now in his 69th year, and if roughs and rowdies do not leave him alone he will go and live amongst strangers. It will be regretted by many if such an estimable citizen as the poet Gay will have to leave the town and seek a living in foreign climes on account of the depredations of these midnight prowlers, who infest our streets much to the terror of timorous mortals." It certainly is sad to think that this poetic genius, whose residence in Belleville for a few years shed lustre on the place, should thus be persecuted. Gay the gunsmith, locksmith and poet (who it is suspected writes a portion of the inspiring obituary verse which appears in the Philadelphia Ledger) ought to be protected, and his many ardent admirers in Belleville insist that he shall be. If not, they may invite him to return here, and Guelph will realize its loss when too late.

Police Court.

(Before A. DIAMOND, Esq., P. M.)

DISCHARGED.

Thomas Rooney and D. McEwan, charged with vagrancy, John Monroe, Wm. Godfrey and Thomas Skelly, drunk and disorderly, first appearances, were discharged.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.

Alexander McDonald and Patrick Fleming were fined $1 each and costs.

LAW'S DEVIOUS WAYS.—The old story of the two farmers who went to law about a line fence and kept on until they had lost their farms in the expensive work has been outdone in New York. A suit for $2.50, the price of a mantel, has been going on for years, having been tried four times without any decision being arrived at, and the costs now foot up to $1,000. Payment for the mantel was refused originally because there were some stains on it. Meantime the purchaser has died, and as part of his legacy he left this costly suit, which is still defended by his executor. Verily, the ways of the law are devious.

CAPTAIN SINGING.—Our neighbors of the United States, who are always progressive and strongly inventive, have introduced a fresh feature in politics, namely the singing of campaign songs at political meetings. This seems to us to be a capital idea, as the people would frequently prefer to hear a good song informing them on the issues of the day to a long speech, no matter how clever the speaker. Besides, the composer of the song being allowed the usual poetic license, the singer would have a large percentage of advantage over those who, being limited to prose, would not be allowed any such latitude. Whilst advising our political friends not to lose sight of this idea, we particularly commend it to our opponents, who should put it into practice when the next contest takes place in West Hastings. We go further, and suggest three excellent items of a programme for the first grand rally under "Reform" auspices. The first might with great propriety be an operatic aria, (con expressione) by James Brown, Esq., M. P., entitled "Alfred make Room for My Nephew," (parody on "Tommy, make Room for your Uncle.") The second, a song and chorus by Mr. A. A. Farley assisted by the other fifty two applicants for the Chairdership and twenty members of the Reform Association, "O give me back my Vote again" (parody on "Give me back my Heart again"). The third a bass solo by Mr. S. B. Burdett, "Trust him not, he's Fooling Thee." With so effective an opening, it will be a strange thing if the many ingenious and imaginative individuals amongst our opponents cannot arrange a programme which will discount that of any entertainment, political or otherwise, ever given in Belleville. We advise them to arrange their bill at once and commence rehearsals, as the opening of the season is probably not far distant.

South Hastings Teachers' Institute

The semi-annual meeting of this Institute was held on Thursday and Friday, October 23rd and 24th, in the assembly room of the Central School. There were two sessions each day, viz from 9 to 12 a. m., and from 2 to 5 p. m.

The attendance was large, nearly every teacher of the Inspector's district being in attendance, and many others interested in the educational institutions of our country favored the Institute with their presence.

The forenoon of the first day was occupied by Mr. G. W. Ross, M.P., Inspector of Model Schools, in examining the teachers in training at the County Model School in this place, on general School management, discipline, necessary qualifications of a good teacher, methods of teaching, &c., giving some valuable and timely and valuable hints to teachers on the subjects. The answering of the teachers, notwithstanding the trying ordeal of being examined before the teachers of the County, was highly creditable. At the close Mr. Ross expressed himself well pleased with the results of the examination, complimented the class on their ready answering and correct ideas of teaching, discipline, &c., and congratulated the Head Master of the Model School, Mr. Irwin, on the success that had attended his institution. Mr. Saylor, on behalf of the teachers, presented Mr. Irwin with an address, thanking him for the courtesy and kindness he had shown them. The advantage of sending thoroughly trained teachers into our schools instead of as formerly sending those who were untrained, and the important bearing these County Model Schools will have over the future education of our youth, must be evident to all.

On reassembling in the afternoon Mr. A. H. Gilbert gave his method of teaching Object Lessons, which elicited a good deal of discussion, in which part was taken by Prof. Dawson, Prof. Macoun, Mr. Hicks, Mr. Johnston, Mr. Irwin, and others.

The next subject was Factoring in Algebra, by S. A. Gardner, who gave his method of teaching this subject, illustrating by numerous examples.

Mr. Irwin, Head Master of the County Model School, followed with Grammar to Junior Classes, explaining his method of teaching the parts of speech, analysis, and the different kinds of propositions.

Mr. Ross then examined the teachers in the method of teaching reading to junior classes, and in the evening he delivered a lecture in the City Hall on "The Progress and Defects of our School System. Mr. Ross won the esteem of all those with whom he met, and his visit will be kindly remembered by all who were in attendance at the Institute.

The first subject taken up in the Friday morning session was book-keeping by Mr. Johnston. I. P. S., who gave his method of teaching a class how to keep a day book, how to journalize, post and close a set of books in ordinary transactions.

Prof. Dawson then gave his method of teaching Arithmetic to a class just beginning, and also to more advanced classes, concluding with some valuable suggestions on the solution of problems in bank and true discount, interest and mixed commissions, and solved a number of difficult problems in these rules.

Mr. O'Hagan read an eloquent essay on the Pleasures of the School Room, which elicited frequent applause. Short but pointed addresses were then delivered by Rev. Mr. Turnbull and Dr. Potts, after which the Institute adjourned until the afternoon session.

The first subject in the afternoon session was the Analysis of a number of difficult sentences, by Mr. Inspector Johnston, which caused a considerable amount of discussion on the part of Prof. Macoun, Prof. Dawson, Mr. Mackintosh, I. P. S., North Hastings, Mr. Irwin, and others.

Mr. H. M. Hicks, Head Master Trenton High School, gave his method of teaching physical Geography, including map drawing, tides, winds, currents, &c., and at the close a vote of thanks, moved by Mr. Irwin, seconded by S. A. Gardner, was tendered Prof Dawson and Mr. Hicks for the active share they have ever taken in workings of the Institute, and for the valuable assistance they have rendered from time to time.

After appropriate replies from these gentlemen, Dr. Jaques, President of Albert University, addressed the teachers, and the Institute adjourned.

THE EASTEPN QUESTION.

The Evacuation of Varna.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 3.—At the request of Mr. Layard, the British Ambassador, the Porte has telegraphed Ahmet Kaiserli Pasha to evacuate Varna definitively, and to bring the troops and war material to Constantinople.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The St. Petersburg Journals report a large number of suicides and attempted suicides in the Russian army in Bulgaria.

The London Observer semi-officially says it understands that the statement that the British Government have applied to the other Pawers for assistance in enforcing the Treaty of Berlin is unfounded.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 3.—The Golos says all Russians will peace, but the present aspect of affairs is very alarming. The Golos particularly points to the fact that the chief field cash box has been returned from Odessa to Adrianople, and asks why, if the rumors of the army readvancing are untrue, they are not contradicted. An advance on Constantinople would be a hostile challenge on the part of Russia.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—A gentleman prominently connected with the Hayden expedition, gives the following account of the capture of Bannock Indians by General Miles: The Bannocks wanted to surrender and sent a Crow scout and ten Nez Perces to arrange terms. Miles ordered them put in irons, and set out with his forces for the Bannock camp. The Indians seeing the soldiers coming joyfully turned out to meet them and gave themselves up. Miles ordered his men to fire, which they did, killing men, women and children indiscriminately. Seeing they were to be butchered the Indians showed resistance, but were soon overpowered.

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 4.—The Phœnix elevator, with over 100,000 bushels of grain, was burned yesterday.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Nov. 4.—James H. Bundy, a wealthy colored farmer living two miles south of this city, on Saturday night was found outside his house his fatally wounded. Three negroes were arrested.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The Times' Hartford special says, two weeks ago yesterday the Catholic priest in Salisbury announced that Senator Barnum had given $750 to the parish, and asked the congregation to vote the Democratic ticket."

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Dean Stanley preached at Grace Church last night. Bishop Potter presided. The sermon dealt with the question as to the origin and destiny of man. The speaker showed that it was not the history of descent but of ascent of man they had to deal with. He spoke of New York city as the Babylon of the west,—a new creation almost within a generation—and said the question was whether there was a corresponding development of moral nature.

The Times' Washington special says that Sherman proposes to prevent any evil effects of the silver coinage, by enforcing the provision which forbids the issue to national banks after the resumption of notes of lower denomination than $5; in the second place, he will probably retain ones and twos of greenbacks after January 1st, and since the law compels a maximum amount of greenbacks to be kept out, will substitute larger notes for those retained.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Berlin despatches say that the Government proposes to increase duty on wine, hides, grain and some other articles. The duty on grain is intended to compel concessions from Russia, Austria, Italy and France. On other new imports it will be light and designed for financial purposes solely. Bismarck arrived to attend the marriage of his daughter with Count Rantzan on Wednesday. After the wedding the Prince will proceed to Varzin and will remain until Christmas. The report that Mme. Margaret Kossuth child applied for admission to the Catholic church as preliminary to her marriage with Du De Guiche is untrue.

Paris despatches say the proposal to maintain the Exposition building on Champde Mars in possession of the city as a place of popular entertainment, is under consideration. It has been decided to increase the number of tickets in the Exposition lottery to 12,000,000, and postpone drawing to the 15th December.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 4.—The Arab tribes occupying the country between Bagdad and Bassorah, have revolted, and cut off communication between Bagdad and Mosul. The government functionaries have fled.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 4.—Trains are moving southward without any interruption. There is an immense amount of sugar and molasses coming this way from New Orleans.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—During a thick fog on the Mersey, this morning, the steamer City of Baltimore sunk the steam launch Hercules, belonging to the Inman steamship line. Several workmen on the launch are missing.

LISBON, Nov. 4.—On Saturday, Gen. Grant was entertained at a grand banquet by the British Consul. The king of Portugal offered decoration to Grant, who courteously refused to accept it.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 4.—The steamer May Martin was burned at Chautauqua lake yesterday; loss $14,000.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 4.—The Board of Health declares the fever epidemic ended.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 4.—A yawl boat was washed ashore yesterday on Stony Point, Lake Ontario, near Henderson, with the body of a man lashed to the seat. There were marks of violence.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Nov. 4.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the Lower Lake region, moderate to fresh winds and clear to partly cloudy weather. For the St. Lawrence, upper, fresh to brisk westerly to northerly winds, clear to partly cloudy weather. Massacres by Indians.

A TERRIBLE CHEYENNE RAID AT COLORADO —MEN SLAUGHTERED AND WOMEN OUTRAGED—CHARGE OF COWARDICE AGAINST AN ARMY OFFICER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—A letter from Denver gives a detailed account of an awful raid of Cheyenne Indians in Appa Valley on September the 29th and 30th. During that time they massacred fourteen men and left twenty families in utter destitution by burning ranches and crops, stealing horses and cattle. Outrages were committed on young girls and women too horrible to recount. After devasting Appa Valley they went to Beaver River and Republican Valley, where they killed sixteen more men and committed more awful outrages on women and girls. The settlers state that Captain Mauck, with his troops, comprising a pursuing party encamped on the night of October 1st only fifteen miles from the camp of the Indians and he allowed the fiends to escape. The military authorities there, the correspondent says, have despised the outrages by Indians, but the correspondent has seen several eye witnesses and some of the victims.

Bad Streets,

To the Editor of the Daily Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—With your kind permission we must respectfully call the attention of our City Council to the state of the road leading from the Grand Trunk Railway station along Station and Mill streets, more particularly Station street. Whilst doing so, we beg to say that we are not prompted by a desire of fault finding, but by self preservation and the preservation of the many valuable lives every day entrusted to our care, whilst driving to and returning from the station. We believe all will admit that after Front street the above named streets are the leading streets of the city, and on which is the most traffic, whilst to every teamster they appear the most neglected. If any doubt our statement we simply ask them, if they are at all accustomed to driving, to go and see for themselves, and we are assured they will agree with us.

To enumerate the many bad spots and dangerous places would be too much for this short letter, but we cannot refrain from mentioning the deep ditch extending from the upper pump along by Meagher's store to Sweeny's blacksmith shop; not only in daylight, on meeting the Street railway, but in the darkness of night, we cannot even turn out with safety on the planking fronting Meagher's, for we are aware it is unsafe and full of holes. We had hoped all summer that something would be done to improve these streets, and hope still it is not too late before a serious accident may take place.

Yours truly,
LAKE & JENKINS.

Circular to the Public.

We have much pleasure in thanking the citizens of Belleville and adjoining Counties, for the large and satisfactory trade we have so far done this season.

Up to this date our Cash sales have exceeded those of any previous season, and we are aiming to make this the largest Fall and Winter we have yet done by us.

To do this, we have imported direct from the leading Manufacturers and Warehouses of Great Britain, an unusually large, varied, and attractive Stock of new Dry Goods, all of which have been personally selected by a member of our Firm, who has had a long experience in catering to the tastes and requirements of the people of this section of the country, and also from having so frequently visited the Home markets, has acquired a thorough knowledge of the best places and houses to purchase the different lines of Dry Goods from. Every intelligent person can easily understand that in this particular we have a decided advantage over others, who send their orders to Commission houses, and allow these houses to do their entire buying.

Notwithstanding the statements of an opposition House to the contrary, we beg to state and challenge successful contradiction, that the value of our Importations Direct from the European markets in original packages—all of which were selected by our own buyer, and of which we are prepared to produce the original invoices—largely exceed those of any other Dry Goods house in the City of Belleville.

To the general public, the most important and interesting part of what we have to say is, that we are prepared to furnish them with a large portion of their Fall and Winter Dry Goods at prices whereby they can save from ten to twenty five cents on every dollar's worth, by buying them at our Warehouse. To some this may appear impossible, but to those who doubt the truth of our statements, we say, Compare the prices and qualities of our goods with those sold by other Stores. It is not necessary to buy, should they not prove equal to what we advertise them.

We are now selling a large lot of new Dress Goods at 12½, 15, 20, and 25c. per yard, which are admitted by all to be the cheapest lot of Dress Goods ever offered in this City. And although our sales of Dress Goods this season have already been very large, we are still able to show an immense variety of all the leading colors and materials which have been produced this season.

In addition to the above, the following lines are particularly worthy the attention of parties wanting first class value in these goods:

Black Silks, Silk Velvets, Velveteens, Crapes, Black and Colored Cashmeres, Kid Gloves, Jackets and Mantles, Corsets, Table Linens, Table Napkins and Towels, Scarlet and White Flannels, Winsies, and all kinds of Millinery Goods.

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of such of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to cement more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURG, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz.: One page, $10.00; half-page, $6.00; quarter page, $4.00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIEGNCER Office, Belleville.

The North-West Territories.

We are in receipt of the Battleford Herald of September 23d and October 7th, from which the following items are gleaned:—

Fall ploughing is being briskly prosecuted throughout this settlement.

A branch office of the Department of Dominion Lands has been opened at Prince Albert, with Mr. George Duck, late of Winnipeg, as agent.

Buffalo continue to advance on this settlement, and are now quite numerous fifty miles south. Several parties of hunters have gone from town to secure a supply of meat for their use next winter.

The Indians of Edmonton, according to our correspondent's letter, have succeeded in manufacturing a beverage that will make them drunk and just as sick, as the old-fashioned trading rum or any other liquor, as formerly compounded and sold to them.

The moose is to be tried as a beast of draught, and if the attempt succeeds and they do half what is expected of them, they will supersede dogs for winter travel. Donald McLeod, of Edmonton, lately got two young ones (females) at Carleton, and is taking them west. They are nourished by a milch cow, which they follow about as tamely as her own calf does.

The Indians at Eagle Hills Mission,—about forty families—are settling down earnestly and contentedly to farming, and displayed commendable industry and determination to make the most of their new mode of life. They also express themselves as well pleased with what the Government has done for them, and with the implements, seed, stock, and other things which have been supplied to them. The harvest is now over, and everything has turned out well, especially wheat, oats, and potatoes. They have been furnished with a steel grist mill of a new construction, with which they make a very fair article of flour. In the Mission garden the growth of vegetables was somewhat marvellous when we consider that the ground was only broken this spring, and that in the hurry of building, getting in their crops—also on new land—and providing for their daily wants, it did not receive all the attention to which it was entitled. Divine service is held twice every Sunday and twice during the week; there is also a day and a Sunday school, both of which are well attended. Mr. Clarke the Missionary, says of the children that they display an aptitude for learning to read, write and sing, greater than any English children he ever had to do with.

The Lieutenant-Governor returned to Battleford on Wednesday evening last from his visit to Carleton, Duck Lake, and Prince Albert. He held satisfactory consultations with the Indian chiefs of the former and latter places respecting the location of their reserves. The chiefs at Duck Lake, however, were indisposed to discuss the boundaries of their reserves until some demands, not included in the treaty, were acceded to. These His Honor could not grant, and the question of locating their reserves had, for the present to stand in abeyance. Indeed, one of the chiefs, called "The Beardy," who being a medicine man has many superstitious notions, refused with a few of his band to accept this year's annuity. The other chiefs, however, and the majority of the Beardy band, took their treaty money.

Wild geese and cranes were seen flying south on September 7th and 8th. On the night of the 8th there was a heavy frost—the first of the season.

The Victoria treaty payment was made on Tuesday, 10th. Only about $700 was paid out. About five traders were there.

Tuesday, 17th, was the day appointed for the treaty payment at Edmonton, but as it rained heavily nearly all day the payment was postponed till Wednesday. The payment began on Wednesday at ten o'clock. About 700 Indians were present to receive treaty money, about $8,700 were paid out. The Indians consisted of Iroquois from Jasper House, Stoneys and Crees.

The new Episcopal Church at Edmonton was opened on Sunday, Sept. 15th. Rev. Dr. Newton held a mixed service in Cree and English in the morning, which was well attended, the church being filled to overflowing. It is a neat edifice, and will cost, when finished, besides a great deal of gratuitous labor on the part of the churchwarden and others, about $2,500.

In this Present Age, when the life-battle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the strongest the tug and stress of it tell so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for the keeping up of our reserve stock of mental and physical stamina by the use of such a nerve-tonic and vitalizing agent as ROBINSON'S PHOSPHORIZED EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH LACTO-PHOSPATE OF LIME! Its gently stimulating and nutritive-tonic properties supply the materials, and assist Nature in her efforts to keep up with the exhaustive demands upon her reserves. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately favored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disase. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemist, London, Eng." d&w

BY EDWARD EGGLESTON.

The funeral took place like all the other village funerals of that day. First, the minister preached a sermon of warning and consolation to the living, reviewing and eulogizing the death of the deceased. Then there was a procession, which included, besides the waggon on which the coffin rested, some old family carriages or carryalls, several buggies, one gig, fifteen people from the country on horseback, and a long line afoot, with the usual number of stragglers and small boys, who ran alongside because it was a procession. These small boys reached the grave-yard in advance of the rest and perched themselves high on the fences, where they could see all that might take place. They were not noisy, though they showed much excitement—this was a spectacle, and any spectacle is a godsend to a village lad. Whether it is a minister or a clown or a circus or a "hanging," matters not to him,—so that something goes on and he sees it.

The coffin was lowered, the Methodist service was read, the grave was quickly filled and rounded up with the spades of kindly neighbors,—after which the minister said that he "was requested on behalf of the family of the deceased to thank the friends who had shown so much kindness during her illness." Then he pronounced the benediction, and the small boys leaped from the fences and hurried away pell-mell for the town, while the friends who had dispersed, the wintry winds playing a pathetic requiem in the frozen and vibrant boughs of the clump of weeping willows which keep, even when they are leafless, watch over the graves of the village dead, while generation follows generation to the lonely sleeping-place.

It was sometime during the next day that Mark Bonny went up to the Widow Adams, to thank her for her faithful kindness to his mother, and receive some messages that the mother had left in the keeping of Roxy. It was present state of mind that Mark was a little afraid of Roxy. But he was ill at ease in his conscience, and he gave himself much credit for submitting to Roxy's shortcomings. He showed that he was not so very bad, after all.

Roxy did not take the lofty and patronizing stand he expected. There was something so strange and persuasive in the earnestness with which the eager girl spoke of his mother, something so touching in her enthusiastic appeals to his conscience through his natural affection, that Bonamy, who was full of sensibility, found himself strangely affected by what was always susceptible to female influence, but he found out that Roxy called out what was best in him. He readily promised her that he would go to meeting that night, and he kept his word.

He expected to be touched by the absence of his mother, who had always been a prominent figure in the meetings. But there was so much change that he did not feel his mother's absence as he thought to feel it. The old, unpainted and unfenced brick meeting house, with its round top front window and its twilight over the door, was the same. Within there were the same stiff benches with awkward backs consisting of two narrow boards far apart, the same unpainted pulpit with nests on either side supporting candles in brass candlesticks, the same rusty box stove sitting in the middle of the aisle, and the same hanging tin chandeliers with candles in every stage of consumption. The same tall, kindly sexton, a man with one eye, went round as before, taking careful sight on a candle, and then, when sure of his aim, suddenly smuffing it, gently spring the wick afterwards to increase the light, then opening the stove door with a clatter and pushing in a piece of wood. It was all as of old, but all so different. The young men with whom Mark had had many a wild spree, sat no long r back near the door in the seat of the scornful, but in the "amen corner;" the circuit rider who had ever warned with wrath at this moment joining with Roxy and the rest singing that plaintive melody:

"Our bondage here shall end
By and by—by and by."

When one follows in the track of a storm one measures the force by the uprooted trees and shattered branches. So Mark, seeing all at once the effects of the revival, felt that the town had been subjected to a fearful power, and the sense of this invisible power almost overwhelmed him. Then, too, he was as one who looks behind him and finds strong guests at a feast while he shivers without in cold and darkness. The preacher's words were evidently levelled at him. Dale knew, as all revivalists do, the value of natural sensibility as a sort of priming for religious feeling: he touched with strong emphasis on "praying mothers," and "friends gone before," and on probable separation in the world to come, and Mark felt the full force of the whole tide of magnetic feeling in the audience turned on himself.

He sought diversion in looking about. But this was vain. Those who had not yet "made a start" looked full of grave apprehension. One or two stood like trees uncathed by the blast. Mr. Thomas was as full of mockery as ever. He looked at Mark, and nodded, saying:

"He means you, Mark. He loves a shining Mark! Ain't you under conviction yet?"

But his horrible scoffing at everything, which to anybody else seemed sacred, only roused on Mark, and made him ready to cut any gibe at himself and Ben. Near Ben sat Major Tom Lathers, tall and stingy and solemn. He kept himself for ever "in an interesting state of mind" in order that religious people might encourage him by furthering his political aims. Lathers made every church in the village believe that he "leaned toward" it in preference to the others. He talked to the Methodists about his Methodist wife, "now dead and in heaven;" he told the Baptists about "his good Baptist bringing up," and spoke feelingly to the Presbyterians about his "good old Presbyterian grandmother," who taught him to say his prayers. Thus did this exemplary man contrived to keep in a perpetual bond of sympathy with his fellow-men, regardless of sect or creed. Had there been any Catholics and Jews in the town he would doubtless have discovered a Catholic ancestor somewhere, and a strong leaning towards Judaism on account of his lineal descent from Noah. Persons always that the said Catholics and Jews had at the least filed a declaration of their intention to become citizens of the great republic.

Mark knew Lathers' hypocrisy and hated it. But what was his disgust when, catching the major's solemn eye and following its direction, he saw on the women's side of the church, decked out in cheap finery, Nancy Kirtley. She sat next the aisle, and her splendid and self-conscious face was posed on purpose to attract his attention. She had come to town to spend a week at the house of her brother, the drayman, and had prolonged her stay when she heard that Mark had been sent for. She had not felt the revival excitement. Roxy had brought her, the minister had preached at her, the sisters had visited her. All this flattery had pleased her. She liked to be the centre of attention, and she had managed on occasion to squeeze out a tear or two by way of encouraging the good people to keep up their visits. But for her—healthy, full-blooded well-developed, beautiful animal—there was no world but this. Such people are enough to make one doubt whether immortality be a gift so generally distributed as we sometimes think. On this evening the radiant Nancy sat smiling among the solemn and even tearful people about her. Her shallow nature had no thought now for anything but her appearance and its probable effect on Mark.

Little did Nancy think what a goblin her face was to the young man. In his present state of mind she was the ghost of his former sin and weakness. The very attraction he found in her face startled him. So at last when he went forward to be prayed for it was not altogether repentance, nor altogether a fear of perdition, even, but partly a desire to get out of the company in which he found himself. Mark was hardly a free agent. He was a man of impulsive temperament. His glossy, black, curly hair, and well rounded, flexible face, expressed this. In this matter he floated in on the tide, just as he would have floated out on an evil tide had the current set in the other direction.

That night Twonnet went home with Roxy. For how can girls be friends without sleeping together? Is it that a girl's imagination is most impressed by secrets told in the dark? Or is it that a girl's greatest secret of this appetency for nocturnal friendship is beyond me; but I know that when two girls become friends their favorite trysting place is sure to be the land of Nod. So Twonnet, having attended the Methodist meeting, went home with Roxy. And they discussed the "start" which Mark had made.

"I don't just like it," said the Swiss girl. "You see Mark is grieved by his mother's death; he is sorry in a general sort of a way that he didn't do as she wanted him to. But is he sorry for any particular sins? Now, when a body repents I don't believe in their saying, 'I'm sorry I'm a sinner.' When I can say, 'I am sorry that I got mad so quick and that I trouble other people,' then I repent. Now, if Mark could say, 'I am sorry I was drunk on such a night, and that I gambled at such a time,' it would all be well enough."

"How do you know he can't?" asked Roxy, somewhat warmly. For Mark was a friend of hers, and now that his conversion was partly the result of her endeavor she felt a sort of proprietary interest in his operating life.

"I tell you what Twonnet, she added with enthusiasm, "it's a grand thing to see a young man who has the glittering prizes of this world in his reach, bring all his splendid gifts and lay them as a sacrifice on the altar of the Lord, as Mark did to-night."

"You give Mark more credit than he deserves," persisted the uncharitable Twonnet with a loss of her curls. "He didn't do anything very deliberately to-night. He felt bad at his mother's death and sorry that he had treated her badly. Wait till he actually gives up something before you praise him."

Wit and Humor.

The Wool-growers' conundrum—Why are sheep the most dissipated and unfortunate of animals? Because they gambol in their youth, often become black legs, frequent the turf, and are universally fleeced.

Could conjugal affection be more strikingly displayed than it is in the subjoined? "And so, Doctor, you think my wife will get well." "I am sure of it, if you can persuade her to take this dose." "Doctor, take it she shall, if I have to break every bone in her skin."

"How did you come to get married?" asked a man of a very homely friend. "Well, you see," he replied, "after I'd vainly tried to win several girls that I wanted, I finally turned my attention to one that wanted me, and then it didn't take long to fix things."

Darwin must find encouragement in the fact that a monkey in England has had a tooth extracted by a dentist. It is proper to state in this connection that the operation was not performed by a monkey-wrench, but with the instruments usually employed on the man and the brother.

We do not often admit fish stories into this column, but we cannot forbear giving a line to this: "See here, waiter: This codfish is not nearly as good as that I eat here day before yesterday!" "Dear me! dear me! what a thing prejudice is! Why, sir, the piece you are now eating is from the very same fish."

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, NOV. 5.

Re-election of Ministers.

The members of the Cabinet who on the 4th presented themselves to their constituents for re-election were all returned by acclamation. These gentlemen were:

Hon. Dr. Tupper, Minister of Public Works.

Hon. Jas. Macdonald, Minister of Justice.

Hon. S. L. Tilley, Minister of Finance.

Hon. J. H. Pope, Minister of Agriculture.

Hon. John O'Connor, President of the Council.

By refraining from offering opposition to the election of the members of the Cabinet, the Grit party have shown their good sense, as in no case, except possibly in that of Mr. Tilley did they stand even a ghost of a chance of succeeding. But as the Dominion had pronounced so emphatically in favor of the the National Policy, opposition to Mr. Tilley would almost certainly have been without avail, and even if certain of success would have deprived the Province of New Brunswick of the services in Parliament and in the Cabinet of her foremost statesman. Hence the local leaders of the Opposition wisely counselled that Mr. Tilley's return should be unopposed, and their influence was sufficient to prevent a fight for the mere sake of fighting, as the St. John News very happily phrased it.

Two additional members of the Cabinet will to-morrow come before their constituents, namely:

Hon. M. Bowell, Minister of Customs, and

Hon. L. F. R. Masson, Minister of Militia.

In neither North Hastings nor Terrebonne is it likely that opposition will be offered, in view of the large majorities obtained by Mr. Bowell and Mr. Masson respectively at the recent election.

The other elective members of the administration are:

Hon. J. C. Pope, Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

Hon. L. F. G. Baby, Minister of Inland Revenue, and Hon. H. L. Langevin, Postmaster General.

The nomination in Mr. Pope's constituency will not, owing to its distance from the capital, take place until the 9th inst., when he will doubtless be returned by acclamation. The nomination in Mr. Baby's constituency has been fixed for the 14th, and he too will scarcely meet with any opposition. Mr. Langevin, who was without a seat in Parliament, has been offered and accepted nomination for Three Rivers, where Mr. Macdougall, the late member, has retired in his favor. Opposition is threatened by the local Rouges, but even if Mr. Langevin should be opposed he will be returned by a large majority. The date for the new election has not yet been fixed.

Thus it is rendered certain that a large majority of the Ministers will within a few days be placed in a position to enter upon the discharge of their duties, and rub off the arrears of business which have accumulated during their necessary absence from the seat of Government.

American Export Trade.

The Scientific American has an article upon the American export trade that demonstrates the efforts which the American people are making in diversified industry. The exports of cheese last year reached 107,364,666 pounds. Fresh meat exported increased from 8,000 tons in 1876 to 28,000 tons in 1877, and the business is yet in its infancy. Besides, fresh beef, oysters, fruit butter and eggs swell the list of exported articles by the aid of refrigerators. A company in Delaware has gone into the business of making English plum pudding. America sends oatmeal to Scotland and beer to Germany. A Boston company are turning out 8,000 cans, equal to 24,000 pounds, of baked beans and codfish-balls daily, and it finds a large demand for both specialities, in England, France, West Indies and South America. In January last an English house sent an agent to the U. S. with orders to ship regularly every week fifty barrels of the finest quail, prairie hens, grouse, woodcock, wild turkeys, canvas-back ducks, and other American game that he could procure. The enterprise has proved a great success. Buffalo and antelope meat venison and salmon are also among the innumerable articles of food sent, not only to England but to nearly every other civilized nation.

DOMINION TELEGRAPH COMPANY.—The Dominion Telegraph Company open their lines to the Maritime Provinces to-day (Tuesday) at a through rate of thirty cents.

Rejoicing Without Cause.

It is really too bad to deny to the terribly shattered and thoroughly demoralized Grit party of Ontario a crumb of comfort which they have lately sought to appropriate to themselves; but as their claims to the tempting morsel have no real foundation in equity or in truth, we are obliged to restrain their ardor and tone down their expectancy. Their organs rejoice very loudly over the return of Mr. Cartwright for Centre Huron by a majority of 417, whereas Mr. Horton had only 371, or 46 fewer on the 17th of September; and they also make merry in reciting the fact that in the recent election for the Ontario Legislature in West Elgin, Mr. McLaws received a majority of 212, whilst at the general election in 1875 their candidate was in a minority of 10, although he subsequently obtained the seat on a scrutiny. So far so good; but only one-half of the story is told, our Grit contemporaries very significantly failing to refer to the fact that in the election for the Local Legislature in North Essex, Mr. White's majority was 686 as against 454 recorded for Mr. Patterson in 1875, a gain of 232; and that in South Simcoe Mr. Parkhill obtained a majority of 341, a gain of 62 over the majority cast for Mr. Macdougall in 1875. The omission of any reference to the gains in the two constituencies last named needs no further explanation than the statement of the fact that they were made by the Conservatives. So the sole cause of rejoicing in the Grit journals is that their party has retained two constituencies by increased majorities, whilst the Conservatives have done precisely the same thing, with this addition, that the Conservative gains outnumber those of the Grits by some 40 votes or thereabouts. If, under these circumstances, our sorely worsted opponents can figure out as the result of these four elections that Reform has been rehabilitated—that the Mowat Government is safe, and that of Sir John A. Macdonald is doomed,—we cannot envy them their happiness, even if it be but a dream.

INDIAN SUMMER—PEMBINA BRANCH—VISIT FROM SITTING BULL—BUILDING OPERATIONS.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 4.

We are having beautiful Indian Summer weather, and the ferries are running.

The rails are authentically reported laid to within seven miles of the boundary line on the American side. The express messengers have been ordered after this week to travel by rail to Pembina, and thence by stage.

A report from the west says that Sitting Bull has notified Lieutenant Governor Laird of his intention to visit him when the snow falls.

A large skating and curling rink is to be built on the Red River at Winnipeg.

The Catholics intend erecting in the spring a church at Winnipeg to cost $35,000.

DISGUSTED.—The Quebec city press is fearfully disgusted at the English papers received by last mail, which state in their telegraphic despatches that Lord Dufferin, after meeting with a favorable reception at Quebec on the 19th inst., embarked on the "Polynesian" at Ottawa.

ELECTION PROTESTS.—The Mail of today says:—"Protests were filed yesterday against the return of F. W. Glen, for South Ontario; Alex. Gunn, Kingston; J. C. Rykert, Lincoln; Rufus Stephenson, Kent; Alex. Shaw, South Bruce; John White, East Hastings; Dr. Bergin, Cornwall; Thomas Arkell, East Elgin, and J. S. McCuaig, for Prince Edward. The petitions against Messrs. Glen, Gunn, Rykert, Stephenson, Bergin, Shaw and White are filed either in the Queen's Bench or Common Pleas, and those against Messrs. Arkell and McCuaig in the Court of Chancery.

THE LUMBER TRADE.—An Ottawa report says: "The mills at the Chaudiere are still running, but the most of them will close down at the end of the present week, the stock of logs being about exhausted. This winter less lumber will be held over than at any time within the past ten years. The demand this fall has been good, and some difficulty is experienced in getting a sufficient number of barges to ship the lumber already sold, in order to have it removed before the season closes. The quanity cut this season will not be quite so large as that of last year. More logs will be taken out this winter by lumbermen than last year, and a less quanity of timber, owing to the dead stock now held at Quebec."

BRUTAL OFFENCE.—A Toronto report says:—"Wm. G. Guthrie, aged 45, a plasterer, was arrested this morning charged with the offence of having made urine in a milk jug. It seems that a family on Simcoe street has been in the habit of leaving the jug outside on the verandah over night for the milk man, who called before the household was up. The family had noticed a peculiar flavor in the milk for some time, and a young child was taken sick. At length they saw a man committing the disgusting act, and informed a detective, who set a watch for the brute. After waiting three mornings without success, this morning Detective Brown caught the man flagrante delicto, and arrested him after a severe struggle. The brute was sentenced this morning by the Police Magistrate to eighteen months' imprisonment."

WHAT IT PROVES.—The fact that several of the directors of the broken Bank of Glasgow, who helped to break it by robbing it, were also prominent in the church and in various charitable undertakings—one of them, Mr. Lewis Potter, going so far in his ostentatious regard for Sunday as to refuse to read Monday's newspapers, because most of the work on them is done on Sunday, this does not prove that it is a good thing to neglect to observe Sunday, or to refuse to do charitable acts, or to assume a hostile attitude toward the church. It only proves that it was a particularly bad thing for those men to be superintendents of Sunday schools, presidents of Young Men's Christian Associations, and so on. That bad men sometimes successfully pretend to be good is an injury to the public, truly; but we should be careful to perceive that the fact is conclusive only as to the depths of hypocrisy into which human nature may fall.

OUR PARIS LETTER.

THE DEATH OF BISHOP DUPANLOUP.—SOMETHING ABOUT THE LEGION OF HONOR.—THE OPENING OF A NEW MUSEUM.—SUCCESSFUL SALESMEN AT THE EXPOSITION.—A STROLL AMONG THE COLLECTIONS OF POTTERY AND CERAMICS.—THE FAMOUS PORTLAND VASE AND OTHER WONDERS.—WEDGEWOOD AND SEVRES WARE, &C. &C.

(From a regular correspondent.)

HOTEL DU LOUVRE, PARIS, Oct. 23, 1878.

The Catholic Church in France has just lost the only man of great intellectual eminence that she still possessed. Felix Dupanloup, Bishop of Orleans, died on Friday, October 1st. He way a native of Savoy, and was born at Saint Felix in 1802. After filling various ecclesiastical offices at Paris, and attaining to that of grand vicaire, he was appointed in 1841 Professor in the Faculty of Theology; but his violent language gave rise to tumultuous scenes which caused the abrupt termination of his course of lectures. In 1849 he became Bishop of Orleans, and held that see till his death, displaying indefatigable activity and devotion. Under his superintendence the little Seminary of Orleans attained a remarkable development, and became a formidable competitor to secular institutitions of the kind. Although he was opposed to his dying day by the Ultramontane party, which prevented his elevation to the Cardinalate, his loss will be regretted by all catholics, for the French clergy has not a single man to compare with him as a writer, as an orator, or even as a man of action, and the French Academy will be greatly embarrassed to find a priest worthy to succeed him.

In view of the fact that not a few of the American exhibitors have received the cross of the Legion of Honor, the following facts, which I find in to-day's Figaro, will be of interest. In 1851, after the London Exhibition, 52 decorations were distributed, and at the Paris Exhibition of 1855, the number was increased to 174. After the second London Exhibition, 127 crosses were awarded, and there were 230 elections at the subsequent Exhibition of Paris in 1869. After Vienna and Philadelphia the numbers were respectively 65 and 26. The concourse of exhibitors now assembled in the Champ de Mars is considerably greater than that of any antecedent Exhibition, and the Government, with characteristic generosity and good sense, has fixed the number of elections to be made at 300. There are more than 30,000 aspirants to the distinction. The following decree has been issued by the Government: "On the occasion of the Universal Exhibition opened at Paris in 1878, the Government is authorized to confer 3 grand officer's crosses, 12 commander's crosses, 60 officer's crosses, and 228 chevalier's crosses of the Legion d'Honneur."

An interesting lecture was given at the Trocadero last week by the eminent French architect M. Paul Sedille, on the subject of the employment of polychrome in architecture. The lecturer urged that although the climate of northern Europe was injurious to fresco, as seen in the disastrous attempts at Munich, there was no reason why terra-cotta and mosaic decorations should not be employed, and strongly recommended the use of these materials to his audience, which was composed for the most part of architects and other artists. Some magnificent work in that line has been done in the ancient chapel of the Ecole des Beaux Arts, which, having of late been magnificently restored and converted into an historical museum, was opened yesterday by the Minister of Public Instruction and M. Guillaume, the new Director General of Fine Arts. The principal treasure in this ancient chapel is a very fine copy in oils of Michel-Angelo's Last Judgment, painted by Sigalon, of almost the same size as the original. Besides this there are a number of casts taken from the finest statues and other sculptures executed by the great masters of Renaissance; indeed, the new museum is chiefly one of casts.

Down at the Exposition on the Champ de Mars, the Japanese appear to be selling off their wares with great rapidity. Already half the costly bronzes and porcelains in that department are ticketed "sold," and that in spite of the fact that the prices are terrific, from one to two thousand dollars being asked for the choicer pieces. Unlike many of the other departments, where one looks in vain for a person to give information as to prices or to take an order, the Japanese have a man always at hand to answer questions and to inscribe the name of a purchaser. This business-like arrangement, combined with the fact that Chinese and Japanese wares, especially the latter, are very fashionable just now, has had much to do with the readiness with which their articles have been sold. The Japanese commissioners and salesmen, black coated and chimney pot hatted, and in all respects having the aspect of Europeans, are not half as interesting to look at as are the Chinese in their blue petticoats, baggy green plush trousers, clumsy shoes, and long pig tails. The French workmen at the Exhibition delight in chattering to their Chinese comrades, who laugh and talk back again with monkey-like gaiety and vehemence. The Chinese department is certainly one of the most brilliant in the Exhibition; the show cases themselves are a mass of carving and a blaze of gold.

But of far more interest to the lovers of the fine arts are the sections of porcelains, glassware, and ceramics,—which, however, would be much more admired if visitors were not so fresh from the English shore, where Minton and Wedgewood almost defy all foreign competition except that of France. Mr. Wedgewood presents a copy of the famous cream-colored service made by his ancester Josiah, in 1770, of Queen Charlotte—whence its name "Queensware." The reproduction now at the Champ de Mars, is of a pale canary tint, ornament with brilliant-hued butterflies and leaves. No one would look twice at such a thing if it were a modern conception, whereas, as a pseudo rococo, it excites raptures. There are several toilette services of Egyptian and Tuscan patterns here; but the most effective piece is the Barberini vase, whose original now in the British Museum was purchased by the Duchess of Portland for 47,000 francs. Broken by some accident, it was repaired by a skillful workman so that no traces of fracture remain visible. At the sale of this magnificent relic, Josiah Wedgewood, who was a rival bidder to her Grace, agreed to stop his competition on condition that he should be allowed to make 50 copies. These were sold at 50 guineas apiece, and lost money to the factory, but the Wedgewood had attained their chief object, which was to prove that English ceramists could produce a work of art equal to that masterpiece of antique pottery, the so-called Portland vase. Besides these there is a buffet, whose glass doors, are ornamented with jasper bas-reliefs representing scenes from the plays and poems of Shakespeare, Chaucer, and Milton; also, two swan shaped vases of painted porcelain, illustrated by a triumph of Flora and a group wherein Samson and Delilah are the figures. The Mintons, like the Ellingtons, have to thank French artists for their best pieces. They have recruited them from Sevres, and naturally profit by the secrets—so far as the workmen have them—of this greatest of all porcelain establishments.

That Boy.

Dramatis personæ.—A young American in roundabout and leggins, perched upon a fence devouring a huge piece of mince pie, and a maiden of five summers, in pantalettes, looking very wishfully at the gormand on the fence. Young America—"I say, sis, does your mar make mince pies? If she does I'll bet they aint so good as my mar's." Little Miss (timidly)—"I like mince pie awful well." Young America—"Well, now, that's funny! Just look here (drawing a quarter of a pie out of his jacket pocket) and it's boss, too! Aint my mar good?" (carefully stowing it away in his pocket) That boy "is father to the man" who must have his cigars and any other masculine luxury his contemptible selfishness craves, while his poor sickly wife must do the work of two women ("girls waste more than they earn," he says), and for the want of a little money to purchase a few bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, the sovereign remedy for female diseases and weaknesses, she is literally dying by inches—and all because of that masculine selfishness that would not divide the childish luxury with his playmate, and now tacitly refuses his wife the luxury of health.

Mr. Hotchkin's treatment is practical, rational and economical. His object is immediate relief and eventual cure. It is based upon scientific principles, and easily demonstrated to the comprehension of every intelligent person, that a Truss without steel springs or hard substance, having healed Inguinal and Umbelical as well as Varicocele, at the advanced ages respectively of from 65 to 92 years, must and will stand the test against all Spring Trusses. Trusses for children as well as adults. Mr. H.'s post office address is Albion, Orleans Co., N. Y. Go early, the first day, before the crowd get in. 148

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, NOV. 5.

City and Vicinity.

POLICE COURT.—There was no business for transaction in the Court this morning.

GRAIN MARKET.—The market was very dull to-day at unchanged rates.

ARRIVAL.—The steamship Phœnician arrived inward at 8 a. m. to-day with one cabin and 33 steerage passengers.

NO MARKET REPORTS.—In consequence of this being election day in the United States, there are no market reports.

OFF DUTY.—Two members of the police force, constables McCoy and Newton, have been off duty for several days, owing to illness.

HALL TO-NIGHT.—The Orange Young Britons will hold an assembly in the Metropolitan Hall this evening. The management is in competent hands.

ANOTHER BAD ROAD.—The Canifton Road, south of the railway track, is represented as being in as bad a state as North Front Street. No time should be lost in placing such streets in a proper state of repair.

COURT OF REVISION.—The next sitting of the Court of Revision will be held in the Police Court at 7:30 p. m. to-morrow evening. Appeals from Bleecker Ward will then be heard and unfinished business from Samson and Foster Wards disposed of.

DANGEROUSLY ILL.—We very much regret to learn that Mr. George C. Holton, Colector of Inland Revenue, who has been confined to his bed for some days with typhoid fever, was to-day considered by physicians to be dangerously ill.

THE WEATHER.—A heavier frost than that of the night preceding prevailed last night. A few more such nights and navigation will be closed, as the water is now very cold and ready for freezing. A good deal of ice formed along the shores of the bay last night.

THE BARLEY TRADE.—The Oswego Palladium of Saturday says :—"Compared with last year there is a deficiency in the receipts of barley at this port this season to date of 436,777 bushels. The quantity on the canal from Oswego for tide-water yesterday was 134,255 bushels and from Buffalo 179,000 bushels."

THE HOUNDS.—Should the weather continue favorable, the meet at Mr. Leavens', Kingston Road, to-morrow, promises to be largely attended. The line of country is excellent, and as there are numerous good roads in the vicinity whence a view of the sport can be had, there ought to be a large turn out of ladies on horseback and spectators in carriages.

NOMINATION TO-MORROW.—The nomination in North Hastings will take place at noon to-morrow at the Town Hall, Madoc, and as many residents of Belleville have expressed a strong desire to attend, a train will be run for their accommodation. The train will leave the Grand Trunk Station and proceed to Stirling, which place will be reached at 10; thence to Madoc, arriving at 11:30. The time table for the return trip is : Leaving Madoc at 3 ; Stirling at 4:30 ; arriving at Belleville at 5:30.

THE ROSE-MAPLESON CONCERT COMPANY.—We are informed that Mr. J. W. Reynolds has so far been fairly successful in his canvass for subscriptions for seats for the performance here of this celebrated company. The agent was here to-day and arrangements were made for the company's appearance at an early date. This will be a musical treat of rare excellence, and we hope that the citizens will sustain Mr. Reynolds in his commendable enterprise of securing the appearance in Belleville, at great expense, of so famous an organization.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.—A very good meeting was held in the vestry of this church last evening, when a Young Men's Association was organized. Deep interest was manifested in the objects of the Association which are, the mutual improvement of the members and the advancement of the general welfare of the congregation. A constitution for the society was submitted, office bearers elected, and it was decided that meetings be held every alternate Friday evening during the winter months. The following gentlemen were elected office-bearers :—Hony. Pres't. Rev. M. W. Maclean ; President, J. D. Elliot ; 1st Vice. Pres't., Alfred Gillen ; 2nd Vice. Wm. Evans ; Secy-Treasurer, Donald Harrold. Executive Committee :—John Sutherland, John Bell, D. M. Watters, J. P. Thomas, Thos. Duncan, Wm. Tennant, Hugh Walker, Wm. Webster and N. D. McArthur. The Association begins its work with very good prospects of success. It already numbers thirty members, and there is no doubt that soon all the young men of the congregation will be connected with it.

SIX THOUSAND MILES IN TWO MINUTES.—The Dominion Telegraph Co., completed their direct connection last Friday night at Montreal with the old country. A message was sent from the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, to London, England, asking to "Report state of the weather" and in two minutes after sending the message the answer was received saying "Fine after the rain."

FIFTH OF NOVEMBER.—The triple anniversary which occurs to-day, namely that of the Gunpowder Plot, the landing of William III. at Torbay, and the Battle of Inkerman, was this afternoon celebrated by the Orange Young Britons, Prentice Boys and True Blues of Orange District No. 1 South Hastings. Amongst those present were members of the Mill Point and Trenton Lodges, and all having formed into procession, headed by the Oddfellows' Band, proceeded in procession to St. Andrew's Church, where an appropriate sermon was preached by the Rev. W. M. McLean. There was a large turn out despite the coldness of the weather.

HOW THEY TREAT THEM.—They have different methods of treating stupidly drunken persons in different places. In Detroit, according to the Free Press of that city, they take him to the police station. Over in Windsor they carry him home on a shutter. In Denver they pour kerosene on his clothes and set it on fire. In Wilkesbarre they take him down in a coal mine, and fancy his feelings when he wakes up. In New York the policeman beats him to pieces with a club. In Boston they bathe his head and read him a psychological essay on the evils that accrue to the mental organization by a too great indulgence in intoxicating beverages. In Toronto he is sent up for thirty days. In San Francisco they let him lie there. In Omaha they shave one side of his head. In Vancebury, Ky., they build a big cage of railroad ties over him, from which he cannot escape when he comes to his senses. In Toledo they douse him in the swamp. In Cincinnati they make him attend a concert. In Chicago it is such a common thing they don't mind it. In London, Ont., he is jolted home on a wheelbarrow. In Belleville he is taken to the Police Station on a carter's vehicle and next morning is made to pay for the rattling of his bones over the stones. The returns from other cities are not yet in.

AMERICAN AND CANADIAN BUTTER AND CHEESE.—The Times, in noticing the great butter and cheese show in London, remarks :—"A point in which English butter-makers might well take a leaf from American and Continental books is in the extended use of mechanical butter workers. There are now about 1,000 cheese and butter factories of all kinds in the State of New York, about 100 in Ohio, and a considerable number scattered through the States of Illinois, Vermont, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Michigan, Pennsylvania, and in Canada and Nova Scotia. In America annual conferences of dairy farmers are held, at which experiences are freely exchanged ; and the value of a show like the present is chiefly in the effect it has in bringing together from all parts of the country persons interested in the same question and allowing them to study what others are doing. The hall is crowded every day with sightseers, but many of the visitors taste,examine,and make notes with professional acumen. One of the striking facts revealed by the show is the success of the factory system of cheesemaking. American and Canadian cheese made in factories are driving English cheddars out of the market. The 15cwt. Canadian cheeses, made this July and shown in the centre of the hall, were the product of this system. They were joined on Saturday by some excellent little cheeses of 5 lbs. each, made by Mr. Morton at the same Kingston depot,and exhibited,like the larger cheeses, by Mr. J. Webb. There are also some excellent cheeses in the show from the Derbyshire factories. The Cheddar mode of cheese making has spread from a little district in Somersetshire all over the world.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

ENGLAND AND THE BERLIN TREATY.

Rumored Mediation between Turkey and Greece.

BERLIN, Nov. 4.—The Post says :—Eight weeks ago, when the Treaty of Berlin was in danger, Bismarck appealed to the signatories to defend it. England, who then rejected the request, now appeals to Austria and France, the supposed adversaries of Russia, for the purpose of reviving the Crimean alliance. Such attempts are useless. Furthermore, England, by fostering jealousies, certainly will not succeed in preventing friendly relations between Bulgaria and Greece.

THE FISHERIES QUESTION.

How Mr. Evarts' Letter is Regarded in England.

BOLD ARTICLE FROM THE "PALL MALL GAZETTE."

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Pall Mall Gazette in a leading editorial to-day says :—"That the United States should choose this precise moment to publish what seems from the telegraphic summary to be rather a threatening despatch addressed by Secretary Evarts to the American Minister, Mr. Welsh, can scarcely be regarded as accidental. All the world can see that we have on our hands just now quite as much as we can well deal with, and a really friendly power with a grievance like that, whilst holding to its position, would refrain from casting the matter in an irritating way before the public until our affairs had assumed a more peaceful aspect. At any rate this is what, according to the admirers of the Alabama arbitration, we might certainly have expected from America. The truth is, that while the very party with which the bargain was made still holds office in the United States, the first opportunity is seized to make a point against us just when it is reckoned that other difficulties may force us to give way. Nothing else was to be expected, and for our own part we are inclined to thank Mr. Evarts for teaching our countrymen that nations generally are no more inclined to forego their advantages over another in the 19th century than they were in the 18th, the 17th, the 16th, or the first. Let sentimentalists blame Mr. Evarts, for he has dissapointed them, not us. The American newspapers of all shades of political opinion, with out giving a moment's consideration, let us hope, to the fact that the quarrel has nothing whatever to do with the award of $5,500,000 made in favor of Canada at Halifax, came forward at once with the contention that this money due, and long overdue, to us must not be paid until and unless this new difference is settled in the way they think right. Nine million dollars of the Alabama indemnity still remain without any reasonable claimant, and here are $5,500,000 more to be retained. We should have supposed that the Americans could scarcely afford to recall attention to the various matters relating to the Washington Treaty and to the manner in which its provisions have been carried out. But then, we too have a little sentiment about us ; for, in truth, the whole story is one of a continuous attempt at evasion, and evasion of a somewhat shabby kind. And, curiously enough, advantage was taken of local regulations—the local regulations of the State of New York—to avoid compliance with one of the most important stipulations of the Treaty in favor of Canadian shipping. Therefore Lord Salisbury has open to him some very pertinent retorts But two wrongs do not make a right, and if it appears that the Newfoundlanders, who do not form part of the Dominion, had no right to take the law into their own hands in view of the arrangements entered into on their behalf, of course compensation will have to be made When, however, the Americans argue that the whole fishery question may have to be re-opened, we are at liberty to disregard what they say ; or we might answer that if so, some other points would have to be reconsidered at the same time. Thus it would be at least arguable on the part of Canadians that the very serious claims for the monstrous injuries inflicted by American citizens on British subjects during the Fenian raids should again be put forward, since according to every recognized principle of international law the United States were to the fullest extent responsible for those outrages. We mention that, however, only to show how troublesome it is to go too far back in such matters, and to mix up questions which ought to be kept separate. It may be possible that Lord Salisbury has taken up a false position with respect to a local or other right of Newfoundland, though, since he had all the facts before him and the knowledge that he was dealing with a very thorny question, we may fairly hope that he has not done. But in any case we shall have the satisfaction of knowing that, whatever discredit there may be in this talk of keeping the money back, or in suddenly springing diplomatic mines at an awkward time, it is not ours."

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—At Tammany Hall headquarters there is noticeable absence of politicians, who last year lounged around. This is considered a hopeful sign by gentlemen present, who say that everybody is working at his post this time. It is stated this morning that the commissioner arrested about 300 voters who had 1868 naturalization papers, and was holding them in $2,000 bail.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—On Friday night, the Irish citizens held a mass meeting, to denounce the utterances of Col. Bee, as published in the Washington Post. T. F. O'Malley Vaines, an Irish exile, refused to allow Wm. Wellock, Vice-President of the Workingmen's party, to speak, on the ground that he was an Englishman. At Sand Lots, yesterday, Wellock denounced Baines as a Fenian renegade and traitor to his country. To-day Baines will publish a card demanding Wellock to retract or name a time and place to settle the affair.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—In the mills at Wigan 1070 looms and 94,000 spindles have stopped, and 2,600 looms and 310,000 spindles are running on short time, being equivalent to a 30 per cent. reduction in operative's wages.

Arrived out, the St. Laurent and Somerset.

SYDNEY, Nov. 5.—It is reported the New Caledonia rebels have committed further massacres.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 5.—It is officially denied that Russian officials are participating in the Bulgarian insurrection. Gen. Todleben has issued fresh orders to Russian commanders on the east Roumelian frontier to prevent the organization of Insurgent bands, and to watch the movements of Insurgent commanders.

The Imperial yacht Livadia left Livadia on the 2nd inst. for Odessa, with Grand Duke Sergius, son of the Czar, and suite. The yacht swamped during a fog and gale. The passengers and crew were landed, and the yacht was thrown on the rocks, probably wrecked.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—It is officially announced that the Kamarkas murdered a Frenchman and his wife on 14th of Oct. There are wandering bands of rebels in Bourrail in the District but the remainder of New Caledonia is quiet. The general situation has improved.

ROME, Nov. 5.—Negotiations between the Vatican and Russia have been suspended. The attitude of Russia affords no hope of a satisfactory result. The Pope will probably issue a protest shortly against the violence which the Catholics of Poland endure.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—Balthasar Jacotin, a three years senator from the department of Haute Loire, a Republican, is accused of cheating at cards and has resigned on demand of the Minister of Justice.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 5.—Thomas Butler was probably fatally shot last night in Hamburg by Tony Hawkins, colored. Hawkins was jailed.

PETERSBURG, Nov. 5.—The trial of Wm. Reese, a member of the Legislature, charged with killing a negro, began at Hicksford yesterday. Negroes are flocking in from the country demanding his conviction.

—The first case taken in hand by the Boston Union for Christian Work was that of a family of six persons, who were without work, food, or fuel. Their immediate wants were supplied, and $10 was left with them. They spent most of the money in a carriage ride on the following day.

—The short time movement is gradually extending in the mills of Burnley, Lancashire, where there will soon be 3,000,000 spindles and 6,000 to 7,000 looms operated on short time. The India mill, the largest in Darwin, has stopped. The railway companies in the cotton districts are discharging their employees and reducing wages because of the stagnation in the tariff.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Nov. 5.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours : For the Lower Lake region, moderate to fresh winds shifting to east and south, partly cloudy, warmer weather. For the St. Lawrence, fresh to brisk winds, partly cloudy weather. For the Maritime Provinces, fresh to brisk westerly to northwesterly winds, partly cloudy weather, with flurries of snow.

THE CHALLENGE SALE.

The OAK HALL Clothing House, 350 Front St., Belleville.

IS determined to rule the Clothing Trade in Belleville. We are in charge to do it; for we buy every dollar's worth of Goods for Cash, and buy each and every line of Goods where they can be got the cheapest. Every Merchant in Belleville advertises to sell the cheapest goods in his line—and for some time back one of our contemporaries has been trying to throw down the gauntlet to crush the smaller brethren in the trade, on whose behalf we take it up, and raise the old war cry, "Come on MacDuff." Owing to our largely increased trade we purchased a mammoth Fall Stock. We have in fact as much and more Ready-made Clothing as all the other Clothing houses put together—all new this Fall, and selected with great care by one of the best buyers in Ontario.

In fact the house is crowded with new goods. Call and see for yourselves, and see prices in other Stores before calling. We don't defy competition, but we undersell it.

We have Men's heavy Grey Overcoats for $4.00. Do. Working Pants for $1.25. Men's Worsted Diagonal Pants and Vests, $4.00.

Circular to the Public.

We have much pleasure in thanking the citizens of Belleville and adjoining Counties, for the large and satisfactory trade we have so far done this season.

Up to this date our Cash sales have exceeded those of any previous season, and we are aiming to make this the largest Fall and Winter trade yet done by us.

To do this, we have imported direct from the leading Manufacturers and Warehouses of Great Britain, an unusually large, varied, and attractive Stock of new dry goods, all of which have been personally selected by a member of our Firm, who has had a long experience in catering to the tastes and requirements of the people of this section of the country, and also from having so frequently visited the Home markets, has acquired a thorough knowledge of the best places and houses to purchase the different lines of Dry Goods from. Every intelligent person can easily understand that in this particular we have a decided advantage over others, who send their orders to Commission houses, and allow these houses to do their entire buying.

Notwithstanding the statements of an opposition House to the contrary, we beg to state and challenge successful contradiction, that the value of our Importations Direct from the European markets in original packages—all of which were selected by our own buyer, and of which we are prepared to produce the original invoices—largely exceed those of any other Dry Goods house in the City of Belleville.

To the general public, the most important and interesting part of what we have to say is, that we are prepared to furnish them with a large portion of their Fall and Winter Dry Goods at prices whereby they can save from ten to twenty five cents on every dollar's worth, by buying them at our Warehouse. To some this may appear impossible ; but to those who doubt the truth of our statements, we say, Compare the prices and qualities of our goods with those sold by other stores. It is not necessary to buy, should they not prove equal to what we advertise them.

We are now selling a large lot of new Dress Goods at 12½, 15, 20, and 25c per yard, which are admitted by all to be the cheapest lot of Dress Goods ever offered in this city. And although our sales of Dress Goods this season have already been very large, we are still able to show an immense variety of all the leading colors and materials which have been produced this season.

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside ; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of such of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to cement more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURG, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz. : One page, $10 00 ; half-page, $6.00 ; quarter page, $4.00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men of the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work and no pains or expense will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

TIDINGS FROM AN OLD FRIEND.

(From the Napanee Standard.)

Mr. Samuel C. McDonnell, formerly of Sheffield, and more lately of Thurlow, but now located in Pembina Mountain district, Manitoba, where he has 960 acres of land, has been visiting friends in this country for some days, and looks happy, healthy, and robust ; the air of the prairie province has not affected him for the worse in the slightest degree. In making his round of calls he did not forget the Standard, and we had the pleasure of a conversation with him, relative to the great Nor-West, which he says is being rapidly peopled. In Marquette county alone, over 2,000 bona fide settlers have located this year, the majority being farmers. We are apt to think of Manitoba as the home of Indians, and almost on the confines of civilization, but such a picture falls far short of the reality, for Marquette is a fair specimen of the country, and it is but little behind a good many counties in Ontario, owing to the speed with which the land can be changed into neat productive farms. Winnipeg, the chief place in the province, has grown very fast, and now numbers nearly 9,000 inhabitants, and has numerous fine public buildings and private residences. Mr. McDonnell has found the climate healthier than in Ontario, and puts no faith in stories to the contrary. The quality of the soil surpasses anything of which he has any experience ; it is a black clay loom surface, and clay subsoil. Timber is not abundant, but on most quarter sections (160 acres) there is more or less, averaging perhaps 20 acres of poplar and oak to each. For fencing wire is generally used ; he intends taking a quantity back, as it are cheaper than rails here. The yield of wheat is from 30 to 50 bushels to the acre ; oats and other grains in proportion. Roots grow to an immense size, and it is not unusual to see turnips weighing 35 pounds. Prices of grain range lower than in Ontario ; wheat is about 65 cents, oats 35c., potatoes 25c., barley 55c., &c., and harvest hands receive about $2 00 per day, often in kind. The harvests are in many instances removed by the use of machines; the implements, all kinds being used pretty generally, are better than many in use in Ontario. They come mostly from the States. He corrects the impression which has gotten abroad that the water there is poor, if not absolutely bad and scarce. On his own farm are two flowing springs of excellent quality, and good water can easily be obtained by digging 12 or 15 feet. The roads in the dry weather are fairly good, but as is the case in all rich soils, in the wet seasons they are heavy. There is a home market for more than the country produces, Emerson being his market town. It is situated on the Red River, 60 miles south of Winnipeg, and close to the United States boundary. He thinks there is good land yet open for millions of settlers, each of whom may get a homestead of 160 acres at a cost of $10 for the title, &c., with the privilege of buying an additional number of acres at $1 per acre. All permanent settlers in locating their homesteads are given the right of pre-emption to 160 acres more, on covenanting to pay for it at the expiration of three years at the rate of $1 per acre.

He advised no one to settle in Manitoba who cannot command at least $400 or $500, as the demand for labor is poor, and they should have enough to buy a team of horses or yoke of oxen, a waggon, plough, harrow, and other implements, lumber for building, and still have enough money left to pay for one year's board, after which with ordinary industry and thrift, their success is assured. As a grazing country he thinks it unsurpassed, but he recommends Ontario farmers not to take their horses with them, as they are not suited to the climate, which, since his residence there, has proved fatal to quite a number of fine animals. A great many of the horses used are from Texas or Montana, where they run wild and are acclimated, but of too light build to be of use in breaking up the soil for the first time. Oxen or heavy horses, must be made to do that service. After the land has been worked the Texas or Montana horses can get along very well. The price they bring is about $50 each, while an acclimated team from Ontario is worth from $300 to $400. Oxen range from $120 to $180 per yoke, and cows from $25 to $50 each. The cost of reaching Manitoba, by the North Western Transportation route, via Duluth, is about $21, and the journey lasts 8 or 10 days. Nearly all the settlers in Marquette are Ontario people, including Rev. John Scott and others from this section, whom Mr. McDonnell often sees and reports well and prosperous.

These people rejoice in having Sir John A. Macdonald as their representative in the Dominion Parliament, and the constituency being almost wholly composed of intelligent and well-to-do English speaking electors, is one of which any representative would have reason to be proud. Mr. McDonnell boasts that they did there, what Kingston could not do, viz. : elect the Premier, and they look to him to long honor them with his confidence.

Mr. McDonnell intends remaining in this section during the winter, after which he will remove his family to Manitoba with the intention of making that province their future home. He will doubtless yet be heard of in the public affairs of that place, as while here the people of Sheffield made him one of their Reeves for fourteen or fifteen years, and remember him as a painstaking public servant.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING. —"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately favored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemist, London, Eng." d&w

In this Present Age, when the life-battle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the strongest the tug and stress of it tell so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for the keeping up of our reserve stock of mental and physical stamina by the use of such a nerve tonic and vitalizing agent as ROBINSON'S PHOSPHORIZED EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH LACTO-PHOSPATE OF LIME ! Its gently stimulating and nutritive-tonic properties supply the materials, and assist Nature in her efforts to keep up with the exhaustive demands upon her reserves. Prepared solely by J. H. Dr. Wm. Gray's Specific Medicine

The Great English Remedy is especially recommended as an unfailing cure for Seminal Weakness, Spermatorrhea, Impotency, and all diseases that follow as a sequence of Self Abuse, as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature old Age, and many other diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a Premature Grave,—all of which as a rule are first caused by deviating from the path of nature and over indulgence.

Before Taking ... After Taking

The Specific Medicine is the result of a life study, and many years of experience in treating these special diseases. Pamphlet free by mail.

The Specific Medicine is sold by all Druggists at $1 per package, or six packages for $1, or will be sent by mail on receipt of the money, by addressing

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.
EMPRESS RELIEF.
THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.
AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.
BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Denyiswho can."

It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer.

It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Rocket your preju ice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge" of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

THE PUBLIC ARE CAUTIONED

that the only book giving the complete history of the travels, explorations, important discoveries, and thrilling adventures of Mr. Stanley in Africa during 1874-1877 is now published, under the title which appears at the head of this advertisement as the Canadian COPYRIGHT EDITION.

Two spurious books, one entitled, "The Achievements of Stanley in Africa," and the other "The Complete Explorations and Adventures of Stanley" have been advertised. They are a rehash of Livingstone and other old books of African travel and of Stanley's letters. The first is the Original spurious book published in Philadelphia, written by T. Heathy. The second is an inferior copy of the first. Both have mostly old illustrations. See that you get the genuine work written by Mr. Stanley. Daily Intelligencer.

Rawdon Agricultural Society.

A very successful Fair and Cattle Show in connection with the above Society was held at Stirling on the 16th ult.

The Fair brought together a large crowd in the afternoon, and the proceedings were enlivened by music furnished by the Stirling Brass Band.

In point of entries the show was very successful there being about 850 entries made.

The show of cattle was large, but the animals were unfortunately exhibited in a poor field, in which they failed to show to the same advantage they would had the exhibition grounds been better in moosses usual at similar exhibitions.

Mr. John Taylor, who showed a fine herd of Ayrshires. Mr. S. Vandervoort and Mr. A. Chard also exhibited in this class.

The show of horses was large for a Township fair, among which were some excellent animals. In stallions Mr. Lloyd took first prize for a very handsome bay.

The show of sheep could scarce be excelled, a large number being exhibited, among which were some excellent animals, showing that the farmers of Rawdon pay much attention to that branch of farm industry.

The show of pigs was not large.

The show of poultry was not large, but some fine birds were exhibited.

The exhibition of roots and seeds was very large and good, there being over twenty-five entries of each of the different kinds of grain.

The building devoted to the exhibition of articles of domestic manufacture was filled with the handiwork of the fair sex and in such quantities that it would be impossible to enumerate the articles exhibited.

The agricultural implements exhibited at the North Hastings fair were again shown. The Bennett fanning mill exhibited by Messrs. G. & J. Brown attracted the attention it always receives when shown.

The show of carriages was good. The manufacturers exhibiting at the North Hastings fair again exhibiting.

There was a fine show of harness and leather. The principal exhibitors in that class were Messrs. Jesse Barlow and Thos. McKee.

The show throughout was a success and one of which the Township should be proud.

Below we give the

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, NOV. 6.

NORTH HASTINGS.

A special telegram from Madoc this afternoon conveys the gratifying if not unexpected intelligence that the Hon. M. Bowell, Minister of Customs, was re-elected by acclamation. The event is significant as showing the general esteem in which the hon. gentleman is held by the great body of his constituents who, to a large extent, were prepared to support him, irrespective of party, to the credit of many leading Reformers be it said, and it also demonstrates that the few who favored the placing of an opposition candidate in the field, have had the wisdom to bow to the inevitable. Mr. Bowell has served his constituents faithfully in the past; he did splendid service for his party and for the country as a private member; and now that he occupies an important office in the Cabinet he is in a position to serve his constituency and the country with greater influence and more efficiency than before.

We congratulate the people of North Hastings on the result.

A Peculiar Idea of Fair Play.

Whilst the general election for the Dominion Parliament was in progress, the Globe almost daily berated Sir John A. Macdonald for his connection with the Pacific Scandal, holding that the Conservative leader should for ever be debarred from returning to power in consequence thereof. It was pointed out at the time by many Conservative journals, amongst others by the INTELLIGENCER, that even if all that the Grit organ charged against Sir John were true (which was in no particular admitted), he had paid the constitutional penalty for the offence of which a majority of the people of the country had, deceived by false representations, believed him had twice returned him again to Parliament. Therefore, it was logically and truthfully held by the journals supporting the Conservative leader that the Pacific Scandal was a dead issue, and that on the well-known maxim that a man cannot be punished twice for the same offence, it should not again be raked up. To this incontrovertible course of reasoning the Globe returned in reply that it held the question to be a living and vital one, and it continued its rantings and ravings with an increase of vigor and recklessness, evidently born of the belief that because of the protests of the Conservative press, its rehash of the stale cry was doing injury to the cause of its opponents and correspondingly assisting that of its own party.

How these unworthy appeals to the passions of the people were answered at the polls it is not now necessary to narrate. The result is a matter of history, and of such recent occurrence that no one can have forgotten it. Our purpose is rather to show how easily and how nonchalantly our Toronto contemporary can "jump Jim Crow" when circumstances render necessary the performance of that acrobatic feet, which can be learned from the following statement of facts: Recently the Colonial Trusts Corporation, a financial institution of London, England, failed under circumstances stated to be so disgraceful that it is reported the conduct of the managers of the concern is to form the subject of an investigation. This being the same institution through which the Hon. Adam Crooks, when Treasurer of the Province, sold $1,565,000 of bonds of various municipalities in Ontario, he being, at that time Solicitor to that institution, acting as a Board of Directors, in Toronto, assistant manager of the business in Canada (for which he received a salary of $500 per annum, in addition to his fees as Solicitor) and withal a stockholder at the time of the of the sale and for some time afterwards, the Mail saw fit to refer to the subject, which was certainly one of interest to the people of this country, as having an unfavorable effect upon Canadian credit in the London money market, on the principle that the character of the principal is affected by that of the agent. Upon this the Globe commented in a very indignant strain as follows:—

"In connection with the recent suspension of the Colonial Trusts Corporation, of London, the Toronto Mail has revived its disgraceful attack upon Mr. Crooks for the manner in which he disposed of the debentures representing the Municipal Loan Fund indebtedness. There is an especial baseness in thus renewing the slanders on Mr. Crooks' personal and political reputation. In the first place they were fully disposed of by the verdict of the electors at the polls so long since as January, 1875; in the next, since the transaction for which, if it imputes anything, the Mail places Mr. Crooks in the category of rogues and knaves, the same gentleman has been appointed with the unanimous approval of the whole people to the head of the Educational Department of Ontario, and his peculiar fitness for that office was acknowledged by the Mail itself."

This is strange doctrine to emanate from a journal which, no longer ago than the 12th of September last, said of the Pacific Scandal, which had been pronounced upon in January, 1874, "Instead of that incident being a 'dead issue' it is of the very essence of all that is now contended for." The only explanation of such contradictory utterances is that Sir John A. Macdonald is a Conservative, whilst Mr. Crooks is a Grit. Thus it is apparent that the Globe's idea is that because a gentleman is a Conservative his punishment should never cease, whilst a member of its own party should be acquitted after condemnation. For it is a fact well known to the Globe that Mr. Crooks was condemned by those who knew him best—his fellow citizens of Toronto—he having abandoned the Western division of the city in despair, only to meet a crushing defeat in its eastern section. Mr. Crooks only evaded the punishment decreed by the people of Toronto by securing his return for South Oxford, a constituency too one-sided in its political leavings to give anything like an impartial verdict.

We are gratified to observe, however, that the Globe has—under very strong pressure, it is true—gone back on its record, and accepted as correct in the case of Mr. Crooks a principle which it refused to adhere to when Sir John A. Macdonald's conduct was in question. At the same time we shall scan the future conduct of the new Grit servant, and if it should backslide, the INTELLIGENCER will not be slow to remind it, in a friendly manner, of the transgression.

The Government and the Tariff.

The Chatham Planet happily hits off the chagrin of the opponents of the National Policy, who clamor for an instant revision of the tariff in the hope that, to silence them, some better and ill considered action might possibly be taken. Our contemporary says:—"The certainty that the plan which is being pursued to get positive information on which to base the alterations in the tariff, will succeed, is so galling to the opponents of a national policy that they are nearly beside themselves with rage. That no finance minister could tell the exact requirement of each industry is evident, and there is no doubt that the best way to obtain the requisite data is by the appointment of a committee, such as has been selected by the Manufacturing and Industrial Association, each member of the committee representing his own branch of trade. By this arrangement all will have an opportunity of being heard, and the report having to be made by the whole committee will prevent any clashing of interests which might otherwise occur. The fact that no farmer is on the committee is being taken advantage of in an attempt to arouse the hostile feeling of agriculturists. For their information it may be stated that they have not been overlooked, and that their requirements will be represented by a gentleman in whom they have perfect confidence, and who has taken an active part in arousing them to a sense of the necessity of looking out for their interests more determinedly than before."

UNITED STATES ELECTIONS.—Incomplete returns of the November elections indicate that the Republicans have gained heavily [illegible]

CANCELLED.—The Government have issued a circular dated November 2nd, cancelling an Inland Revenue circular issued by the late Government on the 1st of October ult."

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.—The Citizen says:—"We understand that the Ottawa Government has decided to take the whole subject of the inspection of weights and measures into consideration at an early date."

U. S. IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.—The merchandise exports of the United States announced, in September last, to $57,924,808 in value, and imports to $37,399,541. The excess of exports was $20,525,267 in that month, against $15,508,399 in September of last year.

THE GRAFTON ACCIDENT.—A despatch from Grafton on the 5th says:—"At the request on the body of Miss Coulson, who was killed by being run over by a Grand Trunk Railway train last week, the jury returned a verdict that the deceased met with her death purely by accident when endeavoring to cross the track while the train was rapidly approaching."

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.—It has been announced that the Ontario Legislature will not meet until after the holidays. A similar course was pursued last year, when even a number of Grit Journals admitted that the Legislature should be called to meet for the despatch of business not later than the beginning of December. The excuse then was that the revision of the statutes had not been completed. What will it be this time.

METHODIST SABBATH SCHOOLS.—The Globe of the 6th inst., says:—"A meeting of the Sabbath School Board of the Methodist Church of Canada was held yesterday in the Richmond-street Church, Rev. Dr. Douglass, of Montreal, presiding. Rev. A. Andrews was elected secretary, and W. Kennedy treasurer. Arrangements were made for making grants to needy schools, for carrying on the work of examination and recommendation of library books, and for aiding in the improvement of the Sabbath School literature of the Church generally. Almost all the members were present."

CONVICTED OF MURDER.—In the Farrel murder trial at Quebec on the 5th, the jury returned a verdict of wilful murder. The prisoner, when asked what he had to say, replied in a vindictive speech the effect of which was, that if his enemy, as he called his victim, had got up the fence after passing, he would yet have been alive, and he the prisoner a free man. Judge Monk in a most impressive charge sentenced Farrel to death by hanging, on the 10th of January. The prisoner was unmoved, but his wife's sobs disturbed the otherwise quiet of the court.

THE JACQUES CARTIER ELECTION FRAUDS.—A Montreal despatch of the 5th says:—"In the ballot-stuffing case Mr. St. Pierre concluded his address this morning, and Mr. Christin followed in his own defence. This afternoon Mr. W. H. Kerr, Q. C., addressed the jury on behalf of the prosecution. He reviewed the evidence, holding that it was clearly proved that a fraud had been committed. Hon. A. Chapleau also addressed the jury on the same side."

WHAT THE WORLD'S CHAMPION WILL DO.—The Melbourne Times of a late date says:—"Trickett's wonderful rowing has created a great impression on his many supporters, and a subscription list has already been opened and £8,000 subscribed to match Trickett to row the best oarsman in the United States, England or Canada. Mr. Punch, Trickett's chief backer, authorizes us to state that Trickett will row Courtney, the United States champion, Higgins, the champion of England, or Hanlan, the champion of Canada, a single scull race in the best and best boats a distance of three, four, or five miles, for £1,000 or £2,000 a side. Trickett will allow either of the above oarsmen expenses to row on the Paramatta River, or if the backers of Higgins, Hanlan and Courtney will arrange a race for £2,000 a side, or not less than £1,000 a side, and the championship of the world, he will take reasonable expenses and row them on neutral waters in their respective countries. Trickett agrees to row three, four, or five months after signing articles."

THE QUEBEC CABINET.—A despatch from Quebec on the 5th says:—"Much speculation is indulged in respecting the probably course to be adopted by the Local Government in consequence of Mr. Bachand's death. Many friends of the party desire to see Mr. Irvine in the Cabinet, but that gentleman is believed to prefer at present to remain a private member. Mr. Shehyn's name is freely mentioned in connection with the treasurership, and again many of Mr. Joly's supporters desire a coalition, and would like to see the Hon. D. A. Ross retire, and Messrs. Wurtele and Lynch brought into the Cabinet. Mr. Joly is declared to be adverse to any coalition, however, and appears to believe that the economic measures of his Government should secure for it a working majority next session in the House. Meanwhile Mr. Watts, M.P.P., arrived here this morning, and it is rumored that he was telegraphed for yesterday to come to Quebec."

AN AWFUL VOYAGE.—The Oswego Palladium says:—"A Henderson despatch says that Saturday night a yawl having the name Julia on the stern came ashore near the Stony Point light-house, having the dead body of a sailor lashed to one of the thwarts. Captain Bartley, of the schooner Grant, states that the boat belongs to the schooner Julia of Kingston, and the man's name was Dulmage, who lived at South Bay Point. Dulmage took the yawl and rowed over to the Olivia. About 11 p. m. he started to row back in the face of a violent gale which sprung up after he had left the Julia. The poor fellow lost an oar, and the boat became unmanageable, and was swept down the lake. He was carried past [illegible] but he could not reach it. The crew of the Ariadne, also lying there at anchor, lowered the yawl to attempt to rescue Dulmage, but the boat filled with water, and they had to give it up. It appears that Dulmage then lashed himself to the thwarts and probably died from exposure and exhaustion before his boat went ashore. The terrors of such a voyage can only be pictured by the imagination."

Mount Vesuvius in Flames.

A VIVID DESCRIPTION OF THE SCENE BY A RECENT EXPLORER.

A visitor, who ascended Mount Vesuvius during an eruption in September last, has described the scene in a letter to the Pall Mall Budget in the following manner:—"It is a weary climb up, though, through the loose ashes, and one is tempted to halt and admire the view pretty often before reaching the top. When we had reached it we could see nothing for the smoke and mist that filled the big crater, while, far beneath us, we could hear the lava seething and frequent explosions from the new cone. We were advised at starting not to descend into the crater; but our guide assured us we could quite safely do it, so down we scrambled on to the lava. The floor of the crater has risen in the last few weeks from a considerable depth to within about 50 feet of a gap in the side of the crater wall, looking toward the left-hand cone of Vesuvius; and it is still rising. As we stood on the comparatively cool blocks of lava, the fresh, red-hot stream was slowly flowing from cracks around us, moving on in a snake-like, fascinating way, and breaking out in a fresh place as soon as the flow stopped elsewhere; every crack showed the lava red hot a foot or so beneath us, but the guides ran about on it and we followed them as if we were on the level Campagna. At the upper end of the old crater-that is, just underneath the highest point of the old cone—is the new cone, which has risen in the last week or so; a baby cone, about fifty feet in height, and perhaps 100 yards in circumference at the base, but a very noisy and fiery cone, sending out continual puffs of smoke rosy with the flames which frequently rise above its summit, and hurling into the air to a height of 100 feet or so lumps of red-hot stone and lava, which, falling down on to its sides, make them rise higher every day. The wind fortunately blew the smoke away from us, or otherwise we should have been almost, if not quite suffocated where we stood, about thirty yards from the base of the cone; and we were able to enjoy the wonderful sight, which, as a man who followed us down said, one could stay all day to look at. Accompanying the bursts of flame were hollow reports—not loud as I had expected, but smothered, stifled explosions—and as I climbed up the side of the crater, so as to be able to look more into the mouth of the new cone, I could see through the smoke a struggling confusion of flame, which found vent in the ejection of the burning liquid. The crater walls are brilliant with yellow and orange colored sulphur mixed with basalt and red lava and black scoria, forming a bright contrast to the leaden colored lava which forms the floor and the black cone with its crown of smoke. The guide told us the floor had risen an extraordinary number of feet; but, judging from what we saw of lava flowing, it would take a month probably to reach the gap through which its flow seems indicated, unless it should burst out anywhere on the side of the mountain."

His Probable Appointment as Viceroy of India.

(Special by Cable to the Mail.)

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Owing to the state of affairs in India and the criticism of the present administration there by Lord Lawrence, Sir Henry Havelock and others, there is a good deal of talk of Lord Lytton's recall. Should the talk take a practical turn, and his lordship be summoned back to England, it is considered more that probable that he will be succeeded by the Earl of Dufferin, whose name is freely mentioned in connection with the Viceroyship.

MANITOBA.

THAT "STOLEN" COAT—A MOOSE SHOT—PROPOSED BRIDGE OVER THE RED RIVER—LOCAL POLITICS.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 5.—The counsel for the defendant in the case of Newton v. Lieutenant-Governor Cauchon has applied for leave to enter a non-suit, and failing success in that will apply for a new trial.

A moose weighing 750 pounds was shot at Plympton. It was exhibited on Winnipeg market to-day.

A mass meeting will be held on Friday, relative to memorializing the Dominion Government in reference to a bridge over the Red River at Winnipeg.

Attorney General Walker will run for St. James' Parish. He will probably have several opponents.

Senator Girard will be opposed by Lariviere in St. Boniface.

Decline of British Trade.

There is no symptom of improvement yet in English trade. According to the returns for the first three quarters of the year, British exports have in quantity and value declined considerably below the amounts of the same period last year, which itself was worse than the one preceding. In fact, there has been a singularly steady falling off during the four consecutive years beginning with 1874, when the periods of prosperity which started with the close of the Franco-German war may be said to have culminated. Nor can it be said that this reduction in quantity is accompanied by any increase of profit, for, on the contrary, the almost universal testimony is conclusive on the point that never in living memory was the ratio of profit to value lower than it is now. It would be highly satisfactory if we could derive from the least evidence that things were likely to change soon for the better; but it is really impossible to do so. In no single respect have things as yet improved. Not a foreign tariff has been modified by their good friends and allies so as to admit more of British manufactures. Foreign manufactures are extending and expanding in both hemispheres, while the British cannot hold their ground even at home.

Most of us fritter away a good deal of time. We are wasteful of the minutes when we are wasteful of nothing else. Nothing is easier than to fritter away time in matters of no use to ourselves or to anyone else.

City and Vicinity.

SNOW.—There was a light fall of snow this morning, with a good prospect of more.

COUNTY COUNCIL.—The next session of the County Council will commence at 2 p. m. on Tuesday next. The sittings in question will be the last of the year.

PASSENGER TRAFFIC.—Travel over the G. T. R. is now quite brisk, all the trains arriving and departing from the depot here being very largely patronized.

THE HOUNDS.—Owing to the snow to-day the meet had to be postponed. It will take place on Friday at 1:30 p. m. at Mr. D. R. Leavens,' Kingston Road.

COURT OF REVISION.—A sitting of this Court, to hear appeals from Bleecker Ward and to finish up the business in Foster and Samson Wards, will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Police Court.

OYSTERS.—In consequence of a strike amongst the oyster shuckers at Baltimore, whence the local supply is principally derived, oysters have been scarce in town for several days, and dealers' orders could not be filled.

YACHTING.—Nearly all the yachts in the harbor have been stripped and are now ready to go into winter quarters. The Wideawake was hauled out on the island yesterday and the Katie Gray was to be placed alongside her to-day.

SUCCESSFUL.—The O. Y. B., and O. T. B. Assembly last night was a success. There was a considerable attendance, and dancing was kept up until about 4 o'clock this morning. Supper was furnished by Mr. Mackie at the Dominion House.

WRECKERS.—There is a powerful wrecking tug at Kingston; the Metamora is lying at Sarnia; the Prince Alfred a Windsor; the Jessie at Malden; the Parker at Grand River; and powerful tugs ar't always to be had at Port Dalhousie and ine Toronto harbor.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH.—After hearing some additional evidence as to the drowning of Wm. Seeds, of Mill Point, formerly mate of the schooner Sybella, at Oswego recently, the coroner's jury returned a verdict of "Accidental death, whilst under the influence of liquor."

CATTLE NOTE.—The trade in cattle must now be very brisk, as yesterday no less than sixty-one cars of cattle passed the G. T. R. depot here destined eastwards. The greater part of the above are to be shipped to Europe, whilst the remainder go to the eastern (American) market.

FOR MADOC.—A special train of four cars, with about 200 passengers bound for Madoc to witness the proceedings at the nomination, left the Grand Trunk station here at 9 o'clock this morning. Large accessions to the party were to be made at Stirling and at Luke's, which were the only stopping places.

PRISONERS TOO COMFORTABLE.—In addressing the Grand Jury at Guelph, Judge Armour stated that he thought humanitarianism had gone mad, when it decreed that prisoners in gaols should be better cared for than many honest men could provide for their families. It is not beds of ease with comfortable quarters that prisoners should be indulged in.

THE VICEREGAL RECEPTION.—It is understood that the "Black Prince," of which the Duke of Edinburgh is commander, will come out several days before the "Sarmatian," and the Duke will meet the Viceregal party at Halifax. It will probably be the first week in December before they reach Ottawa. No troops will be sent out from England, but the Lieutenant-General has recommended the Government to place a permanent guard at Rideau Hall.

A BAD LOT.—John Smith, of Mill Point, his wife and family, are a bad lot. They came here last spring in a terribly dirty condition, and after inhabiting the cells for some nights they were shipped off to their place of abode. The family consisted at that time of the father, mother and two children, one of 3 and the other of 5 years of age. They returned to this city last night, and again sought shelter in the cells, the family having been increased during the interval by an infant which is now four months old. During the summer they camped out, so they say, their condition is now worse than before, and they now want to go to gaol. Some place of refuge ought to be provided for such people.

PERSONAL.—The London Free Press says:—"We learn with great regret that the Rev. F. H. Sanderson, pastor of the Methodist Church in New Brighton, is about to be removed to Guelph, to become assistant to the President of the London Conference, Rev. G. B. Ryckman, M. A., who is stationed in that growing town. This announcement will be received with universal regret by all who have listened to his eloquent ministrations in the different churches of the city, and especially by his own people, by whom he is much beloved. This popular young divine was last year about to attend Victoria University, where he had formerly been, but a largely-signed requisition having been sent in to the authorities of the Conference asking that he might assume the incumbency of New Brighton Methodist Church, changed his plans, and he became the pastor. Under his earnest ministry and energetic pastoral efforts the congregation, which was woefully run down, has been steadily increasing, to such an extent that it was lately deemed necessary to enlarge the rather small edifice. This was done at a cost of about $600, Mr. Sanderson inspiring and being the principal mover in the venture, and by indefatigable personal canvass securing nearly the whole of that amount, what was lacking being made up at the re-opening services."

DEATH OF MR. GEORGE C. HOLTON.—We announce with a regret which will be universally shared in this community, the death of Mr. George C. Holton, Collector of Inland Revenue for the Belleville District, which sad event ocurred at about 4 o'clock this morning. Mr. Holton, who was the eldest son of E. W. Holton, Esq., of this city, was a native of Belleville, and was but 36 years of age. He was appointed to the position which he lately held only three years ago, and proved himself to be a zealous, painstaking and efficient officer. Personally he was highly esteemed for his many excellent qualities of head and heart, by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. Two weeks ago he was seized with what proved to be his fatal illness—an attack of typhoid fever—and it was thought on Monday was progressing favorably; but a change took place on Tuesday, and death resulted as above stated. The sympathy of the whole public will be extended to the widow and children,—two of whom are at this time prostrated by the disease from which their father died. The funeral is to take place at 3 p. m., to-morrow.

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 5.—The indications are that all the Democratic Congressmen are elected.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—The Senate, as far as reported, gives all but three Senators to the Republicans; seven out of 12 Counties of the State give 81 Republican representatives, 10 Democrats, 5 Butler, and 2 non-committal.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Tammany elects 10 out of 21 Assembly-men, and only 2 out of six Aldermen at large.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 5.—In this district, Willis is re-elected over Kearney, democrat, and Scott, republican, by a small majority. In all the other Kentucky districts the Democrats will be returned unless in the eighth, where the result is doubtful.

HARTFORD, Ct., Nov. 6.—The Legislature will be Republican by about 35 majority on the joint ballot.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 6.—The Legislature will certainly be Republican in both houses.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Talbot's majority over Bulter will be over 25,000.

TOPEKA, Ks., Nov. 5.—Ryan and Anderson, the Republicans for Congress, were elected, and probably Haskell. No estimate of the Republican majority in the State can yet be made.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—The vote indicates a Republican majority in the State of 21,000.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—It is stated that the steamship Denmark, seized for smuggling, is to be released on the payment of $10,000 fine.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The Herald's Norfolk special reports that a serious fight between the whites and blacks occured at Kempsville yesterday at the polls. Col. Griggs is badly wounded and one negro reported killed. The negroes were the aggressors.

The Tribune's Virginia City, Nev., special report indications that the Republican have carried the State Legislature and the Democrats the Governorship.

The Tribune says the continuation of gains thus far reported in the State will make Danforth's majority from 15,000 to 20,000. In the next U.S. Senate, supposing the legislature of Nevada Democratic, the relative strength of the two parties will be Republicans 32, Democrats 41, Independent 1.

The Times says the State Assembly will consist of 99 Republicans, 28 Democrats and 1 Greenbacker.

The World says the Greenback vote has damaged all Democratic candidates who catered to that element.

The Tribune says editorially: On the whole the judgment of the northern people is that the destinies of the country are still safest in the hands of the party that freed the slaves, preserved the Union, and stands now the bulwark of national honor and champion of national finance. For the first time since the inauguration of President Hayes there is good reason to trust that he may have a Republican successor.

The Herald says Conkling has scored another victory. Last winter he made himself the undoubted master of the Republican party, and yesterday's election makes him master of New York. He will go the Senate for another six years, but if he serve out his term as master of the Republican party he may be proved in the convention of 1880—"a bigger man than old Grant."

SCHOOL ACCOMMODATION IN LONDON.—According to returns recently made, the London, (England) School Board shews no signs of backwardness in carrying on the work of education in the metropolis. The number of schools now under its control is 2,780 affording accomodation for 192,000 children. During the last year there was an addition of 36 schools, making 2,800 places for pupils. The whole number of children in London, for whom school room is required is reckoned at 614,000. Of these voluntary schools provide for 278,000, and Board schools for 186,000. When the works now in process are completed, the Board will be able to accomodate 240,000 more young people. But, as may be seen, there will still be more than 100,000 still unprovided for, and this number is, of course, daily increasing. Just think of it—nearly two-thirds of a million school-children within the limits of one city.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—Later returns from the interior show large Republican gains, indicating that Hoyt's majority reaches 30,000. The Republicans also claim to have gained 2 Congressmen, and increased their majority in the Legislature.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The snow storm at Vienna on Sunday was very heavy; all the railway and telegraph lines were interrupted. The snow is several feet deep. The storm extended throughout Austria.

A Berlin correspondent says that English and Danish influence is said to be working to induce the Duke of Cumberland to recognize the situation in Hanover, and accept Guelph money.

German papers announce the foundation of a free-trade league, to combat the spread of protectionist tendencies.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—The Evenment says a duel will probably take place between Paul de Cassagnac and Marion, members of the Chambers of Deputies, in consequence of a dispute in the chamber yesterday.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 6.—The Democratic state ticket received an average plurality of 2,700.

BROOKLYN, Nov. 6—On the city ticket the vote for some officers was so close that the question will have to be decided by the courts. Complete returns give Sheriff Worth's majority Republican, 2,300.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Arrived the steamships Nevada from Liverpool, the State of Virginia from Glasgow, the Algeria from Liverpool and the Pommerania from Hamburg.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—A Norwegian whaler from the Arctic Ocean reports that off Nova Zembla, he was robbed by two piratical Russian schooners.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—In the Congressional districts throughout the State probabilities are that the delegation will stand as now, 17 Republicans to 10 Democrats.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—The returns from 38 towns and precincts in Illinois give the following totals in the state: Treasurer Smith, Republican, 52,298, Cronkyte, Democrat, 32,502, Bates, Greenbacker, 14,737.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Nov. 6.—The returns coming in from all parts of the state swell the Democratic majority.

THE CHALLENGE SALE.

The OAK HALL Clothing House, 350 Front St., Belleville

IS determined to rule the Clothing Trade in Belleville. We are in shape to do it, for we buy every dollar's worth of Goods for Cash, and buy each and every line of Goods where they can be got the cheapest. Every Merchant in Belleville advertises to sell the cheapest goods in his line—and for some time back one of our contemporaries has been trying to throw down the gauntlet to crush the smaller brethren in the trade, on whose behalf we take it up, and raise the old war-cry, "Come on, MacDuff." Owing to our largely increased trade we purchased a mammoth Fall Stock. We have in fact as much and more Ready-made Clothing as all the other Clothing houses put together,—all new this Fall, and selected with great care by one of the best buyers in Ontario.

We have Men's heavy Grey Overcoats for $4.00. Do. Working Pants for $1.25. Men's Worsted Diagonal Pants and Vests, $4.00.

In fact the house is crowded with new goods. Call and see for yourselves, and see prices in other Stores before calling. We don't defy competition, but we undersell it.

Circular to the Public.

We have much pleasure in thanking the citizens of Belleville and adjoining Counties, for the large and satisfactory trade we have so far done this season.

Up to this date our Cash sales have exceeded those of any previous season, and we are aiming to make this the largest Fall and Winter trade yet done by us.

To do this, we have imported direct from the leading Manufacturers and Warehouses of Great Britain, an unusually large, varied, and attractive Stock of new Dry Goods, all of which have been personally selected by a member of our Firm, who has had a long experience in catering to the tastes and requirements of the people of this section of the country, and also from having so frequently visited the Home markets, has acquired a thorough knowledge of the best places and houses to purchase the different lines of Dry Goods from. Every intelligent person can easily understand that in this particular we have a decided advantage over others, who send their orders to Commission houses, and allow these houses to do their entire buying.

Notwithstanding the statements of an opposition House to the contrary, we beg to state and challenge successful contradiction, that the value of our Importations Direct from the European markets in original packages—all of which were selected by our own buyer, and of which we are prepared to produce the original invoices—largely exceed those of any other Dry Goods house in the City of Belleville.

To the general public, the most important and interesting part of what we have to say is, that we are prepared to furnish them with a large portion of their Fall and Winter Dry Goods at prices whereby they can save from ten to twenty five cents on every dollar's worth, by buying them at our Warehouse. To some this may appear impossible, but to those who doubt the truth of our statements, we say, Compare the prices and qualities of our goods with those sold by other Stores. It is not necessary to buy, should they not prove equal to what we advertise them.

We are now selling a large lot of new Dress Goods at 12½, 15, 20, and 25c. per yard, which are admitted by all to be the cheapest lot of Dress Goods ever offered in this City. And although our sales of Dress Goods this season have already been very large, we are still able to show an immense variety of all the leading colors and materials which have been produced this season.

In addition to the above, the following lines are particularly worthy the attention of parties wanting first class value in these goods:

Black Silks, Silk Velvets, Velveteens, Crapes, Black and Colored Cashmeres, Kid Gloves, Jackets and Mantles, Corsets, Table Linens, Table Napkins and Towels, Scarlet and White Flannels, Wincies, and all kinds of Millinery Goods.

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside ; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, and find a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An address of each of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement and enlargement on the last. The map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to cement more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURG, in the Directory, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our mechanics, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz. : One page, $10.00 ; half-page, $6.00 ; quarter page, $4.00. The same rule will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most unbiassed efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

She Couldn't Wait.

Yesterday noon a commotion was observed in a farmer's waggon on John Street, and a citizen advanced and found that the farmer and his wife were having a regular old fashioned domestic fight in the bottom of the waggon, while the horses were eating the grass which grew around the telegraph pole.

"Here—what's to pay !" shouted the citizen as he climbed up the wheel.

"Fightin !" gasped the woman whose head was half buried in the straw.

The farmer made no reply. His head was under the seat, and a leg over waggon box, and he was clawing like a man whose lungs wanted more air.

"I should think you'd wait till you got outside the city to engage in such disgraceful conduct,' continued the citzen.

"I know we orter," said the woman as she sat up, 'but when I found six plugs of tobacco, a new dime novel and a pack of kerds in his hind pocket and remembered how I had waited six months for a kaliker dress, I riz up and tackled him on the spot ! I couldn't wait a minute then mister, but now if you'll check up that nigh hoss, I'll drive along and renew the combat beyond the toll gate."

The citizen complied, and she shook the lines and shouted, 'G'lang.'

Wit and Humor.

A sceptic, who was badgering a simple-minded old man about a miracle and Balaam's ass, finally said : "How is it possible for an ass to talk like a man ? "Well," replied the honest old believer, with meaning emphasis, "I don't see why it isn't as easy for an ass to talk like a man, as it is for a man to talk like an ass."

"Our daughter never dances out of her own set," said a proud dame at one of those non-descript entertainments got up at a certain watering-place. "Is it a blue set or a pink set ?" some one asked, and the good lady colored up and could make no reply. It turned out that this exclusive person was the worthy mate of a dealer in modern china.

It is not good for a man to be alone, under any circumstances ; but when he falls in a ten-foot cellar, on his way home on a dark night, he feels that the companionship of even a step-ladder would add wonderfully to the comfort of his surroundings.

"Got any cow-bells ?" "Yes, step this way." "These are too small. Haven't you any larger ?" "No, sir. The large ones are sold." Instinct started off, and got as far as the door, when the clerk called after him : "Look here, stranger, take one of these small bells for your cow, and you won't have half the trouble in finding her : for when you hear the bell you will always know she can't be far off." The farmer bought the bell.

"Who is your pastor, my dear ?" asked a good old lady from the country, addressing her daughter, who has been living in the city for a year or so. "Really, mother, I never saw him. He was alway on a vacation last Summer, and now he has started on his spring tour for the winter. I may get acquainted with him next Spring."

They tell a story of ex-Chief Baron Pollock, that one who wished the old Judge to resign waited on him, and hinted it, suggesting it for his own sake entirely with a view to the prolongation of his own valued life, etc. The old man arose and said, with his grim, dry gravity : "Will you dance with me ?" The guest stood aghast as the Lord chief baron, in his grandeur, put himself particularly upon his legs, began to caper about with a certain youthful vivacity. Seeing his visitor standing surprised, he capered up to him and said : "Now, if you won't dance with me, will you box with me ?" And with that he squared up to him, and, half in jest, half in earnest, fairly boxed him out of the room. The old chief baron had no more visitors anxiously inquiring after his health and suggesting his retirement.

On Sunday week last, the deacon of a North London place of worship gravely announced, from the pulpit, a prayer meeting on Wednesday evening at seven o'clock, hich will last for six months."

KEEPING APPLES.—Apples should not be put in barrels for winter keeping until cold. They should be packed in clean new barrels, and stored in some shed or covered with boards, exposed to the atmosphere for several weeks after picking, then remove to the cellar, keeping away from the small of stables, and allowed to remain there as long as possible and not be frozen. We throw stalks or straw over the barrels, and often defer placing them in the cellar until late in December. The fruit-cellar should be darkened and kept as cool as possible and not freeze. Place the barrels on their sides, with strips of wood between them and the cellar bottom, and do not open or move until wanted for use. If the cellar is free from the scent of vegetables, when the barrels are opened a rich and tempting perfume will arise. Most cellars are too warm for the storing of fruit.—N. Y. Independent.

CURIOSITIES OF GRAFTING.—In 1866 Mr. Carillet, of Vincennes, France, took two young pear trees, each of which was worked on the quince stock, and one of these, the Beurre d'Aremberg, was made to serve as the stock, while the other, the Beurre de Charneu, was grafted upon it in an inverted position, having its roots fully exposed to the air. The operation was performed in April, and during the summer the stock grew vigorously and bore two fruits, while the scion threw out buds and shoots from the quince stock. To add to the complexity of the experiment, M. Carillet grafted four pear scions on the principal roots of the quince, and two of these were trained. The sap thus passed from the roots through the Beurre d'Aremberg, thirdly through the inverted Beurre de Charneu, then through the quince again, and finally into the two varieties of pears. —London Garden.

WORMS IN FLOWER POTS.—A correspondent of The London Gardeners' Chronicle says that grated horse chestnuts mixed with ten times their bulk of earth will expel worms from the soil in pots. I have tried the experiment lately with perfect success on about a dozen pots, large and small. The effects is surprising, and I may say pleasing. The worms begin to rush out almost immediately, the small and more weak ones die, and in a fainting condition, if I may so term it. If left in a saucer with the liquid the worms die outright in a short time. I trust, however, the plants will not suffer by it in any way.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—" By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemist, London, Eng." d&w

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.
BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Death is who can."

It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer.

It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets.

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your prejudice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge," of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price, 25 cents per Bottle.

The Trade supplied through the Wholesale Drug and Patent Medicine Houses of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London.

SOLD BY ALL ENTERPRISING DRUGGISTS.

Two spurious books, one entitled, "The Achievements of Stanley in Africa," and the other "The Complete Explorations and Adventures of Stanley" have been advertised, they are a rehash of Livingstone and other old books of African travel and of Stanley's letters. The first is the Original spurious book published in Philadelphia, written by T. J. Headley. The second is an inferior copy of the first. Both have mostly old illustrations. The Rev. Wm. Impey, who has been for the best part of a generation a Methodist missionary in the Cape Colony, has been compelled to leave the Wesleyan ministry in consequence of his inability to preach the physical ideas of hell taught by John Wesley. It is understood that Sir Bartle Frere intends to appoint Mr. Impey to a native magistracy on the Cape frontier.

A shocking tragedy is reported from Bristol. A laborer having been deserted by his wife, was left with two children, of whom he was passionately fond. After buying new clothes for them, he began to brood over his desertion, and having taken to drinking, he became intoxicated, and cut the throats of his children; he also wounded himself terribly in an attempt to commit suicide.

The Rev. R. W. Rowson, vicar of Aylesby and curate of Riby, Lincolnshire, was brought up recently on a charge of stealing an overcoat from an eating-house. He said he had purchased the coat from a stranger in the street for five shillings, but it was proved that he pawned the coat, and a pair of gloves that had been in one of the pockets were found upon him. He was sentenced to three months' imprisonment with hard labor.

The Paris Exhibition correspondent of the Times, writing on the part played by Canada at the French show, notices at some length Mr. Keefer's handbook, and says, after making quotations: "No one can read this admirable 'Handbook' and examine its valuable maps without being impressed with the conviction that the Dominion has a great future before it. Canada possesses the largest unconceded agricultural region in North America, the future home of a hardy northern race, with only one frontier to guard, and that held by a people only foreign in their political institutions."

A Brighton gentleman, who wrote recently to Mr. Gladstone on the subject of spiritualism, has received the following reply:—"London, October 16.—I do not share or approve the temper of simple contempt with which so many view the phenomena. It is a question, in the first instance, of evidence; in the second, how to explain, as far as we can, such facts as may have been established. My own immediate duties prevent my active intervention; and I remain in what may be called contented reserve, without any fear that imposture will rule or that truth can be mischievous.—Yours faithfully, W. E. Gladstone."

On the 13th ult. the machine room of the Times was lighted by Rapieff's electric light. The inventor claims that by this method an absolutely fixed point of light is secured. He also subdivides the current, and obtains a continued steady supply of pure light, irrespective of the necessary changing of the carbon, or the accidental interruption of the current. The proprietary of the Times have just constructed a fine new steam engine to work Mr. Rapieff's system, and the lighting up the large machine room was considered by those who saw it, to show that the object mentioned had been on the whole, accomplished in a highly scientific and satisfactory manner.

On the 9th ult., Mr. Wyllie, champion draught player of the world, arrived in Tranent, and at three o'clock began to display his skill over the "checker board." Out of somewhere about 120 games played the "Herd Laddie" drew five and won all the rest.

A somewhat rare occurrence was recently witnessed by the public road near Lemel Hill, Coldstream. Just as a man was passing along the road a weasel came out of the hedge-root and ran across the road. The man was in the act of throwing something at it, when it commenced to cry in a peculiar manner, and in a few moments no fewer than seventeen other weasels came to its rescue.

The case of the Rev. James Spence, minister of thee Ladhope Free Church, Galashiels, is so far as his connection with the failure of the City of Glasgow Bank, a singular one. He had resigned his charge in consequence of the ill health of his wife. Mrs. Spence left Galashiels for Florence about a fortnight ago, and to leave the congregation open for the choice of another minister, matters were hastened, and it was arranged that Mr. Spence should preach his farewell sermon on the 6th ult., whilst the roup of the household furniture was advertised for and took place on Wednesday, the day on which the announcement of the bank failure was made. The story of the failure was a terrible blow to Mr. Spence. Not only were his shares in the bank gone, but his connection with Ladhope having been lost, he was left without any resource. The sale of the furniture took place on Wednesday, and Friday had been fixed for a meeting of the congregation, at which a presentation of silver plate and a purse of gold was to have been made as a parting gift. There was a very large meeting. The position of their late minister was considered, and it was unanimously and warmly resolved to ask Mr. Spence to withdraw his resignation and agree to continue his ministry. He was sent for, and with a full heart accepted the continued affection and confidence of his people. This decision was ratified by the Presbytery at a pro re nata meeting.

At Cork an order had been issued by the military authorities suspending all furloughs and leave of absence, and calling in all absent officers and men.

On the 6th ult. Michael Griffin, a farmer, was murdered near Clonakilty, it is supposed, by Whiteboy Bands, who was formerly in a lunatic asylum.

A party riot took place in Gilford on the 5th ult. A Roman Catholic named M'Veigh was shot. The local police were powerless to quell the disturbance.

The commander-in-chief has confirmed the sentence of the Dublin Court-Martial acquitting Lieutenant Lambert on the charge brought against him for assaulting Lieutenant Chapman at the Ayr Barracks.

Mr. Robert Harkness, Professor of Natural history in the Queen's College, Cork, dropped dead while walking in the Imperial Hotel, Dublin, on the 5th ult. Medical opinion points to the disease of the heart as the cause.

The death of Cardinal Cullen occurred in Dublin on the 24th ult. after a few hours illness. Very general sorrow was expressed and his funeral, which took place in Dublin on the 27th ult. was witnessed by 60,000 people, while 10,000 took part in the ceremonies and procession. Dr. McCabe, coadjutor Bishop of Dublin, is likely to succeed to the the bishopric vacated by the death Cardinal Cullen.

In this Present Age, when the life-battle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the strongest the tug and stress of it tell so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for and keeping up of our reserve stock of mental and physical stamina by the use of such a nerve tonic and vitalizing agent as RONTSON'S PHOSPHITES AND EXTRACT OF COD LIVER OIL WITH LACTO-PHOSPATE OF LIME! BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, NOV. 7.

The United States Election.

On Tuesday, 5th inst., elections took place in thirty-one States of the American Union. These elections were looked forward to with great interest and expectancy, as certain to determine the political complexion of the next Congress; and as the Republicans had, in the September and October elections, though redeeming Ohio, lost very largely in Maine and other States, it was expected that the Democrats would secure a large majority in the House of Representatives, two hundred and forty-five members of which were to be chosen. The platform of the Republican party was "hard money" and the resumption of specie payments, and a continuance of the protective tariff as it stands, whilst the Democrats in many cases coalesced with the Greenbackers, favoring inflation--that is, an unlimited issue of irredeemable paper currency--at the same time having in view an alteration of the tariff in the direction of free trade.

The result has been, we are happy to say, an overwhelming verdict by the people in favor of honest money. The expected Democratic mojority has been turned into a woeful minority, and the Republicans will be strong enough to carry out, during the next two years, their policy of placing the currency of the country on a gold basis. The extent of the Republican victory may be judged from the fact that they have carried all the great States, including New York, the commercial capital itself, stronghold of Democracy as it is, having declared in favor of an anti-Tammany ticket by a majority of upwards of 20,000.

The following States, so far as heard from, have been carried by the Republicans: New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Minnesota, Kansas, Nevada, New Hampshire, and Rhode Island. The Democrats have majorities in Tennessee, Florida, Arkansas, Louisana, Maryland, Texas, North Carolina, Kentucky, Virginia, Delaware, Missouri and South Carolina. Thus at the time of writing twenty-five States have been heard from, of which thirteen have gone Republican and twelve Democratic; but so great is the Republican preponderance in the larger States, that should all yet to hear from favor the Democrats, the former will still have a large majority in Congress. It is somewhat remarkable that the Democrats have carried all the Southern States, whilst all those of the North and West have gone against them. Thus it is the "solid South" against the solid North and West. The task of the coming Congress will be a difficult one, but we look with confidence to see it accomplished speedily and successfully, and they will have the sympathy of the people of Canada in their labors.

CONTESTED ELECTIONS.--Nov. 6 was the last day allowed by law for fyling petitions in cases of contested Dominion elections in the Province of Quebec. The following is a complete list of the elections contested in Quebec district: Quebec County, Levis, Kamouraska, Bellechasse, Arthabaska and Montmorenci.

SEIZURES FOR DEBT.—The Toronto Mail says:—"Yesterday, Mr. Edward Gegg, bailiff, seized the schooner Annie Mulvey by orders of persons resident at Belleville, who have a claim upon her of $14,000. During the week the propeller Oswego Belle was seized by direction of the Merchants' Bank, who claim $8,000 from her owners."

LUMBERING.—An Ottawa paper says: —"A Michigan lumberman is in Ottawa hiring men to work in the shanties in that State. During the season nearly 1,000 raftsmen have left the city for other lumbering districts, and the Ottawa lumbermen are now experiencing great difficulty in getting good men. This will probably have the effect of curtailing in a measure this year's operations. It will have an excellent effect on the market, as already there is an over-production."

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENTS.—The London papers have arranged that the following gentlemen shall accompany the Marquis and Marchioness of Lorne to Canada:—Mr. Prior, special artist for the Illustrated London News, who sailed by the "Peruvian" on the 24th October; Mr. Lucy, on behalf of the Daily News, who sailed last Thursday; Mr. Gay, special correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, who will sail on Thursday next; Mr. Sydney Hall, special artist for the Graphic, who will be included in the suite of the Marquis, and will sail with them on the 14th instant; and Mr. John Osber, on behalf of the Standard. Who the Times' correspondent will be has not yet been determined.

NORTH HASTINGS ELECTION.

Hon. Mr. Bowell Returned by Acclamation.

THE TRIP TO MADOC—SCENES AND INCIDENTS ALONG THE WAY—THE DEMONSTRATION, &C., &C., &C.

A chilly and dreary morning—a damp and generally uncomfortable atmosphere—an unpleasant day under foot—were the meteorological characteristics which presented themselves before those who assembled at the Grand Trunk depot on Wednesday morning, for the purpose of attending the nomination at Madoc. Snow began falling at an early hour in the morning, and the flakes continued to descend until noon, rendering it generally disagreeable for travellers, and all who had occasion to be abroad.

It was announced that a train for the north would leave the Belleville depot at 9 o'clock, and at that hour a goodly number had assembled thereat. Prominent amongst the party we noticed: Senator Read, Thomas Wills, Esq., M.P.P., Aldermen McIninch, Falkiner, W. J. Diamond, Price, Sherwood, Farley, Patterson, O. Weese Deputy Reeve Thurlow, Chief McKinnon, R. Newbery, Esq., City Clerk, J. G. Robinson, Hugh Walker, E. B. Fraleck, Col. Vandervoort, Dr. Stewart, John Brenton, Sheriff Taylor, Wm. Johnson Job Lingham, Geo. H. Pope, Robert N. Davies, Charles Wilkins, Jos. P. Reeves, Wm. Wensley, Dr James, T. H. B. Purdy, W. C. Nunn, Neil McArthur and a large number of other prominent citizens. The party numbered in the vicinity of 150, the greater part of course being Conservatives, but yet not a few members of the Reform party—personal friends of Mr. Bowell—lent their presence to honor the occasion. The train was in charge of Conductor David Hay, of the Grand Trunk Railway, and Messrs. Geo. H. Pope and W.C. Nunn actde as assistants. The driver was Sidney Stevens, and Mr. Fauquier, agent for Mr. Bickford was on the engine during the entire journey,

On the outward trip there was not much to admire; old grim king winter had wrapped the earth in a snowy mantle, and this tended to render the ride somewhat dreary. Yet the party was a happy one and all seemed to enjoy themselves.

Arriving at the junction, two of the cars were detached from the train and taken to Stirling, where they were speedily filled with friends and admirers of the Minister of Customs. The Stirling brass band was present and on the arrival of the train discoursed some excellent music. Returning to the junction, the cars were recoupled and the train proceeded to Madoc

The ride over the southern part of the Belleville and North Hastings Railroad was a pleasant one, as the movement of the cars was rapid and easy, the road being apparently in good condition and well ballasted. When nearing the lake and in rounding a sharp curve, the conductor's van, which was in rear, ran off the track. It was uncoupled and the train proceeded on its way and reached Madoc shortly before twelve o'clock.

The majority of the excursionists then went to the various hotels, whilst a number assembled at the Town Hall, where the nomination was to take place.

The hour of twelve having arrived, the Deputy Sheriff of the County, Mr. John Taylor, read the writ and the proclamation, and expressed his readiness to receive nominations for the representation of the Riding in the Dominion Parliament.

During the interval between the hours of 12 and 2, the hotels were thronged by the party, who, after satisfying the wants of the inner man, walked about the village, viewing the sights. The Stirling band assembled in the street midway between the two hotels, and played a number of pieces in a very acceptable manner, much to the delectation of those present.

Shortly before two o'clock the band again came together and marched to the Town Hall, where a large throng assembled. In the crowd which filled the Hall were the prominent members of the Conservative party of the village, as well as a number of the Reform friends of the Minister of Customs, and mongst the audience were leading representative men from all parts of the Riding. At two o'clock the Deputy Sheriff having only received one nomination (Hon. Mr. Bowell's), declared that gentleman elected by acclamation.

Hon. Mr. Bowell's nomination paper was signed by the following gentlemen: G. D. Wiggins, Paul Kingston, John Bateman, Joseph Hogle, John Jeffery, Henry Webb, Charles Wright, James Montgomery, Benjamin Stiles, Robert Radcliffe, Richard Morton, Samuel Bailey, Robert Wiggins, Nathan Clarke, John Lloyd, Cyrus Lloyd, James Bird, Levi McMullen, John Green, Robert McCormack, Thomas Bird, John Bailey, John Bateman, Peter Hubble, David Livingston, Hugh Livingston, Duncan Menie, H. Potts, William Hurst, George Stiles, T. H. Matthews, Alex Johnson, T. Hubble, W. W. Wiggins, and J. C. Wilson. All the above are residents of the Township of Rawdon.

The signatures from Stirling were as follows: G. H. Boulter, R. Finch, B. G. Demorest, B. W. Rodgers, Jesse Barlow, G. E. Bull, Ira Williams, J. E. Bradley, R. J. Craige, James Martin, John Graham, A. G. Scott, David White, John Wilson, R. P. Fidlar, H. Warren, W. S. Martin, R. M. Pennock, Jas. Boldrick, Chas. Craige, Thos. McGowan, John Acker, Ben Wicher, J. Potts, R. P. Gilbert, Jacob Loucks, W. H. Berry, and Thos. McKee.

The signatures of Madoc residents were: Patrick Gillen, Stephen Reed, S. Rollins, S. Driscoll, W. T. White, John Robertson, J. Harper, L. S. Guffin, D. McDonald, W. H. Atkins, S. D. Ross, H. Bull, John Sager, R. Burnside, A. M. Ketcheson, Richard Hoggard, John Long, William Moore, J. R. Ketcheson, Chas. English, J. McKinnon, G. D. Rawe, S. Doughty, Robert Best, and William Best.

Elzevir: Wm. Gray, Francis McConkey, Wm. F. Roly, Thomas Wiggins.

Marmora: Wm. Phillips, and a large number of others.

The hon. gentleman received the congratulations of his friends and then delivered a brief address, Sheriff Taylor officiating as chairman of the meeting.

Hon. Mr. BOWELL, who was received with loud and long continued cheering, said he had been admonished by his friends not to speak at length, as their time was short, and he would therefore only invite their attention for a few moments. He returned his thanks for the honor done him by electing him by acclamation to serve for five years in the Commons of Canada. When defeated in 1863, he had remarked that the young man who was prepared to paddle his own canoe could by industry and perseverance reach the head of the stream, and whether he had done so or not he would leave it for his hearers to judge. He had found it necessary on frequent occasions to differ from the leaders of the party; he acted and thought for himself, and was not willing to submit at all times to the dictates of those by whom he was surrounded. But when a great principle was at stake, when the interest of the people were concerned, he was prepared to act for their benefit upon all occasions. The country had been ruled for five years by a Government which had received the condemnation of the mass of the people. The formation of a new Government then followed, and he had the honor of being called on to be one of the Crown's advisers. He had received the responsible portfolio of Minister of Customs, one of the most prominent in the gift of the Premier and the Government of the country. He hoped he would prove no discredit to his constituents, and trusted that after a term of years they would not have cause to regret the confidence they now saw fit to repose in him. He would not discuss the great questions which had been before the people, as time did not permit; but for his colleagues in the Government, he would say that, the people having pronounced upon a great principle, that principle would be carried out in the interest of the country. The absurd notions of the Globe should not be taken by the people as Gospel as it had declared that protection as proposed would not be carried out. The National Policy was outlined in a short resolution moved by Sir John A. Macdonald during the last session, and he could assure his hearers that what it proposed would be faithfully carried out. There was no country in the world where an opposition press and an opposition itself was more exacting than the present. The Grit press was loud in demanding the details of the National Policy before time was given to mature one; some declared the Government had no policy to propose; some demanded a policy at once; others declared that the people were being deceived. It was now asked that a detailed statement of the proposed policy of the present administration should be given. It was absurd as well as inconsistent, to make such a demand. In Mr. Mackenzie's recent speech at Seaforth he proved himself a demagogue; the late Premier was a demagogue in office, and was also one in opposition; in fact the policy of the late Government was complete demagoguism itself. Mr. Mackenzie had stated in his speech that the late Government had accepted office on principle, and in a like manner it went out of office. He (Mr. Bowell) asserted that there was not a principle which they had advocated, from the Independence of Parliament to the giving out of contracts but what they had grossly violated. As the conduct of the present Government was when in opposition, so would it be now that it was in power, and it would so remain in the future. He condemned the introduction of sectional differences into political contests, as in a country composed like this, of people from all parts of the world, holding different views, legislation should be had in the interest of the whole, and not of a class. It had been asserted by Mr. Mackenzie that his Government had been more generous to the Irish Catholics than Sir John Macdonald's administration, as there was but one in the latter. This was mere claptrap to deceive the people, and raise religious strife in the land. What he proposed to do was to act for the good of the country as a country, for the whole as a whole and for the interests of the people. Mr Mackenzie had done much to create and raise sectional animosity, but he (the speaker) was confident that the people would not again be led astray by demagoguism; they would not be led astray in the future as they had been in the past. He hoped that a National Policy would prove beneficial, and that the country would increase in wealth and population; he trusted that all would forget their differences — forget their troubles at the polls as well—and that every one should hold to the opinion which he believed might be for the benefit of the country. He had friends who had fought the battle out; he who wins laughs, and he who loses must be content.

At the conclusion of his remarks, the Hon. gentleman was loudly cheered.

Cheers were then given for the Hon. Mr. Bowell, Sir John Macdonald, the Queen and the Marquis of Lorne, after which the crowd formed in procession, headed by the Stirling Band, and escorted the newly elected member through the main street of the Village. In the carriage conveying Mr. Bowell were: Senator Read, John White, M. P., Dr. Boulter M.P.P., John Caskey, Deputy Reeve of the Township of Madoc, E. B. Fraleck, Esq., J. D. Breeze, Esq. and A. F. Wood, Esq.

Arriving in front of the hotels, the procession opened its ranks for the passage of the carriage of the hon. member. Here three cheers were given for the member for East Hastings.

Mr. WHITE, in returning thanks for the favors bestowed on him, remarked that he was proud to be with them on such an occasion to do honor to the member for the riding, who was also a member of the best Government that had yet ruled the country. He was proud to do honor to the representative of an honest and capable Government, which he had no doubt would do all in its power for the advancement and posperity of the country and its people. When a Government forgets its duty then it is time to forget its followers, but now all should wait patiently until the administration has had a reasonable opportunity to develop its policy—a policy which he was confident would redound to the prosperity and welfare of the country, and five years hence when the members of the present Government came before the people they would again be returned. Canada should be for the Canadians, and by industry we must go on and prosper. Referring to the last contest in East Hastings, he stated his willingness to fight the battle out to the end or run the contest over again, asserting that if the latter proposition was accepted he had no doubt of his election. The electors of North Hastings should feel proud of their representative (Voices: "we are," "we are,") it was a credit to them to have him for their member, as he was certain Mr. Bowell would prove in the future what he had been in the past and do what was right. Mr. White was loudly cheered on taking his seat.

Three cheers having been given for Dr. BOULTER, that gentleman arose and returned his thanks for the honor done him. He was pleased with the result of the election and complimented the opponents of the Conservative party by remarking that they were entitled to praise in not offering opposition—especially where it was useless; in this case they had made a virtue of necessity. He congratulated Mr. Bowell on his election and resumed his seat amid applause.

Senator READ having been loudly called for, made a brief address. He congratulated the electors of the riding present on the success of the demonstration and assured them that they had a representative whom they might well feel proud of. They should all be proud of the new Government as no jobs such as characterized the late Government would be perpetrated by it. (Cheers.)

Mr. WHITE said there was a gentleman present who had by his ability and influence done much to advance the interests of the district in the matter of railroads, he referred to Mr. A. F. Wood, through whose efforts the residents of Stirling and Belleville were enabled to visit Madoc on this occasion.

Mr. WOOD returned thanks for the compliment paid him, and said he was pleased with the return of Hon. Mr. Bowell, as he had every confidence in him, for he would not betray the trust they had seen fit to repose in him; if he did no one would be more disappointed than he. With regard to the railway he remarked that some persons desired to take advantage of some technicalities in the bonus by law passed to aid the Belleville and North Hastings Railway. He trusted this would not be done, and the people would, now that the road was built, reap the advantages from it. (Cheers.)

Hon. Mr. BOWELL briefly spoke for the ladies of the riding, after which the procession re-formed and moved to the depot, where the train was in waiting. The visitors having embarked, the train proceeded on its return to Stirling and Belleville, where each party arrived in safety at an early hour in the evening.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, NOV. 7.

City and Vicinity.

POLICE COURT.—No business to-day.

THE WEATHER.—Some ice formed in the harbor last night, and the leaden color of the clouds betokens a further fall of snow.

NO PROTEST.—The Standard says:—"Monday was the last day for receiving a petition against the return of Mr. Hooper in Lennox, and he will enjoy his great victory now without annoyance."

SALE OF OIL PAINTINGS.—Mr. Ralph Purdy, auctioneer, announces a special catalogue sale of a choice collection of oil paintings at his auction rooms on Monday and Tuesday evenings next. See the advertisement.

WEST NORTHUMBERLAND.—The Colborne Express says:—"The Conservative Association of West Northumberland have decided to select a candidate by means of a meeting—doing away with the abused delegate system. We understand that Mr. Geo. Guillet, Mayor of Cobourg, is likely to be the choice."

METHODIST MISSIONS.—The anniversary sermons are to be preached in the Bridge Street Church on Sunday next—in the morning by the Rev. Dr. Macdonald, of Japan; and in the evening by the Rev. L. N. Beaudry, of Montreal. The anniversary meeting will be held in the church on the following evening, when addresses will be delivered by the Rev. Mr. Learoyd, of Picton, Rev. L. N. Beaudry and Rev. Dr. Macdonald.

GOOD ADVICE.—An exchange gives the following good advice, which is worth repeating:—"All who owe either the editor, the lawyer, the doctor, the merchant or the mechanic, should now strive to pay up promptly. The season for paying up all round is upon us. Let each man do his duty promptly, and not grumble about the "hard times." Cash and short credit is the true "National Policy." The debtor class should move forward as one man and wipe out its responsibilities, or do its best in that direction. A general movement, even if it were not complete, would be of decided benefit to all classes."

A RUFFIAN DEALT WITH.—On Tuesday afternoon a gang of six rowdies from Madoc village broke into the cook's van on the Belleville and North Hastings Railway and did a considerable amount of damage. On the following day the rowdies were brought before A. F. Wood, Esq., J. P., and James Claremont, who appeared to be the leader, was fined $10 and costs, or 20 days in gaol. The prisoner could not pay his fine, and was brought to the County gaol last night. This example ought to put a stop to blackguardism of that character about Madoc, where it has been too frequent of late.

PRESENTATION.—The Montreal Witness of recent date contains a lengthy account of a dinner given to Mr. A. Davis (formerly Locomotive Superintendent at Belleville) by the employees of the Grand Trunk Railway, Montreal, on the occasion of his leaving the service of that Company, having been offered the Mechanical Superintendency of the Quebec, Montreal, Occidental and Ottawa Railway Company. A handsome illuminated address was presented to Mr. Davis by his fellow employees, and over two hundred were present at the dinner. The affair was of a very pleasing character, and showed the high esteem in which Mr. Davis is held by those associated with him.

THE ROZE-MAPLESON OPERA.—The Washington Post says of this company, which is to appear here on the 19th inst.:—"One of the brilliant and crowded audiences which mark lyric seasons filled the National last night and the disappointed hundreds turned away lost the most delightful entertainment of the short operatic week. The music of "Un Ballo in Maschera" was, of course, a severe test of the superb control and perfect quality of Mme. Roze's voice; but the effective dramatic power exhibited by this artiste, the complete assumption in expression, and the perfect union of tone and manner, have never been surpassed. Since the royal Parepa sang her last notes on those boards, we have heard none so sweet and full, strong and clear as the utterances of Mme. Roze's voice. Mignon herself stood before the foot lights as Madame Roze sang with inimitable sweetness and notes harpike in eves strength and completeness."

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., 7.—A colored man was taken from jail and hanged at Clarksville last night for rape on a white woman.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The Herald's Boston special says Butler states he is not ashamed of his work. He intimated that he would keep up the fight on state reform until it was carried out.

The World's Washington special says the President declared the Republicans succeeded on Tuesday because they had boldly taken up the financial question. What was needed to get rid of the inflationist element was a debate and inculcation of right ideas. Timidity in dealing with political issues, which was the weakness of nearly all our public men, was especially prevalent amongst southern politicians. The President believed that in South Carolina Hampton had gone as far in opposition to the bulldozing policy as he thought he could could go without losing hold on the white democracy. He thought Hampton was sincere, but believed if Hampton had had courage to assert himself in opposition to the Democratic policy of suppressing the Republican vote he would have won a great personal, victory and forced his Democratic friends to stand by him.

Sherman said he did not believe we should hear any more about the anti-resumption party: it was buried. Evarts said there are five millions of colored Republicans, and two millions of white republicans in the South, and it is a disgrace that these seven million people should be without representation in Congress.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Gen. Crooks' annual report says that with the Bannocks and Shoshones our Indian policy has resolved itself into a question of warpath or starvation, and being human, many Indians will always choose the former alternative. Crook says his force is insufficient for the protection of the frontier.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7.—Jas. McCoy, a notorious bank burglar of Troy, has been pardoned by the Governor. Since his incarceration his father died leaving a large fortune.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The World's Columbia, S. C., special says the Grand Jury has indicted ex-Governor Chamberlain and other ex-State officers for alleged swindling by purchasing a tract of land for $12,000, and selling it to the State for $150,000. Neagle, ex-Comptroller, has turned state's evidence. A requisition for Chamberlain on the Governor of New York will be issued.

The Times Charleston, S. C. special, says O'Connor the Democrat was elected to Congress by stuffing ballot-boxes with tissue ballots. At one poll in Charleston 2,500 of these ballots were stuffed in the boxes.

The Tribune's Washington special says: A despatch from Jacksonville, Fla., claims the Republicans have carried the second Congressional district, which would make the delegation from that State a tie.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The next board of Aldermen will stand: Tammany Democrats 9; Anti-Tammany 7; Republicans 6.

In Brooklyn the Republican ticket will be elected with the exception of two charities commissioners. They have a majority in the Common Council.

Louis Sechler was buried by the caving in of a well at Newark, on Tuesday. The workmen partly dug him out, but his legs were fastened in the debris so that he could not be extricated. Another cave occurred and he was slowly swallowed up. Bechler knew his fate was sealed and he cried in pitiable tones to his employer to look out for his children.

Arrived, the Australia from London.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 7.—Returns so far give Head (Republican) for the Governor, 929 majority. His election is assured.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Secretary Sherman has addressed to Secretary Evarts an official communication setting forth the injustice of Canadian authorities debarring American seamen from receiving the rewards given to the captains and crews of vessels coming to the relief of vessels in distress. This position of the Canadian authorities is based on the rights they claim belong to the seamen of each nation in the waters of their own country. It therefore insisted that rewards of such services in Canadian waters belong exclusively to Canadian seamen. As this distinction is not observed in American waters, our seamen are naturally indignant.

MANCHESTER, Nov. 7.—The Guardian's London correspondent says: Before the plenipotentiaries left Berlin, Beaconsfield and Andrassy signed a treaty providing if Russia should endeavor to remain on Turkish territory after May, 1879, England and Austria will insist on her complete withdrawal. If Russia should urge that Turkey is unable to protect the Christians, owing to the disturbed state of affairs in Roumelia, England and Austria will furnish a garrison to relieve the Russians. The purport of this treaty was communicated to Russia.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Leopold Ranke, the German historical writer, is dangerously ill.

At Marlborough Street Police Court yesterday summons was set down for hearing against Lady Annie Louisa Gooch and another, charging them with conspiracy to palm off a spurious child on Sir Francis Robert Sherlock Lambert Gooch as his heir. Lady Gooch's counsel presented a certificate of her physician that she was unable to attend, but the magistrate declared that the certificate was unsatisfactory and adjourned the case for a week, declaring that if Lady Gooch was not present then he would issue a warrant for her immediate apprehension.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—At the Latin Union Conference Italy agreed to abolish the paper money for smaller amounts than 5 francs, to relieve France of the glut of small coins, driven here by the use of small notes in Italy. These small coins will not be received by the Treasury of any other State after the end of this year and Italy will take back those now on foreign soil. She has also agreed to restrict this year's coinage of 5 franc pieces to twenty millions francs, while other powers have coined no silver this year.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Russell Sage was yesterday elected a Director of the Union Pacific Railroad, in place of Gen. Dodge, of Iowa, resigned. The Tribune says other changes in the directory will take place next week, when two or three of the largest stockholders in the Western Union and New York Companies are to be elected members of the board and of the executive committee. At a special meeting of directors yesterday, the Tribune states that willingness was unanimously expressed to settle in full the debt due the Government. It is proposed to issue the new 4 per cent bonds for the entire debt.

It is reported at police headquarters this morning that the body of A. T. Stewart had been stolen from the family vault at St. Mark's Church early this morning, the casket broken open, and the body removed.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Robert Forrester, a large colliery proprietor at Glasgow, has failed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Judge Hilton rushed into the police headquarters this morning greatly excited and held a consultation with Inspector Dilks. He stated the body of A. T. Stewart was missing; the vault was broken open, the casket was found in the vault, but the body gone. Dilks at once sent out a general order announcing the theft of the body. The decomposition of the remains is so offensive they could not be concealed this is apparent from standing at the opening of the vault this morning.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The Times, commenting on the elections in the United States, says: It is with very sincere satisfaction that we publish the results of the November elections in the United States. The gravity of the issues on which the electors had practically to decide could scarcely be over-estimated, and there was some ground for apprehension that a caprice of Democracy might turn the scale of the reckless agitation and ruinous policy. Now as often before the good sense of the American people came to the rescue just in time to save the country from the consequence of party blundering and the immorality of professional politicians. Little thanks are due to the leaders of the Republican party, and still less to those of the Democrats. Neither side can be exonerated from guilt of paltering with inflationist, repudiationist and socialist agitations, which culminated in the formation of the Greenback labor party.

The OAK HALL Clothing House, 350 Front St., Belleville

We have Men's heavy Grey Overcoats for $4.00. Do. Working Pants for $1.25. Men's Worsted Diagonal Pants and Vests, $4.00.

In fact the house is crowded with new goods. Call and see for yourselves, and see prices in other Stores before calling.

We don't defy competition, but we undersell it.

REILLY & COMPANY, Proprietors.

It is determined to rule the Clothing Trade in Belleville. We are in shape to do it, for we buy every dollar's worth of Goods for Cash, and buy each and every line of Goods when they are the cheapest. Every Merchant in Belleville understands that the best goods in the market are sold at the Oak Hall. Owing to our heavy increased trade we purchased a mammoth Fall Stock. We have in fact as much and more Ready-made Clothing as all the other Clothing houses put together—all new this Fall, and selected with great care by one of the best buyers in Ontario.

October 24th, 1878.

Circular to the Public.

We have much pleasure in thanking the citizens of Belleville and adjoining Counties, for the large and satisfactory trade we have so far done this season.

Up to this date our Cash sales have exceeded those of any previous season, and we are aiming to make this the largest Fall and Winter trade yet done by us.

To do this, we have, imported direct from the leading Manufacturers and Warehouses of Great Britain, an unusually large, varied, and attractive Stock of new Dry Goods, all of which have been personally selected by a member of our Firm, who has had a long experience in catering to the tastes and requirements of the people of this section of the country, and also from having so frequently visited the Home markets, has acquired a thorough knowledge of the best places and houses to purchase the different lines of Dry Goods from. Every intelligent person can easily understand that in this particular we have a decided advantage over others, who send their orders to Commission houses, and allow these houses to do their entire buying.

Notwithstanding the statements of an opposition House, to the contrary, we beg to state and challenge successful contradiction, that the value of our Importations Direct from the European markets in original packages, all of which were selected by our own buyer, and of which we are prepared to produce the original invoices—have not exceed those of any other Dry Goods house in the City of Belleville.

To the general public, the most important and interesting part of what we have to say is, that we are prepared to furnish them with a large portion of their Fall and Winter Dry Goods at prices whereby they can save from ten to twenty-five cents on every dollar's worth, by buying them at our Warehouse. To some this may appear impossible, but to those who doubt the truth of our statements, we say, Compare the prices and qualities of our goods with those sold by other Stores. It is not necessary to buy, should they not prove equal to what we advertise them.

We are now selling a large lot of new Dress Goods at 12½, 15, 20, and 25c. per yard, which are admitted by all to be the cheapest lot of Dress Goods ever offered in this City. And although our sales of Dress Goods this season have already been very large, we are still able to show an immense variety of all the leading colors and materials which have been produced this season.

In addition to the above, the following lines are particularly worthy the attention of parties wanting first class value in these goods:

Black Silks, Silk Velvets, Velveteens, Crapes, Black and Colored Cashmeres, Kid Gloves, Jackets and Mantles, Corsets, Table Linens, Table Napkins and Towels, Sariet and White Flannels, Wincies, and all kinds of Millinery Goods.

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. Great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the publication of a NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt that when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of each of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Madoc Village, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and there being much more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURG, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The rates will, however, remain the same as formerly, viz.: One page, $10.00; half page, $6.00; quarter page, $4.00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

Fruit-Rooms

Fruit cannot long be kept in the ordinary cellars under dwellings; and, if it could be, the danger from the gases arising from vegetables decomposition ought to deter us from storing fruit in these rooms. There is less objection to fruit cellars under barns and stables, as the atmosphere is not only purer, but cooler, in the summer and winter. If a barn-cellar can be arranged on a side-hill (fronting south, if possible), and so isolated that it is kept free from the odors of manure it may be regarded as a favorable location. If the barn is not thus situated, it will be necessary to make an excavation into the side of hill fronting south or west, and cover it so as to protect it from frost in winter. The cellar should consist of two apartments, and the partition wall may may be of brick or stone, as is the cheapest or most convenient. The size, of course, will depend upon the wants of the fruit raiser. A frost proof room, twenty feet square and eight feet high, will hold the products of a large orchard, and it may be constructed cheaply. If two rooms are provided, (which arrangement is desirable) the first need not be frost proof, but must be open to all the light. The object is to secure a cool airy room in which to store fruit during the late autumn months, and into the early winter if the weather is mild. A dark, subterranean room well protected cannot be very dry in moderate, weather therefore it is best to keep fruit as long as possible in a more exposed and drier room, and when zero weather approaches, remove it into the frost-proof apartment at once. Cold air is always dry air, and the inner room, if properly ventilated, is filled with the cold, dry air, but above freezing temperature. The nearer to 32° F. the air is kept without remaining at or going below that point, the better.

The walls of fruit-rooms may be constructed of stone, if connected with farm premises where this material is abundant; or of brick, where stone cannot readily be obtained. If the stone is employed, a mason to lay up the walls may not be necessary, as they may be put up dry and pointed with common mortar, work which any farmer can do. A roof, supported by stern timbers, is necessary, and a space between the rough board ceiling and the roof of one and a half or two feet, filled with straw or hay or dry sawdust, will protect from frost unless the climate is very severe. The roof covering may be of ordinary tarred paper, well put on with battens and then painted heavily with tar or pitch. This roof, if well constructed, will last for years. It should come as close to the ground as possible. The whole of the interior walls should be protected by the ground on the rear end and sides. The front or light room need not be so protected. This should protrude from the hill, and have at least a couple of windows and a door. The ventilation of the interior or winter room should be effected by opening the inner and outer doors in mild weather, and allowing air to flow in. And here an important caution is to be observed. Never ventilate or open the doors of the winter cellar on very mild, damp days. Select clear, dry days, when the thermometer is just above freezing, for airing the rooms. The reason for this is obious. If the air of the cellar and stored fruit is colder than the admitted external air, condensation of moisture takes place, and everything becomes covered with dew, which is injurious to fruit. This does not take place on cold, clear days. Be cautious in the spring in opening the inner cellar, as by admitting warm, moist air great injury is done.

In this arrangement for storing fruit it is kept dry and cool before it is placed in winter quarters. If this dry condition is secured, all mild weather influences and apples are kept at bay during the cold weather, and the fruit comes out in the spring sound and fresh. The barrels in which it is stored should not stand on end. The bung up open and the heads horizontal.—Journal of Chemistry.

Threatening Political Situation.

We take pleasure in placing before our readers the following important letter; while having no direct political bearing, it has a real significance, showing, as it does, that whatever the people of these States may think concerning the political situation, they are far from brooding Dr. Pierce's Family Remedies as frauds:

GALVESTON, Texas, June 8, 1878.

DR. PIERCE: Dear Sir—Your Golden Medical Discovery and Purgative Pellets have cured my daughter of Scrofulous swellings and Open sores about the neck; and your Favorite Prescription has accomplished wonders in restoring my wife, who had been bed-fast for eight months, from Female weakness. I am with grateful feelings,

Yours truly,
T. H. LONG.

The disturbances which took place on Sun day afternoon, October 13, at the open air religious service conducted at the Custom House, Belfast, were more serious than they have been on previous Sundays. The mob yesterday numbered close upon 5,000. The preachers were not present at said hostel, and the mob indulged freely in stone throwing. The police charged them, and lashed a number of the more prominent roughs very freely with riding whips. The proceedings for a time were of a very boisterous character. Several arrests were made.

IS YOUR LIFE WORTH 10 CENTS?

Sickness prevails everywhere, and everybody complains of some disease during their life. When sick, the object is to get well; now to say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and its effects, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Heart Burn, palpitation of the Heart, Depression Spirits, Nervousness, etc., can take Green's AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this go to any Druggist in Belleville and get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you. d&w

The invigorating, Fattening and Nutritive properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lime & Phosphate of Lime are such as would indicate its sufficiency to "sustain the body in the performance of its various functions," with the aid of but little solid food. Hence its superior remedial worth in the "Wasting Disease of Childhood," the "Wasting Away," in those of "Consumptive tendency," —in Consumption itself, as well as in General Debility, and all cases of Prostration and Emaciation. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING. "By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage, which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemist, London, Eng." d&w

CHAPTER X.

THE EXHORTER.

But if friends over-estimated the charge in Mark, it is quite certain that the critics were equally mistaken. For Mark's conversion was quite a different Mark. Even the scoffers had to admit so much. A man who finds his experience in prayer-meetings and love-feasts is not the same with the man who finds his diversion in cards and whiskey and all night dancing. He was not the same Mark; and yet, religion is only the co-efficient, and the co-efficient derives its value from that of the quantity, known or unknown, into which it is multiplied. Mark was different but quite the same.

Wicked or pious, he must lead. In politics he had shown himself self-confident, ambitious and fond of publicity. In religious affairs he was—let us use the other names for similar traits when they are modified by a noble sentiment—bold, zealous, and eager for success.

He began to speak in meeting at once, for the Methodists in that day were not slow in giving a new convert opportunity to "testify." Indeed, every man and woman who became a Methodist was exhorted, persuaded, coaxed, admonished, if need be, until he fell himself all but compelled to "witness for Christ." If there was any hesitancy or natural diffidence in the way of a new beginner's "taking up the cross," brethren did not fail to exhort him in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs according to the Scripture. They would sing at him such words as these:

"I'm not ashamed to own my Lord.
Or to defend his cause," etc.

Or,

"Are there no foes for me to face?
Must I not stem the flood?
Is this vile world a friend to grace
To help me on to God?"

It was a sharp discipline to which the convert was thus subjected. No very clear distinction was made between moral courage and mere effrontery, between natural diffidence and real cowardice. But this discipline made every one bear his share of responsibility. Methodism captured the West by mobilizing its whole force. In time of revival at least there were no reserves—the whole landwehr was in action. Everybody must speak in meeting, or pray, or exhort, or "talk to mourners," or solicit the unconverted in congregation generally. And so it came about that the clear, flexible voice of Mark Bonamy was heard in the meetings almost immediately. His address, if not eloquent, were at least striking and effective. The visible tokens of the influence of his addresses were pleasant to him—there are few men to whom this sort of power would not be gratifying. Mark was active, he enjoyed the excitement, he liked to feel himself at last on the side of the right; he threw himself more and more into the work of exhorting; he went out of town frequently to address meetings in the country, and as he did not hesitate to brave storm or flood in these expeditions, he soon acquired a reputation for zeal which was quite agreeable to him, for it could not be expected that his natural vanity should have all disappeared under the influence of his piety. For that matter, our motives are never quite so bad as our enemies suppose. Our best is unwoven with evil, and our worst let us hope, has some stands of good. Only God can unravel the complexity.

Mark, for his part, did not attempt it. He was of too complacent a temper to go behind the popular verdict when that was so favorable as in the present case. He often confessed his depravity, his sinfulness, his unworthiness; but this old heresy that a man is all bad is the devil's own cloak, under which one is always prone to hide specific sins.

Of course Mark's religiousness occasioned much gossip in the small political circles of the country. The sheriff, claiming to be intimate with Bonamy, was often enquired of about it.

"Well, you see," Lathers replied when the solution was demanded by a crony, "I don't think it's a sharp move. It makes friends and it don't make 'em. I'm down on him the preachers and class-leaders and exhausters and wh-t-ye-may call-'ems. But you see he can't ride both horses with their heads turned different ways, and damn so much with Nance Kirtley would 'a' tripped him last run: I laid myself out to save him from that scrape, and lost votes and the like o' that. But I don't begrudge it. But he don't come a-foolin' round me with his religion and goin's-on, and the like, I tell you now."

Here the astute man took a good bite from a big chew of tobacco. Then he expectorated awhile, with a deadly, melancholy, meditative aim at the rusty grate.

"Liker'n not, now, I may do Mark injestice," he went on with a suspicious twinkle. "It's bound be one of them Methodist girls and the like he's after. But then he don't show no signs. That ain't like him. He's a plump fool when that's the thing of that kind a-goin'. I can't make it out. I don't believe he can nother! It's like the feller's had measles, and mumps, and janders, and cholery infantum all in one heap. 'I can't make it out,' says the doctor, 'but I'll give you a little of everything I've got in the pill-bags, and something'll hit the disease may be.' I heard that the Kirtly girl has went forrerd and the like in one of the meetin's out on the creek. I know what tree she's a-barkin' up. It's like the man said about his dog. 'He's treed a bear,' says he; 'he barks too big for a 'coon.' Nothing but big game would make Nancy Kirtley put on the pious and the like."

If the sheriff erred in his estimate of Mark, he was more nearly right when it came to Nancy. To marry Mark Bonamy was more to her than heaven itself; for the bliss of heaven or any other joy long deferred made no impression on her shallow nature. When Mark became religious she followed him. It made one hope that, after all, there might be a soul within. So long, indeed, as she said nothing she was a picture of meditative wisdom, a very Minerva. But when she spoke, it was after all, only Minerva's bird. Such was the enchantment of the great still eyes in her passively beautiful face, that after many shocking dis illusions brought about by the folly of her tongue, one was sure to relapse again into a belief in her inspiration as soon as she became silent. I doubt if good John Kaspar Lavater himself could expound to us this likeness of absolute vacuity to deep thoughtfulness. Why do owls and asses seem so wise?

Nancy's apparent conversion was considered a great triumph. Wherever Mark went he was successful, and nearly everybody praised him. Mrs. Hanks, Roxy's well-to-do aunt, held forth to Jemima upon the admirable ability of the young man, and his great goodness and self-sacrifice in "laying all his advantages of talent and wealth and prospects at the foot of the cross."

"I tell you what I think, Henriette," replied Jemima, with her customary freedom: "I think that's all fol-de-rol and twaddle-de-dee." Here she set her iron down with emphasis and raised her reddened face from her work, wiping the prospiration away with her apron. "I think it's all nonsense for the brethren and sisters to talk that way, just like as if Mark had conferred an awful favor on the Creator in lendin' him his encouragement. Do you think it's such a great thing to be Colonel Bonamy's son and a member of the Injeanny Legislatur, that God must feel mightily obliged to Mark Bonamy for being so kind as to let him save his immortal soul! Now, I don't," and here she began to shove her iron again. "You all 'll spite Mark by setting him up on a spinnacle of the temple," she added as she paused a moment to stretch out a shirt sleeve preparatory to ironing it.

"Jemima," said Mrs. Hanks, "it's wicked to talk that way. You are making fun of the gospel. I'm sure Mark's very humble. He calls himself the chief of sinners."

"I s'pose he does. That's nice to set himself up alongside of Paul and say:—'See Paul and me was both great sinners.' That makes you think he's a-goin' to be like Paul in preachin.' But s'pose one of the brethren—brother Dale, now—was to say: 'Brother Bonamy, you're the biggest sinner on town. You're worse'n old Gatlin that went to penitenshry, an' your wuss'n Bob Gramps that was hung.' D'you think he'd say, 'Amen, that's a fact!' But ef bein' the chief of sinners means anything, that's what it means."

"Jemima, I tell you, your wicked. It's right to kill the fatted calf for the returning prodigal."

"Oh yes, I know," and Jemima wiped her face again. "But I wouldn't kill all the calves on the place and then begin on the yo'ng'uns so as to make him think it was a nice thing to be a prodigal. I'd be afraid the scamp would go back any try it over again."

"Oh bender me not, fer I will serve the Lord,
And I'll praise Him when I die."

Threatening Political Situation.

We take pleasure in placing before our readers the following important letter; while having no direct political bearing, it has a real significance, showing, as it does, that the people of the United States may think concerning the political situation, they are far from branding Dr. Pierce's Family Remedies as frauds:

GALVESTON, Texas, June 8, 1878.

DR. PIERCE: Dear Sir—Your Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Pellets have cured my daughter of Scrofulous swellings and Open sores about the neck; and your Favorite Prescription has accomplished wonders in restoring to health my wife, who had been bed-fast for eight months, from Female weakness. I am with grateful feelings,

Yours truly, T. H. LONG.

In this Present Age, when the life-battle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the strongest the tug and stress of it tell so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for the repairing of our reserve stock of mental and physical stamina by the use of such a sure tonic and vitalizing agent as ROBINSON'S PHOSPHORIZED EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH LACTO-PHOSPHATE OF LIME! Its gently stimulating and nutritive-tonic properties supply the materials, and assist Nature in her efforts to keep up with the exhaustive demands upon her reserves. Prepared solely by J. H. BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, NOV. 8.

The Jacques Cartier Election Frauds.

One of the vilest attempts ever made to rob the electors of their franchise and to foist upon the people and upon the country as a member of the national legislature a man who was in reality defeated by a considerable majority, has lately come to light in Canada. The locality of this infamous transaction was St. Ann's, in the County of Jacques Cartier, near Montreal, and the parties guilty of the detestable outrage were, very appropriately, members of that "organized hypocrisy," which, whilst preaching honesty and economy in the administration of public affairs, and above all purity and freedom of election, was practicing dishonesty, extravagance, bribery and corruption, and which has now been proved to be guilty of the offence which we have above characterized. The facts of the case are simply these: A house was engaged for the polling in which there was a cellar below the room in which the voting was done. A portion of the floor was cut and a spring trap fitted into it, over this being place la sideboard, inside of which holes were made corresponding in size to that in the floor. The votes having been all polled, except some two, the Deputy Returning Officer feigns sickness late in the afternoon, and deposits the ballot box in the sideboard, of which he locks the front door, having the ballot box apparently safe. His confederates take the box down into the cellar through the trap, unlock it, destroy all but a few of the papers marked for Mr. Girouard, substituting others crossed for Laflamme, and return it to the sideboard. The Deputy Returning officer then returns to the polling place; the ballot box is found apparently just as he left it, whereupon he closes the poll, and after the ballots have been counted, declares the result of the voting. But the people who heard the declaration made by Mr. Forget, the Deputy Returning officer, that 109 persons had voted for Mr. Laflamme at his poll, whilst but 14 had marked their ballots for his opponent, knew that it was not true. A number of them were present, and after counselling amongst themselves they found that of those present, 20 or upwards had voted for Girouard; so their candidate was communicated with, and the result was that the officers of justice were placed upon the track and the conspiracy was discovered. Six men, some of them occupying good positions in the community, were placed upon trial in the Court of Queen's Bench at Montreal, charged with the offence. Their names were Ardard P. Forget (the Deputy Returning Officer), Adolphe Lamarche (owner of the house in which the voting took place), Alphonse Christin, Isaie Pilon, Godfrot Madore, and Eustache Lemey. On the trial, the case was clearly proved. It was shown, in addition to the facts stated, that the plot had been deliberately concocted, one Tunstall, who had been appointed Deputy Returning Officer, having been induced to resign in favor of Forget some days previous to the election, and further one Dorsaint-Couineau, a powerful fellow, who poached on them finally, was sent into the polling-place as substitute for Madore, and instructed to assist Forget, if necessary, in placing the ballot box in the sideboard over the trap. It was also shown that instead of 14 persons having voted at the poll for Mr. Girouard, 45 had done so, the voters themselves deposing to that effect on oath, also that ballots which had been marked by certain of Mr. Girouard's supporters so that they could be identified were not to be found amongst those forwarded to the Returning Officer by his deputy Forget. The trial lasted for several days, and the result was that four of the conspirators, namely Forget, Lamarche, Christin and Pilon were convicted, but all made default.

Happily frauds in regard to balloting have been rare in Canada, but as so much ingenuity has been displayed in this case, it becomes a serious question whether, when it is possible to cheat people of their votes by fraud, the ballot system of voting is not a failure in so far as securing a true expression of the will of the people is concerned. The learned Judge (Ramsay), who tried the case bore very strongly on this point in summing up, saying:—"It is "not a question of political importance "at all, but whether this silly, absurd thing "called the ballot-box is to be made the "instrument of fraud, or whether it is to "protect poor voters from the oppression "of outside influence. I hope this trial "will have the effect of drawing the coun"sels of higher persons who have greater "influence than I to get rid of an institu"tion of such absurdity, and which is a "disgrace to the nation."

Without going so far as Judge Ramsay but taking into account the defeated fraud in this case, and the instances of ballot box stuffing and other illegal practices detected the popular will which are frequently reported from the United States and other countries, it certainly renders worthy of reconsideration the whole subject of secret voting. It also occurs to us in this connection that this may not be the first time that frauds have been perpetrated in Jacques Cartier by the same persons, as the parties are very evenly balanced as to strength in that constituency.

No evidence was given to connect Mr. Laflamme with these frauds perpetrated in his interest, but the villainy of those of his supporters who engaged in them was none the less clearly traceable to the example of their friends in other constituencies, and to the general rottenness and corruption of the Grit-Rouge party, as distinguished from their high sounding professions of purity. It is very satisfactory, however, that such an offence has not escaped condemnation, and if secret voting is to be continued, we trust that the leaders of the Grit-Rouges will set so good an example to their followers as to induce them to act more honestly in future. The Court has done its part in showing that crime of this nature is tolerably certain of detection, but when the guilty ones are apprehended and punished in accordance with the finding of the jury, the effect for good will be still more marked.

Political Notes.

NORTHUMBERLAND.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Nov. 7.—The trial of the protest against Mr. Snowball, member elect for Northumberland, began to day at Fredericton. The defence is that the petitioners themselves have been guilty of bribery, and that Parliament has no power to confer on a provincial court authority to try Dominion election cases.

ST. JOHN CITY.

It is thought the petition against Mr. Tilley will fall to the ground on account of the petitioner not being a legally qualified voter.

QUEBEC CABINET.—A Quebec despatch states that Mr. Joly is represented as being not unlikely to avail himself of the services of the Hon. George Irvine in the place of the deceased Mr. Bachand.

THE ADMINISTRATION.—An Ottawa telegram of the 7th says:—"This afternoon His Excellency the Administrator-General, Sir Patrick Macdougall, arrived in the city, accompanied by Lieut.-Colonel J. C. Baker, R.E., A.D.C."

OLD VETERANS.—Admiral of the Fleet, Sir George Rose Sartorious, K.C.B., Admirals R. Patton, W. W. Percival Johnson and Spencer Smyth, Commanders Francis Harris and William Vicary, and Lieut.-Col. James Fynmore, R.M., were the only officers alive to commemorate the seventy-third anniversary of the battle of Trafalger.

GRAIN TRADE AT BUFFALO.—The reports of the Buffalo grain trade for last month show that there has been extraordinary activity during the season. The receipts of grain by lake, including flour reduced to its equivalent in wheat, from the opening of navigation till November 1st, were 73,435,348 bushels, an increase of 16,739,976 bushels over the same period in 1877. The flour and grain movement by canal was remarkable, the aggregate shipments being 53,041,632, as compared with 42,209,218 bushels in 1877, a gain of 10,831,814 bushels in favor of this season's business.

GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY TRAFFIC.—The London Railway News says:—"The official statement of the results of the half-year's workings of the Great Western line shows an improvement on that of last year quite equal to reasonable anticipation. After providing for the half-year's interest on the bonds and debenture stock, rents to the leased lines, etc., there remains a surplus revenue of £747. In the corresponding half of last year there was a deficit of £3,197. After providing, therefore, for increased charge on account of the new issue of stock, the company stands in a better position than last year by £3,944.

A GLOOMY PICTURE.—Accounts have come to hand of the fearful ravages of cholera in the interior of Morocco. The misery among the people is great. Business and traffic are almost completely paralyzed. The cholera is sweeping over the middle and southern provinces; hundreds are dying of starvation. To all these miseries, small-pox and malignant fevers add their horrors. Never before has Morocco passed through such a fearful ordeal. All the leading Israelites, and many Europeans have fled from Tangier panic stricken, while the wild and uncertain rumors of ravages of the pestilence in the interior, which are brought daily to Tangier by the refugees, add to the general consternation. While immense numbers of persons are starving in the very streets of Tangier, and while the merchants are selling all breadstuffs at cost, the authorities still persist in levying a tariff of 10 per cent on all imports of provisions, and to all these fearful visitations, the further fact that the neighboring countries have almost completely cut off Morocco from communication with the outside world, and no gloomier picture can be imagined.

An error crept into our notice of Alderman Falkiner's new residence, in which it should have been stated that the painting is being done by Mr. R. Warham. The shingled portion of the roof is being coated with fire-proof paint, whilst the hall floor will be inlaid with wood in a pattern closely resembling oil cloth, which work is being done by a Montreal firm. The furniture is all to be new and specially made to Mr. Falkiner's order. The sideboard will be a magnificent piece of furniture, beautifully carved by Mr. Heintzelman, and highly ornate, after the style prevalent in the reign of Queen Anne.

On Charlotte Street, Mr. John Thompson is having his house veneered with brick, the cost of which work will be about $300.

St. John's Church was removed from its site on Bridge Street west, last spring, to the corner of Bridge and Isabel streets. Messrs. Northcott and Alford were the contractors for the work, and executed the carpentering; the stone foundation was built by Mr. Wickett; plastering by F. Dolan. Cost $600.

Mr. J. P. Thompson had extensive repairs, improvements and alterations made to his residence on Commercial Street at a cost of $1,500. Mr. Thos. McRae superintended the work; painting by R. Warham.

Mr. C. H. Spong erected on Bridge Street west a frame store about 22×32, two stories. Cost $600.

Alderman Falkiner is having the upper stories of his block on McAnnany Street completed, at a cost of $600. Plastering by F. Dolan.

Mr. W. Gordon has erected on the corner of Geddes and College streets a two story brick dwelling 25×30 ft. A. N. Pringle was the contractor and did the factory work; mason work by Johnston Bros; carpentering by Jno. Pepper; plastering by F. Dolan; painting by Turner. Cost $1,000.

Mr. H. A. Thompson has built on Cedar Street for Mr. Allan Frederick, a two story brick dwelling, 27×33 feet, with kitchen 15×27 ft., beneath the whole of which is a cellar 8 ft. high in the clear. Mr. Thompson executed the carpenter and factory work; Wickett the mason work; F. Dolan, plasterer. Cost, $1,200.

Mr. Thompson has also done much of the factory work for Alderman Farley's house on Bleecker Avenue, and will complete the job. He also removed a building to Jane Street, at a cost of $300.

The McAnnany estate has had built on George Street two detached two-story brick dwellings with bay windows, the dimensions of each of which are 25×30 ft., with kitchen 18×15 ft. Mason work by Peter Cary; carpentering, by G. S. White; plastering by Jas. Emsley; painting by R. H. Toy. Cost $1,500 each.

Mr. Goldsmith has added to his residence on Charles Street a brick kitchen. Woodley mason; Reaves, carpenter. Gardner plasterer. Cost $300.

A new brick kitchen has also been added to a brick dwelling owned by Mr. John Taylor on Foster Avenue. Woodley, mason; Pepper, carpenter. Cost $300.

On the property between Hotel and Rear Streets which was in dispute between Mr. Jacob Cronk and the Corporation, Mr. Cronk has erected three two story frame houses, veneered with brick, the whole forming five tenements. One of these buildings is 23×33 ft. with kitchen 6×14 ft.; another is 20×42 ft.; and the third is 26×26 ft. with kitchen 10×12 ft. The work was all done by the day under the superintendence of Mr. Cronk. The cost of the three buildings is estimated at $8,000.

Mr. A. L. Smith has in course of erection on Charles Street three brick two story brick dwellings, each 22×30 ft. with kitchen 16×18. The mason work of one was performed by John Bradford, and that of the other two by James Woodley. Cost $1,000 each.

Mr. Smith is also putting up another house on the north side of Pine Street.—brick, one story, with mansard roof. Mason work by Woodley. Cost $1,000.

Messrs. Turner and Kerr, florists, have erected on Dundas Street, between Charles and and Henry Streets, a series of new buildings for a conservatory. These consist of a show room and dwelling, framed, 20×36; two large green houses, and a barn 20×24. Messrs. Northcott & Alford were contractors for the whole job; Gardner plasterer. Cost $2,000.

The Afghan Affair.

Hopes are entertained that the Ameer will submit unconditionally to the British demands. The mortality among the Afghans at Jellalabad is from thirty to forty daily.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—A Berlin despatch says: It seems certain that several thousand former Russian soldiers and officers have been permitted to volunteer and start for Afghanistan.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, NOV. 8.

City and Vicinity.

ENGLISH MAIL.—An English mail was distributed here this morning.

POLICE COURT.—The calendar was again a blank to-day.

FOR OTTAWA.—Hon. Mr. Bowell left for Ottawa to-day by the noon train.

GRAIN MARKET.—There was no change in barley to-day. Rye was lower, at 45c per bushel.

CHEESE.—On Wednesday two car loads of cheese were shipped over the Belleville and North Hastings Railway at the station at Luke's in Huntingdon.

SNOW.—There was a light fall of snow last night, and frost having succeeded, the face of nature was beautifully whitened this morning.

GRAIN FREIGHTS.—There has been a considerable rise in grain freights. A few days ago the rate was 1½ cts per bushel hence to Oswego. Now it is 3c., which is a paying rate.

SPECIAL SERVICES.—A series of special religious services, conducted by Mr. Salmon, of Embro, has been commenced in the Congregational Church. These services will be continued nightly.

THE HOUNDS.—Owing to the flurry of snow last night, the meet has necessarily had to be postponed until Monday at 1:30 p. m., when it will take place at the residence of Mr. D. R. Leavens, Kingston road.

"COASTING."—Numbers of children were out last night coasting down the sidewalks on the hills with hand-sleds. The police ought to put a stop to this, as the sidewalks are rendered dangerously slippery by the passage of the sleighs.

ENLARGED.—The Madoc Review has been enlarged, and now appears as a thirty-two column paper. The improvement is considerable, and ought to bring additional success to the publisher, who conducts his paper with ability.

FUNERAL OF MR. HOLTON.—The funeral of the late George C. Holton took place yesterday afternoon. Although the weather was unfavorable, the high estimation in which the deceased was held was evidenced by a very large attendance of citizens of all classes. The remains were interred in the cemetery.

ANOTHER THOUGHT.—Apropos to the "Early Marriages" discussion now going on in several of our contemporaries, a Yankee editor says:—"The great demand of the times appears to be a girl who can saw wood, clean house, cook for a family of seven, take care of the baby, wash and iron, 'answer the door' fight flies, work fifteen hours a day, never get cross, never waste, spoil or lose anything, never go out, never want anything, have no company and be happy, smiling, well dressed and contented for $1.75 a week."

THE ROZE-MAPLESON OPERA.—As Belleville is the only place between Montreal and Toronto at which the Roze-Mapleson Opera Company will perform, Mr. Reynolds has, in order to accommodate those resident in other places, of whom many will doubtless desire to attend, made arrangements with the Grand Trunk to issue return tickets at one fare from Port Hope, Cobourg, Grafton, Colborne, Brighton, Trenton, Shannonville, Napanee and Kingston. The tickets will be issued on the 19th, good for two days. Persons who have friends residing in any of the above places can be supplied with a biographical sketch of Mme. Roze, by calling at Mr. Reynolds' store, Bridge Street.

THE "INTELLIGENCER" AND THE NATIONAL POLICY.—A clever and observant mechanic, who formerly resided in Belleville, but who now makes his home in Cleveland, Ohio, writes thus in a letter to his father here: "The INTELLIGENCER is a good paper. I agree entirely with its views on free trade, and hope the new Ministry will make such alterations in the tariff as will enable home producers to make a fair living. Free trade is well enough for non-producers, but ruination to the manufacturing and working classes." These are the views of a practical and intelligent man, formed after some fourteen or fifteen years' residence in the United States, and we are glad to see that they harmonize with our own, as tending to confirm and uphold them.

Y. M. C. A.—The International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations have issued a call for the observance of the 10th day of November and the week following as a season of thankfulness and of special prayer for God's blessing upon young men and work in their behalf. We have no doubt this call will be cheerfully responded to by many in Canada. The programme suggested by the Committee is the following:—"Nov. 10, Sunday.—Exhortation to young men.—Titus xi, 6, 8. "Nov. 11, Monday.—Young men, their power for evil.—I Kings xi, 28; xii, 26, 30; xiii, 33, 34; Acts vi, 57, 59; viii, 1, 3. "Nov. 12, Tuesday.—Young men, their power for good.—Prov. xx, 29; I John ii, 13, 14; Eph. vi, 10, 11. "Nov. 13, Wednesday.—Something stronger than the strength of young men.—Isaiah xi, 23, 31. "Nov. 14, Thursday.—How to reach young men.—John i, 35, 46. "Nov. 15, Friday.—Young men, their special temptations.—Eccl. xi, 9, 10; II Tim. ii, 22. "Nov. 16, Saturday.—The pattern for young men.—Luke ii, 42, 52; Acts x, 38, 43."

PERSONAL.—James Nosworthy Esq., who has been paying a two months' visit to England, reached home last night.

CANADA SCHOOL JOURNAL.—The November number of this educational periodical contains an excellent portrait and biographical sketch of Prof. Goldwin Smith, M. A. The contents are such as must be of interest and profit to every one concerninod education. Published by Adam Miller & Co., Toronto, at $1 per annum.

NORTH HASTINGS RAILWAY.—A passenger car went to Madoc this morning, conveying Mr. Cowan, of Montreal, Mr. Bickford and other gentlemen, who went to inspect the road so far as it is completed. Mr. Pusey, who is connected with iron manufacture in Pennsylvania, also went to arrange for placing men at work at the mines, the ore from which he has arranged with the Grand Trunk Railway Company to carry from Madoc.

THE AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.—An interesting and instructive account of how good Pure Milk is obtained by the Paris people, on a large scale, from a business man who took hold of a large tract of worthless land, and makes it pay, is given by a special correspondent in the American Agriculturist for Nov. 1.—This number of the Agriculturist contains 63 engravings of various things, labor-saving and other contrivances, for the Farm, Garden, and Household, etc. Some 150 other articles and items give a large amount of practical information useful to all classes, such as Work for the Month; Humbugs Exposed; Among the Farmers, by One of Them; Talks on Farm Crops; Cheap Ice Houses; Making Vinegar; Cider and Vinegar Houses; How to Decorate Churches at Christmas, with engravings; Household topics; Children's Column; Common Birds described and illustrated, etc., etc. The curious path of a long-range rifle bullet is shown. A full descriptive premium list is offered. Those subscribing now for 1879 get the American Agriculturist the rest of this year free. $1.50 a year; single copies, 15 cents. Orange Judd Company, New York, Publishers.

INTERNATIONAL REVIEW.—The International Review for November-December opens with an article by Professor P. G. Tait, of Edinburgh, in reply to Mr. Froude's recent deliverence in the same magazine. Professor Tait entitles his reply, "Does Humanity Require a New Revelation?" and his first sentence is: "This question we answer with a prompt and decided—No!" and though his tone is more controversial and argumentative and less serenely dogmatic perhaps than that of the celebrated historian, it is quite as positive, and Mr. Froude receives pretty severe treatment; whether or no it is satisfactory treatment need not concern us here, of course. The next paper is "Pending Ordeals of Democracy," by George W. Julian, and is a very careful consideration of a very important matter. Mr. Spofford writes of "The Government Library at Washington" in a way well worth the attention not only of the authorities whom he desires to touch, but of the general public as well. "The Final Philosophy" is by Rev. John Hall, and is an exposition and criticism of Dr. Shield's work with that title. Mr. Albert Rhodes, who is United States Consul at Rouen, writes of "Successful Mediocrity;" Mr. Horace White has a long and timely article on "After Specie Resumption—What?" and, besides the usually full—even for the International, which is always fuller than any other magazine in these departments—review of literature abroad, there is "A Shocking Story," by Wilkie Collins. A. S. Barnes & Co., New York, publishers.

North Hastings.

(From the Madoc Review.)

TRAINING TEACHERS.—Last week the teachers of North Hastings who are studying for certificates commenced a session of training at the Madoc Model School. We believe there are about fourteen teachers in attendance.

DRILLING SCHOOL CHILDREN.—A very desirable feature in connection with the education of the school children in this village is the system lately inaugurated of putting the boys through a course of drill exercise once a week. This result has been arrived at through the kindness of Major Rawe, who has consented to give a portion of his time each week to drilling them. We think this is a step to be highly commended, and trust the Major, who takes a great interest in such matters, will have the satisfaction of soon seeing the good results of his labors in the more healthy and manly bearing of his young recruits.

TOOLS STOLEN.—On Saturday, 27th ult., some unknown persons stole a number of carpenters' tools belonging to the workmen on the B. & N. H. Railway. It appears the tools were locked up in a tool-box, and that some time between Saturday night and Monday morning the miscreants pried the back off the box, and extracted the tools therefrom. As yet, the guilty ones have not been found out, but we hope ere long to see them brought before a J. P., and tried in the justice mill with a good man at the crank.

ENGLISH SPARROWS.—It appears that a number of these little creatures have at last decided upon making this place their permanent abode, as a number have been stopping with us for some time. A gentleman informs us that on passing a bush on one of our streets the other morning, he passed within a few feet of a flock which were so tame that they did not offer to move on his approach.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Minister Seward has arrived from China to stand a Congressional investigation.

Gen. Pope in his report says, the Cheyenne outbreak was caused by starvation. He comments upon the fact that under a clause in the last army bill, the troops which might have prevented or suppressed the New Mexico disturbances were powerless, and thus many lives were lost, and much property destroyed. He says that unless ample, and above all regular supplies of food can be guaranteed to the Indians, I am compelled in justice to the Government and the frontier settlers to ask for more troops.

CHICAGO, Nov 8.—The earnings of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad for the five months from June to November, showed a decrease of only $3,000 compared with the same period of last year. The earnings of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad from January to November, showed an increase of $375,000 over last year.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. Nov. 8.—Martin Waney, while drunk, stabbed Peter Hahn, probably fatally.

RICHMOND, Ind., Nov. 8.—Seven Darke County (Ohio) regulators have been arrested for kidnapping and murdering a son of Steven Wade. Ten prominent citizens of Darke Co. have been served with notices to leave the County, on penalty of death.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The Times Washington special says the present indebtedness of the Union Pacific Railroad to the Government is $40,000,000. It is not believed the Government would assent to the proposed scheme to meet this debt with new 4 per cent bonds.

The Times Charleston special says the Democratic majority in South Carolina on the Congressional vote is over 60,000. Of thirty-two counties the Republicans carried only Beaufort. The three Republicans elected from that county are the only Republican members of Legislature. In the second Congressional district the Democrats refused to appoint a single Republican manager, and at nine-tenths of the polls the ballots in the boxes exceeded the names on the poll list by hundreds. The extra ballots consist of small tissue paper tickets.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—It is stated that a plan of reorganization of the New York Midland road was agreed upon last night, by which holders of the Receiver's certificates are to receive the preferred stock and first mortgage bondholders the common stock to amount of their claims.

As the Stewart grave robbers took away the vestments of the body they are liable to punishment if detected, although the law does not seem to provide a penalty for stealing the body for blackmailing purposes. Two years ago Mrs. Stewart received letters demanding money, under the threat of desecration of her husband's grave. Mrs. Stewart is very ill and sank slowly yesterday, after having been told of the shocking crime. Judge Hilton declares he is absolutely certain to recover the remains and arrest the guilty parties within a short time. He thinks it would be impossible to deceive him about the body, as peculiar operations on the teeth will make identification easy. The robbers took away the coffin plate and a piece of the coffin linen, doubtless to possess proofs of the correct identity in case of a reward being offered.

The widow and only child of a millionaire, Thomas Garner, jr., have brought an action against William E. Thorne, trustee under the guardian's will, to have him removed, on the ground of his alleged improper and unsafe investments.

Fink & Hersetfield, wholesale clothiers, have failed. Liabilities, $50,000.

Anxiety is felt over the non-arrival at Antwerp of the steamer Herman Ludwig, which left here Sept. 28th, and was due October 13. She had 3 passengers and a crew of 90, with a large assorted cargo.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Weather cold and wet. The telegrams from Northern and Eastern Europe announce a heavy fall of snow. The Appenines and Blackforest are covered and the Swiss passes are blocked. In France the rivers are very high; the Seine threatens inundation.

MOVILLE, Nov. 8.—Arrived, the State of Louisiana.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Kallevig, Maller & Co., commission merchants, have failed. Liabilities $650,000.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—Count Schouvaloff was one of the passengers on the Russian imperial yacht Livadia, recently swamped. The health of the Czar is reported more and more unsatisfactory. Schouvaloff has left Livadia for London. The state of the Emperor's health not now permitting a solution to be decided upon, concerning the pending political difficulties.

LONDON, Nov 8.—The fund for the relief of the impoverished shareholders in the Glasgow Bank has reached £90,000.

PESTH, Nov. 8.—Andrassy presented the Budget to the Delegations yesterday. The expenditure for '79 is estimated at 94,751,715 florins; 30,000,000 florins less than the preceding Budget.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The News' article on the fishery question concludes as follows:—"We wait with interest the publication of Salisbury's despatch, and the statement drawn up by the Canadian Government, but there is no use trying to disguise the fact that Evarts' case has some force in it. A right has been bought, and in the natural course of things will be paid for by the United States. Their right of fishing thus acquired accrued about two years before the local law was passed, and our commissioners forgot to reserve to Local Legislatures the right of making regulations. We fear the date fixed by treaty for the payment of awards, Nov. 23rd, will be long past before the American Government are convinced of the error of their contention. The question is one of legal obligation, and it cannot be too calmly discussed on both sides. A reluctance to inflict a wrong should be at least as strong as a determination not to submit to one.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Rob't Bonner has purchased the trotter Edwin Forrest, for $16,000.

Five men drew revolvers and entered Johnson's jewelry store, 8th Avenue, last evening, intimidated the clerks and outsiders, stole $2,000 worth of jewelry, jumped into a cart, and fled.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The police have not yet discovered any clue to the parties who robbed Stewart's grave.

Edward K. Aldrich, a lawyer, suicided this morning at his residence by taking morphine.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 8.—Two deaths from fever, weather much cooler.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

A New European Conference Proposed.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—A Constantinople correspondent states that the Rhodope insurrection has received a fatal blow by the assassination of Omer Aga, one of its most influential leaders, by Kara Yussuf, a former leader who had been disgraced for plundering. Omer Aga's death produced such a disorganization that the majority of the leaders dismissed their bands to their homes.

A Paris correspondent states positively that pourparlers are proceeding for a conference respecting a revision of the Treaty of Berlin. The idea originated in Berlin or Vienna.

A Berlin correspondent says the Porte is concentrating 40,000 men between Mitrovitza and Kustendji.

A Pera despatch says the Porte has sent a circular to the powers setting forth important reasons for not convoking a Parliament this year, but declaring that the Sultan is resolved to maintain the new constitution.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7.—Four thousand Bulgarians have burned fourteen villages in Demotica.

The Porte has sent notes to Prince Labanoff pointing out the fact that the Russians are powerless to repress the Bulgarian movement. The Porte also discusses the non-evacuation of Turkish terriory by the Russians.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Nov. 8.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the Lower Lake region fresh to brisk westerly to northerly winds, partly cloudy to clear weather, no decided change in temperature. For the St. Lawrence, brisk westerly to northerly winds, partly cloudy weather with areas of snow in the lower portion. For the Maritime Provinces, increasing northeasterly to northwesterly winds, cloudy weather with rain changing to snow flurries.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Indications:—Colder, clear or partly cloudy. Cautionary signals at Buffalo, Rochester and Oswego.

INGERSOLL CHEESE MARKET.

At this market yesterday the stock of cheese on hand unsold was the heaviest ever remembered at this season of the year, and the Committee of Management have decided in consequence to keep the market open during November for the benefit of its patrons. The offerings yesterday represented 38,000 boxes, 2,000 of which sold at 8c for September make. This is about 2c per pound lower than what factorymen held at not long since. THE CHALLENGE SALE.

The OAK HALL Clothing House, 350 Front St., Belleville

IS determined to rule the Clothing Trade in Belleville. We are in shape to do it, for we buy every dollar's worth of Goods for Cash, and buy each and every line of Goods where they can be got the cheapest. Every Merchant in Belleville advertises to sell the cheapest goods in his line—and for some time back one of our contemporaries has been trying to throw down the gauntlet to crush the smaller brethren in the trade, on whose behalf we take it up, and raise the old war-cry, "Come on, MacDuff." Owing to our largely increased trade we purchased a mammoth Fall Stock. We have in fact as much and more Ready-made Clothing as all the other Clothing houses put together,—all new this Fall, and selected with great care by one of the best buyers in Ontario.

We have Men's heavy Grey Overcoats for $4.00. Do. Working Pants for $1.25. Men's Worsted Diagonal Pants and Vests, $4.00.

In fact the house is crowded with new goods. Call and see for yourselves, and see prices in other Stores before calling. We don't defy competition, but we undersell it.

REILLY & COMPANY, Proprietors.

Circular to the Public.

We have much pleasure in thanking the citizens of Belleville and adjoining Counties, for the large and satisfactory trade we have so far done this season.

Up to this date our Cash sales have exceeded those of any previous season, and we are aiming to make this the largest Fall and Winter trade yet done by us.

To do this, we have imported direct from the leading Manufacturers and Warehouses of Great Britain, an unusually large, varied, and attractive Stock of new Dry Goods, all of which have been personally selected by a member of our Firm, who has had a long experience in catering to the tastes and requirements of the people of this section of the country, and also from having so frequently visited the Home markets, has acquired a thorough knowledge of the best places and houses to purchase the different lines of Dry Goods from. Every intelligent person can easily understand that in this particular we have a decided advantage over others, who send their orders to Commission houses, and allow these houses to do their entire buying.

Notwithstanding the statements of an opposition House to the contrary, we beg to state and challenge successful contradiction, that the value of our Importations Direct from the European markets in original packages—all of which were selected by our own buyer, and of which we are prepared to produce the original invoices—largely exceed those of any other Dry Goods house in the City of Belleville.

To the general public, the most important and interesting part of what we have to say is, that we are prepared to furnish them with a large portion of their Fall and Winter Dry Goods at prices whereby they can save from ten to twenty five cents on every dollar's worth, by buying them at our Warehouse. To some this may appear impossible, but to those who doubt the truth of our statements, we say, Compare the prices and qualities of our goods with those sold by other Stores. Is it not necessary to buy, should they not prove equal to what we advertise them.

We are now selling a large lot of new Dress Goods at 12½, 15, 20, and 25c. per yard, which are admitted by all to be the cheapest lot of Dress Goods ever offered in this City. And although our sales of Dress Goods this season have already been very large, we are still able to show an immense variety of all the leading colors and materials which have been produced this season.

In addition to the above, the following lines are particularly worthy the attention of parties wanting first class value in these goods:

Black Silks, Silk Velvets, Velveteens, Crapes, Black and Colored Cashmeres, Kid Gloves, Jackets and Mantles, Corsets, Table Linens, Table Napkins and Towels, Scarlet and White Flannels, Wincies, and all kinds of Millinery Goods.

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the 1st of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of such of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value, especially to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Tweed, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially increase its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with Kingston and Prince Edward, and with a desire to cement more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURG, in the County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz: One page, $10 00; half-page, $6 00; quarter page, $4 00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work and in the issue of which will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and ever-improving City and County.

Orders for the Directory or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

The Maximum Speed of the Trotter.

2.14 remained unbeaten since September, 1874, and many thought the trotter would never sap ar who would wrest her crown from Goldsmith Maid. This season Rarus has beaten that time thrice, twice as a record, and once as a matter of fact, though not a technical record, while Edwin Forest has sufficiently demonstrated his ability to trot faster than 2.14, when conditions are favorable. These successes, however, indicate that the utmost tension of which a trotter is capable has about been reached, and show how difficult it is to cut off a quarter of a second at that tremendous rate of speed. Three times on unexceptionable tracks, and with favorable weather, Rarus has done his level best, and trotted in 2 13½, 2 13½, 2 13¾. The extra strain which was required to lop off each additional quarter second from his record was apparent while the slight difference in these three fast heats show that the maximum of his speed has been developed, at least within a slight fraction. It may be that a trotter will some time appear, with a speed of 32s to the quarter who can maintain it for a mile, but we doubt it. These trials have been instructive in showing that, as yet, no horse can maintain top speed, at a trotting gait, for a full mile. When Rarus trotted in 2.13¾, at Buffalo, he went to the three-quarter pole at the rate of 2:11, and the result was that he could do the remaining quarter at no better than a 2:19 gait. When he trotted at Hartford in 2.13¾, and with favorable weather, Rarus was to the three-quarter pole at the rate of 2.14¾ only, and was then able to finish at a 2.10 gait, and the same was true of his 2.13¾ heat, except that he trotted his last quarter at a 2:11 gait. Edwin Forest again, in his first exhibition heat, was content to go to the half pole in 1:06½, and then trotted his mile out on his courage in 2.14¾; while in his second exhibition heat, when he was hurried to the half in 1.05¾, he finished in but 2:16. It is a nice study regulating the speed of these flyers to obtain the fastest possible heat.—Wilkes' Spirit.

Why the Great Eastern Was a Failure

In a commercial sense the great ship has undoubtedly been an utter failure, and it has been stated on good authority that between 1853 and 1860 one million sterling had been lost upon her by the various proprietors who had attempted to work her. Nor is it difficult on an impartial view of her design and subsequent history to discover the causes of this failure. First of all, Mr. Brunel, despite his remarkable foresight, did not realize the changes which have been produced in a single generation by the process of steam navigation. Coal mines have been opened out in all parts of the world, and even if it once may have been, it is now no longer necessary or desirable for a steamer to carry coals for a return voyage, either from India or Australia; in fact the proverbial folly of "carrying coals to Newcastle" may be applied to an Australian as well as to an English coal field. Further, the improvements in marine engineering which have been introduced since the Great Eastern was designed have rendered possible large economies in consumption. It is said that the engines fitted to the ship consumed about 360 tons of coal per day when the speed averaged about 13 knots per hour; but if the modern type of compound engine had been fitted the rate of consumption would not have exceeded 180 tons. Mr. Brunel appears to have been too sanguine in his estimate of the speed and coal consumption, and this is scarcely surprising when the entire departure from previous examples of steamships is remembered. He hoped that the ship would make the passage to Australia in 36 days, which would have required an average speed of 14 knots per hour, and this speed was to be purchased by the consumption of 200 tons of coal per day. With regard to passengers the hopes may have been more nearly realized, and it has been reported that the present proprietors (1878) of the ship have contemplated converting the present engines in order to save fuel, but no change of this kind has been yet begun. The chief cause of failure in a commercial sense was, however, the entire impossibility of securing such an enormous complement of passengers and cargo as was estimated to be necessary in order to cover working expenses and earn a profit. Six thousand tons of dead weight was the quantity of cargo required; but to ship such a quantity must at any time have involved serious delays in port, and as a matter of fact merchants and insurers were not ready to run the risk involved in embarking so much in a single bottom. On the whole, therefore, two or three steamers of moderate size with modern types of engines would be more profitably employed to carry the same number of passengers and the same aggregate dead weight of freight as those for which the Great Eastern was designed. During the last three or four years strenuous efforts have been made to improve the steamship service between England and Australia, and competition has been keen not merely between steamers and sailing vessels, but between different lines of steamers. Some of the latter now make the passage, via the Cape, in from 40 to 45 days, and it is proposed to abridge this time to 36 days; but no one has imagined it desirable to employ ships exceeding about one-fourth the weight of the Great Eastern.—Great Industries of Great Britain.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY,

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Deny it who can," it is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your preju ice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain.

The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge" of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astounding cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

SEVENTY TIMES SEVEN.

Not once alone to turn thy face
In pity for a brother's sin;
Not once to soothe his anger, and
And let the dove forgiveness, in;
Not once to heed the Master's word,
And bury wounds and heal the pain,
But through the woof of life to weave
The pattern o'er and o'er again.

Thus, over graves of broken trusts,
The ivy of a love is spun,
May make the bitterest memory sweet,
And hide the foulest ruin yet.
Thus, in the slaughter paths of life
The lilies of white peace may shine,
To make his charity more plain,
And human pity more divine.

THOUGHTS IN A CITY CHURCHYARD.

Quiet graves in city churchyards
'Mid the rush of hurrying feet,
Silent fronts of marble palaces,
Hearts that long have ceased to beat.

Little recks the life around them,
Surging past the grassy mound,
Few who read the names upon them
Through the consecrated grounds.

Yet, amid the ceaseless passers,
Some worn spirit here and there,
Bowed, perhaps, with mortal weakness,
Bearing marks of toil and care,

Steps within the sacred precints,
Reads, mayhap, with moisten'd eye,
Words of faith and hope undying,
Love that never can grow cold.

Words that speak of resurrection
Of the Lord who died to save,
And the hearts that mourn and brighteners
Of the life beyond the grave.

So he gathers solemn lessons,
Walks he forth with firmer tread,
Feels more kindly to his brother,
From his commune with the dead.

Not alone in shady churchyards,
Stand the gravestones of the dead,
Living hearts bear "in memoriam,"
Hearts that loved and lost and bled.

Forth from memory's haunted chambers,
Voices huddled in mid-earth's rain, tempests
Teach us by their woeful silence
Patiently life's ills to bear.

Rest and peace—dear words of promise—
Rest and peace—the worn heart's balm—
These are words mid earth's rain tempests
Looking into heavenly calm.

Will it Pay?

BY BISHOP CLARK, OF RHODE ISLAND.

When a business venture of any kind is proposed, if it is not likely to pay, men are very certain to keep out of it. They may be grievously disappointed in the result; but if there had not been in the beginning a reasonable prospect of making something out of it, they would never have gone into the speculation.

The question "Will it pay?" is sometimes asked in a low mean spirit, and men turn away from a grand and noble work merely because they "see no money in it." There are other ways in which a thing may pay, which are of more account than riches, or houses or lands; whether these are appreciated, or not, depends upon the man's standard of action.

"Will it pay?"—if this question had been carefully weighed by certain persons, those dishonored names are in every body's mouth, what a blessing it would have been to them and to the community. The air is full of melancholy and poignant talk because of the frauds and defalcations of prominent persons, who were trusted without limit and had always been regarded as models of integrity. They did not fall from their high estate without some degree or deliberation; they were not suddenly tempted, like the man who, in the desperation of hunger, snatches a loaf or steals a purse, to keep himself from starving. They found themselves embarrassed, disappointed in speculation, liable for more than it is easy to pay, and, being treasurers of rich corporations, or holding large sums of money in trust, hardly knew, every day a hundred times more than would be needed to tide them over the existing crisis, it seems no great crime to appropriate for their own use a certain portion of funds belonging to other people, just for a little time, and with a very fair prospect of replacing the money before it is needed.

It is not actual stealing, but only a kind of surreptitious borrowing. Suppose that every thing had turned out as they hoped and expected, and there had been able to refund what they had appropriated, without any suspicion ever attaching to them—did it pay? Is the crime condoned by the fortunate result? Nothing damages a man's nature more than successful fraud. Other people know nothing about it, but the stain is all the deeper because the offence has been called upon to pay no penalty. And then observe what, in such a case, is very likely to happen. The fraud has had the benefit of his sin, while no one else has suffered, and so on, when another emergency comes, the temptation is never the less that it has succeeded once before: the fraud is almost irresistible, and he goes on from bad to worse, until the tide turns, and he is left stranded on the shore.

Directly before me I see, from the edge of the business thoroughfare of factories, the tops of houses, the spires of churches, belonging to a city which for years has been universal for enterprise and prosperity. To-day its fair name is tarnished, its credit gone, its population suffering in body and soul, because of the sin men, honored and believed in, have thought that it would pay for them to apply to their own benefit money which did not belong to them. Banished from home, shut up in prison cells, their name a by-word and a hissing, their poor families impoverished and disgraced, how often must they wish now: Again, does it do for one to sacrifice his convictions of right and truth for the sake of some worldly advantage? Here is a man in public life, a candidate for the honors of the State; he has already attained a position of no little eminence, and with a good prospect of rising much higher, if he can manage to retain the popular favor. There comes a crisis that is to put him to the test and which may result in sending him back into the obscurity from which he started. A political delusion has taken possession of the public mind, and especially of the party with which he is connected,—some wild notion of finance, which he knows must result in nothing but disaster and confusion. Will it pay for him to declare his real sentiments, and do what he can to resist the tide of ignorance and folly? On the other hand, will it pay for him to do violence to his convictions and give his vote for a measure which his best judgment condemns? Many a strong man is now engaged in putting a padlock on his conscience, and allows his name to become identified with what he knows to be a lie. When history comes to be written, or when the sober second thought of an impoverished people asserts itself, will it look as if its lie had paid?

Another man is only a private citizen, but he is the model man of the town, to whose opinion it is the general custom to defer. In process of time there breaks out in the community one of those moral epidemics to which our countrymen seem to be peculiarly exposed, some high sounding and pretentious piece of quackery, that carries away captive many women and children, high and low, rich and poor. This wise man is well satisfied that the popular new nostrum is the end will only aggravate the evil which it professes to cure, will it pay for him to say so? "I shall lose my influence if I speak out; I must save that at all hazards; I am greatly needed in this community." Influence is a thing to be used and not saved, and the men who have done the best work for the world are those who have been ready to sacrifice reputation for God's sake and the truth. One strong, clear voice is better than the babble of a great multitude, and in the end may silence that babble.

The third man is a religious teacher—an honored leader in some great ecclesiastical organization. His eyes are gradually opened to see that certain things which those about him regard as true and sacred are really unsound and superstitious. What is he to do? Will it pay for him to say this boldly and plainly? His argument may be perfectly conclusive, but this will not be regarded, for superstition does not rest upon argument. The way is open for him to go out and leave the body to which he has belonged, but this, of course, ends his influence there, and he still loves his church and believes it to be, upon the whole, the best of churches. What shall he do? It is a very trying question, and it is not easy for any man to answer it for another. If the man is convinced that the error is radical, he is bound so to declare it, or leave the church. If not, he may be content to remain where he is, and trust the power of truth eventually to extinguish the error. Under all circumstances we are bound never to say that which we do not believe, but we are not always called upon to deny everything which we disbelieve.

Finally, will it pay to take the first step in the career of vice and dissipation and folly? Will it pay to mingle strong drink, or lay down a little money on the gambler's green table, or enter into the shadow of yonder house of death, or take the name of the Almighty upon profane and thrilling lips, or lounge away the time that ought to be devoted to some good and real work? Does anything pay when the investment fails to yield a substantial and permanent dividend? Does anything pay unless the profit is in some sense eternal?

The Art of Reading.

In one of his speeches the great Macready said "that it would not be out of place if he made some reference to the art by which they endeavoured to convey to their hearers not only the words, but the inner feelings of the heart. It might appear to some that he set too high an estimate in dignifying that as an art in which no one confessed a deficiency. Every one could read; but he asked, could every one listen to their readings? For his own part, one of the greatest of intellectual luxuries, was to listen to the powerful reading of the eloquent utterances of their great writers. Let him put in a word for reading as an accomplishment which required as much time and practice for its acquirement as the music of their first composers." From this high authority we are enabled to determine the position which elocution holds among the other professions and accomplishments. Ranking equal with music in point of time necessary for acquirement, and in artistic merit; and the profession is full of dignity and importance.

The art of reading may be understood as that system of rules which teaches us to interpret written composition with justness, energy, variety and ease. Agreeably to this definition, reading may be considered as that species of delivery which not only expresses the sense of the author, so as barely to be understood, but which, at the same time, gives it all the force, beauty and variety of which it is susceptible. Not a mere mechanical rendering, but in every word there should dwell a living spirit.

In many of our present readers we find a false tendency. Educated it may be in the theory, their hearts are not taught to act. Nor are their imaginations developed to the full requirements of the art. They utter mechanically the words before them, with a possibly pleasing effect upon those who are capable of judging the true merits of the rendering, but with an ordinary critic it must be considered the simple jangle of a machine. We can pay no greater compliment to such readers than that their popularity will never extend beyond a certain point, which is the limit of their circle of friends.

In elocution we find a grand and noble study; one which develops our higher and better nature, and sheds its influence through body and soul. The young man who studies elocution at the same time studies nature, and obtains a grand insight into its many mysteries. To some it might seem long and tedious, but to the poetic nature it is pleasing and profitable, and to all it much more than compensates for the time and labor spent in its acquirement.

In social life we find both its origin and perfection, inasmuch as conversation may be regarded as the foundation of our speech. It is the germ from whence must issue all the powers of expression within the possibility of our nature. We come in contact with our friends in social intercourse, and in our thoughts and feelings come into service. We render ourselves agreeable to our friends largely as our voice and manner are pleasing and attractive. Our influence and usefulness in any social relation must then depend upon the culture of these qualities.

Let me add a word to its importance as an accomplishment. We find many who study the art of music as an accomplishment; but how many do we find who study the art of reading for the same purpose? In the home circle, in the social group, and even on the platform its power and influence are enduring. We never tire of listening and enjoying the pleasing effect, and are many times surprised at the intensity of expression to which the voice and heart can be cultivated. We have noticed that in the social circle, readings are sought and valued as highly as the renderings of the best musicians.—Homestead.

Is It What it Ought to Be?

Is our daily life what it ought to be? Do we not allow petty vexations and trivial things to sour our temper and darken our brow—the impulses of nature to get the better of us? The impatient word just now; you were fretted, but did it make you feel any more pleasant? These light and trifling thoughts; they have gone to give their account against you. That witticism at another's expense; you mean no harm, but was it, after all, quite right and doing just as you would be done by? And then the words that are unspoken; the opportunities neglected which might be productive of so much good! How much evil we do when we might do good! How much reproach we bring upon ourselves by our inconsistencies! How little we do for others what we would that they should do unto us! How selfish we are, and ready to listen to the promptings of self-interest! How we permit little jealousies and animosities to rankle in our heart, and pride, vain and impotent, to fill it! How little of charity do we feel for an erring brother or sister, as if we never erred ourselves! How imperfect and incongruous are our lives!

How Do We Bear False Witness?

The answer to this from many lips would be prompt, for the sense mentally conjured up by the words is usually that of a person standing in a witness-box in a court of justice, and making false statements concerning some other person; but there are many ways besides that in which some of us are constantly guilty of the sin of "bearing false witness."

We bear false witness of others when we join in the miserably-mean, small tittle-tattle which is always going on respecting their sins and failings; and we give little twists to our reports of their actions, little colorings—very fault, perhaps—that show them up in the worst light; not falsehoods—oh, no! not falsehoods, by any means—we never tell falsehoods, we are above that sort of thing; but we do like just to criticise a little bit, and criticism is dangerous ground, for when we are once fairly started on other people's shortcomings it is so easy—oh, so easy!—to put in a touch here and a shading there till the picture is completed to our mind, and it is necessary either to talk about others to bear false witness against them. We can do it just as easily by keeping silence when we ought to speak—by holding our tongues when we hear what we know, or have good reason to suspect, are untrue representations of our absent friends. A smile of assent when we hear them blamed, an incredulous smile or glance when we hear them praised—we need not utter one word, and yet we have borne false witness.

We bear false witness of others to ourselves when we are too ready to act as judges and critiques their conduct towards us; when we are always looking out for slights and take offence at words, or even looks, that were kind, although they may possibly hit us, were in all probability never intentionally aimed at us; when we put down innocent words to low motives, and fancy that everything which does not look quite clear to us must necessarily flow from poisoned springs.

We bear false witness of ourselves to others. We take credit, many of us, for virtues that we do not in reality possess; our church-and-chapel going religion stands in the place of that respect, and we put on a fair outside seeming before the world, which we hope hides our manifold little meannesses and the many faults of whose existence we ourselves alone are conscious—and not always we ourselves.

We bear false witness of ourselves to ourselves. We are not honest with ourselves. Sharp as is our vision for the failings of others, it usually becomes dim enough when turned inwards on our own, and the glance is but cursory. We might be far more sincere with ourselves than we are; and then it would be easier to avoid the many ways in which

We bear false witness of Christ. For, alas! we do that. By our inconsistencies and inconsistency we bring reproach on Him whom we hold up as the great example for mankind; and the world, looking on us, instead of looking up to Him, shakes its head and says, "If these are His followers, we will have none of Him!"

Lawful Pursuits and Pleasures.

In regard to the lawfulness of certain pursuits, pleasures and amusements, it is impossible to lay down any fixed and general rule, but we may confidently say that whatever is found to unfit you for religious duties or to interfere with the performance of them, whatever disquiets your mind or cools the fervor of your devotions, whatever indisposes you to read your Bible or to engage in prayer, whatever the thought of a blessed Saviour or of a holy God at the hour of death, or of the day of judgment, falls like a cold shadow on your enjoyment, the pleasures which you cannot thank God for, on which you cannot ask His blessing, whose recollections will haunt as a dying bed, and plant sharp thorns in an uneasy pillow—these are not for you. These eschew; in these be not conformed to the world, but transformed by the renewing of your mind—be Touch not, taste not, handle not. Never go where you cannot ask God to go with you, never be found where you would not like death to find you. Never indulge in any pleasure which will not bear the morning's reflection. Keep yourselves unspotted from the world: not from its sights only, but even from its suspicions.—Dr. Guthrie.

Courtesy and Christian Courtesy.

There is a thing which we call high-breeding or courtesy; its name proclaims that it is the manners of the court, and it is supposed to belong exclusively to persons highly born. There is another thing which we call Christian courtesy; the difference between the two is that high-breeding graciously insists upon its own rights; Christian courtesy gracefully remembers the rights of others. In the narrow, limited sense of the word, "gentleman" can only be applicable to persons born in a certain class, and "gentle," which is only the old English word "genteel," but in the larger, higher meaning it belongs to those who are gentle in character rather than in blood; and just as "genteel" has come to mean "genteel," so the words "gentleman," "courtesy," "politeness," have come to be considered the exclusive property of one class.

The Spirit of Christ does really what breeding only does outwardly. A high-bred man never forgets himself, but always controls his temper, does nothing in excess, is urbane, dignified, and that even to persons whom he is inwardly cursing in his heart. A man who is a Christian is what the world seems to be. Love gives him a delicate tact which never offends because it is full of sympathy. It discerns far off what would hurt fastidious feelings, feels with others, and is ever on the watch to avoid what would be painful. Manners are the only true refinement—that which lies not on the surface, but goes deep down into the heart.—COMES from Christian Love.—F. W. Robertson.

Her Duties to Society.

I heard a woman not long since—she was a wife and a mother—telling of the duties she owed to society. Her remarks were in answer to a female friend who had suggested to her that the true woman, at the head of a family, with husband and children to care for, could not be expected to give her time to much of outside matter. She could do what was truly and righteously here to do, and there let it rest. And the woman had answered that she owed duties to society—suffering humanity everywhere—which demanded, and merited her attention.

Ah! even so. But, my good woman, is all attended to at home before you go forth to your work for the outer world? You do owe a duty to society—a duty sacred and of vast moment. It is yours to strengthen the hands of your husband for his battle with the world and to rear and fit your children for their places in the nation. Will did the old politician philosopher and economist say; "Let me lead the mothers, and I lead the nation!" You—forget it not, mothers of our land! The future states are under your fostering care are to be workers and warriors, the physicians and evangels, of the coming time.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, NOV. 9.

"Well Done, Mackenzie!"

Such is the benediction which the New York Witness bestows upon the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie on his retirement from office as Premier of Canada. The journal to which we refer, although an offshoot of the Montreal concern of the same name, owned by Mr. John Dougall and edited by a Canadian Grit, seems to make an effort at times to treat of Canadian political affairs in an unbiassed manner ; but in the effort to which we refer it is not happy. So grotesquely are its statements at variance with the facts in this instance, that we reproduce its article for the amusement of our readers. It is as follows :—

"Some years ago the popular vote in Canada removed Premier Macdonald from office, but just before making way for his successor, Mackenzie, he filled all vacant offices with his political friends, and let out contracts of one kind and another to an enormous amount to his supporters. That was enough. Now the whirligig of time has removed Premier Mackenzie from office, who had also plenty of vacancies to fill and contracts enough, for which his friends were clamorous. How does he act in this delicate predicament? Does he follow the bad example of of Macdonald, who now again is raised into power? No, indeed, for he is an honorable man. As the people have dismissed him he believes he would be acting an ignoble part to copy his predecessor. Macdonald makes a regutation (able though he be) which cannot command respect. Mackenzie's high honor forces universal admiration. He is one of the rare men who will do right though the heavens fall. How can we help respecting and praising the man who in the presence of a strong temptation comes through the ordeal without a stain? What honor he reflects upon his name and his family. Let the above be told in all political circles everywhere. He has demonstrated that principle and integrity are better than partisanship. He has passed through the fiery furnace and come out unscathed. Such men need to be mutiplied not in Canada only, but in all countries. They illustrate that fair play is a jewel, and that paying a political opponent as he own coin is useful to way to stand well on the page of history. Measurine ourselves by ourselves is very poor work; Mackenzie's standard is much higher. The corrupt politicians will say he is no leader. But that is a mistake. We can hear another and a better voice saying, well done! It is always delightful to find true men who can stand the fire—who prefer defeat to dishonor. We are not sure that there is another example of the kind in Canadian history. Lord Dufferin leaves the Dominion with splendid recollections of his Prime Ministar. He found one who was in the habit of keeping his conscience and his intellect yoked together ; who, if he had any doubt about the right path, consulted. One higher than hungry officeseekers. It is a path which if searched for with all one's heart, is sure to be found. In every walk of life the retiring Canadian official has set an example to be followed. His successor, Macdonald, may, with advantage, learn the lesson. Of these two men, which is the greater, the one entering office or the one leaving it? It seems to us that every eye that looks upon things straight is upon the retiring gentleman. Well done, Mackie."

The above is a very nice eulogium, one which any man might be proud to receive ; but unfortunately it is unwarranted, and being founded upon false information, untrue in every particular. We have no desire to strike Mr. Mackenzie now that he is down, or to attempt to belittle or misrepresent him ; but as our New York contemporary has attributed to him a virtue which he does not possess, and in doing so has incidentally cast an unjust reflection upon the present Premier, it becomes necessary that the truth should be made to appear.

It must be borne in mind that Sir John A. Macdonald and Mr. Mackenzie left office under widely different circumstances. Sir John, up to the hour of his resignation, had not had the verdict of the people rendered against him, and presumably still controlled a majority in Parliament. Mr. Mackenzie's administration had, on the contrary, been condemned by the people in the most emphatic manner possible. Again, Mr. Mackenzie dismissed a number of the appointees of his predecessor, thereby subscribing to a principle enunciated by his chief newspaper organ at that time, for the guidance of the Reform party, in these words : "What ought to be done is to establish as a principle—departure from "which in any case is an act of politicol "immorality—that as soon as any administration determines on relinquishing the "reins of power its patronage, ipso facto, "lapses."

Now as Mr. Mackenzie subscribed to and endorsed that principle on taking office, he should have adhered to it on handing over the reins of power to his successor. Did he do so ? The New York Witness says he did, and upon this assumption canonizes Mr. Mackenzie as a political saint, as quoted above. Unfortunately, however, for the object of the Witness' admiration, the facts show that he did not adhere to the item in his political creed which is above recited, he having, during the last hours of his official life, ignored his high-sounding declaration that the appointing power of "an administration which has determined on relinquishing the reins of power ipso facto ceases," and, consisted only in his inconsistency, appointed a number of his friends to offices of a lucrative nature, many of which had been purposely kept vacant for months previous to the election as baits to secure votes for candidates in his interest. The whole number of appointments made by Mr. Mackenzie under these circumstances has not yet been published, but sufficient is known about them to utterly condemn him as inconsistant and hypocritical to the last. The partial list of these appointments, with the salaries attached, is as follows :—

	Salary.
Judge Taschereau, Supreme Court	$ 7,000
Mr. Weatherbee, Supreme Court, N.S.	5,000
M. H. T. Taschereau, Supreme Court, Quebec	5,000
Mr. Bell, County Judgeship, Kent	2,400
M. Laframbise, Judgeship, Carp District	2,500
Mr. Buckingham, Deputy Minister of Interior	2,800
Mr. Webster, Collectorship at Belleville	1,400
M. Marchand, Montreal Custom House Shipping Master—Montreal	1,200
Stratford Post Office (say)	800
Port Hope Post Office (say)	800
Mr. M. St. John, Indian Commissioner at Winnipeg—annual income, $1,800, with travelling expenses, amounting in all to say	2,200
Mr. Thomas Howard, Assistant Receiver-General for Manitoba—annual income	2,600
Mr. E. E. Richard, Sheriff of North-West Territories—annual income, $1,200, with travelling expenses, say	1,700
Mr. A. McKay, Indian Agent—annual income, $1,000, with travelling expenses, say	1,400
Mr. E. A. Mullin, Indian Agent—annual income, $1,000, with travelling expenses, say	1,400
Flour Inspectorship—Montreal	1,200
Total	$40,600

It is expected that the total list will soon be made public, when, a contemporary asserts, it will be found that the total amount of salaries will be found to foot up to $75,000.

Thus does the Witness' political idol fall to smash. Our contemporary may, possibly, have better luck another time in its effort to canonize a Canadian politician, provided it devotes more careful attention to verifying its information. We should be sorry to think that there is not material in the Dominion for so worthy a distinction ; but it must be looked for elsewhere then among such men as Mackenzie, Cauchon, Cartwright, Ladlamme, Blake, Huntington, Jette and the other shining lights of the Grit party, all of whom are very loud in profession but sadly deficient in practice.

The United States Elections.

Later and complete returns show that the Republican success was in the first place overstated. The Democrats will have a majority in both Houses of Congress, but there are sufficient number of "hard money" men amongst the majority to render any attempt at inflation useless. The people of the United States have pronounced for hard money, regardless of party.

The Jacques Cartier Ballot-box Stuffing Case.

The Montreal Star of yesterday says :— "At the Court of Queen's Bench this morning, His Honor Mr. Justice Ramsay gave judgment on the motion of Mr. Carter for arrest of judgment, throwing out the first court of the indictment. He then delivered sentence on the other two courts. Adelard P. Forget was fined $200 or one year's imprisonment ; Alphonse Christin, $100 or forty-five days' imprisonment ; Adolphe Lamarche, $100 or forty-five days' imprisonment ; Isaie Pilon, $50 or thirty days' imprisonment. His Honorable Judge impressed upon the defendants the enormity of their offence. He said that if Forget had taken his oath of office as deputy returning officer, he would have fined him $1,000 and three years' imprisonment."

Considering the enormity of the offence with which the parties were charged and of which they were found guilty, the punishment is, to say the least, a mild one. If the crime of ballot box stuffing, which fortunately has never before been practiced in Canada, is to be effectually stamped out, such an example should have been made in this case, as would have deterred others from being guilty of it.

The Montreal Witness holds the same opinion as was expressed in the INTELLIGENCER, namely that the stigma of the Jacques Cartier election fraud must attach to the Grit party. Our contemporary says :—

"There is no evidence that Mr. Laflamme engineered the daring dime novel enterprise ; for which some of his substantial supporters have just been convicted. Lacking it we are bound to suppose that these steady-going professional men, and members of the bourgeoisie of St. Anne's accepted very great risk, and now great disgrace and suffering, out of pure loyalty to a chief who would himself have blushed at the sinfulness of their conduct. Instances have been known of such devotion to a much-loved master, and we shall assume that this is a case in point. Still Mr. Laflamme's record and that of his party can never more be dissociated from a most disgraceful case of ballot-box stuffing. Purity of elections and the ballot have been cries of the Reform party. That party has certainly been the champion of good election laws, and deserves credit for it, but when again will it be possible for Reformers to plume themselves on the reform of our electoral system ? Nay, as often as Mr. Mackenzie taunts Sir John Macdonald with purchasing constituencies with Sir Hugh Allan's money, the latter will have a perfect right to retort the honorable Minister in whose interest the patient magical wardrobe was invented."

THE RAILWAY COLLISION.—The inquest into the cause of the death of Frederick Still, who died from injuries sustained on the occasion of the recent collision on the Grand Trunk, resulted on the 8th inst. in an open verdict. Alex. Hay, the despatcher, who had been arrested on suspicion, was consequently discharged.

FALL OF TAMMANY.—The notorious Tammany, like the Grits, has come to grief, and New York breathes more freely. The downfall is thus chronicled :—Tammany never struggled with greater desperation for success ; Tammany never before had so much at stake ; and Tammany never before met with a defeat so disastrous to its pretences, interests, and prospects. The machinery of its organization was worked with unusual skill throughout the city ; every voter whom it could control was driven to the polls ; the money poured into its treasury through its monstrous system of assessments was lavishly expended ; the corruption of voters was carried on under various disguises ; all the arts of cajolery and terrorism were resorted to; and appeals that would be disgraceful in any campaign were made to the basest interest and to the prejudices of bodies of our fellow citizens. At the last hour Tammany attempted trading of every kind in behalf of its candidate for Mayor. Everything failed. The people were against Tammany.

ELECTRIC LIGHT.—Edison is not to have it all his own way. All the electricians of the world are on his track. There is not a laboratory in Europe which is not busy with this important question. A Scotch paper stated the other day that a north country mechanic had discovered the great secret, and a friend of the editor assured us that within a few days a patent would be registered for an electrical machine which, costing about $100, could be fitted in each house and supply light for a shilling a month. The Jablochkoff process, which is to be tried on the Thames embankment, is no doubt a great advance on other systems. It solves the difficulty of the equal burning of the carbon points. This splendid invention belongs to the Societe Generale d'Electricite, who are at law in London with Wells & Co., whom they charge with infringing not the Jablochkoff system, as is generally supposed, but an electric generator, which is the property of the society, and which they say is at present the most powerful for the purpose yet discovered.

RITUALISM.—The ritualists in England are carrying things to considerable length in regard to confession. A recent publication entitled "Hints to Penitents," recommends lady ritualists to carry note books and pencils, so as conveniently to jot down the sins which they are constantly committing. It advises penitents to talk as little as possible to other people about their confession. The confessions should be made in absolute secrecy. An appointment for confession takes precedence of all other appointments, and should be kept with unfailing promptness. Married women are specially warned against the temptations which beset them from men who lie in wait to ensnare them. Much of the opposition to confession is said to come from the class of men, who naturally object to having their sins told to a priest. "Hints to Penitents" advises penitents to go without butter, sugar, and confectionary, as well as to avoid the use of strong drinks. They must avoid theatres and balls, and if they have done anything particularly bad, must kneel and touch their foreheads to the bare ground, or else extend themselves flat on the floor with the arms extended like a cross.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Anglo-Russian Complications

Reported Abandonment of the Proposed Second Conference.

A Berlin despatch says that 218,000 recruits will be raised by Russia this year instead of a peace contingent of 156,000.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—A Vienna despatch says Schouvaloff's mission to Pesth to propose another Congress to amplify the Treaty of Berlin has been countermanded on account of the uncertainty of the relations between England and Russia.

The health of the Czar is reported more and more unsatisfactory. Schouvaloff has left Livadia for London, the state of the Emperor's health not now permitting a solution to be decided upon concerning pending difficulties.

The reports that the Czar is indisposed are believed at the Russian Embassy here to be unfounded.

A correspondent at Paris says fresh information confirms the report of the ill-health of the Czar.

A Paris correspondent says that according to latest news Schouvaloff goes to London to present his letters of recall. It is believed his journey will have a serious influence on the course of events now causing general anxiety. The correspondent regards the recall of Schouvaloff from London as preliminary to his supplanting Gortshakoff, and adds that a trustworthy informant considers that Bismarck is fearful his mission to Pesth will bring about that event. Schouvaloff's accession to power would be a signal for a policy on the part of Russia and Germany aiming at a common reactionary end. Schouvaloff's foreign policy would not be pacific, but rather the opposite.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 8.—Russia is establishing a second line of defence at Adrianople.

Several prominent Turks, believing that the attitude of the Russians in Roumelia will lead to war with England and Turkey, are anxious to convince Minister Layard that the best mode of fighting Afghanistan would be to engage Russia in Europe. The Sultan's immediate entourage, however, are pacific. Several Ministers, and especially the military party, favor a definitive cession of a portion of Bosnia to Russia, so as to secure her neutrality in view of future contingencies.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Ex-Governor Chamberlain has been appointed to the Attorney-General of South Carolina stating that he (Chamberlain) will voluntarily appear to meet any indictment brought against him.

A Seville despatch says : Gen. Grant arrived here on Tuesday and was received with grand honors.

A Newport, R.I., despatch states that some half a dozen state-rooms of the steamer Massachusetts were robbed on Tuesday night, of watches and pocket-books. No arrests.

A Baltimore special says that the German Union Savings Bank ceased payment and is charged with suspension owing to the damaging rumors circulating by the out-going board of directors.

A Norfolk, Va., despatch says : Orras Cook, who murdered an old man 6 weeks ago, was yesterday sentenced to one year in the Penitentiary.

Mear's key factory at Martin's Ferry, West Va., was burned. Loss $12,000.

A Columbus, Ohio, special says, there are charges made against the management of the Asylum there, of cruelty to patients.

The race between Duke of Magouta, was shipped for England to-day, to contest with the English racers.

A Chicago special says the Illinois Legislature will have 26 Republicans, 24 Democrats and 1 Socialist in the Senate, and 78 Republicans, 61 Democrats, 9 Greenbackers and 3 Socialists in the House. The Republicans have a majority of six on joint ballot.

Four steamships sailed for Europe to-day, with full cargoes and a fair list of passengers.

A letter from the Supervisor at Salter's Station, S. C., says he saw the Democrats deposit 2 and 3 ballots folded together and has witnesses to prove the fact. The poll list contained 533 names, but the ballot-box contained 605 votes, when the Democrats threw out 125 Republican votes and counted the precinct Democratic.

The Tribune's New Orleans special recites cases of bulldozing and alleged outrages in a large number of parishes, by which the Republicans were afraid of their lives if they dared to vote. In several parishes heretofore Republican by large majorities, not a single vote was cast.

A letter from Bronson, S.C., states that the negroes there were beaten and shot at during election day, by a red shirt gang of whites. Jas. Rivers, (colored) was fatally shot and several others badly wounded.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—A fire in one of the buildings of the Boston Dye-wood and Chemical Co.'s works, East Boston, destroyed it, including $40,000 worth of machinery. Loss $80,000.

Political Jackals.

When a candidate for State Senator, the political opponents of Dr. R. V. Pierce, in their efforts to overcome his great popularity, and being unable to extract "mud" from the doctor's unsullied record, arranged with the party Jackals to drag the doctor's celebrated Family Medicines into the canvass, and publish preadded analyses of the same. So absurd were the formulas given, and base the charges made, that the editor of the Commercial Advertiser, after a careful investigation, says. "I asked a distinguished dispensing druggist to explain the secret of the almost universal demand for Dr. Pierce's Medicines. He said they are in fact genuine medicines, such as every good physician would prescribe for the diseases which they are advertised to cure." Such endorsements, together with the doctor's election by an unprecedented and overwhelming majority, and his enviable record since made as an active, wise, and sagacious legislator, has been a just rebuke to his petty traducers.

DOMINION GRANGE.—The annual meeting of this body will be held in Toronto on the first Tuesday in December.

COUNTY COUNCIL.—The County Council will meet for its final session of the year on Tuesday next, at 2 p. m. at the Shire Hall.

SKATING.—There was plenty of skating on the ponds in and about the city this morning, the ice being nearly two inches thick.

ROZE-MAPLESON OPERA.—The plan will be opened at Reynolds' book store, Bridge Street, at 10 a.m., on Monday, when seats can be selected by subscribers.

DUNKIN IN PETERBOROUGH.—A By-law for the repeal of the Dunkin Act is to be submitted to the popular vote in Peterborough on Monday, December 9th.

THE DUNKIN ACT.—The temperance people of Prince Edward are to have a meeting at Picton to-day, the 9th inst., to consider the working of the Dunkin Act.

ONTARIO SYNOD.—The Synod of Ontario is to meet in Kingston on Tuesday, Dec. 3rd. Arrangements have been made with the Grand Trunk and other Railway Companies for reduced rates.

APPOINTMENT.—Doctor Ridley, of Hamilton, (brother of Ald. Ridley and Dr. C. Ridley of this city), has been appointed chief medical adviser to the Great Western Railway Company.

99 CENT STORE.—Mr. George E. Plummer has opened at No. 311 Front Street a 99 cent store. The stock is large and varied, as can be learned from the advertisement, which appears in other columns.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.—The annual meeting of the St. Andrew's Society, for the election of officers and the transaction of other business, will be held in the Marble Hall on Wednesday evening next, at 8 o'clock.

SERIOUS FALL.—Mr. C. V. Bogart, whilst walking down the steep hill on Campbell Street—made very slippery by the passage of hand-sleds yesterday afternoon, slipped and fell heavily. It is feared that Mr. Bogart has been hurt internally, as he had to be assisted to his home.

SMALL BUSINESS.—The Brockville Recorder tells of the mean conduct of a conductor on the Perth branch of the C. C. RR., who refused to carry a youth to Brockville on a pass issued by the emigration Department, although he was authorized so to do. The lad was an orphan from the Belleville "Home," who had been apprenticed to a farmer near Perth, but was so badly treated that he was recalled by his Belleville protectors.

METHODIST MISSIONS.—The anniversary sermons in connection with the Methodist Missionary Society of Canada will be preached in the Bridge Street Church tomorrow evening. Rev. Dr. Macdonald, of the Japanese Mission, will preach in the morning and Rev. L. N. Beaudry, of Montreal, will officiate at the evening service. On Monday evening the annual meeting will be held in the church, when addresses will be delivered by Dr. Macdonald, Rev. Mr. Beaudry, Rev. Mr. Learoyd, of Picton, and other ministers.

THE PRINCE EDWARD PROTEST.—The petition against the return of Mr. Platt has been duly filed in the Court of Chancery. Dr. Platt is the petitioner, and claims (1) that Mr. McCuaig and his agents were guilty of corrupt practices as defined by the Dominion Elections Act, 1874, and the Dominion Controverted Elections Act, 1874, and by the Common Law of Parliament, (2) that by himself and agents, was prior to, at and during the said election, guilty of bribery, treating and undue influence and personation, and of inducing persons to commit personation as defined by the said Act; (3) that he and his agents are guilty of wilful offences against the 92nd, 93rd, 94th, 95th, 96th and 97th sections of the Dominion Elections Act, of 1874; (4) that the Petitioner prays that it may be determined that the Respondent was not duly elected or returned, and that the said election was void. The above contains the essence of the charges preferred against Mr. McCuaig. It is somewhat fortunate, the Gazette adds, that Dr. Platt should have put himself in the position of Petitioner, as it appears to be pretty well understood that he did not come out of the contest with clean hands.

RAZED.—The greater portion of the old building which stood on the corner of Front and Wharf Streets has been pulled down by the "boys" resident in that locality. There is still a portion of the wall standing in dangerous proximity to the sidewalk.

THE MARKET.—The roads being in good condition this morning and the weather fine if cold, there was a larger attendance on the market to-day than has been for some time past. The square was filled with farmer's teams and vehicles, with large supplies of apples, potatoes, beef, pork and other meats and vegetables, whilst the interior of the market building was crowded with sellers and buyers of butter, eggs, poultry, &c. Altogether the scene was an animated one, such as is not to be seen on the market Places of any municipalities in the midland district other than Belleville and Kingston.

Police Court.

(Before the P. M. and Ald. FARLEY.)

SATURDAY, Nov. 9.

DRUNK.

Jacob Jones was dismissed.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

Michael Donovan was charged with having, on the 1st inst., feloniously and with violence taken from the person of Francis Lowery the sum of $24. The evidence of Lowery was that on the day in question he came to town and sold some barley, for which he received pay. When on the way home, about half way between the station and Hayden's Corners, prisoner jumped into the waggon and asked witness if he had any money. Witness replied no, that he had not. Saw two persons standing on the road near the waggon. Prisoner struck him on the left eye above the cheek bone, shoved him sidewise off the seat and told the other two to hold him, and took from him $22 in bills and a quantity of silver. Did not know the other two, but positively identified the prisoner.

The case was adjourned till 3 p. m. for further hearing.

Seasonable Topics.

The market was thronged to-day, every available space outside and inside being utilized. A considerable portion of Pinnacle street was occupied by farmers' teams.

What a comfort to hucksters and others would an arcade be extending from the market building to the butchers' market. Part of it might be enclosed, and the remainder left open with a secure cover to protect farmers and their teams from the storm.

Marine Notes.

SCHOONER ASHORE AND CREW IN DANGER.—A despatch from Oswego says: The schooner Speedwell, lumber laden, is ashore four miles from the city. The crew are unable to get ashore. The life saving crew are making an effort to rescue them. A heavy sea is on.

The Royal Mail Line of steamers have stopped running.

Business with the vessel men in Toronto is very dull and is likely to come to a complete stand still, even before the close of navigation.

STEAMSHIP COLLISIONS.—A Batiscan (Quebec) despatch gives the following particulars of a collision between two steamships: "The SS. "Phoenician," coming up the river to Montreal, collided with the SS. "Moravian," outward bound, at Cape La Roche. The "Moravian" met with very trifling injuries, but the "Phoenician" had a small hole knocked in her side about the water-line, and the captain, to prevent her sinking, had to run her close to the shore to get into shallow water. The captain telegraphed to the Messrs. Allan to-day that he will have no difficulty in stopping the leak, and expects to arrive safely in Montreal tomorrow. The "Moravian" reached Quebec all right about 11 o'clock to-day, and her repairs will be completed on Saturday afternoon or Sunday morning, when she will proceed on her voyage."

CANADIAN PRODUCE.—The Liverpool Post of October 25th contains the following interesting announcement :—"The Beaver Line steamer Lake Nepigon arrived in the Mersey, from Montreal, yesterday, with 140 head of cattle. Notwithstanding she had heavy weather during the passage no deaths amongst the cattle occurred. She brings 1,145 sheep, having only lost seven out of a total of 1,152 shipped at Montreal. The Lake Nepigon also brought a large cargo of Canadian produce."

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Nov. 9.—Yesterday a fire broke out in a small tenement. Two children, Agnes and Freddie Jackson, colored, 5 and 3 years of age, were burned to death. The mother had gone to work leaving the children at home.

CAPE MAY, Nov. 9.—Second despatch—11:20 a. m.—The lower part of the Ocean House, Fryer's cottage, Burns' College, and Congress Hall are burning. 11:30 a.m.—The Centre House is now on fire. 11:40 a.m.—The remainder of the Ocean House and Centre House are now on fire. Nothing can save the Congress Hall. The heat is intense. The fire will soon be on Washington Street.

MANCHESTER, Nov. 9 — The Guardian's Constantinople special says a vessel was seized in the Dardanelles by pirates, who killed the sailors. The vessel was rescued by boats from the British fleet. The pirates escaped with their booty. They are said to be deserters from the Turkish army.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—A Vienna correspondent says, semi-official assurance are circulating that a complete Anglo-Austrian agreement exists concerning the execution of the Treaty of Berlin and that Count Andrassy will convey this assurance to the Delegation. The Russian journal Golos, referring to the probability of such an alliance, advocates concentration of large corps of observation on the Austrian frontier.

CAPE MAY, 12:25.—A fire in the Centre House is under full headway and the Congress Hall seems to be completely destroyed.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—A Constantinople special says that English boats captured the pirates who seized the Greek vessel in the Dardanelles, and delivered them to the Turkish authorities.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 9.—Yesterday a staging in the interior of the new gasometer fell, precipitating five workmen. One died, and another is not expected to live.

CAPE MAY, 12:45.—The engines have arrived. The buildings at the corner of Perry and Washington streets, McCrary's cottage, and the Atlantic house are on fire.

VIENNA, Noh. 9.—The Hungarians are much pleased at the Emperor's snub of the deputation from the Croatian Diet on Thursday, when it came to urge the definite annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovinia to Croatia. Excited discussions are expected in the Delegations, both at the Plenary Sittings and in the Committees. Count Andrassy has a large majority in the Hungarian Delegation and the Communists a slight majority in the Plenary meetings of the Austrian Delegation, but has a minority in the Austrian Committees.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The Times' editorial says: "When we heard that public opinion in the United States had been thrown into a ferment by the revival of the fishery question and that Evarts has written two vigorous despatches, the publication of which a couple of weeks before the decisive elections has aroused the patriotic feelings in a manner no doubt profitable to the Republican party, we can only wonder at the capacity for being excited by small things which the Americans possess. Evart's dispatches are concerned with what are apparently rather antiquated subjects. A fisherman's quarrel on the coast of Newfoundland in January last, and the payment of the Halifax award which the arbitrators announced nearly twelve months ago. Whatever may be the course of the Newfoundland dispute, it can have no bearing upon the payment or non-payment of the Halifax award; that must be determined by the American people upon general principles of honor and equity, and without reference to subsequent disputes about other matters. If they wish to repudiate the award of the Halifax tribunal they may rest assured we shall not go to war to recover damages. They have nothing to fear save the loss of their national self-respect and the uncomplimentary surprise of the old world nations.

ROANOKE, Ind., Nov. 9.—John Reyton, a prominent citizen died on Saturday and was buried in the cemetery. Night before last the Chief of Police found the body in the dissecting room of the Medical College. The Fort Wayne faculty state that the body was brought there on Monday by an unknown man and they refused to work on the body received in such a mysterious manner. The body was taken to Roanoke and interred.

GARIBALDI.—A Neapolitan journal gives an interesting account of the daily life of General Garibaldi, his daughter, and his son-in-law, an Caprera. According to this account, Garibaldi's chief pleasure is to be carried down to the seashore early in the morning, and to spend hours in the contemplation of sea. The evening is generally devoted to music, in which Garibaldi, who is said to have a fine, powerful voice, joins occasionally. He has taught his daughter several of the songs he learnt in America, and is said to take an especial delight in listening to them.

Life in Turkey.

The inhabitants of Smyrna are in hopes that in the event of any general scheme of reform being carried into effect in Asiatic Turkey, the case of that city will be taken into consideration. Their principal grievance is the insecurity of life and property. Not a week passes without one or more murders being committed with impunity, and the evil seems to be rather on the increase than otherwise. In former days the Maltese and the Croats were the chief element of the criminal classes of the city; but these offenders were gradually brought under discipline by the exercise of consular authority. Their place has, however, been taken by a lawless class known as the palicarahs, drawn from the laboring population. These ruffians, trained from their earliest years in habits of dissipation at the numerous coffee houses and drinking shops which abound in Smyrna, begin by pilfering about the outskirts of the town, and soon become expert in the use in the use of the knife, which as they rise in their position as footpads, they brandish with freedom and dexterity. The result is a general feeling of insecurity; and it is contended that under these condition of existence the mercantile and other respectable classes of Smyrna are placed in a position of disadvantage which materially affects the prosperity and well being of the city. Police reform is, in fact, with the Smyrnaites one of the urgent requirements of the day, the force in Smyrna, as nearer home, being at present in a disorganized and unsatisfactory condition.

THE CHALLENGE SALE.

The OAK HALL Clothing House, 350 Front St., Belleville

IS determined to rule the Clothing Trade in Belleville. We are in shape to do it, for we buy every dollar's worth of Goods for Cash, and buy each and every line of Goods where they can be got the cheapest. Every Merchant in Belleville advertises to sell the cheapest goods in his line—and for some time back one of our contemporaries has been trying to throw down the gauntlet to crush the smaller brethren in the trade, on whose behalf we take it up, and raise the old war-cry, "Come on, MacDuff." Owing to our largely increased trade we purchased a mammoth Fall Stock, and more Ready-made Clothing as all the other Clothing houses put together,—all new this Fall, and selected with great care by one of the best buyers in Ontario. We have in fact as much In fact the house is crowded with new goods. Call and see for yourselves, and see prices in other Stores before calling. We don't defy competition, but we undersell it.

We have Men's heavy Grey Overcoats for $4.00. Do. Working Pants for $1.25. Men's Worsted Diagonal Pants and Vests, $4.00.

Circular to the Public.

We have much pleasure in thanking the citizens of Belleville and adjoining Counties, for the large and satisfactory trade we have so far done this season.

Up to this date our Cash sales have exceeded those of any previous season, and we are aiming to make this the largest Fall and Winter trade yet done by us.

To do this, we have imported direct from the leading Manufacturers and Warehouses of Great Britain, an unusually large, varied, and attractive Stock of new Dry Goods, all of which have been personally selected by a member of our Firm, who has had a long experience in catering to the tastes and requirements of the people of this section of the country, and also from having so frequently visited the Home markets, has acquired a thorough knowledge of the best places and houses to purchase the different lines of Dry Goods from. Every intelligent person can easily understand that in this particular we have a decided advantage over others, who send their orders to Commission houses, and allow these houses to do their entire buying.

Notwithstanding the statements of an opposition House to the contrary, we beg to state and challenge successful contradiction, that the value of our Importations direct from the European markets in original packages—all of which were selected by our own buyer, and of which we are prepared to produce original invoices—largely exceed those of any other Dry Goods house in the City of Belleville.

To the general public, the most important and interesting part of what we have to say is, that we are prepared to furnish them with a large portion of their Fall and Winter Dry Goods at prices whereby they can save from ten to twenty-five cents on every dollar's worth, by buying them at our Warehouse. To some this may appear impossible, but to those who doubt the truth of our statements, we say, Compare the prices and qualities of our goods with those sold by other Stores. It is not necessary to buy, should they not prove equal to what we advertise them.

We are now selling a large lot of new Dress Goods at 12½, 15, 20, and 25c. per yard, which are admitted by all to be the cheapest lot of Dress Goods ever offered in this City. And although our sales of Dress Goods this season have already been very large, we are still able to show an immense variety of all the leading colors and materials which have been produced this season.

In addition to the above, the following lines are particularly worthy the attention of parties wanting first class value in these goods:

Black Silks, Silk Velvets, Velveteens, Crapes, Black and Colored Cashmeres, Kid Gloves, Jackets and Mantles, Corsets, Table Linens, Table Napkins and Towels, Scarlet and White Flannels, Wincies, and all kinds of Millinery Goods.

THE DESERTED ROOM.

The fire flames leaped about the logs,
As in the days of old ;
Almost the silence seem'd to play,
In chequer work of gleam and shade.
The Persian carpet on the floor
Showed its dimmed beauty as of yore ;
The portraits from the walls looked down,
And eye and lip in mutest grace,
The tale she thought them told.

The fire flames leapt about the hearth,
The cricket sang his song,
The piper notes she loved so much,
Lay waiting for her opening touch,
Her own, or sister flowers drooped,
Where the great crimson curtains looped ;
And by her chair her favorite book
Its place, mute pleading for her, took
To rest, unopened long.

The fire flames leapt about the hearth,
A sense of something gone,
Hung heavy on the listening ear,
That used her joyous voice to hear ;
The echoes of the silent house
Waiting her flying foot to rouse ;
It seemed as ghosts her brightness laid,
In the dull stillness woke and strayed,
And Long-lost empire won.

The fire flames leapt, and paled and died ;
And in the eerie gloom
Sad memories gathered round the hearth
Where she brought joy, and youth and mirth
Sad fancies mingling with them said
Old tales of half forgotten dead ;
And baffled prayers and visions met,
With loss, and longing, and regret,
In the deserted room.

Bijah As a Phrenologist.

It was a mother with a two-year-old boy this time. She dragged him into the room in a rickety old cart, bounced him out as if he had been a package of hardware, placed him on the centre table with a force of twenty-eight pounds to the square foot, and called out :

"Mr. Joy, we have agreed to leave it to you !"

Well madam, it's my opinion that she's a boy, and he's not over four years old."

'Four, sir ! why he's only two ; and we want you to feel of his bumps and decide if he'll make a smart man. I say he has the head of a preacher, and my husband says he'll make a lawyer, and my sister says he'll invent some great things. Put your hand on his head Mr. Joy.'

Bijah carefully placed his paw on the young chap's head, slid it around for a while, and remarked : 'Madam his bump of anxiety is very great. He'll be a great hand to git up and tear things when a street car gits off the track.

'Will he ? Oh ! I'm so glad, Mr. Joy !'

'His bump of inventive genius is monstrous, madam — perfectly monstrous. I think he will invent a new sort of hair-brush before he is ten years old, one with a corkscrew in one end and a jack-knife in the other. I speak for the first one turned out, madam.'

'And you shall have it.'

'Right here, behind the left ear, is the bump of oratory, madam. See how it stands out ! Before he is twelve years of age he will be able to deliver as good a speech as you ever heard—and get his pay for it. Here between the eyes, is what is called humility. Just see how humble he is even ! Why, if he had forty opinions on finance he wouldn't advance a single one of them if it was to disturb anyone's feelings. Here, under the eyes, is what is called check. Behold the broad expanse ! There isn't a man in Chicago who can hold a candle to him when he's fifteen years old. Take him away. He's built right up from the ground, has a hide stuffed with bones and muscle, and all you need do is to keep on feeding him milk, giving him plenty of room to roll over in, and not be too particular about his swallowing a few hairpins, shingle nails and thimbles.'

'Mr. Joy, you have made us happy,' said the woman, tears coming into her eye. 'The first time we can get nice oysters cheap, we will make a supper and invite you over.'

When she had bounced the boy into his cart and backed him out, Bijah swept up her tracks and tenderly whispered :

'How easy it is to be make people happy ! If some one had encouraged me when I was two years old, I might now be president of Mexico, and have feet as big again as these.'—Detroit Free press.

Friendship.

What is it ? Do smiles, words of cheer, and kind actions constitute it ? Are those who never upbraid, but meet all our deeds with words of praise, who flatter us on every possible occasion, to be considered true friends ?

Their attention may be pleasant to our vanity and conceit, and keep us in the best of humor with ourselves, and we may think their company very desirable, yet they will not do to put faith in, for their amiable behavior is often the cloak for evil interest.

The person who will tell us our faults—kindly of course—who will try to teach us to see ourselves as others see us, who will show by acts rather than words that he kindly regards us, is more worthy of trust than one who agrees with all our sentiments, right or wrong, and who is equally ready to coincide with some one else, even if the subject should happen to be our shortcomings.

Given—for the world has the same love for me always, who is ready to "speak up" for me in the midst of my enemies, and repeat what he considers my virtues as an offset to the failings they may rehearse, who will hold fast to his faith in my truth and goodness in spite of defamation.

Such friends may be scarce, but when found, are priceless treasures.

The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge" of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Two spurious books, one entitled, "The Achievements of Stanley in Africa," and the other "The Complete Explorations and Adventures of Stanley" have been advertised. "ROXY."

BY EDWARD EGGLESTON.

CONTINUED.

Mark did find the attention which his piety brought him very pleasant, and indeed his new peace with himself made him happy. His cup would have been full of sweetness if it had not been for the one bitter drop. Nancy would follow him. Wherever he held meetings she availed herself of the abounding hospitality of the brethren to pursue him. She boasted a little, too, of her acquaintance with Brother Bonamy before her conversion. She received much attention on account of her friendship for him. But Mark's worst trouble was that he could not emancipate himself from her. She attracted him. Struggle as he might with the temptation, her exceeding fairness was a continual snare to his thoughts. It humbled him, or at least annoyed him, to remember that while all the world thought him a saint, he could not but feel a forbidder pleasure in looking on one, to attach himself to whom would be certain overthrow to all plans for goodness or usefulness. Did there also dawn upon the mind of Mark, unaccessed as it was to self-analysis, the thought that this passion for Nancy had had nothing to do with what was best in him? Did he ever reflect that it had no tinge of sentimental love in it? Certain it is that he struggled with it, after a fashion; but his attempts to extinguish it as it often the case, served to fan it into something like a flame; for when resolutions are not to be fought,—when one lights one thinks and thought is oil to the flame. They are to be extinguished by the withdrawal of fuel; to be eliminated without effort of serious purposes. Mark prayed against his passion, reflected wisely on the folly of it; did everything but what he ought to have done. He perpetually fled from himself that his conversations with Nancy on the subject of religion were sources of nothing but evil to himself and to her. Was she not a convert of his own labors? Should he not do what he could to strengthen her purpose to do right?

About this time Dr. Ruter's missionaries in Texas had attracted much attention, and Mark thought of joining them. He would thus undertake a hard thing, and Mark was in the humor of doing something Herculean. He spurned the idea that he was to settle himself to the ordinary and unpoetic duties of life, or that, if he should become a preacher, he could be content with doing only what commonplace circuit riders did. In a general sort of way, without wishing for specific martyrdom, he would have liked to leave with a board or to accept martyrdom in the abstract,—to have our heads specifically beaten with specific stones in the hands of specific heathen, or our backs lacerated with Philippian whips on any definitely specified day.

Bonamy had caught the genuine Methodist spirit, however, and being full of enterprise and daring he was ready for some daring endeavor. Perhaps, too, he found a certain relief in the thought that a mission of some kind would carry him away from the besetment of Nancy, who had lately professed him to give her his pocket Testament as an assistance to her religious life.

At any rate it was soon noised that Bonamy was going to do something. The rumor was very vague; nobody knew just what the enterprise of the young Methodist was to be. Texas, and even Mexico, was mentioned; Choctaw Indians, the Dakota mission and what not, were presently woven into the village gossip.

Colonel Bonamy debated in himself how he should defeat his scheme. As a lawyer he was accustomed to manage men. He had but two ways; the one to play what he called "bluff,"—to sail down on his opponent and appal him by a sudden display of his whole armament; the other was a sort of intellectual ambuscade. With Mark the plan always been under authority, he chose the first. It is not pleasing to parental vanity to have to take roundabout courses.

"Mark," said the old colonel, as the young man entered his office, "sit down there," and he pointed to a chair.

This was the sign of coming reproof. Mark had been so much flattered by the Whigs on one hand and his religious associates on the other, that he did not quite like this school-boy position. He seated himself in the chair indicated. The old gentleman did not begin his speech at once. He knew that when "bluff" was to be played a preliminary pause and a great show of calmness on his part would tend to demoralize the enemy. So he completed the sentence he was writing, gathered up his papers and laid them away. Then he turned his chair square around toward his son, took off his glasses, stroked the rough, grizzled board of three days' growth on his chin, and fastened his eyes on Mark.

"What's the use of being an infernal fool?" said the old man. "I bet you take your own course in politics. I didn't say anything against your being a little unsteady; I was a young man myself once and sowed some wild oats, I knew you would settle after a while. But Denver was such a confounded fool as you! To let a set of shouting old women and snooping preachers set you off your head till you throw away all your chances in life, is the d—dest foolishness I ever. Now I tell you, by godsamity, Mark Bonamy, that if you go to Texas you may go to the devil, too, for all of me. I'll cut you out of every red cent. I don't waste my money on a jackass, sir. That's all."

The old man had by this time wrought himself into a real passion. But he had mistaken Mark's temper. He was no more a man to yield to threats than his father. Many a man with less heart for martyrdom than Mark can burn at the stake when his obstinacy is aroused.

"Keep your money, I don't want it," he said contemptuously, as he strode out of his father's office, mentally comparing himself to Simon Peter rejecting the offer of Simon Magus.

He was of a temper quite earnest enough to have made more real sacrifices than the giving up of a reversionary interest in an estate between him and which there stood the vigorous life of his father. But the apparent sacrifice was considerable, and it was much extolled. Roxy in particular was lost in admiration of what seemed to her unchecked imagination a sublime self-sacrifice. She rejoiced humbly in the part she had taken in bringing Mark to a religious life, while she estimated the simplicity of his motives by the nobleness of her own. And indeed, Mark's missionary purpose was in the main a noble one.

Mail Robber.

HE VOLUNTARILY CONFESSES HIS CRIME.

(From the Kingston Whig.)

On the 20th of October a letter, sent by the Ontario Government to Mr. B. Watkins to pay for labor on colonization roads, was robbed at Mountain Grove Post Office of its contents, $280. The robbery was a surprise and a mystery for a time, but in the course of a few days suspicion fastened upon Warren Godfrey, son of the Mountain Grove Post Office keeper, who had spent money rather lavishly at Arden, a village not far distant. Inspector Barker applied himself to the case, and made, by patient enquiry and careful observation, certain progress, but he failed to reach a satisfactory issue until this week, when he felt justified in taking action. On Wednesday he and Detective Macauley left the city, and on Thursday Warren Godfrey was arrested and conveyed to the city, arriving yesterday. He was lodged in the police station until last evening, when he was escorted to the residence of Inspector Barker and made a clean breast of the offence, confessing that he had stolen the money, twenty-eight $10 bills, on the Sunday night aforesaid (Oct. 20th) and spent some of it, while the balance he hid in the woods in the township of Olden. It may be difficult to find the missing wealth, but Mr. Barker has hopes of being successful, he being guided by directions given to him by Godfrey. The prisoner, who is a young man about 27 years of age, is very respectably connected and fondly feels his criminal position. He wept quite bitterly last evening when he confessed his guilt. This morning he appeared before the Police Magistrate, and was committed for trial before Judge Price. The Inspector is certainly entitled to considerable credit for the manner in which he has worked up the case. It was embarrassing and annoying, but the results are most satisfactory.

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that uses it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists. d&w

It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemist, London, Eng." d&w

The invigorating, Fattening and Nutritive properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lactophosphate of Lime are such as would indicate its sufficiency to "sustain the body in the performance of its various functions," with the aid of but little solid food. BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, NOV. 11.

"SHOWING HIS TEETH."

The following item appears in an Ottawa despatch of the 7th inst. to the London Advertiser :—

"It appears that in addition to the cancellation of Marchand's position in Montreal, the new Minister of Customs also cancelled another position of a similar character in the Province of Quebec. He did it with a long to show his teeth. It is said that the vacancies will not be filled."

This is, we suppose, intended as a reflection upon the Minister of Customs; but the last sentence will cause the great majority of people to take quite another view of the matter. The facts of the case bridly are, as has been stated previously, that the late Ministry, just previous to leaving office, appointed several of their hangers-on to sinecures at good salaries, and Mr. Bowell, on finding that an appointment of this character had been made to an office in the department of which he is the head, cancelled it at once, thereby saving to the country some $1,200 per annum. As to the alleged second case, we are inclined to doubt its truth, although the Ottawa Free Press makes the same assertion. This style of "showing his teeth" will not, we imagine, prejudice the hon. gentleman in the opinion of the public at large. Rather will it have a contrary effect, as what is expected of Ministers is that they shall have the courage to do right; and if the dismissal of useless officials is not right and proper, then what is? Had the Advertiser's friends when in office acted in an honest manner—had they not, in addition to other offences, appointed a large number of useless place, men—had they "shown their teeth" when dishonest practices were mooted—their condemnation by the country might not have

A Produce Exchange.

It is certainly time that Belleville had a Produce Exchange, where such articles as grain, butter, cheese and other articles of farm produce could be bought and sold. Such institutions exist in many cities and towns in Great Britain and Ireland, and in Toronto, Montreal, and we believe some other places in Canada. Their advantage is obvious, as buyers and sellers are brought into direct contact, and there is a common centre for all to meet and transact their business, instead of sellers being badgered to death as they are now by rude and in some cases ruffianly employees of the grain and hide buyers. In many places in England the Corn Exchanges, where grain is bought by sample, are the finest buildings in the corporation, and business runs as smoothly as clockwork. The seller agrees to deliver so much grain as per sample, at a price, and so both parties to the bargain receive justice. Here, as many buyers know to their sorrow, there is much grain bought as No. 1 which ought to class as No. 2, hence a proper system of inspection is necessary, such as in the case of hides has been found to work well. United action on the part of the grain buyers and others interested in the produce trade can bring about the desirable results of securing a proper system of doing business, and close inspection of all article offered for sale, and we hope that such action will be taken at an early day, as by this means alone can the trade of Belleville be placed on a proper footing.

AFRICA.—A cable despatch says :—"Fighting has been renewed in the Transvaal. A British detachment 500 strong has been compelled to retreat before the Kaffirs, who subsequently made a night attack on the English, but were repulsed."

QUICK PASSAGE.—The Allan steamship Sarmatian, which arrived at Quebec at 4 o'clock on Saturday morning has beaten the fastest time on record by one hour and ten minutes. She left Londonderry on All Saints' Day, Friday, the 1st of November, at 5.25 a. m.

MAIL DELAYED.—A Quebec despatch says: "The SS. "Moravian," having to get the slight injuries repaired which were sustained in collision with the SS. "Phoenician," off Batiscan early yesterday morning, will not leave port with the English mails until tomorrow."

WRECK AND LOSS OF LIFE.—A telegram from Torbay, N. S., November 9th says :—"Advices from Whitehaven, recieved to day, report that during a sudden squall yesterday, a lobster smack, owned by A. Ogden, M. P., running between Canso and Whitehaven; was upset, and the crew of four men, named respectively, Wm. Locke, of Whitehaven; John Grant, Guysboro; Edmund Wainbolt, St. Margaret's Bay, and Hubert Richards, Charles Cove, were drowned. An attempt will be made to recover the bodies after the sea subsides."

The Great Western.

The report presented to the shareholders of the Great Western Railway Company at their semi-annual meeting, held in London, England, last week, shows that an improvement has taken place in the receipts of the road, which have increased £6,971 6s. 6d. sterling over the preceding six months. The working expenses have been decreased from 42.79l per mile to 38d. The report quotes from the general manager's statement as to the few accidents that have occurred, and pays a high tribute to the staff and to the employees generally. The loss on working the leased lines of the company has been reduced from £9,204 7s. 10d. in the half year to 31st July, 1877, to £5,041 0s. 8d., in the present half year; or an improvement of £4,163 7s. 2d. The Galt & Guelph railway shows a profit of £1,905 6s. 1d., and the Wellington, Grey & Bruce a loss of £3,912 15s. 6d. During the half year, £975 11s. 7d. was expended on the Galt & Guelph railway, and £13,465 16s. 7d. on the Wellington, Grey & Bruce. There has been a decrease of £984 3s. 5d. in the cost of keeping up the Wellington, Grey & Bruce railway, although there has been an increased expenditure of £363 5s. 3d. for sleepers. Two miles and ninety-four-hundredths of a mile of old iron track have been relaid with steel; the total length of steel track is now therefore 61 23-100 miles; of iron track yet to be relaid with steel, 107 12-100 miles, exclusive of sidings. The length of sidings laid during the half-year was 77-100 miles. With the return of prosperity for Canada, which may be now confidently looked for, there is every reason to hope that the G. W. R. may again attain its former satisfactory financial condition.

The Queen Thanks Lord Dufferin.

OTTAWA, Nov. 9.—The following letter, addressed to Lord Dufferin, is published in the Official Gazette :—

DOWNING STREET,
15th October, 1878.

MY LORD,—In my despatch No. 243, of the 28th August, I informed you of the date at which the Marquis of Lorne would proceed to Canada to succeed you in the administration of the Government of the Dominion. As the time for your relinquishing the Government is now at hand, I have received Her Majesty's commands to signify to you the high appreciation entertained by Her Majesty of the great ability and judgment with which your Lordship has discharged the duties of Governor-General. Her Majesty's Government have not failed to notice the high estimation and regard in which your Lordship has been held by all classes in Canada, and they feel confident that the admirable manner in which you have fulfilled the duties of the Queen's representative has done much to strengthen and deepen in the hearts of the Canadian people that spirit of loyalty and devotion to the British Crown and Empire of which there have been many gratifying evidences.

I have, &c., &c.,
M. E. HICKS-BEACH.

NO NEW TRICK.—It is said that the Ste. Anne's ballot-box trick was not an original patent, having been devised by a Frenchman at the elections of the 16th May, 1877, in the interest of Marshal MacMahon.

THE CAPE MAY FIRE.—The fire at Cape House, Merchant's Hotel, Congress Hall, Centre House, Atlantic House, and the Columbia House, besides a large number of cottages and four thousand bathing houses. Forty acres of dwellings were swept by the flames. Loss over $600,000.

THE LUMBER TRADE.—An Ottawa report says :—"Mr. John Burstall, the well-known lumber merchant of Quebec, left here yesterday for Toronto. He states that authentic information points to the fact that there were only 250,000 feet of square timber manufactured on the Ottawa and tributaries this year. He expresses his belief that square timber will move upwards in the English market almost immediately, and a corresponding improvement will be noticeable in the Canadian trade. The stock in hand in Quebec in the hands of merchants is decidedly "stint," according to his opinion, but he does not recommend increased production."

COPPER BONANZAS.—Big and yet bigger are the stories coming from Newfoundland as to its wealth of copper ore. According to these accounts vast masses of copper have been discovered near the sea rising above the surface in lofty cliffs, easily quarried and easily shipped and of superior richness. There is strong talk of the Glen Tilt Mine, stronger of the Betts' Cove Mine, marvellous descriptions of the Little Bay deposit, and fabulous stories of the latest find in the South-West Arm of Green Bay. The best of it is the stories appear to be true, and they tend to show that Newfoundland perhaps contains the richest copper deposits in the wide, wide world. Large quantities of the ore have been already shipped to Wales for smelting, and an immense trade therein will presently be developed.

CHINA.—A native and highly intelligent Chinaman, writing letters from the Celestial Empire to the California journals, is giving no little fresh information and correcting a number of erroneous opinions about that country. Its population, instead of being 450,000,000 to 500,000,000, as generally reported, is not more than 100,000,000 to 120,000,000. It has reached the limit of agricultural development, and the people and their prosperity have been decreasing steadily for over 125 years. Unless improved machinery be introduced from the Western World, the Chinese will not be able to support themselves, since they are now as poor as they can be and keep body and soul together. The wealth of the Empire is in the hands of a few, and there is no danger, with a diminishing population and increasing wages at home, of a great emigration to the United States as is feared on the Pacific slope. But the Celestial says frankly that his people are not fairly dealt with there, and that, if they are much worse treated than they have been, China may provide herself with modern instruments of war, and punish the U. S. as he thinks they deserve.

—It is stated a detachment of "A" or "B" Battery will do duty at Government House during the residence of the Marquis of Lorne at Ottawa. The Marquis will probably reach that city on the 2nd of December.

Indian Affairs in the North-west.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 9.—A Battleford despatch says that reliable couriers from the plains report an outbreak of war between the Assiniboines and the Sioux. Eight of the latter were killed. The Assiniboines also stole a band of horses from the Blackfeet and killed a Blackfeet chief.

Mr. McColl, the inspector of Indian agencies, arrived yesterday from a tour of inspection to all the agencies within the Manitoba superintendency. He reports that the Indians are contented and are making great improvements in housebuilding and villages.

The Afghan Affair.

SIMLA, Nov. 10.—It is hoped the Afghan difficulty will be peacefully solved. It is supposed Russia is exercising pressure upon the Ameer with this object. The Ameer, moreover, despairs of success against the British.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—A sensational Simla despatch says Afghanistan is withdrawing from Candahar, and the Ameer has announced that Russians would occupy Candahar and Herat. The Governor of Candahar has punished the agitators opposed to England.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 10.—It is considered in official circles that Russia must adhere solely to the Treaty of Berlin whatever events may arise in Turkey. It is certain Russia earnestly desires an understanding with England, both in Europe and Asia to fix the limits of their respective influence.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 10.—It is asserted that the Russians have re occupied the district of Malgara, near the Gulf of Saros.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 10.—The Russian occupation of Roumania ceases on the 27th inst.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—A despatch says the insurgent committees on the frontier of Roumelia, and in many places in Macedonia, are recruiting men under thirty-five years of age, and arming the oldest for the defence of their homes. The insurgents are well armed and provisioned. The Turks are confident of suppressing the insurrection if reinforcements arrive speedily.

In this Present Age, when the life-battle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the strongest the tug and stress of it tell so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for the keeping up of our reserve stock of mental and physical stamina by the use of such a nerve tonic and vitalizing agent as ROBINSON'S HYPOPHOSPHITED EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH LACTO-PHOSPATE OF LIME! Its gently stimulating and nutritive-tonic properties supply the materials, and assist Nature in her efforts to keep up with the almost hourly demands upon her reserves. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT.—M Jablochkoff, the inventor of one form of the electric light, writes on the subject to a French scientific paper. In reply to the question as to what distance from the source of electricity a luminous centre may be produced, he says that the distance may be as great as is wished, only it is necessary to employ a conductor of very great diameter in order not to increase the total resistance of the circuit. In reference to Mr. Edison's claim to have solved the question of divisibility of the light, M. Jablochkoff writes that he long ago realized its divisibility, as is proved by communications from him to the Academy of Science and the French Physical Society, in December, 1877, and February, 1878. It has, moreover, he states, been shown in public at the Sorbonne and has been in use at the Exhibition since the 1st of May.

The Cheese Market.

(From the Montreal Star.)

When it is considered that at this late period of the season there are over 18,000,000 lbs. of cheese in Canada unmarketed, and 30,000,000 lbs. in the United States awaiting orders, besides at least 15,000,000 lbs. unsold in the English markets, it is no wonder that the glut of overproduction should depress prices and create the panicky feeling which at present exists in the cheese trade on both sides of the Atlantic. We have instituted careful inquiries from merchants here whose interest it is to see prices advanced, and likewise from others whose views are in the opposite direction, but we have failed to elicit one bright feature in the situation. In Liverpool goods are being forced upon the market at ruinously low rates, but it is only by such means that surplus stocks can be worked off. Although prices have fallen considerably of late, there appears to be less disposition on the part of buyers to operate than ever, as they fear values have not yet touched bed-rock. That the contracting business, which we have repeatedly shown to be one of the greatest evils in the trade, has contributed largely to the embarrassing position in which affairs now stand, cannot be gainsaid. The most barefaced instances of repudiating contracts we have ever met with has just come to our knowledge, under circumstances which render it all the more cool and unblushing. The highhanded protest of Mr. Thomas Watkin, cheese contractor of Belleville, Ont., against our expose of the contract system based upon facts which we were prepared to prove, must still be fresh in the memory of our readers. Our remarks which touched the exquisite susceptibilities of Mr. Watkin were as follows :—"The farmers in the Belleville and Brockville districts are considerably exercised at present over the manner in which some dealers have repudiated their contracts, and left the factorymen to saddle their losses alone, after having held their cheese subject to buyers' order until a great portion of it is off flavor, and now that the market has gone the wrong way and they find they cannot place the cheese they had bought except at a loss, the deterioration in quality is used as a pretext for throwing up contracts and wriggling out of bad bargains." Commenting on this Mr. Watkin says : "This statement as far as Belleville district is concerned is entirely untrue. No contracts have been thrown up here on any pretext, and you will oblige by inserting this correction in your next issue. It would be well for you to seek your information from more reliable sources." To this we simply stated that the reliability of our sources of information were unimpeachable, and that we had stronger reasons than ever for believing our statements to be correct. Since then great has been the consternation and surprise of a number of farmers in the Belleville district, who had contracted their cheese at 10c, at receiving from Mr. Watkin a sententious notification of his inability to carry out his obligations. The following is a copy of this interesting document :—

"BELLEVILLE, Nov. 1, 1878.

DEAR SIR,—In consequence of the occurrence of events in England, over which I have no control, I shall be unable to take the balance of your cheese, except as a reduction of 2c per lb. I regret very much to have to do this, but circumstances are such as to make it unavoidable.

Yours truly,
(Signed,) THOS. WATKIN."

This is but another striking proof of the utter worthlessness of cheese contracts, if they can be thrown up whenever the market goes against one of the contracting parties, and one more instance of the gross injustice perpetrated on the farmers, who have been debarred from placing their cheese which they could have done repeatedly at 9c and 9½c had it not been held on buyer's account as per contract. Such conduct is not calculated to strengthen public confidence in the inviability of contract obligations as far as cheese is concerned. As we have previously hinted speculation in cheese has proved a pretty safe thing this year for the buyer at the expense of the producer. It is not a little strange that while Mr. Watkin throws up his 10 cent contracts, he is insisting on the delivery of his 7½c bargains. We hear on good authority that the cheese Mr. Watkin has contracted for will be tendered him, and if refused, it will be disposed of to best advantage, and the factorymen will then have the offer to meet the market, or that trouble will ensue. In most of the cheese sections through the inability of dealers to meet their contracts, but if they can sniff them in this way, the losses of course fall exclusively on the farmers.

Re BOARD OF EDUCATION AND COLEMAN.—In the Court of Queen's Bench, Toronto, on the 9th G. D. Dikeson shewed cause to a rule nisi to set aside an award. Osler in support of the rule. Judgment reserved.

SPECIAL SERVICES.—The special service in the Congregational Church, which have been held since the 7th, have attracted a good deal of attention. It is intended to close them on the evening of Thursday next.

40TH BATTALION.—The following appears amongst the Militia General Orders in Saturday's Gazette:—40th "Hastings" Battalion of Rifles, No. 2 Company Stirling. To be Lieutenant, provisionally Sergeant Walter Smith Martin, vice Robert James Craige, whose resignation is hereby accepted.

METHODIST MISSIONS.—The anniversary sermons preached yesterday attracted large congregations to the various churches of the C. M. denomination in town. The discourses were appropriate and powerful. Doubtless there will be a large attendance at the missionary meetings in the churches, commencing with that in the Bridge Street Church this evening.

METHODISM IN BRITAIN.—The minutes of the British Wesleyan Methodist Conference have just been issued, from which we learn that in Great Britain there are 380,879 church members, 24,096 on trial for church membership, 1,412 ministers, 208 on trial for the ministry and 249 supernumeraries. In Ireland there are 19,950 members, 506 on trial for church members hip.

CONSERVATISM IN EAST HASTINGS.—The Liberal Conservative Association East Hastings held a meeting at the rooms on Saturday. After some business of interest had been transacted, it was resolved to hold a public meeting of the party at Roslin on Thursday, the 21st inst., at 1 p. m. A general attendance is requested, as the business to be transacted is of first class importance.

COW BY-LAW.—We should like to see a better enforcement of the Cow By-law, as cows, pigs, horses and geese seem to travel about the streets just as freely as before the appointment of an Inspector. Mr. Maiden ought to earn his salary or else he should be dismissed. The sidewalk on the east side of Hotel Street, near the southeast corner of John Street, was yesterday in such a filthy condition as to be almost impassable.

THE "PRESCOTT MESSENGER."—Mr. C. J. Hynes, who established the Conservative Messenger in Prescott twenty-three years ago, and after carrying on that journal for ten years or upwards, went to the United States, has returned to Prescott and revived the Messenger. The first number of the re-issue, which is before us, is creditable in every respect, and we trust that the Conservatives of South Grenville have at last got an organ which will represent their views capably and with influence.

MONSTER FISH.—The largest muscalonge which we have ever heard of as being captured in the Bay of Quinte was caught at Zwick's Island this morning in a seine by Mr. James Pake, an old fisherman. The fish, which was purchased by Mr. Smith, boat builder, measured 5 feet 4 inches in length, girthed over 26 inches after a 5 pound pickerel, which it had breakfasted upon, had been taken from its stomach, and its weight was 54 pounds. This is one of the very largest muscalonge of which there is any record.

THE BARLEY TRADE.—The receipts from Canada since August 20 to November 7, says the Oswego Palladium of the 8th, have been 2,071,486 bu. against 2,909,177 bu. for the corresponding period in 1877. Deliveries this season, 437,691 bu. The amount of barley on the canal from lake ports for tide water is comparatively light —from Oswego only about 175,000 bu. It is stated that there is no State barley afloat on the canal. The imports of Canadian barley at this port since August 20 to November 7, inclusive, have been as follows in the years named: 1878, 2,071,486 bu.; 1877, 2,690,177 bu.; 1876, 2,233,438 bu.; 1875, 2,812,621 bu.

THE CASE OF THE DEAD SAILOR.—The Oswego Palladium of Friday says:—"Dr. Lord, of Smithville, coroner, writes that an inquest was held on the body of Dulmage, the South Bay sailor whose dead body was found in a boat on the beach at Stony Point. The verdict was that deceased came to his death from exposure while adrift upon the waters of the lake, during the high winds and cold weather of Nov. 1 and 2, and that he did, with his own hands, and for self-preservation, lash himself about the body with the boat's "painter." The body has been taken up and removed to South Bay."

PERSONAL.—The Alberton (Fort Frances) Star of October 15th says:—"M. M. Thompson Esq., Deputy Superintendent of canal works, will leave Fort Frances with his family on Thursday, for the purpose of visiting his friends during the coming winter. The position Mr. Thompson occupied was one of responsibility, which he filled with honor to himself and credit to those who entrusted him. In his business transactions he was upright and honorable, to all those who had dealings with him he was courteous and obliging, and no person could have given more general satisfaction than he has done during his stay among us."

THE MISSIONARY ANNIVERSARY.—Yesterday a very large congregation assembled in the Bridge St., Holloway St. and Bleecker St. Methodist Churches, to listen to the Anniversary Sermons in connection with, and on behalf of, the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church of Canada. The sermons were preached by the Rev. Mr. Learoyd, of Picton, Rev. L. N. Beaudry, of Montreal, and Rev. Dr. Macdonald, of Japan, and were admirably adapted to the occasion. The presence of two Missionaries—the Rev. Mr. Beaudry and the Rev. Dr. Macdonald—added more than the usual interest to the Anniversary. Both these gentlemen have been successful in their mission, the Rev. Mr. Beaudry being a Missionary to his French Canadian fellow-countrymen and the Rev. Dr. Macdonald to the Japanese. Yesterday afternoon a Sabbath School Missionary Meeting was held in the Bridge St. Church, at which highly interesting addresses were delivered by the Rev. Messrs. Macdonald, Learoyd and Beaudry. The large and interesting Sabbath School of the Bridge St. Church cannot fail to be more than ever interested in the Missionary work of their Church after listening to such addresses. To-night the Anniversary meeting will be held in the Bridge St. Church, when addresses will be delivered by the Rev. Mr. Learoyd, Rev. L. N. Beaudry and the Rev. Dr. Macdonald, and music will be furnished by the choir of the church. The beautiful decorations which have remained since the Sabbath School Anniversary for this Missionary Anniversary, make the appearance of the Bridge St. Church very attractive.

Model School.

The Inspector of Model Schools, G. W. Ross, Esq., M. P., on his late official visit here complimented Mr. Irwin highly on the manner in which the teachers in training under his charge acquitted themselves. Their answering, he said, would be considered very creditable under ordinary circumstances, but as the examination was conducted in presence of a large number of experienced teachers, viz., South Hastings Institute, the result was most gratifying.

At the conclusion of the Inspector's remarks, Mr. Saylor, on behalf of the candidates, presented Mr. Irwin with the following address:—

TO MR. JOHN IRWIN.

DEAR SIR.—As our Model School term has now drawn to a close, before our departure we desire to take this opportunity of thanking you for the interest you have kindly taken in our advancement, and of assuring you of the respect and high esteem in which you are held by us. We feel that in you we have had not only a faithful teacher, but a true friend, for in every instance the explanation of our difficulties has apparently been much more a pleasure than a duty; and every care has been taken by you to fit us for the important position which we are about to fill as Public School teachers. Through your kindness we have received twice the number of lectures required by law, and these, illustrated as they have been by examples from your long experience as a teacher, were made not only useful and instructive but interesting and highly entertaining. We also feel very much indebted to the several teachers of the Model School for the courteous manner in which they have treated us, and for the advice they have kindly given us while teaching in their respective divisions. Again we thank you for the deep interest you have taken in our welfare and assure you we will ever remember your very great kindness to us.

There is no cheaper or better way pressing your wants than in inserting in our "Want" column.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 11.—The body of a man not long dead, was found in the woods near this city yesterday. It was riddled with buckshot. No weapon was found. The murderer is suspected.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—There is a story published here that Major-General Reno was killed during the late rebellion and was maliciously shot dead during the skirmishing firing, by a member of Col. Rutherford B. Hayes' regiment, the soldiers of which had been upbraided during the day by Reno, for destroying a field of wheat.

NORWICH, Conn., Nov. 11.—John C. Turner, managing editor of the Evening Telegram, mysteriously disappeared on Tuesday. He had taken an over-dose of laughing gas before having a tooth extracted, which had caused trouble with his head.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Washington despatches:

The Tribune publishes a letter from ex-Congressman Mackey, the Republican candidate for Congress, in Charleston, S.C., district. Mackey charges that no Republican managers of the election were appointed in his district and that the authority of the United Stated Marshals was treated with utter contempt, votes of many negroes were refused and ballot and boxes stuffed so that at 2 o of the 32 polls in the district the ballots were largely in excess of the poll list. Mackey makes other charges of fraud.

The annual report of the management director Linderman, states that the domestic production of gold for the last fiscal year has reached $47,220,000; silver $46,726,000. Linderman refers to the fall in silver since the adoption of the standard dollar and says the United States ought to be very cautious in its silver policy.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—A new Roman Catholic Church of our Lady of Grace, costing $150,000, was dedicated at Hoboken yesterday.

The Herald says: "About 2 this morning a police official stated that it is now only a question of brief time as to when Stewart's remains will be secured. We have learned enough to indicate where the remains are hidden, and we are sure of being able to arrest the thieves." The Times confirms this report, and says that Judge Hilton, when interviewed about the matter early this morning, declined to reply, saying he was under an injunction of secrecy. A mysterious personal was published yesterday, addressed to Judge Hilton and Police Commissioner Nichols, and mentioning $100,000. The police assert they look on this as a wretched attempt at a joke.

The Herald gives currency to the story that Geo. A. Christian, a well known Washington resurrectionist, answers the description given of the mysterious stranger who recently applied to an undertaker for some fluid to preserve a decaying body.

A watch has been ordered kept over Commodore Vanderbilt's grave, in the Moravian cemetery. Wm. H. Vanderbilt has had the coffin walled in mason work.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

The Northumberland coal miners accept the 12½ per cent. reduction of wages.

The subscriptions in Glasgow to the fund for the relief of the Glasgow Bank shareholders have reached £93,000, and in Edinburgh £27,000.

The Times' correspondent at Darjeling believes there is no probability of a reply of the Ameer of Afghanistan to the British ultimatum being otherwise than hostile, unless, under Russian guidance, he couches it in ambigious terms to postpone an inevitable war until he is better prepared.

Beaconsfield's speech has created a favorable impression. The general tone of despatches and press comments on the situation indicate a subsidence of the recent uneasiness.

Among the passengers on the SS. Scythia, which sailed from Liverpool for New York on Saturday, were the wife of Sir Edward Thornton, Mayor Forwood, of Liverpool, Senator Bance, of Mississippi, and Hon. John Hoffman.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The rumored recovery of Stewart's body is denied by the police.

TROY, N. Y. Nov. 11.—The Troy and Boston railroad was mortgaged to-day for a million dollars. The mortgage bonds to be issued to take up $500,000 bonds due 1882, and liquidate the floating debt.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 11.—The rapid improvement in business daily manifested is a surprise to the most sanguine merchants. The wharf to-day was lined with steamers discharging freight. The stores are crowded with customers from the interior. Chris D. Steinkul, a prominent citizen, died of fever last night.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 11.—Lance & Co., cotton brokers, have failed.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—N. B. Judd died this morning. He had been collector of this port, a member of Congress, and was appointed Minister at Berlin by Lincoln. Aged 66.

CHICHESTERVILLE, Ulster Co., N. Y., Nov. 11.—On Oct. 27th, Chas. and Peter Shultis, brothers, quarrelled. Peter struck Charles with a stone, from the effects of which he died last night.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Although it was asserted last week that the recent conference of the Trunk Line managers resolved to advance rates five cents on fourth class freight from Nov. 25th, it was reported this morning that cutting of rates was in progress, and that a break in passenger rates from the west had occurred, the Wabash Railway being charged with having initiated the reduction. The rates to New York now charged as compared with the old rates are from Chicago $13 50 against $20; St. Louis $13.50 against $24; Cincinnati $7 against $18, and Louisville $13 50 against $24. Rates have been reduced in the same proportion from most all points in the west to New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Boston. No change has been made in the rates from New York westward. October 24th, 1878.

Circular to the Public.

We have much pleasure in thanking the citizens of Belleville and adjoining Counties, for the large and satisfactory trade we have so far done this season.

Up to this date our Cash sales have exceeded those of any previous season, and we are aiming to make this the largest Fall and Winter trade yet done by us.

To do this, we have imported direct from the leading Manufacturers and Warehouses of Great Britain, an unusually large, varied, and attractive Stock of new Dry Goods, all of which have been personally selected by a member of our Firm, who has had a long experience in catering to the tastes and requirements of the people of this section of the country, and also from having so frequently visited the Home markets, has acquired a thorough knowledge of the best places and houses to purchase the different lines of Dry Goods from. Every intelligent person can easily understand that in this particular we have a decided advantage over others, who send their orders to Commission houses, and allow these houses to do their entire buying.

Notwithstanding the statements of an opposition House to the contrary, we beg to state and challenge successful contradiction, that the value of our importations direct from the European markets in original packages—all of which were selected by our own buyer, and of which we are prepared to produce the original invoices—largely exceed those of any other Dry Goods house in the City of Belleville.

To the general public, the most important and interesting part of what we have to say is, that we are prepared to furnish them with a large portion of their Fall and Winter Dry Goods at prices whereby they can save from ten to twenty five cents on every dollar's worth, by buying them at our Warehouse. To some this may appear impossible, but to those who doubt the truth of our statements, we say, Compare the prices and qualities of our goods with those sold by other Stores. It is not necessary to buy, should they not prove equal to what we advertise them.

We are now selling a large lot of new Dress Goods at 12½, 15, 20, and 25c per yard, which are admitted by all to be the cheapest lot of Dress Goods ever offered in this city. And although our sales of Dress Goods this season have already been very large, we are still able to show an immense variety of all the leading colors and materials which have been produced this season.

In addition to the above, the following lines are particularly worthy the attention of parties wanting first class value in these goods:

Black Silks, Silk Velvets, Velveteens, Crapes, Black and Colored Cashmeres, Kid Gloves, Jackets and Mantles, Corsets, Table Linens, Table Napkins and Towels, Scarfs and White Flannels, Wincies, and all kinds of Millinery Goods.

The Sun for 1879.

THE SUN will be printed every day during the year to come. Its purpose and method will be the same as in the past. To present all the news in a readable shape, and to tell the truth though the heavens fall.

THE SUN has been, is, and will continue to be independent of every party and everybody, except the Truth and its own convictions of duty. That is the only policy which an honest newspaper need have. That is the policy which has won for this newspaper the confidence and friendship of a wider constituency than was ever enjoyed by any other American Journal.

THE SUN is the newspaper for the people. It is not for the rich man against the poor man, or for the poor man against the rich man, but it seeks to do equal justice to all interests in the community. It is not the organ of any person, class, sect or party. There need be no mystery about its loves and hates. It is for the honest man against the rogue every time. It is for the honest Democrat as against the dishonest Republican, and for the honest Republican as against the dishonest Democrat. It does not take its cue from the utterances of any politician or political organization. It gives its support unreservedly when men or measures are in agreement with the Constitution and with the principles upon which this Republic was founded for the people. Whenever the Constitution and constitutional principles are violated—as in the outrage culminating in 1876, by which a man not elected was placed in the President's office, where he still remains—it speaks out for the right. That is THE SUN'S idea of Independence. In this respect there will be no change in its programme for 1879.

THE SUN has fairly earned the hearty hatred of rascals, frauds, and humbugs of all sorts and sizes. It hopes to deserve that hatred not less in the year 1879, than in 1878, 1877, or any year before. The SUN will continue to shine on the wicked with unsparing impartiality.

While the lessons of the past should be constantly kept before the people, THE SUN does not propose to make itself in 1879 a magazine of ancient history. It is printed for the men and women of to-day, whose concern is chiefly with the affairs of to-day. It has both the diligence and the ability to afford its readers the prompt st, fullest, and most accurate intelligence of whatever in the wide world is worth attention. To this end the resources belonging to well-established prosperity will be liberally employed.

The present disjointed condition of parties in this country renders the certainty of the future, lend an extraordinary significance to the events of the coming year. The discussions of the press, the debates and acts of Congress, and the movements of the leaders in every section of the Republic, will have a direct bearing on the Presidential election of 1880—an event which must be regarded with the most anxious interest by every truth-loving American citizen, without regard to ideas or allegiance. To these elements of interest must be added the probability that the Democrats will control both houses of Congress, the increasing feebleness of the fraudulent Administration, and the spread of universal suffering everywhere of a healthy abhorrence of fraud in any form. The present will be accuracy and clearness the exact situation in each of its varying phases, and to expound, according to its well known methods, the principles which should guide us through the labyrinth, will be an important part of THE SUN'S work for 1879.

We have the means of making THE SUN, as a political, a literary, and a general newspaper, more entertaining and more useful than ever before; and we mean to apply them freely.

Our rs es of subscription remain unchanged. For the DAILY SUN, a four page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price is 55 cents a month, or $6.50 a year; or, including the Sunday paper, an eight page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents a month, or $7.70 a year, postage paid.

The Sunday edition of THE SUN is also furnished separately at $1.20 a year, postage paid.

The price of the WEEKLY SUN, eight pages, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free. Address

Farmers' Review.

HINTS FOR WORK.

Secure the Crops.—Many farmers, as well as other people, are always behind-hand. They go to large expense and much labor to produce crops, and then permit them to waste. There are potatoes unharvested, corn unhusked, badly shocked corn-stocks exposed to the weather, potatoes and fruit daily depreciating, &c. A dollar saved now is better than five dollars losing ten dollars by delay in securing or properly storing the crop.

Corn Husking is better to be done at once, when it can be performed comfortably and cheaply. Many are getting it husked for 3 cents a bushel, which is cheaper than for the owner to do it himself when he has ploughing or draining to do. By-and-by no one can afford to husk corn, and neglect now is better than losing ten dollars by delay in securing or properly storing the crop.

Stocking corn-fodder.—Fodder is damaged by exposure in the shock. It should be stacked at once, and put in small stacks of about 12 feet wide, and 16 feet high to the peak. Put ventilators made of rails in the centre to prevent heating and mouldiness.

Seed Corn.—If a full supply was not selected when cutting, it should be done at the husking.

Root Crops.—Gather crops before injured by frosts. Mangels, being tender skinned, need to be handled with care. The tops make a good feed for cows if given in quantities of not more than half a bushel at a time, but they should be wilted at least 24 hours before feeding. Pitting is a cheap and effective method of preserving them.

Harvesting Turnips may be done quickly by topping them with a sharp hoe, ploughing a furrow away from the roots, and then dragging a harrow across the rows, so as to tear them out of the ground towards the furrow. A slight bruising will be little damage as compared with the cheapness of the method. They may be rapidly thrown into waggons with manure fork. Turnips may remain in the ground until there is danger of their being frozen in. Light frosts do not injure them.

Ploughing should be engaged in at every opportunity. Every day's work thus done helps forward the labors of the busy spring time, and opens the ground to the ameliorating effects of freezing.

Top-dressing Fall Grain should be done without delay. If no barnyard manure is at hand, some commercial fertilizer should be applied, except on very fertile or previously manured ground.

Draining.—There is no better season for this than the present. It may be many years before the work can be done as cheaply as now. It is a most profitable way of investing money to drain where it is needed, as it is on very many soils.

Leaves from the Woods furnish excellent litter. It is the safest bedding for brood sows, and for the lambing pens, as the weak young animals are not entangled in it as in straw. Leaves should be raked up in heaps in the woods, or stacked, for drawing home at leisure.

Swamps that have been cleared may be burned over now, where necessary. The fire should be begun on the side away from the wind, that it may be kept under control and safe. When setting fire to a clearing, notify the neighbors, else you may be liable for damage to their property.

Rubbish of All Kinds, not adapted to the compost heap, should be burned. No weeds in seed should go into a compost. Few seeds are killed by the heat that can be produced by fermenting manure.

Repairing of Buildings is to be attended to : windows g zed, doors tightened, roofs made whole, and ventilators put where needed. It is a good time for painting out-buildings. A mixture of boiled and raw linseed oil, and mineral paint of a dark red color, is cheap, serviceable, and attractive.

The Barn-yard should be cleaned up and a heap made of all the manure in it. This will ferment, and be the nucleus for a large pile of well decomposed material in spring. A quantity of warm, moist dung will soon start a heat in a new pile, and will act as a leaven to spread the fermentation, which may be kept up through the coldest weather.

Live Stock needs special care just now. The weather is changeable, and protection from sudden storms is imperative. Good food, plenty of pure water, cleanliness, dry bedding, and abundance of pure air, will promote comfort and health.

Working Horses.—New grain is not wholesome for horses, especially new corn. Let horses that are still at pasture have some dry food at least once a day to prepare them for the regular winter feeding.

Weaned Colts should have a pint of bruised oats daily, and if the coat is rough, a little lin-seed meal. It is time to begin handling, and training them to wear a halter, to lead, and be groomed.

Feeding.—Grain is cheap, and it will pay to feed all kinds of stock liberally. With corn at 2 2-3 c. $16 a ton, and oats at $20, hay is dear at half these prices. By feeding straw, with increased rations of ground corn and oats cooked with steam, an excellent substitute may be made for hay, which may, perhaps, then be sold at a profit.

Milking Cows are now taken up from grass, well fed, and are entitled to take on some fat, which will enable them to resist the coming cold weather with comfort. A cow in full milk ought to eat, at each meal, half a bushel of mashed roots, clover hay, or corn fodder, and 3 quarts of mixed corn and oat meal, and middlings or bran, besides a picking of dry hay at noon. A safe rule is to feed a cow all that she will eat up clean.

Sheep.—As soon as the teeth begin to fail, the animal—whatever it may be—is past a profitable age. The sheep go cold in fall. Weed out the flocks, and keep only thrifty sheep over winter.

The Lambs should be protected from cold storms, if older sheep have to rough it. As long as the skin is dry, a sheep can stand a great deal of exposure, but lambs can not. These should now be separated and penned by themselves.

Rams, for service, are kept up in the daytime and secured in the flock at night. The ewes should be marked and numbered. If the ram's breast is smeared with a mixture of Venetian red and oil, the ewes that are served will be marked. No careful shepherd will let this matter go at haphazard, as it is necessary to know when lambs are expected in the spring. A ram will serve 25 ewes, have a quart of grain a day, and can serve 50 ewes.

Fattening Pigs ought to be put upon a heavy ration. The profit is in selling pork early, thus saving a month of the most expensive feeding, when half the food goes to keeping up warmth in the body instead of into fat. With corn at present rates, pork though low, is still profitable

Young Pigs.—Leaves are the best bedding. A stove in the piggery, and a warm blanket for the sow, may save a litter in cold weather. In arranging a piggery this should be considered.

Sundry Matters.—Wood cut and split now will be dry in a month. Dry wood, neatly piled under shelter, is a family peace preserver. . . . Clean up all rubbish; bones, old barrel hoops, boots, etc., should be thus disposed of. . . . Put empty barrels and boxes where they are of value, in neat piles and cover them. . . . Get ready for the winter and the snow by leaving nothing "lying about loose." . . . Clean out the collars, drains and gutters. . . . Get up timber by making posts and rails in stormy weather. . . . Be careful of lights. The safe 4 oil is kerosene which will not take fire and explode if the lamp is upset. Avoid the low priced oils, and used only the best, which give the most light for the money, and are cheapest as well as safest. Keep insured, and then be careful.—American Agriculturist.

Saving the Life of the Queen.

To the Editor of the Daily Telegraph:

SIR,—The case of a John Maloney has been brought before this committee. He states that he is seventy eight years of age, and his wife eighty; that he is too old now to continue to travel round the suburbs of London selling slippers, and wants some assistance in returning to his trade as shoemaker, etc. So far there resembles many other cases we have to deal with; but he claims to have been the means of saving the life of the Queen many years ago, and it is barely possible that publicity to his case may bring forward proofs of his statements. He has a letter confirming the military details in the statement I enclose herewith and his correspondent, Col. Lyons, late of the 73rd Regiment, and depot adjutant in 1841, seems to have taken more than a passing interest in the case. If his story be true, it would appear to entitle him to some substantial assistance during the few years he may have to live.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
GEO. G. HUNT, Hon. Sec.
Society for Organizing Charitable Relief, Deptford Committee, Mission Hall, King Street, September 30.

The following is his story:—

"This statement I wish to be brought under public notice through the press, in hopes that some one of the many who witnessed the occurrence described therein may still be living, and will, in person or by letter, corroborate my statement. When Her most Gracious Majesty the Queen was a child three years old, I had the good fortune to save her life, endangered by the upsetting of a pony carriage in Kensington Park. In August, 1822, I was a soldier in the 73rd Regiment, then stationed at Weedon. Whilst in London on fourteen days' leave, I happened to be one day in Kensington Gardens, where my attention was taken by a very handsome carriage, in which was seated a child; the pony was led by a page, a lady walked on one side and a young woman behind the chaise. I walked close to the pony carriage, and stood still when a large water-dog with a stick crossways in his mouth got under the pony's legs. The startled pony made a sudden plunge on one side, and brought the wheels of the carriage on to the pathway. The child was thrown out, head downwards, and in a second would have been crushed under the weight of the carriage, which was then toppling over, had I not grasped her dress before she came to the ground and swung her into my arms. I gave her at once to the lady, and assisted in righting the carriage and quieting the pony. In a few minutes there were more than two hundred persons collected around the carriage, praising me for rescuing from destruction "the little Drina," as they called the child. I had several shillings and sixpences given me, and the owner of the dog gave me half-a-crown. The lady then told me to follow the carriage to the palace, where she gave me a guinea, with thanks from the Duchess of Kent for my gallant conduct (as she expressed it) in "saving the life of her dear child, the Princess Alexandrina." She also took my name and regiment, saying that there would be something more done for me.

"In a few days I joined my regiment at Weedon, expecting that there would be some communication from the Duchess of Kent to my commanding officer. After some time the regiment was ordered to Hull and thence to Edinburgh, Castlebar and Athlone. These movements of the regiment took between three and four years, but I heard nothing from the Duchess of Kent. At the request of my wife, who was then unable, through illness, to work, I wrote to Her Royal Highness reminding her of the promise made more than three years before, and addressed the letter to Kensington Palace. After three weeks I received a reply, headed 'Buckend Park,' and stating that the Duchess had not forgotten her promise and that Lord Harris, who commanded the district in which the 73rd Regiment was stationed, and who was then on a visit at the park, was to leave in a few days to resume his command in Ireland—at Athlone—and would be the bearer of a gift. About twenty days after I was summoned to the Brigade Office, where the general, his aide-de-camp, and the brigade-major were assembled. The general said: 'John Maloney, I have great pleasure in presenting you with £5, the gift of Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Kent, for your gallant and intrepid conduct in Kensington Park three years ago, but you are to understand that you are not on any occasion to write to her or expect any more.' The regiment was soon after sent on foreign service, and I did not return to Europe until the year 1841. I then enquired of many persons concerning the Princess Alexandrina, but the reply of all was that they had never heard the name, so I made no further enquiry, but happening on November 25 last to hear an old man recounting the exploits of the sons of King George III (under the names of Tom, Jerry and Bob Logic), I asked him if he knew the name of the Princess Alexandrina, when he told me it was the name her present Majesty was known by until she was eighty years old.

"When I learnt this I wrote to General Sir Thomas M. Biddulph, who replied, asking for living proof to corroborate my assertions. I have no means of obtaining that proof but by bringing the matter before the public, first making a sworn declaration before a magistrate of the truth of this statement.

Increase of Crime in Germany.

Whatever may be the cause, there is no doubt, as appears from statistics regularly published, that in Germany crime has been recently on the increase. In Prussia alone the convictions have risen from 6,403 in 1871 to 12,807 in 1878. Assassinations, maimings, violence to women, forgeries and fraudulent bankruptcies have all greatly increased. Some attribute the fact to the results of the Franco-German war and to the lowered tone of morality which was the natural effect of so many disbanded soldiers being dispersed among the population. Those who are unfriendly to France are not slow to point to the intercourse with the inhabitants of that country as being among the causes, while others, again, lay the blame on the spread of Socialistic doctrines. It is well known that the civil war in the United States was followed by a marked augmentation of crime with our neighbors. Whether the dissemination of Communism has had a like result there, there has, as yet, been no means of ascertaining. But we do not doubt that the criminal records will before long show such a result. To war and Socialism, therefore, mainly may be ascribed the increase of crime in Germany.

The Grosser Kurfurst.

(From the Folkestone Express Oct. 26th.)

The German Government on Friday last forwarded to Captain Usborne, through Count Munster, the Ambassador in London, a valuable and magnificent vase in recognition of the services rendered by him on the occasion of the loss of the Grosser Kurfurst, and in connection with the subsequent recovery and burial of the bodies of the drowned crew. With the vase were the accompanying letters:—

German Embassy, London, Oct. 17, 1878

Dear Captain Usborne,—His Majesty, the Emperor of Germany, my Sovereign and Master, has been graciously pleased to order me to transmit to you the sincere thanks of his Majesty for the valuable services, the efficient assistance you have rendered, and the real sympathy you have shown on the occasion of the dreadful catastrophe, the loss of H. M. S. Grosser Kurfurst. His Majesty hopes that the Berlin vase, adorned with a very good portrait of the Emperor, will be a pleasing token of his Majesty's gratitude for you and your family.—I remain, dear Captain Usborne, yours very truly,

MUNSTER.

German Embassy, London, Oct. 17, 1878.

Dear Captain Usborne,—The Imperial Government, wishing to acknowledge the zeal of those men of the coastguards who have rendered service and assistance during the sorrowful occasion that followed the sad loss of H.M.S. Grosser Kurfurst, have instructed me to divide amongst them the sum of £200.

As you alone are able to judge of the merits and claims of the different men, I would feel very grateful if you would kindly take the trouble to distribute the accompanying present amongst those of your men who have been on duty, and have rendered assistance on and after the dreadful catastrophe. I have to ask you to be kind enough to express to your gallant men his Imperial Majesty's best thanks for all they have done. I should feel much obliged if you would kindly acknowledge the receipt of my cheque, and if you would kindly forward the two parcels containing watches and a letter for Mr. E. D. Young, Divisional Officer of Coastguards, and Mr. N. McGonnell, boatman in charge of Folkestone station.—I remain, dear Captain Usborne, yours very truly,

MUNSTER.

The following is a copy of the letters received by Mr. E. D. Young, and Mr. N. McGonnell:—

German Embassy, London, Oct. 17, 1878.

Ministers and Patronage.

The Grit press expresses a great deal of mock sympathy for the Irish Catholics of the Dominion because the Hon. John O'Connor, member for Russell, is the only gentleman of that portion of the population who has been appointed to a seat in the Cabinet. And further, they hypocritically condole with the Irish Roman Catholics because Mr. O'Connor has been appointed to an office—that of President of the Council—to which, as they allege, no patronage attaches, whilst Mr. Bowell, an ex-Grand Master of the Orange order, has been appointed to an office to which a large amount of patronage belongs.

Greater humbug than this professed sympathy and grosser untruth than the alleged lack of power on the part of Mr. O'Connor to distribute Government patronage could scarcely be imagined. Its object is the easily discernible and thoroughly contemptible one of arousing sectional and religious animosity, with the idea that thereby the cause of the Government may be weakened and that of Opposition correspondingly strengthened. This is not a new idea, by any means. The dodge has been tried before with more or less of success; but we apprehend that it has, by frequent use, become too stale to be of much service now.

In reference to these allegations, let us premise by repeating what we have frequently stated on this subject before, namely that no man should be appointed to any public position because he happened to be of this race or that creed. Neither, at the same time, should his nationality or his religious belief form a bar to his advancement. In brief, that merit and ability, regardless of aught else save personal character and political efficacy, should form the recommendations required of servants of the people. It is necessary, in a mixed community like that of the Dominion, that such should be the case, otherwise there would be no end to the absurdities which would result from endeavors (which would never by any possibility succeed) to give to all nationalities, religious creeds, professions and trades which are to be found in the country special representation in the Cabinet and a proportionate share in the offices in the public service. Any attempt to carry out such an idea would set the whole population by the ears, and, by placing the Government in the hands of impudent, opinionated humbugs, would inevitably end in anarchy. These opinions are held by many leading statesmen and by many influential journals in this country, and hence it is, we presume, that Sir John A. Macdonald, on being commissioned by the representative of the Crown to form an administration, disregarded all considerations other than his knowledge of the merit and ability of the gentlemen who were eligible, and called upon them to take office in the Cabinet. It happens that but one Irish Catholic was selected, and that the gentleman in question was not placed at the head of a Department, and thereupon the cry of which we have above spoken is raised by designing men. As well might the English, or the Scotch, or the Germans, or people of any other nationality cry out that injustice has been done to them, because, as it happens, the larger number of members of the Cabinet are natives of Canada. Such an outcry would be just as sensible as that to which we have alluded. The true policy is to forget distinctions of race and creed in such a matter, and remembering only that we are Canadians, hold the administration responsible for the good government of the country, as by such means only can the residents of Canada ever become a great and united people and our country be raised to that eminence which it ought to enjoy as the brightest gem in the British crown.

But it is also said that the one Irish Catholic whom the First Minister has taken into his Cabinet has no patronage at his disposal—no fat offices to bestow upon his friends—that he has been made a mere figure-head of, with nothing in his gift. This is another untrue statement; for as the Globe at least cannot be unaware, appointments in the past have been made by the Governor-in-Council on the recommendation of the party in whose constituency the vacancy occurs. Should the Globe enquire in North Hastings, it can find full information there as to the mode in which patronage has been dispensed during the past five years. Thus each member of the Administration stands on an equal footing, having at his disposal only such patronage as concerns his own constituency, so that Mr. O'Connor dispenses just as much patronage as any other Minister, and is not the mere cipher that he is represented by the Grit press as being. People generally are much better informed, however, than the Globe and its co-agitators in this matter give them credit for being; and we very much mistake if any considerable advantage accrue to them therefrom. Such demagogueism ought to be frowned down by every Intelligent man in the community, as nothing can so strongly tend to retard the progress and undermine the prosperity of the country, by causing a division of councils and keeping up a perpetual and unwarrantable commotion amongst the members of the body politic. The journals which try to keep up and endeavor to spread the agitation ought to be shunned by all patriotic persons.

REGIMENTAL CHANGES.—A Halifax despatch says:—"The left wing of the 97th Regiment moves to-day from Wellington to the Glacis Barracks, to make room for the 101st Regiment from Cyprus, which is positively expected in H. M. troopship Orient. As soon as the 101st Regiment arrives, the 20th will embark for Gibraltar, and the right wing of the 97th will move into the Citadel."

THE HOGAN MURDER.—The Mail of the 11th inst., has an account of an interview with a woman, name not given, who is said to be the last of the notorious Brooks bush gang, by whom Mr. John Sheridan Hogan was murdered in 1859. The woman's statement goes to show that James Brown, who was executed for the crime, was innocent and that a man named Malone, who has since died, was implicated, assisted by Mc Gillick and McEntameny, but Jane Ward struck Mr. Hogan on the head with a stone wrapped in a handkerchief and that the three men named threw him into the river Don where his body was found sixteen months after. It will be remembered that this mysterious murder excited no little sensation at the time of its occurrence.

HON. MR. LANGEVIN.—The Montreal Gazette says:—"Our Ottawa despatch informs us that the consituency of Three Rivers has been opened to the Hon. Mr. Langevin, through the acceptance of a nominal office by Mr. William MacDougall. In the absence of an analogous position to the Chiltern Hundreds in England and before the election of a Speaker, no other course was open to him or to the member for Centre Huron in order to render their resignations possible. We congratulate the people of the Province that at a time when important changes in the fiscal policy of the Dominion have to be considered, Quebec will have at the Council board as one of her representatives a gentleman of the matured experience of the Hon. Mr. Postmaster-General Langevin. Mr. MacDougall's patriotic conduct we are sure will be endorsed by the people of Three Rivers, who have so long faithfully stood by him, and will ratify his decision by electing Mr. Langevin by acclamation."

CANADIAN BANKRUPTCIES.—The Monetary Times states that the failures in Canada since the close of 1874 number 1,800 each year, with liabilities of $25,000,000, and argues that the importers and retailers must accomodate their business to smaller relative limits than during the ten years from 1861 to 1872. In view of the strong feeling in some quarters in favor of the suspension of the Insolvent Act and the equally strong desire elsewhere for its continuance in force, the Times urges that on this subject and on the equally important one of repeated compromises, merchants, both wholesale and retail, and boards of trade should cooperate in discussing these questions, in order that the commercial sentiment of the country may be ascertained before Parliament meets and has to decide upon the continuance of the Act.

Methodist Missions.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Missionary Society in connection with the Methodist Church of Canada was held in the Bridge Street edifice, on Monday evening, with fairly satisfactory result. The weather was anything but propitious for a large turn out, as rain threatened, but yet such a goodly number assembled within the church, that the body of the building was well filled, whilst not a few contented themselves with seats in the gallery. Of the addresses delivered it is almost superfluous to remark that they were eminently practical, instructive and entertaining and were very attentively listened to by the audience, who appeared to manifest considerable interest in the evening's proceedings. During the meeting the choir rendered a number of choice selections with appropriate taste, and their offerings added greatly to the success of the meeting. Mr. W. F. Jones presided at the organ in his usual efficient manner.

The interior of the church was very handsomely decorated; festoons of evergreens were suspended from the exterior of the gallery circle and lines of similar material encircled the posts which supported it, whilst the vicinity of the pulpit looked very pretty in its style of ornamentation. A number of scriptural mottoes adorned the sides of the gallery and front of the pulpit, and amongst them were the following: "Go preach," "Go teach," "Do right and fear not," "Emulate the good and great," "Give God the glory," "Wisdom calleth her children," "The Lord hath helped us," and a number of others of a similar character.

The proceedings opened by the Rev. Mr. Willoughby calling on all resident ministers present to come forward and take seats within the rail. Rev. Wm. Johnson, Esq., and Merrick Sawyer, Esq., were also invited.

After general devotional exercises Rev. Mr. Willoughby called on the Warden to come forward, after which he delivered a brief address. He remarked that the presence of the Lord was with the audience, the whole deputation was present, and these in themselves augured success. With regard to the chairmanship of the meeting he stated that Dr. Wilson had been expected to fill that position, but on account of ill-ness he was prevented from being present. He therefore asked Mr. M. B. Roblin to fill the position and the nomination of that gentleman was cheerfully accepted.

The chairman elect briefly acknowledged the honor conferred on him and in the course of further remarks paid a touching tribute to the memory of the late George C. Holton

"Glory be to God on High," was then rendered by the choir.

Mr. Wm. Johnson was next introduced by the chairman and read the following report:—

"The Missionary Society of the Methodist Church of Canada is now in its fifty-fifth year of its existence and reports the past year as one of success giving cause to profound gratitude and increasing faith.

"The Society now has Missions to the Indians of British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Hudson Bay Territory, Manitoba, Keewatin, Quebec and Ontario; to the Germans of Ontario; to the French of Quebec; to Japan and to the pioneers in sparsely settled districts in the provinces of Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, and Newfoundland.

"The total number of missions is 409; missionaries, 422; native assistants, 15. There are 33 schools and 33 teachers, 21 interpreters, and 5 masters on circuits employing small bands of Indians,—making a total of paid agency of 496 persons.

"The increase in the operations of the Society may be gathered by comparing them now with what they were in 1874. In that year, there were 231 missions; now 409; an increase of 178. In 1874 there were 246 missionaries; now 422; an increase of 176.

"The income of the Society has not, however, kept pace with the increasing openings of new fields of labor. If the Church would supply the money, the operations of the Society could be extended far beyond what they now are. From thousands of perishing Indians—from the millions of Japan, and from many a back settlement in parts of our Province—there comes the demand for some one to tell them "the old, old story, of Jesus and his love."

"The income during last year was $141,475.12, being a decrease from the previous year of $4,523.80.

The expenditure last year was $150,973.24, being a decrease from the previous year of $23,282.68. To the income the Toronto Conference contributed $41,008.04.

Belleville District	$2,987.71
Belleville City	758.03
This Church	683 90

To this latter amount should be added $60 subscribed by the senior class in the Sabbath School taught by Mrs. N. Jones, which amount was sent direct to the Rev. George H. Meacham in Japan."

Rev. Mr. Lambly then moved, and W. R. Aylesworth, Esq., seconded the following resolution:

"That the thanks of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church of Canada are due and are gratefully tendered to Mrs. James Nosworthy, Mrs. J. J. B. Flint, Mrs. Joseph Bellen, Mrs. McGregor, Mrs. M. B. Roblin, Mrs. Wm. Johnson, Miss Sawyer, and Mrs. Solmes for their efficient services as collectors during the past year.

"That the same ladies be again requested to act as collectors for the ensuing year.

"That the Missionary Committe of this Circuit for the ensuing year be composed of the members of the Quarterly Official Board and the Hon. Billa Flint, Hon. Robert Read, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, M. P., E. W. Holton, J. J. B. Flint, N. H. Peterson, S. D. Farley, W. E. Holton, J. W. Johnson, David Price, Jas. Neal, Alex. Thompson, R. Hodgson, —Bradshaw, W. Templeton, Dr. Willson, Dr. Higginbotham, W. H. Branscomb, and R. S. Solmes.

The motion was carried unanimously.

Rev. Mr. LEAROYD, of Picton, was introduced and delivered an effective address. Christian missions, he said, were the noblest and the holiest work of man, and no matter how we looked at them they commended themselves to Christian benevolence and to the Christian heart. The Christian religion was designed for man and where we find humanity we find the proper subjects for Jesus. Some say, have we not nearer fields that foreign parts on which to bestow our money? But did not our blessed Master tell his disciples to go forth and to teach the word and preach the Gospel and had they (the disciples) stayed at Jerusalem they would have still. As christian people whose hearts beat in unison with the spirit of the Gospel we go out and assist all in the world, for God puts out man as the can through whom man is to be saved. The day was when the truth of God was denied, when the Gospel of Jesus Christ was denied. The religion of Christ was from Heaven; it was divine; it was adapted to man. There may be difficulties but the Gospel will solve them, and the day shall come when the people will be saved by the Gospel of Christ. He blessed God that he lived in the present century when people through enlightenment were enabled to battle for God. In 1800 the word of God was only in babbling mouths; to-day it is printed in 300 dialects. God had poured in his wealth on Protestant nations; those nations that were sunk in Buddhism, Mahomedanism, &c., were not the progressive nations. The British nation was to-day the most advanced because it was the foremost in giving to the world the glorious advantages of the blessed word of God. In this work we must strike on until in the end we can say "Babylon is fallen, Babylon is fallen." He then made an urgent appeal on behalf of the missionary fund, remarking at the same time that the present indebtedness was necessitated by business. The deficit was now $64,000, but he had faith in the christian benevolence of the people to whom he looked for substantial assistance, so that it was now proposed to wipe out that debt in four years or at the rate of $16,000 per year. His peroration was eloquent and brilliant and on taking his seat he was applauded very heartily.

After singing by the choir, the Chairman introduced the Rev. Dr. MACDONALD, Missionary from Japan, who was heartily received. He referred to his life in Japan, expressing a wish for the christian enlightenment of the people, and said he had no doubt of the salvation of the people of that land. He described the railroads of Japan, one 40 miles in length, the other 20 miles; their modes of travelling, the style of their conveyances, the character of the Coolies, their customs and habits, very graphically described. The labors of Rev. G. Meacham and other missionaries in that far-off land were referred to; the action of the Jesuits there was also touched upon. He closed with an eloquent appeal for assistance.

After an offering by the choir,

Rev. Mr. BEAUDRY detailed the character of the work performed by him in a very graphic manner, reciting many trials which he had undergone in the city of Montreal. He deprecated the practice of sending Protestant children to Roman Catholic Schools. He referred to the attacks made upon Father Chiniquy and himself; contrasted the position of missionaries in Japan with those in his own country, yet he asserted the Gospel was winning its way. He brought his remarks to a close by asking for assistance.

The collection then took place, after which the services closed.

An Intestine War.

The following letter expiains itself:

Dear Doctor—You did a good turn for me once; you saved my life. To be sure you left me minus a leg in doing it—but life is sweet even with but one foot to hobble through the world with. It was down at——; it was a bloody day but a glorious one! You remember how—but I beg pardon, I always forget myself when I get to talking about these old times. This is what I want to tell you: One morning last week I awoke feeling very strange. For a long time my liver had been rebellious, but I had anticipated no trouble. But that morning I discovered that my stomach had joined in the revolt, and a lively skirmish was being carried on, that threatened to end in a hard battle. The suddenness of the revolt put the head quarters in confusion, and all seemed hopeless till, suddenly, like one of those flashing orders of Grant, came the command—"Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets;" and a courier was immediately dispatched for them. Now, what I want to say is this, I feel like a volunteer, who has just received his commision, or, better still, as well as Grant did when he held Lee's sword. And I want to advise all who suffer from a rebellious liver and stomach to "fight it out on this line," and they will surely be victorious. AN OLD VET.

The Afghan Affair.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, NOV. 12.

City and Vicinity.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—The Board will hold its regular meeting to-night at the usual hour.

VACANT.—The cells were untenanted last night either by prisoners or vagrants. The tramp brigade must have been storm-bound at some other place.

SOCIETY MEETINGS.—The St. Andrew's Society will meet to-morrow night for the election of officers. The St. George's Society will meet on Thursday night. The Orange Young Britons will meet to-night.

RAIN.—A steady, persistent rain fell during the night. The frost has all been taken out of the ground, and the roads are again as heavy as before the late frosts. Builders will, however, rejoice, as their operations will thereby be greatly facilitated.

THE HOUNDS.—The second meet of the Belleville fox hounds yesterday was highly successful. Some sixteen members of the Club turned out, and a fox having been found in a bush near Wallbridge's farm, a short but merry spin resulted in a kill.

NEARLY DROWNED.—A man named Owen Bryan, of Prince Edward, who had been on a spree for a week or more, fell into the waters of the harbor at the ferry dock this morning. He was rescued by a boy and taken to a vacant house on Pinnacle Street, whence he was taken to the Police Station by Constable Cook and kindly cared for.

A CHANGE.—At a meeting of the Directors of the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company held to-day, a letter was read from Hon. Mr. Bowell, resigning his position as Director in and President of the Company. The resignation was accepted, and Mr. J. W. London was appointed Director in his stead. Thos. Wills, Esq., M. P. P., was elected President of the Company.

SUICIDE.—We are informed that Mrs. John Wilson, resident at Bannockburn (township of Madoc), committed suicide on Wednesday night, Nov. 6th, by drowning herself. Her husband was absent in one of Messrs. Baker & Co's. shanties, where he was employed. The unfortunate woman had been, it is reported, afflicted with suicidal mania for upwards of a year past, and took advantage of her husband's absence to carry out her mad design. An inquest was held and a verdict returned in accordance with the facts.

GALLANTRY REWARDED.—In another column of this day's issue will be found an account of the presentation to Captain Usborne, R. N., by the German Government of a magnificent vase, on account of services rendered by him on the occasion of the sinking of the German ironclad Grosser Kurfurst off the English coast, when many lives were lost. Captain Usborne is a Canadian, and is a credit to the land of his birth. His father, who lived for many years in Quebec, is now a resident of this city.

GOOD MEASURES.—Ald. W. J. Diamond's By-law for the prevention of profane swearing and obscene, blasphemous and insulting language, and for the suppression of houses of ill-fame, which received its first reading in the City Council last night, is a useful measure, and entitles its author credit. Ald. D. B. Robertson, who has proved himself a useful member of the Council, gave notice of a By-law for regulating the width of tires on vehicles, which, should it carry, as probably it will, cannot fail to be of considerable public benefit.

LUMBERING OPERATIONS.—Lumbermen in this district seem to be going into operations with more vim this year than for some seasons past, owing probably to an improvement in the prospect. Messrs. B. F. Baker & Co. commenced operations on the 15th of October. They carry on operations in the townships of Farsday, Cardiff and Methuen, and at present have 210 men employed. Gilmour & Co. have four shanties, and Messrs. Rathbun & Son will soon make a start. A number of jobbers are engaged in getting out logs for other firms, and there is little doubt that the cut of 1878-9 will considerably exceed that of the year previous.

IMPRACTICABLE.—The idea suggested by Alderman Geen at last night's meeting of the Council, that all accounts should be referred to the Committees which they most nearly concern before going to the Finance Committee, is impracticable. Many accounts, such as those of the Printing Establishments, would thus have to go to half a dozen Committees before being passed and ordered for payment. As it is at present, accounts against the Corporation are delayed an unconscionable length of time before liquidation, this being the case to such an extent that we know one grocer who refused some time ago to receive orders from the Poor and Sanitary Committee on that account; therefore as the course suggested by Mr. Geen would cause interminable delays, it is in reality impracticable. The Finance Committee is numerous enough and so constituted as to be capable of pronouncing upon any matter of finance, and besides the accounts are always open to the scrutiny of every member of the Council who will take the trouble to look into them.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

TUESDAY, Nov. 12, 1878.

The fourth and probably the last session of the County Council of 1878, opened in the Shire Hall this afternoon at two o'clock.

PRESENT.—His Honor the Warden, Messrs. Cook, Kingston, Francis, Lee, Murphy, Carrie, Armstrong, Anderson, Ross, Grass, Peck, Weese, Ashley, Flint, Gordon, Cross, Vankleek, Kavanagh, Parkhurst, McDavitt, Robinson, Pearce, Vandervoort, Fitzgerald, Gunter, and White.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

CITY COUNCIL.

MONDAY, Nov. 11.

The Council met this evening at 8 o'clock.

PRESENT.—His Worship the Mayor, Messrs. Patterson, St. Charles, Proctor, Lingham, McIntosh, W. J. Diamond, Wickett, Geen, Farley, Doyle, Brennan, Robertson, Holden, Sherwood, Price, Hambly.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

PETITIONS, &c.

The following petitions, &c., were read and referred:

From Captain Harrison, of No. 1 Co. 40th Battalion, asking the Council to cause an investigation of the recent attempt of an incendiary to burn the butcher market and armory, and offering to place a guard from the company on the building.

From Mrs. John Daly, for repairs to sidewalk on Lewis Street, West Belleville.

From Jas. Meagher, for repairs to sidewalk.

From Dr. Dorland and others, for a Street lamp on the corner of Gorden and Harriet Sts.

From John Thomas and others, for a drain on Charlotte Street.

From A. R. Lee, for correction of error in assessment.

From C. Wilkie, for correction of error in assessment.

From L. Johnston and others, for reimbursement of Mr. W. Cummings of outlay on drain on north Geddes Street.

Several accounts were presented.

REPORTS.

Of the Finance Committee, that sundry accounts be paid.

Of the Printing Committee, that the printing of the Auditors' reports for 1875, 76, and 77, be given to the INTELLIGENCER, that Company's tender being the lowest.

INQUIRIES.

Ald. W. J. Diamond asked had the Harbor Committee considered the matter of building a dredge?

Ald. Brennan said he would call the Committee together and place the matter before them.

W. Cummings was heard with reference to his building of a covered drain on North Geddes Street. He said his work had benefitted the street very much, and asked the Corporation to bear part of the expense.

The Mayor said the matter would be considered by the Committee.

NOTICES.

Ald. Robertson gave notice of a By-law to regulate the width of tires on vehicles.

Ald. Holden gave notice of motion approving of the appointment of a short hand reporter for the County Court, and pledging the Council to pay half the salary.

BY-LAWS.

A By-law to restrain profane swearing and blasphemous and insulting language was read a first time.

Council went into Committee on By-laws. Ald. Brennan in the chair.

Ald. W. J. Diamond explained that the Legislature had so amended the law as to make it an offence to use blasphemous or insulting language anywhere within the municipality, whereas the use of such language did not constitute an offence under the law as it stood previously, unless in a public place. The Police Magistrate and other authorities, therefore, desired the passage of a By law in order to comply with the law as amended.

Ald. Ridley came in.

The By-law was read throughout by the Clerk, and referred to the By-law Committee.

The By law to amend the Cow By-law was laid over till next meeting.

Committee rose and reported.—Adopted.

MOTIONS.

Ald. Holden moved that the Solicitor be instructed to report at the next meeting whether the Council is legally bound to act on the requisition of the Board of Separate School Trustees.—Carried.

WAYS AND MEANS.

Council went into Committee on Ways and Means. Ald. Lingham in the chair.

The report of the Finance Committee was adopted.

Ald. Holden stated that the Chairman of the Water and Gas Committee (Ald. Foster) had given orders for the erection of more gas lamps than had been ordered by the Council. This was unfair to certain localities, besides being irregular.

Ald. Farley said as a member of the Committee he heard of the matter for the first time to-night.

Ald. W. J. Diamond said it was unfortunate that such action had been taken, and that the Chairman was not present.

Ald. Price stated that but two meetings of the Committee had been held this year, and those had only been obtained with great difficulty. This might account for the slipshod manner of their business.

The matter then dropped.

The report of the Printing Committee was adopted.

Ald. Holden moved the motion of which he had given notice regarding a short hand reporter, explaining that it was necessary to take action as the County Council will meet to-morrow and consider the matter.

The salary would not, he thought, exceed $200, which the employment of a reporter would cause a large saving of time and money. The measure would therefore be one of economy.

Ald. W. J. Diamond said the County Council had passed a resolution for the appointment of a reporter (regardless of the City) subject to the approval of the Warden, and that resolution was unrevoked. He did not think the City should pay half of this salary, as there would be no benefit to us from its passage in any event.

Ald. Holden said the County would not move in the matter unless the City took action.

Ald. Ridley moved in amendment to restrict the City's share of the salary to $100 per annum.

Ald. Sherwood said the County Judge stated that the salary would not exceed $110 per annum.

Ald. Proctor considered that one-half of the salary was too much. He considered one-third or one-fourth enough.

Ald. Robertson considered that it would be safe to leave the matter in the hands of the Warden, as the County Council was very careful.

Ald. Holden did not consider it prudent to limit the sum.

Ald Brennan agreed with Ald. Proctor.

Ald. Geen suggested that the motion be altered to the effect that the city pay the same proportion of the reporter's salary as it does towards the administration of justice.

Ald. Holden's motion was then altered in accordance with this suggestion and adopted.

Committee rose and reported.—Adopted.

Council adjourned.

Police Court.

(Before A. DIAMOND, Esq., P. M.)

TUESDAY, Nov. 12.

ABUSIVE LANGUAGE.

Andrew Austin was charged with having used grossly abusive and insulting language to R. S. Bell. The offence was a flagrant one, and the case was laid over for judgment.

Mary Hester Taylor charged Mary Taylor with using abusive language towards her. After a good deal of testimony had been heard, the case was laid over for further evidence.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., Nov. 12.—James G. Kilgore, of Bremond, yesterday suicided by cutting his throat with a penknife. He was suffering from consumption.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 13.—The suit of Prof. Maurice against Admiral Worden for debt for teaching the latter's family has been decided against the plaintiff on defendant's plea of limitation. In the action for damages of $20,000 for defamation of the character of Maurice by Worden, the court granted plaintiff's petition for removal, and sent it to Baltimore for trial.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Washing specials: The Tribune says the extraordinary measures resorted to for carrying South Carolina create agitation at Washington. The Republican candidates Mackey, Rainey, and Smalls will be urged to give notice of a contest so that the whole subject may be forced upon the attention of the Congress.

The annual report of the Department of the Interior will contain a new feature in the way of information in reference to the sparsely populated States of the country where working men may find homes.

The Times says Salisbury's reply to Evart's letters concerning the Fishery Award was received yesterday. It is believed that the portion referring to interference with American fishermen is satisfactory to this Government. It is probable the Halifax Award will be paid on Nov. 23rd.

The Herald says it is understood that the banks propose after January 1st to discontinue special gold accounts, and to pay out gold and greenbacks on equal terms, also they will refuse to receive silver except as a special deposit, and will use no silver certificates or silver dollars in clearing house exchanges except for sums of 10 or 25 dollars and less. Sherman's friends report he and the President are agreed to urge Congress to make silver coins of all denominations redeemable in gold or greenbacks at the Treasury in sums of certain amounts. The President thinks if the made redeemable a hundred millions of silver can easily be carried as subsidiary coin.

W. W. Perkins, of Rome, N. Y., was found dying at his room in the Huffman house on Sunday; he had taken an overdose of opium.

Mary Ann Gallagher threw herself in front of a train in Newark yesterday, and was instantly killed. very soon after she gave birth to a fully developed child.

The Times says there are indications that the Stewart "barkers" have been traced. The police are reticent. Mrs. Stewart is said to be in a very low condition.

The Erie railroad has contracted with a new company known as the Car Trust Company, for 2,500 box freight cars, to cost $1,300,000, to be paid for in five years by quarterly pay ments.

The Sun publishes a column leader on Tilden, closing with the declation that the Cipher telegrams prove that during his presidental campaign he suffered a clique of politically immoral people to surround him, to act for him and to compromise him.

The Sun says that Mr. Tilden will not again be the Presidential candidate of any party.

The Herald devotes a page to a map and description of a newly discovered mammoth cave in Virginia. It says:—"It is the impression that these caverns will eventually be found to extend in a chain to the Shenandoah river, and they may even extend under the river and on toward the moun ains."

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Lord Justice Christian of the Court of Appeals in Ireland, has resigned on account of increasing dullness of hearing.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—A Paris correspondent says Prince Orloff the Russian Ambassador to France had a long interview on Monday with Waddington, the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, at which he informed Waddington of the Czar's willingness to co-operate in securing the arrangement of the Turco-Greek frontier difficulty, and of his firm intention to carry out all the stipulations of the Berlin Treaty. Orloff goes to Baden Baden to interview Gortschakoff on Friday. The visit to Livadia of Schouvaloff seems to have had a good effect, and the fact that Russia has gone out of its way to reassert its intention to respect the Berlin Treaty is regarded here as a very peaceful omen.

VIENNA, Nov. 12.—The Pester Lloyd states that the expedition of Gen. Lomakine from the eastern shore of the Caspian Sea in the direction of Mero, in Turkistan, by constant fighting has forced its way to the upper Atrek valley. The Russian corps of 8,000 men stands on the road to Balkh and Herat. Great political importance is attached to this event.

ROME, Nov. 12.—It is stated that the Pope will make a direct appeal to the Czar on behalf of the Polish Catholics, and if the appeal be fruitless he will issue an encyclical denouncing the conduct of Russia.

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—The total Prussian deficit for the fiscal year 1878 and '79 will be 78,000,000 marks, of which 70,000,000 marks will be covered by a loan.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—After the race on the Tyne yesterday between Lumsden and Hawdon, Hawden was match d to row Hanlen the Canada champion, over the Tyne course in May next for $1,000.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—At a meeting of the Glasgow Chamber of Commerce yesterday an invitation was read from the municipality of New Orleans to attend the International Convention to discuss measures for the advance. ment of America's trade with foreign countries. It was referred to a Committee to prepare a reply which shall show the injurious effect of America's protective policy on British trade.

GENEVA, Nov. 12.—The election for members of the Great Council of Canton and of Geneva has resulted in favor of the Democratic Conservative party, this ensures the return of the dispossessed Catholic Priests, cessation of religious war and the eventual separation of the church and the State, but is does not ensure the return of Bishop Mermillod, as he was excepted by the Swiss Federal Govern. ment.

CANTON, Pa., Nov. 12th.—The Minnequa Springs hotel was burned this morning, probably incendiary. The inmates narrowly escaped. Loss, $75,000.

TROOPS ARRIVED.—The troopship Orontes has arrives at Halifax from Cyprus, via Malta and Bermuda, with the 101st Regiment. They landed yesterday afternoon, and took up their quarters at Wellington barracks. There was a good deal of sickness during the passage, but no deaths. Over two hundred sick were left at Malta, and on arriving at Halifax about sixty were conveyed to the hospital. The 20th Regiment will embark to-morrow on the Orontes and sail for Cyprus.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 11.—The Golos considers Earl Beaconsfield's speech pacific, although it shows that the basis of his policy is still enmity to Russia.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 11.—Midhat Pasha has been appointed Governor-General of Syria.

The Porte has handed the Eastern Roumelian Commissioners the draft of a constitution for Eastern Roumelia. It embraces provisions for a partly elective Council-General and popular elections for certain local officers.

The Council of Ministers has again discussed the Greek note asking for the appointment of delegates to settle the frontier question. It is asserted that a decision favorable to an arrangement was reached and submitted to the Sultan for his sanction.

A Rome despatch says it is thought Count Corte, who is going to Paris and London, is commissioned to arrange for common action in the East.

A Vienna despatch says the Russians would as a compromise accept, instead of a treaty recognizing the validity of the unabrogated portions of the San Stefano Treaty, a simple declaration from the Sultan to that effect. The Turks, however, appear to be obstinate.

A Paris correspondent states that the Czar has personally written in reply to Minister Waddington's recent circular declaring his firm intention to adhere to the Treaty of Berlin. This is considered a very hopeful sign of peace, and also an indication of the declining influence of Prince Gortschakoff.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Nov. 11.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the Lower Lake region, rising barometer, brisk westerly winds, partly cloudy cooler weather. For the St. Lawrence, (upper) brisk winds, shifting towards the west, rainy followed by clearing weather. St. Lawrence (lower) brisk to high winds, cloudy weather, with rain turning to snow. For the Maritime Provinces, falling barometer, increasing southeasterly to southerly winds, cloudy weather and rain, followed to-morrow by strong westerly winds.

Circular to the Public.

We have much pleasure in thanking the citizens of Belleville and adjoining Counties, for the large and satisfactory trade we have so far done this season.

Up to this date our Cash sales have exceeded those of any previous season, and we are aiming to make this the largest Fall and Winter trade yet done by us.

To do this, we have imported direct from the leading Manufacturers and Warehouses of Great Britain, an unusually large, varied, and attractive Stock of new Dry Goods, all of which have been personally selected by a member of our Firm, who has had a long experience in catering to the tastes and requirements of the people of this section of the country, and also from having so frequently visited the Home markets, has acquired a thorough knowledge of the best places and houses to purchase the different lines of Dry Goods from. Every intelligent person can easily understand that in this particular we have a decided advantage over others, who send their orders to Commission houses, and allow these houses to do their entire buying.

Notwithstanding the statements of an opposition House to the contrary, we beg to state and challenge successful contradiction, that the value of our Importations Direct from the European markets in original packages—all of which were selected by our own buyer, and of which we are prepared to produce the original invoices—largely exceed those of any other Dry Goods house in the City of Belleville.

To the general public, the most important and interesting part of what we have to say is, that we are prepared to furnish them with a large portion of their Fall and Winter Dry Goods at prices whereby they can save from ten to twenty five cents on every dollar's worth, by buying them at our Warehouse. To some this may appear impossible, but to those who doubt the truth of our statements, we say, Compare the prices and qualities of our goods with those sold by other Stores. It is not necessary to buy, should they not prove equal to what we advertise them.

We are now selling a large lot of new Dress Goods at 12½, 15, 20, and 25c. per yard, which are admitted by all to be the cheapest lot of Dress Goods ever offered in this City. And although our sales of Dress Goods this season have already been very large, we are still able to show an immense variety of all the leading colors and materials which have been produced this season.

In addition to the above, the following lines are particularly worthy the attention of parties wanting first class value in these goods:

Black Silks, Silk Velvets, Velveteens, Crapes, Black and Colored Cashmeres, Kid Gloves, Jackets and Mantles, Corsets, Table Linens, Table Napkins and Towels, Scarlet and White Flannels, Wincies, and all kinds of Millinery Goods.

The Sun for 1879

THE SUN will be printed every day during the year to come. Its purpose and method will be the same as in the past. To present all the news in a readable shape, and to tell the truth though the heavens fall.

THE SUN has been, is, and will continue to be independent of everything and everybody save the Truth and its own convictions of duty. That is the only policy which an honest newspaper need have. That policy has made it what it is for this newspaper the confidence and friendship of the American people has ever enjoyed by any other American Journal.

THE SUN is the newspaper for the people. It is not for the rich man against the poor man, or for the poor man against the rich man, but it seeks to do equal justice to all interests in the community. It is not the organ of any person, class, sect or party. There need be no mystery about its loves and hates. It is for the honest man against the rogue every time. It is for the honest Democrat as against the dishonest Republican, and for the honest Republican as against the dishonest Democrat. It does not take its cue from the utterances of any politician or political organization. It gives its support unreservedly to such men or measures as in its judgment with the Constitution and with the principles upon which the Republic was founded for the people. Whenever the Constitution or constitutional principles are violated—as in the case of Presidential Count, by which a man not elected was placed in the President's office, where he still remains—it speaks out for the right. That is THE SUN'S idea of independence. In this respect there will be no change in its programme for 1879.

THE SUN has fairly earned the hearty hatred of rascals, frauds, and humbugs of all sorts and sizes. It hopes to deserve a continuance of less in the year 1879, than in 1878, 1877, or any year before. THE SUN will continue to shine on the wicked with strong and impartial light.

While the lessons of the past should be constantly kept before the people, THE SUN does not propose to make itself a mere receptacle for ancient history. It is printed for the men and women of to-day, whose concern is chiefly with the affairs of to-day. It will study both the disposition and the ability to afford its readers the promptest, fullest, and most accurate intelligence of whatever in the wide world is worth attention. To this end the resources belonging to well-established prosperity will be liberally employed.

The present disjointed condition of parties in this country, and the probability of the future, lend an extraordinary significance to the events of the coming year. The discussions of the press, the debates and acts of Congress, and the movements of the leaders in every section of the Republic will have a direct bearing on the Presidential election of 1880—an event which must be regarded with the most anxious interest by every patriotic American, whatever his political creed or allegiance. To these events of interest may be added the probability that the Democrats will control both houses of Congress, thus assuming feebleness of the fraudulent Administration, and the spread and strengthening everywhere of a healthy abhorrence of fraud in any form. To present with accuracy and clearness the exact situation in each of its varying phases, and to expound, according to its well known methods, the principles that should guide us through the labyrinth, will be an important part of THE SUN'S work for 1879.

We have the means of making THE SUN, as a political, a literary and a general newspaper, more entertaining and more useful than ever before; and we mean to apply them freely.

Our rate of subscription remains unchanged. For the DAILY SUN, a four page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price is 45 cents a month, or $5 a year; or, including the Sunday paper, an eight page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents a month, or $7.70 a year, postage paid.

The Sunday edition of THE SUN is also furnished separately at $1.20 a year, postage paid.

The price of the WEEKLY SUN, eight pages, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free. Address

The Ameer of Cabul.

Shere Ali is about sixty-five years of age, being the son of Dost Mahomed, the former Ameer. He is of moderate height but is of almost Herculean build. As his portrait represents, he much resembles the Israelite in his person, giving an illustration of the grounds that his people have for believing themselves to belong to the lost tribes. He has known strange reverses. Ten years ago he was fighting desperately for the throne which his father had bequeathed to him, and had to endure the bitterness of seing his half brother Azim acknowledged by the Indian Government as Ameer of three-fourths of the Afghan kingdom. Believing himself to be the rightful heir, Shere Ali has ever since borne a bitter grudge to Britain for her conduct when he was trying to oust the usurper. The respect paid him at the Umballa Durbar, in 1868, did little towards softening his anger. An incident may be here mentioned that occurred at this Durbar. It is given on the authority of Mr. W. Chapman of Waverly House, Kingston-on-Thames. That gentleman writing to the Times says :—"Permit me to call to the mind of Shere Ali, at this present crisis, the splendid declaration which on the occasion of the celebrated Durbar in 1869 he privately and emphatically made to the late Earl of Mayo, then Governor General of India, who, in token of existing friendship, had presented the Ameer with his own sword. 'I accept the sword,' said the Afghan Ruler, 'as a token of peace with England, against which country it shall never be unsheathed. When I look upon this sword it shall mean to me 'Peace with England.' As above implied, these words were uttered in private assembly, and I am able to vouch for the truth of the interesting incident upon the highest authority." When Shere Ali's brothers, some years ago, disputed his possession of the crown, his favorite wife worked well in her husband's cause, when that cause seemed desperate, and when he was yet a wanderer in his own kingdom. It was she who kept the camp well supplied with money and the dethroned rule well informed of the movements of the enemy, and the intrigues of the court. Finally, after five years of war, Shere Ali returned in triumph to Cabul, and there his wife claimed as her reward the elevation of her favorite son to the throne, and the promise thus given in 1869 was performed in 1873. At the great festival of the Fed, and in the presence of all the Moslem City, the Ameer solemnly placed on the hands of the lad Abdullah Jan, the Koran and the sword which his father, Dost Mahomed, had in the same way placed in his as the insignia of hereditary sovereignty years before. Four or four years later the boy's health began to fail, he became subject to fevers and rheumatic attacks and last spring he died. The Ameer seemed in no hurry to announce an heir. Of the three princes who divide between them the best chances of succession, only one is Shere Ali's own son, and, strange to say, it is not certainly known whether he is dead or alive. Ibrahim Khan, the oldest surviving son of the Ameer, has never possessed either his father's or the people's confidence; while his third son, Ayub Khan, is still in exile for his rebellion in Persian territory. The second son, Yakoob Khan, was born about the year 1849, and at the early age of fifteen was placed by Shere Ali in charge of the recently captured fortress of Herat, where, discovering a conspiracy against his power, he punished the guilty ones with a severity that astonished his council and gained him public confidence. Two years later, when his father was carrying on war with varying fortune, now victorious in one battle, now routed in another, being the soldierly man in the fight, and deserted by his best general on the eve of another, Yakoob Khan, at the head of a large force in the field, restrained the Persians and preserved the Ameer's power. Then, when Russia, besides sending many a welcome contingent of trained troops to the vicinity of Cabul, where Shere Ali was struggling with rebellion, was conquering Bokhara, anxious to found dynasties of their own. It has long been allowed that to Yakoob's popularity and energy was owing the sudden revival of his father's influence, and the defeat of his and plans on the return of the Ameer to his throne. At the close of the war he was appointed Governor of Cabul, and the next year Governor of Candahar. On the 30th of March, General Kauffmann wrote to Shere Ali to inform him that his nephew, whom the General described as "formerly Governor of Herat and other cities of the Afghanistan," had been hospitably received at Tashkend, but only on the understanding that he was not to count on the political support of Russia in his difficulty with the Ameer, or any help whatever from Russia, except, indeed, such hospitality as the Emperor refused to no one, and, least of all, to a man in misfortune. The hospitality thus granted to Abdul Rahman was accompanied by an annual allowance of 30,000 roubles.

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for a NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, notably under the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the businessholders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside ; and as a valuable part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householderin the various Townships.

The descriptive intermation will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special attention will be given to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their money in search of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. At the request of each of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on any former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Bell Mount.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Proof to Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and the Directory for several years used by those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of Ameliasburgh, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our mechanics, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1879 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz. : One page, $10.00 ; half-page, $6.00 ; quarter page, $4.00. The rates will be reported as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them additionally valuable.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and nothing on their part will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory and for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly, "Deny it who can."

It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer.

It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time.

Pocket your proju ice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain.

The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of diseases in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet profisced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge" of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

THE PUBLIC ARE CAUTIONED

that the only book giving the complete history of the travels, explorations, important discoveries, and thrilling adventures of Mr. Stanley in Africa during 1874-1877 is now published, under the title which appears at the head of this advertisement as the Canadian COPYRIGHT EDITION.

Two spurious books, one entitled, "The Achievements of Stanley in Africa," and the other "The Complete Explorations and Adventures of Stanley" have been advertised. They are a rehash of Livingstone and other old books of African travel and of Stanley's letters. The first is the Original spurious book published in Philadelphia, written by F. J. Headley. The second is an inferior copy of the first. Both have mostly old illustrations. See that you get the genuine work written by Mr. Stanley. Each copy in cloth has a cut of the continent and the world "Africa" stamped on side.

OUR PARIS LETTER.

PARISIAN FETES.—THE DISTRIBUTION OF PRIZES.—THE GREAT ASSEMBLAGE OF THE WORLD'S REPRESENTATIVES, &c. &c.

(From a regular correspondent.)

HOTEL DU LOUVRE, PARIS, Oct. 30, 1878.

The Paris Exhibition fetes commenced on Sunday with free performances at seven of the largest theatres. This is the first time the Republic has initiated the circuses of the Empire. The weather proved bright and balmy enough for some monster out-door entertainment, but this could not have been calculated upon late in October, and the Government therefore provided for the populace festivities least affected by atmospheric influences. One drawback to the enjoyment was the number of people necessarily disappointed. In the theatres three operas there were about 19,000 places available, and those who sought admission were enormously in excess of this number. Although the performance at the Opera was fixed for noon, and at the other theatres at 1 and 2 p. m., people actually began to collect near the Francais at 10 the previous night, just as they do outside the maines on the eve of the issue of a loan; and on the closing of the Palais Royal at midnight, they took refuge from the rain in the arcade of the Rue Richelieu. Near the Opera groups remained in the queue until the closing hour, and then hung about the neighborhood, intent on getting near the head of the queue. The most perfect order prevailed everywhere during the long hours of waiting. There was of course a keen scramble for the best seats, and the Opera has never had such an audience. The most luxurious building in Paris was thronged with men in blouses, and women in white caps or bareheaded, who during the intervals between the acts promenaded up and down the sumptuous corridors and lounged in the balcony. Such a juxtaposition of wealth and indigence has not been seen in Paris except when revolutionary crowds have taken up Royal or Imperial palaces by storm. The behavior of the crowd was exemplary, and the Opera is none the worse for this increase of the proletariat. The opera was Guillaume Tell. The audience warmly applauded the Marseillaise, which was interpolated between the second and third acts. The Francais gave the Misanthrope and the Plaideurs; the Opera Comique, the Dame Blanche; the Odeon, Rodgune and the Folie Amoureuse; and the Historique, Marcas,—while the two circuses gave concerts. The city was full of bustle. Many streets were decked with flags, though this demonstration was not so universal as four months ago, and at night the municipal buildings were illuminated, the Council having spontaneously voted 50,000 francs for that purpose.

The distribution of the prizes of the Exhibition took place on Monday in the Palais de l'Industrie, in the Champs Elysees. The ceremony passed off most successfully. The day broke close and gloomy, and slight rain fell in the morning, but towards eleven o'clock the elements became more propitious, and the the afternoon turned out charming. The great central space of the palace was transformed into a magnificent hall, which was elegantly and richly decorated. The east end of the immense salle was set apart for the places of honor. Here a series of raised platforms, covered with crimson and gold, rose one above the other till they reached the galleries. In the centre at the bottom was the estrade of the President of the Republic, flanked either side by the thrones of the Diplomatic and other official corps. Behind and above the Marshal sat the members of the Senate and the Chamber. The ground space was allotted to the juries, the exhibitors and their friends. Round the hall beneath the galleries ran tribunes for the various countries represented at the Exhibition, beginning with England. Over these tribunes the national colors of every land waved by the side of trophies of French flags and escutcheons emblazoned with the letters "R. F." and the word "Pax." The galleries were turned into open boxes for each of the general public as were lucky enough to have procured a ticket. Above the Presidential estrade stood out in bold relief a statue of the Republic gorgeously bedecked with the favorite tricolor, while throughout the buildings banners and streamers of every color and clime under the sun floated and intermingled together. The music, composed of several military bands and a choir of Orphonists, 200 strong, was placed at the west end of the palace.

Representatives of England, Russia, and Turkey sat side by side in their respective military garb, and chatted with one another in such an apparently friendly way that one was almost tempted to put the Eastern difficulty down as a romance got up for the amusement of the reading public. The Japanese Ambassador was there in his quaint dress, silent and placid, but he passed almost unnoticed by the side of the dusky-faced ambassador and his suite, whose swarthy faces and gandy-silk costumes attracted more attention than they seemed to like. In the other official tribunes sat severe-looking judges, some in sable, others in scarlet, others in scarlet gowns; members of the French Academy, with their laurel-bordered coats and gilt rapiers; bishops in purple robes—in short, every conceivable and unconceivable species of attire was to be seen, mingled together in the most picturesque and diversified manner. The proceedings began about half-past twelve by the arrival of the President and Bureau of the Chamber of Deputies. When everybody had settled down into his right place the defile began to be inspiriting sounds of a Triumphal March, executed by the military bands. First came the foreign soldiers sent over to do duty at the Exhibition. There were American, Swedish, Moorish, and Italian troops. Each body marched past before the Marshal, with their colors en tete. The American and Moorish troops received admiration and applause by the regularity of their step and their soldierly bearing.

After the usual speech making the Head Commissioners of the various foreign countries, after having been presented to the President of the Republic, severally received an immense album containing the diplomas, and a small basket containing the medals, awarded to each country. The Japanese Commissioner received quite an ovation, which was no doubt an acknowledgment of the remarkable show Japan has made at the exhibition.

At night the streets were gaily decorated with flags, and the public buildings were brilliantly lighted up. The festivities of the day were wound up by a ball at M. Toisserday were wound up by a ball at M. Toisserand de Bort's. In a temporary saloon erected in the garden of the Ministry of Commerce and Agriculture 200 guests sat down to dine. They included the foreign Princes visiting the Exhibition, the new Grand Officer Krantz, all the Ambassadors except Prince Orloff, and the Grands Prix who are now in Paris. While coffee was being sipped the banqueting hall was cleared of the remains of the feast and horseshoe tables, and transformed into a ballroom.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

The Warden then addressed the Council as follows:

WARDEN'S ADDRESS.

GENTLEMEN,—During the long interval between the last session and the present the business of the County has gone on in the ordinary way, and I think it did not suffer by the omission of the August session.

The heavy summer rains caused a few unexpected breaks in our leading county roads, and also increased the expense and lessened the value of the work done thereon this season to some small extent.

I have countersigned requisitions on the Treasurer for the County Surveyor since our last meeting to the amount of $3,723.50, the greater part of which sum has been expended as before authorized by this Council, and the balance is the repairs on the Snow road in Tudor and on Chisholm's Rapids bridge, as well as $350 towards getting timber for the Stone bridge, which has been found since our last meeting to need rebuilding.

The moneys have been drawn for nearly all the grants on roads outside of the gravel roads.

I carried out the instructions of the Council by writing the Warden of the County of Northumberland and Durham in the matter of the Sidney and Murray boundary road, but he has not yet informed me what that County will do.

The auditor's report and last year's accounts have not been published yet because just after our last meeting it was noticed that a few items had been omitted in the statement which affected the balance due the estate of our late Treasurer, but the Auditors have carefully gone over the accounts again and have now handed in a report of the true balance due said estate, which will be read to you.

The solicitor of a company that offered as much as any other company to which the Treasurer and I decided to sell the $20,000 debentures, to be issued under By-law No. 332, made some technical objections to said By-law, and to get over the same with the least possible expense we had the said By-law promulgated.

The Gravel Roads and Public Accounts Committees will submit their respective reports in a very full and complete form.

The business of this session so far as I know will be of the usual nature, which I trust may be disposed of in such a manner as to prove most beneficial to the interests of the County.

He also intimated that the solicitor of the Grand Trunk Railway stated that, as soon as the boundary road between Ameliasburgh and Murray had been completed the company would fulfil what was required of them in accordance with the wishes of the Council.

COMMUNICATIONS &C.

The following were presented and read:

From the County Clerk of the Counties of Northumberland and Durham, stating that no action could be taken in reference to the dividing line road between that County and this, as the Council of the former had adjourned before the letter from this Council had been received.

From J. A. Gibert, for an increase of salary.

From the City Clerk of Belleville, enclosing a copy of a resolution passed by the City Council, thanking the County Council for the grant in aid of the celebration on the inaugural day of the city.

From the same, approving of the appointment of a shorthand reporter and stating the city's proposal to pay its necessary share for that purpose.

From the Minister of Education, per Alex. Marling, with regard to the appointing of County Boards of Examiners, and stating that where two were in existence in one County, a certificate granted by one was applicable to the whole County.

From A. G. Northrup, enclosing a copy of a report of the Grand Jury at the recent Assizes.

From the County Auditors, reporting that the balance due the late Treasurer was $451.54, a correct statement of the Auditors' report for the whole year also, accompanies that communication.

From James Laing, asking to be recompensed on account of injuries received whilst breaking stones for the county.

From James Tulloch, of Huntingdon, asking to be remunerated for damage sustained by the breaking of a culvert near his premises, which destroyed a culvert on his premises. He asked $100.

From Philip Clapp and others asking that the Council assume as a County road that across lots 18 and 19 in the fifth, sixth and seventh concessions of Madoc and asking an appropriation from time to time for the maintenance of the same.

From Adam McGowan and others, asking that a quarterly fair be established at the village of Tweed and that Wm. Wray be appointed to superintend the same.

From James Lanagan and others, asking that a bridge be built over the Rawden Creek, as the road between lots 6 and 7 in that Township was impassable.

From Wm. Mundy and others, asking for repairs to the county road between lots 1 and 2 in the 10th con. of Rawden.

From Philo White and others, asking that the road between the 21st and 22nd lots in the 1st and 2nd concessions of the Township of Rawden be assumed as a county road.

The petitions and communications were appropriately referred to the usual Committees.

REPORTS.

The Committee, Messrs. Ashley and Peck, to whom were referred the Consolidation of the rules of the Council, reported that they would be prepared to report by by-law.

BY-LAWS.

A by-law introduced by Mr. Peck regulating the rules of the Council was read and referred to the Committee on By-laws.

The Warden stated that the Gravel Roads and Finance Committees would report to-morrow.

NOTICES.

Mr. Gordon gave notice of a By-law for the establishment of a fair at the village of Tweed.

Mr. Francis gave notice of a By-law granting the right of way to the Prince Edward Railway on Wellington Street in the village of Trenton.

The questions for grants on roads and bridges left over from the last meeting of the County Council were referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

Mr. White moved, seconded by Mr. Caskey, that the County Treasurer furnish this Council with the amount taken from the Sinking Fund in order to keep down taxes that should have been collected each year from 1866 to 1877 and a statement of the amount estimated to be expended on the gravel roads, county roads and bridges for the years 1873, 1874, 1875, 1876, 1877, 1878, and the amount expended in each of these years over and above the amount collected, the report to be made on Thursday.

In support of his motion Mr. White averred that considerable dissatisfaction existed in the Township of Tyendinaga if the explanations were made he was satisfied that the people of that township would learn that the council of 1878 had not raised the taxes or committed any injustice toward the people.

The motion was carried.

Mr. Pearce moved, seconded by Mr. Emo, that a return containing the names of the licensed auctioneers and peddlers of the county, the amounts they have paid, &c., &c., be printed in the INTELLIGENCER and Ontario each year.

The mover and seconder spoke briefly in support of the resolution.

Mr. Armstrong said that a sale made by an unlicensed auctioneer could not be legal.

Mr. Peck said he could not agree with the Reeve of Sidney, as he considered a sale would be legal, but acting in the capacity of an auctioneer and being unlicensed he would be liable to a penalty.

After discussion it was determined to publish such announcements quarterly.

A resolution, moved by Hon. Mr. Flint, seconded be Mr. Francis, that the Clerk, inasmuch as he wished to dispense with the services of an assistant permanently, he (the Clerk) be allowed $100 to procure whatever assistance he may deem necessary, the increase to date from the commencement of this year.

After remarks by Messrs. White, Peck, Flint, and the Warden, the motion was put and carried.

Council adjourned till 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Grit Tactics in Quebec.

The truth regarding the desperate efforts of the Quebec Grits to carry the Provincial elections last summer by making charges of the most villainous nature against Mr. Baker, the Solicitor General, is at length being brought to light. These charges were made on the authority of E. H. Goff, formerly of Montreal, a man charged with forgery, breach of trust and other crimes, who was at the time, as he is now, a fugitive from justice, but who was brought back to Montreal by Mr. James Stewart, of the Herald, (financially backed by the Grit party) for the express purpose of correcting a series of lies for publication, which would assist the cause of the Joly Government. Mr. Baker at once instituted proceedings for libel against Mr. Stewart, who a few days ago confessed the untruth of Goff's allegations and made a most humble and object apology. As an addition to this acknowledgement, and showing up the "true inwardness" of the whole plot, which is almost equal to the Jacques Cartier ballot box-stuffing affair, we have the testimony of Mr. Arthur Stevens Baker, a commercial agent, who on the 22nd of October made a deposition in the Police Court at Montreal before Police Magistrate Desnoyers, in which he tells what he knows about the slanders brought against Mr. Solicitor General Baker by Edward H. Goff. The deponent, who had been an intimate of Goff's, testified as follows :—

"In the month of April last, Edward Hezekiah Goff, late of the City of Montreal, insurance agent, was staying in St. Albans, in the State of Vermont, one of the United States of America. I think he went there to avoid being arrested on some charge made against the said Goff by the Canadian Agricultural Insurance Company, had Goff himself told me he was there to make some arrangements with a certain railway company. Two or three days before the 20th of April last I telegraphed said Goff that he was going to be arrested at St. Albans that night by one McCrea, and said Goff suddenly disappeared from St. Albans. I next heard of him at Sweetsburg, and went to see him at his request ; he was in bed, and, as I believe, secreting himself, on account of warrants of arrest being made out against the said Goff. The said Goff had told me previously at St. Albans that he was to have five thousand dollars ($5,000) from the Liberal party, through the hands of James Stewart, Managing Director of the Montreal Herald, for furnishing the letter that afterwards appeared in the Herald of the 20th of April last, and the information connected therewith. As Goff's request I went to see the said James Stewart, on the 19th of April last, to ask him to go out to Sweetsburg and see Goff without fail that night. Stewart said he would let me know in an hour if he could go. I subsequently met Stewart by appointment, and he said it was no use his going, and that he only wanted to talk about the matter with two or three people at most ; and Stewart also said : 'I can tell you one thing, it is of no use talking about five thousand dollars ; it is too much money, and we can't give it.' Stewart said : 'You must understand that this matter must be only talked about with two or three people, meaning thereby that it must be kept as secret as possible. I then told him that Goff would forego the five thousand dollars, but that Goff must have the moral support of the Herald and bail arranged to carry him through the charges that were made against him by the Canada Agricultural Company. Stewart replied that would be all right, and he would undertake that bail should be furnished as well as counsel to fight these cases through, and that the Herald would stand to him (Goff's) back, and that he thought he could prove upon the Witness to do the same. Stewart went several times to see the Witness, after the letter was published in the Herald, to have them take up Goff's cases, and I understood that several newspaper articles in Goff's favor were inserted in the Witness through Stewart's influence.

"Stewart said at the last moment 'Bring a cab to my office in time to catch the train and I will go to Sweetsburg.' Just before this he said, that it would not look right, he must have some business ; so I told him to go and see Mr Racicot of Sweetsburg, and that I would telegraph Racicot to meet him, Stewart. Stewart asked if I could make sure that Racicot would be there to meet him, as it would be an awkward fix if he should not meet him, and I said I would telegraph Racicot to meet him at the depot, and have Racicot there. Stewart went out expressly to bring Goff into Montreal, and they came in next morning. I met Stewart at the depot in the morning, and, asking for Goff, Stewart replied, "You will find him in the rear of the train." Stewart told me to come to his office about ten o'clock. I went according to appointment. The matter was fully discussed, and the next morning the letter appeared in the Herald.

"Goff left the Dominion of Canada about three weeks ago, and is now somewhere in the United States of America. I do not believe that Goff ever will return to Canada ; he himself told me that it would be years before he came back again to Canada.

"I saw Goff on my visit to New York on the fifth of this month, and he said to me that a week from that day he would be more than a thousand miles away from the Canadian frontier."

This information shows how thoroughly rotten and unscrupulous is the Grit-Rouge party in Montreal, which is now proved to have been guilty of letter stealing, gross bribery and corruption at elections, auction puffing, attempting to rob their opponents of their character by baseless slanders, and finally of stuffing the ballot boxes in Jacques Cartier.

The only matter for regret is that Solicitor-General Baker accepted an apology from the concoctor of so vile a plot to ruin his reputation.

In justice to the Witness it may be said that it editorially denies any connection with the transaction such as was alleged by Stewart, who seems to be thoroughly unscrupulous and unworthy of belief.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

TUESDAY, Nov. 12.

The Board met at 8 o'clock.

PRESENT.—Messrs. W. A. Shepard (Chairman), Jno. Macoun, Peck, A. Diamond, Northcott, Backus, Peterson, Tennant, Wills, Decter, Tracy.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

A communication was read from Mr. Dickson regarding the Coleman award, also from Mr. Stanistreet regarding music in the schools.

The Inspector read his monthly report of the attendance in the schools.

Mr. Macoun moved for the purchase of twenty-five copies of the compendium of the school law, as compiled by the Minister of Education, for the use of the members of the Board.

Mr. Peck said this was the best work on the school law which he had seen, as it contained the latest authoritative compilation of the law up to the last session of the legislature.

The motion was carried.

Mr. Diamond asked Mr. Tennant are the furnaces in the Central School in proper running order ?

Mr. Tennant replied that they are.

Mr. Wills thought it desirable that the teachers of the Central School should be advised of the desirability of the boys and girl, being requested each to play on their own side of the ground.

Mr. Diamond thought it was not advisable to separate the sexes too much, as they had to mix together in after life, and both sexes would profit from each other's society.

Mr. Wills thought it would be to the advantage of the schools for the boys and girls to keep their respective places. He did not consider it advisable that boys and girls should play together in the school yards. He had hoped, from the expression of the Board at its last meeting, that the matter would be attended to.

The discussion then dropped and the Board adjourned.

GREAT FIRE IN TORONTO.—About one o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the yard of the Central Prison and destroyed the paint shop, the drying kiln, the engine-room, and the store-room, together with their contents, consisting of machinery and wooden material. The loss has not been definitely ascertained, but is estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000, which is covered by insurance.

THE MARQUIS AND MARCHIONESS OF LORNE.—The preparations for the departure of the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise from England to-morrow are now complete. They have taken leave of the Prince and Princess of Wales ; some of the other members of the Royal Family will accompany them to Liverpool. That city will be en fete on the occasion, and the farewell ceremonies promise to be very imposing. The arrangements for the welcome of the Vice-Regal pair on this side of the Atlantic are also extensive. Most of the cities and numerous national and other societies in the Dominion will present addresses of welcome. The Duke of Edinburgh will meet the Marquis and the Princess at Halifax.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.—Midnight despatches do not contain much of interest. The news regarding the relations between Britain and Russia continue to be reassuring. Confirmatory despatches have been received of the Czar's professed intention to respect the treaty, and Schouvaloff has gone to conciliate Austria. He had a long interview with Count Andrassy at Pesth yesterday. The Greek frontier difficulty, too, is likely to be peacefully settled, the Porte having accepted the principle of its rectification. There are some disquieting rumors of Russian forces being in Afghanistan, and of the concentration of 30,000 native troops at Ghizni, but letters from Cabul represent war as unpopular among the natives.

An exchange says "the Reform party is a little bilious just now, that is all." When this is a very bilious time of the year, you know. The remitting fever is also prevalent—though some editors complain that their subscribers don't remit fast enough.

"What we want is work, and pay for doing it," said the trump. "What kind of work ?" said a bystander. "Unloading schooners," replied the incipient communist, "poor schooners."

The sugar trade was excited yesterday over reports that the special Treasury Agents had made startling discoveries of frauds in sugar for export, in the shape of adulterations with muriatic acid, tin and glucose.

The Times intimates that Judge Hilton's private detectives have positive knowledge as to the whereabouts of Stewart's remains.

The Times says the feeling among the bankers who attended the clearing house meeting yesterday was that the plan adopted was one that would inevitably lead to resumption.

The Times says that there is no prospect of a war among the trunk lines, or cutting of rates.

The Sun devotes nearly a page to the exposure of the standard oil monopoly and says the opposition to it in Pennsylvania may culminate in wide spread violence.

The Tribune reports an interview with Butler in which he claimed to be greatly encouraged as to the future of the Greenback party and said with the exception of three states the Republican party is in animosity in the north.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Washington specials:

The Tribune gives an interview with the President, which will appear in the National Republican this morning. The Republican says : "The President's attention was called yesterday to an editorial announcing that the southern situation would be earnestly discussed at the regular cabinet meeting." To this he replied : That is a mistake ; it is now too late for anything but the most determined and vigorous action. This determination was reached several days ago, and the deliberations of the Cabinet on this subject since then have been comparatively brief, and confined mainly to a consideration of the duty of the Attorney General in the premises.

The President said that his conciliatory policy was earnestly carried out, but he is reluctantly compelled to admit it a failure in view of the late unfair elections. He did not complain because the Republican party suffered, but because free suffrage and freedom of political rights had been interfered with. He should do his duty as Chief Magistrate of the people, Democrats and Republicans alike, without being deterred by partizan criticisms. He did not think the southern Democratic leaders would had promised to protect the blacks were to blame. Hampton cannot control the red shirts and Nichols is earnestly opposed to violence in Louisiana. The officers of the Department of Justice have been instructed to carry out proceedings against those arrested and against others who will soon be arrested. It is proposed to make a clean sweep and exhaust every legal resource in the execution of justice. The integrity of American citizenship has been grossly violated in wide spread localities; it must and shall be vindicated. If it is discovered that any officer is not earnestly endeavoring to do his whole duty there will be no hesitation in taking the proper steps to replace him and to secure vigorous prosecution.

The World says that the Treasury Department cannot accept the suggestion by the Clearing House Committee that the banks should after the first of of January receive no gold on special deposit, no silver on special deposit, except in sums under five dollars. The law permits the Department to know no difference between silver and gold. It is also felt that it would be unwise for the banks to make any special and public discrimination against silver, at the very outset of resumption.

The Tribune says the Attorney General has sent detailed written instructions to United States District Attorneys in all the Southern States where violence occurred to take immediate measures to bring the violators of the law to justice and if the present officers are not able or brave enough to do their duty other men will be found to take their places.

Salisbury's reply is said to be friendly in tone though hinted while frankly conceding the justice of Evart's position that treaty obligations are superior to local legislation, it does not admit the force of Evart's second despatch relating to the award. The award will probably be promptly paid and questions at issue left for settlement through friendly correspondence.

City and Vicinity.

THE CELLS.—There were seven tramps and three prisoners in the cells last night.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY.—The meeting of this Society is set for Friday night, instead of to-morrow night, as stated in yesterday's paper.

REMINDER.—Meeting of the St. Andrew's Society this evening for the election of officers and the transaction of other business.

ST. THOMAS' CHURCH.—Mr. J. D. Evans, architect, will until Friday evening receive tenders for the rebuilding in part of St. Thomas' Church.

THANKSGIVING DAY.—We understand that the Dominion Government has appointed Wednesday, December 4th, as a day of General Thanksgiving.

THE ROSE-MAPLESON CONCERT.—An exchange states that Mme. Marie Rose-Mapleson, who will shortly appear in this city, has concluded an engagement with Messrs. Hathaway & Pond, of Boston, under the terms of which she is to receive $8,000 for singing at forty concerts in Canada and the West.

A CURIOSITY IN CABBAGE.—Mr. John Morton, of Rawdon, sent a stalk of cabbage to Mr. Wm. Wray, Tweed, with 13 heads growing on one stalk. The centre or parent head is of a large size and surrounded by it were 12 lesser though well developed and good hard cabbage. It real, ly looks nice and is quite a curiosity.

SHIPPED TO SCOTLAND.—The Oswego Times of Monday says:—"The schooner Sibylla to-day brought here a car load of manufactured doors shipped by E. W. Rathbun & Co., from Mill Point to Scotland. They go forward in a bonded car to New York and thence to Scotland. This is an experiment, and if it proves profitable more will follow."

ANOTHER HUNT.—The Belleville Fox hounds will meet at Balaclava Lodge, the residence of H. E. Filliter, Esq., on Friday, the 15th instant, at 10:30 a. m. sharp, where the regular members of the Hunt Club with their lady friends have been invited to breakfast. All desirous of seeing the sport should take the town line road, which is in excellent condition. A full field is expected.

GAME.—We are informed that bears are very plentiful in the back country and that numbers have been shot whilst foraging about in the vicinity of the settlements. One day recently four of these animals were killed whil st prowling around a settlement in the township of Cashel. Many of those killed, are quite large and in excellent condition; one, we are told, weighing not less than 400 lbs. Deer are not over plentiful whilst partridge are very scarce.

THE FUR TRADE.—The prospects of this trade—at least as far as trappers are concerned—are not very encouraging, and as a consequence—the prices of the various classes of skins being considered too low—but very few care to engage in it. In the northern part of this county there are scarcely any hunters following the pursuit of trapping, preferring to wait until the the market brightens and the value of furs increases.

THE ROADS.—The principal and ordinary thoroughfares leading into the city are in a very bad condition owing principally to the recent rains, and are badly cut up. In the northern district they are almost impassable, and it is only with great difficulty that loaded vehicles can pass over them in safety. The road leading from Ballyduff to Doyle's Corners is in a very bad state and the settlers along it are greatly inconvenienced, as they are unable to bring their produce to market.

OPERA HOUSE.—Miss Helen Blye, a talented young actress, who has appeared to great advantage in Toronto, Hamilton and other places west, is to give performances in the Opera House on to-morrow and Friday evenings, supported by a first class dramatic company. To-morrow night she appears as Juliet, and on Friday night as Camille. Our contemporaries generally notice the preformances of Miss Blye and company very favorably. Tickets are for sale at Reynolds'.

IN THE WOODS.—Lumbering operations in several townships in the northwestern part of this county give evidence of considerable activity, and the probabilities are that this winter's cut of logs will be large. In addition to the work carried on in Faraday, Cardiff and Methen by Rathbun & Son. That firm has also four jobbers at work and they have located five shanties on Lake and Cashel, which will give employment to over sixty men. A number of minor firms are also at work in the two last named townships. Rathbun & Son will send their cut down by Beaver Creek and Gilmour & Co. will bring 40,000 to the market by the same stream. The residents of that section of the country are greatly pleased with the new awakening exhibited in this branch of industry, particularly so as money appears to be plentiful and there is a brisk demand for their surplus produce.

W. C. T. A.—Members of the Women's Christian Temperance Association are requested to meet at the residence of Mrs. E. W. Holton, on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 14th, at three o'clock.

ROSE-MAPLESON OPERA.—Examination of the plan at Reynolds' shows that a very large number of seats have already been secured not only by residents of the city, but by persons resident in the country about and in other places at a distance. There are still a number of excellent seats vacant, and those who wish to attend will do well to secure their seats at once.

METHODIST MISSIONS.—The meeting in the Holloway Street Church last night was largely attended. The chair was occupied by Wm. Watt, Esq., and addresses were delivered by Rev. Dr. Macdonald and Rev. Mr. Beaudry. The collections so far, we are informed, exceed in amount those of last year by about 40 per cent. The anniversary meeting will be held in the Bleecker Street Church this evening.

MACLEOD OF DARE.—By William Black. Illustrated. Montreal: Dawson Brothers, publishers. This brilliant novel, which has been passing in serial form through the pages of Blackwood and Harper's Magazine for some time, is now reproduced entire by the above well-known publishing house. In the opinion of many critics this is counted Black's best work, and that is saying a great deal. It can be obtained at the bookstores or from the publisher.

Christ Church.

The Lord Bishop of Ontario has appointed the Rev. W. C. Clarke, of Ottawa, Rector of Christ Church, of this city. Noting his departure from Ottawa, the Citizen of the 10th inst. says:—

"Dr. Clarke leaves this city for his new sphere of clerical labors in the course of the present week. Although, doubtless, in the general interests of the Church such a change is actually necessary, still much regret is expressed at the approaching departure of Dr. Clarke. In May, 1878, the reverend gentleman, on the recommendation of their Lordships the Bishops of Montreal (Metropolitan) and Ontario became incumbent of St. Alban's church, during the temporary absence of Canon Bedford Jones, in England. During the past six months Dr. Clarke has labored zealously in the performance of his pastoral duties. In so doing he has been preeminently successful. Not only has he deservedly earned for himself the respect and love of his own particular congregation, but he has also placed on record a reputation of the highest possible character —and of which his many friends have just reason to be proud. As a preacher Dr. Clarke is both forcible and eloquent. In fact several of his sermons, preached on special subjects, have been accepted and acknowledged as masterpieces of composition. Some short time ago the reverend gentleman delivered a most interesting and instructive lecture on the great pyramid of Cheops, in Egypt, which was, by special request, to have been repeated at an early date. The people of Belleville may rest assured that they have good cause for congratulation on the judicious selection made by the Bishop of Ontario, and much as Dr. Clarke's departure will be regretted, his admirers can console themselves with the assurance that what has been a loss to them must, with equal certainty, be to Belleville a material gain. Dr. Clarke is a B. A. of the University of Turrus' College, and was ordained deacon in 1874, priest in 1875, at Winnipeg, Manitoba, by His Lordship the Metropolitan of Rupert's Land; was appointed to St. Alban's Cathedral, Winnipeg; afterwards incumbent for two years at Buckingham, in the diocese of Montreal, and lastly to St. Alban's Church in this city, where yesterday Dr. Clarke preached at both morning and evening services. In the morning he took an affectionate farewell of the congregation forming his temporary charge, assuring them that his connection with St. Alban's had, from beginning to end, been of such a character as to render his leave taking a most painful duty. So earnest and powerful was his sermon that many of the congregation were visibly effected by it. The sermon in the evening was specially prepared for young men, and was listened to with rapt attention throughout. The congregation was largely attended, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather."

The Rev. J. R. Jones—His Renunciation of Infidelity.

(To the Editor of the Kingston Daily News.)

DEAR SIR,—Will you kindly publish the following letter addressed to the Lord Bishop of Ontario. The letter will explain itself.—I am yours truly,

T. A. PARNELL,
Archdeacon of Kingston.

London, Ont., Nov. 8th, 1878.

My Dear Lord,—As it was in your Diocese that my sad fall from the Christian religion to infidelity took place, I think it but right to inform you of my return, with a surer faith than ever, to the truths of the Gospel. God has humbled me greatly, but the lesson, though severe, has been for my good.

Coming to Belleville two years ago, I found it a "hot-bed" of scepticism, especially amongst the young men of the town. Determined to fight the battle on their own ground, I purchased several Infidel books and proceeded to post myself in their arguments. The result was that I withdrew my own faith.

For the last few weeks I have been reading "Law," as it was my intention to take up that profession; but through the instrumentality of the Rev. Dr. Pearson, of Detroit, my doubts have been dispelled, and I have concluded (unworthy as I now am) to seek an humble position in the Church I had forsaken, never again as a party man, but a simple ambassador for Christ.

Your Lordship is at liberty to make any use of this letter that you may think proper, as I wish my rejection of the darkness of Infidelity to be as widely known as my late renunciation of Christianity.

Trusting your health has benefitted by the sea voyage,

I remain,
Your humble servant,
JOHN R. JONES.

Rt. Rev. John Travers Lewis, D. D., LL.D.

Meet of the Belleville Hunt.

Monday morning was dark and cloudy; rain had fallen for many hours previously, which had the effect of keeping away a few of the members, the number being smaller than at the previous meet at Epsom Lodge. Those, however, who know what a good scent lying day is turned out in force at this meet, which took place at the residence of D. R. Lewens, Esq., who had kindly thrown open his grounds to the members of the Hunt.

A large number of carriages, notwithstanding the threatening appearance of the weather, accompanied the Hounds to the covert side. Of the members of the Hunt we observed the Master, Mr. Lloyd, the Secretary, Mr. Clute, Messrs. S. S. Lazier, U. E. Thompson, Guy Baker, Charles Gillen, Stephen Garratt, John Taylor, jr., N. Davenport, John M. Bowell, T. S. Carman, R. W. Newton, V.S., N. McCammon, Mr. Cock, V.S., H. E. Filliter, J. W. Reynolds and many other gentlemen, whose names we did not learn.

Enough of preliminaries. The first covert drawn was on the west side of the Ox Point road, when soon the exhilarating sound "Yoicks! wind him, push him up!" echoed from the huntsman's cheery voice in the covert. Here the Hounds delayed some time, the covert proving blank. They were then thrown into a small grove further west. Presently a whimper is heard, and then another. "Hark! Hark to "Luke!" cries the huntsman, "save at him my beauties!" and then came a scream of "gone away!" Cigar ends are thrown down, and men catch their horses by their heads, and shove them along to get in a good place and in the first flight.

It is a rare scenting day, and the hounds stream along for miles across the Point Ann plains with their heads up, running nearly mute. The hounds making it too hot for Reynard, he headed for the uplands towards the Kingston Road, where he was turned by a number of school children, near Mr. Gibson's. Here many dismounted from their blown horses, cigars were lighted, and sundry "nips" taken from the sherry flasks; but a hallos ahead, from the Master, cut short further delay. "Too, too!" went the horn, and away galloped the huntsmen, for the hounds had hit it off again and raced away south in the direction of Big Bay.

Many envious eyes were on the leading men, for they ride well, have fine hands, temper, and know when to save their horses; they stuck to the hounds and were riding in line with the Master, and Whips, for the field was getting somewhat drawn out by the stiff timber swamps, and woods had choked some off. Mile after mile was passed, and wonderfully select had become the field, showing what horses in good condition will do.

Tally-ho! triumphantly shouts the Master, for the fox is at last viewed, and the hounds seem to know that he is not far off, for they rush madly along. At the old race course reynard was slightly headed off by some of the members of the Hunt who had been thrown out, but had fortunately taken a short cut in the right direction. In a few moments more he was run into and killed, when, according to the etiquette of the field, the Master handed the "brush" to Mr. Thompson, he being the first up at the death, closely followed, however, by Messrs. Clute and Baker.

Mr. C. was presented with the "pate" and Mr. B. with a "gad". We must say the field generally were well up at the death. We understand that the next meet takes place on Friday next, at 10:30 a.m., sharp, at Balaclava Lodge, the residence of H. E. Filliter, Esq., who has kindly invited the members of the Hunt and their friends to a hunting dejeuner.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—My attention was directed, the other day, to some editorial articles in the Ontario newspaper, criticizing the alignment and superstructure of the Belleville and North Hastings Railway. The writer of the articles in question evidently imagines that he understands what he is writing about; but, as in many other instances, his imagination has misled him.

As to the curve at Lake Moira, the radius is about 620 feet. Many of the principal railways in the States and in Europe have curves with very small radii. On the Pennsylvania Centre are several of 637 to 717 feet radius; the Reading has several of 800 feet; on the New Jersey Central is one of 400 feet; on the Baltimore and Ohio are many from 400 to 600 feet; on the Lehigh Valley road is a curve of nearly a semi-circle—the ends of which have radii of 717 feet, thence decreasing both ways towards the centre, where it is only 339 feet. About half this curve has a grade of 10 feet per mile, and the other half has 30, both in the same direction. Descending trains of 110 four-wheeled loaded coal cars, 900 tons in all, have no difficulty in passing this curve. On the Mahanoy and Broad Mountain road, tank engines draw 40 empty coal cars, weighing 100 tons, up a continuous grade of 175 feet to a mile, for three and a half miles around an almost constant succession of curves from 450 to 609 feet radius at eight miles an hour, as a regular business.

As to the iron—the whole of it is inspected before it is laid, by a competent engineer. That portion on this side of Madoc has also been examined by the Government Inspector. Both these gentlemen are satisfied with the material; and I really believe that both of them are more capable of giving a correct opinion in the matter than the editor of the Ontario. I would advise that gentleman to get a first-form boy to construe for him the sentence,—"Ne sutor ultra crepidam."

Yours truly,
O. BARTLEY, C.E.

LAY IN WINTER SUPPLIES.—This is a good time to purchase a supply of staple vegetables for the winter. Prices are not likely to be much lower than they are at present, and later on they may be higher. A dry place with a moderate and even temperature is necessary for the storage of potatoes and apples, and, in fact, for all kinds of fruit and vegetables that may be preserved in the cold months. Care and attention are also required. The articles stored away should be frequently examined, and if rottenness or mouldiness is discovered among any portion so affected must be at once removed. The saving made in buying winter supplies in large quantity by those who have proper facilities for storage will pay for the trouble of taking care of them.

WEATHER REPORTS.

Circular to the Public.

We have much pleasure in thanking the citizens of Belleville and adjoining Counties, for the large and satisfactory trade we have so far done this season.

Up to this date our Cash sales have exceeded those of any previous season, and we are aiming to make this the largest Fall and Winter trade yet done by us.

To do this, we have, imported direct; from the leading Manufacturers and Warehouses of Great Britain, an unusually large, varied, and attractive Stock of new Dry Goods, all of which have been personally selected by a member of our Firm, who has had a long experience in catering to the tastes and requirements of the people of this section of the country, and also from having so frequently visited the Home markets, has acquired a thorough knowledge of the best places and houses to purchase the different lines of Dry Goods from. Every intelligent person can easily understand that in this particular we have a decided advantage over others, who send their orders to Commission houses, and allow those houses to do their entire buying.

Notwithstanding the statements of an opposition House to the contrary, we beg to state and challenge successful contradiction, that the value of our Importations Direct from the European markets in original packages—all of which were selected by our own buyer, and of which we are prepared to produce the original invoices—largely exceed those of any other Dry Goods house in the City of Belleville.

To the general public, the most important and interesting part of what we have to say is, that we are prepared to furnish them with a large portion of their Fall and Winter Dry Goods at prices whereby they can save from ten to twenty-five cents on every dollar's worth, by buying them at our Warehouse. To some this may appear impossible, but to those who doubt the truth of our statements, we say, Compare the prices and qualities of our goods with those sold by other Stores. It is not necessary to buy, should they not prove equal to what we advertise them.

We are now selling a large lot of new Dress Goods at 12½, 15, 20, and 25c. per yard, which are admitted by all to be the cheapest lot of Dress Goods ever offered in this City. And although our sales of Dress Goods this season have already been very large, we are still able to show an immense variety of all the leading colors and materials which have been produced this season.

In addition to the above, the following lines are particularly worthy the attention of parties wanting first class value in these goods:

Black Silks, Silk Velvets, Velveteens, Crapes, Black and Colored Cashmeres, Kid Gloves, Jackets and Mantles, Corsets, Table Linens, Table Napkins and Towels, Scarlet and White Flannels, Wincies, and all kinds of Millinery Goods.

The Sun for 1879.

THE SUN will be printed every day during the year to come. Its purpose and method will be the same as in the past. To present all the news in a readable shape, and to tell the truth though the heavens fall.

THE SUN has been, is, and will continue to be independent of everybody and everything save the Truth and its own convictions of duty. That is the only policy which an honest newspaper need have. That is the policy which has won for this newspaper the confidence and friendship of a wider constituency than was ever enjoyed by any other American Journal.

THE SUN is the newspaper for the people. It is not for the rich man against the poor man, or for the poor man against the rich man, but it seeks to do equal justice to all interests in the community. It is not the organ of any person, class, sect or party. There need be no mystery about its loves and hates. It is for the honest man against the rogue every time. It is for the honest Democrat as against the dishonest Republican, and for the honest Republican as against the dishonest Democrat. It does not take its cue from the utterances of any politician or political organization. It gives its support unreservedly when men or measures are in agreement with the Constitution and with the principles upon which this Republic was founded for the people. Whenever the Constitution and constitutional principles are violated—as in the outrageous conspiracy of 1876, by which a man not elected was placed in the President's office, where he still remains—it speaks out for the right. That is THE SUN'S idea of independence. In this respect there will be no change in its programme for 1879.

THE SUN has fairly earned the hearty hatred of rascals, frauds, and humbugs of all sorts and sizes. It hopes to deserve that hatred not less in the year 1879, than in 1878, 1877, or any year gone by. THE SUN will continue to shine on the wicked with unmitigated brightness.

While the lessons of the past should be constantly kept before the people, THE SUN does not propose to make itself in 1879 a magazine of ancient history. It is printed for the men and women of to-day, whose concern is chiefly with the affairs of to-day. It has both the disposition and the ability to afford its readers the promptest, fullest, and most accurate intelligence of whatever in the wide world is worth attention. To this end the resources belonging to well-established prosperity will be liberally employed.

The present disjointed condition of parties in this country, and the uncertainty of the future, lend an extraordinary significance to the events of the coming year. The discussions of the press, the debates and acts of Congress, and the movements of the leaders in every section of the Republic, will have a direct bearing on the Presidential election of 1880—an event which must be regarded with the most anxious interest by every patriotic American, whatever his political ideas or allegiance. To these elements of interest may be added the probability that the Democrats will control both houses of Congress, the increasing feebleness of the fraudulent Administration, and the spread and strengthening everywhere of a healthy abhorrence of fraud in any form. To present with accuracy and clearness the exact situation in each of its varying phases, and to expound, according to its well known methods, the principles that should guide us through the labyrinth, will be an important part of THE SUN'S work for 1879.

We have the means of making THE SUN, as a political, a literary and a general newspaper, more entertaining and more useful than ever before; and we mean to apply them freely.

Our rates of subscription remain unchanged. For the DAILY SUN, a four page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price by mail, postpaid, is 55 cents a month, or $6.50 a year ; or, including the Sunday paper, an eight page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents a month, or $7.70 a year, postage paid.

The Sunday edition of THE SUN is also furnished separately at $1.20 a year, postage paid.

CHAPTER XI.

DIVINING CUPS.

Intense excitements cannot endure. It is a "merciful provision." Human nature straitened too long in any direction must find repose in relaxation or change in reaction. As the white heat of the political excitement of the "campaign of '40" had cooled off, so now the revival excitement slowly but surely subsided. There were brethren unversed in the philosophy of human nature who did not know that after the summer heat of religious excitement a hibernation is needful and healthy, and who set themselves to prevent the cooling, or the "backsliding" as they termed it. But the ebb tide was too strong for them ; they were caught in it themselves ; tired nature overstrained in one direction sank into torpor, in them as well as in others. Doubtless this period of reaction was worth quite as much to the Church as the period of revival. The winnowing went on rapidly now ; the good folks were greatly alarmed to see how much of what they had raked together was mere chaff ; but ever as the wind drove away the chaff, the solid grain became visible.

Among these who proved steadfast was the young lawyer. He did not go out to exhort so much in meetings as before, but then it was corn-planting time and meetings were no longer common in the country. He gave attention to his business, but it was still understood that he meditated some dreadful mission to some outlandish place, Oregon or Texas or Guinea—gossips were divided about the exact locality—it was away off in that direction somewhere. Mark talked less about it now, and was not quite so sure of his own mind in the matter as he had been, except while talking to Roxy. In conversation with her it was the better Mark who spoke. The lower, the passionate, the vacillating Mark was quite put out of sight. Roxy called out his best, and quite put him in conceit of himself. All that was highest in her transferred itself somehow to him, and he was inclined to give himself credit for originating the impulses with which she inspired him. He liked to look at himself shining in the light of her reflected enthusiasm. She had set up an ideal Mark Bonamy, and the real Mark was so pleased to look at this flattering picture in the mind of the pure-hearted girl, that he came to believe the image of himself which he saw there to be an accurate likeness.

Of course interviews so frequent and so pleasant must grow to something more. It doesn't matter what a young man and a young woman talk about, even sympathetic conversations about missionary labors in Texas or in Greenland are apt to become tender. One enthusiasm translates itself so easily into another ! This worship of his real and imaginary goodness, and this stimulus of what was best in him, was so agreeable to Bonamy that he began to doubt whether after all it was best to undertake a mission to the Texans single-handed and alone. Good old sisters whose matchmaking proclivities had not died, but had only been sanctified, took occasion to throw out hints on the subject, which greatly encouraged Mark to believe that Roxy was divinely intended and moulded to be his helpmate in that great, vast, vague enterprise which should be worthy of the large abilities he had consecrated.

Roxy on her part was a highly imaginative girl. Here was a large-shouldered, magnificent, Apollo-like fellow, who thought himself something wonderful, and whom his friends thought wonderful. It was easy to take him at a popular estimate, and then to think she had discovered even more than others saw in him. For was it not to her that he revealed his great unsettled plans for suffering and dying for the cross of Christ ? And as he came more and more, the pure-spirited girl began to long that she might somehow share his toils and sufferings. The ambition to do some heroic thing had always burned in her heart, and in her it was a pure flame with no taint of selfishness or egotism.

Mark went into Adam's shop one day to have his boots mended.

"So you are going to Texas, are you ?" broke out of the shoemaker, with half-suppressed vehemence.

"Yes."

"Fool's errand—fool's errand," muttered the old man as he turned the boots over to look at the soles. Then he looked furtively at Bonamy and was disappointed to find in his face no sign of perturbation. "Fool's errand, I say," sharper than before.

Mark tossed back his black hair, and said with a twinkle :

"So you think, no doubt."

"Think ? think ?" Here the shoemaker choked for utterance. "I tell you if you were my son I'd———" then he went on turning the boots over and left the sentence unfinished. Perhaps because he could not think what he would do to such a strapping son as Mark ; perhaps because the sentence seemed more frightful in this mysterious state of suspended animation than it could have done with any conceivable penalty at the end.

"You'd spank me and not give me any supper, may be," said Mark ; who was determined to be good-natured with Roxy's father.

The old man's face did not relax.

"That shoe needs half-soling," he said, ferociously. "What makes you run your boot down at the heel ?"

"To make business lively for the shoemakers."

"And what'll you do when you get to Texas, where there are no shoemakers ? I wish I could patch cracked heads as easy as cracked shoes."

Adams was not averse to Mark's flattering attentions to Roxy, to which he had attached a significance greater than Mark had intended or Roxy suspected. Missionary fever would soon blow over, perhaps, and then Mark was sure to "be somebody."

Besides, the shoemaker was himself meditating a marriage with Miss Moore. Her sign hung next to his own on Main-street, and read "Miss Moore. Millinery and Mantua-maker." Adams may have guessed from the verbal misconstruction of the sign, that the manta maker was as much in the market as the millinery ; but at least he had taken pity on her loneliness by making a joint stock of it. Mr. Adams, thinking of marriage himself, could not feel unkind toward a similar weakness in younger people.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

At Lalmellington Station, Ayrshire, lately an elderly Irishwoman who had arrived a few seconds after the train had started set off to run after it. She of course soon come to a halt, when she began to abuse the unaccommodating engine, adding, with a "nate" brogue, "Faugh, the great black ugly lump ! When she gets as ould as me, bedad she won't run so quick !"

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that uses it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists. d&w

In this Present Age, when the life-battle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the strongest the tug and stress of it tell so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for the keeping up of our reserve stock of mental and physical stamina by the use of such a nerve-tonic and vitalizing agent as ROBINSON'S PHOSPHORIZED EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH LACTO-PHOSPATE OF LIME ! Its gently stimulating and nutritive-tonic properties supply the materials, and assist Nature in her efforts to keep up with the exhaustive demands upon her reserves. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle ; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately favored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemist, London, Eng." d&w

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside ; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of such of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to cement more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURG, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz. : One page, $10.00 ; half-page, $6.00 ; quarter page, $4.00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

March, 1878.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

SECOND DAY—MORNING SESSION.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 13th.

The Council met at ten o'clock.

The minutes of yesterday's meeting were read and approved.

PETITION.

The following was read:—From William Elliott and others asking the rescinding of a resolution passed at the last session authorizing the assumption of a new road in Huntingdon in lieu of the old established road.

This was referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

REPORTS.

The County Surveyor handed in his report, a synopsis of which is as follows:

COUNTY SURVEYOR'S REPORT.

Since the June Session the bridge at Allan's and its approaches had been repaired, six new culverts built and two repaired on the road from Madoc to the Allan settlement at a cost of $193.86; the old bridge at Bannockburn has been removed and a larger culvert built in its place and the road thereat raised and widened at a cost of $42.90; the bridge at Vanklieck's was built by contract for $75; Bonetream's bridge was repaired for $30.74; repairing done at Jones' Creek bridge cost $84.77; planking O'Brien's bridge cost $42.57; a new bridge at Geddes' near Shannonville cost $68.92; a new one on the 4th concession line of Tyendinaga cost $74.15; the planking of Deer Creek and Madoc village bridges cost $70.40, and that at Queensboro $15.73; Trenton bridge was repaired for $11.10; the painting of bridge, and other repairs to them cost $503.64; the repairing of Canifton bridge $610.61; work around the gaol $241.13; the work on the new bridge, etc., on the Ridge road $174.93; that at Norman's $45.70; the repairs to Beaver creek bridge $135.09; that over Bond's Creek for repairs $69.50; cost for wood at the gaol, and for pumps, etc., $174.02; timber for Stoco bridge $250; repairs to Bridgewater bridge $90. A number of smaller items were also noted in the report, but of trifling amounts. A number of recommendations for work on several roads and bridges in various parts of the County accompanied the report.—This was referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

GRAVEL ROADS COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

This Committee reported that $11,317.31 had been expended on the gravel roads—an excess of $317.31 over the appropriation. The report among other matters stated the quantity of material placed on the roads; it recommended a grant of $240 to repair the roads this fall and also the advisability of making an appropriation to bank gravel and stone on the roads this winter. Statements of each month's work and expenditure accompanied the report.

On motion the report was received and adopted.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

The report of the Public Accounts Committee was read. It detailed the amounts of accounts contracted for work on bridges, culverts &c. The total expenditure reported was $7,227.32.

The work causing the above was performed under the supervision of the County Surveyor, all of whose accounts were found correct. The estimated expenditure was $6,000.

A couple of items contained in the above report which added to the excess of the estimated expenditure.

Mr. White deprecated the building of culverts in Madoc in particular, when culverts in Tyendinaga, even to the number of 50, required attention equally as much at the hands of that official. Every effort should be made to keep within the estimates, and though the committee made every effort to do so yet small items would creep in which swelled the excess.

Mr. Ashley said all repairs on County roads, no matter in what township they were situated, should at all times be attended to, and though he had no doubt the necessary efforts were made to keep within the expenditure, small matters would occur that required attention. However, this year the estimates had not been exceeded. He deprecated the idea of borrowing from the Sinking Fund.

Mr. White recited several instances where sums in addition to the grants on County roads had been expended. When repairs are necessary on certain roads the cost should be deducted from the grants made. It was not justice that certain townships should get additions made to their grants.

Mr. Francis said he had urged the levying of such a tax that the sinking fund would remain intact.

Mr. Flint said if a grant were made for a certain road, any repairs made to that road should come out of the appropriation made for the purposes of that road. He considered that the Superintendent and Surveyor had too much to do. He had attended to the wants of the back country, for he thought it only right that the weak should be assisted whilst the strong could help themselves. It would be better when grants are made to retain a portion in order that repairs could afterwards be made and paid for out of the grants made for such roads.

Mr. Peck said the appropriations for roads or repairs to culverts should be made by the Gravel Roads Committee. He advocated the adoption of some system that would have a tendency to reduce the expenditure in the matter of culverts on our County roads.

Mr. Vanklieck considered that where necessary, the Surveyor should be permitted to make the necessary repairs at once; he considered that the Surveyor performed no work but what was necessary for the safety of the travelling public.

Mr. Armstrong, M. Ved, seconded by Mr. Grass, that repairs required on the County roads be hereafter done by tender; contracts to be made for five years; the work to be done under the supervision of the Surveyor.

The motion was ruled out of order.

The Warden said it was a bad practice for the Surveyor to rebuild culverts without the authority of the Warden and Gravel Roads Committee, and it was a question to consider whether or not subsequent repairs should not be paid for out of the appropriations made for the road, requiring repairs and culverts.

The report was then adopted.

BY-LAWS.

The By-law granting a certain right of way through Trenton for the Prince Edward Railway was read a first time; also one for the establishment of a fair at Tweed.

Both were referred to the Committee on By-laws.

NOTICES.

Mr. Currie gave notice of a By-law to assume the bridge over Mud Creek in the 1st con. of Tyendinaga.

Mr. Emo gave notice of a By-law to repeal By-law No. 326.

Mr. Armstrong gave notice of a By-law reducing the pay of the members of the County Council and County officers.

Mr. Flint moved that $43 be appropriated for the purpose of paying the excess mentioned in the report of the Gravel Roads Committee.

The motion was seconded by Mr. White, and carried.

Mr. Vanklieck moved, seconded by Mr. Caskey, that the Treasurer furnish a statement of the saving effected by the holding of one session in the fall instead of two, and also the sum paid for mileage etc., to the Chairman of Gravel Roads for 1877 and 1878.

ROADS AND BRIDGES.

Council went into Committee on Roads and Bridges, Mr. Pearce in the Chair.

A number of petitions left over from the last session were taken up.

A petition for a grant of $40 for work done on the boundary line road between Seymour and Murray near Diamond's hill was read.

Mr. Cook moved, seconded by Mr. Kingston, that the same be granted.

Mr. Cook said Seymour had expended a like sum.

Mr. Cross objected to paying such sums unless an agreement had been made for the purpose.

Mr. White asked if we could not be compelled in this case to pay over the sum asked?

Mr. Francis said on boundary roads one county could compel the other to do its share.

The Warden differed from Mr. Francis, but the minor municipalities could compel the doing of such work.

Mr. Francis said the law applied equally to counties as well as minor municipalities.

Mr. White coincided with the remarks of the Warden and in support of this cited the action of the Leeds Council in regard to the boundary line road between Richmond and Tyendinaga, in which these townships attended to that road and the expense was equally borne by each.

Mr. Pearce said that a grant of $100 had been made for the road between Methuen and Lake by this Council, but Peterboro' would not do its share. Therefore after hearing the remarks of the Warden he would move in that direction.

The motion passed and the Committee rose and asked leave to sit again.—Granted.

Council rose, it being 12 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Council resumed at 2 o'clock.

A communication from Jas. Munro was read, asking to be recompensed for some gravel used on a County road.

A letter from Chas. Sine was read, stating that on July 6th last, whilst travelling on a road north of Stirling, one of his horses was seriously injured, so that it had to be destroyed, and that it was through the state of the road that such horse was lost.—Referred to Committee on Ways and Means.

WAYS AND MEANS.

Council went into committee of the whole on Ways and Means; Mr. Ashley in the chair, pro tem.

The Board of Examiners account for South Hastings for $230.05, was read.

In reply to Mr. Peck, Inspector Johnston stated that the pay of the Examiners was regulated by a By-law which was passed by this Council, whilst the latter appointed their Secretary. He also stated that the Board would not meet again until next July.

The account was passed, after which Mr. Flint resumed the chair.

An account from Inspector Mackintosh for examining pupils in North Hastings was also passed.

With regard to the question of having two Boards of Examiners for this county, the Warden asked that the Inspectors be heard.

The letter from the Education Department read yesterday was again read.

Mr. Johnston was heard. He said that it was through Dr. Ryerson that two Boards were in existence. With regard to the matter of expense, were there only one Board the expense would not be much less. Now there were only three members in each Board, but if there were only one five members would be required. As far as the interests of education were concerned he considered that they would be better served by two Boards than by one.

Mr. McIntosh said the question of expense was an important one to the Inspectors and the educational interests as well. He considered that the expense would not be materially lessened by the existence of one board instead of two. He thought that the educational interests of this district would be enhanced by the existence of one board, as this would eventually have a tendency to secure uniformity with sacrificing local or peculiar interests. The interests of North Hastings would, in his opinion, be conserved by only having one board, and he also thought this would apply to the whole County. He considered the existence of two boards illegal, and if that were determined and it was desirable to sustain the two boards, an effort could be made to change the law.

Mr. Peck read the law bearing on the point in question, which defines that there shall be one board and that it shall consist of the Inspector and four qualified members. The speaker said there were two Inspectors in this County and it was a question whether these two would be members of the board. He favored the limiting of the number of members of the board to three. In the case it should be determined who was the County Inspector.

The question was laid over till the March meeting.

A claim from Richard Taylor was read asking compensation for an ox which broke his leg on a county gravel road in Madoc. He asked $30.45.

After considerable discussion the amount was ordered to be paid.

James Lanig's petition for assistance was answered with a grant of $20.

Mr. Sine's petition was not entertained and a similar fate was accorded Mr. Munro's account.

James Tulloch's petition was laid over.

The matter of appointing a short-hand writer for the County Courts was left in the hands of His Warden to ask the Lieut.-Governor to make an appointment.

The petition of J. A. Gilbert was laid over.

A number of accounts were read and passed.

The Committee rose and reported progress and asked leave to sit again.—Granted.

Mr. Vandervoort moved, seconded by Mr. Peck, that the Legislature be memorialized so that the County Council can have the privilege of regulating the width of tyres to be used on waggons.

Mr. Anderson said it would not be wise to pass such a law as people would then be compelled to dispense with the waggons they at present own. The weight of the load to be carried should be regulated.

Mr. Peck said it was only proposed to ask authority to regulate the size of tyres and if permission were granted a discussion would then follow, which would result to the benefit of the people.

Mr. Ashley considered that if the proposal in question were accepted it would not injure the roads so much as those at present in use and besides waggons with wide tyres would be better for farmers on the roads as well as on their own property. Were this scheme accepted, in ten years a general benefit would follow.

Mr. Anderson disapproved of the motion, as he considered in a country where there were mud roads waggons with wide tyres would not prove acceptable.

Mr. Flint said the wider the tyre the better it would be for the roads, and also for the horses, and in his opinion the wider the tyre the more our farmers would be benefitted. His experience favored the use of wide tyres, and if that principle were adopted it would be a great saving to the people.

Mr. Kavanagh considered that the matter should be left to the discretion of the people who used waggons.

Mr. Ashley said if the power asked was conferred on the Council it would in the end redound to the benefit of the people generally.

Mr. White said that in all likelihood many years would elapse before such a result as that asked would be attained.

The matter was referred to a Committee to make the necessary memorial and the motion passed.

Mr. Francis moved, seconded by Mr. Lee, that the Grand Trunk Railway be requested to put in a proper state the railway crossing on the boundary road between Trenton and Murray, the work to be done in compliance with the terms of the law.

The resolution was put and carried.

The Council adjourned till Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

VALUE OF ENGLISH JOURNALS.—The growth from small beginnings to a position of commanding influence and wealth of some of the London journals has been remarkable. It has been stated in recent correspondence from the British metropolis that an offer of £850,000 has been made for the London Telegraph and declined by its proprietors, Messrs. Lawson, Levy & Co. The Telegraph is rated fourth in value among the London newspapers, which would indicate that the journals of that metropolis are estimated and held at a high value. The Times is valued roughly at £5,000,000, the Standard at £2,000,000, the Telegraph at £1,000,000. The circulation is given as follows: Times, 35,0000; Standard, 145,000; News, 125,000; Telegraph, 200,000. But then, when one learns that the cabmen have a paper in London with a verified circulation of 600,000, the other figures fade into insignificance. The advertising patronage of the Times exceeds that of the three others combined. The Standard is ahead of both News and Telegraph.

The days are growing chilly, and the men who talk of national finances on the sidewalk in front of the corner grocery are shifting into the store of the misguided man who has put up the first public store of the season.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, NOV. 14.

The Fishery Case.

The case of the Province of Newfoundland vs the Fortuna Bay affair, is thus summarized by the Mail:—

First—That the Americans were using seines for catching herring on the 6th of January, 1878, in direct violation of title 27, chapter 102, section 1, of the Consolidated Statutes of Newfoundland, viz: "No person shall haul or take herring by or in a seine or other such contrivance on or near any part of the coast of this colony or of its dependencies, or in any of the bays, harbors or other places therein, at any time between the twentieth day of October and the twenty-fifth day of April."

Second—That the American captains were setting and putting out seines and hauling and taking herring on Sunday, the 6th January, in direct violation of section 4, chapter 7, of the Act passed 26th April, 1876, entitled "An Act to amend the law relating to the coast fisheries," viz: "No person shall, between the hours of twelve o'clock on Saturday night and twelve o'clock on Sunday night, haul or take herring, caplin or squid with net, seine, bunts, or any such contrivance for the purpose of such hauling or taking."

Third—That they were barring fish, in direct violation of the continuance of the same Act, title 27, chapter 102, section 1, of the Consolidated Statutes of Newfoundland: "Or at any time use a seine or other contrivance for the catching or taking of herring, except by way of shooting and forthwith hauling the same."

Fourth—That, contrary to the terms of the Treaty of Washington, (Article 18), in which it is expressly provided that they do not interfere with the rights of private property or with British fishermen in the peaceable use of any part of the said coasts in their occupancy for the same purpose, they were fishing illegally, interfering with the rights of British fishermen and their peaceable use of that part of the coast then occupied by them.

Fifth—That the Americans are bound equally with the Colonial fishermen to observe the local laws above referred to, and all other local regulations to which British fishermen are subject, is clear, only from the Treaty itself and the usage of the American authorities in dealing with British fishermen, but from the general law of nations, that the citizens of a foreign country admitted by treaty or otherwise into a friendly state for the purpose of trade or otherwise, are bound equally with the native subjects of that State to observe its general laws.

This is a very plain and understandable statement of a highly important matter. So apparent is the justice of the contention of the Newfoundlanders, that, in the opinion of reasonable men, nothing can be urged against it. The only question left is, are the United States fishermen, to whom the use of the Canadian and Newfoundland fisheries has been given under treaty, to be allowed to use those fisheries on terms altogether different from those under which the native fishermen carry on their work? The answer is so evidently in the negative that not a single United States journal has ventured to express a contrary opinion. Mr. Evarts, the United States Secretary of State, contends, with all the ingenuity of the clever lawyer he undoubtedly is, that his countrymen shall not be restrained by the enactments of Provincial Legislatures; but we apprehend that this is so transparently a mere lawyer's plea that it will not bear investigation. If this principle were to be carried out, Canadian barges would have the free navigation of the New York canals, which was guaranteed to them under the treaty of Washington, but from which they have been debarred by legislation of the New York State Legislature. However, as recrimination of this kind is not profitable, we dismiss the subject by expressing the belief that our neighbors are sore over the Halifax award; they would fain creep out of its payment if they could with any semblance of justice on their side; but failing that, they will, with a very bad grace, pay that which they have bound themselves to do.

JUDICIAL CHANGES.—An Ottawa despatch says:—"Chief Justice Hagarty, of the Court of Common Pleas, has been elevated to the position of Chief Justice of the Court of Queen's Bench. Mr. Justice Adam Wilson has been elevated to the position of Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas vice Chief Justice Hagarty. Hon. M. C. Cameron has been elevated to the Bench as a Puisne Judge of the Court of Queen's Bench in the place of Mr. Justice Wilson."

PASSING COUNTERFEIT COIN.—A despatch from Kemptville, Nov. 13th says:—"Three young men from the Township of North Gower named Stephen William Brownlee, Norman Henry Brownlee and Charles Brownlee were arrested here last night for passing counterfeit coin, and examined to-day before Justices Clothier, Lamping and Hutching, and committed to the Brockville gaol for trial. There was found on their persons and in their baggage a die for coining a Canadian 25 cent piece, together with a quantity of counterfeit fifty and twenty-five cent coins. One of them acknowledged owning the die, and the other two plead guilty to passing the coin."

Changes in the Judiceary.

We copy from the Mail the following remarks concerning the recent changes in the judiciary of this Province which will be of interest at the present time:—

Our Ottawa despatch announces that Chief Justice Hagarty has been translated to the Chief Justiceship of the Court of Queen's Bench in the room of the late Chief Justice Harrison, and that Mr. Justice Wilson succeeds him in the Chief Justiceship of the Court of Common Pleas.

Chief-Justice Hagarty is in his sixty-second year. He was born in Dublin, and came to Canada in 1824; and was called to the bar in 1840. He was appointed a Queen's Counsel in 1850, and in 1856 became a puisne judge in the Common Pleas. In 1862 he was transferred to the Court of Queen's Bench, but returned to the Common Pleas as Chief Justice in 1868. A profound lawyer, he has adorned the Bench for upwards of twenty years; and his elevation now is due to him alike from his seniority and his commanding ability.

Mr. Wilson came to Canada from Scotland in 1830, and after a brief devotion to mercantile pursuits, entered on the study of the law and rose rapidly in his profession. He was for some time the partner of Robert Baldwin. In 1850 he was created a Queen's Counsel, and in 1862 became Solicitor-General for Upper Canada in the Macdonald-Sicotte Administration. The year following he was appointed a puisne judge of the Queen's Bench, but after a few months was transferred to the Queen's Bench. In 1865 he returned to the Queen's Bench to fill the vacancy created by Chief-Justice Hagarty's promotion. Mr. Wilson is a sound and brilliant lawyer, and as a Judge he has won the respect of Bar and suitor, maintaining the independence of the Bench with unflinching courage.

The high legal attainments of these two Judges, and the eminent services they have rendered the State in the past, will commend them to the Bar and the country. They are worthy successors of the great men that have gone before them, and will, like them, uphold the splendid reputation of the Canadian Bench of which we have always been justly proud.

The vacancy created in the Court of Queen's Bench by the promotion of Mr. Justice Wilson has been filled by the appointment of Hon. Matthew Crooks Cameron. Of that gentleman's fitness for the position it is scarcely necessary to speak. Mr. Cameron is in his fifty-fifth year, and for thirty years has been regarded as one of the leading Nisi Prius lawyers in the country. In 1861 he was returned to the Canadian Assembly for North Ontario and again in 1864, and represented that stituency until Confederation, when, as representative of East Toronto, he became a member of the Sanfield Macdonald Administration in this Province. He resigned with his colleagues in 1871, and has since been leader of the Opposition in the Legislature. At the bar, in politics, in public and private life, Mr. Cameron has commanded the respect both of friend and foe, and his elevation to the Bench will be hailed by the country at large as the just reward of faithful and upright citizenship.

A capable and faithful judiciary is one of the greatest blessings a Government can give a people. In the past the judicial appointments of Sir John Macdonald were made solely with the view of maintaining the ability, the purity, and the dignity of the bench, and it is evident the same spirit guides him to-day as heretofore.

—An international Commission for the execution of the Treaty of Berlin is said to be in contemplation in St. Petersburg.

—Small pox is prevalent in Toronto. There are nine cases at the hospital, besides others in families near the Exhibition grounds.

—In Hayti they are about to bring in a constitutional amendment to give whites the same rights as colored persons.

—The Bank of Montreal has agreed to advance the city of Montreal $750,000 at 6 per cent. to meet Water Works bonds coming due.

—Hon. Mr. Tilley will leave Ottawa, on Friday, for New York, from which place he will sail for England. He expects to return about December 20th, when he will be presented with an address by the temperance people of Ottawa.

IMMIGRANTS.—Six thousand two hundred and ninety-five immigrants arrived at Toronto during the season, from 31st January to 31st October; 4,733 remained in Ontario and 1,562 went on to the States.

THE GRAND TRUNK.—The receipts of the Grand Trunk Railway for the week ending Nov. 9th were $191,957 against $212,352 for the corresponding period last year. Decrease $20,000.

THREE RIVERS.—Mr. McDougall, M.P. for Three Rivers having resigned to make way for Mr. Langevin, a new writ has been issued. The nomination will take place on the 21st and the polling, should there be opposition, on the 28th. It is not likely there will be any opposition.

SENTENCED.—The Kingston News says:—"At the County Judge's Court this morning, Warren Godfrey, for stealing $280 from Mountain Grove Post Office, was sentenced to five years' imprisonment in the Penitentiary. The stolen money had not been found at the time of sentence, but there was every probability of its being recovered. Five years is the minimum sentence which could be awarded for the offence.

UNDER GROUND.—The city of Philadelphia having determined that the telegraph companies shall place their wires under ground and dispense with the poles, which are regarded as an obstruction and disfigurement in the streets, the New York Herald makes a similar recommendation for that city, adding that it is surprising the companies themselves have not made the improvement long ago, moreover, that the construction of the elevated railroads make the removal of the poles all the more desirable.

FATAL SHOOTING ACCIDENT.—The particulars of the fatal shooting accident which occurred at North Wakefield on Sunday last are as follows: Denis Downey, a young man working in the shanty, went out on Sunday morning to shoot some partridge. He arrived at a stump near a rollway of logs, Coogan at the time being behind the stump. Downey, not knowing any one to be there, fired his gun just as Coogan rose, killing him instantly. Coogan was the eldest son of old John Athan Coogan, the cooper, at North Wakefield.

Now is the proper time to sprinkle ashes on the sidewalks. Salt, if it has not lost its savour, is not good for this purpose.

THE NEW GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

HIS EXCELLENCY TO LEAVE LIVERPOOL TO-DAY.

Description of the Vessel—A Comfortable Voyage Assured.

LONDON, Nov. 13.

The arrangements at Liverpool for the departure to-morrow of the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise for Canada are now quite complete.

Six hundred people visited the Sarmatian to-day. The vessel's saloon is artistically decorated with ferns and flowers. The staterooms of the Princess Louise, the Marquis of Lorne, and Lady Sophia Macnamara are specially fitted with patent self-adjusting beds. Sea-sickness is said to be thus rendered impossible, the bed adapting itself to every motion of the vessel, so that its pitch and roll cannot be felt. The bedsteads are of mahogany, and are shaped like ordinary domestic bedsteads. The staterooms of the Princess is upholstered in blue silk and that of Lady Macnamara in cream satin silk, while the Marquis' room is quite plain. The apartments are capacious, each consisting of two of the ordinary-sized staterooms converted into one, with bathrooms and boudoirs attached, beautifully fitted up. Each of the beds has a chair arrangement, enabling the occupant to sit upright. The berths are ornamented with silver shields, bearing the royal arms, the Argyle arms, and the arms of the Dominion of Canada, quartered. A ladies' boudoir and a smoking room have also been appropriately fitted up on the upper deck. His Excellency's party and suite will consist of fourteen persons, with twenty-five servants.

LATER.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 14th.—The Marquis and Marchioness of Lorne, accompanied by the Duke of Cambridge, Prince Leopold, and their suites, arrived here at 6 o'clock this morning, and proceeded to the Adelphi hotel. At 10 o'clock the Royal party went to the Town Hall, attended by the military and court. Detachments of volunteers were stationed at all prominent points along the route, and the streets were crowded with people, who gave the visitors a hearty reception. The Town Hall was filled with ladies and gentlemen.

Mayor Royden received the Royal party. The Recorder then read the address from the Liverpool Town Council, and the President of the Chamber of Commerce read the address from that body to the Marquis, who replied to both. The Royal party afterwards presented themselves on the balcony overlooking the Exchange, which was filled with enthusiastic crowds. They then proceeded to the landing-stage and embarked on the tender for the steamship Sarmatian. After a warm leave-taking, the Royal Princes returned to the shore, and the steamer proceeded to sea.

The weather was fine, and the whole proceedings passed off with great eclat.

The cost of steamer passage of the Marquis and party to Canada is $10,000.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, NOV. 13.

City and Vicinity.

GRAIN.—Receipts of grain have of late been light, owing probably to the decrease in price.

BARLEY.—The market took an upward turn during the forenoon of to-day, the price of No. 1 advancing to 80c.

CROWDED OUT.—A letter from Ald. Geen regarding the checking of accounts against the Corporation is crowded out. It will appear to-morrow.

PERSONAL.—The Rev. Dr. Clarke, who has been appointed by the Bishop of Ontario as Rector of Christ Church, arrived in Belleville last evening, and will, we are informed, hold divine service next Sabbath at the usual hours.

HEAVY SQUALLS.—There were some tremendously heavy snow squalls yesterday evening, between 5 and 7 o'clock. The violence of the wind was greater than at any time since the great blow which took place in October.

INTERMEDIATE EXAMINATIONS.—The next Intermediate and Second Class examinations will commence on the 16th December, and, last one week. All intending applicants must send their names to the head masters of the High Schools, on or before the 16th inst.

OPERA HOUSE.—Miss Helen Blye, with her dramatic company, will appear at the Opera House to-night in Shakespeare's beautiful tragedy "Romeo and Juliet." Her rendering of the character of the unhappy Juliet is said to be very fine, although departing in several respects from the conventinal ideas of the part.

THE GRAND JUNCTION RAILWAY.—We are informed that work on the Grand Junction Railway, between Stirling and Campbellford, is progressing rapidly. The grading is well advanced, and the rails have been laid for about seven miles from Stirling. Track-laying goes on at the rate of about a mile per day.

HUNT CLUB.—Members of the Hunt Club are reminded of the meet at Ballaclava Lodge at 10:30 a. m. to-morrow. Mr. H. B. Fillier, following out the practice of his former home in England, will entertain the members of the Hunt at dejeuner. Should the weather prove favorable there will doubtless be a large turn out, and good sport is likely to be had in that locality.

EAST NORTHUMBERLAND.—The Colborne Express says:—"At the Conservative meeting at Campbellford last week it was decided to select a candidate for the Local Legislature through the agency of delegates—ten from each township and five from each village. Meetings for the appointment of delegates take place on Saturday, 23rd inst., and the convention for the nomination of a candidate assembles at Warkworth on Monday, 2nd Dec."

DOMINION MONTHLY.—The November has been received. Contents:—" Monograph of the Esquimaux Tshigit," "The wreck of the 'Oriental,'" "Life in Glenshire," "The four winds," "John Law," "The New Home," "The Caricature History of Lord Beaconsfield," "Young Folks," "The Home," Literary, Chess, Draughts, etc. Published by John Dougall & Son, Montreal, at $1.50 per annum.

FRENCH CANADIAN EVANGELIZATION.—The Rev. L. N. Beaudry, of Montreal, who has been heard with pleasure at the Methodist missionary meetings, is to lecture to-night in the Holloway Street Church on the above subject. Mr. Beaudry, in to-night's lecture, will speak on his own experience and work, and being a fine speaker he will be listened to with great interest. Admission free. Collection to be taken up on behalf of Mr. Beaudry's church in Montreal.

THE BARLEY TRADE.—The Oswego Palladium of Tuesday says:—"Our barley imports from Canada since August 20th to-date have been 2,223,638 bushels, against 2,898,720 bushels for the corresponding period in 1877. Deficiency this season 676,082 bushels. The amount of barley on the canal yesterday from lake ports for tide water was 431,226 bushels, of which 196,767 bushels were shipped from Oswego and 234,429 bushels from Buffalo. At same time last year the quantity on the canal was 803,220 bushels.

SCULLING.—Hanlan has been matched to row Hawdon, a Newcastle carsman, on the Tyne in May next. Hawdon is a very promising young carsman. His age is 23, or nearly the same as Hanlan's, and he has never yet suffered defeat, although meeting Sadler, Cannon, Bagnall and Lumsden all first class scullers, especially the last named. Hanlan will leave Toronto about the end of January and proceed direct to the Tyne, where he will become acclimated and make himself thoroughly acquainted with the peculiarities of the course. His task is not an easy one, but we have faith that he will win the championship of England ere his return.

A NEEDED IMPROVEMENT.—We understand the Street Committee intend putting a narrow sidewalk along the lane which extenes from Bridge Street to Market Square—a very much needed improvement. While the Committee are engaged in that lane they would confer a great favor upon the public by putting a quantity of hard metal upon it and having it properly graded. As a public thoroughfare it is in constant use, it is a great convenience, and should be kept in as good condition as the principal streets. A few loads of coarse is all that is gravel needed.

DISGRACEFUL.—The conduct of a portion of the crowd which filled St. John's Church last night on the occasion of the performance of a wedding ceremony there, is represented as having been of a most disgraceful character. We are informed that not only was the ceremony interruped repeatedly by noises proceeding from those present, but that several windows in the church were broken and a churchwarden assaulted whilst endeavoring to quiet the disturbance. What reason is alleged for this unseemly conduct we are unable to learn. West Belleville possesses a most unenviable reputation in regard to disturbances on account of marriages. Witness the wreckage of Mr. Spry's house, the disturbances at Mr. Bennett's, and finally this last case. The trouble seems to be that people who are considered respectable, countenance and engage in such riotous proceedings as a matter of "fun." They ought to know better, and we hope that some of the guilty ones in the case under notice will be caught and receive such punishment as they richly deserve.

A RELIC OF ST. ANDREW.—It may not be uninteresting to some of our Scotch readers now that the annual celebration of their patron saint is again at hand, to know that a relic of the saint has recently come into the possession of a high dignitary of the Roman Catholic Church in Scotland. After the elevation of the present Archbishop of St. Andrew's (and Edinburgh) to that ancient see, His Grace made application to the Bishop of Amalfi, in Italy, in whose cathedral are kept the remains of St. Andrew, for a relic of the saint, in order to its preservation in the cathedral church in Edinburgh. The Bishop of Amalfi at once acceded to the request, and, on receiving the relic, the Archbishop had it encased in a beautiful reliquary, which is hardly less interesting than the relic itself. The body of the reliquary, which is of solid gold and of curious and antique workmanship, was bought and presented to His Grace (then Bishop of Abila, in partibus) by the Marquis of Bute, before his becoming a Catholic. It was for some time, but, on account of the body being six-sided, inconveniently, used as a ciborium. The addition of a crystal can and a golden head-piece has now transformed the reliquary into an exceedingly elegant piece of church furniture. It is, we understand, the intention of His Grace to inaugurate the receipt of the relic upon the approaching feast of St. Andrew.

St. Andrew's Society.

The annual meeting of this Society was held last evening in the Marble Hall, the President, Mr. Wm. Webster, in the chair.

The various reports were received and adopted.

The report of the Charitable Committee showed the relief of a large amount of distress; while the Treasurer's report showed that from membership fees, proceeds of excursions, &c., the balance in his hands is slightly larger than that of last year. The following gentlemen were elected officers for the ensuing year:—

PRESIDENT—W. H. Ponton.
1st VICE-PRESIDENT—D. B. Robertson.
2nd VICE-PRESIDENT—John Sutherland.
CHAPLAINS—The Rev. Messrs. McLean, Wishart, Cossar and Turnbull.
TREASURER—Alex. Waters.
SECRETARY—D. M. Walters.
MARSHAL—A. T. Petrie.
PIPER—John Shand.
BARD—W. McAdie.
AUDITORS—D. McLean and Jas. Gordon.

The Charitable Committee is composed of Messrs. Hugh Walker, (chairman) A. T. Petrie, John Hume, James Harold, William Robertson and Alex. McKay.

It is the intention to celebrate St. Andrew's Day (which falls this year on a Saturday) on Monday, the 2nd of December next, by a procession headed by the pipers, to St. Andrew's Church, where a sermon will be preached by one of the Chaplains. In the evening a grand Scottish entertainment will be given in the Opera House. A large and influential committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangement.

The President elect—W. H. Ponton, Esq., —was deputed to represent the Society at Ottawa on the occasion of the presentation of the joint address to the Marquis of Lorne from the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Societies of Ontario.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The convention with France, whereby Italy agrees to withdraw from foreign soil fractional silver, really postpones to 1884 what Italy had already undertaken to do in '82. Withdrawn currency will be reedemed in silver five franc pieces, not in gold.

ZANESVILLE, O., Nov. 14.—Early this morning a policeman noted suspicious movements of parties in a waggon and ordered them to halt, the driver whipped the horses into a gallop and escaped. The policeman procured assistance and followed them fourteen miles and attempted to arrest them, but the whole party escaped to the woods. The waggon contained the bodies of four prominent citizens who were buried in Woodlawn Cemetery. A policeman received a pistol wound from the barkers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Early this morning near Chatham Square, Angelo Spanglo an Italian, waylaid Peter Drake and plunged a rigger's knife into the back of his neck, causing almost instant death. Spanglo was captured and said Drake attempted to out him last night.

Are Fat People Healthy?

Why are fat people always complaining? asks some one who entertains the popular though erroneous notion that health is synonymous with fat. Fat people complain because they are diseased. Obesity is an abnormal condition of the system, in which the saccharine and oleaginous elements of the food are assimilated to the partial exclusion of the albumen-forming and brain-producing elements. In proof of this, it is only necessary to assert the well-known fact that excessively fat people are never strong, and seldom distinguished for mental powers of activity. Besides, they are the easy prey of acute and epidemic diseases, and they are the frequent victims of gout, heart disease, and apoplexy. Allan's Anti-Fat is the only known remedy for this disease. It contains no acid, is absolutely harmless, and is warranted to remedy the most confirmed case of obesity, or corpulency.

Terrible Ending of a Honeymoon.

An incident, as pathetic as any legend of Killarney and the Irish lake country, recently occurred at Lough Erne. A member of the Royal Irish Constabulary, unmindful of the rigid regulations of the police service, took the colleen of his heart to the altar without receiving the permission of his superiors. After his marriage was reported at headquarters, attempts were made to secure a relaxation of the rules in his case, for he was a popular and efficient officer. Not even at the instance of Cupid could the rigid laws of the police be waived. Poor Roe—this was the officer's name—must leave the force; such was the stern order. He prepared to start for Australia with his young wife, consoled by her love for any sacrifices he had made. Happy in their honeymoon, he and his bride sailed up Loch Erne for Enniskillen to make final preparations for their departure from Ireland. At the landing-place his wife fell into the water while stepping from the steamer. With the quickness of thought he plunged in to save her. Losing all presence of mind, she, in her struggle for life, entwined her arms around him, and, before any assistance could be rendered, both sank to rise no more.

NEW READING.—"Dennis, my boy," said a schoolmaster to his Hibernian pupil, "I fear I shall make nothing of you—you've no application." "Ah, sure enough, sir," said the quick-witted lad, "isn't it myself that's always being told there's no occasion for it? Don't I see every day in the newspapers that 'No Irish need apply,' at all, at all?"

Circular to the Public.

We have much pleasure in thanking the citizens of Belleville and adjoining Counties, for the large and satisfactory trade we have so far done this season.

Up to this date our Cash sales have exceeded those of any previous season, and we are aiming to make this the largest Fall and Winter trade yet done by us.

To do this, we have imported direct from the leading Manufacturers and Warehouses of Great Britain, an unusually large, varied, and attractive Stock of new Dry Goods, all of which have been personally selected by a member of our Firm, who has had a long experience in catering to the tastes and requirements of the people of this section of the country, and also from having so frequently visited the Home markets, has acquired a thorough knowledge of the best places and houses to purchase the different lines of Dry Goods from. Every intelligent person can easily understand that in this particular we have a decided advantage over others, who send their orders to Commission houses, and allow these houses to do their entire buying.

Notwithstanding the statements of an opposition House to the contrary, we beg to state and challenge successful contradiction, that the value of our Importations Direct from the European markets in original packages—all of which were selected by our own buyer, and of which we are prepared to produce the original invoices—largely exceed those of any other Dry Goods house in the City of Belleville.

To the general public, the most important and interesting part of what we have to say is, that we are prepared to furnish them with a large portion of their Fall and Winter Dry Goods at prices whereby they can save from ten to twenty-five cents on every dollar's worth, by buying them at our Warehouse. To some this may appear impossible, but to those who doubt the truth of our statements, we say, Compare the prices and qualities of our goods with those sold by other Stores. It is not necessary to buy, should they not prove equal to what we advertise them.

The Sun for 1879.

THE SUN will be printed every day during the year to come. Its purpose and method will be the same as in the past. To present all the news in a readable shape, and to tell the truth through the heavens fall.

THE SUN has been, is, and will continue to be independent of everybody and everything save the Truth and its own convictions of duty. That is the only platform which an honest newspaper need have. That is the only platform which has won for this newspaper the confidence and friendship of more than a million readers, and ever enjoyed by any other American Journal.

THE SUN is the newspaper for the people. It is not for the rich man against the poor man, or for the poor man against the rich man, but it seeks to do equal justice to all interests in the community. It is not the organ of any political class, sect or party. There need be no mystery about its loves and hates. It is for the honest man against the rogue, whether he be rich or poor. It is for the honest Democrat as against the dishonest Republican, and for the honest Republican as against the dishonest Democrat. It does not take its cue from the utterances of any politician or political organization. It gives its support unreservedly when such measures are in accordance with the Constitution and with the principles upon which this Republic was founded for the people. Whenever the Constitution and constitutional principles are violated—as in the outrageous conspiracy of 1876, by which a President elected was placed in the President's office, there he will remain—it speaks out for the right. That is THE SUN'S idea of Independence. In this respect there will be no change in its professions for 1879.

THE SUN has fairly earned the hearty hatred of rascals, frauds, and humbugs of all sorts and sizes. It hopes to deserve that hatred not less in the year 1879, than in 1878, 1877, or any year gone by. The SUN will continue to shine on the wicked with unmitigated brightness.

While the lessons of the past should be constantly kept before the people, THE SUN does not propose to make itself in 1879 a museum of ancient history. It is printed for the men and women of to-day, whose concern is chiefly with the affairs of to-day. It has both the disposition and the ability to afford its readers the promptest, fullest, and most accurate intelligence of whatever in the wide world is worth attention. To this end the resources belonging to well-established prosperity will be liberally employed.

The present disjointed condition of parties in this country, and the uncertainty of the future, lend an extraordinary significance to the events of the coming year. The discussions of the press, the debates and acts of Congress, and the movements of the leaders in every section of the Republic, will have a profound bearing on the Presidential election of 1880—an event which must be regarded with the most anxious interest by every patriotic American who loves his political liberty or allegiance. To these elements of interest may be added the probability that the Democrats will control both houses of Congress, the increasing feebleness of the fraudulent Administration, and the spread and strengthening everywhere of a healthy abhorrence of fraud in any form. To present with accuracy and clearness the exact situation in each of its varying phases, and to expound, according to its well known methods, the principles that should guide us through the labyrinth, will be an important part of THE SUN'S work for 1879.

We have the means of making THE SUN, as a political, a literary and a general newspaper, more entertaining and more useful than ever before; and we mean to apply them freely.

Our rates of subscription remain unchanged. For the DAILY SUN, a four page sheet of twenty-eight columns, printed in the very best style, 55 cents a month, or $6.50 a year; or, including the Sunday paper, an eight page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents a month, or $7.70 a year, postage paid.

The Sunday edition of THE SUN is also furnished separately at $1.20 a year, postage paid.

The price of the WEEKLY SUN, eight pages, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free. Address

Lord Dufferin at Home.

Copies of Belfast papers received by last mail have placed us in possession of lengthy reports of the proceedings at Belfast and Clandeboye on the occasion of Lord Dufferin's return to his ancestral home. Addresses were presented to His Lordship at the Belfast Town Hall by the Mayor and Corporation, expressive of the sense of the inhabitants "of his great administrative faculty; of his large knowledge of men and manners; his ready tact and unfailing courtesy; of his rare good sense and genial temper; and his unswerving and impartial fidelity to the Constitution. The address further recognized that His Lordship had given to England and to the nations an example of Constitutional Government not to be excelled, and one worthy of the character of the Gracious Sovereign whom he represented. Canada could never repay his services to her. In this promotion of a spirit of unity and concord among the various provinces of the Dominion; in his judicious encouragement of every scheme for the development of the colony's vast resources; in his successful efforts to stimulate friendly and brotherly relations between Canada and the United States, he had not only displayed true political sagacity, that had left to those who should succeed him principles of statesmanship, which, if properly followed, would be productive of permanent benefit, not merely to the Dominion, but to the civilized world. They had observed with pride and delight the expression of his personal affection and gratitude which his departure from Canada had evoked among its people. But to his countrymen and near neighbors, who had known him so long, it was not astonishing that he had taught men to love and trust him, whilst at the same time ruling them with firmness and justice." The address also heartily welcomed back to her native land the accomplished and much-beloved Countess. "It did not surprise any one to hear how irresistibly she won the Canadian heart; and it could well be understood that her warm Irish affection, her gracious and winning manner, her kindly and generous sympathy, and, above all, her loyal devotion to the interests of her husband's government."

In a brief reply His Lordship said he should never forget the way in which, six years ago, they had welcomed his appointment to the Governor-Generalship of Canada, and started him on his career in the Dominion. Their indulgent anticipations on that occasion served the purpose of a most effectual lure to induce him to follow subsequents on the other side of the Atlantic, and ensured him a sympathetic reception at their hands, and he could truly say that during the whole period elapsed he had been to deserve the good character they then bestowed upon him. To find, on returning, that he had not fallen short of their anticipations, and that his conduct had merited their approval, was the most precious reward he could receive. He had also to thank them for the kind terms in which they alluded to the Countess of Dufferin. It would not become him to refer to the way in which she has discharged the functions appertaining to her responsible position. Those amongst them who had been in Canada could have become aware of the feelings which the people of the Dominion of Canada regarded her."

A deputation from the Ulster Rifle Association, headed by Viscount Templetown, also presented an address, in reply to which His Lordship said, in alluding to the victory of the Irish team at Wimbledon, and to which the Ulster Association contributed, that he could not feel a greater flush of pride and pleasure than himself at the result; that the rifle ranges at Clandeboye were at their disposal, and that he would himself have pleasure in participating personally at these meetings. Then followed an address from the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, to which His Lordship replied that he was conscious of not having been able to satisfactorily fulfil his duties as Commodore, but they might perhaps be glad to learn that he had the honor of flying their squadron flag with credit and success on the waters of the Dominion, on the great Canadian lakes, and that the seaworthy qualities of the Imogene had been duly appreciated by the numerous yacht clubs, which flourished on the other side of the Atlantic.

At Clandeboye a right loyal ovation awaited His Lordship from the tenantry of the Estate. The approaches to the mansion were spanned with arches formed of flags. The Dufferin arms were suspended over the avenue near to the entrance of His Lordship's house, and "Welcome to Clandeboye" blazed in large letters at different places in the grounds. A number of the Royal North Down Rifles, under Captain Gawn Rowan Hamilton, were drawn up in the avenue close to the front entrance, and His Lordship found the Honorary Colonel of the regiment, they gave him the usual salute, the band playing the proper accompaniment. The school children of the Clandeboye schools, under Mr. Stevens and Miss Kennedy, were present. His Lordship, on entering the spacious hall, was received by Lady Dufferin, Lady Helen Blackwood, Hon. Terence Blackwood, and the younger members of the family.

The address of the tenantry was a characteristic one. His Lordship was informed that he was "only a chip of the old block but the old block itself;" they said they did not wish to see His Lordship resting on the reputation of his past achievements, but we could rather behold him going forth to gain greater and more signal triumphs in fresh fields and pastures new, and they hoped that rumor was not a "lying jade" in saying that his Commissionership in Asia Minor, a position for which his tastes and talents eminently fitted him. They alluded to His Lordship's study of Greek and Latin, and in having "greatly delighted the French Canadians by addressing them in a diction as pure and faultless as is heard in the Boulevard de Paris or the Senate at Versailles," and they expressed their gratification in that he could "catch the ear and charm the hearts of the Antipodes in the better world tongue which Socrates taught and in which Demosthenes thundered." They concluded by expressing a wish that both Lord and Lady Dufferin might long be spared to wear the laurels they had nobly won. "Might their youthful family emulate their virtues and walk in their footsteps, and might they at last receive in the better world to which this world could give, and exchange earth's fading glory for the amaranth of eternity."

His Lordship excused himself for not being prepared with an adequate reply, "but they would not the less understand how deep was his gratitude for the welcome extended to him after six years' absence from home by the people and known from childhood, and who had never met him but with a smile. He rejoiced in the prospect of again spending his time among them, and devoting himself to the interests and welfare of their common country." Then followed an address from the neighboring town of Bangor, after which the interesting proceedings were concluded.

These are the days for pursuing the festive wild duck.

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value, and no one could feel a greater flush of pride and pleasure than himself at the result; that the rifle ranges at Clandeboye were at their disposal, and that he would himself have pleasure in participating personally at these meetings. Then followed an address from the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, to which His Lordship replied that he was conscious of not having been able to satisfactorily fulfil his duties as Commodore, but they might perhaps be glad to learn that he had the honor of flying their squadron flag with credit and success on the waters of the Dominion, on the great Canadian lakes, and that the seaworthy qualities of the Imogene had been duly appreciated by the numerous yacht clubs, which flourished on the other side of the Atlantic.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householderin the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the attention of our National wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are known, that many capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return for their capital.

Classified Business Directory

of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of said of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. It will make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the County Directory, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this will greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings has been commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to cement more closely those business relations, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURGH, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any book of the kind ever issued, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz.: One page, $10.00; half-page, $6.00; quarter page, $4.00. The same plan will be adopted as for the last edition,—that of interspersing the ads. among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers anticipate that by every reasonable efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to make it a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

obtained for Inventors, in the United States, Canada and Europe, at reduced rates. With our principal Office located in Washington, directly opposite the United States Patent Office we are able to attend to all business with much greater promptness and despatch and less cost than other patent attorneys who are at a distance from Washington, and who have, therefore, to employ "associate attorneys." We make preliminary examinations and furnish opinions as to the patentability, free of charge, and all who are interested in new inventions and Patents are invited to send for a copy of our "Guide for obtaining Patents," which is sent free to any address, and contains complete instructions how to obtain Patents, and other valuable matter. We refer to the German American National Bank, Washington, D. C.; the Royal Swedish, Norwegian, and Danish Legations, at Washington; Hon. Joseph Casey, late Chief Justice U. S. Court of Claims, to the Officials of the U. S. Patent Office, and to Senators and Members of Congress from every State.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Deny it who can."

It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer.

It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time.

Pocket your prejudice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain.

The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge" of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price. 25 cents per Bottle.

The Trade supplied through the Wholesale Drug and Patent Medicine Houses of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London.

BY HENRY M. STANLEY.

With portraits of the author, two large route maps and eight smaller ones, and 147 illustrations from photographs and sketches by Mr. Stanley, prepared expressly for this book. In one volume, demy 8vo., over 1,000 pages, cloth, $4.75.

The magnificent maps, two being 26 x 32 inches, enable the reader to follow every step of Mr. Stanley's wonderful journey.

THE PUBLIC ARE CAUTIONED

that the only book giving the complete history of the travels, explorations, important discoveries, and thrilling adventures of Mr. Stanley in Africa during 1874-1877 is now published, under the title which appears at the head of this advertisement as the Canadian COPYRIGHT EDITION.

Two spurious books, one entitled, "The Achievements of Stanley in Africa," and the other "The Complete Explorations and Adventures of Stanley" have been advertised. They are a rehash of Livingstone and other old books of African travel and of Stanley's letters. The first is the Original spurious book published in Philadelphia, written by T. J. Headley. The second is an inferior copy of the first. Both have mostly old illustrations. See that you get the genuine work written by Mr. Stanley. Each copy in cloth has a cut of the continent and the world "Africa" stamped on side.

BY-LAWS.

The By-law to assume the bridge over Mud Creek in Tyendinaga as a County bridge was read a first time and referred; also the By-law to repeal By-law 326 (relating to the Sodom road) also the By-law to reduce the salaries of Councillors and officers of the County.

Mr. White gave notice that he would introduce a By-law to assume as a County road the road leading from Latta's mills through the 8th con. of Tyendinaga to lots 30 and 31.

Mr. Emo moved, seconded by Mr. Robinson, that the Surveyor be instructed to have opened up the boundary line road between Madoc and Huntingdon, so that the obstructions on that road may be removed.—Carried.

Mr. Pearce moved, seconded by Mr. Flint, that the Governor of Ontario in Council be asked to amend the law respecting the duties of County Treasurer so that in case of that official's death another can be appointed and tax sales go on.—Carried.

Mr. White moved, seconded by Mr. Currie, that the Legislature be asked to give power to Township Councils to collect interest on over-due taxes, from the date on which they should have been paid.—Carried.

Mr. Armstrong moved, seconded by Mr. Grass, that the By-law to accept as a County road the road from the Jordan to Murphy's Corners be not passed, and that the Government be asked to aid this road.

The motion was ruled out of order.

Council went into Committee on By-laws —Mr. Ashley in the chair.

The By-law granting the right of way to the Prince Edward Railway over a certain portion of Wellington Street in the village of Trenton was read a second time.

Also that for the holding of public fair in the Township of Hungerford at the village of Tweed; the fairs to be held three times a year and Wm. Wray to be Superintendent.

The By-law to lessen the salaries of Councillors and County officials was read. It proyides that the pay of Councillors be $1.00 per day; the salary of the Treasurer reduced $200; that of the Surveyor $100; that of the Superintendent of Gravel Roads $100, and that of the Warden $100.

In support of the By-law Mr. Armstrong said that if the By-law were passed it would be a large saving to the people of the County. There were plenty who would do the work of the Treasurer for $200 less than the sum now given; the Surveyor's pay should be reduced; the Superintendent's lessened $100, and the Warden's, which was too much by $100. If the By-law passed $848 per year would be saved, and if it did not the people would continue to ask for it.

Mr. Flint said the duties of the County officers had of late years largely increased. The Treasurer had to give a very large security for the due performance of his duties, and it cannot be expected that $60,000 should pass through the Treasurer's books and that official receive the same as he did when only $30,000 were received. The Clerk's work had also largely increased in the past few years. The County Surveyor had to oversee the work of over 200 bridges, and for this work he did not receive more than he should, and from the labor he had to perform and the travelling he had to do, he well earned his salary. He (Mr. F.) had travelled over the roads with the Superintendent, and when we know that from doing work on 60 miles of road it had increased to over 200 miles, some idea of the Superintendent's task could be obtained. With reference to the Council, if the people could not pay them, the Legislature should be asked for a grant. With regard to the Wardenship, it was said that it was an honor sufficient in itself, but when the duties of the office were looked after, and also the business of the County attended to by the Warden, he could not think the salary, $400, was too large. The members did not make much at $3.00 a day, and besides it would be wise for this Council to allow the next Council to regulate its own affairs in this regard. This action was a mere piece of electioneering clap-trap, and it would not avail. He was sure Councillors had a right for pay for their own services, and if the people disapproved of this course, they would send other representatives.

Mr. White said that by having one session less this year than last, $417 would be saved, as last year the Council cost $2,775.-77; this year thus far $1,858.78, and with $500 allowance for this session the balance as above would result. In addition to this $125 had been saved by granting the Clerk $100 additional, and dispensing with the services of his assistant, which cost $225. The Warden did not get too much. The Road Superintendent and the Surveyor were not as well paid as schoolmasters, and they worked a far greater number of days. The Treasurer's responsibilities were very great and he deserved his salary. He had at the June session this year made a motion which saved the county $542, and therefore he had got the start of Mr. Armstrong, who now wished to show retrenchment. This was a mere electioneering dodge and should not be endorsed. Besides we should not make laws for those who follow us in next year's Council. And yet Mr. Armstrong took his allowance of $3 a day at each session this year, and when it was no longer within his reach he wanted to compel his successors next year to take $1 per day.

Mr. Gordon said he had no doubt when the people noticed such a By-law as this they would be able to see through it. He did not consider the present payments of salaries too much.

Mr. Armstrong said he had had all the municipal honor he wished, but if his friends again asked him to come forward he would do so. He should not be censured, he thought, for his present action as he had done the same in June. The Road Surveyor's and the Superintendent's work had increased; so had their salaries, and now they had foremen to assist them. No doubt the majority of those present would return, so that it would not be making laws for their successors.

Mr. Pearce said the Council of Northumberland got $3 each per day.

The Warden said if this By-law passed it would affect him only to the extent of a little over eight dollars, so to that he would not object. The County officials' pay was not too much, and he for one was quite willing to pay properly for the services of efficient men. The doing away with the August session had effected a saving, as no meeting at that time was necessary.

Mr. Kavanagh said the foremen employed on the roads were good men, and well deserved the pay they received.

Mr. Vandervoort said an impression had been created to the effect that Mr. Armstrong had promised the electors he would ask this reduction. This was not so, as he made no such pledge.

A motion made by Mr. Flint, seconded by Mr. Fitzgerald, giving the By-law a three months hoist, was carried.

Committee rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again.—Granted.

Moved by Mr. Cook, seconded by Mr. Kingston, that the Surveyor be instructed to open the road on the boundary line between the townships of Rawdon and Huntingdon in the 9th and 10th concessions.

The motion was so altered that the Surveyor was instructed to order all parties encroaching on the road in question to remove therefrom, and was then passed.

It being twelve o'clock the Warden left the chair.

THIRD DAY—AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Council resumed at two o'clock.

Council again went into Committe on Roads and Bridges. Mr. Pearce in the chair.

A communication was read asking that the debentures to be granted the Belleville and North Hastings Railway be put in the hands of Trustees.

The Warden said he had been asked to place these debentures in the hands of the Trustees at once, all of whom had not as yet been appointed. One or two Wardens preceding him had not issued these debentures though the By-law asked it, and he would now say that he would hand the debentures over if the Council authorized him to do so. The interest on these debentures would begin when they were handed over.

Mr. Francis said if the date from which the interest was to run was not mentioned in the By-law it would date from the passage of the By-law—unless no interest was to be paid.

The Warden said whatever interest accrued on these debentures before the completion of the road should be used for the benefit of the County, and read the Act passed which recites as stated above. He also said that the debentures were not to be handed over to the road till it was accepted by the Government Engineers and the Government bonus paid. In justice, all municipalities should pay the interest which the By-law stipulates they should do.

Mr. White contended that no interest should be asked until such time as the debentures were given, as if that were not done we would be paying interest on what we did not owe. Some townships had paid the interest for the last three years—one of them was Tyendinaga—and now these debentures should be issued for seventeen instead of twenty years.

Mr. Francis said it was only supposed that as there were deficiencies in the By-law, those municipalities which did not pay interest should not hereafter be asked to pay it.

Mr. Ashley said that the backward municipalities should pay the interest on arrear in justice to the other townships that had met their payments properly.

Mr. White advocated the refunding of the interest to those municipalities which had paid. He approved of the issuing of debentures for 17 years, the return of the interest to those municipalities that had paid it, and those which had not paid it should not be charged interest.

"I want to find out who is master of this house," said the man with a hook under his arm to the vinegary-looking woman with a pointed nose and a very small top knot who opened the door for him. "Well, stranger," she said with arms akimbo, "you just walk around into the back-yard, and ask a little spindle shanked deacon you'll find there fixin' up the grape-arbor, and he'll tell you if I don't up the grape-arbor, and he'll tell you if I don't boss this ranch he don't know who does. Now what do you want with me?"

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, NOV. 15.

The Ministry and the 'National Policy.

The Toronto Telegram has the following pertinent and conclusive remarks on the silly outcry of the Globe and some of its confreres anent the alleged delay of the Ministry in inaugurating the National Policy:—"The Reform press should leave the silly task of clamoring for the production of the National Policy to the Globe, which has a weakness for doing silly things. It is the height of nonsense to insist upon the Administration bringing down its policy now. It cannot bring down its policy until Parliament meets, and not then until the budget speech is made. The Government cannot make changes in the tariff without the consent of Parliament. So where is the sense of insisting on the changes being made until Parliament meets? The Globe is making what Lord Dundreary would call "a jolly old ath of itself," by incessantly crying out for the National Policy. Mr. Brown might as reasonably go round to the theatre in the early morning, take a front seat, and begin to stamp his feet and yell for the curtain to rise for the evening performance."

Councillors as Contractors.

The Municipal law, as is generally known provides that gentlemen who have accounts against a Corporation, or enter into contracts therewith, are thereby rendered ineligible, under a severe penalty, from holding seats in the Council of such Corporation. This law is, however, so frequently evaded and so seldom are its provisions enforced that it may almost be considered as being a "dead letter." Still, the Mayor of Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, has felt it incumbent upon him to enforce the law, which he has done by declaring vacant the seats of four Corporation contractors who sat at the Council Board of that city. The result has been not a little commotion in the city in question. At the last meeting of the City Council the Mayor, Mr. Dawson, intimated that two Councillors—Peake and Davy—would have to resign their seats. These gentlemen, we held, were contractors to the Corporation, Peake Bros. & Co., of which Coun. Peake was a member, having sold the city some lumber, and Mr. Davy having furnished some iron work, and therefore neither could legally sit at the Board. The Mayor acted upon the Recorder's opinion. Mr. Peake immediately vacated his seat, but Mr. Davy refused to do so and will test the question in the Supreme Court. The seats held by Couns. Hoarte and Morris were declared vacant a week ago, their cases being somewhat similar to those of Messrs. Peake and Davy. Referring to the matter one Councillor said:

"It had always struck him as dishonorable to see Councillors sitting at the Board voting on their own bills. Let the gentlemen who had withdrawn go back to their constituents, and when they were returned to this Council they would be clothed in white, and men could no longer point at them in the street and say these men were sitting at the City Council Board for the sake of filthy lucre."

Were all Mayors in Canada to pursue the same course as Mr. Dawson has done, there would be a fgreat commotion and many Councils would be deprived of not a few of their members. The law is a good one and ought to be enforced in all instances, but the great difficulty is that few people care to take upon themselves the stigma which is supposed to attach to those who put the law into operation.

THE CANADA PACIFIC.—A Winnipeg despatch says:—"The last spike in the extension of the St. Paul and Pacific Railway to the boundary of Manitoba was driven on Tuesday. The first car that arrived was one chartered by an Ontario emigrant for his family and horses."

THE CATTLE AND SHEEP TRADE.—The Toronto Mail says:—"During this week there have been shipped from this city 2,000 head of fat cattle, designed for the English market. In addition to this, 4,000 well-bred mutton sheep started for the same destination—Liverpool. It is found that the demand for Canadian stock in England is sufficiently great to afford the payment of good prices here for stock sufficiently large and well fattened for shipment."

PROTESTS IN NEW BRUNSWICK.—In New Brunswick protests have been entered against ten of the sixteen members elected. The petitions are against Messrs. Isaac Burpee and Weldon, St. John City and County; Charles Burpee, Sunbury; James Domville, King's; Jabez Snowball, Northumberland; Connell, Carleton; Gilmor, Charlotte; Wallace, Albert; Hon. S. L. Tilley, St. John city; and Sir Albert Smith, Westmoreland. Preliminary objections have been filed in nearly every instance and ross-petitions entered in one or two cases.

A False Charge.

(From the Kingston News.)

In an editorial article in its issue of the 11th instant on "Mr. Mackenzie Bowell," the Evening Post made an attack on that gentleman because in the speech delivered by him on the day of his re-election for North Hastings he said:

"He condemned the introduction of sectional differences into political contests, as in a country composed like this, of people from all parts of the world, holding different views, legislation should be had in the interests of the whole, and not of a class. It had been asserted by Mr. Mackenzie that his Government had been more generous to the Irish Catholics than Sir John A. Macdonald's Administration, as there was but one in the latter. This was mere claptrap to deceive the people, and raise religious strife in the land. What he proposed to do was to act for the good of the country as a country, for the whole as a whole, and for the interests of the people. Mr. Mackenzie had done much to create and raise sectional animosity, but he (the speaker) was confident that the people would not again be led astray by demagogism; they would not be led astray in the future as they had been in the past."

The Post takes up Mr. Bowell's statement about Mr. Mackenzie's demagoguism, and makes the following use of it:

"And this Mr. Mackenzie Bowell talks of 'demagogues!' The gentleman of whom it is charged said: 'If the Aylwards are not hanged I'll bring 5,000 Orangemen to Belleville and hang them myself.' Who was the 'demagogue' and who used the 'claptrap' then? Answer, the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Minister of Customs, under the administration of Sir John A. Macdonald."

"We state without fear of successful contradiction that the Evening Post's charge is as false as false could be. "It is alleged," says the Evening Post. Who made the allegation? Whoever may have originated it, the Evening Post is responsible for its circulation. We brand it as an infamous and malicious lie. We would not notice the Post's reckless charges against Sir John A. Macdonald and Mr. Bowell were it not that it has a circulation in this city, and if its misrepresentations were allowed to pass unchallenged they might be taken for gospel truth."

It is a great misfortune for the credit of Canadian journalism that such utterly false and slanderous attacks upon our public men can be made with impunity. This class of men whom accident has placed in control of public journals, would be more at home clutching the assassin's knife, or prowling in midnight darkness for robber's spoils. They can have no conception of what is fair and honorable and just in their estimate of public men, and it is a damning disgrace to the profession that such libertinism should be permitted. The only way to stamp out such infamous libellers is to give them a taste of prison life.

The Apple Crop.

The crop of apples this season has been large almost without precedent, not in Canada only, but in the United States as well. Probably not less than 5,000 barrels of this description of fruit have been shipped from the Counties of Hastings and Prince Edward this season, and as heavy shipments have been made from other parts of Ontario the result has been the glutting of the Montreal market; whilst, judging from the following remarks of the New York Sun, the market in that city seems also to be well supplied:—"In some regions apples are so plenty that they are fed to pigs, cows and horses, and the cider mills are everywhere pressing out more cider than they can readily dispose of. This very palatable and healthful drink may be bought in the country at $1 to $1.50 a barrel, and it ought to be on draft in the cities at a price which would tempt the poorest customers. There is no need of anybody's drinking sham cider this year. The real juice of the apple is plenty enough for any demand there is likely to be for it. A splendid apple crop can fortunately now be disposed of to much better advantage than formerly. An extensive European demand for our apples has grown up within recent years, and this autumn we are exporting more of them than ever before, though the prices are very low, running from 75c to $1.62 a barrel, according to quality, so great is the supply. Vast quantities of apples are regularly shipped to Europe by steamer. The manifest of one vessel from New York last week showed that she carried 4,671 barrels, and all the outgoing European steamers are weighted with them. A Boston steamer took 5,000 barrels last Wednesday, the largest shipment of apples ever made from that port. Three steamship lines from Boston have engaged to carry more than 40,000 barrels, and the export from New York will reach an enormous and unprecedented total. If the fruit is carefully picked and selected and well packed, it reaches Europe in good condition and brings a fair profit to the sender. Apples ought to be plenty and cheap in England this autumn."

RE-ELECTED.—On the 14th inst. Hon. Mr. Baby, Minister of Inland Revenue, was re-elected for Joliette by acclamation.

A TELEGRAPHIC WONDER.—When the Atlantic cable was laid the sending of one message was justly considered to be unrivalled, but now that a message can be sent both ways at one and the same time what may we not think, and we cannot fail to exclaim that wonders will never cease. This latest is by authorities considered to be the greatest of telegraphicwonders.

ANOTHER SENSATION.—A Toronto report says another sensation is promised, similar to that caused by the Gilmour tragedy a few years ago. It is said that a city physician, in very fair practice, a week or ten days ago performed an abortion upon a young woman residing in Toronto. The alleged seducer is a bar-tender on Yongestreet whose wife, it is said, has left him to obtain a divorce in the States. The victim is now lying in a critical condition, but hopes are entertained of her ultimate recovery.

FATAL RAILWAY ACCIDENT.—A telegram from St. John, N. B., on the 14th gives the following particulars of a fatal railway accident:—"The up train on the New Brunswick Railway ran off the track near Peel, eighty miles above Fredericton, this evening at eight o'clock. A passenger and a smoking car rolled down the embankment to the water's edge and were burned. Three passengers were killed. A man named Hacker, of Fort Fairfield, Mo., and a woman and boy, names not known, were burned to cinders. Eight others were wounded; names not known."

WRECKS IN 1876-7.—According to the annual English Wreck Register, just received, no less than 4,164 wrecks, casualties and collisions are reported as having occurred on or near the coasts of the United Kingdom during the year 1876-7 comprising 5,017 vessels, exceeding the number in 1875-6 by no fewer than 563, and that of the total 1,120 are set down as serious casualties. Of course, with 64,089 ships entered inwards or cleared outwards from the ports of the United Kingdom during the past year, it is inevitable that large numbers of disasters should take place, but the great increase on the previous year is certainly a startling circumstance. The loss of life was necessarily augmented by the increase of disasters, and accordingly one life paid the penalty out of every twenty-two ships wrecked. Of the 4,164 wrecks, casualties and collisions which occurred, no fewer than 347 are set down as being in the latter category, the majority of which are said to have been plainly avoidable.

Are Fat People Healthy?

Why are fat people always complaining? asks some one who entertains the popular though erroneous notion that health is synonymous with fat. Fat people complain because they are diseased; Obesity is an abnormal condition of the system, in which the saccharine and oleaginous elements of the food are assimilated to the partial exclusion of the muscle-forming and brain-producing elements. In proof of this, it is only necessary to assert the well-known fact that excessively fat people are never strong, and seldom distinguished for mental powers of activity. Besides, they are the easy prey of acute and epidemic diseases, and they are the frequent victims of gout, heart disease, and apoplexy. Allan's Anti-Fat is the only known remedy for this disease. It contains no acid, is absolutely harmless, and is warranted to remedy the most confirmed case of obesity, or corpulency.

Sir Patrick McDougall.

A SENSATION IN A BALL ROOM.

Quebec, Nov. 11.—Fashionable society in this city is considerably scandalized over an incident which occurred a night or two ago at the Governor-General's residence at the Citadel. His Excellency Sir Patrick McDougall, the incumbent of the vice-regal chair until the arrival of the Marquis of Lorne, gave an official dinner followed by a dance, to which a number of leading ladies and gentlemen of that best Quebec society were invited. During the progress of a waltz four or five couples, including some of the belles of the place, entangled themselves in the agreeable mazes of the Boston reverse, which, as danced in this Dominion, does not always present the appearance of a strictly high toned performance. The General, who, notwithstanding the escapades told of his younger days, always wears the air of stern discipline and strict morality, at once instructed his aid-de-camp to request the couple already referred to to change the programme. No sooner was the order given than all the parties concerned repaired to the cloakroom and dressed and disappeared. The matter created quite a sensation among the upper ten.

The Last Startling Crime.

The theft of the body of the late A. T. Stewart is one of the most daring cases of that sort of outrage with which the public sense of decency has been shocked. The offence is aggravated by the obvious fact that no plea of zeal for science can be urged in its excuse. It was committed either to annoy the family of the deceased or avenge some real or fancied injury, or with the still baser motive of gaining a ransom for its restoration. What makes the matter remarkable is that the vault was so open to the observation and access of the public that it is difficult to imagine how the prowling robbers of the dead could have escaped notice. According to the accounts published in the New York journals, the burial-ground is well lighted from various points; it is in the midst of a populous district; and the robbers must have spent some time in opening the tomb, breaking into the inclosed coffins, replacing the stone, and scaling the high fence after they had secured their spoil. Yet, they have gotten away with a burden whose unpleasant odors must have advertised it wherever it was carried. And the detective police are wholly at sea. As in the case of the Manhattan Bank robbery, the guardians of the city's peace are the last to learn that a startling crime has been perpetrated.

Railway Accidents in Great Britain.

During 1877, the total number of persons killed in the workings of the railways of England, Scotland and Ireland was 1,175, and the injured 3,705. Of these, 126 killed and 1,283 injured were passengers. Of the remainder, 642 killed and 2,163 injured were officers and servants of the railway companies or of contractors, and 407 killed and 259 injured were trespassers or suicides, or other persons who met with accidents at level crossings or from miscellaneous causes. The total number of passenger journeys, exclusive of journeys by season ticket holders, was 55,505,634 or about 13,000,000 more than in the previous year. Calculated on these figures, the proportion of passengers killed and injured in 1877, from all causes, were, in round numbers, one in 4,277,727 killed, and one in 429,924 injured. In 1876, the proportions were one in 3,872,570 killed, and in 285,867 injured. Of officers and servants employed by railway companies and contractors, there were 642 killed and 2,163 injured in 1877, against 673 killed and 2,600 injured in 1878.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, NOV. 15.

City and Vicinity.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—A letter from Rev. R. S. Forneri will appear to-morrow.

POLICE.—Five tramps and two prisoners occupied the cells last night.

PERSONAL.—The Rev. A. O. Cossar, of this city, has been appointed President of the Eastern District Association of Congregational Ministers.

CORRECTION.—In the notice of Ald. Falkiner's new residence, it should have been stated that the carving of the magnificent sideboard is being done by Mr. James Harrison.

LUMBERING.—On enquiring of Mr. James A. Buck, we learn that he will this season get out some 8,000 saw logs for Messrs. Rathbun & Son. This stuff will go down the Madawaska. Mr. Buck will get out very little, if any, square timber this year.

THE WESTMINSTER REVIEW.—The October number is on our table, and presents the following attractive table of contents: The Australian Colonies ; Later Novels of Berthold Auerbach ; Bulgarian Literature ; The Troubadors ; Lock Melbourne ; The Situation in the East and the Future of Russia ; Contemporary Literature ; India and our Colonial Empire. Republished by the Leonard Scott Publishing Company, 41 Barclay Street, New York, at $4 a year.

OPERA HOUSE.—The production of "Romeo and Juliet" by Miss Helen Blye and company drew a considerable audience to the Opera House last night. Miss Blye's performance of the role of Juliet was a fine one, rivalling that of many better known artists, and Mr. J. F. Brien ably supported her as Romeo, but the remainder of the cast lacked effectiveness, the great character of Mercutio and the prominent parts of Tybalt, Paris and Benvolio being but indifferently portrayed. To-night "Camille" will be given, with Miss Blye in the title role, in which she is said to evince extraordinary merit.

A MUSICAL TREAT.—We had the pleasure recently of hearing Mr. Carl Richter, at a private rehearsal. The programme was a varied one, composed principally of classical selections, but embracing also several items of a popular character, and all presenting considerable difficulties to the performer. The result was highly pleasing, Mr. Richter's execution being fine, his manipulation delicate yet precise, and throughout the performance he displayed the taste and appreciation of the capable artist. Particularly noticeable was his execution of the very difficult variations arranged by Thalberg to a theme from the opera L'Elisir d'Amore, Listz's arrangement from Masaniello, and Schuman's Traumerei, in which latter selection great taste and feeling were displayed. What was also remarkable was that the entire programme, comprising some 250 pages of music, was rendered entirely from memory. This is a feat the difficulty of which can best be appreciated by those who are well educated in music.

The Grand Junction Railway.

The Campbellford Herald gives the following encouraging report of progress in the construction of the Grand Junction Railway : "Last Monday, to ascertain whether report concerning the Grand Junction Railway were true, we passed over eight miles of the line ; and after a few hours personal observation of the operations on the same, we can fully endorse everything we have hitherto published in these columns receipting it. At about eight miles from Campbellford, after riding over and walking along the road several times, we came in sight of, behind a little grove of trees, moving towards Campbellford, the first locomotive and train of cars it has been our pleasure to witness on the Grand Junction Railway.

"Here, busy as antsen an ant-hill, were a gang of about forty men, muscular and stalwart, laying ties and rails, while just behind them were a locomotive and several cars supplying them with the needed materials.

"Just beyond the Ogilvie farm, about two miles south-easterly of Campbellford, we came upon the first tie we had seen, and from this point to Hoard's bridge, excepting at short intervals of a few yards, the ties are laid along the whole line of the road.

"On Monday, the men were employed laying the track about one-half mile east of Hoard's bridge, but from a deficiency of ties, which, to keep the work going had to be laid at double the required distance, the work proceeded slowly. The bridge at Mr. Vernon Hoard's, knew as Hoard's Bridge, is completed, the ties laid, and ready for the rails ; and in its vicinity is a space of ground reserved for a station. Culverts of new timber, strong and durable, have been built wherever needed, and everything appears to be just what is required to do satisfactory work.

"The rapidity with which these workmen laid the ties and arranged the rails was surprising. It was system and order throughout, managed with the regularity of clock-work. Their movements seemed as if all were self-interested ; they were not slow and measured, but all push, energy and speed. A car containing the material was pushed to the terminus of the track. Immediately, of several sets, two men, one on either end, seized a tie, and with a run, laid it on a spot indicated by a measured pole ahead. Following these in rapid succession, others came, and no sooner was the last of the required number of ties, so think ex, laid, them with grappling irons two men clinched a rail, and speedily drawing it over a little iron roller on the car, its end dropped into the hands of other men prepared to receive it, and it was laid and gauged, plated and coupled, bolted and spiked in half the time it requires to write it. A set of men represented each department of the work ; they knew their work and preformed it with an apparent ease and agility that was amusing to behold.

"Not being able to meet Mr. Newman, the contractor, we learned from those under him, that about one-half mile of track a day had been laid ; but when Hoard's Bridge is reached, they will lay a mile a day, or as one of the men told us, "put it down nearly as fast as you can walk." Hence in a day or two work will be pushed on rapidly, and it is expected Campbellford will be reached by the 22nd or the 25th of this month."

Accounts Against the Corporation.

To the Editor of the Daily Intelligencer :

DEAR SIR,—In reply to your article in Tuesdays issue referring to my urging at the Council meeting on Monday night last, that accounts against the city should be properly checked before being paid (for that was the point), I would say that my suggestion was in accordance with the By-law governing the Council, under which accounts cannot be legally referred but to the Committee controlling the department in connection with which the debt was incurred. You object to this course on the score of delay. There is no reason why it should delay the payment of accounts in the least.

The Finance Committee meet every Friday preceding the meeting of the Council, surely the ten days between the presentation of the account and the meeting of the above Committee allow sufficient time for the several Committees to meet and examine any accounts referred to them, and if found correct hand them to the Finance Committee.

The weakness of your objection was clearly shown by Mr. Holden at the last meeting of the Council.

As to accounts for printing. If all printing was ordered by the Printing Committee, as it should be, it would only be necessary to refer accounts to said Committee, and if found correct to be handed by them to the Finance Committee, but unfortunately, this Committee is almost ignored.

You speak of the Finance Committee as being, "so constituted as to be capable of pronouncing on any matter of finance." I suppose you mean on account of this Committee being composed mainly of the chairmen of the several Committees. I would answer as I did in the Council a short time since that the certificate of an individual Chairman is not sufficient guarantee of the correctness of the accounts, as chairmen are sometimes too hasty in certifying to accounts. The accounts were at the last meeting of the Council properly referred.

Yours truly,
ALBERT L. GEEN.

[NOTE.—Mr. Geen's desire to have all accounts against the Corporation properly checked is certainly laudable, but as we previously pointed out it is impracticable. Did all the Committees meet regularly the idea might be carried out, though a very inconvenient delay would in many cases be caused ; but as the meetings of some at least of the Committees are few and far between, the system at present in vogue, under which the accounts, certified by the Chairmen of Committees, the Mayor, the Clerk or other official who ordered the work, are submitted to the Finance Committee, reported upon to the Council by that body and passed by the Council after explanation, if such be asked, seems to be the only practicable mode of dealing with such matters. A rule of the Council doubtless does provide for such an audit as Ald. Geen desires, but as it has been found to be unworkable, and is in reality unnecessary, it has been quietly ignored. It is quite as impracticable as the idea that every petty item of printing should first be pronounced upon by the Printing Committee before the work is done.—ED. INTELLIGENCER.

A Montreal paper says the steamboat Alexandra, which runs between this port and Trenton, Ont., is at present in Tait's dry dock undergoing repairs.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN., Nov. 15.—Francis Lane, aged 22, who attempted suicide on Sunday, died on Wednesday night. Miss Katie Martin, his betrothed, with whom he had quarrelled on the night of the affair, has been in constant attendance at his bedside.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The President and his family attended the wedding yesterday at Epiphany Church of Archibald Hopkins, Clerk of the U. S. Court of Claims, and Miss Wise, daughter of Commander Wise, of the United State Navy.

DETROIT, Nov. 15.—Official returns from 51 counties and unofficial from 13 show a Republican majority in Michigan of about 45,000. In 29 counties the national vote surpasses the Democratic, and in 6 leads both the other parties.

ZANESVILLE, O., Nov. 15.—Cyrus Elliott, the grave robber, who was detected while driving off with four bodies, was arrested at Columbus yesterday. A mob is besieging the station house denouncing the prisoner. Other arrests are impending.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The Times' Washington special says Schurz will probably through the Secretary of War call upon Sheridan and others who have incorporated in their reports grave charges affecting the integrity of his management of the Indian affairs, to furnish specifications and proofs.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—A bark from Liverpool brought in yesterday the crew of the abandoned bark Thatcher, which sailed from Boston for the west coast of Africa in October. She was wrecked in a hurricane, and one man was lost.

A pseudo Scotch nobleman, who has been swindling a bank, a select social club, a hotel and numerous confiding friends for a week past, has suddenly disappeared, just as his imposture was about to be exposed.

The Times says the bankruptcy proceedings in the case of Albert Speyers, Fisk's and Gould's broker on the memorable Black Friday, will probably expose the whole secret history of that eventful day.

The Sun says that well authenticated reports are circulating that the new Opposition Telegraph Co., has been formed, based upon contracts secured over the Baltimore & Ohio and Erie & Pennsylvania roads, the contracts between the Western Union and these lines having expired.

The Tribune says it is understood that the Government has evidence which shows the refined sugars to be largely adulerated with substances injurious to the health, and thus in the case of sugars for export resulting in a direct fraud upon the Government. Importers claim the loss to the United States revenue by frauds in the importation of sugars amounts to $5,000,000 per year.

The World says it is stated on authority that the remains of Stewart have been traced to their hiding place, and that all parties concerned are under surveillance. All of the men concerned are in this city with the exception of the principal, and he is known. The men who committed the robbery are not the men who have had the custody of the body since it was carried away. Among those implicated are several heretofore regarded as respectable, and a constant watch upon their movements has made them so nervous that they now scarcely know where to turn. A lawyer it is said is implicated, if not directly, at least as an adviser. As soon as evidence is complete all persons implicated will be arrested at the same time. The whereabouts of the body is known, and it can be had at any moment.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Nov. 15. — Failures : John Lomax & Co., chemical manufacturers, at Jarrow on Tyne, with a paid up capital of $500,000 ; assets will probably realize 25 per cent. The Tyne chemical trade is exceedingly depressed and prices are lower than ever before. The only hopeful feature is that stocks are low. Young, Liston & Co., ship owners and insurance brokers. Liabilities $500,000. Wilhelm, Pustom & Co., of Hamburg, one of the largest houses in the China trade has failed. Donner & Co., London merchants, who suspended on Wednesday, were their agents here.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Switzerland did not denounce the Convention of 1865 constituting the Latin union because of any dissatisfaction at the proceedings at the recent Paris Conference. The Convention of 1865 expires by limitation at the end of 1879, when unless it is renounced it renews itself for fifteen years. The action of Switzerland will open negotiations for a new treaty.

BOSTON, Nov. 15.—There was a fire in the Fitchburg hay depot, Charlestown, this afternoon. Loss $4,200. On the way to the fire four firemen were badly injured.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The British gunboat Condor recently went to Bourgas to investigate the alleged outrage on the British vice-Consul. The St Petersburg Golos has a strongly worded article on this event, which it says constitutes a clear violation of the neutrality of the Black Sea.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—The election of three life Senators occurs to-day. The Conservative candidates who are likely to succeed are Oscar de Valle, Benaparttist, and Count de Haus onville, Orleanist, a member of the Academy and an esteemed writer and philanthropist, and M. Baragnon, Legitimist, he was unseated as Deputy from Alzes, Department of Gard, and was defeated on a second ballot ; he was one of the promoters of the 16th of May. Much surprise is felt at his nomination.

GIBRALTER, Nov. 15.—The American brig Callao, from Philadelphia for Palermo, was abandoned at sea. The crew, with the exception of one person, was saved by a Norwegian bark.

QUEENSTOWN, Nov. 15.—Arrived, the S.S. Bothnia.

BRADFORD, Pa. 15.—A fire last night in the wine room over the Theatre Comique, caused by a defective chimney, spread over a large area and destroyed 50 buildings, including the Riddell House, Pierce House, United States Express building, Ewaird & Seyfang's machine shop and foundry, Stewart's small hotel, boarding houses, saloons, &c. Loss $150,000, 18 will be rebuilt at once.

ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 15.—A fire this morning destroyed property valued at between $35,000 and $40,000.

TANNER'S ASSOCIATION.—It is proposed to form an association of Ontario tanners, who will aim, as the prospectus states, "to bring about a more healty state of the trade, and to suggest needed alterations in the Act concerning inspection of hides and skins."

The Sun for 1879.

THE SUN will be printed every day during the year to come. Its purpose and method will be the same as in the past. To present all the news in a readable shape, and to tell the truth though the heavens fall.

THE SUN has been, is, and will continue to be independent of everybody and everything save the Truth and its own convictions of duty. That is the only policy which an honest newspaper need have. That is the policy which has won for this newspaper the confidence and friendship of a wider constituency than was ever enjoyed by any other American Journal.

THE SUN is the newspaper for the people. It is not for the rich man against the poor man, or for the poor man against the rich man, but it seeks to do equal justice to all interests in the community. It is not the organ of any person, class, sect or party. There need be no mystery about its loves and hates. It is for the honest man against the rogue every time. It is for the honest Democrat as against the dishonest Republican, and for the honest Republican as against the dishonest Democrat It does not take its cue from the utterances of any politician or political organization. It gives its support unreservedly when men or measures are in agreement with the Constitution and with the principles upon which this Republic was founded for the people. Whenever the Constitution and constitutional principles are violated—as in the outrageous conspiracy of 1876, by which a man not elected was placed in the President's office, where he still remans—it speaks out for the right. That is THE SUN's idea of independence. In this respect there will be no change in its programme for 1879.

THE SUN has fairly earned the hearty hatred of rascals, frauds, and humbugs of all sorts and sizes. It hopes to deserve that hatred not less in the year 1879, than in 1878, 1877, or any year gone by. The SUN will continue to shine on the wicked with unmitigated brightness.

While the lessons of the past should be constantly kept before the people, THE SUN does not propose to make itself in 1879 a magazine of ancient history. It is printed for the men and women of to-day, whose concern is chiefly with the affairs of to-day. It has both the disposition and the ability to afford its readers the promptest, fullest, and most accurate intelligence of whatever in the wide world is worth attention. To this end the resources belonging to well-established prosperity will be liberally employed.

The present disjointed condition of parties in this country, and the uncertainty of the future, lend an extraordinary significance to the events of the coming year. The discussions of the press, the debates and acts of Congress, and the movements of the leaders in every section of the Republic, will have a direct bearing on the Presidential election of 1880—an event which must be regarded with the most anxious interest by every patriotic American, whatever his political ideas or allegiance. To these elements of interest may be added the probability that the Democrats will control both houses of Congress, the increasing feebleness of the fraudulent Administration, and the spread and strengthening everywhere of a healthy abhorrence of fraud in any form. To present wiht accuracy and clearness the exact situation in each of its varying phases, and to expound, according to its well known methods, the principles that should guide us through the labyrinth, will be an important part of THE SUN's work for 1879.

We have the means of making THE SUN, as a political, a literary and a general newspaper, more entertaining and more useful than ever before; and we mean to apply them freely.

Our rates of supscription remain unchanged. For the DAILY SUN, a four page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price by mail, postpaid, is 55 cents a month, or $6.50 a year; or, including the Sunday paper, an eight page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents a month, or $7.70 a year, postage paid.

The Sunday edition of THE SUN is also furnished separately at $1.20 a year, postage paid.

The price of the WEEKLY SUN, eight pages, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free. Address

"ROXY."

BY EDWARD EGGLESTON.

CONTINUED.

There was, however, one person who did not like that growing attachment between Mark Bonamy and Roxy Adams. Twonnet had built other castles for her friend. She was not sentimental, but shrewd, practical, matter-of-fact—in short, she was Swiss. She did not believe in Mark's steadfastness. Besides, her hero was Whittaker, whose serious excellence of character was a source of perpetual admiration in her. She was fully conscious of her own general unfitness to aspire to be be the wife of such a man; she had an apprehension that she abode most of the time under the weight of the minister's displeasure, and she plainly saw that in his most kindly moods he treated her as one of those who were doomed to a sort of perpetual and amiable childhood. It was by no great stretch of magnanimity, therefore, that Townnet set herself to find a way to promote an attachment between Whittaker and Roxy. Next to her own love affair, a girl is interested in somebody else's love affair.

But Twonnet saw no way of pushing her design, for Whittaker carefully abstained from going to Adams's house. Twonnet beguiled Roxy into spending evenings at her father's. Whittaker, on such occasions, took the dispensations of Providence kindly, basking in the sunlight of Roxy's inspiring presence for a few hours, and lying awake in troubled indecision the entire night thereafter. It was with an increase of hope that Twonnet saw the mutual delight of the two in each other's society, and she was more than ever convinced that she was the humble instrumentality set apart by Providence to bring about a fore-ordained marriage. She managed on one pretext or another to leave them alone at times in the old-fashioned parlor, with no witness but the Swiss clock on the wall, the tic-tac of whose long, slow pendulum, made the precious moments of communion with Roxy seem longer and more precious to the soul of the preacher. But nothing came of these long-drawn seconds of conversation on indifferent topics—nothing ever came but sleepless nights and new conflicts for Whittaker. For how should he marry on his slender salary and with his education yet unpaid for? After each of these interviews contrived by Twonnet, the good-hearted manœuvrer looked in vain to see him resume his calls at the house of Mr. Adams. But he did not. She could not guess why.

One night Twonnet spent with Roxy. Mark dropped in, in his incidental way, during the evening, but he did not get on well. The shrewd Twonnet got him to tell of his electioneering experiences, and contrived to make him show the wrong side of his nature all the evening. Roxy was unhappy at this, and so was Mark, but Twonnet felt a mischievous delight in thus turning Mark aside from talking about Roxy's pet enthusiasms, and in showing them the discords which incipient lovers do not care to see.

The girls sat at the breakfast-table a little late the next morning—late in relation to village habits, for it was nearly seven o'clock. Twonnet proposed to tell fortunes with coffee grounds, after the manner of girls. Roxy hesitated a little; she was scrupulous about trifles, but at Twonnet's entreaty she reversed her cup to try the fortune of her friend.

"I don't see anything, Twonnetin, these grounds," she said, inspecting the inside of her cup, "except—except—yes—I see an animal. I can't tell whether it's a dog or a mule. It has a dog's tail and mule's ears. What does that mean."

"Pshaw! you arn't worth a cent, Roxy, to tell fortunes," and with that Twonnet looked over her shoulder. "Dog's tail! why that's a sword, don't you see. I am to have a gentleman come to see me who is a military man."

"But will he carry his sword up in the air that was as if he were going to cut your head off if you should refuse him?" asked Roxy; "and what about these ears?"

"Ears! that is beastly, Roxy. Those are side whiskers. Now, see me tell your fortune."

With this, Twonnet capsized her cup in the saucer and let it remain inverted for some seconds; then righting it again she beheld the sediment of her coffee streaked up and down the side of her cup in a most unintelligible way. But Twonnet's rendering was fore-determined.

"I see," she began, and then she paused a long time, for in truth it was hard to see anything. "I see——"

"Well, what?" said Roxy, "a dog's tail or side-whiskers?"

"I see a young man, rather tall, with flowing hair and—and broad shoulders." Twonnet now looked steadily in the cup, and spoke with the rapt air of a Pythoness. Had she looked up she would have seen the color increasing in Roxy's cheeks. "But his back is turned, and so I see that you will reject him. There are crooked lines crossing his figure, by which I perceive it would have been a great source of trouble to you had you accepted him. There would have been discord and evil."

Here Roxy grew pale, but Twonnet still looked eagerly in the cup.

"I see," she continued, "a tall, serious man. There is a book in front of him. He is a minister. The lines about him are smooth and indicate happiness. His face is toward me, and I perceive—that——"

But here Roxy impatiently wrested the cup from her hand and said, "Shut up, you gabbling story-teller!" Then look in the cup curiously, she said, "There's nothing of all that there. Just a few streaks of coffee grounds."

"May be you spoiled it," said the gypsy Twonnet. "You cannot read your own destiny. I read it for you."

"And I read yours," said Roxy, "an animal with a dog's tail and cow's horns. But don't let's talk any more nonsense, Twonnet; it's a sin."

"More harm comes of religious talk sometimes than of fooling," retorted Twonnet.

"What do you mean?" demanded Roxy, with auger and alarm.

But Twonnet did not answer except by a significant look from her black eyes. The girls had changed places for a time. It was Twonnet who had taken the lead.

TO BE CONTINUED.

A ragged, greasy, unkept tramp went shuffling into a lawyer's office one day, and asked if Mr.——, the jurist was in. He was. Well, the pedestrian wanted a lift. He was dead broke, without a nickel, and was troubled with an aching void in his stomach. The legal light expressed some surprise as to why he had come to him for help. "Why, you see, Colonel," said the pedestrian, "I'm kind o' related to you. I used to be acquainted with your divorced wife." The request was based upon such unique grounds that the jurist bestowed upon his charity-client a solid silver half-dollar.—Boston Courier.

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that uses it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists. d&w

In this Present Age, when the life-battle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the strongest the tug and stress of it tell so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for the keeping up of our reserve stock of mental and physical stamina by the use of such a nerve-tonic and vitalizing agent as ROBINSON'S PHOSPHORIZED EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH LACTO-PHOSPATE OF LIME! Its gently stimulating and nutritive-tonic properties supply the materials, and assist Nature in her efforts to keep up with the exhaustive demands upon her reserves. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately favored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disase. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemist, London, Eng." d&w

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of such of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to cement more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURG, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much arger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz.: One page, $10.00; half-page, $6.00; quarter page, $4.00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

March, 1878.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly, "Deny it who can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your prejudice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge" of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price, 25 cents per Bottle.

The Trade supplied through the Wholesale Drug and Patent Medicine Houses of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London.

GOD KNOWETH BEST.

Some time, when all life's lessons have been learned,
And the sun and stars forevermore have set.
The things which our weak judgment here have spurned,
The things o'er which we grieved with lashes wet,
Will flash before us out of life's dark night,
As stars shine most in deeper tints of blue;
And we shall see how all God's plans were right,
And how what seemed reproof was love most true.

And we shall see how, while we frown and sigh,
God's plans go on as best for you and me;
How, when we called, he heeded not our cry,
Because his wisdom to the end could see.
And even as prudent parents disallow
Too much of sweet to craving babyhood,
So God, perhaps, is keeping from us now
Life's sweetest things because it seemeth good.

And if, sometimes, commingled with life's wine,
We find the wormwood, and rebel and shrink
Be sure a wiser hand than yours or mine
Pours out this portion for our lips to drink.
And if some friend we love is lying low,
Where human kisses cannot reach his face,
Oh, do not blame the loving Father so,
But wear your sorrow with obedient grace!

And you shall shortly know that lengthened breath
Is not the sweetest gift God sends his friend,
And that, sometimes, the sable pall of death
Conceals the fairest boon his love can send.
If we could push ajar the gates of life,
And stand within, and all God's working see,
We could interpret all this doubt and strife,
And for each mystery could find a key!

But not to-day. Then be content, poor heart!
God's plans, like lilies, pure and white, unfold,
We must not tear the close-shut leaves apart;
Time will reveal the calyxes of gold.
And, if through patient toil, we reach the land
Where tired feet, with sandals loose, may rest,
When we shall clearly know and understand,
I think that we will say, "God knew the best."

The Maiden Shareholders in the Glasgow Bank.

The following appears in a Scotch Newspaper;
Pity us God! There are five of us here,
With threescore years on the youngest head,
Five of us sitting here in sorrow and fear—
Well for our widowed one, she is dead.
Day and night sitting, we've not laid a head
Down on a pillow this week now or more:
Trembling has seized on us, shrinking and dread.
To hear the bell ring, or be seen out of door.
Pity us, pity, O God!

Pity us, God! When our father died
His mind was at ease, for he left us shares,
And a roof o'er our heads, too: and side by side,
Happy and loving, we faced life's cares.
Then we were young, and now feeble and old.
But we never wronged any, as far as we know,
Ans we tried to do right with our silver and gold,
And the poor had their portion, the Church had its due.
Pity us, pity, O God!

Pity us, God! We would work if we could,
But suppler fingers must stitch and hem:
And who would give us our morsel and food,
Though we span and knitted all day for them.
We never knew work, but we kept ourselves neat:
We never knew want, but our wants are small,
And there's bread in the house yet, if we could eat,
But the sickness of sorrow is mixed with it all.
Pity us, pity, O God!

Pity us, God! Must our little things go?
All—even our mother's things cherished with care?
Must we leave the old home—the one home that we know?
But not for the Poor-House—O surely not there?
Could they not wait a while? we will not keep them long.
We could live on so little, too, cheerful and brave,
But to leave the old house, where old memories throng,
For the Poor-House? O rather the peace of the grave!
Pity us, pity, O God?

Pity us, God! As for them who have wrought
All this sad ruin so wide and deep,
O how could they do it and know it not?
How could they know it and think or sleep?
But we would not one of us change this day
Our lot for theirs, for our hands are clean;
And the bankrupt soul has a darker way
Than the way of the honest poor ever hath been.
Pity us, pity, O God!

WALTER SMITH.

Sunday Reading.

No Time.

"I have no time to devote to my children," says the business man with a sigh; for he really feels the privation of their society keenly. But the excuse is an insufficient one; he should make time—let other things go, for no duty is more important than that he owes his offspring. Parents should never fail to give the child such sympathy in its little matters of life as will produce in its confiding mind that trust and faith which is a necessary element in paternal influence. Filial affection is a great safeguard against evil influences, as well as a great civilizer to its possessor. Do not forget, too, that the childish mind in process of developement absolutely needs the cheerful and happy influences which are produced by amusements, as sure as the plant needs sun and light for its proper growth. And who can be better persons to afford recreation than both parents? Too frequently does the stately father, filled with the cares and responsibilities of life, forget that his little one is yearning for that familiar love which induces a game or a romp between them. The father's entrance after a day's labor should be a cause for rejoicing, and the signal for a merry game, which would benefit him as much as the little ones.

A Child's Imagination.

What a tremendous thing a child's imagination is! It goes beyond all the facts in the universe. Do you remember how easy it was when you were a child to believe anything you were told, anything you read about, —in fairies, in gnomes, in invisible caps, and the purse of Fortunatus that had only to be opened to be found full? You expected to have such a cap and such a purse before you died; although it is hard to believe it now, when you would not desire the invisible cap, if there were such a thing, simply because you scarcely trust your best friend, and when the purse, with a hole in the bottom, has been in your pocket for years.

What a little dreamer you were! Can you go back to the time when you had not seen your first whale and your first elephant? When you believed the whale to be miles in length and the elephant to be as tall as a mountain? And can you recall your disappointment when you were first taken to a menagerie? That a whale!—that? This insignificant leathery beast an elephant! You were miserable. You loathed the deceitful world that had so imposed upon you, or you believed the menagerie a humbug, and waited vainly for the whale a mile long and the elephant of your dreams whose head was hidden in the clouds.

It is the same with children always. Take your little boy to see the giant nine feet in height and the dwarf of twenty-two inches, and his lips will quiver with disappointment. The giant is only a big man; the dwarf is the size of the new baby. He expected Fee-fo-Fum, who could take six men under each arm and stride along at the rate of a mile a step, and a dwarf who could stand upon his own tiny palm—a dwarf of three inches, perhaps. Don't laugh at him. We are all children in some things until we see the reality. The things men hope for are big and beautiful, and wonder in every way before they are seen, as they will never be again when the glamor of fancy shall be replaced by solid fact.

Waste.

BY BISHOP CLARK, OF RHODE ISLAND.

At the first glance it would seem as though there must be a great amount of waste in nature, waste of power, material, beauty, and life. Of all the heat and light thrown off by the sun, what an infinitesimal fraction reaches the planets, where alone these elements would appear to be of any service. Every thunder-storm is a waste of electric power, resulting, so far as our senses teach us, in nothing but destruction. All the rain that falls upon the ocean is so much thrown away. Myriads of seeds die without germinating. Not one blossom in a score develops itself in fruit, and the greater part of the fruit that forms never ripens. Flowers bloom in the wilderness, where no man passeth by. Down in the depths of the sea, which human eye never penetrated, beautiful groves of corals grow, and fishes glistening in silver and gold glide in and out among green and purple lichens, more delicate and graceful than the lily. Pearls, more precious than silver and gold, pebbles and shells whose coloring no art of man can equal, lie scattered there in wild profusion, —wasted, as it seems to us. Multitudes of living things, both on land and in the sea, just dart into being, to be at once swept away by the elements, or consumed by some other living thing. All kinds of fish feed upon each other; carnivorous beasts would die if they did not kill; no ravager can be more destructive than the gay bird that wakes us in the morning, and the poor insect is the common prey of all. At this very moment, attracted by the blaze of the lamp, a little winged creature lights upon my paper whose exquisite beauty no painter could ever copy, and whose perfect mechanism no artisan could reproduce, and yet I brush him carelessly away without the slightest feeling of remorse. It is true that the bugs and the beetles and the worms not unfrequently have their sweet revenge, as our blighted harvest fields can testify. Then, of the human beings that are born into the world, what an extraordinary proportion die before they have learned to know what life means—just uttering a cry or two, and then swept off out of sight forever! But, after all, what looks to us like waste in nature is only a marvellous profusion. There is no absolute destruction, only a change in the form of power, and in the application of matter to new uses. The earth weighs just what it did in the beginning. Even death is only one stage in the process of life. As soon as we begin to live we begin to die, and when, at last, the body crumbles altogether, it furnishes material to build up something else. There must be decomposition in order to recomposition. In nature all things travel in a circle. The beautiful objects which haunt the forest and the wilderness, or lie buried in the caverns of the ocean, may subserve some purpose of which we are ignorant, and it costs the almighty nothing to scatter them broadcast over the land and the sea. The premature departure of so many human beings is a great mystery, but it is in a great degree the fault of man, and in process of time will in a great degree be remedied, and it is a comfort to believe that the flower-bud which never opens here will expand and bloom and reach its maturity in the gardens of Paradise.

When we come into the domain of art we find that there is a certain amount of real waste. Science is beginning to teach us how we may economize power and material. No intelligent farmer or artisan will now expend his bodily strength in doing by hand what can be done so much better and with comparatively little labor by the aid of machinery. Many things that used to be cast away as rubbish are now utilized and made serviceable. We save a great deal of time by our improved modes of travel. The male sex do not expend as much time and toil upon their buckles and wigs and dress in general as their forefathers did—in which respect they are somewhat in advance of their wives and daughters. And yet there still exists a degree of waste, both of time and material, which needs to be rectified. Much valuable metal is carted off with the refuse slag, because we have not found out how to make clean work in our smelting. A great deal of valuable timber is lost in saw-dust. On certain chemical processes there is too much lost by evaporation. The smoke that hangs about our cities and defiles the buildings is only a waste of good carbon. We lose a good deal of cotton by bad baling. I am obliged to spend much more time in writing this paper than I should if all the superfluous letters were eliminated from our language. A great deal more could be put into a column of a paper if all the words were spelt as they are pronounced.

And now I pass on to speak of what may be called social waste. Here we find this element in its worst form. A great deal of breath is wasted in saying irrelevant things, in gossip and slander, and what is very appropriately known as "small talk." Much breath is wasted in public speaking, in long-winded periods, in stupid platitudes, in flowers of rhetoric that have neither color, nor perfume, nor grace of form, in wild appeals, exaggerated statements, perversions of the truth, in weary arguments to prove what either needs no proof or is incapable of being proved, in wandering up and down the wilderness of thought, where there is no road or path or land-mark, or anything but dry, drifting sand.

There is an awful waste of time in social life, wasted in doing nothing, or worse than nothing, in dawdling and lounging and sky-gazing, in waiting for "something to turn up," in hearing what is not worth hearing, and reading what is not worth reading, and in innumerable other ways which are familiar to us all.

Men waste a good deal of their substance. They do it in high living, which may really be very low living, in giving to unworthy objects, in stock speculations and risky investments of all sorts, in not keeping their accounts straight, in relying too much upon the fidelity of others, in insuring in bogus companies, in buying what they do not need, in holding on to their goods too long, in allowing their wares to deteriorate, in neglecting to keep things in proper repair, in foolish endorsing, and trying to help those who are too lazy or shiftless or stupid or ignorant to take care of themselves.

Men also waste their influence. They do this by enlisting in foolish causes and absurd schemes, by coming to rash decisions and acting accordingly, or by coming to no decision and so not acting at all, by some infelicity of manner or temper, or by the want of a proper moral balance. Nothing weakens a man's hold upon society so much as doubt of his intergrity. How many splendid intellects have been wasted because of a weak or a perverted conscience.

Happy Homes.

Few persons fully realize how essential a really happy home is to men—how strong a magnet is needed to draw them away from the temptations and pleasures of the world; equally few perhaps reflect what a grand thing it is, when home is the dearest spot on earth to the young husband or grown up son. Women have, comparatively speaking, little to draw them from their homes, and much to keep them there—house-keeping, children, needle-work, social duties, daily occupy their time. Men, on the contrary, have often much to entice them away, and little to attract them back sometimes; therefore it is for them that all true women should strive to make their homes cheerful and attractive. There are many men by nature cold and unobservant, some careless and indifferent, who seem to take no notice whether their homes are orderly or the reverse, who would rather dawdle in the most slatternly drawing-room of a neighbor than rest contentedly in their own—men who have no real idea of responsibility, regularity, or wholesome restraint, whose minds are always "staggering about;" but there are few, very few, who do not respect good qualities, even where they do not emulate or imitate them. There may be few men who are not so proud as they should be of pleasant, orderly, well-managed homes; but we feel certain that there are fewer still who are not ashamed of the reverse.—Cassell's Family Magazine.

Home Courtesies.

A writer in Harper's Bazar makes some excellent remarks concerning courtesy at home. Please listen, good people of the home circle. The placing of the arm-chair in a warm place for mamma, returning for a foot-stool for auntie, hunting for papa's spectacles, and a score of loving deeds, show unsurpassed and loving hearts. But if mamma never returns a smiling "Thank you, dear," if papa's "Just what I was wanting, Susie," does not indicate that the little attention is appreciated, the children soon drop the habit. Little people are imitative creatures, and quickly catch the spirit surrounding them. So, if mother's spool of cotton rolls from her lap, the father stoops to pick it up, bright eyes will see the act, and quick minds make a note of it. By example, a thousand times more quickly than by precept, children can be taught to speak kindly to each other, to acknowledge favors, to be gently unselfish, to be thoughtful and considerate to the comforts of the family. The boys, with inward pride of their father's courteous demeanor, will be chivalrous and helpful to their young sisters; the girls, imitating the mother, will be gentle and patient, even when big brothers are noisy and heedless. In the home, where true courtesy prevails, it seems to meet you on the very threshold. You feel the kindly welcome on entering. No rude eyes scan your dress. No angry voices are heard up stairs. No sullen children are sent from the room. A delightful atmosphere pervades the house—unmistakable, yet indescribable.

Miscellaneous.

Conversation calls out into light what has been lodged in the recesses and secret chambers of the soul. By occasional hints and incidents, it brings all useful notions into remembrance; it unfolds and displays the hidden treasure of knowledge with which reading, observation, and study, have before furnished the mind. By mutual discourse the soul is awakened and allured to bring forth its hoards of knowledge, and it learns how to render them most useful to mankind. A man of vast reading without conversation, is like a miser, who lives only for himself.

Be quiet in your deportment, girls; try and appear ladylike under all circumstances. Perhaps you think it quite the correct thing to talk loudly and coarsely, to be boisterous in all public places; to make yourself so bold and forward and commonplace everywhere, that people wonder if you ever had a mother, or home, or anything to do. So be it. You will probably be taken for what you are worth, and one of these years, if you do not make worse than shipwreck of yourself, you will begin to wonder where the charms are that you once thought yourself possessed of, and what evil spirit could have so fooled you. Go on, but remember that cheap girls attract nobody but fools and rascals.

Girls, will you listen to a few words of advice? Do not marry if you cannot find a suitable husband, for a bad husband is infinitely worse than none. Never marry a fellow who is ashamed to carry a bundle; who lies in bed until breakfast, and until his father has opened his shop or office, and swept it out; who frequents taverns, bowling saloons, prize fights, &c.; who owes his tailor, shoemaker, washerwoman, jeweller, barber, printer and landlady, and never pays his debts; who is always talking about his acquaintances, and condemning them; whose tongue is always running about nonsense, who thinks he is the greatest man in the neighborhood, and yet whom every one despises and shuns. We say never marry a fellow with all or any of these qualifications, no matter how handsome he is, or how agreeable he can make himself on occasion. He will make a bad husband.

Man, with all his boasted strength of mind, needs womanly love and sympathy. It is not as a worker alone that he wants a wife. If this is all he needs, hired help can do it cheaper than a wife. If this is all, when a young man calls to see a lady, send him into the pantry to taste the bread and cake she has made; then send him to inspect the needle-work and bed-making, or put a broom in the young lady's hand and send him to witness its use. Such things are important, and the wise young man will quickly look after them; but what the true man wants with a wife is her companionship, sympathy and love. He needs a helper in spirit—a true, faithful heart on which his world tossed nature can rest. Through storms and sunshine, through conflict and victory, through adverse and through favoring winds, man needs a woman's love. His heart yearns for it. A sister's or a mother's love will hardly supply the need. Yet many seek for nothing further than success in housework. Justly enough, half of these get nothing more; the other half, surprised beyond measure, have gotten more than they sought.

He has mastered all things who has combined the useful with the agreeable.

A man should live with his superiors as he does with his fire—not too near, lest he burn; not too far off, lest he freeze.

Every man has waited a whole century to be born, and now has a whole eternity waiting to see what he will do when born.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, NOV. 16.

House of Industry.

The establishment of an institution in which paupers may be properly cared for, and those of them who are able, obliged to contribute towards the expenses incurred in supporting them, by performing a certain amount of labor, is a project which from time to time has engaged attention in this County. Some years ago, it was pronounced upon adversely by the people, but as we believe that judgment was the result rather of a momentary prejudice rather than of well considered disapproval, we should like to see the scheme taken up again, fully matured and discussed, and then pronounced upon by the people. We are led to the conclusion that the establishment of such an institution, if properly gone about, would be not alone a pecuniary saving to the minor municipalities, but a humane and Christian work, benefitting not alone the ratepayers but the unfortunate poor who are unable to provide for themselves, by the experience of other Counties in which such institutions have been established. These reflections are induced by a perusal of the annual report for 1877-8 of the Inspector of the County of Elgin House of Industry, a synopsis of which shows that the average expense per week for each inmate, including interest on cost of farm and buildings and improvements, has been only seventy-five cents; this is without taking into consideration the board of hired help and family of keeper. The expense of running the Institution the past year amounted to $1,730, against $1,457.80 to Nov., 1877, an increase of about $300. This advance is attributable to the fact that the average number of inmates has been much greater, being 39 in 76-77, and 42 in 77-78.

The following will show the number admitted, etc., from Nov. 1, '77, to Nov. 1, '78.

Number in House at last report	39
Admitted during the year	40
Born in the House	3
Deaths	6
Children sent out on trial	2
Bound out	2
Absconded	3
Discharged during the year	39
Now in House	42

The number of inmates admitted from the several municipalities in the county during the year is as follows:—Aldborough, 1; Dunwich, 1; Southwold, 4; Malahide, 22; Yarmouth, 10; South Dorchester, 3; Bayham, 4; Aylmer, 4; Vienna, 2; born in House, 3; total 43.

The Surgeon's report for the year ending the 31st October, showed that 65 visit had been made. The dates, names and ages, and the causes of death were as follows:—Nov. 10, Albert McCormick, 77 years, tumour; May 22, Lucy Ann Wedge, 78, cholera morbus; April 30, Peter Johnson, 94, old age; May 14, Sylvester Balcom, 78, paralysis; Aug. 25, L. P. Hakes, 52, typhoid fever; Oct. 28, Ann Storey 62, pneumonia. The report went on to state that but little sickness has prevailed during the year. There had been but a few intermittent or chill fever patients, but only one case of typhoid, and this was contracted outside the Institute, the patient dying only three days after admission.

Let any one acquainted with the subject ask himself if the cost of maintaining the persons dependent on the bounty of the municipalities is not more than 75 cents per head per week, and then let the condition of the aged and deserving paupers under the present state of affairs be contrasted with what it is in a House of Industry, where they would be properly fed, clothed and provided for, and we venture to say that the latter plan of maintaining the unfortunate indigents will excite a sufficient degree of compassion to create a strong feeling in favor of caring for them systematically.

The project which was rejected by the ratepayers of this County provided for the joint participation of the then Town of Belleville in the undertaking; but if that provision was the cause of its defeat, the County alone might take the matter up, and if the people decided in its favor the City could be allowed to send inmates to the institution at a certain rate per head. By this means certainly the City could not get the best of the bargain, whilst the total expenditure for the maintenance of the poor would be reduced, the paupers themselves would be benefited, and the Councils and officials of the minor municipalities would be relieved from a vast amount of trouble which they now have to undergo in connection with poor relief and the nuisance of individual appeals for charity would be greatly abated, if not altogether abolished.

For these reason then, we hope that during the coming year the matter will again be taken up and a definite verdict obtained from the people. Or perhaps it might be better if the Local Loglislature were to make compulsory the establishment of a House of Industry in each County.

North Hastings.

(From the Madoc Review)

B. & N. H. Railway.—We understand the rails are now laid to within a mile or two of Eldorado, and the ballasting is also being pushed on as rapidly as the nature of the work will permit.

Free Fair.—The fair held here yesterday was in some respects a success. Buyers were present from Belleville, Canifton, and other places, and a large number of cattle were offered for sale, but the majority were in poor condition, consequently, prices were low, and fewer sales made than otherwise would have been. However, a large number changed hands, getting their fingers on some hard cash being the main object of many having animals to dispose of. Mr. H. Corby, Jr., was a havy purchaser, having bought about thirty head here yesterday, as well as being in the back townships for some days past buying. Farmers and others having stock to dispose of at these fairs, and expecting high prices, should endeavor to have them in good condition, and then buyers will be found both ready and willing to purchase them at their full value.

Village Improvements.—We have heard some people say the village of Madoc was at a standstill, but we are happy to point out that such is not the case. Signs of increasing prosperity are to be seen on every side, and, we believe, this will be even more marked when the railway is in regular running order. The vacant houses are being rapidly engaged, scarcely one is to be found at present unoccupied. Quite a number of new houses have gone up during the past year, and many more are contemplated for next year, while a great many additions and substantial improvements have been made to those already exhisting. All this argues well for the advancement of our village, and all that is required to show it ahead is a little push and enterprise on the part of those who have its welfare at heart, and who expect to share in its prosperity. Madoc has a brilliant future before it if her citizens but act their parts well.

A Train on Fire.

THREE PERSONS BURNED TO DEATH—NUMBERS WOUNDED.

St. John, N. B., Nov. 15.

The accident last evening on the New Brunswick Railway, narrow gauge, was one of the most serious that every happened in the Province. The scene of the disaster, Peel, is about six miles below Florenceville, and about eighty miles above Fredericton.

One of the passengers by the ill-fated train gives the following account of the accident: "It was the up train. There were about twenty persons on board, including Conductor Yerxa. The train was going at a moderate rate of speed. As we reached Peel, suddenly there was a shock. The train had jumped the track, and we found that the passenger car was rolling down one of the worst embankments on the whole line. All was excitement. The car had almost reached the water's edge, when it was discovered that it had caught fire. The alarm of everybody was now very great, as it was feared that none would be able to escape from the burning car. The flames spread rapidly. Men took off their coats and tried to extinguish the fire, but it was no use. The flames had completo possession, and leaped from seat to seat, driving the passengers almost crazy. The clothes of most of those on board soon caught fire, and as the parties rushed from one part of the car to another the scene was indeed terrible. A little boy who had managed to keep clear of the flames, long after the clothing of many of the other passengers had caught fire, several times, in his anxiety for the safety of some of his friends, rushed into the flames, and was so badly burned that he only lived a short time. The car had been badly wrecked before it caught fire, and in the descent many passengers were badly hurt. The name of the child that was burned to death is unknown. There was one woman in the car who lost her life. She had been badly hurt before the car caught fire, and was unable to battle with the flames. Her body was so badly burned that only her bones could be seen when we escaped from the car. Some persons gave her name as Mrs. Cunningham, but this report was afterwards contradicted. Mr. Hacker was the third person who lost his life by the disaster. He belonged to Fort Fairfield, and is said to have been a much respected gentleman.

THE KILLED AND WOUNDED.

Among those who were burned and otherwise injured are Mr. Hacker, Fort Fairfield, killed outright; an unknown woman, burned to death; a child, name unknown, burned to daeth; Mr. Yerxa, conductor, injured, not fatally; James Turner, A. Kenny, Charles Phillips, John Lovely, James Montgomery, R. M. Dow, brakesman, A.D. Clark, express agent and news agent, R. Raymond and John Hamilton. Most of these injured will recover. One man was badly burned about the face and hands, another had his arm broken and head badly cut, and another was fearfully burned about the body and legs.

LATER.

Woodstock, N. B., Nov. 15.—Nothing but the bones of the killed remain. It is now definitely know that about thirteen persons were injured. A Mrs. Leslie, of Grand Falls, and Mr. Perry, of Fort Fairfield, are since died of injuries received. Several other of the wounded are in a low state, and cannot recover. An inquest is being held.

"Disgraceful."

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—Permit me to correct several particulars of your report in yesterday's paper of the disturbance in St. John's Church on Wednesday evening last, which, being erroneous, have led you to suppose the conduct of those who overcrowded the sacred building to have been much worse than it really was.

There was no such violence displayed as you describe; no "windows were broken;" no "church warden was assaulted;" the ceremony was not "repeatedly interrupted." From my seat in the chancel, where I awaited the bridal party, I saw the Churchwardens vainly endeavoring to quell the noise of two hundred tongues in vigorous exercise, and to induce the people to sit down. They were so packed together, however, that they could not sit down. Occasionally as some one would slip on the varnished seat or be crowded off there would be a laugh in the neighborhood. When the bridal party arrived the noise for the moment increased, but subsided after I had read the first sentence of the office, and stillness prevailed until the ceremony was ended.

Upon the whole, while undoubtedly there was unseemly behavior on the part of the crowd of young people present, yet in justice to them it must be said that they were not riotous or outrageous, not even, I think, guilty of intentional misconduct.

I am, yours truly,

R. S. Forsbel.

Belleville, Nov. 15, 1878.

[Note.—The above is certainly an extraordinary epistle, being neither more nor less than an attempt by a clergyman to excuse rowdyism in the church of which he is pastor. The Rev. gentleman is, however, no contradictory in his assertions as to defeat his object, and to demonstrate that the scene was a disgraceful one, and our strictures fully warranted. The information supplied to us may have been inaccurate as to the breaking of the windows, and the alleged assault on a churchwarden; but further inquiry develops the fact that inside and outside of the church there was an uproar so loud that it was heard by persons near the lower bridge. As to the ceremony not being interrupted, we have spoken with the Mayor, Alderman Geen (one of the churchwardens) and others, and they agree in stating that the ceremony was interrupted,—that Mr. Geen, after having previously to its commencement commented forcibly on the uproar, arose after the office had been begun, threatened that the police should be sent for, and asked the Mayor to assist in restoring order. The Mayor, upon being thus requested, addressed a few words to the audience, characterizing their conduct as "disgraceful", and after this the ceremony proceeded without interruption to the end. The result of the whole matter is—and this tends further to overturn Mr. Forneri's statements—that the Churchwardens declare that the church shall not hereafter be made the scene of a promiscuous assemblage at a wedding. We regret that the Rev. gentleman should have shown so captious a spirit in endeavoring to criticise remarks which were made in the interests of St. John's Church and of public order and decency, and to appear as the apologist of rowdyism and conduct properly characterized in these columns, which would be deemed disgraceful anywhere, but more especially in an edifice consecrated to Divine worship.—Ed. Intelligencer.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Warlike Preparations in Afghanistan.

HOSTILITIES EXPECTED ON THE 20TH.

Indian newspapers state that all camels arriving at Quettah are detained to be used in an advance, if necessary. All officers on leave have been finally recalled. The Commander-in-Chief, who is at Bamulpindee, appears to be certain that hostilities will commence on the 20th inst. The Ameer has withdrawn two regiments from Candahar, and has ordered the Governor of the Pisheen valley, near Quetta, not to resist the British advance.

A despatch from Thull states that the Afghanistanas are rapidly massing on the hills commanding the Ghuznee and Cabul roads.

A Berlin despatch reports that measures have been taken to increase the Russian army in time of war by 632 battalions.

A despatch from Peath says:—Schouvaloff's mission marks a change in the policy of Russia, which was previously disposed to strain her rights under the treaty of Berlin. The change is due either to the general alarm of Europe, to Berlin, or to domestic affairs. It is noted that when Ghortschakoff merely desired to go to Livadia he was informed that it was unnecessary.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

New York, Nov. 16.—The Tribune gives a letter from a prominent citizen of Charleston, S. C., detailing the alleged arrest and maltreatment of Deputy United States Marshal Keith for showing his commission and attempting to witness the count on election day.

The Sun says the President has decided, as arbitrator between Paraguay and the Argentine Republic in relation to the right of the Argentine troops to hold El Chase, a province lying across the Paraguayan river from Ascension, by giving the disputed territory to Paraguay.

Samuel Barthelf, proprietor of the Summerside Hotel at Guttenberg, N. J., a week ago was bitten on the lip by a pet dog, on Monday he exhibited symptoms of hydrophobia, and died last night.

The reported arrest of a burglar supposed to be implicated in the Manhattan bank robbery is now denied. In a special Dilks says the police are morally certain that they know who the robbers are, but he thought if arrested it would be difficult to secure strong testimony against them.

There is great excitement at Long Branch over the death of Benjamin Woodly, apparently from yellow fever. Yesterday a despatch rom Norfork announced the death of Jos. Woodly, a son of the deceased, from yellow fever. This is the fourth sudden death in the Woodly family in seven months.

The Uncas Rubber Co., has failed. Liabilities $45,000.

The will of Miss Miranda Wood, of Brooklyn, who died on the 20th of June, leaving her property to Henry Ward Beecher and H. C. Bowen for the purpose of establishing a seminary in this state for negroes, will be contested by Hezekiah Webb and William and Margaret Hulo, of Orange County, the three next of kin.

The Tribune says it is rumored on Wall St., that prominent capitalists are organizing a new Telegraph Company. Among those mentioned as engaged in the enterprise are Jay Gould, Frank Work and Russel Sage. It is proposed to organize a Company with $10,000,000, one half to be employed in building new lines and the other half to be represented by telegraph lines now operated by the Pennsylvania, Philadelphia & Reading, Baltimore & Ohio and the Erie Companies.

It was officially announced yesterday that the modified petition for the division of the Wester Union stock was being signed, providing for the division of the six million Western Union in the Treasury without issue of any additional stock, this would make the capital stock $41,500,000.

The Tribune denies the alleged discovery of the Stewart burkers as a sensational story, while the other morning papers report it as truth.

The World says that the detectives have traced the robbers until every act is known. The robbers entered the grave yard on Thursday morning at 3:17, breaking into the vault and securing the remains occupied an hour, and the men who did work inside the graveyard and vault turned over the remains to the other men waiting outside. The robbers then went in one direction and those having possession of the body went directly to the North River and thence across into New Jersey. It was then deposited near Weehawken but since has been moved. One of the men engaged in the robbery was the one who entered the vault and whose name is known, has for sometime been employed in the Weehawken cemetery, he was present at Stewart's funeral and saw the body deposited. He thus had full knowledge of the location.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 16.—Some roughs at Mount Vernon attacked the colored porters who accompanied the Evansville Light Guards to that place on Thursday night. The military prepared to meet the mob, when the latter withdrew.

BELLEVILLE, SATUDAY, NOV. 16.

City and Vicinity.

LAID UP.—The steamer Kincardine has been stripped and finally laid up for the season.

COUNTY COURT.—The next meeting of the County Court and General Sessions of the Peace will commence on Tuesday, December 10th.

GRAIN MARKET.—Barley is lower to-day, 75c being paid for No. 1 and 55c for No. 2. Rye remains steady at 45c; Wheat 75c to 80c; Peas 55c; Oats 32c to 33c.

COAL.—Several cargoes of coal have lately been received and others are reported to arrive, which will increase the import to an extent considerably beyond that of last year.

CLOAK ROOM.—For the accommodation of ladies who attend the concert on Tuesday night a cloak room will be opened in the Opera House under the charge of responsible parties.

SMALL-POX AT NAPANEE.—The Mill Point Echo says :—"A man by the name of Bartles died of smallpox in Napanee on Wednesday. His wife is now down with the same disease."

HAULED OUT.—All the yachts, except three, have been hauled out, and two of those still in the water will be taken out within a few days. The Dauntless, which is still afloat, may possibly be rebuilt during the winter.

ST. THOMAS' CHURCH.—The Building Committee met last night and, after consideration of the tenders, which were for the roofing of the building, the windows and the doors, resolved to accept the tender of Messrs. Northcott & Alford.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY.—No business was transacted at the meeting of this Society last night, the attendance being small. The meeting adjourned until Thursday evening next, when the officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

GRAIN EXPORTS.—The exports of grain so far this year exceed the total of last year. Should navigation remain open until the last of the present month, the exports from Belleville harbor (exclusive of out ports) will exceed 400,000 bushels.

THE BAY STEAMERS.—The Hastings has lately been making only three trips per week. The City of Belleville, the Utica and the Flight continue their regular trips, and all seem to be doing a fair amount of business.

FIRE IN HUBBERFORD.—A correspondent writes from Tweed as follows :—A fire occurred on the morning of the 14th inst., about 8 o'clock, in a straw stack belonging to Mr. Adam Wilson, on lot 16, in the 7th concession. Before anything could be done to stop its progress the barn and sheds were in flames, causing their total destruction with their contents, consisting of wheat, peas, oats, rye, barley and corn, with a large quantity of hay, likewise a good many farming implements. The total loss is not less than $2,000. No insurance. It is not known how the fire originated.

IN WINTER QUARTERS.—The steamers Empress of India and Picton have gone into winter quarters at Picton.

COUNTY COUNCIL.—This body concluded a lengthy session at noon to-day and adjourned sine die.

COURT OF REVISION.—The Court of Revision for this city has concluded the revision of the assessment for 1879.

THANKSGIVING.—The 4th of December has been appointed as a general day of thanksgiving throughout the Dominion for the abundant harvest and the many blessings of the past season. The proclamation will doubtless be universally observed.

AN AGED COUPLE.—Mr. Thomas Garratt, of Wellington, and wife recently celebrated the 64th anniversary of their marriage. There are few, if any, couples in Canada who have been longer married than Mr. Garratt and wife.

THE STREETS.—A considerable force of men has been engaged for some days past in breaking up the large stones that had been laid on some of the streets, concerning which complaint was made some time ago. Front Street would also be much the better of some repairs.

RAILWAY CASE.—The Prince Edward Railway Company has filed a bill in Chancery against Mr. McDonald, of Gananoque who claims to hold certain stock in the road under an old agreement. The case will probably come up for hearing in Toronto on the 18th of this month.

THE MARKET.—The market to-day was probably the most numerously attended of any during the season. The square was filled to overflowing, and part of Pinnacle Street was filled with farmers' vehicles. There was a large supply of provisions of all kinds.

A MUTE PUNISHED.—The Brantford Courier of Thursday, says :—"A deaf mute named Culbert, who escaped from the Belleville Institute some time ago, was arrested by Chief Griffiths this morning for beating his mother. He was committed by the Police Magistrate, James Weyms, Esq., today to two months in gaol.

MASQUERADING.—We are informed that a young man was masquerading on the streets last night dressed in female attire, and behaved himself with anything but propriety in his strange attire. Should he repeat his folly and fall into the hands of the police, he will be apt to learn that the law provides a heavy punishment for masquerading of the character in question.

MILITARY.—The inspection of Nos. 1 and 4 Companies of the 49th Battalion will take place on Wednesday evening next, 20th inst., when Col. Straubenzie, D. A. G., will be present. The members of the same companies will have a church parade on the afternoon of Sunday, 24th inst., when they will proceed to St. Michael's Church, where a sermon will be preached by the Rev. James Farrelly, V. G.

OPERA HOUSE. — The performance of "Camille" by Miss Blye and her company at the Opera House last night was much the same in character as that of Romeo and Juliet on the night previous. Miss Blye gave the finest rendition of the part of the heorine ever seen here, her delineation being marked by excellence throughout. Mr. Brian's Armand Duval was also a good performance, whilst the minor characters were not remarkable for the ability with which they were filled.

PRINCE EDWARD RAILWAY.—Operations are being pushed on vigorously at the Trenton end, and twelve miles in all has been graded. About two miles more will be completed this month. Under the agreement with the County one third of the line had to be graded this Fall. The road is to be thirty miles long. The people of Hillier having offered strong inducements, it is now stated that the route will be from Wellington by way of Pleasant Valley to Consecon, instead of through Melville to Consecon, as at first arranged.

CHRIST CHURCH.—A largely attended meeting of the Vestry of this Church was held last night, at which, after a lengthy discussion, the following resolution was passed :—"That in view of the fact that the Rev. Mr. Des Brisay had expressed in a letter to the Vestry that he would accept the call provided his Lordship the Bishop would appoint him, and as the Bishop had appointed the Rev. Dr. Clarke, that this Vestry accept the nominee of the Bishop." The Rev. gentleman, who was present, will enter upon his duties at once, and will officiate to-morrow, morning and evening.

MONEY RECOVERY.—The Kingston News says : "Mr. Barker, Post Office Inspector, returned home this morning from the backwoods, where he had been in search of the money stolen by Warren Godfrey. He succeeded in finding $150, which was hidden under a heavy hemlock log within a mile and a half of the Post Office. It required a long and diligent search to find the money. Another sum of $105 is still hidden and will no doubt be found, but owing to ice and uncontrollable circumstances it had to be left in the meantime. The money found has been handed over to Mr. B. Watkins. Mr. Barker says he had an awful time searching for the cash."

THE ROZE-MAPLESON OPERATIC COMBINATION.—One of the greatest treats which the music loving population of Belleville has ever had will be given on Tuesday evening, when the famous Roze-Mapleson Operatic Combination will appear in a grand concert in the Opera House. Of Mme. Roze-Mapleson, prima donna of the company, the New York Herald says :—"Mlle. Mario Roze is an artist of the very best school, and a handsome woman. Her voice is delicious, the middle notes rich, full and mellow, the upper tones clear and round to the top of her compass. Her method is admirable. In person Mlle. Roze is commanding. Her figure is well moulded, and for lovely arms and "shapely silver shoulders" she could vie with Faustina Jupperatrix. Her face is really beautiful. Large, dark, expressive eyes, a Grecian nose, a mobile mouth and a rounded chin are the details of a countenance over which her art makes the passions and emotions play at will. In Mario Roze we have a very fine actress, and a highly gifted singer." The following famous artists, in addition to the Prima Donna, comprise the company ; Mr. Tom Karl, tenor ; Mr. W. T. Carleton, bartone ; Mr. Mark Kaiser, violinist ; Alfred H. Pease, pianist ; Mr. George W. Colby, Musical Conductor. It is to the enterprise of the Messrs. Reynolds, who have engaged them at heavy expense, that the appearance here of this really first class combination is due, and we trust that their venture will be so successful as to encourage them to similar enterprise in the future. Seats are on sale at Messrs. Reynolds', at $2,00, $1,50 and $1,00, according to location.

BOARD OF EDUCATION V. COLEMAN.—In the Court of Common Pleas, Toronto, before Mr. Justice Gwynne on the 16th, judgment by Mr. Justice Gall. Rule discharged with costs. The effect of this judgment is that the award is sustained.

WEST HASTINGS ELECTION PETITION.—In Common Law-Chambers, Toronto, on the 15th, Mr. Cameron, Q.C., obtained an order to strike out the first, second, and fourth preliminary objections of the respondent, and that the third objection be argued before the Court of Common Pleas next term.

Seasonable Topics.

If you want to increase your business 100 per cent, advertise in the DAILY and WEEKLY INTELLIGENCER.

The music of the sleigh-bells will soon be heard in the land, if there be any truth in the prognostications of weather prophets, who say that we are going to have a severe fall of snow.

Business men can have their cards inserted in 5,000 Almanacs, which will be extensively and judiciously circulated throughout the counties of Hastings and Prince Edward, for only $4.00. Leave your orders at the INTELLIGENCER Office.

The INTELLIGENCER office is supplied with the finest assortment of type to be found in any place east of Toronto, and with fast presses and superior workmen, can turn out work equal to any other establishment. Call and inspect samples and prices.

Rusty stovepipe may be made to look nearly as good as new by simply rubbing it over with a bit of cloth moistened with sweet oil. By coating the entire pipe, joints which are unlike in appearance will be made uniform and display a nice lustre.

The INTELLIGENCER has the largest circulation of any paper in Central Ontario and is consequently the best medium for advertising.

For twenty-five cents you can advertise in the INTELLIGENCER, a house to let, lot for sale, servant wanted, board and lodging, &c. In nine case out of ten, the advertisement is successful.

An exchange talks about "why people go to church." Some go from habit, some to see the people, some to hear the singing, and some to hear the preaching. The wise reporters take in the whole thing.

"Give a young man plenty of cigars and wine and a fast horse, and Satan quits looking after that young man, only giving orders for his reception when he arrives at the end of his journey." Talmage has been down to see.

The latter stated that they did not think it proper to engage in any discussion on the question of management of trade for 72 nuleas the Lehigh Valley Coal Company, as well as all other interests represented. They offered the present arrangement until April 1st instead of January 1st, or to such intermediate date as may be necessary to obtain full information and authority to act and in the meantime they will be willing to meet and confer with the Lehigh Valley Committee, whenever the latter have full authority to submit any proposition for next year, it being understood that any arrangement for next year shall date from January 1st, 1879. Why Longer Remain Fat?

Obesity was considered by the ancients as evidence of corpulence. Even yet the slim forms of the Grecian goddesses are regarded as models of female beauty. Corpulence is now held to be a disease, and Allan's Anti-Fat has fully demonstrated it to be curable. The Anti-Fat chemically neutralizes in the stomach all glucose, saccharine, and oleaginous substances, thus preventing the formationof fat Its use insures a loss of from two to five pounds per week. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. Sold by druggists.

THE CHALLENGE SALE.

IS determined to rule the Clothing Trade in Belleville. We are in shape to do it, for we buy every dollar's worth of Goods for Cash, and buy each and every line of Goods where they can be got the cheapest. Every Merchant in Belleville advertises to sell the cheapest goods in his line—and for some time back one of our contemporaries has been trying to throw down the gauntlet to crush the smaller brethren in the trade, on whose behalf we take it up, and raise the old war cry, "Come on, MacDuff." Owing to our largely increased trade we purchased a mammoth Fall Stock. We have in fact as much and more Ready-made Clothing as all the other Clothing houses put together,—all new this Fall, and selected with great care by one of the best buyers in Ontario.

We have Men's heavy Grey Overcoats for $4.00. Do. Working Pants for $1.25. Men's Worsted Diagonal Pants and Vests, $4.00.

We don't defy competition, but we undersell it.

SUMMER'S DONE.

Thinner the leaves of the larches show,
Motionless hold in the hedges the sere;
Faster by waysides the sweet briars grow,
Wide blooms laying their gold hearts bare,
Languishing one by one;
Summer is almost gone.

Deeper hued roses have long since died;
Silent the birds through the white mist dry;
Down of the thistles, by hot sun tried,
Covers with pale fleece vines growing high;
Little brooks calmer run;
Summer is almost done.

Later the flash of the sunrise sweeps,
Shortening the reign of the slow coming day;
Earlier shade of the twilight creeps,
Over the swallows' skimming way;
Crickets their notes have begun;
Summer is almost done.

Darkened to morning the sad colored beech,
Empty the nests in its purple boughs lie;
Something elusive we never can reach
Deepens the glory of days gone by;
Aftermath lies in the sun;
Summer is almost done.

Child! why regret that the summer must go?
Earlier than this it has come to an end,
Lives that are earnest more beautiful grow
Out of a childhood in beauty begun.
Harvest of gain can be won,
Only—when summer is done.

Immovably Immovable.

(From the New York World.)

The nephew was the typical nephew of the comedies and novels the uncle the typical uncle. The former got himself into debt, the latter had to help him out of debt. But the most long-suffering men must at last lose patience, and one fine day the uncle writes to his dear nephew that he is over between them. Not another penny. The nephew dies down to his uncle's country seat and falls at his venerable relative's gouty feet.

"Uncle Peter, dear Uncle Peter, just this once. Aid me to straighten out this my snarl in my finances, and I will never come to you again."

"O Roland, I know you too well. My sister's son—my only sister's son," says the old man, wiping away a furtive tear.

"Ah! your heart is touched; you will assist me once more!" says the young man.

"Listen," said his aged relative; "have you a rule?"

"A which?"

"A rule—a foot-rule."

"Why should I have one? I ain't a carpenter."

"Go and find one immediately."

The young man, puzzled but hopeful, goes, and at the end of half an hour returns and says:—"Uncle, dear, here is the foot-rule."

"Very well; measure this room, length, breadth, and height, so as to ascertain its cubic dimensions."

The young man, more puzzled than ever, sets to work about his task, and at length makes his report.

"Uncle, the room contains 3,040 cubic feet."

"You are sure of that?"

"Absolutely."

"Very well," says the old gentleman rising to his feet and speaking in a tone of thunder; "and now, sir, if this room, which contains 3,040 cubic feet, were filled with double-eagles packed so tightly that you couldn't cram, you cram a three-cent piece into it, I wouldn't give you a penny. Git!"

Starting a Boy.

(Detroit Free Press.)

A lonesome-looking boy was yesterday hanging around a wood-yard in the northern part of the city, when the owner of the yard, observing both charity and philanthropy for boys with tears in their eyes, asked the lad why he didn't peddle apples or do something to earn a few shillings. The boy replied that he had no capital, and the wood-yard man took out a nickel and said:

"Now, my boy, I'm going to start you in life. Take this nickel and go and make a purchase of something or other, and I'll buy it of you for 10 cents, no matter what it is. Come, now, let's see the sort of a business head you have on you."

The boy took the nickel and went off, but in ten minutes was back with a gallon jug which he had purchased with the nickel.

"Well, you are a keener," replied the man. "I never saw one of those sold for less than 15 cents to any one. I want such a jug, and here's a fair price. Go, now, and lay out your 15 cents in apples, and I'll buy half your stock at that."

The boy did not return. Perhaps he fell into a sewer somewhere; but you can't make the wood-yard man believe so. When he lifted the jug from under the table where the boy had carefully placed it he found a hole in the bottom large enough to let in a black-and-tan terrier.

Wit and Humor.

"So you don't use cards in North Carolina!" The "tarheel" laughed outright. "Lor' a-massy! no!" he exclaimed. "Why, we ride up to a feller's fence and holler to him to tie his dog, and then we 'light and go in."

"I should just like to see somebody try to abduct me," said Mrs. Smith at the breakfast table the other morning. "H'm! so should I, my dear—so should I," said Mr. Smith, with exceeding sarcastic force.

He was a countryman and he walked along our busy thoroughfare and read a sign over the door of a manufacturing establishment, "Cast Iron Sinks." It made him mad. He said that any fool ought to know that.

Editors like brevity; but a man who was recently hanged in Indiana suited them too well. He made no remarks about heaven, but nodded to the preacher and said, "I'll see you later," and then the trap fell.

Two sisters conversing about a concert which had taken place, the younger of the two, who had been present, was asked if Miss X—, one of the singers, was encored. Her useful fancy must have been drawn in another direction, for she replied, "O, no; she was in velvet."

At a recent marriage in a suburban town, the bridegroom, when asked the important question if he would take the lady for better or for worse, replied, in a hesitating manner: "Well, I think I will." Upon being told that he must be more positive in his declaration, he answered: "Well I don't care if I do."

A member of a church being particular about the new minister, is said to have prayed aloud at the late meeting of the Kirk elders, "and Sandy as not an old man in his dotage, nor a young man in his gosling's hood, but a man with all the modern improvements."

Good advice.—Old lady—to tourist who is growling over his "corne"—"An' do ye no try anything for them?" Tourist—"Oh, yes I've tried lots o'things!" Old lady—"Ye should gang to some o' the cornopeans; maybe they could cure them for ye."

A New Stove.

A fat citizen having in view the purchase of a new coal stove, was yesterday standing in front of a hardware store, when a newsboy halted and respectfully said:

"I suppose you've seen the new stove—the one that heats 'em all?"

"I don't know that I have," was the calm reply.

"You orter see it, sir. They are always talkin' 'bout how those stoves which save ten per cent. of fuel, and now they have got one."

"Have, eh!"

"Yes'r; I saw this one going the other day, hot 'nuff to bake an ox, and it didn't burn any coal at all—not even a pound."

"Is that possible? Didn't burn any coal at all?"

"Not an ounce, an' it was throwin' out an awful heat."

"Well, that beats me. I don't see how they got the heat."

"They burned wood, sir!" was the triumphant reply.

The man tried to coax the boy within reach, but the lad had to go to the post office.—Detroit Free Press.

An Intesting War.

The following letter explains itself:

Dear Doctor—You did a good turn for me once; you saved my life. To be sure you left me minus a leg in doing it—but life is sweet even with but one foot to hobble through the world with. It was down at——; it was a bloody day but a glorious one! You remember how—but I beg pardon, I always forgot myself when I get to talking about those old times. This is what I want to tell you: One morning last week I awoke feeling very strange. For a long time my liver had been rebellious, but I had anticipated no trouble. But that morning I discovered that my stomach had joined in the revolt, and a lively skirmish was being carried on, that threatened to end in a hard battle. The forces were divided, the left wing and rear in confusion, and all seemed hopeless till, suddenly, like one of those flashing orders of Grant, came the command—"Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets;" and a courier was immediately dispatched for them. Now, what I want to say is this, I feel like a volunteer, who has just received his commision, or, better still, as well as Grant did when he held Lee's sword. And I want to advise all who suffer from a rebellious liver and stomach to "fight it out on this line," and they will surely be victorious. AN OLD VET.

Are Fat People Healthy?

Why are fat people always complaining? asks some one who entertains the popular though erroneous notion that health is synonymous with fat. Fat people complain because they are diseased. Obesity is an abnormal condition of the system, in which the saccharine and oleaginous elements of the food are assimilated to the partial exclusion of the muscle-forming and brain-producing elements. In proof of this, it is only necessary to assert the well-known fact that excessively fat people are never strong, and seldom distinguished for mental power and activity. Besides, they are the easy prey of acute and epidemic diseases, and they are the frequent victims of gout, heart disease, and apoplexy. Allan's Anti-Fat is the only known remedy for this disease. It contains no acid, is absolutely harmless, and is warranted to remedy the most confirmed case of obesity, or corpulency.

"Cheese it" is a corruption of "Don't give it a whey."

"An early winter, a surly winter," reads and old proverb.

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing wherever it has been. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists. d&w

In this Present Age, when the life-battle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the strongest the tug and stress of it tell so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for the building up of our constitutional stock of mental and physical stamina by the use of such a nerve-tonic and vitalizing agent as ROBINSON'S PATENT GRANULAR EFFERVESCENT LIVER OIL WITH LACTO-PHOSPATE OF LIME! Its gently stimulating and nutritive-tonic properties act on the arterial, and nervous Nature in her efforts to keep up with the exhaustive demands upon her reserves. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemist, London, Eng." d&w

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1860, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. Many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the Intelligencer Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directory, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to the community.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. Hints will be given.

Classified Business Directory

of the Trades and Professions of the County of Belleville. A short abstract of the Act of Incorporation and City By-laws, and of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporations, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridge-water, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this project will increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to cement more closely these business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURG, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any book hitherto preseded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz.: One page, $10.00; half-page, $6.00; quarter page, $4.00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that no more studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to make it a credit to the progressing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

March, 1878.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Don't who can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Protect your property and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge" of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

CONTINUED.

Mr. Flint said these debentures were as safe in the hands of the Council as well as in those of Trustees. In the interests of the county these debentures should not be given over until the road was satisfactorily completed and the Council was satisfied the work was properly done. He had heard that the fencing posts were driven in the ground six or eight inches, whilst the grading was deficient. If the Company had acted in good faith the results would have been different. After many promises the road was not yet done, though it had been stipulated that it should be completed by the first of the month.

Mr. Cross said we would fill our measure of the law when we handed the debentures over to the Trustees, who would not deliver them over till the road was finished according to law. What we should do now was to give the Warden the instructions asked for, as the Company could compel us to issue the debentures.

Mr. Francis favored the holding of the debentures by this Council.

Mr. White said a little charity should be extended to this Company, as the road was built through the worst section of the County, and over a most difficult section, and it had cost a large sum of money to its promoters with all the difficulties the Company had to contend with,—yet there was no road but what was deficient at first. This Company and the road should be encouraged and assisted, and whilst we can be just let us also be generous. A large sum of money was spent amongst us, and we should encourage all who bring capital into the County and spend it amongst the people, and this road itself would tend to the development of the mineral regions, enable back residents to bring their produce to market readily, as well as tend to settle the back country, which in itself would populate our County and therefore increase the taxable property, and reduce the heavy travel on our gravel roads, and the expenditure on them. He sincerely regretted that the projectors of this road, Messrs. Lloyd and Pardee, were not now the owners of the road, and we should not forget that we owed much to the energy of Mr. Lloyd in this matter, and we should all regret that Mr. Pardee was such a heavy loser by the enterprise. He favored the issuing of the debentures.

Mr. Ashley had confidence in those nominated as Trustees last June, and it only rested with us now to authorize the issuing of the debentures.

Mr. White said that Messrs. Wood and Falkiner had promised to accept as Trustees those whom the Council nominated, but they had not done so, as Mr. Pearce had been nominated by the Company in place of Mr. Emo.

Mr. Ashley said the probable reason of this was that as Madoc was giving $30,000 it was only right it should name one Trustee, particularly as it was largely interested.

The Warden said the Council had named Mr. Emo as its trustee for the County and Madoc. This was not acceptable to Mr. Wood, and the time having elapsed the Company named Mr. Pearce, although they had formerly also nominated Mr. Farley, who was acceptable to the Council.

The matter then dropped.

A number of petitions relative to roads were read.

Mr. White moved that no more grants be made to County roads this year. Mr. Currie seconded the resolution.

Mr. Armstrong moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Emo that no more grants be made for roads outside of gravel roads, nor any more roads be assumed as County roads this year.

After discussion the amendment was put and lost and the original motion carried.

Moved by Mr. Armstrong, seconded by Mr. Grass, that all work on the County Roads be hereafter given out by contract in sections, to be kept in repair for five years.

Mr. White said the motion was out of order, as a By-law would be required to regulate such a proposition as the one made.

The County Surveyor's report was again read. It appears in the previous part of this report.

After considerable discussion a number of items were read and passed and a variety of the Surveyor's recommendations accepted.

On the claim asking that $25 each be given to Messrs. Sweeney and McRae of Tyendinaga for land to be used as a road, both Mr. Anderson and Mr. White stated that the former objected to the award. Mr. White added that the land in question was not worth much, but Mr. Sweeney objected to the award on account of the number of fences he would have to keep up.

Mr. Currie said $25 would not compensate Mr. Sweeney for the cost of his fences.

Mr. Anderson said Mr. McRae's land was good and it was only proposed to give him $25, this sum Sweeney would not accept as neither would the value of the fences had not been considered in the making of the award.

The sum of $50 was recommended in a motion moved by Mr. Currie, seconded by Mr. White, to be given to Messrs. Sweeney and McRae—the road over their land to be 66 feet wide.

The necessary repairs were ordered to be made to the Trenton Bridge.

Mr. Ashley moved, seconded by Mr. Weese, that the privilege of expending the additional grants made by this Council for roads in townships be extended until the end of next year.—Carried.

Committee rose and reported progress and asked leave to sit again.—Granted.

Council adjourned.

FOURTH DAY—MORNING SESSION.

FRIDAY, Nov. 14.

The Council met at ten o'clock.

The minutes of yesterday's session were read and approved.

A communication from W. H. Ponton, Registrar, was read, asking that the Registry Office be supplied with gas.

Mr. Flint said the County would receive $600 from that office this year, and as the Registrar would be careful and not waste any gas he would ask that the prayer of the petition be entertained.—Granted.

Mr. Emo presented the memorial which is to be sent to the Lieutenant Governor asking that power to regulate the size of tyres on vehicles be granted County Councils.

BY-LAWS.

Mr. White moved, seconded by Mr. Currie, that the road running from Latta's mills to lots 30 and 31 in the 8th concession of Tyendinaga be assumed as a County road.

Mr. Vankleek moved that the road from Philips' Corners to Madoc, and that from Eldorado to McCoy's School House, be assumed as County roads.

Mr. Parkhurst moved, seconded by Mr. Kavanagh, that the Council of Carlow and Mayo be allowed to maintain a road in Carlow at a width of 20 feet, a By-law ordering the same having been passed by the Council of the municipalities named.

Mr. Flint moved, seconded by Mr. McDavitt, that as the Ontario Government has already given $1,500 to aid the work on the Hastings road, which sum has been judiciously expended, the Legislature be requested to make a like grant next year.—Carried.

Mr. Francis moved, seconded by Mr. Lee, that the Warden, the Reeve of Sidney and the mover be a committee to confer with the County Council of Northumberland and Durham in regard to the boundary line road between the townships of Sidney and Murray the cost of keeping up which has been defrayed to the extent of one half by this County) with a view towards a settlement of the disputed point, and that the Clerk for ward a copy of this resolution to the Northumberland and Durham Council.

Mr. Flint considered that the maintenance of the road from Trenton to Frankford in the Township of Murray kept up by this County should also be looked after when this deputation acted.

Mr. White said it was time the authority of this Council be manifested, for whilst we respond to appeals made from Northumberland, the latter should act in an equally generous manner. We should do what the law gave us power to do and not go begging to them, when their duties are laid down by law and there is already power for us. He approved of Mr. Flint's suggestion being added to the motion.

Mr. Ashley said if the deputation is going to the Northumberland Council told the latter what they should do they the deputation might as well not go.

Mr. Francis said by the deputation going all litigation could be avoided.

The motion was altered so as to include the suggestion of Mr. Flint, and was then carried.

Mr. Pearce spoke in regard to the discussion on the B. & N. H. R. matter. He declared that had his appointment as Trustee been an imputation against either Mr. Emo or Mr. Cross, he would not have accepted the appointment. If he acted as Trustee he would faithfully fill the requirements of the law. The three Trustees, he might now state, were appointed, and were Mr. Farley by the County, Mr. O'Flynn by the Government and himself by the Company.

BY-LAWS.

The Committee on By-laws resumed, Mr. Ashley in the chair.

The By-law regulating the proceedings of the Council and embodying such rules as were considered by the Committee necessary for the government of this body was read. Two important alterations were proposed: the election of the Warden by ballot and the appointment of Committees on Gravel Roads, Finance, Equalization of the Assessment and four others.

Mr. Armstrong said he would oppose the reception of the rules if by their acceptance any additional burdens were imposed upon the people.

Mr. White opposed the proposal to elect the Warden by ballot and also that creating seven committees. He was satisfied with the manner the business of the county was conducted, and was decidedly opposed to any change that would have a tendency to increase the expenses of the Council.

Mr. Flint favored the system at present in force, as it would save time, especially in the matter of committees. He asked the withdrawal of the By-law.

Mr. Kavanagh approved of the remarks of Messrs. White and Flint, and asserted that if there were more than three Committees the business of the Council would be interfered with.

A motion was passed returning the Council's thanks to the Committee that had drafted the rules, and it being after two o'clock the Committee rose, reported progress, and asked leave to sit again.—Granted.

Council adjourned till 2 p. m.

Are Fat People Healthy?

Why are fat people always complaining? asks some one who entertains the popular though erroneous notion that health is synonymous with fat. Fat people complain because they are diseased. Obesity is an abnormal condition of the system, in which the saccharine and oleaginous elements of the food are assimilated to the partial exclusion of the muscle-forming and brain-producing elements. In proof of this, it is only necessary to assert the well-known fact that extremely fat people are never strong, and seldom distinguished for mental powers of activity. Besides, they are the easy prey of acute and epidemic diseases, and they are the frequent victims of gout, heart disease, and apoplexy. Allan's Anti-Fat is the only known remedy for this disease. It contains no acid, is absolutely harmless, and is warranted to remedy the most confirmed case of obesity, or corpulency.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, NOV. 18.

The National Policy.

The Manufacturers of Ontario and Millers of Waterloo have been holding meetings of their respective Associations, at which resolutions were passed defining the views of the members of those organizations as to what alterations the Government should cause to be made in the tariff. This action is a step in the right direction, as by the meeting of gentlemen personally interested in the various branches of trade and manufacture, their discussion of the interests of their branches of business will bring out the opinion of the majority, which, embodied in resolutions, or in some other formal way, can scarcely fail to be of interest and value to the Government in readjusting the tariff.

A prominent feature in the meeting of the Manufacturers' Association was the delivery of a lengthy, able and moderate address from W. H. Howland, Esq., the President of the organization. In stating his confidence that the Government will fully carry their pledges as to the readjustment of the tariff, Mr. Howland said, on behalf of the manufacturers, that "they would be satisfied with what "would just protect the industries of the "country, and they did not want a hair's "breadth more * * * * They had "no intention of demanding such exorbi-"tant and wonderful tariffs as they had "been accused of doing." This declaration is very satisfactory, as it shows that statements to the contrary made by Grit newspapers and orators have no foundation in fact. He also pointed out, since more a fact which was, by the aid of figures taken from the trade returns for the past seven years, made plain in these columns during the election contest, that our neighbors of the United States have much more reason to be dissatisfied with an increase in the Canadian tariff than have the British manufacturers, whose trade with Canada has decreased in much the same ratio as that of the United States has increased.

The Association, after some discussion, adopted a platform, of which the following is a synopsis: That the Tariff should be readjusted in accordance with the verdict of the people at the polls, so as to afford judicious but effectual protection to all industries suited to the country; that such duties should be put on foreign farm products and the manufactures of the same as will secure for our farmers and millers the markets of the Maritime Provinces, and such duties on coal and economic ores as will secure to the Maritime Provinces the markets of Ontario and Quebec; that in order to avoid undervaluation on importations, the number of ports of entry should be reduced, efficient and thoroughly reliable appraisers should be appointed, and the penalty of confiscation rigidly enforced; that the Government be again urged to create a Bureau of Statistics; that in order to encourage trade with the West Indies and other countries a line of steamers be subsidized to ply between Canada and those countries; that the meeting express its cordial sympathy with the people of Halifax in their efforts to make their city the winter port, and that every facility be given them to secure freights each way over the Intercolonial Railway; that the Government be urged to proceed with the Pacific Railway and deepening and enlarging of the St. Lawrence Canals as rapidly as the circumstances of the country will permit; that it will be to the advantage of the producers and manufacturers of Canada to exhibit largely at the exhibition to be held at Sydney, New South Wales, in 1880; and that the Association urge upon the Dominion and Local Governments the advisability of aiding, as far as possible, those who may desire to exhibit.

The Millers' Association met in Waterloo recently, and, as we learn from the Berlin Daily News, agreed that the Government should be asked to place a duty of 50 cents per barrel upon flour and 10 cents per bushel upon wheat. Our contemporary named above remarks: "One of the chief grievances which Canadian millers suffer is in "the matter of freights. The actual fact "is that a barrel of flour is carried from "St. Louis or Chicago to Halifax for 45 "cents, when the cost of sending it from "any part of Canada is from 70 to 75 cents. "In this alone the western States have a "protection of from 30 to 35 cts a barrel "over Canadians in Canadian markets. "This grievous injustice is one of the first "things requiring the new Government's "attention."

The representations of the manufacturers and millers will doubtless have considerable influence with the Government, the more so as they have formed a moderate estimate of their requirements. The question of readjustment of the tariff is a nice one; ut the present Government will go about it with the desire and the intention to do justice to all the varied interests of the country and to give the home market to our own people, and the country has confidence that they will succeed in their task to the satisfaction of all except the pronounced opponents of the system of protection to home industries.

COUNTERFEITING.—An Ottawa report says:—"The two Brownlees, who were arrested in Lanark County and committed to stand their trial at the Brockville assizes for counterfeiting Canadian 25c. pieces, have been suspected of carrying on this business for some years, but never could be detected."

CHANGES.—An Ottawa paper says:—"It is understood that Mr. W. Buckingham has been removed from the position of Deputy Minister of the Interior, and Colonel Dennis, Surveyor-General, appointed in his stead. Mr. Buckingham goes back to his former position of a first-class clerk in the Public Works Department, and Mr. Lindsay Russell succeeds Col. Dennis as Surveyor-General.

MUTINY.—A mutiny occurred on board the schooner Jessie Drummond while en route from Toronto to Frenchman's Bay on the 16th inst. Coults, the first mate, received a serious stab in the knee from Newman, one of the mutineers. A tug off Frenchman's Bay saw the schooner's flag at half-mast with the union down and brought her into the harbor. Newman was arrested and after examination was committed to Whitby gaol.

THE NEW BRUNSWICK RAILWAY DISASTER.—Later accounts show the railway accident of the night before last to have been a terrible one, the passengers who are reported as dead being literally burned to cinders. Four of the unfortunates, either from being stunned or blinded from the smoke, perished in frightful agony. The Sun thinks the Company, owing to its being an act of negligence on their part, they will be responsible, and will have to pay claims which will be presented by the friends of the dead.

PAUPERISM AND CRIME.—A Parliamentary paper just issued shows that pauperism is increasing and crime diminishing in England. There are one and a-half per cent. more paupers in the country than there were last year, an increase wholly due to the depression of trade, as it is confined entirely to the north, the metropolis showing a decrease. In Surrey, Kent, Sussex, Southampton, and Berks Counties pauperism has declined 3 per cent. during the past twelve months, but Chester and Lancashire show an increase of 9 per cent., Yorkshire 6½ per cent., the northern district 5½, and Wales 4. In regard to crime, it is shown that there were fewer sentences for penal servitude recorded than in any recent year, except 1873, and there were only 22 executions and 11 life sentences. In 1833, 931 persons were sentenced to death, though only 33 were executed, and 783 persons were transported for life.

GOOD TEMPLARS.—The annual session of the Grand Lodge of Good Templars will be held at Napanee, commencing Tuesday, 26th inst., and will probably continue in session three days. This is the largest temperance organization in Canada, and the meeting is expected to be one of much importance. On Sunday, 24th, the pulpits of the Churches at Napanee are expected to be filled by Good Templar ministers, and a mass temperance meeting will be held in the Town Hall during Sunday afternoon. On Tuesday evening, the 26th, a grand reception meeting will be held in the Canada Methodist Church. Delegates from the other orders are expected. The railways grant reduced fares to all persons attending the session, by presenting a certificate from the Grand Secretary, Mr. T. W. Casey, of Napanee. There are about 25,000 Good Templars in this Province.

Political Notes.

The Conservatives of East Elgin have chosen Mr. Samuel Day as their candidate for the Ontario Legislature.

Mr. John T. Grange, M.P.P., has been renominated by the Conservatives of Lennox.

Mr. J. J. Hawkins, who contested Bothwell in the Conservative interest at the recent election, has been presented by his admirers in that county with a gold watch and chain.

It is stated that Mr. A. H. Roe, of Napaneo, will oppose Mr. Deroche, M.P.P., in Addington. Mr. Deroche can be easily beaten if the Conservatives of the constituency unite on a candidate, and Mr. Roe would make a good one.

Ex-Mayor Manning is spoken of as the probable Conservative candidate for East Toronto, in place of Hon. M. C. Cameron.

Currency is given to the statement that Mr. Greenway would not resign in Centre Huron, to make way for Mr. Malcolm C. Cameron, until he was promised a certain sum in cash. The Exeter Times says an attempt is now being made to raise the amount by a general subscription among Mr. Cameron's friends in the riding, but that they are not responding at all liberally to the appeal.

From Halifax.

ARRIVAL OF THE "BLACK PRINCE."

HALIFAX, N. S., 2:40 p. m, Nov. 18.—H. M. ship Black Prince is entering the harbor now. She will be at anchor off the dock yard in an hour.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Part of the city of Norwich is inundated by a freshet in the river Winsum. Two densely populated districts are several feet under water. Basements, factories, warehouses, granaries and dwellings are flooded. One or two persons are reported drowned. Four or five miles of streets are submerged. Three to four thousand dwellings are uninhabitable. There is great pecuniary damage. The authorities are maintaining the homeless poor. The flood is in consequence of a fortnight's continuous rain.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—A Vienna despatch says that although Schouvaloff's assurances have produced a good impression and the Czar's orders to the Russian civil and military functions in Turkey look like the beginning of the Berlin Treaty, still it is difficult to reconcile the intention to do so with Russia's demands of Roumania, making the evacuation of Roumenia conditional upon the recognition of Russia's right to occupy and fortify Kustendje and other strategical points in Doubrudge, and to maintain a military road through Roumana, which would make Roumania the mere vassal of the Czar.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The American Minister to Mexico writes concerning the disastrous effect to that country of the recent decline of the price of silver in the London market, that although the double standard of gold and silver, the latter being unlimited legal tender, prevails there, and although gold is being constantly coined, it has ceased to be a circulating medium and the country has been almost completely drained of it, it being very hard to purchase even a few thousand dollars in the city of Mexico at a premium of from 14 to 18 per cent. Silver constitutes four-fifths of the entire exports of the country and its sudden decline in the London market has been most severely felt, with the Government general and state taxes it is estimated it costs from 12½ to 15½ per cent. to place silver produced in Mexican mines in London or New York.

LONDON, Nov, 18.—The steamer Sarmatian with the Marquis of Lorne proceeded for Halifax on Friday night.

CROOKHAVEN, Nov. 18.—Arrived, the City of Richmond.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Ex-Mayor Oakey Hall this morning assumed the City editorship of the New York World.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 18.—Last night a carriage containing five persons was going through Hallsville village, Woonsocket, when in the darkness the horse left the road and plunged with the carriage into a trench 40 feet wide and water 9 feet deep. The driver got out and called for assistance. Thos. Kermar, his wife Mary and Miss Lizzie Callahan were drowned. Kermar's daughter Bridget was rescued and will probably recover.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 18.—Chas. Young, Archibald Steen, and a son of the latter, working a farm on shares, near Lebanon, Ohio, had a misunderstanding on Friday, during which Steen and his son clubbed Young until he was irresensible. A hired man of Young's coming to the rescue met the same fate. Mrs. Young and daughter came upon the scene and were both felled with clubs.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Nov. 18.—Chas. Blanchard became involved in a dispute on Nov. 7th, at Madison, with John Keary, subsequently, the latter with the aid of Michael Kavanagh, assaulted Blanchard, beating him so badly that death ensued on Saturday. Keary and Kavanagh were arrested.

FREDERICTON, Nov. 18.—The serious floods of the river Save have occurred considerable loss by the immense destruction of military stores.

ELOPEMENT.—The Hamilton Spectator gives particulars of an extraordinary elopement which took place near that city a few days ago. It appears that one Doherty had sold his farm in the township of Elora and with $200 in gold he and his wife started in a stage for Hamilton, where he purposed buying a ticket for the Western States. At Freelton a young man entered the stage, who was unknown to Doherty, but from his conduct had evidently been on familiar terms with his wife. At Dundas, Doherty had become so enraged at the stranger's familiarity and the apparent endorsement of it by his wife, that he left the vehicle, fearing he might shoot them. Subsequently he repented of his leaving them so suddenly, and went on to Hamilton, expecting to meet his wife. But the pair had flown, and the wife having the gold, Doherty feels very woebegone.

POMPS AND VANITIES.—The mayor of a country town was questioning the boys at a ragged school, and he asked them what were the pomps and vanities of this wicked world. He asked them one by one, but they could not tell him. At last a little boy near the bottom said: "I know, sir. The mayor and corporation going to church, sir."

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—General Grant was cordially received at Gibraltar. In company with Lord Napier he reviewed all the troops in the British garrison on Saturday, and afterwards witnessed a sham battle. He leaves to-day for Malaga, thence after two days' stay he will proceed to Grenada, by way of Bobadilla and Autequera.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—It is reported that the United States Grand Jury has indicted eight parties alleged to be interested in the frauds in connection with the erection of the Customs building, including supervising architect Potter.

Samuel Johnson, a negro, and Frank Brown, a son of Dr. Brown, of Elgin, have been arrested, and confess they brought to this city the body of a man who had committed suicide, and which they had stolen from his grave at Elgin. Brown says he had arranged with Prof. Pratt, of Chicago Homœopathic College, to bring in bodies at $23 a piece.

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 18.—At a disreputable club house on Saturday night Edward Kiger stabbed a friend, when Franz Hobrecht interfered, and Kiger stabbed him fatally. The persons involved are 19 years old.

XENIA, O., Nov. 18.—In a fight near this place yesterday between whites and blacks one negro was shot and two whites fatally beaten. Further trouble is feared.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The Tribune's Washington special says the President said on Saturday he should make the Southern question the leading feature in his message.

The electric light is being tried at the Capitol. Efforts will be made at the coming session to have it introduced.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The projectors of the proposed new Telegraph Company held a conference on Saturday. The manager of the Western Union Company claims that the contract with the Erie Railroad was not disturbed by the latter's recent reconstruction. The Erie Railroad claims that the contracts provide for its termination by giving a specified notice which has been complied with.

Louis Maneuse arrived on Saturday from Spain. He retired at night at the Hotel Espanol, blew out the gas, and was found suffocated yesterday.

The Tribune says that the demand for new 4 per cents since the election has been so heavy that dealers have been unable to fill orders promptly.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 18.—Perry Green, a colored barber, got drunk yesterday, some roughs plugged his mouth and nose with mud; in the evening Green was found dead. It is supposed he died from suffocation. Two or three arrests have been made.

GLASGOW, Nov. 18.—Arrived, the State of Nevada.

U. S. IMMIGRATION.—United States immigration statistics set forth that, although much has been said as to the large amount of Irish immigration that has flowed into the United States, the Germans are slightly ahead of them on the last thirty-two years, the figures standing, relatively, Ireland, two millions; Germany, two millions one hundred thousand.

A parent who claimed the right to educate his own children sent the following communication to a school board in England recently:—"Gentlemen—I am at a loss to know why the chool Board officer is so desirous to have my children educated. It is my only wish to make them cholars. There is plenty of stret Arabes to look after without annoying me so much.—Yours, and so forth, The Gentleman Chool Bord.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, NOV. 18.

City and Vicinity.

ARRIVED.—The Allan steamship Polynesian arrived at Halifax at 7 a. m. on the 17th inst.

THE "EMPRESS OF INDIA."—It is rumored that it is the intention of the owners of the steamer Empress of India to place her on the route between the head of the bay and Montreal next season.

CATTLE SHIPMENT.—It is stated that proposals have been made by an English firm to Toronto dealers, to engage for the winter delivery of at least 10,000 cattle and 20,000 sheep. The contract, if concluded, ought certainly to improve matters all round, even though the cattle trade be as bad as represented by some dealers.

CHEESE EXPORT.—It is expected that the steamer Sardinian, the last of the Allan line to leave Montreal this season, will take out next week 38,000 boxes of cheese, weighing over 1,100 tons. The exports of cheese from Montreal this week amount to 20,882 boxes, along with 6,388 packages of butter.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.—The Directors of the Mechanics' Institute have determined to open evening classes in connection with that institution, to continue during the winter months. Instruction in the English branches, (Mr. Dafoe, teacher) will commence on Wednesday evening, 20th inst., and in Mechanical Drawing on the following evening, under the direction of Mr. O. Bartley, C. E. The terms are stated in the advertisement.

NUMBER OF COUNCILLORS.—The Town Council of Peterborough have resolved to memorialize the Ontario Legislature to reduce the number of Councillors for that town to one for each Ward. The opinion is held by many here that twenty-one Councillors is too great a number for this city, therefore as the Legislature will meet after the holidays the matter might be discussed by the Council at an early day, and a determination come to as to whether a reduction is or is not desirable.

JOHNNIE WARD AND THE D. T'S.—The Hamilton Times states that on Thursday last Johnnie Ward, the well known favorite comedian, who had been visiting that city for some days and had been drinking liquor to a fearful extent, took dinner at Mrs. Fawcett's, on McNab St. After dinner he stole a gold watch and cross from Mrs. Fawcett's room, and pawned them at a place where they were subsequently recovered. On being brought before the Police Magistrate on Friday, Ward pleaded that he was crazy with drink and acknowledged his offence. He was dealt with very leniently, being allowed to go on his own recognizance.

OPERA HOUSE.—Seats for the performance of the Roze-Mapleson company are being rapidly taken up, and the probability is that there will be a very large audience to greet the famous cantatrice and the distinguished artists who are associated with her. The prices of sittings, which can be secured at Reynolds', are $2, $1.50 and $1 each, without any extra charge for reserving seats. For the convenience of ladies and gentlemen who attend the concert, a cloak room will be opened at the Opera House, where shawls, overcoats, &c., can be deposited on payment of a small sum. The Opera House is being thoroughly cleaned, and to further secure the comfort of the audience, men will be placed at the doors to keep them closed, except when persons are passing in and out.

POLICE COURT.—There was no busines in court to-day.

DREDGING.—The dredge is still at work here, and is now employed on the eastern side of the island.

THE "ALEXANDRA."—This steamer has made her last trip for the season, and will probably be laid up here or at Picton for the winter.

CHRIST CHURCH.—The Rev. W. C. Clarke, the newly appointed Incumbent of Christ Church, officiated in that Church yesterday. Despite the unfavorable state of the weather, large congregations assembled at each service. The Rev. gentleman is an eloquent and impressive speaker, and preaches extempore.

COMING EVENTS.—Curling and skating promise to be extensively indulged in this winter. The youngsters and others are getting out their skates and burnishing them preparatory to the coming in of the glacial period when anyone can sit down suddenly without any trouble, while the disciples of the "roaring game," have their stanes ready for the opening night of the rink.

ADVERTISING VS. TRAVELLING.—A whole sale grocery house in Chicago some time ago discharged 16 commercial travellers, whom it had maintained at a cost of $40,000 a year, doing a profitless business. Last year this house spent $10,000 in advertising, and not only was the business increased ten-fold, but the net profits to the house for the year were $130,000. Moral: if you would reach customers in the cheapest, best and most direct way—ADVERTISE.

RAIN.—So rainy an autumn as that which is now in its last stage, has not been seen in Canada for several years. In fact, the whole season has been remarkable for an excess of moisture. The swamps were never dry during the entire summer, and in September they were filled and have remained full ever since. The water in the river is also far above the level usual to it at this season, and the bay is also higher than usual. The steady rain of yesterday and last night will make a perceptible addition to the excess of water in streams and swamps.

THE FORTNIGHTLY REVIEW.—The October number of the Rose-Belford Publishing Company's admirable reprint of this leading vehicle of Liberal opinion in England has been received. The contents are as follows: Imperialism, by the Right Hon. Robert Lowe, M. P.; Charles Lamb, by Walter H. Pater; The English School of Jurisprudence, by Fredric Harrison; A Chinese Romance, by Sir David Wedderburn; The Beginning of Nerves in the Animal Kingdom, by G. J. Romanes; Alexandre Dumas, by George Saintsbury; A Rajput Chief of the Old School, by A.C. Lyall; An Economic Address, with some Notes, by the Editor; Mr. Gladstone and the New Equilibrium, by Ralph A. Earle.

MARIE ROZE MAPLESON.—A Montreal paper of the 16th inst. gives the following notice of the performance by the Marie Roze Mapleson troupe:—"The aristocracy of Montreal was present in all the splendor of opera dress, for the reputation of the famous cantatrice is world-wide, sharing as she does, the laurels of song with Patti, Albani, and Titiens. She carried all before her in the States, and she now comes to Montreal, where her success is equally marked—and Montreal, be it remembered, is a very critical city, where to pass muster, is to do very well. The personal beauty of Marie Roze is of a high order, and in itself powerful to attract, while her ravishing voice, full, flexible and powerful, though sweet and heart-stirring in the extreme, can be distinctly heard all over the theatre. Add to this, that the elocution of the singer is perfect, her gesticulation natural and her movements easy and graceful, and we have one of the best performers that has ever appeared on a Montreal stage. As may be supposed, the appearance of Madame Roze was hailed with a loud and prolonged applause, only surpassed when she had thrilled the audience with one of Meyerbeer's masterpieces "Robert toi quoi j'aime." The pathos and expression she threw into this song was something marvellous, and to be appreciated should be heard, for it beggars desciption. For an encore she sang "Coming thro' the Rye." The piano solo of Alfred H. Pease, which opened the performance, "Polonaise Mignon," was very finely executed, and, indeed, the selections given by all the musicians, Messrs. W. T. Carleton, Mark Kaiser, Tom Karl; and the music and singing generally, were all that could be desired. The "King's Highway," as sung by Mr. Carleton, was loudly encored. During the whole time the concert lasted the audience was highly delighted, and at its close round after round of applause were given for the favorite.

DR. R. V. PIERCE, of Buffalo, N. Y., the proprietor of Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines, and also of the Invalids' and Tourists' Hotel, of that city, has recently been elected to Congress by the very flattering majority of nearly 3,000. He has already served his constituency as State Senator, and this renewed endorsement signifies that his services have been highly satisfactory. His extensive practice in the treatment of Chronic Diseases will not, we are informed, be neglected or suffer in the least when the time arrives for him to take his seat in Congress, it being entrusted to his brother and other experienced medical gentlemen who have long been associated with the Doctor in the Medical Department of his celebrated World's Dispensary and Invalids' Hotel. Besides, as the Forty-sixth Congress does not convene until December, 1879, Dr. Pierce's patients will not lose his personal attention for some months yet.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Nov. 18.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the Lower Lake region, moderate to fresh winds, mostly southerly to southwesterly and cloudy to partly cloudy weather with light rains For the St. Lawrence, fresh to brisk winds, and cloudy weather, with rain in the upper and snow in the lower portion. For the Maritime Provinces, increasing easterly to northeasterly winds, increasing cloudiness, warmer weather and rain.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Indications:—cloudy, light rain followed by clearing, stationary or lower pressure.

The last man will have an awful lonesome time of it. Nobody to borrow money of; nobody to dun him or raise his rent; no gas meter to make things lively; no book agents; no life insurance man, and no oldest inhabitant to declare that it's the most remarkable weather we have ever had.

Belleville Fox Hounds.

Drear and dark November,—and if we could find another adjective of intensity we would append it,—thy days have not been days of pleasantness, nor thy nights of peace. Wind, snow and frost alternately in our streets, rain, sleet and wind in our faces. An acquaintance of ours, reduced to the verge of imbecility, found that there had been twenty-seven wet days in September and twenty-nine in October, and then he gave up counting. We had expected better things of this month. But there came more wet, flurries of snow and gales of wind which drove the women half wild with fear. Last Thursday, however, opened with an almost cloudless sky with a light frost during the night, the delightful weather of the following morning bringing out the "meet" of the season of the B. F. H., which came off at Balaclava Lodge, the pleasant residence of H. E. Filliter, Esq., who with his usual hospitality entertained, at a most recherche dejeuner, the gentlemen of the numerous party who had gone out to see the sport. There were about thirty-five saddles all told; many of the horses being equal to those met with at a first class "meet" in England. Several new faces were observed, indicating a healthy state of the Hunt Club. Among the fashionable assemblage we noticed Mrs. Geo. Filliter, Mrs. H. E. Filliter, Mrs. Thos. Ritchie, Misses Murney, Ponton, Sisson, Starling, Holden; Major Gillum, Messrs. Geo. Filliter, Hulme, Denmark, &c.

We are unable to give the names of all the gentlemen present, but could not fail to recognize a few of the tried members of the Hunt, including the gallant and attentive "Master," H.C. Lloyd, Esq., who certainly deserves the warmest thanks, not only of the members, but of the general public who attend, for his services in organizing this Hunt, and politeness to all. The obliging Secretary R. C. Clute, Esq., His Worship the Mayor, Messrs. H. E. Filliter, Carman, S. S. Lazier, Boulter, U. E. Thompson, Gillen, Holton, Reynolds, Garratt, Dr. Cook, Flint, Baker, J. Taylor, Bowell, Davenport, W. J. Taylor, R. W. Newton, V.S., and others whose names we cannot remember.

The scene from the approach was very picturesque, with the numerous carriages and their fair occupants, mingling with the members, in their "pink" coats and hounds rolling themselves and disporting on the grass; the huntsmen and whippers-in are not far off, splendidly mounted, and, with their equipments, a sight to look at. In every direction are pouring in horsemen of every age and calling, coats of every color, and a sprinkling of the loveliest women in the world, who, with their usual grace and attractiveness, lent a refulgence to the spectacle nowhere more appreciated than at a "meet."

In the midst is mine host, cordial and affable, offering to all a hearty welcome. Here may be seen a throng of eager sportsmen, discussing with enthusiasm the prospect and pleasure of a "run" and "death"; there a group encircling one of Belleville's fairest daughters. In the meanwhile what capital cheer within the walls, what turkeys, chickens, wild ducks, what interminable good things! Breakfast ended, the huntsman's horn sounds, warning the gentlemen of the hunt it was time to start, when saddles were promptly filled. By this hour the ground was in splendid condition, and the clouds, sailing through the sky steadily from the southwest, gave indications of a good hunting day. Away go the "field" to a wood in the rear of Mr. Filliter's property, where it turned out Reynard after supper had made his bed.

On reaching this covert the hounds, with a wave of the huntsman's hand, are passed into it. It is a time of silent expectation, except upon the part of some garrulous man, who can never be still. Soon the hounds crash through the branches, and here and there the pied back of a hound appears as he jumps over a thick tangle. The first low note is heard; the horsemen look at each other, and the word passes in low tones "It's Luke! he's the boy!" Another and another "speak to the faint scent" but still with low uncertain sound, until "Luke" in the lead proclaims, with a loud, long, deep peal, that a fox is on foot ahead of him. The Master cheers on his hounds, for "Luke" has never spoken falsely. Messrs. Clute and Filliter bring up the stragglers and lay them on the line of scent, and then the whole pack own the cry.

Now begins the fun. The riders begin to press forward, but Mr. Lloyd is very determined on giving both hounds and fox fair play at starting; and when drawing a cover he keeps his field in order, in a way that is, unfortunately, for sport, foreign to many hunts. Thus a fox is able to make his point, hounds can get away after him, and the first step towards a "run" is ensured. The "music" is redoubled, you would think that they were already at his brush. No such thing! this is a gallant dog fox, and finding this open wood would be much too hot to hold him, at the first whimper he bursts into the open and makes for a grand holt he knows of miles away. Out come "Luke," and "Valiant," and "Beverly," and then the body of the pack follows. Now come the horsemen helter-skelter, down a plough and follow the pack into the Frankford Road near Ross' Corner. On goes the fox with steady, sterling, raking stride, accomplishing the most with the least exertion—leaving Vermilyea's Carrige Factory and Madoc Road to the east; passing Mr. Knight's residence, he crossed the Madoc Road; the hounds here over-run the scent and it was with some difficulty the first whip turned them near Mr. Thrasher's.

Each hound soon again vied with the other to pick up the scent to the east of the road, which they soon did, every hound struggling to the front, they raced through Mr. Barnum's orchard, taking across a heavy ploughed and grass field past Mr. Row's, on to the Moira River, when, bending south, they run through Mr. Reed's, near to the stone road leading to Canifton, where another check was come to, the pace good throughout. Taking up the scent again, away went the hounds eastward in the direction of Messrs Corby's mills as if it were the mischief take the hindmost. The fox, finding the river too formidable to cross, here turned to the right through a small grove of balsams, which sheltered him for some minutes. As soon as he had broken from here, the thrilling cry of the pack made men who knew their work look out; the hounds were never at a fault for a minute, and with lightning speed flew from the balsams into Mr. Barnes' property, across Mr. Farnham's farm, then straight east for the Canifton stone road, after crossing which he turned south across the Canniff estate and farms of Messrs. Dale, T. Canniff, D. Canniff and W. H. Lingham, without the slightest turn or check, and was raced on to the plains west of the Moira river, near the village of Canifton, the hounds almost glued to his "brush." His pursuers here pressed him up and down in the open, and after a capital hour and ten minutes, from find to finish, a "whoo-whoo" from the Master, "worry, worry, worry!" proclaimed there was an end of him.

The master had scarcely dismounted when Mr. U. E. Thompson, who always rides hard, came up and secured the "brush;" the "pate" was taken by Dr. Newton, and the "pad" by Mr. Filliter. Mr. Ritchie was close up with Mr. Thompson at the last fence but one—a rasper—charging it in gallant style, his mare came down under him. "By the living Harry" (this is the strongest oath Mr. R. was ever known to have uttered) "Corea, the pate was ours but for this mistake." Amongst those who rode well in the early part of the day, as he always does, was Mr. Flint on his grand fencer "Reveller;" before going into the "balsam" cover he sent his horse at a stone wall with two stiff rails on top, which the Master on "Viley" had just taken in front of him, clearing them beautifully. These rails were soon broken down, letting the "field" through. Mr. F., after leaving the "balsams," found himself in a cul de sac, which threw him out for the balance of the "run," otherwise with the lead he held he must have taken the "brush."

The sport being over, Mr. Filliter again kindly invited the field to return to his residence, where a handsome luncheon was laid out and heartily partaken of, all present being literally "hungry as hunters." Thus ended one of the most severe and exciting "runs" with the Belleville Fox Hounds of the season, in spite of the late snow, frost, and pluvial visitations.

Green Food for Cows.

A reader at Toms River, N. J., writes to know what is the best plant to grow for very early and very late food for milch cows. We should pronounce rye the very best crop for early feeding, and barley the best of anything we have tried for late feeding. Beets, cabbages and turnips make good feed for October and November, when they can be used without injuring the flavor of the milk. Cabbages and turnips are considerable freezing without being seriously injured, but it is a little difficult, oftentimes, to feed them to butter cows, on account of the odor imparted to the milk. Rye is an excellent forage crop to be fed green or dry, at any time of the year when it can be obtained. It has been used very extensively for cattle food in California and other countries not specially adapted to the growth of hay and pasture grass, but, until recently, it has received very little attention from New England farmers as a soiling crop. We have grown it but one year previous to the present season, and cannot speak of it with the confidence that we can of oats, rye and millet, yet we believe it will prove a valuable crop when rightly managed. It grows in a little less time than oats, while it seems to be more subject to damage by rust and blight. We sowed a field of it last spring very early, and it appeared to suffer more than oats from the long spell of cold weather in May. Barley is understood to like a little warmer weather than that required for oats, and, for this reason, will do better sown during the hot weather of July and early August than oats. It does not incline to tiller out as much as oats, and it it would stand up, would bear pretty thick seeding, but from our short experience, we are inclined to think that, if sown very thickly, it would lodge and rot on rich land.

We have sown a three bushels to the acre the present summer. The seed is low at this time in market, that which is suitable for growing fodder being offered for about seventy-five cents per bushel at the regular grain stores. The seed dealers who have a clean, choice article ask a little more.

Since farmers are thinking so much of growing green crops for cows, there is an increasing inquiry about the best plants for very early and very late feeding. Corn and millet are excellent fodder crops, but they are only in condition for feeding green during the late summer months. Early or late frost will kill both. We occasionally see rye recommended as a soiling crop. A writer from the New York Tribune lately asserted that green rye injured the milk of his herd, and, also, as he believed, caused serious loss from abortion. Judging from our own practice for a long term of years, we should say that the gentleman was entirely mistaken. We think we have made good butter from green rye, and with no other food except grain, and we have never heard a hint to the contrary from any of our customers; and as to its causing abortion, we should fear it no more than we should fear a blue grass pasture. Rye should be sown thickly, and cut while young and tender, in order to obtain the best results. Four bushels of seed per acre, on rich, mellow soil, adapted to the crop, will give a burden well worth harvesting, before the heads come in sight, while if but one bushel is sown, the crop might seem hardly worth cutting before it comes into bloom.

We well remember when dairy cows on most farms received no feed from May to November, except what they obtained from pastures, and by after-feeding the mowing fields, but, since it has been proved that cows can live well and give an abundant yield of milk from green corn, most good farmers provide a field of corn to be used in feed during the dry weather, which is generally expected in August, and to take the place of the after-feed of the mowings, which it is found had better be mown and cured for hay, or left on the ground for the benefit of the next year's crop. As the subject of soiling cows becomes better understood, it is probable that other crops than those now grown will be introduced, and their value determined. Winter wheat sown in September will make an excellent feed to follow winter rye, and spring wheat sown in July or the first of August may yet be found equal or superior to barley. The cost of seed has been against the use of wheat for soiling, but were the demand greater there would, undoubtedly, be a supply at reasonable prices.—New England Farmer.

How Much Manure to an Acre.

We are sometimes asked this question, but do not always know how to answer for a want of knowledge of all the facts. One authority says, for strawberries, use seventy-five cords to the acre. Another, in reply to the question as to how much manure he used for his pear orchard, said all he could plough in and rather more. In one case that we know of, the person ploughed under all the manure he could, and then dug in with a spade as much more. In the first case, where seventy-five cords are recommended to the acre, it will be seen that the cost of the dressing alone would be about five hundred dollars, and its application and ploughing in another hundred. Can any person make it pay to use such an amount of dressing for any crop?

In the case of the pear orchard, we do know that the owner sold this year, from less than seventy small trees, seventy bushels of fruit, at an average of over three dollars a bushel, some selling for four dollars. As about two hundred trees can easily be grown to the acre, it will readily be seen that a large amount could be secured for the cost of the dressing on the pear orchard. We do believe it pays to manure highly. It will not pay to do otherwise near cities where land is dear, if it will anywhere. A half land well tilled will pay a larger profit than much land poorly cared for. We say use more dressing, and you will find your account in it. It is often said by those living in the country that they cannot procure as much dressing as they need. This need not be so if such persons are located on or near the line of a railway. We have known horse manure to be delivered twenty-five miles from Boston by cars, as cheaply as it could be delivered by teams eight miles away.

A few weeks ago we called upon a farmer near Boston and saw a hay field from which he had taken a crop and we remarked upon the appearance of the same. He said he cut five tons of hay to the acre from the field each year, taking off two crops. It will be said that this is an exceptional case. So it is, but it need not be so; the land is naturally no better than thousands of acres that may be found in New England and elsewhere.

In growing strawberries we are in the habit of dressing the land heavily. The result is that we get a large growth of vines and a large crop of fruit. We will illustrate the result as to growth of plants by giving some facts. Last April friend Haines, the grower of strawberry plants, sent us one plant of the President Lincoln variety. We set it out on a bed some three and a half feet wide, and hoped to get a hundred plants from one, as we did the year before with the Great American. After some weeks we took up some plants that had taken roots well, that would have helped to increase the number of plants; but notwithstanding that, we find that from this one plant runners have extended ten feet one way and four the other, making a bed fourteen feet long, and containing by estimation two hundred and fifty plants, with the expectation that there will be at least fifty more before winter sets in. This is one of the results of high manuring.

We could give cases without number, showing the good results and the ample profits of such a course. Let those try the experiment who have doubts, and they will become fully satisfied.—Congregationalist.

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as Boschee's German Syrup for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A great deal of that is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that uses it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists. d&w

In this Present Age, when the life-battle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the strongest the tug and stress of it tell so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for the keeping up of our reserve stock of mental and physical stamina by the use of such a nerve-tonic and vitalizing agent as Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosfate of Lime! Its gently stimulating and nutritive-tonic properties supply the materials, and assist Nature in her efforts to keep up with the exhaustive demands upon her reserves. Prepared solely by J. H. Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since the issue of that date, and there is a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the Intelligencer Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of such householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be disposed to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An classified list of each of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the leading surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. The make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various Towns and Villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Shelby, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Stirling, Actonvyle, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and, in order to cement more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURGH, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

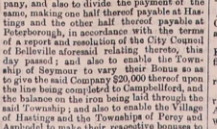

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz.: One page, $10.00; half-page, $6.00; quarter page, $3.00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names, which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Order for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the Intelligencer Office, Belleville.

March, 1878.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Denyit who can," it is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly asserted, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Don't cook your proju ice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge" of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Two spurious books, one entitled, "The Achievements of Stanley in Africa," and the other "The Complete Explorations and Adventures of Stanley" have been advertised. COUNTY COUNCIL.

FOURTH DAY—AFTERNOON SESSION.

FRIDAY, Nov. 14.

The Council resumed at two o'clock and went into Committee of the whole on Audit, Mr. Peck in the chair.

The Warden moved, seconded by Mr. Flint that the accounts of 1877 as audited by the Auditors and reported and allowed by this Council be published in the Belleville papers;

That the Treasurer pay the estate of the late Treasurer $451.54 due him;

That the Treasurer pay the INTELLIGENCER Printing Company their account for publishing the wild land sales advertised by the late Treasurer, and that the amount of the INTELLIGENCER should be paid by the County as a whole and not by the minor municipalities.

Mr. Pearce took the same view.

The Warden referred the County Solicitor's advice led to the action proposed.

Mr. White said those municipalities benefitted should bear the expense in this case.

The report was then adopted.

Mr. Vankleek's By-law to assume as a County road that leading from Eldorado to McCoy's corner was read a first time, as was also that of Mr. Caskey for the assuming of the road from Madoc to Cook's Corners.

The Committee on Roads and Bridges resumed—Mr. Pearce in the chair.

Several recommendations in reference to roads in Rawdon, moved by Mr. Cook, seconded by Mr. Kingston, were adopted.

Several other recommendations were made, after which the Committe rose and reported.

Mr. J. J. Farley as a member of the County Council, by invitation, took a seat within the rails.

The report was adopted.

The Committee on By-law resumed—Mr. Ashley in the chair.

The By-law to repeal the By-law assuming the road between the 9th and 10th cons. of Huntingdon and leading from Tweed to the Belleville and North Hastings Railway depot in Huntingdon was read a second time.

Mr. Emo approved of the By-law and if it was passed he considered it would prove satisfactory to the people.

Mr. Gordon opposed the motion. He disapproved of the bringing up of this question at this time, especially as no requisition had been made for a grant to be expended on this road. The new line of road, the one in question, had been approved of by a Committee of the Council and the County Engineer and had expended $125 on it this year and until a large grant was asked for the question should be deferred.

Mr. Emo said he had been requested to bring a petition here by several of his supporters, and he would be lacking in his duty had he not brought it forward and drafted a By-law cordance with it.

Mr. Robinson assured the Council that had not a disinterested committee reported disapproving of the new road, he would not have acted now. In the interest of the taxpayers and the public generally, the old road should not have been changed. Certainly the old road was crooked, but all the crooks in the various roads of this County could not be changed. He urged the rescinding of the By-law.

Mr. Gordon moved, seconded by Mr. Murphy, that the prayer of the petition be not entertained.

Mr. Anderson had been over both roads and would vote in favor of the new road.

The Warden said $1,470 had been expended on the east end of the old road, and he had signed requisitions therefor.

Mr. Anderson said the old road was too narrow, and the residents along it would not give the necessary land to widen it. The money granted and spent on the old road would have made a good one of the new road.

Mr. Flint said $1,408 given for this new road had not been expended upon it. If the new road was not far enough from the old it was an injustice to accept it, as the grant intended had not been spent upon it, and besides the residents along the old road had nice buildings near it. In justice to the settlers on that road he should retain the old line.

Mr. Armstrong said that from what he had heard his impressions were in favor of the old road.

Mr. White said if the railroad was done travellers would prefer the new road to the old one. He could get a guarantee that for $1,000 the new road could be put in first-class order.

After a very lengthy discussion of almost a similar purport to that which took place when the new line was assumed, the By-law was carried.

The By-law to assume Mud Creek bridge as a County bridge was adopted.

Also the By-law to adopt the bridge over Bells' Creek in the 3rd con. of Tyendinaga as a County bridge.

Also that to assume the old Hungerford road as a County road.

That to assume the road from Latta's Mills to Tyendinaga was not entertained.

Mr. Peck disapproved of assuming any more County roads, for if the practice continued all the roads in the county would become County roads. The debts of the roads entailed the expenditure of large sums of money, and year by year our indebtedness was being largely added to. In one year since 1866 the estimates had fallen short of the expenditure by several thousand dollars, and to meet the deficiences the sinking funds were borrowed from and to such an extent that no less the large sum of $82,699 71 had been taken from it. That should not have been touched and it was illegal to do so, and now he was pleased to know that the present Treasurer would not allow it to be further lessened. There was not a proper system of checking the expenditure on roads, and to remedy that he had proposed the formation of a Committee in the code of regulations introduced by the Committee on By-laws. He then read extracts made from a statement of the debt, and expenditures on roads and bridges, including gravel roads, from 1866 to 1878, both inclusive, and contended that as the expenditure had in almost every year of those mentioned very largely exceeded the estimates. Every endeavor should be used in the future to keep the expenses within the appropriations.

In answer to Mr. Francis, Mr. Peck stated that the gross amount of the County's indebtedness is about $330,000.

Several motions to assume roads were defeated.

Mr. Vandervoort called attention to the narrow state of the bridge over the railroad at Donnelly's and asked if the G. T. R. Company could not be compelled to pay damages in case an accident should occur there.

Mr. Francis said the law provided that in such a case as this the Company would be liable.

Committee rose and reported.

Mr. Armstrong demanded the yeas and nays on the adoption of the third clause of the report regaring his motion to reduce the pay of members of the Council and the County officers.

YEAS.—Flint, Cross, Pearce, Gunter, Kavanagh, Vankleek, Parkhurst, Caskey, Weese, Peck, Fitzgerald, McDavitt, White, Anderson, Currie, Emo, Murphy, Craig, Cook, Francis, Gordon and the Warden.—22.

NAYS.—Ashley, Vandervoort, Grass, Armstrong, Robinson, Kingston.—6.

Some further clauses were read, when Mr. Pearce called for the yeas and nays on the clause relating to the rejection of the By-law assuming the road from Marmora to the Madoc boundary and El Dorado and from Rawdon Town Hall to Emo's Corners as County roads.

YEAS.—Flint, Ashley, Weese, Peck, White, Anderson, Armstrong, Grass, Vandervoort, Murphy, Gordon, Currie, Francis, Lee and the Warden.—15.

NAYS.—Cross, Vankleek, Caskey, Fitzgerald, McDavitt, Pearce, Gunter, Kavanagh, Parkhurst, Craig, Cook, Kingston, Emo, Robinson.—14.

Mr. Vankleek demanded the yeas and nays on the rejection of the By-law to assume the road from Madoc to O'Hara's corners as a County road.

YEAS.—Flint, Ashley, Weese, Peck, White, Anderson, Armstrong, Grass, Vandervoort, Murphy, Gordon, Currie, Craige, Francis, Lee, Robinson, and the Warden—17.

NAYS.—Cross, Vankleek, Caskey, Fitzgerald, McDavitt, Pearce, Gunter, Kavanagh, Parkhurst, Cook, Kingston, Emo—12.

The other clauses were passed, and the report adopted.

The Grand Trunk Railway Co. was by motion, notified to repair the railway bridge crossing near Donnelly's, in accordance with the law.

Council adjourned till 9:30 a. m. on Saturday.

FIFTH DAY—MORNING SESSION.

SATURDAY, Nov 16.

The Council met at 9:30.

The minutes of yesterday's sessions were read and approved.

A communication from Mr. Murdock, C. E., of the Prince Edward Railway Company's office at Trenton, was read stating that the drawbridge at that village required attention at once, as did also the first span adjoining said bridge. A new bridge was suggested as a substitute.

Mr. Grass moved, seconded by Mr. Murphy, that the $100 granted to Sidney and laid out on the road between Trenton and Sidney be ordered to be paid to Sidney.

A discussion elicited the following: that $100 was granted to Sidney; that $25 of the above sum was expended between Thurlow and Sidney; that an order was made by the Reeves of Thurlow and Sidney to have $100 expended on the road named and the Council was now asked to pay the over expenditure of $25 to Sidney.

Mr. Francis moved, seconded by Mr. Armstrong that the sum of $25 additional be granted to Sidney. This was put as an amendment and was passed.

The following statement (in accordance with a resolution by Mr. White) from the Treasurer was read: The amount paid the Warden and Councillors, including pay and mileage to chairmen and members of committees, in 1877 was $2,775.30; in 1878 thus far was $1,859.30; probable difference $917; probable expenditure of this session $500; probable saving by reducing the sessions in number, $417.

A statement of the estimates and expenditures was handed in and read.

Total	$49,899.59

Mr. White said the members were responsible for this state of affairs, but yet the people had the benefit of every dollar of it, and there was no mismanagement connected with the expenditures.

Mr. Flint said every dollar expended on roads and bridges had been paid as people who resided outside of Belleville, and therefore the farmers got the benefit in every neighborhood where any labor was performed.

Mr. Ashley said only a majority of the members present were responsible for the excess of expenditure, as some of them were new and others had objected to certain expenses.

Mr. Francis moved, seconded by Mr. Lee that tenders be advertised for the construction of piers, &c., for an iron draw bridge at Trenton during the coming winter.

The mover said it was an absolute necessity that this bridge should be rebuilt, as it was now in a very dangerous state; it was an economy to construct an iron bridge there, and it was a necessity in regard to the traffic over it.

Mr. White suggested that tenders be advertised for and submitted to the next Council.

The motion was passed.

Committee on Ways and Means resumed, Mr. Flint in the Chair.

A number of minor accounts were read and ordered to be paid.

The sum of $40 was ordered to be paid Hillier Dyon for land belonging to him which was used as a part of a road.

$100 was awarded to Marmora for a certain road.

A grant of $40 was made for the lighting of Frankford bridge.

An abstract of the Auditor's accounts was ordered to be published in the Review, Echo and Courier, the cost not to exceed $15 each.

For lighting Trenton bridge $100 was awarded that municipality.

Several other items were passed.

Moved by Mr. Aylsworth, seconded by Mr. Ashley, that hereafter the Chief of Police obtain the authority of the Clerk of the Peace before he transacts any business for this County as far as regards the costs for arresting prisoners, &c.

Committee rose and reported—adopted.

The Government was requested on motion to grant $3,500 to assist the road leading from the 7th con. of Cashel to the Monck road.

The yeas and nays were called on a motion ordering that no more portraits of the members of the Council or its officers be taken at the expense of the County.

YEAS.—Ashley, Cross, Caskey, Vandervoort, Grass, Armstrong, Robinson, Emo, Kavanagh, Cook, Peck.—11.

NAYS.—Flint, Weese, Fitzgerald, McDavitt, Gunter, Anderson, Gordon, Currie, Francis, Lee and the Warden.—11.

The motion was declared lost.

A motion thanking the Chairmen of the various Committees of the Council was passed and duly acknowledged.

The width of the Sodom road was altered so that it can be allowed a width of forty feet.

The several By-laws were read a third time, passed and numbered.

On motion the Warden left the chair and Mr. Ashley took the same.

Mr. Flint moved, seconded by Mr. Emo, that the thanks of this Council be tendered the Warden for the efficiency with which he has discharged his duties and for his general courtesy.

The mover and seconder made speeches appropriate to the motion, as did also Mr. White and Mr. Ashley.

A standing vote on the resolution was accorded.

The Warden returned his thanks, and said he had endeavored to fill the duties of the office in which he had been placed faithfully and efficiently. He was grateful to all for the order maintained during the year, and he was certain the business of the County had been carefully conducted. He concluded by again returning his thanks.

The Warden again assumed the chair.

The Surveyor was ordered to report on Bell's Creek bridge in the 2nd Con of Thurlow.

The minutes of the meeting were read and approved, and the Council adjourned sine die.

PROTECTION IN ENGLAND.

Whilst some of the English journals are busily engaged in crying down and deploring the spread of Protectionist doctrines in the colonies, and holding up for the admiration of colonists the theoretic beauties and blessings of free trade, they fail to perceive that the same class of ideas which they decry in the colonies are making rapid progress on the continent of Europe and even in the mother land. France, Russia and Germany having shut out, to a considerable extent, the products of British workshops and factories, the manufacturers of Great Britain, whose profitable exchange of manufactured articles for food has thus been greatly curtailed, are beginning to cast about them for a remedy. The Pall Mall Gaze.te, in a recent issue, thus editorially, points out the alteration in the position of the British manufacturers which this change in the commercial aspect has brought about :—

"The United States and one or two of the Australian colonies are far from being the only countries in which protection of native industries finds favor. Wherever we look, outside of these Islands, the tendency is toward the imposition of protective tariffs ; while even in Great Britain there are not wanting signs that the classes who work exclusively with their hands may ere long attempt, under the guidance of leaders who cannot plead ignorance as an excuse to their actions, to tax for their exclusive benefit those who earn their living in other ways. France, Germany, even Switzerland, are moving, or seem about to move, in a retrograde sense. The importance of this tendency as regards ourselves it is almost impossible to exaggerate. We depend more than any other country upon the sale of our manufactures for the means of getting food. We buy more and more food every year ; and each country which shuts out our goods drives us to depend more upon other markets, or to rely upon our previous accumulations to feed ourselves. This is now being recognized as a matter worthy of grave attention, even by those who previously made light of the very great and growing disparity between our exports and our imports. It is now admitted that we have to pay America for grain in bonds which we had previously purchased out of savings ; this must represent a definite drawing upon capital. As a consequence, in fact, of the vast amount of grain we buy from the United States, and the increasing disinclination shown to take our manufactures in exchange, and the Americans are becoming more and more their own creditors. This whole subject of export and import and balance of trade generally has been treated hitherto in far too perfunctory a manner. Unless we greatly mistake, events are at hand which will drive us to reconsider the whole matter in relation to more than one portion of our empire, as well as in relation to the protective policy of foreign powers."

That the ideas above given expression to are already widespread and that the feeling in favor of a fair play tariff is gaining ground in England we have repeatedly shown by mention of deputations to the Government on the subject and by quotations from English newspapers, and it will not surprise us in the least if, within a very few years, a great alteration in the commercial policy of England results from the present agitation. The times may not yet be ripe for such a change, but the course of events seems to run strongly and with constantly increasing force in that direction.

THE MISSION TO ENGLAND.—The Ottawa Citizen says :—"Sir A. T. Galt sailed for England on Saturday, and it is understood that his mission is to confer with Her Majesty's Government as to the best means of opening up and developing Canadian trade with the British and foreign West Indies. He accompanies Hon. Mr. Tilley, who has gone to England to repair the negligences of his predecessor. We believe the Government are resolved to push energetically the opening up of new avenues of trade for the Dominion. They are determined not to be mere 'flies on the wheel.'"

RETRENCHMENT.—The Ottawa Citizen says :—"A saving to the country of a salary of $3,200 has been effected in the Department of the Interior. When Mr. Meredith was superannuated after years of meritorious service, the late Government might well have embraced the opportunity of making this saving. It was, we believe, pointed out to Mr. Mills, then Minister of the Interior, that the department was then over-manned and that Col. S. Dennis, Surveyor General, whose salary is also $3,200, could readily perform the united duties without increase of salary. This suggestion was, however, not acted upon, and Mr. Buckingham, at the time Mr. Mackenzie's Private Secretary, although an official of less than five years' standing, and of necessity utterly ignorant of the duties of the Department, was placed over the heads of old and experienced civil servants. This has been remedied by the present Government, Mr. Buckingham being relegated to his former position in the Public Works Department."

—A fire at Lindsay on the 18th inst., destroyed the following buildings :—Osborne House stables ; Woods & Co., tinsmiths, warehouse ; McLennan & Co., hardware merchants, warehouse ; and Bank of Montreal stables. Loss about $4,000 ; insurance not known.

The Hatred of Royalty.

Attempted Assassination of King Humbert.

NAPLES, Nov. 17.—As King Humbert was entering this city in state to-day a poorly clad man attempted to assassinate him with a poinard. Signor Cairoli, Chief of the Ministry, who was in the carriage with the King, laid hands on the man, who wounded him in the thigh. The King drew his sword and struck the assassin, who was immediately secured. The King received a slight scratch. Popular indignation is intense, and demonstrations of loyalty are unbounded. The assassin is twenty-nine years old, and by occupation a cook. He says he belongs to no society, but being poor, nourished hatred toward Kings. The King and Queen had been enthusiastically received by immense crowds. The assassin attacked the King while the latter was receiving a petition. The King showed great coolness. The Queen and their son, who were in the carriage, displayed much courage. The assassin's name is Giovanni Passanante. He says he does not like Kings. Immense crowds are in the streets to-night, celebrating the King's escape. The Austrian Embassy is illuminated and the Ambassador cheered.

LATER.—Passanante was bearing a banner among the trade associations which paraded to meet the King. He had fastened a dagger to the flag-staff, and with it wounded the King in the arm. The captain of the cuirassiers ended the struggle at the Royal coach by seizing Passanante.

LATER.

During the passage of a procession in honor of King Humbert's escape a bomb was thrown among a corps of veterans and exploded. Two men were killed and several wounded.

VIENNA, Nov. 18.—A telegram from Berlin reports a belief current that a plot exists for the assassination of all sovereigns. It is stated that the Russian judges, when examining Nobeling's case, were led to believe in the existence of a central organization for this purpose and investigations are still going on.

NAPLES, Nov. 18.—Several letters from members of the International Society have been found at Passanante's abode, and more Internationalists have consequently been arrested. The King had, previous to the attempt on his life, received two letters intimating that it would be made.

Further particulars of the attempted assassination show that the King struck the assassin on the head with his sheathed sword immediately on being attacked. Signor Cairoli grappled desperately with the man, and received a long but not deep wound, which caused considerable loss of blood. He is now confined to bed.

NEW USE FOR THE TELEPHONE.—In Buffalo they have devised a new use for the telephone. The plan is this : A merchant in a central point, instead of opening up a branch, simply has an outside office with a telephone connecting it to the store. At this outside office orders can be left and transmitted to the store, and in this way ladies can do their marketing almost at their own doors. The convenience of the arrangements needs no comment.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 18.—It is reported that Roumania has refused to make any convention with Russia not prescribed by treaty.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 18.—Nine regiments of Russian cavalry have arrived at Adrianople.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 19.—Wm. Barsons, Cashier of the People's Coal Company, absconded with Company's funds.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The Herald's Cincinnati special reports an interview with Senator Lamar in which he says that he sees no evidence of a change in the President's policy and there is no cause for any. Lamar says that the election in Mississippi was as quiet as could be. The South is more solid in favor of a self preservation than divided as to national politics. In Inkis district the Republicans voted on the Greenback ticket.

Washington specials.

The Tribune says Evarts, in a review of the political situation printed in the National Republican to-day, states that there is to be a thorough enforcement of the law in the South. The attitude of the President is, in reality, the same as it has been. He has been disappointed, however, in the fact that the assurances of the Southern leaders have not been kept, and he now intends to prosecute those who have violated the rights of citizenship. Evarts said in answer to a question whether peace will be established in the South in his generation: I confess I have had my doubts on that point, but I think we have made much progress and that we have reason to hope.

The Times says that persons on the Canadian border have made complaints against Consuls and commercial agents at various ports on the lakes, that in the verification and cetification of invoices excessive and illegal fees have been extorted. An investigation will be ordered.

The World says Colonel Geo. H. Butler, a nephew of General Butler, and a former Consul-General to Egypt, is now undergoing a sentence of thirty days in the Washington workhouse in lieu of a fine, which he was unable to pay in the Police Court.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—In view of the recent frauds in the refining of sugars, Collector Merritt has issued a new and stringent order in regard to the weighing and sampling of imported sugars.

On Sunday evening the engineer of the train approaching Neudorp station, Staten Island, observed two men on the track ahead, one lying down and the other standing over him. The signal was given and the train dashed on, killing the man who was on the track, the other man having ran away. Foul play is suspected.

The Times says the five men who were hired to steal Stewart's body were to have been arrested on Saturday night, three of them were arrested or are to be arrested, the other two bribed the private detectives that were shadowing them and escaped. As soon as they are apprehended the body will be produced.

The Times also gives currency to the report that Stewart's body is buried in a grave outside the limits of Weehawken cemetery.

The Herald says that the late Col. Dwight, of Binghamton, in the latter part of September had his life insured in a number of Companies for a total of $256-000, making one quarterly payment of the premiums. It is believed he then exposed himself to inclement weather to bring on hemorrhage of the lungs, from which he recently died. Physicians have been sent to make a post mortem as there is suspicion that he has tended death by poison, to evade the payment of the second quarter's premium. Dwight was formerly very wealthy, but recently failed.

The National Scourge.

It is estimated that the annual damages caused by the ravages of insects and worms are not $15,000,000 in the United States alone. Truly an enormous loss! Yet it sinks into insignificance when compared with the ravages of that more terrible scourge, Consumption, which annually sweeps hundreds of thousands of human souls into eternity. The causes of consumption are various, depending in every instance for the development of the disease upon the scrofulous diathesis, or temperament, of the victim. Thus the same cause which will produce in one person an attack of acute disease or a slight nervous prostration, will engender consumption in a person of scrofulous habit. That consumption can be cured by proper treatment will be readily perceived when the exact nature of the disease is understood, viz: the accumulation and deposition of scrofulous matter (tubercles) in the lungs. Obviously, the principal remedies required are (1) a powerful alterative, or blood-purifier, to arrest the accumulations and also cleanse the blood of the scrofulous matter, and (2) a mild cathartic to expel the diseased matter from the system. This course of treatment, in conjunction with a strict hygienic regime, has proved the most successful method of curing this disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets are the best alterative and cathartic remedies before the public, and have been alone used in thousands of cases of consumption with the most marked efficacy. Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, at Buffalo, N. Y., affords special and unequalled advantages to consumptives, not only possessing the best medical and hygienic means of treatment, but having the essential advantage of being situated in a climate where the inhabitants are notably free from this disease.

$10 Reward.

THE above reward will be paid for the return of a case of Silver Catheters, which were borrowed, lost or stolen, from my office about two months ago.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, NOV. 19.

City and Vicinity.

POLICE COURT.—Nothing doing to-day.

THE CELIA.—Two lone tramps had the cells all to themselves last night.

FOG.—A heavy fog rested on the bay to-day, rendering navigation exceedingly difficult.

ENGLISH MAIL.—The mails which arrived at Halifax on Sunday morning by the Polynesian were distributed here this morning.

FOR CALIFORNIA.—Several persons from Picton and neighborhood, who have resolved to try their fortunes on the Pacific slope, arrived on the steamer City of Belleville this morning.

DREDGING.—Having become partially disabled, Mr. Daly's dredge has ceased operations for the present. It will leave to-morrow to fulfil a contract at Westminster Park, but will return next spring to complete the work here.

LAW EXAMINATIONS.—At the recent law examinations in Toronto, Mr. W. B. Northrup, of this city, stood first in order of merit for call to the bar and was sworn in and enrolled. Mr. Northrup also passed as an Attorney, as did also Mr. L. U. C. Titus.

ROZE-MAPLESON CONCERT.—The Roze-Mapleson company's concert this evening will doubtless be attended by a large and fashionable audience. The plan shows that a very large number of seats have been taken, and many who have not secured sittings will be present, as the merits of the preformers have been made widely known.

IMPORTANT SALE.—The sale by auction of the household furniture, carpets, &c., of Mr. S. F. Filliter, who is about to return to England, is to take place at Mr. Filliter's residence, Albert Street, on Monday next, 25th inst. Mr. Wilkins is the auctioneer, and the sale is to commence at 10 a. m.

A NUISANCE.—We would call the attention of the Board of Works to the fact that the sidewalk on Front Street, corner of Wharf Street, is partially blockaded by the debris of the old house which was in part pulled down recently, and also inform that body that a portion of the wall of the old house still stands in a position dangerous to those who pass that way.

THE ROZE-MAPLESON CONCERT.—The Montreal Gazette has the following notice of the concert of this Company in that city : "On Saturday evening the previous success of this combination was fully sustained. The feeling of gratification which Mr. Pease's pianoforte playing gave the audience, culminated in his second piece—"Rhapsopie Hungroise" by Liszt—and gained for him a double recall, and happily too for both players and listeners, as the favorable impression already established by the performance of the pieces assigned him on the programme was deepened into a conviction of his merits by his rendering of the pieces of his own selection as encores. The first being a medley on well known airs, gave him an opportunity of showing that he could blend fine taste and expression with his graceful style, while the latter showed what he could do in attack, and fairly carried away his hearers. He is one of the school of young American pianists, including Mills, Smith and others, who have done as much to keep up a standard of taste in music in their own country, and should the more on that account be supported by all who can appreciate merit though not from abroad, and desire to see musical art abreast of the material prosperity of this continent. We have a recollection of hearing Mr. Carleton, some years ago in the Kellogg opera troupe, and certainly his rendering of his part on Saturday showed that whatever he might be in opera, in the concert room his voice and style showed to advantage. The former seems to have acquired more fullness and mellowness, while the latter is appreciative. His "Tar's Farewell," by Adams, was given an encore, in response to which he gave the always acceptable "Nancy Lee." Tom Karl, the favorite tenor, is ever welcome to Canadian operatic concert goers, and each time that we hear him our admiration increases for his attractions in the concert room. We observed an improvement in the breadth of his lower notes, slightly perhaps at the expense of the extraordinary purity and fulness of his higher, which so much enchanted his admirers when he first came out. The songs allotted to him gave him an opportunity of showing the feeling and expression he could add to the charm of his beautiful voice, the first being the ever popular "M'appari tu amor" from Martha, and the latter one of Abt's beautiful compositions, "My lovely child, good night," which brought him out again of course. Mr. Kaiser was very pleasing on the violin, and his rendering of Wilhelmj's Romance not only proved how good an instrumentalist he was, but made one long to hear it from the Master himself, who is now performing in the United States, and it is to be hoped will not pass by Montreal in his tour. In "Casta Diva," Marie Roze showed how admirably suited her voice and style are to the rendering of music of the dramatic class; the wonderful fulness and richness of her mezzo are expressed in a slight tremolo, the result of no failure in training or artificiality in style, but rather of the natural exuberance of her organ, whilst the purity and sweetness of some of her high notes added to these qualities showed her dramatic possibilities on the operatic stage. In Mr. Pease's beautiful song "O, Love, come back to me," she reminded us more of Parepa than any concert singer we have heard, and to those who have listened to that queen of the Concert room of later times, this is sufficient commendation. Encores followed both the Prima donna's efforts. The last piece brought the three voices together in a trio from "Lombardi," which had a dissatisfying effect, notwithstanding the beauty of its rendering, and created a longing for a full operatic performance; and this suggests the reflection that had the people of Montreal been as appreciative in numbers as in recalling the singers, there would be a greater inducement to Mr. Mapleson to bring on his full Opera Company this winter. Notwithstanding any misfortune of this nature, we hope that he will see his way to doing so. The patronage that was given last year to a third-rate affair of that kind is an assurance to him that it would pay, and Montrealers would have an opportunity of hearing probably the best opera company that has sung on this continent, which drew from Ole Bull lately in New York the high praise from such a quarter of being one of the best balanced and most satisfactory companies in their preformance that he had ever heard."

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—I really fail to see what there was in my short letter of the 15th inst., upon the subject of the recent disturbance in St. John's Church which could furnish occasion for the severe animadversions contained in your appended remarks, wherein you accuse me of exhibiting a "captious spirit," making "contradictory assertions" and "attempting to excuse rowdyism." I can only infer that you have seriously misinterpreted the intention and the language of my communication, and therefore I beg leave to offer a few words of explanation.

The primary object of my letter was to correct three grave misstatements which your report of the affair contained, viz: that "windows were broken," that "a churchwarden was assaulted" and that the service was "repeatedly interrupted." Now I do not think I am censurable for making these corrections. I did not make them in a "captious spirit" or to "excuse rowdyism" but simply for truth's sake.

But if your strictures are intended to apply more especially to the latter portion of my letter, permit me to say that in this part of it I wished to acquaint you with the fact which I thought you would have been gratified to know, that the disturbance in St. John's Church was not so bad as had been represented to you, and as your account of it must lead your readers to suppose.

Remember, Mr. Editor, that you placed the proceedings in question on a par with the "wreckage of Mr. Spry's house and the disturbances at Mr. Bennett's," scenes which are reported to have been most shameful, outrageous and violent. In view of this comparison it was that I stated in my letter that in the conduct of the crowd in the church there was nothing "riotous nor outrageous nor as I thought intentionally bad," that is to say no thing which justified mentioning it in the same category with the genuine rowdyism which characterized the other cases.

Now you seem to think that I contradict the above statements as to the character of the disturbances when I go on to describe what I saw of it. I represented it as mainly proceeding from "the noise of two hundred tongues in vigorous exercise." I own that this description is somewhat ambiguous taken by itself and might lead you to suppose that I intended to include more in it than I did, such as hooting, yelling, insulting language and a deliberate purpose to make a row; but I did not mean to include these exercises, for nearly all the uproar was produced simply by incessant and excited talk and occasional laughter. This was the uproar which, continuing after I had commenced the office, made me pause at the end of the first clause until silence was compelled, as you correctly state, by a few words from the Mayor at Mr. Geen's request. After this, as you say, and as I observed in my letter, silence prevailed to the end of the ceremony. You agree with me here that it was not "frequently interrupted." Perhaps after this explanation, Mr. Editor, you will see that the assertions of my letter are not contradictory. Observe that I do not attempt to excuse the conduct of those present. It was to my mind as well as to that of others, unseemly, disgraceful, shocking in the house of God, but not necessarily, or disgracefully, so shocking as you represented. I may add that I am heartily with the Churchwardens in their determination that "the crowd shall not hereafter be made the scene of a promiscuous assemblage at a wedding."

In conclusion, I wrote simply in the same interests in which you, Mr. Editor, are every day engaged—the interests of truth and justice, not I assure you in the "captious spirit" you attributed to me.

I remain, sir, yours truly,
R. S. FORNERI.

P. S.—Please understand me to refer in my observations only to the occurrence inside the church. Your account of the disturbance alluded only to this.

Belleville, Nov. 18, 1878.

[NOTE.—Having no desire to enter into a controversy with the Incumbent of St. John's Church, we accept without reserve his statement as to the motives which actuated his first letter on the above subject. Nevertheless, we cannot make the fine distinctions which he apparently draws between different degrees of rowdyism. The impertinent and irreverent cries (which the Rev. gentleman evidently did not hear) during the performance of the ceremony, the harsh words hurled at the bridal party as they left the church, and indeed the proceedings of many persons inside and outside of the church, as represented to us, justify the accusation that the rowdyism on the occasion in question was a manifestation of the same spirit which, indulged to excess, resulted in disgraceful scenes of violence on two former occasions referred to by us.—ED. INTELLIGENCER.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

THE ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.

SYMPATHY FROM KINGS.

A PLOT FEARED.

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—The Emperor was deeply moved on hearing of the attempted assassination of King Humbert. He immediately telegraphed King Humbert thanking God for his escape. Prince Bismarck likewise telegraphed. The general belief prevails here of the existence of a widespread international plot against the lives of the leading sovereigns. Many distinguished men have urged the necessity of strengthening the guards at the royal palace.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The corps of veterans which suffered the loss of two men by the explosion of a bomb thrown into the ranks during the procession in Florence in celebration of the King's escape, was similarly attacked while returning from the funeral procession in honor of King Victor Emmanuel. The following is the Pope's telegram ; Having heard of the deplorable attempt made against the life of your majesty I express my extreme concern, and at the same time my congratulations that you have escaped this grave danger. I pray God for the preservation of Your Majesty's health.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—Said Pasha, formerly the favorite and first secretary to the Sultan, now governor of the province of Broussa, has been called to Constantinople. It is rumored that he will assume the ministry of public words. Said Pasha was sent into a species of honorable exile on account at his strong English sympathies.

LONDON, Nov. 19. — Prince Dondoukof Korsakof, Governor of Bulgaria, arrived at Odessa on his way to Livadia to report the affair in Turkey. It is reported that as Donoukoff has expressed opposition to the Treaty of Berlin the appointment of another person as Governor of Bulgaria is probable. Bucharest newspapers publish full particulars of the Russian demands, they seem only to have asked increased facilities of frontier communication during the term of occupation of Bulgaria, nevertheless it is stated that the Bucharest Government has already declined the Russian proposals, declaring that the existing facilities are all the Russians need, according to the Treaty of Berlin and Russo-Roumanian Convention.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The Herald says that President Green, of the Western Union said yesterday that he had not yet been requested by a majority of the directors to call a special meeting of the stockholders to consider the advisability of dividing the surplus stock, as it was reported on Wall street. There was great opposition among some of the Directors to any such meeting and the projectors of the scheme found great difficulty in securing the signatures of the required number of Directors.

CAIRO, Ill., Nov. 19.—There was quite a heavy earthquake here last night and another slight shock felt at 5:10 this morning.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Dr. Thomas Swan was arrested for causing the death by abortion of Elizabeth Gates, of Manchester (Ontario County.) Albert B. Hoag, a farmer, is charged with the reduction.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.— The Graphic's Washington special reports the possibility that Gen. Grant may be elected Senator from Illinois in case of a dead lock between Oglesby and Logan. It also states that Secy McCreary's report describes the embarrassment of the army under the posse comitatus clause, and asks Congress either to repeal or to interpret this clause. McCreary treats the Indian question with great delicacy without alluding to the proposition for the transfer of the Indian bureau to the War Department.

MOVILLE, Nov. 19.—Arrived, the Circassia.

If Edison could invent a machine by which the barking of a dog would fire a powder mine and blow the dog to pieces, people would sleep better.

The winter season with its rain and slush is upon us, and the opportunities for sin will be doubled as every man will have to bring his umbrella down town so often.

From Central America.

DESTRUCTIVE EARTHQUAKES.

A severe earthquake occurred in Manizales, the capital of the State of Antioquia, on October the 9th, and destroyed 121 houses, including a church, the hospital, the principal school and the city building. No lives were lost. Damage $100,000.

Advices from San Salvador state that the volcanoes of Izzalco and Santa Anna are in a state of tremendous activity. For miles around ashes are falling, and the air is filled with smoke, darkening the day.

The intelligence of a severe earthquake in the southern portion of the Republic is fully confirmed. The loss of life and property is great, and the Government is assisting the homeless.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Nov. 19.—Probabilities for the next twenty four hours : For the Lower Lake region, moderate to fresh breezy to southerly winds, cloudy to partly cloudy weather with local showers, slightly cooler. For the St. Lawrence, fresh to brisk winds, cloudy weather, with showers. For the Maritime Provinces, easterly to northerly gales and cloudy to rainy weather.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19. — Indications :— partly cloudy, cold winds shifting to warmer.

The invigorating, Fattening and Nourishing qualities of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime are such as would indicate its sufficiency to "sustain the body in the performance of its various functions," with the aid of but little solid food. Hence its superior remedial worth in the "Wasting Diseases of Childhood," the "Wasting Away," in those of "Consumptive tendency,"—in Consumption itself, as well as in General Debility, and all cases of Prostration and Emaciation. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle ; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

The British Fleet Before Constantinople.

(London Times, October 14.)

On the occasion of the departure of the British fleet for the new anchorage at Artaki Bay, as it sailed on the first day of Bairam, one of the two great Turkish holidays of the year—the Admiral probably considered that it would be wanting in courtesy to leave the neighborhood without firing a salute, and His Imperial Majesty the Sultan, never having seen the fleet near at hand, thought to afford him the opportunity for doing so by ar rangeing with his ship off the Golden Horn. It was arranged that the ships on leaving the anchorage should proceed direct towards the Seraglio Point, and then steaming up the Bosporus as far as Leander's Tower, there "alter course in succession," and come out again into the Marmora. Punctually at half-past six the "Alexandra" was "away," and proceeding slowly so as to allow the other vessels to take up their stations, "in line ahead" was soon formed, with the "Alexandria" leading, the "Research" next astern, followed behind the "Agincourt" and "Invincible." The "Condor" and "Helicon" both preceded the fleet, the first to take up a berth off Tophanah as the senior officer in the Bosphorus, and the other to land despatches; the remaining small craft "Cygnet," accompanying the ironclads, stationed on the port beam of the line, as repeating ship for the signals. The course first steered by the leading ironclads took the squadron over to Coom Capu, a suburb of Constantinople, outside Seraglio Point. Within a few hundred yards of the shore, the signal was made to "alter course in succession," the "Research" being directed to stand on until clear of the line, and then to make the best of her way down to the Marmora, until picked up again by the squadron. The Commander-in-Chief thus wisely avoided the risk of a collision, of which there might have been danger in manœuvring in the strong current of the Bo phorus with a dummy in point of speed such as the "Research" is in company with a long ship like the "Agincourt." The "Research" might have been placed, it is true, at the end of the line; but this would have given a very struggling appearance to it, on account of her dropping astern as soon as she began to stem the current. The three large iron-clads steamed on steadily, past Seraglio Point, until they were well within the view of all who cared to watch Constantinople and its suburbs, and no doubt there was much misgivings in some minds as to our intentions. Near Leander's Tower, the light-house standing on a rock, a short distance from the shore at Scutari, with the Golden Horn well open, and Dolmabagtche Palace at no great distance in full view, the "Alexandra" altering course 16 points to starboard made a graceful curve, and stood down again to Marmora, firing a royal salute as she passed Seraglio Point at the entrance to the Bosphorus. The "Agincourt" and "Invincible" followed the motions of the "flag" in all firing the salute, and as they swept rapidly round and passed out of Constantinople's celebrated channel, the Turks had the opportunity of seeing how easily these large vessels can be handled when constant practice has given confidence to those in command and a complete knowledge of the peculiarities of their circumstances. The flagship and her consort soon overhauled the "Research" and little "Cygnet," and, reforming, the whole squadron finally proceeded for Artaki Bay. Little is known of this new anchorage of the fleet beyond the fact of its affording tolerably good holding ground and partial shelter against all winds but those between southwest and northwest. The anchorage is at the head of a gulf, not like that of Samia, with its upper part a mere lake, by the closing in of the land on either side, but one of no great length, and with a wide open mouth, ready for the reception of the heavy sea now rolling in by the heavy gales which, during the winter months, alternate with strong northeasterly winds along this shore.

In this Present Age, when the life-battle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the weakest and most delicate it tells so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for the keeping up of our reserve stock of mental and physical stamina by the use of such a nerve-tonic and vitalising agent as ROBINSON'S PHOSPHORIZED EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH LACTO-PHOSPATE OF LIME! Containing, as it does, the nutritive-tonic properties supply the materials, and assist Nature in her efforts to keep up with the exhaustive demands upon her resources. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London, Eng." d&w

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that uses it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists. d&w

An Intestine War.

The following letter explains itself:

Dear Doctor—You did a good turn for me once; you saved my life. To be sure you left me minus a leg in doing it—but life is sweet even with but one foot to hobble through the world with. It was down at——; It was a bloody but a glorious one! You remember how—but I beg pardon. I always forget myself when I get to talking about those old times. This is what I want to tell you: One morning last week I awoke feeling very strange. For a long time my liver had been rebellious, but I had anticipated no trouble. But that morning I discovered that my stomach had joined in the revolt, and a lively skirmish was being carried on, that threatened to end in a hard battle. The suddenness of the revolt put the head quarters in confusion, and all seemed hopeless till, suddenly, like one of those flashing orders of Grant, came the command—"Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Sage's Catarrative Pellets;" and a courier was immediately dispatched for them. Now, what I want to say is this, I feel like a volunteer, who has just received his commision, or, better still, as well as Grant did when he held Lee's sword. And I want to advise all who suffer from a rebellious liver and stomach to "fight it out on this line," and they will surely be victorious. AN OLD VET.

The last man will have an awful lonesome time of it. Nobody to borrow money of; nobody to dun him or raise his rent; no gas meter to make things lively; no book agents; no life insurance man, and no oldest inhabitants to declare that it's the most remarkable weather we have ever had.

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring into question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in the Directory are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of such of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the information given, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville and Mill Point.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to cement more closely the existing business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURGH, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz.: One page, $10.00; half-page, $6.00; quarter page, $3.00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men in the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers confidently expect the most cordial efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to make the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

March, 1878.

NOTICE.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly, "Deny it who can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your prejudice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain.

The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge" of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your home, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price, 25 cents per Bottle.

The Trade supplied through the Wholesale Drug and Patent Medicine Houses of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London.

"ROXY."

BY EDWARD EGGLESTON.

CHAPTER XII.

WHITTAKER'S SHIP COMES IN.

Poverty is always superstitious, if we may believe the bonhommie Beranger, and Whittaker, driven to and fro between a growing love for Roxy Adams and an honest sense of obligation to pay for his education, had one superstition. His father had, for years before, invested all his small savings in a whaling vessel sailing out of the port of New Bedford. News had come from the Arctic Seas which led to the belief that the ship was lost. Distress at the loss of his property, with the superadded grief of losing his wife soon after, had caused the death of Whittaker's father. But the son had never been quite convinced that the "Petrel" had gone down. And now he often dreamed at night of the "Petrel," weather-worn but richly laden, sailing into New Bedford harbor with Roxy on her prow, while he stood in the crowd of rejoicing stockholders, anxious friends of sailors, curious idlers, on the busy pier watching her return. But the "Petrel" never, except in Whittaker's imagination, floated again over the waters of Buzzard's Bay. He hoped in vain for his dividend, and the weary wives of sailors on the "Petrel" waited in vain for husbands whose gravestones were the icebergs.

But if the "Petrel" did not come, another ship did. The rich and childless deacon, who out of his large means had lent young Whittaker enough to finish his education for the ministry, died, and remembering that notes and bonds could not add to his comfort in heaven, he willed to his beneficiary the amount of his debt. On the very morning of Twonnet's fortune-telling, Whittaker had gone feverishly to the village post office, in the back part of a dry-goods store, to look for the letter that should bring him news of the "Petrel." He readily paid the 3½ cents postage on a letter from his brother, and opened it eagerly to read, not the return of the "Petrel," but the death of Deacon Borden and his own release from bondage. I am afraid that his joy at his deliverance from debt exceeded his sorrow at the death of his benefactor. He would now carry out a plan which he had lately conceived of starting a school, for there was no good one in the village. The two hundred dollars a year which it would bring, added to his two hundred from the Home Missionary Society and the one hundred salary from the church, would be ample for his support and that of a wife.

He was so elated that he could not quite keep his secret. He had gotten into a habit of talking rather freely to Twonnet. He Sunday-schooled and exhorted him, and her regard for him was kindly and disinterested. So with his letter full of news, he began to walk the upper piazza, waiting for the blithe Twonnet to come out for she had returned home and was now, as she "made up" the beds, singing and chatting to her younger sister half in French and half in English. In circumstances such as his, one must talk to somebody. Once he paused in his pacing to and fro and looked off at the deep green of the Kentucky hills, overlaid by a thin blue atmospheric enamel; he looked through the grape-vines which over-clambered the upper piazza, to the great peaceful current of the Ohio, flowing steadily in a majestic stillness—a placid giant is that river—he listens to the rich bird in an neighboring cherry-tree pouring out an ecstasy of amorous song to his mate, as he leaped joyously from bough to bough; and he, the grave, severe young minister, rejoiced in hills, and sky, and river and singing birds, half reproaching himself all the time for being so happy, and feeling like a good boy that, under some influence quite irresistible, has suddenly played truant.

Twonnet was long in appearing and Mr. Whittaker resumed his pacing to and fro, glancing every now and then at the hills and the river, and listening in a dreamy way to the delicious melody of the red bird and the occasional soft cooing of a turtle-dove, whose nest was in an apple tree just beyond the garden fence. At last Twonnet came out on the piazza—or porch, as they call it in Indiana—and Whittaker told her of the old deacon, and then of his own good fortune.

"I'm glad," said Twonnet, beginning to guess what had kept Whittaker from visiting Roxy.

"Glad the deacon's dead" queried Whittaker, smiling.

"I do not know your friend and I can't be very sorry for him. But I do know you and I am glad, since he must die, that he was good enough to give you your debt. It shows he was pretty good, after all. And my pleasure is not quite religious and right," and she laughed roguishly. "Besides, you don't seem heart-broken about it, and—but here she checked herself seeing that she had given pain.

"I am afraid I have been selfish," said Whittaker—all the gladness had gone now—"but you don't know what a nightmare this debt has been. I don't wonder that debt makes men criminals—it hardens the heart."

"Well, Mr. Whittaker, if he had wanted you to feel sorry that he was gone, he ought to have given you the money while he was alive," said Twonnet, lightly. Then she started away, but looked back over her shoulder to say mischievously, "Now, Mr. Whittaker, you'll go to see somebody, I'll bet."

"Twonnet," he called after her, and when she hadstopped he asked: "Is there any reason why I shouldn't go to see somebody?"

"Of course not. Every reason why you should go right off. You are not too late, but you will be if you wait." This last was said with the old bantering tone, and Whittaker looked after her as she disappeared, saying to himself:

"A splendid girl. Pity she is so giddy."

After some reflection, lasting fifteen minutes, he decided to call on Roxy Adams that very afternoon. He had not understood Twonnet's warning, but some apprehension of grave disaster to his new-born hope, and the nervousness of an austere man who was found duty and inclination coincident, made him in haste to forestall any misadventure. He ate but little dinner, not even enjoying his favorite dish of dandelion greens cooked in good Swiss fashion. Mr. Lefaure watched anxiously, and at last enquired with earnestness:

"Est-ce que ne vous partes pas bien, Monsieur?"

But Whittaker smiled and assured the host that he was well, but had no appetite.

Twonnet at last solemnly told her father that Mr. Whittaker had received a letter that very morning informing him of the death of an old friend, and this information tallied so little with the expression on the minister's face that Twonnet's father was quite suspicious that the girl was playing one of her little pranks on him. But when he looked again at Whittaker's face it was serious enough.

After dinner he tried to get ready with great deliberation. By severe constraint he compelled himself to move slowly, and to leave the little front gate of palings, painted black atop, in a direction opposite to that which his feet longed to take.

"The other way," cried the mischevous voice of Twonnet, from behind a honeysuckle which she affected to be tying up to its trellis.

"Presently," replied he, finding it so much easier not to keep his secret, and pleased with Twonnet's friendly sympathy. But that word, spoken to her half in tenderness, pierced her like an arrow. A sharp pang of jealousy shot through her and what shot through her heart. She had accomplished her purpose in sending Mr. Whittaker to Roxy, and now her achievement suddenly became bitter to her. She ran up stairs and closed the door and let down the blind of green slats, then she buried her head in the great feather pillows and cried her eyes red. She felt lonely and forsaken of her friends. She was mad with the minister and with Roxy.

But Whittaker walked away in the sunlight, full of hope and happiness.

Wilkes Booth's Pursuer.

HOW NEARLY THE TRAGEDY CAME TO HAVING A DIFFERENT SEQUEL.

Mr. Joseph B. Stewart, a lawyer of New York, is the man who leaped on the stage of Ford's Theatre in Washington on the night of April 14, 1865, and followed J. Wilkes Booth behind the scenes into the alley where the saddled horse was waiting. Everybody else in the theatre was dazed with what had occurred, or was thoughtful only of the wounded man. Mr. Stewart sat with his family next to the orchestra rail to the right of the middle aisle. To his right in the proscenium box of the second tier was President Lincoln, Mr. Stewart heard the fatal shot, and, looking up, saw the President's head fall forward in his box. The chair was empty. The next instant Booth stepped on the balustrade of the box to leap down to the stage. As he stood poised with a dagger in his hand, Stewart, who had a slight acquaintance with him, recognized him, and at a glance took in the situation. Booth's spur was caught in some of the drapery, and as he fell to the stage his back was toward the spectators. The actor was six feet touched the stage. He sprang up, and, brandishing the dagger, strode diagonally across the stage to the opposite side. As he arose Mr. Stewart sprang to the top of the orchestra, but his foot slipped. He lost an instant in mending his hold, and then leaped over the intervening space to the footlights. Had he known the position of the rear entrance to the theatre, he could have reached it soon as Booth did. As it was, he was compelled to follow the fugitive diagonally to the left, and then back across the stage behind the scenes. The door was shut in his face, and he could not readily open it. When he did, he saw Booth springing into the saddle. The horse's head was towards a brick wall. Stewart sprang forward to grasp the left rein. As he did so, Booth turned the animal to the right, and backing it as it turned, its rump threw Stewart against the wall. Then came a race across the courtyard towards a sharp turn that led to the alley opening into F street. The horse could not be galloped into this yard, and Stewart nearly caught up with it on its left side, but was again crowded against a wall. He was between the horse and the wall. Booth made one stroke at his pursuer with the dagger that he yet held, but seemed to be anxious to get away without shedding more blood. While the latter was yet struggling for the bridle rein, Booth arrived at the mouth of the alley, and putting his horse into a gallop soon rattled out of sight. Subsequently Stewart was asked by a friend why he was so anxious to get hold of the bridle. "Because," he said, "I knew exactly what to do if I got hold of the bit. I would have thrown the horse over on his back. Yet I think," he added, "it was very fortunate that I did not catch him. The theatre was filled with soldiers. The feeling after the first moment of inaction was one of intense bitterness. They came pouring over the stage and out of the stage door. If Booth had been there he would have been shot into small pieces. Many of themselves would have accidentally fallen victims to their reckless fury. I suppose that if I had stood there holding him when they came out, my virtues would now be proclaimed to a careless world on a piece of marble. Besides, it was better as it was. If Booth had been killed then, the plot for the assassination would never have been discovered."

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF.

The Policy of Slander.

The old policy of throwing mud at their opponents, in the hope that some of the dirt will stick is again being resorted to by the Grit papers, in the absence of anything in the record of the Conservative party open to fair attack. In pursuance of this line of tactics, the following appears in the Ottawa correspondence (dated November 16th) of the Globe:

"The Government have boldly continued the American practice, initiated into Canada by Mr. Bowell, of dismissing from the public service the appointees of its predecessors."

This is a repetition in effect of the same slander that appeared in the London Advertiser some days ago, and which was fully exposed by us at the time. There is, however, this addition in the Globe's version of the story, that the American practice in the dismissal of officials has been introduced by the Minister of Customs. It is pertinent to enquire what is the American practice to which this virtuously indignant correspondent refers? Any one at all acquainted with the subject will answer, that it is the dismissal of public officers appointed by one party when the opposing party has defeated them, and the appointment to the places thus made vacant of the adherents of the party which has gained the ascendant—in other words, the carrying into effect of General Jackson's maxim, "To the victors belong the spoils." As the Hon. Mr. Bowell has not dismissed any appointee of the late Government and appointed a political friend in his stead, then he has not initiated the American practice, and consequently the correspondent's charge is utterly untrue. The only dismissal from the Department of Customs of which any knowledge is that of Mr. Marchand, who was appointed to a sinecure in the Custom House at Montreal in opposition to the wish of the Collector at that port. Mr. Marchand's office will not be filled, and a saving of $1,200 per annum to the country will be the result.

If the correspondent in question is anxious to learn who did introduce the American practice into Canada, let him read Mr. Mackenzie's campaign speeches and there he will find that the ex-Premier boasted, at various times and places, of the number of Government employees appointed by his predecessors in office that he had dismissed. Then let him study the official returns and he will find that all the vacancies thus created were filled by the appointment of Mr. Mackenzie's adherents. He will thus, as a consequence, ascertain that the party in whose support he writes initiated and acted upon the system to which he very properly objects, but which he falsely attributes to those to whom he is politically opposed.

It is to be hoped that the Globe and its Ottawa correspondent will learn wisdom from experience and cease repeating slanders and falsehoods which have been abundantly proved to be untrue. They have not even the poor excuse for doing so that the interests of their party are thereby subserved, as when the truth is learned people are apt to disbelieve writers once proven guilty of intentional falsehood, even when they publish what is true. The good name of the Grit party has become so fearfully smirched during the past five years that it behooves the organs of that organization to be very cautious in their assertions, insinuations and inuendoes, which have the effect of recalling to mind the offences of which their party as a whole, was recently found guilty by the people of the Dominion.

PROMOTION.—In consequence of Mr. Dennis being made Deputy Minister of Interior, Mr. Lindsay Russell, the present efficient Assistant Surveyor General, takes the rank of Surveyor General, without increase of salary.

ROYAL SALUTES.—In the Militia General Orders published in the Gazette appears the following, over the signature of Lieutenant-General Sir Selby Smyth: "It is directed with the concurrence of His Royal Highness the Field Marshal, Commander-in-Chief, and of the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies, that unless dispensed with by authority whenever Her Royal Highness the Princess Louise, Marchioness of Lorne, is present, the salute, if ordered to be fired, shall consist of twenty-one guns. The royal standard shall be hoisted on the fort or battery, and the guard of honor shall observe the usual military honors to Royalty by drooping the colors with the 'present,' The Field Marshal Commander-in-Chief has further been pleased to signify Her Majesty's wish that the Royal standard should be hoisted on the Government House, Ottawa, whenever Her Royal Highness the Princess Louise is in residence."

Political Notes.

A rumor is in circulation that Mr. Thos. Farrow, M. P. for North Huron, is to be appointed Collector of Customs at Goderich, the resignation of Mr. Doty, the present incumbent, being under consideration.

The publication of the daily edition of the Charlottetown Patriot, the principal organ of the Grit party in Prince Edward Island, has been discontinued. Gritism is at a heavy discount in the "right little island" at present.

Returns of the British Columbia elections show that Dr. McInnes was elected for New Westminister by a majority of 91; in Vancouver Mr. Bunster polled more votes than his three opponents combined. In Cariboo Mr. J. S. Thompson was returned by acclamation. All the members for British Columbia are Conservatives.

Dr. Haney, M. P. P. for Monck, whose death took place on Monday, was first returned to the Local Legislature for Monck in 1872 on the sitting member being unseated. He was re-elected at the general election in January, 1875, and again, after being unseated, in June, 1875. He was a popular member, being highly respected on both sides of the House; and though he never took an active part in the debates, yet his sound common sense was of value in committee work and to the interests of his constituents he was ever faithful. Deceased was in his forty-third year. At the last election he was returned by a majority of 261.

The Spectator announces that the rolling mills in Hamilton, which formerly employed between three and four hundred hands, and which have been closed for the past four or five years in consequence of the inequalities of the tariff, are about to be re-opened, and will be run at their full capacity. A company of capitalists has been formed, and a sufficient amount of money paid in to warrant the assertion that the mills will re-open under the most favorable auspices.

The Gazette declares that Germany does not contemplate acquiring or founding colonies beyond the Atlantic. The dispute with regard to the Samoan Islands will naturally be settled by a treaty, which will secure to Germany and the other States interested the privileges granted to the most favored nation.

DECLINED.—The Ottawa Free Press says: "We understand that Mr. Buckingham has declined to accept the position in the Public Works Department, to which he had been translated on his supercession as Deputy Minister of the Interior."

A HEAVY LOSS.—The whole of the capital and reserve fund, and fully five millions sterling besides, are, "on a moderate and favorable estimate," what, according to the city editor of the London Times, the Bank of Glasgow has lost; altogether 831,000,000.

THE NORTH WEST.—An Ottawa report says:—"Mr. J. Normand, of the North-west Mounted Police, is in the city. He had a tedious trip from Fort Walsh. It took him 32 days to make the journey. He passed through Sitting Bull's camp about three weeks ago, and reports everything peaceful and the very best of feeling existing between the old man and the Mounted Police. He says Sitting Bull's braves are less troublesome than any other tribe now in Canada territory. Colonel Mcleod will arrive at the Capital in the course of a few days, and will remain until spring, when it is likely he will take about 100 recruits with him."

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT.—Mr. Edison's specification for a patent has now been lodged in London, and it is not likely to be long before everybody will have a chance to see just what he has accomplished. Meantime other patents for electric light are being taken out, so that we shall be able to institute an interesting comparison. It is worth adding that the composition of electric light is almost identical with that of the sun's light. This is proved by colors appearing the same under either, while by gas or oil lamp bright blues cannot be distinguished from greens. At first it strikes the eye with a glare, so bright and pure is it; but after becoming accustomed to it gaslight seems dull and dingy in comparison.

The Progress of the Viceregal Party.

THE INTERCOLONIAL CAR TO HAVE THE HONOR OF CONVEYING THEIR EXCELLENCIES—THE DISTINGUISHED PARTY THAT IS GOING TO GREET THE MARQUIS AND THE PRINCESS.

(From the Montreal Witness, 19th inst.)

At 9.45 this evening the train provided by the Government is to start for Halifax to convey from thence to Ottawa the Viceregal party. It consists of the official car reserved exclusively for the Marquis and his Royal wife, a dining car and three Pullman cars, a first-class carriage for the servants, and two baggage wagons. The whole is under the direction of Conductor McLeod, especially appointed for the purpose of conducting the Viceregal party on their first trip through Canada. The cook in the dining car goes by the name of "Charles." He is a Frenchman, and said to be quite a culinary artist. Mr. C. J. Brydges, Manager of the Intercolonial Railway, is going down with as many of the Federal Ministers as can possibly get away. Sir John A. Macdonald, Hon. Dr. Tupper, Hon. Messrs. Jas. Macdonald, J. H. Pope, Mackenzie Bowell and Masson, with Chief-Justice Ritchie, and sir Sidney Smythe, are of the party. The most of them will put up at the Halifax Hotel to await the arrival of the distinguished travellers.

If their Excellencies reach Halifax on Saturday, they will leave for Montreal on Tuesday instead of Wednesday. The following is the programme of their journey: The Viceregal train will leave Halifax at eleven in the morning, and only stop to change engines on their way to Montreal. There will be five meals taken during the ride by rail; lunch, dinner, supper, breakfast and lunch again. The party will reach the Bonaventure Depot about seven o'clock in the evening next day.

ALONG THE ROUTE.

We learn that the inhabitants of the towns and villages along the route to be taken by the Royal party are making preparations to welcome them. The places through which they will pass by night are to have bonfires, and the dwelling houses and public buildings, in view of the railway track, illuminated as much as possible. Evergreens and flags are to be used at the stopping places during daylight.

Horrible Affair in Detroit.

AN AMHERSTBURG GIRL OUTRAGED IN A CROWDED STREET.

DETROIT, Nov. 18.—A most horrible and brutal outrage was committed here last evening, the victim of a brute's lust being a young and beautiful lady, the niece of Judge Lyman Cochrane, of the Superior Court of this city, of whose family she is an inmate. Her name is Ida Campbell, of Amherstburg, Ont. The young lady had been spending the evening at the house of a friend on Congress street, one of the most aristocratic and frequently-travelled thoroughfares in Detroit, and about 9 o'clock started to return home. Escort was offered her, but, owing to the early hour and the number of people on the street she declined, thinking she could reach her residence without being molested. She had gone but the length of half a block, however, before a man with a masked face came suddenly before her, threw a heavy shawl around her head, seized her in his arms and bore her into the yard of the Detroit Locomotive Works, some distance away, on another street. There he was beyond detection, and, although the poor girl struggled vigorously, the beast succeeded in overpowering her, and, brutally tearing away her clothing, outraged her person—not once, but thrice, possibly oftener. The victim, becoming unconscious, could not be [illegible] after. She was found wards, still senseless, her face covered with blood, and her neck black where she had been choked by the man. The officer conducted her to the Woodbridge street Police Station, and subsequently had her conveyed home. The girl is but 19, exceedingly delicate, and it is feared the assault and shock consequent thereto may result seriously. There is no clue to the identity of her assailant.

A Free Press Battleford special says it is reported there that the Indians are pulling up the Survey stakes, and that the Mounted Police who went to arrest Big Bear have been sent home empty-handed. A later despatch confirms the report previously telegraphed, and expresses the fear that the Indian war is likely to become general. The Saskatchewan Herald says that this feeling is deep-seated, and great uneasiness prevails amongst the Indians on the plains on account of their real or fancied wrongs.

We are having our Indian summer. There has been no snow yet.

The Afghan Affair.

EARL BEACONSFIELD DECLINES TO RECEIVE LORD LAWRENCE'S COMMITTEE.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The Committee organized to urge an early meeting of Parliament in view of war with Afghanistan having asked Dord Beaconsfield to grant them an interview, the Premier has written a letter to their Chairman, Lord Lawrence, in reply. Lord Beaconsfield says he is at a loss to perceive what useful purpose can be served by a more extended expression, through a deputation from the Committee, of opinions which Lord Lawrence and others have so effectively and copiously explained in regard to the assembling of Parliament.

BOMBAY, Nov. 19.—The Gazette announces that several regiments have been warned to hold themselves in readiness to advance from Quettah immediately, and that all are ready. Merchants from Central Asia say that no indications of a movement of Russians towards Afghanistan are observable.

A despatch from Lahore says the Viceroy has arrived there, and the Commander-in-Chief has been recalled from Peshawur to meet him.

A despatch from Peshawur announces that the pass near Ali Musjid has been reconnoitred. Its difficulties are less than they were supposed to be. Artillery can be brought to bear on the fort.

A RICH COUNTRY.—The Iron World of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, has an article in which, instead of seeing a diminution of trade between Canada and the United States, as the result of the carrying out of a National Policy for the Dominion, it sees increased trade relations. It says: "We believe that Canada has done a good thing for herself in resolving to have a protective tariff, and that in the long run it will not be prejudicial to the interest of this country, although it may at first entail to some extent our foreign market. It will probably make Canada a rich country, whereas she now is a poor one, and in a very few years we think she will be able to buy more from us than she now does, although the articles bought from us may not be the same as those we now chiefly send her."

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

GREENVILLE, S. C., Nov. 20.—Peter Sudduth, who killed a Deputy Sheriff, while trying to arrest Sudduth's son, has been acquitted, although six witnesses swore he committed the crime.

RICHMOND, Nov. 20.—The report of the yellow fever commissioners who have been investigating the epidemic in the south attributes the origin of the fever to cases imported into New Orleans on May 23rd. The commissioners also comment on the general neglect and violation of the laws of health, neglect of drainage, inattention to deposits of fetid matter and refuse, and inattention to the purity of drinking water.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The Tribune's Washington special reports Buckner, Chairman of the House Committee on banking, as saying that no attack on the silver dollar next session would be successful in his committee. Free coinage will probably be secured at the coming session, and as the banks have invited war they will probably get it.

He said it was not strange that the Commodore's daughters should have felt some bitterness toward this woman. He added that Wm. H. Vanderbilt had encouraged this marriage. During Black's remarks the counsel and all interested seemed much excited, and Wm. H. Vanderbilt for the first time during the trial appeared to be affected.

Judge Hilton now offers $50,000 for evidence that will secure the arrest and conviction of the five persons believed to be engaged in the robbery of the vault, or will pay $10,000 for the arrest and conviction of any of them.

The World's reporter learned last night that notwithstanding the fact that two of the five principals in the robbery had evaded the detective, the case was likely to be finished at any moment. The principal left this boarding house the day or night on which the robbery was committed. He is known to have been in St. Mark's churchyard two hours before the robbery was committed. He has evaded the detectives thus far.

GOOD JUDGMENT.

WE have always noticed that Cash customers exercise the best and soundest judgment in buying. Hence the growing popularity of the

NEW BRITISH WAREHOUSE.

It stands to reason that any one who is always in the habit of paying cash for what they buy, can do better in a Cash store, where they are sure not to pay credit prices for what they buy, as is too often the case where cash buyers patronize credit stores. We are constantly receiving NEW GOODS EVERY WEEK, bought for cash, and the regular discounts taken advantage of.

We mark all Goods the closest figure that they possibly can be sold for, for cash,

ASKING ONE PRICE ONLY,

and we are satisfied that we are in a position to offer cash buyers advantages that cannot be surpassed in the market. Try the NEW BRITISH WAREHOUSE for your next parcel of Dry Goods.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, NOV. 20.

City and Vicinity.

POLICE.—Four arrests were made by the police last night, and one tramp took lodgings in the cells.

THE GAOL.—There are now fifteen prisoners in the gaol, namely eight males and seven females.

W. C. T. A.—A special meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Association will be held at the residence of Mrs. E. W. Holton, on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 21st, at three o'clock.

BARLEY FOR BOSTON.—Messrs. W. H. Campbell & Co., are shipping on two cars, which have been left on the Pinnacle Street line convenient to their elevator, 1,000 bushels of barley for Boston.

CLEAN CROSSINGS.—Although the streets have been transformed by the rain into so many oceans of mud, the crossings on the principal streets have been cleaned. So much to the credit of the Board of Works.

ST THOMAS' CHURCH.—Mr. John Northcott (not Messrs Northcott & Alford, as at first reported), contractor for the partial restoration of St. Thomas' Church, was to begin operations on his contract to-day.

THE WEATHER.—Vennor's prophecies have come to naught, the cold weather which he predicted having postponed its advent until a later date. Another prophecy from the "Canadian weather prophet" is in order.

ATTENDED TO.—The Board of Works has attended to the removal of the debris of the old house on the corner of Front and Wharf Streets, which encumbered the sidewalk, and caused the levelling of the remaining part of the wall.

PERSONAL.—Lieut.-Col. Straubenzie is in town. He inspected the Sidney company of the 49th yesterday, complimenting the men highly on their appearance and proficiency, and was to inspect the Belleville Companies (Nos. 1 and 4) this afternoon.

BOOK POST.—An exchange states that parcels cannot be transmitted by post to any place beyond the limits of Canada, nor can any parcel be forwarded to British Columbia or Manitoba via the United States, which exceeds in weight the Postal Union limit of 2 lbs. 2 oz.

HOUSE OF ILL-FAME.—Charles De Mott, who was tried on Monday before the magistrates in Trenton and convicted on a charge of keeping a house of ill-fame in that village, was to-day committed to gaol here on a sentence of two months' imprisonment.

CREDIT TO WHOM CREDIT IS DUE.—The Oswego Palladium strongly lectures the Syracuse Journal on mistakes made in clipping from one Oswego paper and crediting to another. Our contemporary might at times apply the remarks which it makes to itself; for frequently extracts from the INTELLIGENCER copied into its columns are credited to our local contemporary, and vice versa; but we had not considered the matter of sufficient importance to refer to until now that the Palladium has shown what immense consequences attach to slight mistakes.

ONCE MORE UNLUCKY.—Last fall a party of gentlemen in search of deer visited one of the back lakes in the northern part of the county of Addington. They started from Centerville and took with them all the dogs, horses, ammunition, &c., necessary for the campaign. Whilst one of the party was astride a horse urging another animal forward by pummeling him with a gun, a too vigorous lunge—the gun being loaded—led to the discharge of the weapon and the horse's ultimate death. The same party this year went out on another campaign and during their hunt another horse was killed. A few more hunting expeditions by this party would, with a continuance of such luck, result in bankruptcy.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.—We understand that the St. Andrew's Society's celebration will take place on Friday evening, 29th inst., instead of Monday evening, Dec. 2nd, as at first announced.

LOOK OUT.—The Hamilton Spectator says:—"On Saturday last four $10 bills were presented at the counter of one of our local banks, which were very correct imitations of the genuine bills of the Ontario Bank. The teller was fortunately able to trace the bills to the party who presented them, and thus saved himself and the bank from loss, but just exactly how the grocer will come out goodness only knows."

FROM THE NORTH.—From two trappers who have been at work in the vicinity of West Macoon Lake, and who reached the city this morning, we learn that all the smaller bodies of water in the northern part of Hastings and Addington Counties are covered with ice, but that the larger lakes are still open. The two men above referred to travelled from the scene of their operations (over 90 miles) on foot, and each brought with him a quantity of furs of different varieties.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—An accident of a very serious nature occurred at the Grand Trunk Railway depot here on Tuesday morning at 2:30. The victim was William A. Barclay, twenty years of age and a resident of Toronto. From what we have learned it appears that Barclay, whilst engaged in shunting cars at the station, attempted to run a van on another track than that on which the cars that had been coupled to it had moved. Whilst the van was in motion he endeavored to get into it but missing his footing, fell across the rails. Two wheels of the car passed over both his legs, but he managed to wriggle them off before the passage of the next truck. The wounds inflicted were temporarily dressed at the depot here, after which the man was taken to Toronto and placed in the General Hospital in that city. On examination it was found that his right leg was fractured immediately above the ankle and the foot was badly crushed. The left leg was fractured into the knee joint, making it a serious and complicated affair to set. The unfortunate man is now under the care of two competent physicians and under the circumstances is thought to be doing remarkably well. He had been on the road only three weeks when the mishap befell him.

THE MARIE ROZE CONCERT COMPANY.—This company, which appeared before a large and brilliant audience in the Opera House last night, furnished one of the finest entertainments which has ever been given in Belleville. Mme Roze, whilst perhaps failing to realize the over-strained anticipations of a few, yet proved herself a truly great vocalist, her powers being of the highest order and her method admirable; though we have no doubt that in the lyric drama, in scenes requiring a display of passion and power, she would appear to the best advantage. Mr. Tom Karl, the tenor, showed a marked improvement over his performance here on a former occasion, his voice being sweet yet powerful and resonant and its compass remarkable. Mr. W. T. Carleton, the basso baritone, possesses a fine voice, though lighter than several baritones that we have heard, yet amply sufficient for concert purposes and the less trying roles in opera. Mr. Kaiser, the violinist, also made a highly favorable impression, his bowing being notably smooth and execution brilliant. He is evidently destined to take a very high rank in his profession. His second number, an adagio from Bazzini's military concerto, which was substituted for a cavatina by Raff, and Reber's "Cradle Song," which was given in response to an encore, were beautifully executed and won hearty applause. Mr. Alfred Pease, the pianist, proved himself worthy of the great name which he has won as a consummate artist. Whilst the lovely polonaise from Mignon and his Souvenir de Maria Roze were executed in the most artistic style, the arrangement of the popular sacred song "The Sweet By and By," in which the most intricate variations were rendered in a brilliant manner, fairly took the audience by storm. The concluding number, a trio, "Te sol quest anima," by Mme. Roze and Messrs. Karl and Carleton, was a gem, the voices being nicely balanced and harmonizing beautifully. An encore was given and responded to. In fact, the artists were one and all very kind in responding to the numerous encores which were demanded, the length of the programme being thus very nearly doubled. The Reynolds Brothers deserve great credit for their enterprise in affording the people of Belleville this rare treat, and we trust they have been amply rewarded.

In this Present Age, when the life-battle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the strongest the tug and stress of it tell so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for the keeping up of our reserve stock of mental and physical stamina by the use of such a nerve-tonic and vitalizing agent as ROBINSON'S PHOSPHORIZED EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH LACTO-PHOSPATE OF LIME! Its gently stimulating and nutritive-tonic properties supply the materials, and assist Nature in her efforts to keep up with the exhaustive demands upon her reserves. Prepared solely by J. H. AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The Tribune says that private despatches yesterday announced that the east bound passenger ticket war was at an end.

Arrived, the Gellert from Hamburg and the Wisconsin from Liverpool.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 20.—Yesterday morning Otto Montgomery attempted to inflict a severe wound in his head. A son age 120, who attended him last night, while standing at his father's beside, fainted from exhaustion, dropping a kerosene lamp, which exploded, setting fire to the bed, his father was burned to a crisp. the son revived and rushed into the street where his burning clothes were extinguished after severe injuries were inflicted.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—An appalling destitution exists among the mechanics and laborers of Sheffield in consequence of the business depression. Hundreds are living in tenements without clothing or furniture, which they have been forced to sell for food. They are without fuel and are dependent upon the charity of the neighbors for subsistence. The Mayor has called a public relief meeting.

At the opening of the Prussian Parliament yesterday, Count Wermigerode, vice-Chancellor, said the Government relies upon the co-operation of the Chambers for the removal of financial difficulties. Last year's surplus will be almost entirely required to recover the increasing contributions of Prussia towards the German exchequer interest on public debt will likewise be considerably increased and there are other unavoidable expenses. Unless important interests are to be neglected he said retrenchment will be almost impossible. The influx of large sums from extraordinary sources has ceased, while the ordinary and regular revenue suffering from the continued depression of trade does not allow us to count upon any sensible addition to previous figures. The revenue is insufficient to cover the ordinary and regular expenditure of the State: The means to amend this state of things will be found in taxes and imports handed over to the German exchequer. Meanwhile current expenditures will have to be partly defrayed by loans.

A Berlin despatch says the deficit is stated to exceed 70,000,000 marks and but for the last remnant of the French indemnity being distributed in '76 it would have occurred a year ago. It is mainly occasioned by a steady increase of military and expenses and decrease of indirect taxes and proceeds from the Government railways, mines and forests

ROME, Nov. 20.—Passanante, the King's assassin, manifested a most perfect unconcern and brutal self-assurance, while undergoing his preliminary examination. Evidently he had calmly meditated the act and fully made up his mind to the consequences. When the Magistrate expressed his horror of the deed the prisoner said, "it seems to me you are getting too excited." On being asked if he had not observed, the people would have torn him to pieces, but for the police, he replied, "people are fools, they always act that way."

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The officials at the police headquarters are reticent as usual today about the Stewart matter. It was learned that a number of arrests have been made in various precincts. One explanation for these arrests which has been offered is that the police are anxious to get the reward now off red for the conviction of any of the thieves who stole Stewart's body, as it is understood that to get the reward it will only be necessary to convict the thieves, whether the body is found or not.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 20.—Mrs. Emily Elliott dropped dead from weakness while at a sewing machine, yesterday, laboring to support a sick husband and a family of helpless children. Every particle of furniture in the house was sold for sustenance.

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—Kearney left for California last evening. In an interview with a reporter he admitted that Butler at his final interview treated him coldly and said he had written a letter resenting the insult and that he had discovered Butler to be a political demagogue surrounded by the worst class of thieves, bummers and the like, and will advise workingmen to shake him as a leader henceforth and forever.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—Probabilities for the next twenty four hours:—For the Lower Lake region, moderate to fresh winds, partly cloudy weather and possibly local showers. For the St. Lawrence, fresh to brisk winds, and cloudy weather, with rain areas. For the Maritime Provinces, brisk northeasterly to northerly winds and cloudy weather with rain.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. — Indications:—cloudy, rainy, stationary temperature.

The invigorating, Fattening and Nutritive properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime are such as would indicate its sufficiency to entirely sustain the body in the performance of its various functions," with the aid of but little solid food. Hence its superior remedial worth in the "Wasting Diseases of Childhood," the "Wasting Away," in those of "Consumptive tendency,"—in Consumption itself, as well as in General Debility, and all cases of Prostration and Emaciation. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

The Secrets of the North Pole.

AN OLD WHALER'S VIEW—SUBTERRANEAN ICE.

Capt. Tripp, a well-known whaling captain who has made several voyages to the Arctic Ocean, is a disbeliever in an open polar sea. His trip to the world of ice the present year has but confirmed his experience in the past. In a conversation with him a Chronicle reporter procured some interesting facts on this some what mystified subject. No vessels have been able to get further than 63 degrees north this year, and all captains report heavy ice in the Arctic. In one of the voyages, while Capt. Tripp was master of the bark Arctic he reached as high as latitude 73 degrees. In 1870 Wrangel's Land was clear of ice, and in 1871 his ship was within a mile of the shore of that land which no human being has ever stepped upon, so far as history tells us. With the aid of a splendid glass, he got a good view of the entire lay of the land, but he was unable to see any human inhabitants, or evidence thereof. No animal life was visible save sea birds that flitted in aid air along the shore. The earth was green, no snow being visible. A coast range is visible from the ocean which resembles coast regions further south, extending as far as California. Shrubs were plainly visible, but Capt. Tripp was unable to discover any large trees or forests.

Wrangel's Land runs northwest, and, so far as known, extends indefinitely into regions never penetrated by the white man. The Indians inhabiting that portion of Alaska bordering on the North Pole have no traditions that any people have ever been seen on Wrangel's Land, though they state that deer of a variety unknown to Alaska have been found on Herald Island, in the heart of the Arctic and from which the land named can be distinctly seen. It is supposed that the animals made their way across the ice from the mainland of Wrangel to the island. No canoes, clothing, or relics of any kind have drifted from Wrangel's Land to Alaska, as an indication that a new race of human beings existed in the unexplored regions of the Arctic. Still, it is believed by those sea captains who have taken close observations that the mysterious country alluded to is habitable. The fact that no snow was to be seen, that vegetation looked green and vigorous, and that mountains loomed up in the distance, as sheltering fortresses for the valleys, are so many proofs that humanity could find a foothold there. It seems that no whaling captains have ever attempted to land on Wrangel's Land, but it must be remembered that they visit the Arctic regions as business men, and not as explorers.

Capt. Tripp says that if the North Pole exists, and it is ever to be discovered, the discovery will be made from the Pacific side, as navigators can reach many degrees further north on the Pacific without suffering the least inconvenience from climatic rigors than on the Atlantic. At Kotzebue Sound, at the mouth of Buckland River, Capt. Tripp saw land 700 feet high, beneath which a stratum of ice was distinctly visible. At Point Barron the land is only six feet above the ice, all beneath being a stratum of congealed water. How deep this stratum is remains unknown, but it is certain that the earth has gradually formed itself on the ice. There is no reason to believe that Wrangel's Land is of like formation, at least along the shore. There is no telling how far the ice body extends inland as a substratum. If a body of earth 700 feet high can rest on a mass of ice along the shore, there is no reason why a mountain 7,000 feet high may not have ice as a basis in the interior.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Siberian Exiles

Since the beginning of the present century nearly half a million persons have been exiled from Russia to Siberia. Between 1807 and 1812 the average transportation was 2,035 offenders a year. In 1840 the average was calculated at 5,000, in 1860 the number was 10,000, and in 1870 nearly 20,000, showing a large and remarkable increase upon the deportation during two reigns which are popularly supposed to have been more oppressive than the present. In 1877 the total was still higher, being no less than 25,000, but this increase is accounted for by the number of Circassian revolters and Bashi Bazouk prisoners of war who were sent across the Ourals as a punishment for their atrocities. The Siberian Government reckons these exiles as amounting to about 5,000, but this, in common with the rest of the statistics, is probably short of the actual mark; as, according to the showing of Russian newspapers, double that number of Circassian revolters have been deported from the Caucasus, while not a single Bashi Bazouk captured by the Muscovites during the war, and sent for safe keeping to Russia, has been allowed to return to Turkey. All have been exiled to the desolate region beyond the Altai and contiguous to the Amoor. Theoretically speaking, the Russian officials in Siberia ought to be able with the passport system to give, at a moment's notice, the exact whereabouts of any offender forwarded from Russia for their safe-guarding. In practice, however, a large percentage of exiles, not conspicuous by their crimes, rapidly slip through their fingers and become lost. On New Year's Day, 1876, the registers of the Province of Tobolsk showed the names of 51,122 exiles, but of these only 34,293 could be satisfactorily accounted for. In Tomsk, out of 29,675 offenders, 4,651 were missing. It is known beyond doubt that during the last ten years 156,067 exiles have been sent across the Ourals to Siberia, and of these 75,000 ought to have located themselves in the western provinces, whereas the Governor of Tobolsk admits in a return he has just forwarded to St. Petersburk that his subordinates can only account for one-third that number. In this return he candidly admits that out of 99,930 convicts sent to his district since 1869 he can only give the whereabouts of 34,293, while another return from the Governor of Tomsk confesses that out of 100,000 exiles received since 1851 in Tomsk only 25,000 now remain. Extraordinary pains are taken by the authorities to prevent the escape of the criminals while on their way to the place of interment; but once registered on their arrival by the Siberian officials little or no care is taken to keep them under the surveillance of the local police, and they either return to Russia to live there under false passports, or wander to other localities than those to which they have been assigned for punishment. As an instance of the carelessness of the local officials the Governor-General of Western Siberia, Mr. Kaznakoff, quotes some statistics showing that in ten bailiwicks in Tobolsk the register contains the names of 8,177 men and 1,402 women, half of whom have either fled the district or have wandered away in a state of vagabondage. In another group of bailiwicks out of 2,571 men and 168 women, only 616 of the former, and 95 of the latter remain under the eye of the police.

Nothing is great but the inexhaustible wealth of Nature. She shows us only surface, but she is millions of fathoms deep.

He has mastered all things who has combined the useful with the agreeable.

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of such of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to cement more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURG, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz.: One page, $10.00; half-page, $6.00; quarter page, $4.00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

The benefit of such a work to business men the City of Belleville and the County, is too apparent to need anything said in its favor. The publishers guarantee that the most studious efforts will be made to ensure correctness in the details of the work, and no pains or expense will be spared to render the work a credit to this growing and enterprising City and County.

Orders for the Directory, or for advertisements, may be left at the INTELLIGENCER Office, Belleville.

March, 1878.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.
EMPRESS RELIEF.
THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.
AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Don't who can."

It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands," and when applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer.

It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time.

Pocket your precious ice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain.

The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge" of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving evidence to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price, 25 cents per Bottle.

The Trade supplied through the Wholesale Drug and Patent Medicine Houses of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London.

SOLD BY ALL ENTERPRISING DRUGGISTS.

"ROXY."

BY EDWARD EGGLESTON.

CHAPTER XIII.

A WEATHER-BREEDER.

Peeps into the future are depressing. Twonnet's grey-gift did not raise Roxy's spirits. By means of divination she had suddenly found, not exactly that she was in love with Mark, but that she was in a fair way to love him. It was painful, too, to know that all the joy she had had in talking with Bonany was not, as she had thought it, purely religious and disinterested. Her sensitive conscience shuddered at the thought of self-deception, and she had been in this case both deceiver and dupe. She had little belief in Twonnet's gift of prophecy, but much in her shrewd insight. Was it true, then, that the great, brilliant, and self-sacrificing Mark loved her? This thought would have dejected, and when Twonnet essayed to cheer him and give him an opportunity for conversation by saying that it was a beautiful day, he startled himself by replying with a sigh:

"Yes, but a weather breeder."

The Midnight Sun.

A GLORIOUS SIGHT IN THE ARCTIC CIRCLE.

As we crossed the famed Arctic Circle, we saw, far away to the westward, the four isolated peaks of the Islands of Threnan, which stands up erect as towers in the ocean, as if placed there as sentinels, to keep watch and ward over the entrance to the Polar Seas. Nearer to our ship's course, we passed the curious Isle of Hestamando, or Horseman's Island, so-called by the sailors of these seas from the likeness it is supposed to bear to a huge cavalry soldier riding through the waves. The fisherman always take off their caps, and make an obeisance to the "horseman" as their boats float past him. I—and I remained on deck to watch for the "midnight sun," the mountains to the northward of the Polar Circle being nearly all show-capped, with many a large glacier topping the highest hills, or appearing between the ridges.

The lights at 11:45 p. m., when the sun appeared as is about to set, although of course it did not do so, were splendid, and the white capped mountains were covered with a panoply of every hue of the rainbow, while the sea around was one golden purple blaze of tiny wavelets. The scene presented to us at 12 o'clock, midnight, altogether baffles description, and a far abler pen than mine would be required to do a tithe of justice to such a glorious panorama.

There, some distance above the horizon, we saw the blood-red ball of the sun, and so bright was the round mass of flame that our eyes could scarcely bear to look at it. Its warm rays could still be felt although the wind now met us, and a very cold north easterly breeze it was, straight from the frozen shores of Spitzbergen; this of itself was sufficient to remind us that we were in a far northern land.

No one on deck spoke, and the extreme stillness and solitude were very striking and the effect solemn. The color of the sun was even redder than it is in full daylight, but the spectacle cannot be described properly by a writer, and can hardly be imagined by any one who has not been in these northern latitudes. The way in which the hundreds of huge snow capped mountain peaks and their rugged sides were lighted up by the bright rays was almost magical; and the varied colors, which danced in constant motion upon the snow and on the surface of the sea, were worth coming all the way from England to gaze upon. The sun appeared, as nearly as we could judge, to remain quite stationary from a quarter to twelve o'clock till about half past twelve a. m., when the orb began to rise again slowly; and by one o'clock, the heavy mists which had been resting for the last two hours on the summits of some of the highest mountains, gradually merged into the skies, and as we went down to our berths all nature was fully as bright as midday. Truly it was a sight not to be forgotten as long as memory lasts.—"To The Arctic Regions and Back in Six Weeks."

"Please, Mr. Whittaker, give me time to think—to think and pray for light. Will you wait—wait a week—or so? I cannot see my way."

"I cannot see my way," put in Bobo, pathetically.

She held out her hand, he pressed it, but without looking at her face, put on his hat, and shook hands with little Bobo, whose sweet, infantile face looked after him wistfully.

He was gone and Roxy sighed with relief. But she had only postponed the decision.

The minister, who had carried away much hope, met Mr. Adams in the street, and partly because he felt friendly to everybody, and to all connected with Roxy in particular, he stopped to talk with him; and he in turn was in one of his most contrary moods, and took pains to disagree with the preacher about everything.

"It is a beautiful day," said Whittaker at last, as he was saying good-bye, resolved perhaps to say one thing which his friend could not controvert.

"Yes, nice day," growled Adams, "but a weather breeder."

This contradictoriness in the shoemaker took all the hopefulness out of Whittaker. The last words seemed ominous. He returned home dejected, and when Twonnet essayed to cheer him and give him an opportunity for conversation by saying that it was a beautiful day, he startled himself by replying with a sigh:

"Yes, but a weather breeder."

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, NOV. 21.

The Opposition in the Ontario Legislature.

The appointment to a position on the judicial bench of the Hon. M. C. Cameron, who for the past seven years has been the leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, has occasioned a considerable amount of speculation as to who shall be his successor in the party leadership. A number of names have been mentioned in this connection, prominent amongst which are those of Messrs. Meredith, Lauder, Scott, Merrick and Deacon, all gentlemen of ability and, so far as our knowledge extends, well fitted for the position. The gentleman whose claims have been the most favorably mentioned is Mr. Meredith, who has certainly shown on many occasions a breadth of view and an amount of ability which have won the favorable regard of his opponents in the Legislature as well as that of his friends. Still it is felt in some quarters that Mr. Meredith's Parliamentary experience, as well as that of Mr. Scott, who is perhaps the ablest man on the Conservative side in the Legislature, has been rather short, and the selection of Hon. A. Morris, lately Lieut.-Governor of Manitoba, as the successor to Mr. Cameron, has been suggested. Mr. Morris has certainly had all the necessary experience in Parliament and in office to qualify him for the position, whilst his abilities are of a high order and his personal qualities are excellent. He has never yet sat in the Ontario Legislature, but doubtless if the hon. gentleman be desirous of entering that body the seat which Mr. Cameron has vacated will be placed at his disposal. Whether or not Mr. Morris be chosen as leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Parliament, it certainly is to be hoped that he will secure a seat in it, as his presence there would materially strengthen the Conservative party in the Legislature, which has been materially weakened by the withdrawal of Messrs. Cameron and Macdougall, indisputably the two ablest gentlemen on either side of politics who sat in the House. There are still, despite the withdrawals in question, a large number of able men on the Conservative side of the House, and there is every prospect that at the general election, which will take place next year, the set of small politicians who at present rule the Province will be relieved from the cares of office.

Elections in England.

The expensiveness of the luxury of running for the British Parliament, whether a successful candidate or not, may be seen in the bills of the candidates at the late election in the county of Argyleshire, on the retirement of the Marquis of Lorne. The certified expenses of Lord Colin Campbell, brother of the Marquis of Lorne, amounted to £5,700 9s. 4d. ; whilst those of Colonel Malcolm amounted to £9,000. The total expenses of the two candidates, or rather the certified expenses, which are presumably lawful, amounted, therefore, to £14,700 9s. 4d. The registered electors of the county are 3,000, so that the expenses of Colonel Malcolm, the unsuccessful candidate, amounted to, within a very small fraction, three pounds per head of every elector on the register ; while those of Lord Campbell amounted to very nearly two pounds per head. The larger expenditure of Colonel Malcolm may, perhaps, be explained on the ground that the county is a stronghold of the Argyles, that all their influence was against him, and that he, finding this to be so, was led to be as liberal in the expenditure as it would be safe for him to go, in view of the pains and penalties inflicted for bribery and corruption. We can well understand that, against such odds as the Argyle influence it might be necessary to go to so liberal an expenditure as nine thousand pounds, but it is, on the other hand, rather difficult to understand why the expenditure of nearly six thousand pounds by a "Campbell" should be found necessary in the county of Argyle, where, as is commonly supposed, the old clannish relations between laird and people retain much of their force. The details of these election bills are, it will be remembered, submitted to audit, and it is presumable that the totals mentioned above were incurred for legitimate and necessary expenses ; and we believe that the two sums give a fair idea of the expenses which attend any contested election in England.

THE KINGSTON ELECTION.—A petition has been filed in the Kingston election case to disqualify Sir John A. Macdonald. This is in retaliation for the petition against Mr. Gunn, the member elect. This is a purely factious proceeding, but nothing emanating from the Grit clique in Kingston will surprise those who know the bitter spite they entertain against the Premier.

Welcoming the Governor-General

On Tuesday night, the special train prepared for the conveyance of the Marquis and Marchioness of Lorne from Halifax to Montreal, left the Bonaventure Station, Montreal. It consists of the Pullman dining car "Brevoort," the Pullman Palace sleeping cars "Quebec," "Rover" and "Truro," and the International baggage and express car No. 712, which has been specially chartered for the purpose. The "Brevoort" attracted much of the attention of the crowd assembled to witness the departure of the train. The dining compartment is elegantly fitted up, and is capable of seating 40 people at once. The kitchen has every convenience for the culinary art. The car is heated by hot water pipes. The Premier, on arriving by the Western train, was cordially welcomed by his friends and admirers. He entered the special car, which left the station at ten o'clock, amid the firing of fog signals on the track and the cheers of the assembled crowd in the depot. The following Ministers accompanied the Premier : Hon Dr. Tupper, Hon. Mr. Aikens, Hon. James Macdonald, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Hon. Mr. Masson, Hon. Mr. O'Connor and Hon. P. Fortin, M. P. Judge Ritchie also went with the party for the purpose af administering the oath of office to the Marquis, who will then be able to make an official progress through the country.

—The contract for No. 9 section of the Lachine canal was given out on Tuesday by the Minister of Public Works to Messrs. Rogers & Kelly, who are just about finishing their former contract, No. 10 section.

—Encouraging accounts are constantly being received in Montreal from numerous settlers in Manitoba, who left that city during the year to try their fortunes on Government land in the Prairie Province.

—The Pall Mall Gazette's Berlin despatch says the proposal to cancel the agreement with the Crown of Hanover and to absorb the Guelph fund, has been over ruled by Bismarck, who has asked for delay in order to give the Duke of Cumberland time to reconsider his determination.

THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH AT HALIFAX.—The Duke of Edinburgh formally entered Halifax yesterday, and received a royal salute.

MR. ANGLIN'S NOMINATIONS.—La Minerve objects to the fact of Mr. Anglin having recently made appointments among the officials of the House, although his master, Mr. Mackenzie, has resigned. It informs the appointees who have accepted new situations that Mr. Anglin had not the right to give, that they are liable to lose them and not recover those which they abandoned. The Ottawa Citizen says :—"These appointments were absolutely unnecessary for some time to come. Consequently, the salaries will be lost to the country. Mr. Anglin's action is certainly open to grave criticism."

A MURDERER'S CONFESSION.—David, the condemned murderer of Ward in New Brunswick, has made the following confession to the gaoler at St. Andrew's, where he is confined : "I killed Ward in the valley where his remains were found. I killed him with McCarthy's new axe. Ward was on his way home with an axe and pitchfork when we met. We had some words. He made at me with the fork. I clenched the axe and killed him. I then took him by the legs and dragged him to where his remains were found. Mrs. Ward never saw him after he left the house till she saw him dead in the woods, nor any one else but myself."

DISTRESS IN ENGLAND.—England has entered upon a winter which will witness terrible privation among tens of thousands. Cotton, coal and iron workers are all in the same sad plight. Writing from Sheffield, at the close of last month, the special correspondent of the Enquirer, after recounting how the iron masters have told their men that without further reduction of wages they cannot possibly compete with French or Belgian firms, proceed to say :—"I went over our iron-workers district last Friday. It presents a pitiable appearance. In Brighside, Grimesthorpe, &c., there are streets which have scarce by a single occupant. In other parts there are whole rows with shutters up, and it was rare indeed to find a road where half the houses were inhabited. Nor was this all. I found that for the sake of cheapness three and four families had clubbed together and huddled themselves into one dwelling, where they are living under conditions certainly not conducive to health or morality. The publicans and merchants have suffered severely during the last two years, and the weakest have, as usual, to go to the wal."

The last, and worst :—Canada misses Dufferin, and she will still be lonesome when the new governor arrives.

GLASGOW, Nov. 21.—Over a million dollars has been subscribed for the relief of the impoverished shareholdess of the Glasgow Bank. An appeal will be telegraphed to the St. Andrew's clubs abroad asking for a special collection on St. Andrew's Day, Nov. 30th.

YANKTON, Dak., Nov. 21.—It is reported investigation discloses that the claim for $36 000 made by ex-Indian Agent Birkett for alleged advances to Indians, and for which Congress made an appropriation, is fraudulent.

WHEELING W., V. A., Nov. 21.—Eustice Knight, who shot one of the Bellaire police some time since, was last evening shot by Marshal Archer of Bellaire, who attempted in company with a force of five men to arrest him. He will die.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The Herald's New Orleans special says the Chairman of the Caddo Democratic Committee charges that the troubles in Caddo were brought about by negroes firing on the Deputy Sheriff and posse, by which two whites were wounded. Twelve negroes were killed in the fight which followed, all with arms and ammunition in their possession. Some negroes who were captured made a voluntary statement that it was their intention to seize the ballot boxes after the polls closed and shoot every man who interfered.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Washington specials :

The Tribune says the President has arranged to employ some of the most eminent coudrel in the south to assist District Attorney Leonard in prosecuting offenders in Louisians, although Leonard said he requires no legal assistance.

The Sun publishes a report that Edison's application for a patent for divisible electric light has been rejected at Washington upon the ground that it infringes on the invention of John W. Starr, of Cincinnati.

ELIZA THOMPSON, a negress, aged 104 years, died yesterday from injuries received by being run over by a baker's wagon on Nov. 7.

The Times says that the mysterious doctor believed to be the chief conspirator in the Stewart grave robbery, has been fully identified as Geo. A. Christian, the notorious Washington resurrectionist.

The Tribune denies the reported recovery of Stewart's body and the arrest of the robbers. It says the chief hope of Mrs. Stewart, Judge Hilton, and the police is, despairing of securing any reward for the unconditional return of the body, the criminals will quarrel among themselves, and each will hasten to betray the others in the hope of being accepted as witness for the state. This policy has been urged by Judge Hilton and Inspector Murray from the first ; Mrs. Stewart has only lately consented to it. This accounts for the offering of a new reward yesterday, in which no mention of the return of the body was made.

The Consumptive's Paradise.

"Go to Colorado ! It is a perfect Arcadia for Consumptives ! Consumption cannot exist in that climate. People who go there even in the last stages of the disease, after a residence of only a few months, come away perfectly restored. I tell you a close of Colorado is the best remedy for consumption ever discovered." Such are some of the praises lavished upon Colorado as a resort for Consumptives, and only prove how egregiously ignorant these speakers and writers are of the real nature of the disease. If we were not personally acquainted with some of these praisers and know them to be honest, well-meaning people, we should suspect that they had been "roped" into an advertising scheme, to augment the price and sale of Colorado lands, or were working in the inter-st of some Colorado Bonanza report. Persons suffering from a mere inflammation of the lung tissue are doubtless often completely restored by a brief residence in Colorado or Florida. But when scrofulous matter has begun to accumulate in the lungs, no climate, however healthful, can alone effect a cure. A thorough course of medical treatment is required, aided by such hygienic measures as the condition of the patient will permit. The scrofulous matter must be absorbed and expelled from the system by the use of efficient alteratives. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a powerful alterative, and, aided by the Pleasant Purgative Pellets, is an invaluable agent for expelling scrofulous matter from the lungs and system. Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, at Buffalo, N. Y., offers special advantages to this class of patients. The best methods of medical and hygienic treatment are there pursued, besides the locality is one of the few which enjoys special immunity from this disease.

GOVERNMENT RAILWAYS.—The Ottawa Free Press says :—"It may, we believe, be asserted as a fact that Mr. Brydges is to be relieved of his present position as Superintendent of Government Railways, and it is believed there is good foundation for the rumor started some time ago, that he will assume the management of the Government Railways in the Province of Quebec."

THE KENT ELECTION.—The petition against Mr. Rufus Stephenson's return for Kent has collapsed. Mr. Justice Armour on the 18th dismissed an application from the petitioner for an extension of time to serve respondent with notice. A protest was filed on the 4th inst. and the papers should have been served, according to statute, on or before the Saturday following, but this was not done.

Rev. Mr. Jones' Case.

The following letter appears in the Kingston News of Tuesday :—

To the Editor of the Daily News.

SIR,—In reference to the letter of Rev. J. R. Jones, which appeared in the News of the 12th instant, I have to remark, that while no one can rejoice more sincerely than myself that he has found it possible to reconcile Science and Religion ; and while I give him credit, as I did, even when lamenting his fall, for possessing the candor and the courage to openly avow his convictions, yet there is one allegation in his letter which I cannot suffer to pass uncontroverted. It is this : "Coming to Belleville's two years ago, I found a hot-bed of scepticism, especially among the young men of the town." Now, sir, either Mr. Jones must have been very unfortunate in the selection of his associates ; or he must, as many tyros in science are apt to do, have generalized too hastily from a limited number of examples. I have lived in Belleville within a few months of twenty (20) years, and have mixed and conversed freely with men of all ages and classes, and I affirm that the assertion in question is unworthy and untrue (though not, as I believe, very intentionally so) as regards the great body of our young (and old) men. It is true that there are some among us, as there are in every community with which I have been conversant, who, having read a few books of so called "popular science" in a very superficial manner, come out and boast that they "have freed themselves from the trammels of superstition ;" but they are neither numerous, nor distinguished for deep or extensive scientific knowledge or research, and they and their opinions are looked upon by the great body of their fellow citizens with compassionate disapprobation.

I am, Sir,
Respectfully yours,
JAMES T. BELL,
Professor of Mining and Agriculture, Albert University.

GOOD JUDGMENT.

WE have always noticed that Cash customers exercise the best and soundest judgment in buying. Hence the growing popularity of the

NEW BRITISH WAREHOUSE.

It stands to reason that any one who is always in the habit of paying cash for what they buy, can do better in a Cash store, where they are sure not to pay credit prices for what they buy, as is too often the case where cash buyers patronize credit stores. We are constantly receiving NEW GOODS EVERY WEEK, bought for cash, and the regular discounts taken advantage of.

We mark all Goods the closest figure that they possibly can be sold for, for cash,

ASKING ONE PRICE ONLY,

and we are satisfied that we are in a position to offer cash buyers advantages that cannot be surpassed in the market. Try the NEW BRITISH WAREHOUSE for your next parcel of Dry Goods.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, NOV. 21.

City and Vicinity.

INDIAN SUMMER.—The weather has at length settled, and it now looks as if the beautiful but brief season of Indian Summer had made its advent.

POLICE.—Constable Downs, who was ill for several days, is now convalescent and on duty again. The cells were tenanted by seven tramps last night.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY.—The annual meeting of the above society is to be held in the Marble Hall to-morrow night, when officers will be elected and other business transacted.

THE RIFLE.—Nothing has been heard lately of the proposed match at the butt, between the recruits of Nos. 1 and 4 Companies of the 49th Battalion. The weather is now favorable for such a match, and we hope to see it brought off at an early day.

RUNAWAY.—This morning a team of horses belonging to Mr. Alexander Burdett, of the 3rd concession of Thurlow, ran away from Mr. McMullen's door, near Roy's Brewery. The waggon, which came in contact with a lamp post near Brown's foundry, was smashed. The horses escaped with a few scratches. Nobody hurt.

HOUSES OF INDUSTRY.—The Napanee Standard endorses our remarks on the subject of Houses of Industry, and recommends the establishment of an institution of that kind for Lennox and Addington. By no other means can those who are really paupers be so cheaply and so satisfactorily maintained at the public expense.

COMPORTING TO CANVASSERS. — Now that the Municipal elections are approaching it may be interesting to the candidates to learn that a man at the Toronto Police Court last Thursday was charged with assault for "button holing" another in the street. The Police Magistrate declared himself of the opinion that button-holing was an assault if the person button-held objected to it.

ASSAULTING THE POLICE. — Edward Clancy, a notorious vagrant, got drunk and boisterous at a hotel up town last night, and constable Newton was sent to arrest him. He resisted with all his might, and a crowd who sympathized with him aided his efforts by striking and kicking the officer severely. Newton held on, however, with rare courage and succeeded in landing his man in the cells. Clancy was brought before the Police Magistrate this morning and convicted. Sentence was deferred until to-morrow.

THE BARLEY TRADE.—The Oswego Palladium of Tuesday says:—"Maltsters generally have light stocks and are taking enough from day to day to keep running; in hopes that prices will give way, but holders are firm and more inclined to draw stocks entirely out of market than sell at present quotations. Our receipts from Canada since Aug. 20th to date have been 2,389,055 bu. against 3,341,367 bu. for corresponding period in 1877, showing a deficiency this season of 952,312 bu. The stock on the canal yesterday from lake ports for tide water was 478,000 bu. against 906,000 bu. a year ago."

AMERICAN SILVER.—The United States trade dollar is beginning to make its way into Canada, and it is none too soon that the public should be reminded of its real value. Its bullion value here is under 93 cents. It is coined by the United States mint in immense quantities for the Chinese and Japanese trade. As the Government coins the money for the bullion owners for the mere expense of the process, American merchants are reaping a great profit from every dollar they can get afloat here. The premium of trade dollars in Toronto, say the Globe, only causes endless disputes between traders and customers, and the sooner they are subjected to the same discount as other American silver the better for the country.

ROWING CLUB.—The adjourned meeting of the Rowing Club will be held at Hambly's to-morrow evening at 7:30 to discuss ways and means to provide additional boats for another year. A full attendance of members is requested.

ANNUAL INSPECTION OF NOS. 1 AND 4 COMPANIES 49TH BATTALION.—The inspection of the City Companies (Nos. 1 and 4) of the 40th Battalion took place yesterday afternoon on the Hospital lot; the inspecting officer being Lt. Col. Van Straubenzie, Deputy Adjutant General, accompanied by Lt.-Col. Brown, M. P. The companies were in full strength; No. 1 under command of Capt. Harrison and Lieut. Johnson, and No. 4 under command of Major Crozier and Lieuts. Bell and Ponton. The staff officers present were Surgeon Tracy and Assistant Surgeon Farley. The parade presented the best military spectacle that Belleville has seen since old No. 1 returned from active service at Amherstburg in 1865. Many of the men who participated in that service were assembled in the ranks of the "Old Rifle Company" (No. 1), and certainly the newer members of the company look like worthy successors of those whose places they have taken. We observed Sergt. Major Blaind, who has been in the Company since 1837, in his place, wearing the long service medal recently presented to him. No. 4 Company, recently formed, is composed of a very fine body of men, who in a short time have acquired great proficiency. The marching of the men, and their movements were characterized by great steadiness. The manual and firing exercises were performed in a manner far superior to that of most volunteer companies. Those being no drill shed in Belleville, yesterday was the first time that the two Companies have drilled together as in battalion, but notwithstanding this drawback the movements were well executed. Sergt. Taylor of the Queen's Own, who has been drilling the Companies for some weeks, was present directing the battalion movements. He would be a great acquisition to the force here if he could be induced to take up his residence in Belleville. The inspecting officers complimented the officers and men most highly upon their efficiency, after which the Companies marched back to their respective armories. We hope to see a drill shed provided for the 49th and 15th Battalions ere long.

THE PHILOSOPY OF NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING.—"Hermit," the New York correspondent of the Troy Times, a close observer of things there, in his last letter, philosophically remarks:—"The autumn trade is now in full activity, and business men are exerting every effort to improve the harvest. One method is the handbill system, by which the hotels are daily inundated. During the business season one boy after another will go the rounds, and in this way an attempt is made to obtain trade. Of these, however, the greater part are wasted, since the waiter generally picks them up and throws them into the street, and the next day a fresh inundation takes place. Experience has clearly demonstrated that the most efficient method of advertising is found in the judicious use of the newspaper columns. The ground on which newspaper advertising, as a system, is based is human confidence, since we cannot avoid believing that which we constantly read. This confidence is sometimes abused, but still it is evident that a good advertisement will, if sufficiently repeated, carry popular opinion. Men who advertise with the greatest persistency eventually reach success. There is a military principle involved in this method, since the article advertised should be pressed on the public by repeated assaults. The correct view, which experience brings to each man, is that advertising should be included in the general estimate of expense, as regularly as store rent, clerk hire and insurance. It is often said a good stand at a high rent is better than a poor one rent free. Well, advertising brings a man before the public in a way that makes any 'stand' good. The best stand you can have is to be in the newspaper."

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.

Edward Clancy, charged with being drunk and disorderly and assaulting the police, was found guilty. He was remanded until to-morrow for sentence.

COMMERCIAL.

A New York despatch says:—The Receiver of the McKillop & Sprague commercial agency advertises the entire property of that concern to be sold by auction, to satisfy claims against the Company.

The estate of Jas. G. Yarker, of Kingston, which was placed in the hands of Mr. Kent, of Beaucsllet & Kent, assignees, a year ago, is now paying the last dividend of 36 cents, making a total of 96 cents on the dollar paid to the creditors, which is almost unprecedented in the realization of insolvent estates.

The Montreal Star of the 20th says: "A writ of attachment was issued to-day at the instance of Mr. George F. Prowse against the firm of Prowse Brothers, for the sum of $500. Mr. D. J. Craig, assignee. The liabilities are in the neighborhood of $60,000, assets not known at present. The present firm has been in existence for fifteen years, having succeeded to their father's connection, which was established about fifty years ago. A meeting of the creditors was called for this afternoon, at which it was expected arrangements would be made for the carrying on of the business till the first official meeting is held, and the assignee is appointed."

—At the Buffalo cattle market on Friday Ohio steers averaging 2,200 lbs. sold at $4.12½ per 100 lbs., and Indiana steers at $4.70; Canadian lambs averaging 80 to 90 lbs. sold at $4.12½, $4.25 and 4.30.

—Great Western traffic returns for week ending 8th Nov.:—Passengers, $31,175.31; freight and live stock, $53,613.44; mails and sundries, $2,995.25; total, $87,784; corresponding week last year, $98,595.04; decrease this year, $5,815.04.

—Northern Railway traffic returns for week ending November 8th:—Passengers, $4,918.33; freight, $9,371.98; mails and sundries, $507.08; total, $14,697.39; for corresponding week last year, $18,606.88; decrease this year, $3,909.40.

The snows of winter are foretold in the chilly weather—but it's good duck weather.

If your foot is asleep, do not be alarmed; the post tells us that the sole is not dead that slumbers.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The Bank of England rate of discount has been reduced from 6 to 5 per cent.

The despatch from Lord Cranbrook, Secretary of State for India, to Lord Lytton is a summary of the papers which Beaconsfield in his letter to Lord Lawrence promised should be distributed before the end of the month, and is at once an indictment of the frontier policy of Gladstone's administration, a defence of the policy of the present Government, and a reply to the anti-war agitation of the Afghan Committee. Its promulgation is equivalent to the formal declaration of the state of war and the cause thereof. There is no excitement over the morning news. There still seems to be a lingering impression among speculators that the Ameer may submit when he knows the British troops are actually in motion.

BOMBAY, Nov. 21st.—The Times of India publishes a special despatch from Ithal, announcing that the British troops had occupied Fort Kapion without resistance, the Afghans retiring hurriedly. Fort Kapion or Kapiyanga is a station beyond the frontier line, opposite Thal, or Thull; its abandonment or surrender was anticipated by the British force at Thull which it is believed is designed to march to the head of the Khuram valley, drive out the Afghan force there, and secure the highest point of the pass, in readiness for a further advance in the spring, or for co-operation with the force operating against Jellalabad through the Khyber pass. It is under the command of Gen. Roberts, and consists of two brigades. No resistance is expected until the upper end of the Khurum valley is reached. The native tribes in the valley profess good will.

PISA, Nov. 21.—During a demonstration of students and citizens last evening in celebration of the Queen's birthday, a bomb was thrown into the crowd and exploded without serious results. The suspected criminal was arrested.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The News declares the statement that the Indian Council had been summoned to consider an important despatch from India as unfounded. The Indian Council has never been consulted or had an opportunity of expressing any opinion in respect to the Afghan question.

PARIS, Nov. 21.—Gambetta and De Fourtou fought at thirty-five paces. Only one exchange of shots, neither party hurt.

ROME, Nov. 21.—The ministerial organ, The Diritto, says it regrets to announce that the Pope has not, as stated, congratulated King Humbert on his escape from assassination.

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—The Bay State moulding mills was damaged by fire this morning; loss $15,000.

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 21.—Early yesterday a negro, covered with blood dragged himself to a house near Vandyke Station. He said two unmarried daughters of a woman named Dobson, at Chesterton, Md., recently gave birth to children, which were murdered; and he was compelled to bury them and warned not to reveal the crime. He told the story to a colored woman and on Tuesday was seized by cousins of the girls named Vincent and Jones, who with Mrs. Dobson went to the dense woods, where they fired at him, two bullets taking effect in his head, and then dragged him into the woods and left him for dead. He cannot live. The two men have been arrested.

WAR WITH AFGHANISTAN.

NO REPLY TO THE ULTIMATUM RECEIVED FROM THE AMEER.

THE DAYS OF GRACE PAST.

Operations to Have Been Commenced To-day.

The Road to the Khorum Pass Covered with Troops.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The Central News says:—"An important despatch from India, which we have reason to believe is Shere Ali's reply to the Viceroy's ultimatum, was received yesterday at the Indian office in London. The Indian Council was immediately summoned, and the result of the conference will be laid before the Cabinet this afternoon."

The Standard announces that no reply to the British ultimatum has been received from the Ameer of Afghanistan, and orders have accordingly been sent to India for the troops to advance.

The Times, in its leader, says:—"The ultimation has been refused, and the result, we beleive, is that the issue has now been left in Lord Lytton's hands. We may expect to hear in a few hours what action he intends to take. He will probably occupy the Khyber and Khurum passes, and make some advance with the Quettah column."

The Standard adds that the Cabinet Council, which was held yesterday, adjourned after a protracted sitting until to-morrow, but the decision arrived at dispels all doubt. We are consequently engaged in war with Afghanistan, which has been forced upon us by Russian intrigue and the evil effect of our past policy.

The Standard's Lahore despatch says the Government was preparing a proclamation which was to be issued on Thursday, showing that vigorous measures were unavoidable.

A despatch from Thull says:—"It is reported that the garrison of the first fortress in the Khurum Valley is prepared to capitulate when summoned. The column is in splendid spirits and eager for the advance."

The Telegraph's correspondent, in a despatch dated Peshawar, Nov. 20, says:—"Travelling from Thull yesterday I passed the Khurum force advancing. Thirty miles of the road were covered with troops, elephants, camels and cattle. The Peshawur force is marching on Jumrood to-day. The Ameer is again spreading the report that the Russians will defend Canadahar.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Nov. 21.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the Lower Lake region, moderate to fresh winds, partly cloudy weather with local showers. For the St. Lawrence, moderate winds, and cloudy to partly cloudy weather, with local showers. For the Maritime Provinces, brisk northerly to northwesterly winds and cloudy weather with light rain.

Murdered with a Pitchfork.

ANOTHER AGRARIAN TRAGEDY IN IRELAND.

Dublin (Oct. 23) Correspondence of the London Times.

The outrage near Moate has ended, as it was feared it would, in the death of the unfortunate man, Donnellan. The Daily Express gives the following particulars of the murder:—"Donnellan, who was a tall, athletic man about 60 years of age, was in the employ of Major Upton, the landlord of the district, as herdsman and sub-manager. He was a widower and lived in a house by the roadside, at a hamlet called Coolatore, within five miles of Moate. Except a servant boy, there was no other occupant of the house. He had a brother who occupied a small farm on the estate, who had, for his rank in life, a considerable sum of money. Much against his will, the brother married, and at the end of four years died, leaving all his property to his widow, who some time since married another man named Duncan. This man's conduct so displeased Donnellan that he induced Major Upton to evict him. A claim for compensation was made at the Moate quarter sessions, and a sum of £25 awarded for the disturbance. This sum, it should be observed, was one one-eighth of what Major Upton had offered to Duncan before going into court. The police, knowing the bad blood which was excited between the deceased and Duncan, thought it necessary to keep a strict watch over the place, least an attack should be made upon him. For several months their vigilant attention was continued, but nothing occurred to excite suspicion, and lately Donnellan, who was a fearless man, told them they need not any longer keep a watch on his house; as he did not apprehend any harm. The farm out of which Duncan had been evicted remained meanwhile tenantless, but the crop, which belonged to Major Upton, was being removed, under the direction of the deceased, into one of his out houses. On Friday last, one of Donnellan's heifers became sick, and he went to Moate to buy some medicine, and during his absence his servant boy was engaged in packing the hay which had been removed from Duncan's farm to make room for his own. On his return, between 8 and 9 o'clock, he went out to see what work had been done in his absence, but found that the boy had gone away, leaving the fork with which he had been at work lying against the hay rick. Nothing more is known of his movements until the boy, returning home, as he alleges, and not seeing his master, went in search of him, and found him lying in the kitchen insensible, and bleeding profusely from severe wounds. A priest was sent for, who, after attending to his spiritual wants, went on his way to procure a doctor when he met a police patrol, whom he informed of the outrage. Dr. Fry was soon in attendance, and it was first supposed that the wounds had been inflicted by a revolver, but on close examination it was found that they were the result of stabs with a pronged instrument. It is supposed that the deceased was felled to the ground by the pitchfork and kicked at the same time, and that he was again struck with it on the temple. One of the prongs broke his cheek bone and came out through the mouth. The murder is one of the worst ever perpetrated in Westmeath, and the circumstances are such that there is little hope of bringing the perpetrators to justice.

Gems of Thought.

Nothing ages like laziness.

Treason pleases, but not the traitor.

There is no place so high that an ass laden with gold cannot reach it.

Emulation embalms the dead; envy, the vampire, blasts the living.

Thoughts shut up want air, and spoil like bales unopened to the sun.

No one keeps a secret so well as the individual who is ignorant of it.

The experience which does not render us better makes us more guilty.

Every activity proposes to itself a passivity, every labor, enjoyment.

Patience, the second bravery of man, is perhaps greater than the first.

Conscience is a coward, and those faults it has not strength enough to prevent, it seldom has justice enough to excuse.

Luxury is an enticing pleasure, a bastard mirth, which hath honey in her mouth, gall in her heart, and a sting in her tail.

AN INNOVATION.—An effort is making in the Reformed Episcopal church to do away with the observance of Lent as a church fast. At a recent conference of clergymen in Philadelphia it was decided to recommend the policy of abandoning the service to the General Standing Committee, on the ground that the indulgence in worldly pleasures before and after Lent is increased by way of compensation for enforced abstention during the season of fasting, and upon the further ground that uniform moderation of life is the Church's great need, and that this may be better secured without Lenten observances than with them. The change, if it shall be made, will be a radical one, and will work a wider branch than ever between the two Episcopalian churches in this country.

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that uses it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists. d&w

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately favored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disase. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemist, London, Eng." d&w

The Invigorating, Fattening and Nutritive properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime are such as would indicate its sufficiency to "sustain the body in the performance of its various functions," with the aid of but little solid food. Hence its superior remedial worth in the "Wasting Diseases of Childhood," the "Wasting Away," in those of "Consumptive tendency,"—in Consumption itself, as well as in General Debility, and all cases of Prostration and Emaciation. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

Prospectus of the COUNTY OF HASTINGS DIRECTORY FOR 1878-9.

IN 1869, the third Directory of the County of Hastings and Town of Belleville was published. A great many changes have taken place since that time, and there being a very general demand for the NEW DIRECTORY, the INTELLIGENCER Printing and Publishing Company have decided to issue a new and improved edition, on or about the first of January, 1879.

The general plan of the work will be similar to that of the former Directories, but SEVERAL IMPROVEMENTS WILL BE INTRODUCED, which will render the Directory of great value to business men.

It will contain a complete list of the householders, alphabetically arranged, of each Village, Town and Township in the County, with street, or concession and lot upon which they reside; and to make this part of the work of additional value, it is intended to give the POST OFFICE ADDRESS of each householder in the various Townships.

The descriptive information will be very full and complete, and every pains taken to have it correct. Special pains will be taken to bring the question of our mineral wealth before the country, with a view to its development, and there can be no doubt, when the facts which will be given in this work are more widely known, capitalists will be induced to come in and invest their means, sure of finding a remunerative return. There will be a of the Trades and Professions of the City of Belleville. An abstract of such of the County and City By-laws as are of public interest will appear in the work, as well as a large amount of statistical, local and general information.

The Map.

The Map accompanying the Directory will contain all the latest surveys, and will be a great improvement on the former one. To make the map of greater value generally to the County and to the various towns and villages within the Corporation, it will contain a plan of Belleville, Trenton, Stirling, Marmora, Madoc, Bridgewater, Tweed, Shannonville, and Mill Point.

While this greatly increase the expense of the work, it will materially enhance its value, and be of special value to the different Corporations.

Prince Edward.

The County of Hastings being commercially connected with a portion of the County of Prince Edward, and with a desire to cement more closely those business connections, it is intended to give an alphabetical list of the inhabitants of the Township of AMELIASBURG, in that County, together with other information respecting that and adjoining Townships, which will be of general interest to our merchants, mechanics, and professional men.

To Advertisers.

The Directory for 1878-9 will have a much larger circulation than any that have preceded it, and will therefore afford a much more valuable medium for advertising. The terms, however, remain the same as formerly, viz.: One page, $10.00; half-page, $6.00; quarter page, $4.00. The same plan will be adopted as in the last edition,—that of interspersing them among the alphabetical list of names,—which will render them of additional value.

The subscription price will be two dollars per copy.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.
EMPRESS RELIEF.
THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.
AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.
BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly, "Deny it who can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time.
Pocket your prejudice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain.
The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, given instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.
As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge" of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "Domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.
Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.
Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.
I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price. 25 cents per Bottle.
The Trade supplied through the Wholesale Drug and Patent Medicine Houses of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London.

"ROXY."
BY EDWARD EGGLESTON.

CHAPTER XIV.
CARPET RAGS AND RIBBONS.

"It seems to me," said Mrs. Hanks speaking to her faithful Jemima on the day after the events recorded in the previous chapter of this story. Jemima and her mistress were cutting up all manner of old garments and sewing them into carpet rags, while Bonaparte Hanks, whose name is better known to our readers in its foreshortened form as Bobo, was rolling the yellow balls of carpet rags across the floor after the black ones, and clapping his hands in a silly delight, which was in strange contrast to its growing bulk.

"It seems to me," said Mrs. Hanks, "that Mark and Roxy will make a match of it."

"Umph," said Jemima. She did not say "umph,"—nobody says that; but she gave forth one of those guttural utterances which are not put down in the dictionary. The art of alphabetic writing finds itself quite unequal to the task of grappling with such words, and so we write others which nobody ever uses, such as umph and oh and wph, as algebraic signs that represent the unknown quantity of an expressive and perhaps unique objurgation. Wherefore, let "umph," which Jemima did not say, equal the untalkable, undoable, not-to-be-spoken-of word which she did use. And that undefinable word was in its turn an algebraic symbol for a whole sentence, a formula for general, contemptuous, and indescribable dissent.

"He goes there a good deal," replied Mrs. Hanks, a little subdued by Jemima's mysterious grunt.

"I thought he'd make a burnt sacrifice of himself and laid all on the altar, and was agoin' off to missionate among the Texicans," said Jemima, prudently reserving the heavier shot to the last, and bent on teasing her opponent.

"Well I don't imagine that'll come to anything," said Mrs. Hanks. "Young Christians, in their first love, you know, always want to be better than they ought, and I don't think Mark ought to throw away his great opportunities. Think how much good he might do in Congress; and then, you know, no Christian Congressman is such an ornament—to—the church."

"And to all his wife's relations besides," chuckled the wicked Jemima. "But for my part, I don't 'low he's more'n a twenty 'leventh part as good as Roxy. She's jam up all the time, and he's good by spells and in streaks—one of the fitty and jerky kind."

"Jemima, you oughtn't to talk that way." Mrs. Hanks always pitted her anger and her slender authority against Jemima's rude wit. "You don't know but Mark 'll come to be my nephew, and you ought to have more respect for my feelings."

"They hain't no immegiate danger of that," answered Jemima with emphasis. "He may come to be your nephew to be sure, and the worl' may stop off short all to wunst and come to an end by Christmas. But neither o' 'em's likely enough to make it wuth while layin' awake to think about it."

"How do you know?"

"Well, I went over arter Bobo yesterday evenin',* and what d'ye think I see?"

Mrs. Hanks did not inquire, so Jemima was obliged to proceed on her own account.

"I see Mr. Whittaker a-coming out of the house, with his face all in a flush, like as of he'd been a-talkin' sumpin, perticular, and he spoke to me kinder shaky and tremblin' like. And when I came in, I see Roxy's face a sort of red and white in spots, and her eyes lookin' down and to one sides, and anywheres but straight,—kinder wander'n roun' onsartain, like's of she was afeard you'd look into 'em and see sumpin you hadn't orter."

"Well I do declare!" Whenever Mrs. Hanks found herself entirely at a loss for words and ideas she proceeded after this formula to declare. She always declared thas she did declare, but never declared what she declared.

"Well I do declare!" she proceeded after a pause. "Jemimy Dumbleton, if that don't beat the Dutch! for you to go prying into people's houses, and peeping into their eyes and guessing their secrets, and then to run around tattling them all over town to everybody, and—"

But the rest of this homily will never be known, for at this critical moment the lad with the ambitious name, who was engaged in developing his military genius by firing carpet-rag cannon-balls in various directions and watching their rebound, made a shot which closed the squabble between Mrs. Hanks and her help. He bowled a bright red ball—relic of an old flannel shirt through the middle of a screen which covered the fire-place in the summer. When he heard the crashing of the ball through paper he set up a shout of triumph, clapping his hands together; but when he saw that his missile did not come back from its hiding-place, he stood looking in stupified curiosity at the screen, the paper of which had almost closed over the rent. He was quite unable to account for the sudden and total eclipse of his red ball.

Mrs. Hanks saw with terror the screen, which had cost her unskilled hands of herself and Jemima two or three hours of cutting and planning and pasting, destroyed at a blow. Mischief done by impossible hands has this compensation, that one has the great relic of scolding, but one would as well scold the wind as to rebuke so irresponsible an agent as Bobo. Mrs. Hanks seized and shook him, then ran to the screen and put her hands behind it, holding the pieces in place as one is prone to do in such a case. It is the vague, instinctive expression of the wish that by some magic the injury might be recalled. Then she looked at her late antagonist, Jemima, for sympathy, and then she looked at the rent and uttered that unspellable interjection made by resting the tongue against the roof of the mouth and suddenly withdrawing it explosively. One writes it "tut—tut," but that is not it at all.

*"Evening," in the Ohio valley and in the South, is used in its primary sense of the later afternoon, not as in the eastern states, to signify the time just after dark.

Bobo fretted a little, as he generally did after being shaked up in this way, but having recovered his red ball, he was on the point of dashing it through the screen again when his mother prudently took it away from him, put on his cap, led him to the door and said:

"Go to Roxy."

"Go to Roxy!" cried the little fellow, starting down the path repeating the words over and over to himself as he went, as though he found it needful to revive instantly his feeble memory of its destination.

Having thus comfortably shed her maternal responsibilities, Mrs. Hanks proceeded to shed the carpet-rags also, by arraying himself to go out. This was a very simple matter, even for the wife of one of the principal men in the town, for in those good old days of simplicity nothing more elaborate than a calico dress and sun-bonnet was needed to outfit a lady for minor shopping. Mrs. Hanks' sun bonnet was soon adjusted, and she gave Jemima a farewell look, expressive of her horror of gossiping propensities, and then proceeded to where the tin sign beside the door read, "Miss Moore, Millenery and Mantua-maker," for the purpose of verifying Jemima's report.

Miss Moore was all attention. She showed Mrs. Hanks the latest novelty in scoop shovel bonnets which she had just brought from Cincinnati, got out her box of ribbons and set it on the table, and assented to everything Mrs. Hanks said with her set formula of "Very likely, Mrs. Hanks; very likely."

Miss Moore was not at all the conventional old maid. She was one of the mild kind, whose failure to marry came neither from flirting nor from a repellant temper, nor from mere chance; but if it is needful to account for it at all, from her extreme docility. A woman who says "indeed!" and "very likely" to everything is very flavorless. Adams had concluded to marry her now, perhaps because he liked paradoxes, and because Miss Moore with her ready consent was the sharpest possible contrast to his contradictariness. Then, too, she was the only person he could think of with whom he could live without quarrelling. She never disputed anything he said, no matter how outrageous. He experimented on her one day by proving to her, conclusively, that polygamy was best and according to Scripture, and when he had done and looked to see her angry, she smiled and said, "Very likely, indeed."

Now that the long becalmed bark of Miss Moore was about to sail into the looked-for haven, she set all her pennons flying. This call from Mrs. Hanks, who was the sister of the first Mrs. Adams, seemed to her very significant. She became more complacent than ever before. If Mrs. Hanks thought the orange ribbon a little too bright, Miss Moore, said, "Very likely, indeed." If Mrs. Hanks thought the blue ribbon just the thing, Miss Moore who again impressed and said, "Very likely." But when Mrs. Hanks said that on the whole the blue would not do, Miss Moore thought so too.

At last Mrs. Hanks pushed back her sun-bonnet, fingered the rolls of ribbon absently, and approached the point of attack.

"Well, Miss Moore, they do say you're not going to be Miss Moore always."

The milliner smiled and blushed and bridled a little, and then gave way and tittered. For when a woman's courtship comes late, the omitted emotions of her girlhood are all interpolated farther on, and it is no affectation for her to act like a young girl. Young girl she is in all the blushing emotions of a young girl. Only the fluttering does not seem to us so pretty and fitting as it might have been twenty years earlier.

"Well, suppose Roxy won't trouble you long."

Miss Moore looked mysterious.

"Very likely, indeed," she replied, and then added with a blush, "I've heard she has a beau." Miss Moore had heard only of Mark's attentions, but the suspicious Mrs. Hanks was now on the tracks of Whittaker.

"Mr. Whittaker?" she quried.

"Very likely." This was said partly from habit and partly to cover her real surprise at hearing the name of Whittaker. But this mechanical assent did not satisfy the inquisitive lady.

"Now do you know anything about it, Miss Moore? Don't say 'very likely,' but tell me plainly."

Miss Moore was cornered. She did not want to tell a lie, for Miss Moore was as truthful as a person of her mild temper could be. But she was very loth to confess her ignorance and thus loose something of her importance in the eyes of Mrs. Hanks.

"Well, being's it's you, Mrs. Hanks—being's it's you"—Miss Moore spoke as though she were going to sell a bonnet under price—"I don't mind telling you the plain truth without any double-and-twisting. I tell you plainly 't I shouldn't be surprised 't there was something in that, for I come to think of it. Very likely, indeed."

With this Mrs. Hanks had to be content, for to all further inquiries Miss Moore returned only her accustomed assent.

At last Mrs. Hanks turned away from the ribbons without buying, and said:

"Well, I must be going."

"Very likely," said Miss Moore from sheer habit. And then, too, she was turning over in her mind the intelligence Mrs. Hanks had given her, and what a nice morsel it would be to tell the wife of the ruling elder in Mr. Whittaker's church.

Poison in the Sugar Bowl.

In view of the fact that, since the closing down of the Montreal sugar refinery, by far the greater portion of the sugar used in Ontario is procured from the United States, the recent exposures made as to the adulteration of sugars refined in that country, possess a special interest for Canadians. The adulterations used are, glucose, which induces disease of the kidneys; tin dissolved in muriatic acid, which destroys the coats of the stomach; and copper, which is eaten off the vessels used in refining by the muriatic acid. An old refiner has recently given evidence which shows how the use of adulterants has assisted the refiners of sugar in the United States in exporting their products to Canada, their dishonestly prepared article having almost driven British sugars out of the market, and compelled Mr. Drummond to close his refinery at Montreal. This gentleman testified as follows: "This secret process for refining sugar was introduced about six years ago, but came into general use only recently. Some refiners use the muriate of tin in both the vacuum pans and the centrifugal machines, the general custom being to employ it in the latter only. The effect is to improve the color and to cheapen the cost of whitening from ¼ to ½ cent a pound, according to the quality of the raw material. The tin is purchased both in the pig and in the liquid form, a Brooklyn chemical manufactory supplying the latter in large quantities. I am informed on trustworthy authority that the consumption of these materials has increased largely since they have entered into the manufacture of refined sugars. The pig-tin is dissolved in hydrochloric acid, or muriatic acid, and is reduced with water to the proper consistency. It is then thrown into the centrifugal machine, which makes 1,500 revolutions a minute, whitening a sugar that by a natural process would be yellow. This new method raises the drawback to be paid by the Government from 2.08 to 2.48 cents a pound. It is estimated that a profit of ½ cent a pound makes $1.25 a barrel; and a refinery that produces from 3,000 to 4,000 barrels of sugar a day for 300 working days will make a profit of $1,125,000 a year on adulterations alone. The evil is not confined to the Government loss on drawbacks; the most vital consideration is the poisonous compounds taken into the human system. The theory of the refiners is that the chemicals which fail to neutralize enter into the sugar in such minute quantities that they cannot do any harm. The analyses, however, show an entirely different result, and chemists and physicians declare that the poisonous compounds in these sugars will destroy the coating of the stomach, as they are known to be powerful enough to eat the copper of the vacuum pans."

These facts ought to cause analysis to be made by the Government of American refined sugars and to cause the importation of the same to be prohibited if such sugars are found to be adulterated, as stated above.

EAST TORONTO.—Hon. Alex. Morris has been selected as the Conservative candidate for the vacant seat in the Ontario Legislature for East Toronto.

THE FISHERY AWARD.—It is said that a protest was handed to the British Foreign Minister by Mr. Walsh when the Fishery Award was paid, reiterating the views of the United States Government, as expressed by Secretary Evarts.

THE VICE REGAL RECEPTION.—The preparations for the reception of the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise are very complete, not only at Halifax but at Quebec, Montreal and Ottawa. A large number of visitors have reached Halifax, and more are constantly arriving.

ELECTION EXPENSES.—The official accounts of the election expenses are being published all over the country. In Kingston Mr. Gunn's expenses were $614.38; Sir John Macdonald's $495.99; Mr. McKerey, for Addington, $200.99; Mr. Hooper, for Lennox, $294.04.

ANOTHER MURDER IN NEW BRUNSWICK.—On Thursday the 7th inst., at Baddeck, N. B., Hector McNeil stabbed Peter McNeil fatally. The murder took place at a dance. All the parties were perfectly sober, and the fray was the result of an old quarrel. The murderer has surrendered himself.

THE N. W. MOUNTED POLICE.—The object of the visit of Col. McLeod and Mr. Normand, of the Mounted Police Force, to Ottawa is said to be for the purpose of consulting with the Government anent a reorganization of the force. It is intended to adopt the best features of the Australian system.

Counterfeit Bills.

As few, perhaps, outside of bank tellers and those handling notes of various denominations are able to detect the difference between a genuine and a spurious note, it might be well for all to observe the marks which lead to their identification. On the Bank of Commerce there is a $5 counterfeit bill afloat. On this note the vignette of Her Majesty is very poor, and the ring on her right hand, in the genuine note, has been omitted from the counterfeit. In the words "Canada Bank Note Printing Tint," under the vignette, the word "note" has been mis-spelled note. The signature on the left hand instead of being a pen and ink signature, is printed.

There is a false issue of the Ontario Bank, of $10 bills, bearing date Nov. 1, 1870. The note is smaller than the genuine, the paper is not so strong, numbering letters smaller, and "British American Bank Note Co." is omitted from the back. It is said to be a remarkably good forgery.

A $2 bill on the Union Bank, P. E. Island, has been photographed. The word "two" is a daub and shows through the paper.

The Consolidated Bank have no $10 bills in circulation, and any found of this denomination should be refused.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The World's Pittston, Pa., special says that the Pennsylvania Coal Company has announced two weeks suspension of the works, in consequence of the over-stocked market. About 10,000 laborers are thrown out of work. The coal combination does not appear to give satisfaction to many Companies and independent operators. The opinion of well informed coal men is that a lively and lengthy war will inevitably crop out from the present embroglio. As it is usual during unsettled times lawlessness has begun to manifest itself. At Hickory Bridge, in Shamokin region, one of the most extensive coal breakers of the Mineral Railroad and Mining Company, was fired by an incendiary. Loss $25,000.

The Herald's Sullivan, Ind., special gives particulars of a coal mine explosion: It says 9 persons were killed outright, 2 fatally injured, 8 have been brought up uninjured, 6 men are stillbelow at this hour, (midnight) and some are certainly alive as an occasional noise can be heard. Gas is sickening and some of them must perish before they can be brought to the surface.

Washington specials:

The Tribune says the United States Supervisor confirms the statement that Mr. Doggett, foreman of the Charleston News and Courier, deliberately stuffed 2,500 fraudulent ballots into one election box. The United States Supervisor, Hanna, writes from Kingston, S. C., announcing his arrest for perjury after he had testified before the United States Commissioner concerning the manner in which the election was conducted. A large number of similar arrests are reported.

The Herald says it is the belief of experts that an immediate demand on the treasury for gold after the 1st of January will take out about $50,000,000, but as no one will care to hoard gold, it is probable the greater part will find its way back into the sub-treasury in New York. It is taken for granted that one of the first movements when the session opens will be a determined attack on National Banks.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Wm. Baker, alias Burke, who was arrested, was to be on suspicion of complicity in the Stewart robbery, was indicted yesterday for forgery.

Samuel Pine, a wealthy resident of Port Chester, has been indicted as accessory to a burglary. A plea of insanity will be entered.

Charles Lasche, clerk for David Jones, an extensive brewer, was arrested yesterday charged with embezzlement. His accounts are $25,000 short.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, Nov. 22.—In a disagreement concerning stock at Llano, between four men recently, three of the party were killed.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Daniel Hyde, a boy residing with his parents, cut his throat and hanged himself yesterday because he had been punished for truancy.

SHREVEPORT, LA., Nov. 22.—A meeting of citizens at Caddo parish adopted resolutions which charge the responsibility for breaches of the peace on the Republican leaders and appeal for suspension.

While Thomas Carlyle was one morning taking his customary walk, a well-dressed man approached him and said:—"Are you really the great Thomas Carlyle, author of the 'French Revolution?'" "I am Thomas Carlyle,' was the reply. "and I have written a history of the French revolution." "In deed; but I was so anxious to have a look at you." "Look on, man," quoth the philosopher, impatiently, as he resumed his walk. "Look on; it will do me no harm and you no good."

OUR PARIS LETTER.

THE FRENCH AS SEEN WITH AMERICAN EYES. WHAT OUR CORRESPONDENT HAS LEARNED DURING HIS EIGHT MONTHS VISIT IN THE CAPITAL.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

HOTEL DU LOUVRE,
PARIS, Nov. 6, '78.

The extravagance of French politeness is as remarkable in the present as in the past. Some years ago there was such an ado when two people met, that the Chevalier Marin said that all conversation began with a ballet. Fourscore years ago, graceful antics and high flown compliments were still in vogue; but the deep triplicate salutation, with the bountiful manner, your bewitching eyes make me die of love passed away with the revolution of '93. The eccentricities of gallant speech and courtly gesture constitute one of the principal arteries running through the body politic from its earliest history to the present time. Under cover of the French idiom that it is impossible to be too polite singular extremes are reached, especially by the elderly men who affect something of the Regency manners. In some cases it is carried to a point where it might be called the gymnastics of social intercourse,—where the man insists of keeping his bald head uncovered in the sun, and runs with hot haste to convey a lap dog to a woman waiting, or bows low with a grand swoop of the hat to another man whom he sees two or three times a day. There is an historical instance of a well known aged nobleman, who, descending the stairway, meets a youth of twenty mounting, the nobleman stops to let him go up and the youth does the same, inviting the former to pass down; the nobleman stands firm, and requests the youth to continue, who responds, Jamais! with hand on heart: he knows to well what youth owes to age; upon which the elder commands him to mount, when the young man, with a bow says "Youth owes obedience to age," and passes, thus saving the situation as he believes.

There is an elasticity and adaptability in the Frenchman in presence of the women, of which the Anglo-Saxen has but a meagre share. The former, before all classes of these, cat-like, falls on his feet, be she countess or grisette; and to be brought unexpectedly in contact with any of them, never seems to disconcert or even surprise them. The Anglo-Saxon is taken at a disadvantage under similar circumstances, from which he does not rally immediately. The susceptibility of the newly arrived foreigner, for example, is put to a rude trial when he buys a pair of gloves. Behind the counter stand several smiling, self-possessed young women, whose eyes turn on him with disconcerting steadiness. He approaches the nearest of them, and signifies his desire to make a purchase. Are the gloves for Monsieur? They are. Will Monsieur give himself the trouble to sit down before the counter? He slips on to a high stool, which brings his head on a level with hers. She purringly inquires the number, which he generally does not know, when she daintily measures the masculine hand, holding it, after the tape measurement, lightly by finger tips, to examine the form of the glove required. She in the same tone inquires his color, to which a Frenchman begins to think that this is indeed a tender man would probably reply, "Whatever your taste may suggest," but to which the newly-arrived foreigner gives an answer destitute of any kind of embroidery. When she softly takes his hand in hers again, and looks into his face with a smile, America begins to think that this is indeed a tender business. Before however, he has any time to make many reflections on the situation, she is at work on his hands, and slips on the glove, carressingly introduces the fingers, the operation sandwiched with arch glances and chirrupy speech, and then the glove is buttoned, and the last fold is smoothed out with a gentle pat. This incendiary performance is followed with the question whether monsieur will have his other hand treated in the same way. The moth, of course will have another go at the candle, and by the time he is through he is naturally somewhat singed. Happily for family peace, the betrothed Mary Jane or the espoused Mary Ann cannot look into his heart at that moment. The eyes of the feminine Mephistopheles behind the counter follow out his retiring figure with a slight elevation of the eyebrows and a terrible monosyllable uttered to one of her companions. The modest foreigner goes through another ordeal with the flower girl. With a smile as bright and attractive as her flowers, she asks him if he will not have one. He would prefer not to encounter those winning eyes, and endeavors to pass on, but he may not do so; she holds him as securely as the Ancient Mariner held the wedding guest, and he signifies his acceptance of the tendered opening bud. He may not receive it with his hands: she with her nimbler finger will attach it to his button-hole, and the embraced man stands while the girl fondles over the region of his heart, and looks into the whites of his half-covered eyes. And the havoc committed in ten short minutes may not be repaired in six months. There is no fixed price for such a favor, and he is told with an expression that would have troubled the soul of St. Anthony, that it is any thing he may please to give. His betrothed Belinda, alas! would think it dear at any price.

The wide dissemination of art feeling among the French has a refining tendency in the manners of all classes. Beautiful squares and parks, with walks and shady forests, fountains and lakes, are open to all. The eyes of the people are made familiar with the architectural beauty as exhibited in the boulevards, bridges, and public edifices of the great city. The magnificent art galeries are free to all who wish to see them and the working people visit them frequently, especially on Sunday and fete days when they are kept open for their benefit. Thus the man in blouse is often familiar with the great pictures of French masters. In the houses of the poor, there are no vapid, keepsake heads in glowing colors, but copies of pictures exhibiting more or less merit. The deep red and blue Daniel in the Lion's Den, and the doll-faced Mary Ann, surrounded with an inch of bright staghogany are not to be seen on their walls. The square, loud-striking, and loud-ticking clock in red-wood, and the plaster of paris rabbit or cat painted in unnatural hues, have no place on their mantles. In humble cafes are found pictures which are fit to hang in some of the best restaurants of London and New York. The signs over shops show a talent not possessed by our sign painters, and many a gargote has grapes and vine-leaves painted over its door which merit a better place.

LOUIS.

"Do you believe in ghosts, Mrs. Partington?" was asked the old lady somewhat timidly. "To be sure I do," replied she, "that is as much as I believe that bright fellow may t'ere will rise in the yeast to-morrow, if we live and nothing happens. Two apprehensions have startled myself in our family. Why, I saw my dear Paul, a fortnight before he died, with my own eyes, jest as plain as I see you now, and it turned out afterward to be a rose bush with a night-cap on it. I shall always think, to the day of my desolation, that it was a forerunner sent to me. Tother one came in the night, when we were asleep, and carried away three candles and a pint of spirits that we kept in the house for an embarkation. Believe in ghosts, indeed! I guess I do. And he must be a dreadful sceptic as doesn't."

The New River Murder.

ANOTHER CONFESSION.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Nov. 21.

Dowd, the New River murderer, has made a second statement. He states that about 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the 9th of September last he was returning from berrying and met a drove of cows, and fearing that Mulherin's bull was with them he made a detour to avoid him as he was a dangerous animal; that he came out on the Meadow Road, at the rising ground, beyond the gully; that here he met Ward, with a pitchfork and axe with him; he asked Ward how he was getting along having; Ward replied, "I have been haying and will never make any more hay;" Dowd said, "I have been berrying;" Ward then said, "You will never go berrying again; I will kill you," and he made a pass at me with the pichfork. I laid hold of him and got him down. We tussled for some time. Finally, Ward promised to make up friends. We walked along the road together and when we reached the gully, Ward struck at me again with the pitchfork. I ran around the bushes and he followed me. I then seized the axe and knocked him down. I ran a short distance, I turned and came back and finished him. I was crazy at the time. (He disposed of the body as stated in the first confession.) I burned the hat in the swamp between the body and the road. He states that Mrs. Ward knew nothing about it then or now. He further says that he was going to make this statement to the Court when Mr. Grimmel was delivering his open address to the jury, but that he had not the power of utterance. After being sentenced he shed tears almost incessantly through the nights in prison and since he has made the confession, his mind seems relieved of a great burden. Mrs. Ward still asserts her innocence.

GOOD JUDGMENT.

WE have always noticed that Cash customers exercise the best and soundest judgment in buying. Hence the growing popularity of the

NEW BRITISH WAREHOUSE.

It stands to reason that any one who is always in the habit of paying cash for what they buy, can do better in a Cash store, where they are sure not to pay credit prices for what they buy, as is too often the case where cash buyers patronize credit stores. We are constantly receiving NEW GOODS EVERY WEEK, bought for cash, and the regular discounts taken advantage of.

We mark all Goods the closest figure that they possibly can be sold for, for cash,

ASKING ONE PRICE ONLY,

and we are satisfied that we are in a position to offer cash buyers advantages that cannot be surpassed in the market. Try the NEW BRITISH WAREHOUSE for your next parcel of Dry Goods.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, NOV. 22.

City and Vicinity.

ERRATUM.—The list of alterations made by the Court of Revision, as published yesterday, were for Ketcheson Ward, instead of Samson Ward, as printed.

BAD SIDEWALK.—The sidewalk in front of the gate of St. Thomas' Church is in a dangerous condition and ought to be repaired at once.

KINGSTON PRESBYTERY.—The Kingston Presbytery will meet in the John Street Church, Belleville, on the first Tuesday of January, 1879, at 7:30 p. m.

BEETS AND BEATS.—A California paper says that alcohol may be made from beets. Probably so. And we know a great many dreadful "beats" have been made from alcohol.

REMINDERS.—The St. George's Society will hold their annual meeting at the Marble Hall to-night.—The Bay of Quinte Rowing Club will meet this evening at Hambly's.

COMING.—Dr. Stewart, the well-known oculist and aurist, is to arrive here on the 28th inst., and will remain until noon on the 9th of December. Those requiring the doctor's services will find him at room No. 32, Dafoe House.

PERSONAL.—Any friends or acquaintances of a young man named James McWilliams, who left here about six weeks since with a gang of Thompson's men under Robert Stein, foreman, to work in a lumber shanty in rear of Orilla, will please communicate with Mr. Geo. H. Pope, as he has information that the young man died suddenly on the 7th inst.

PRINCE EDWARD RAILWAY.—A correspondent writes from Trenton to the Campbellford Herald :—"The by-law granting a bonus of $10,000 to the Prince Edward Railway was carried by a majority of 95, 24 voting against and 119 for the by-law. A large staff of men are at work in the village, and everything seems to say that before long we shall have our new railway."

GRAND JUNCTION RAILWAY.—The Campbellford Herald says :—"Last week we heralded the near approach of the railroad, now we are able to announce its completion much nearer. The rails have been laid to with about four miles of this village, and including delays, work is going on briskly. Less than a week hence, probably, will bring us in full view of the train. A gang of railway men just from the North Hastings road passed through here on Tuesday. They were on the way to the Grand Junction construction gang, with whom, we believe they will united in carrying the line line through to Campbellford."

AGAIN DISORDERLY.—The penalty recently imposed on one of Madoc's rowdies for his disgraceful conduct in an attack on the cook's van by himself and several of his worthless associates has to all appearance not had the desired effect, as three men who attacked the van on Monday night, were brought before Messrs. Wood and Cross, on Tuesday, and two of them were committed to goal for twenty days each. On Wednesday a number of them again acted riotously. This time the proceedings opened by an attack on one of the foremen of the road, and this official being strong and brave, acted with such determined vigor that all his opponents were knocked out of time. After that the rowdies made an attack on the cook's van and destroyed some of the property therein,as well as assaulted the officials in charge of that institution. Three of the offenders were arrested by Chief Constable Sills and were brought before A. F. Wood, Esq., J. P., yesterday. James Ward, a tramp from Boston, who was the leader of the gang, was fined $1 and costs, or 30 days in gaol with hard labor. He was placed in gaol here last night.

ELECTION EXPENSES.—The election expenses of Hon. M. Bowell in North Hastings at the general election were $200.90, made up as follows: Scrutineers' and canvasrors' expenses, $77.40; horse hire and livery expenses, $91; printing $20; Agent's expenses $6.50.

ST. ANDREW'S DAY.—The St. Andrew's Society publish in another column the outlines of the programme for their celebration of the natal day of their patron Saint, which is to take place on Friday evening, 29th inst. In the afternoon the Society will proceed to St. Andrew's Church, where the annual sermon will be preached by the Rev. Alexander Turnbull. In the evening a grand concert and Highland gathering will be given in the Opera House. There will be singing by the popular Miss Bary, of Hamilton; H. K. Maitland, of Guelph; J. L. Morrison, of Toronto, and a number of local amateurs. Highland dances in Highland costume will be executed by Messrs. Mathieson, Henderson and Robertson, of Hamilton, whose dancing at the civic celebration on Dominion Day was so much admired. This is a programme which out to attract a very large attendance, and we wish our Scotish friends all success in their celebration.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Nov. 22.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the Lower Lake region, brisk to high northerly to northwesterly winds, rain followed by partly clearing weather, slightly cooler. For the St. Lawrence, increasing easterly to northerly winds, and cloudy to rainy weather. For the Maritime Provinces, falling barometer, increasing easterly to northeasterly winds and cloudy weather with heavy rain.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22. — Indications:—rainy, partly cloudy, and cooler weather. Cautionary signals are ordered at Buffalo, Oswego and Rochester.

The storm last night was central near Lynchburg, Va., moved eastward and developed a sudden and very great energy on the north Atlantic coast: where a very severe northeasterly gale now prevails.

"I can't hold this baby any longer," called out the young husband father; "it's getting too heavy." "Pshaw, Edward," replied a voice from the other side of the room: "you used to hold me for an hour and never complain, and baby is but a feather to what I was." "I was a fool," said Edward. And she was too sleepy to dispute with him.

THE AFGHAN WAR.

British Troops Crossing the Frontier.

TWO FORTS TAKEN.

Distress Among the Soldiers

LONDON, Nov. 21.—A Calcutta despatch says all the columns have been ordered to cross the frontier to-day. All telegrams detailing the movement of troops have been stopped.

A Thull despatch says the Tenth Hussars crossed the frontier at three o'clock this morning. They found Fort Kayyion abandoned. Three children had been left there. Gen. Roberts' force at once moved forward on Fort Ahmedishama, five miles further up the valley.

The Standard's correspondent telegraphs from the camp of the Khyber column, on Thursday at daybreak, as follows:—"The first and second brigades have long since started. The first intends to turn Fort Ali Musjid by the mountain road, whilst the second attack the mountain Kohtaken, commanding a fort on which the Afghans have placed a battery. The third and fourth brigades are just about to start by the main road up the Pass, but the latter movement is only intended as a demonstration, as it is thought a turning movement will coupel the Afghans to abandon their defences.

A despatch from Lahore, Thursday, says: "If the attack on Fort Ali Musjid is successful, the advanced brigade will press forward and encamp outside the Pass. It is only intended to push the advance of the column to Dakka, near Lalpura, this year. The Quettah column will halt at Pishen until it is joined by General Stewart. The Khurum column has occupied Fort Ahmedistama. Up to 8 o'clock last evening no news had been received concerning the attack on Fort Ali Musjid.

A special from Jamrood allots an important share in the operations against Fort Ali Musjid to the third and fourth brigades, who will bring up a forty-pounder battery to batter the fort.

A despatch from Berlin reports that Gen. Kauffman, presenting a sword to the Afghan envoy at Tashkend for transmission to the Ameer, declared that whoever sided with Russia need not fear that a hair of his head would be injured.

LAHORE, Nov. 21.—The British force advanced from Quettah has arrived at Runlukh, ten miles distant. The cold is intense, and about 100 men are sick in each regiment. Warm clothes are urgently required. Anxiety is felt regarding the weather.

A proclamation of the Viceroy has been read to the Belooch chiefs, stating that war will only be waged against the Ameer, and advising the people to remain at home. The Quettah column numbers 5,260 men. A division commanded by Lieutenant-General Donald Stewart, numbering $6,330 men, has left Mooltan for Quettah.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 21.—The Russian organ Le Nord, in an article on the Afghan War, says:—"The reports which will doubtless be propagated relative to complications between England and Russia may be characterised as false. All prospect of such an eventuality may be put out of the question with perfect assurance."

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

THE AFGHAN WAR.

Attack on Ali Musjid.

GALLANTRY OF THE BRITISH TROOPS.

The Fort Abandoned by the Afghans.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—A Jamrood despatch announces the occupation on Friday of the Fort of Ali Musjid, which the Afghans abandoned.

KHYBER PASS, Thursday afternoon.—At daybreak General Brown stood on a little plain beyond Jamrood watching the march to the front of a picquet of the enemy's cavalry. He was visible on the top of Shogai Ridge. The advance guard marched briskly on, and presently crested a height, whence at 10 o'clock a skirmish fire opened on the enemy's picquet. The latter retired after a desultory reply. Our forces pressing on and occasionally firing reached Shagai Ridge, whence Ali Musjid is clearly visible. At noon Ali Musjid fired the first shell, which burst in the air. A long halt was necessary to allow the heavy battery to come up. Fort Ali Musjid replied and firing became somewhat brisk. Meanwhile firing was heard to the left of Fort Ali Musjid, and some persons conjectured it was Maclaverex's turning movement on our right coming into operation, but the Afghans about Fort Ali Musjid held their ground although thus apparently threatened on the flank and front. Our horse artillery fire was fairly served, the Afghans replied with spirit from Fort Ali Musjid at first but afterwards slackly. At 1 o'clock a forty pounder reached the scene, also Magnum's nine pounders. About 2 o'clock two forty pounder shells crushed into the central bastion and crumbled a great portion of it, apparently dismounting the most stubborn gun of the enemy. Soon after 2 o'clock the infantry advanced briskly, the fourth brigade took the left slopes of the valley pressing on through the rocks towards Fort Ali Musjid, while the third brigade took the right side. When the last rocky ridge on the left slope was crossed the rocky plateau followed nearly up to the foot of Ali Musjid rock. The skirmishers pushed on steadily and firing briskly, evoking a sharp reply from the enemy studding the rock strewn slopes. Meanwhile Manderson's battery, moving on along the bed of a stream, had come into action, four guns previously silenced came again into action, and the enemy deveioped guns in new places. In view of the expected co-operation from two brigades despatched on a turning movement, and the sun setting while much had yet to be done, operations were reluctantly suspended till to-morrow. On our left the third brigade had gained a position very close to the right flank of Ali Musjid, and indeed they were almost within storming distance.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—A special from Jamrod says that the Afghans abandoned Fort Ali Musjid in the course of the night. Tytler's brigade has occupied a defile in their rear. Dispositions for advancing a now being made.

The other day an Irishman was passing the graveyard, where he saw two men, friends of a countrymen who had just died. They were seeking for a burial lot. "Who's dead?" he asked. "John Leary," was the reply. "When did he die?" "Yesterday." "Well, bedad, he had a foine day for it."

SPRINGFIELD, Missouri, Nov. 22.—John Taylor, wife, and two children and Miss Clutze, left on their way for Colorado, two months ago. A letter from Miss Clutze states that Onderns captured the party and murdered all except herself. She was afterwards rescued by United States troops. The letter graphically describes the fight with the Indians, about twenty of whom were killed and wounded, before capturing Taylor.

CORRY, Pa., Nov. 22.—This morning at the Union depot, while a funeral party were taking the train for Erie, the platform gave way, precipitating 15 people into a sewer 15 feet below. The coffin was buried in rubbish. Several were severely injured.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 22.—A co-operative Coal Company's boiler exploded last evening. Two men were killed and seven scalded; two very seriously.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

THE ROBBERY OF STEWART'S BODY—THE PROSPECTS OF BRITISH TIMES—"FULLED"—AN INTERESTING PRISONER—THE WEEK'S FINANCES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15, 1878.

As yet Stewart's bones have not been found. It's a bad thing to mark bones up too high in the market reports. People covet them. It seems to me that this bone stealing is a reflection on the modern way of burying a fel. low man in his own corruptibility. Burn him, like the world that will be burned at last, bones and all. What are we but vanity, particularly in our shrouds? The poor woman, Mrs. Ben Pitman, who left her carcase bravely to be burned, was a Joan of Arc. Said she, in effect: "No mummery. No Indian howling around my worn-out little mortality. No big bills for undertakers to plague my laboring husband. I shall not lie less in his earth because my ashes are in the air or condensed in into the balm of flowers."

Here is the richest widow in America, who has built a $300,000 cathedral to receive the bones of a mere yard-stick knight. Without the bones the Cathedral will be an empty frame, an imperial mummery case, like the coffins of the Capet kings at St. Louis after the royal bones were dumped in a ditch. It is not bones nor architecture, but blessed deeds, which preserve men's graves from ghost defying thieves.

To get money from the Stewarts was always about as easy as to get blood from a stone, and the reward as it now stands is a myth and nullifies itself, for whoever stole the body would have to own himself the thief in order to get the money, which would do him no good, if they immediately arrested and punished him for desecrating a grave; for it is known—as far as anything is known in this matter—that there was no gang of thieves concerned in the robbery, one of whom might turn State's evidence and so get the reward.

There is nothing here that does not look encouraging. A warmer, more confident tone finds expression in every field of substantial business. It is believed that resumption will achieve practical inflation, the gold not being required, and to be added to the circulation of the paper currency giving us $900,000,000 of currency, instead of subtracting $210,000,000. Gold will neither be popular nor at a premium, nor yielding to foreign traction, as we do not owe anything to Europe, from which we are constantly drawing gold to pay for our excessive exports. We have drawn $800,000,000 of our bonds from Europe in the past three years to pay for meats and bread-stuffs, leaving on that side of the water only $200,000,000 of the bonds, which will not return, being in the hands of small investors to keep. This market has absorbed all these bonds without a whimper, and the four per cents. stand at three-eighths premium. How are you, Johnny Bull? Gold is what we ask for now from our unhilarious cousin!

Mr. Evarts will pay that trifling fishery award in a few days. The next thing needed is to cut down our tariff fifty per cent., otherwise they will raise tariffs against us in both Germany and Britain. What has made this amazing change? Labor and the fertility of our continent. What has made us labor? The kind use of adversity. After resumption and the attendant excess of currency, prosperity of things must go up. Real estate and underpaid manufacturers will presently feel it. Labor and subsistence will continue cheap. Providence and method will still be cultivated and all our economies will be subjected to a student-like revision. We want less bounty from tariffs, to stimulate this close attention. We want to raise more through clerks and merchants, who can take in the world and make it our customer. Thoroughness instead of rascality is the religion of the future. Politicians not useful will be hanged; fellows watching for spasmodic appearance of vice to bait for it with a dodge will be labelled "N. G." which will not mean National Guard.

The other night the nocturnal Dogberry, strolling in the moonlight and thinking how hard it was that there were not more barrooms on his beat, suddenly perceived a white-robed form, something like the typical angel of ancient literature, descending from a third story window; and his interest was heightened when he become aware that it was unmistakable female angel, arranged in the mere symptom of costume in which a lady is supppsed to sleep. Visions of intriguing lovers, elopements, cruel parents, bribes for not arresting and the like, at once rose before the policeman's fancy, as he slowly approached the spot, and making up the alley, dexterously received the descending angel in his arms. "My preserver," she cried, nestling there as if it was her legal and appointed place. "Who are you, Miss?" says the Dogberry tenderly, but officially. "Only a trapeze artist, and the vile woman keeps this house inviolate me here three nights ago; but I've kept all right, and now I'm out, I'll have her pulled." "Pulled is the word," said the policeman, as he led his fair charge to the station-house after gallantly giving her his overcoat. The next morning Nellie Potter, Lizette Ripley, or Mlle. Leona, by which names she was variously known, trapeze artist, answered Judge Ottorbourg thus: "I was a shop-girl, and lost my place for slapping my boss when he tried to kiss me, and, being out of work, I read in the Herald of Young girls wanted to learn the trapeze business; address Prof. G. W. Ripley, No. 8 Bond Street." I answered the ad.; saw Ripley; found him willing to take me,—but wanted one dollar a lesson. I only had three dollars, so that was only three lessons; but up stairs we went into the gymnasium, where Rip. made me put on tights and get on the trapeze. He showed me how to 'do the angel,' 'bend the crab,' the 'side lock,' and all the other pretty tricks,—and at that first lesson I was such a success that Ripley went crazy over me; and at the third lesson, as my last dollar went, he declared that we would go into the business together as the Ripleys, and we did. I made a splendid hit; but at the end of three weeks old Rip. wanted us to be Ripleys on the hotel register, as well as on the bills, which I said wouldn't work. He skipped with my part of the money, and so just on the edge of fame I was left without a cent. I came back to New York last Monday, and the first woman I met was this Madame Laura, who asked me to come and board with her, and the first thing, you know, I was in the wrong box; but I didn't stay long, and here I am." The Judge smiled, and sent the pretty "artist" to be the guest of the matron of the prison for the night, with permission to go on her way in the morning.

Events of the week in financial circles were important chiefly for the improving tendency of affairs on the Stock Exchange. The money market was easy and the ruling rates for call loans was from 3 to 4 per cent. Foreign Exchanges were firm and a fraction higher on moderate business. Government bonds exhibited marked strength and prices advanced from an ⅛ to a ½ per cent. Gold speculation was weak in tone with sales as low as 100 1-16.

Railway and miscellaneous speculation was active at intervals, and although somewhat irregular was in the main higher. At the opening, prices declined ½ to ¼ per cent, but this was followed by an advance of ½ to 6¼ per cent with Western Union, Lake Shore, Northwest, St. Paul and Coal Stocks the leading features in the upward movement.

Towards the close Western Union showed a reaction of 4¼ per cent from the highest point, and general list went off ½ to 1¼ per cent, but in the final sales there was a recovery of 1¼ per cent in Western Union and ½ to 1 per cent in other shares.

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that uses it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists. d&w

The invigorating, Fattening and Nutritive properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime are such as would indicate its sufficiency to "sustain the body in the performance of its various functions," with the aid of but little solid food. Hence its superior remedial worth in the "Wasting Diseases of Childhood," the "Wasting Away," in those of "Consumptive tendency," —in Consumption itself, as well as in General Debility, and all cases of Prostration and Emaciation. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Does it who can."

It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant relief to the unfortunate sufferer.

It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time.

Pocket your prejudices and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain.

The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease than any day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge" of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price, 25 cents per Bottle.

THE CHILDREN.

The children! ah, the children!
Your innocent, joyous ones;
Your daughters, with souls of sunshine:
Your buoyant and laughing sons.

Look long in their happy faces,
Drink love from their sparkling eyes,
For the wonderful charm of childhood,
How soon it withers and dies!

A few fast-vanishing summers,
A season, or twain of Pan,
And you suddenly ask, bewildered,
"What is it my heart hath lost?"

Perchance you see by the hearth-stone
Some Juno, stately and proud,
Or a Hebe, whose softly unbashed eyes
Flash out from the golden cloud

Of lavish and beautiful tresses
That, wantonly floating away
O'er the white of a throat and bosom
More fair than blossoms in May.

And perchance you mark their brothers—
Young heroes who spurn the sod
With the fire of a high birthright,
And the air of a Grecian god.

But where, oh, where are the children,
Your household fairies of yore?
Alack! they are dead, and their grace has fled
For ever and evermore.

MY HAPPY, HAPPY HOME.

'Twas not a mansion, stately fair,
With lawns and flowers of beauty rare,
But just a "farm-house," plain and square,
Built in the good old style.
His look chelicoe called command;
Of iron will, but manners bland;
We watched the motions of his hand,
The language of the eyes.

My mother! I can see her now,
With loving eye and thoughtful brow,
As if she might be thinking how
To meet each single care.
How best some haughty will to tame,
Or quench incipient anger's flame—
Or as a helper in need,
With sweet and blithesome air.

Their pride—their thirteen boys and girls,
Some with straight locks and some with curls,
But all jet black; and teeth like pearls,
Well set in even rows.
A healthy, jovial lot were we,
All full of fun and careless glee,
And happy as you're sure to be,
Where peace and love combine.

Such was my home. My brothers, ten,
When I was born some five were men,
The rest in steps ran down to Ben—
And last of all was I.
My sisters you could women call—
The youngest she was stout and tall;
The other, eldest of us all,
And all from wedlock free.

When gathered round the old fireside,
Or at the table—well supplied,
My father had a patriarch's pride,
His eyes o'er all would cast.
Then ask a blessing to descend
On us, all our steps attend,
And guide us even to the end,
And save us each at last.

Thank God! that prayer was not in vain;
But one as yet has crossed life's main,
And him we hope to meet again
On Canaan's happy shore.
Our parents, too, long since have died,
But we through Jesus crucified
Will meet them on the other side,
Where parting is no more.

The Condescension of the King.

"Behold thy King cometh unto thee." Zech. ix. 9.

That our King should let us come to Him is condescension indeed. But that we should go to Him of our own accord, and in doing this we challenge an instance when regret has followed. It is said experience is the best of teachers, but what is experience but a snare through which we pass, to render these brutal elements of our nature subservient to the moral—the higher attributes of the heart.

Passion rules the world; but passion must first be brought under subjection, or, like steam in the locomotive, it will drive a whole train to destruction. The parents can teach their children that indulgence in passion is a fearful sin, no one will doubt; but it is also true that they must control themselves, if they would teach their loved ones to grow up into useful men and women and live long and happy lives.

The writer's experience is like that of many others; yet, if related here, it may do some good. His mother died ere he can remember. His father, a good, but very busy active, business man, gave him, by far, too little care; in fact he was often absent from home for years at a time. Thus the writer grew up to manhood, almost devoid of restraint. His inclinations, for the most part, were to do right; hence many of the vices which he acquired, he was entirely free from. Tobacco, intemperance, profanity, lying or dishonesty—none of these ever found a lodgement in his life; but, alas for the evil ideas which were inculcated in his heart in regard to his intercourse with others! He was brought to believe it was honorable and manly to "show fight" on all conceivable occasions; and to this end he gave unrestrained rein to passion, invariably, almost, being worsted, if his opponent kept his temper.

And this evil grew with his years, until it was no unusual thing for him to get insanely angry with his dearest friend; and when the weight of years and wisdom taught him how ruinous the evil habit was, still a sudden trial would render self control almost impossible, and with tears he would confess inwardly that he had made "a fool of himself."

But if anger had an evil effect, other notions which he freely imbibed were far more disastrous to himself than others. In the circle wherein he moved, it was generally considered a young man was not "smart" unless he could basely deceive more or less in accounts or in the other sex; and to accomplish this infernal aim the passions were stimulated by vile conversation, immoral stories, and obscene literature; and unless a young man could boast of some evil deed, he was considered a "greeny."

Amid such circumstances the writer grew to manhood, and then learned the falsity of all he had hitherto considered so praiseworthy; then, too, came the effort to undo the work of the past. Fearful temptations assailed him at every turn. The passions, which, under proper restraint, would have enabled him to triumph over great difficulties, were now his masters—he their abject slave at first; but finally, gaining strength from despair, he burst his fetters, and, after a thousand well fought battles with his inclinations—in which conscience sometimes lost, but often won—at length he stood forth a free man, true to his conscience and true to his God. But oh! his poor heart was frightfully lacerated and torn, and even in after years the scars were a constant reminder of the evil influences of his youth. Verily, his sin had found him out.

Ah! that parent that hugs to his heart the fond delusion that his boy is too pure to indulge in evil, may be making a great mistake. Mothers, if you seek the happiness of your boys, watch as well as pray!

A Hundred Years Hence.

"All the same a hundred years hence?" Do you really think so? It may be all the same to you, perhaps, though even that is by no means certain; but thinking that you do to-day may have fruit that will work weal or woe when a century has rolled away. It is not natural to consider one's unborn great-great-grandchildren very much. Most of us think if we do not say, "After us the deluge." But whether we care, or do not care, we may cause those great-great-grandchildren many tears, or much joy, by something that we do or even say to-day.

The sins of the fathers are visited upon the children through the generations, and so also for their father's virtues are the children rewarded. Life is made of little strands braided together. Shall we be sure that the one that is taken up to-day is joined to no other?

You can choose between Esther and Helen, and marry on of them. Assuredly you should have the right of choice, but you cannot say it will be all the same a hundred years hence. Even the same name will not be that in the world, and therefore the same deeds will not be done.

Besides, what one does in his own day sometimes influences all the ages. A helping hand, held out when it was needed to the discouraged inventor, has sometimes given the world inventions for which the centuries are thankful.

Is it nothing to us now that our forefathers signed the Declaration of Independence?

When the deeds that are done affect nations we can understand that it will not be the same a hundred years hence. We do not understand quite so well that our own characters and our own lives are yet influenced even by the thoughts hidden in the souls of our progenitors, or that the shadows of any wicked deed we do may lie across the path of some innocent man or woman a hundred years hence, when we are ashes.

Gems of Thought.

Necessity never made a good bargain.

Man lives only to shiver and prespire.

Light cares speak, great ones are dumb.

Men's judgments sway on that side fortune leans.

A ruined character is as picturesque as a ruined castle.

Reprove thy friend privately, commend him publicly.

All impediments in fancy's course are motives of more fancy.

Great souls invite calamity, as lofty mountains the thunder clouds.

If ever I am an instructress, it will be to learn more than to teach.

Men's evil manners live in brass; their virtues we write in water.

The supreme happiness of life is the conviction that we are loved.

By the very constitution of our natures, moral evil is its own curse.

Take the tone of the company you are in, and never pretend to give it.

Truth often displeases a lively soul, but it always persuades a just mind.

All other knowledge is hurtful to him who has no honesty and good nature.

Banish the tears of children; continual rains upon the blossoms are hurtful.

I envy no man that knows more than myself, but pity those who know less.

Men seldom improve when they have no other models than themselves to copy after.

What we have to do in this world is not to make our conditions, but to make the best of them.

Commend a fool for his wit and a knave for his honesty, and they will receive you into their bosom.

Make but few explanations; the character that cannot otherwise defend itself is not worth vindicating.

People judge generally what they are made by education and company between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five.

The seat of knowledge is in the head; wisdom in the heart. We are sure to judge wrong if we do not feel right.

There is good in real evils—they deliver us while they last from the petty despotism of all that were imaginary.

What are the aims which are at the same time duties? They are, the perfecting of ourselves, and the happiness of others.

Good is the real meaning of verses, as well as written words, may be chiefly in the impressions of those who look on them.

Every element of manhood and of womanhood may be reached and beautified by communion with God in the house of his praise.

When Infinite Wisdom established the rule of right and honesty, He meant it that justice should be always the highest expediency.

Insanity is not a distinct and separate empire; our ordinary life borders upon it, and we cross the frontiers in some part of our nature.

Whosoever is afraid of submitting any question, civil or religious, to the test of discussion, is more in love with his own opinion than with truth.

So much of our time is preparation so much is routine, and so much is retrospect, that the path of each man's genius contracts itself to a very few hours.

The more men believe love God; the more they love one another; as the lines of a circle, the nearer they come towards the centre the nearer they come to each other.

Nothing disposes us better to confidence, to the pleasures of intimacy, than a common subject of suffering. Thus our companions in misfortune become dearer always our friends.

Merit has rarely risen itself, but a pebble or a twig is often quite sufficient for it to spring from to the highest point. There is usually some baseness before there is any elevation.

We should act with as much energy as those who expect everything from themselves; and we should pray with as much earnestness as those who expect everything from God.

The great moments of life are but moments like the others. Your doom is spoken in a word or two. A single look from the eyes, a mere pressure from the hand, may decide it; or of the lips, though they cannot speak.

Public Manners.

Nothing more surely marks a gentleman than his public manners. It is, for instance, impossible not to feel that a man who arrives at a hotel late at night, and goes noisily, talking and laughing, along the corridor to his room, flinging his boots down heavily, and slamming the door, though an upright and excellent person, yet lacks the finer qualities of the gentleman. The essence of courtesy is moral. It is a sympathetic regard for the feelings of others which spares them unnecessary annoyance. When it is instinctive, it is delicate tact. But it is, at bottom, humanity. So when a public man vituperates another, however "smart" the abuse may be, there is an instant perception of the want of true gentlemanly feeling. However polished the invective, it is nothing more than the style of the stews. When Lord Beaconsfield spoke of Mr Gladstone in the strain that we quoted last month, it was instantly felt that he had made a mistake; and although he might be, as his admirers assert, the last unmingled representative of the Sephardim, or those Hebrews who can trace their pedigree unbroken through interminable generations of ancestors always of gentle blood, he was yet not quite a gentleman. When a member of a public assembly had been berated by an opponent over the white of a throat and bosom More fair than blossoms in May.

And perchance you mark their brothers—
Young heroes who spurn the sod
With the fire of a high birthright,
And the air of a Grecian god.

But where, oh, where are the children,
Your household fairies of yore?
Alack! they are dead, and their grace has fled
For ever and evermore.

Great works are performed, not by strength but by perseverance. Yonder palace was raised by single stones, yet you see its height and spaciousness. He that shall walk with vigor three hours a day, will pass in seven years a space equal to the circumference of the globe.—Johnson.

Partyism Run Mad.

It is not often that we peruse the editorial utterances of the Charlottetown (Prince Edward Island) Patriot, as it is an insignificant and rabid propagator of Grit opinion; but having happened to glance over the issue of that journal bearing date the 13th inst., we find the following choice example of the disgraceful lengths to which, unfortunately, some men who are supposed to be intelligent and who ought to have some regard for truth, will go in their efforts to sway public opinion in a direction favorable to their party:—

"The Protectionists are beginning to reap where they have sown. For the last two years they have been picturing Canada to the world as a ruined country. Its industries, according to their story, were distressed, its mo chants ruined, and its inhabitants, despairing of its future, leaving it by thousands. Of course all this was seen and ruminated upon by the capitalists of the Mother Country. Now, Mr. Tilley is obliged to go to Great Britain to borrow money to build the public works of this ruined and desolated country, and the organs of his party are fearful lest he will not be able to borrow on terms as easy as Mr. Cartwright did. If he cannot whose fault will it be? Who have been busily engaged in crying down the credit of the country, and who have been proclaiming, far and near, that the people of this Dominion are determined to adopt a fiscal system hostile to the interests of England? Who, but Sir John Macdonald and his party, and now, after making a poor mouth for years and resolving to legislate against the country that has plenty of money to lend, they go to borrow. If they do, it is on good terms it is far more than they deserve."

Such utter disregard for the truth as is exhibited in the above extract we have rarely or never seen equalled even in the Grit press of this country, not a few organs of which have become notorious in that respect, whilst the concluding sentence, which we have placed in italics, is worthy of either a candidate for the lunatic asylum or a Yankee Anglophobist.

As the false hoods contained in the Patriot's paragraph are so numerous and so glaring, and as other equally violent and unreflecting Grit journals nearer home may think it worth while to rehash or repeat them in some form, we will devote a little space to their exposition.

(1.) It is not true that Mr. Tilley goes to England to borrow money for the sole purpose of carrying on the public works. His mission is to raise a loan to retire bonds falling due in January and to pay off some five millions of deficits which had accrued under Mr. Cartwright's mismanagement during the past five years, and which that model financier had neglected to provide for in any way. Had the Mackenzie Government remained in power, Mr. Cartwright would have had to make a journey to England with a similar object about this time.

(2.) It is equally untrue that Conservative journals are fearful lest Mr. Tilley should be unable to borrow on terms as favorable as did his predecessor. On the contrary, the prediction has been freely uttered that Mr. Tilley will do better in that respect than his predecessor did, for the reason that he will place the proposed loan on the market on its merits and not allow any financial institution to fix a rate for the loan and buy it at its own price as Mr. Cartwright did. Neither will he have a two-sided shield to show to the money lenders.

(3.) Sir John A. Macdonald and his party have not cried down the credit of the country. That they have shown whither we were drifting under the suicidal policy of the Mackenzie Government is perfectly true; but on no occasion did Sir John Macdonald or any of his followers seek to disparage the great natural resources of Canada or state that the Dominion was overloaded with debt, or even insinuate that our financial engagements could be met. That was the course pursued by the Grit party when they wished to prevent Sir Hugh Allan from floating the Pacific Railway scheme on the London market.

As to the expressed hope that the Finance Minister may not get the loan, made necessary as above explained, on good terms, we can only say that it is worthy of the party from which it emanates, whose motto is "party first and country afterwards." It is a disgrace to Canadian journalism that men so narrow-minded, vindictive and unpatriotic as the editor of the Charlottetown Patriot, should have the control of the columns of public journals, still we imagine that public opinion will, sooner or later, provide a fitting punishment for such fanatics and irreconcilables.

THE GOVERNOR AT MONTREAL.—The Mayor of Montreal has issued a proclamation, requesting the day on which the Marquis of Lorne will arrive in that city to be observed as a holiday, suggesting that the streets be decorated with flags and banners, and requesting a general illumination in the evening. A gala time is anticipated.

It is said that spelling matches will again be all the rage the coming winter, and dictionaries are in request.

Political Notes.

The Hamilton Spectator suggests that, in the readjustment of the tariff, a tax should be placed on patent medicines. The suggestion is a good one. We know of no branch of business that can better afford to pay a pretty round impost than patent medicines. A heavy import duty should be imposed on the foreign article, and a fair fee exacted from the patent medicine manufacturers of the Dominion.

The Toronto Telegram says:—"There is really more fuss being made over the removal of Mr. Buckingham from the Deputy Ministership of the Interior to the Department of Public Works than the matter warrants. Mr. Buckingham was Mr. Mackenzie's private secretary, and necessarily had intimate and confidential relations with him. He is a strong party man. It could hardly have been other than unpleasant for Sir John Macdonald to have as his deputy Mr. Mackenzie's firm friend and secretary, and what is more to the point, it could hardly have been agreeable to Mr. Buckingham himself to be kept in a place where his every action would have been open to the suspicion of the Tory leader and the Tory press."

The Vice-Regal Reception.

HALIFAX, Nov. 22.—From headquarters I learn that on the arrival of the Sarmatian off Sambro Light, the city will be signalled. The Sarmatian has in structions to rendezvous some distance at sea and wait for the fleet, in case the latter shall not be in waiting for her. The firing of heavy guns, the official and formal landing, will be two twenty-four hours after the arrival. The reception will take place in the dock-yard, and then the procession will form and proceed to the Government House, where Chief-Justice Richards will swear in the Marquis. The Halifax address will be presented by Mayor Tobin, and the levee will take place. On the first evening the party will be incog. Next morning they will visit the city and receive addresses from the national societies and go the Academy of Music in the afternoon. After the gentlemen's full dress reception is held they will be escorted by a torchlight procession to Maple Wood in the evening, and will dine with His Excellency Sir Patrick Macdougall at nine p. m., leaving for Montreal on the morning of the third official day. At eleven o'clock the bells will peal in all parts of the city, and salutes be fired, the moment the swearing in is announced.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 23.—Thomas Gerritty, a slate picker, slipped into a shute yesterday and was drawn between the teeth of a coal breaker, which tore him to pieces.

ROME, Nov. 23.—The Prime Minister, in transmitting to the Foreign Secretary President Hayes' message of felicitation on the King's escape, says: "His Majesty wishes you to inform Mr. Marsh how agreeable and precious to him is this fresh manifestation of friendship which unites Italy to the noble American Confederation."

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 23.—Somewhat of a stir was produced here by the discovery of a deficit of $20,000 in the funds of the Louisville agency of the Connecticut Life Insurance Company of Hartford.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The Herald's London despatch says the decision to summon the British Parliament is the result of a row in the Cabinet. It will be remembered the Committee announced its intention to call upon the Premier to urge the necessity of an extra session. Beaconsfield semi-officially announced that he would not receive the deputation. The Marquis of Salisbury, Sir Stafford Northcote and Mr. Cross insisted in the last Cabinet meeting that the condition of affairs in the east was sufficiently grave to justify an extra session. Beaconsfield strenuously objected, but he was finally defeated. The real cause of the stubborn opposition to the Premier was that his colleagues were afraid to give in any further to his policy. The Queen will sit in the Council on Wednesday, at which the date of the assembling of Parliament will be fixed. It is probable the session will last about a fortnight.

Washington specials:

The Tribune says: It is believed that the following will be the essential points in the resumption programme. 1st. The United States notes will be redeemed at New York by the sub Treasury, in gold or silver coin, at the option of holders, without limitation. 2nd. The legal tender notes of the special issues of large denomination will be delivered in the place of gold certificates and there will be no further issue of gold certificates. 3rd. Holders of notes who prefer gold instead of silver will obtain gold. The Treasury will not force upon the holder of the notes the kind of legal coin not desired. 4th. Legal tenders, even without enactment of any law affirmatively authorizing it, will be everywhere received for Customs dues. 5th. Silver dollars will be exchanged for legal tenders or National bank notes in multiples of $1,000, at any sub-Treasury or National bank, which is a United States depository. The expenses of transportation to be paid by the mint. 6th. That perhaps the arrangements will be made at the sub treasuries, other than at New York, to redeem legal tender notes in coin within ordinary limits.

New York, Nov. 23.—Mr. Kohel was robbed of $5,000 in a package in his overcoat while coming from Buffalo to this city via the Erie Railroad on Thursday. On the way he hung his overcoat on the back of a seat.

The Grand Jury has thus far indicted about fifty liquor dealers for violating the excise law. It is claimed there are about 4,200 irregular saloons in the city.

Wm. Humphrey, the defaulting Secretary of the New Rochelle Savings Bank, was found guilty yesterday and sentenced to five years' imprisonment. He is 68 years old.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

MANCHESTER, Nov. 23.—The Guardian's London correspondent telegraphs that the Cabinet Council yesterday was the scene of a severer conflict than had taken place at the departure of Lord Derby. It was whispered three weeks ago that differences were rising on the Afghan Question. The issue of the ultimatum is now believed to have been the result of a compromise for the purpose of conciliating the more pacific section of the Cabinet. There was at the same time a rumor of the intention to summon Parliament so as to meet the scruples of some Ministers on the constitutional question involved in the war. That party to-day carried its object. Its chief members are pointed out by report as Northcote and Cross, who also received a considerable amount of support from Lord Salisbury.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—A St. Petersburg despatch says the Golos declares permanent land communication between Russia and Bulgaria through Roumenia is indispensable. Count Schouvaloff on behalf of Russia had previously demanded of Austria the right to establish such a line of communication, but Austria had refused to accede. The Golos' article, which is evidently inspired, is likely to cause differences between the two Governments.

LAHORE, Nov. 23.—A column of the British army advancing into Afghanistan by way of Quetta, has occupied, without resistance, a place called Sibi within the Ameer's territory due east of Dazar.

BERNE, Nov. 23.—The statement that several European Cabinets threatened to call their representatives from Berne if Switzerland continued to afford refuge for anarchists is untrue.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 23.—Superintendent Clarke announces that navigation on the Erie, Champlain, Oswego, Cayuga and Seneca canals will close on December 7th, unless sooner closed by ice.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Nov. 23.—This morning, Richmond A. Bullock, a prominent citizen, was found in his office shot through the heart with a pistol lying at his side. Probably suicide.

Edison Out-Edisoned.

Mr. Edison has just electrified the world with his marvellous process of "telling sounds," as the facetious Times man puts it, when, lo! here steps forward Prof. Hughes and announces the discovery of the microphone, the telephone's youngest daughter, which has the power of magnifying the sound of a fly's footsteps until it seems like the tramp of a horse, and its "buzz" is as loud as the roar of an elephant in an Indian jungle. We see by the cable that "the music of the spheres" may not be an astronomical myth after all. The London Telegraph predicts that by the aid of sufficiently sensitive microphone, even Humbolt's apparently visionary suggestion, that the ebb and flow of the nourishing sap of plants produces a harmonious sound, may be verified. Who knows, too, but that it may introduce a new era in medicine, by revealing that the human body is an instrument of delicate harmonies, the action of every member—the beating of the heart, the flowing of the blood, the expansion of the lung tissue, and even those subtle transitions of brain substance—producing its own peculiar audible sound, in health all blending into an exquisite harmony, and in disease each member setting its own peculiar discordant vibration. What an invaluable aid the microphone would then be in diagnosis! Whether or not this brilliant dream will ever be realized, certain it is that for regulating the harmonious action of the stomach and liver, cleansing the delicate machinery of all its impurities, and imparting a healthful, vigorous tone to the whole system, no remedies now before the public are so reliable as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets.

FROM HALIFAX.

THE SARMATIAN NOT YET REPORTED.

THE FLEET GOES OUT TO SEA

HALIFAX, U. S., Nov. 23.—The gale has abated, but the weather is still cloudy.

The fleet went out to sea at 10:30. No report of the steamer Sarmatian.

Mr. Lucy, representative of the London Daily News, was ordered home this morning, owing to the meeting of Parliament.

LATEST FROM HALIFAX.

Rain is falling again; thick foggy weather. No probability of the Sarmatian arriving today.

Arches and street decorations will be completed to-night.

The storm of last night did no damage in the city.

Latest from Manitoba.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 22.

A fortnight's delay has been caused to the construction of the Pembina Branch owing to the non acceptance of the ties at Emerson, which are chopped instead of sawn at the ends, as the contract requires; otherwise they are superior ties. These ties are supplied by Americans, and are intended to be laid for about six miles north of the boundary. No Canadian ties will be available, consequently the American laborers, who were to continue the tracklaying from Emerson north and meet the tracklayers working south, have been discharged. It is hoped that the Government will order the acceptance of the ties immediately.

Red River is still open. The steamer Cheyenne is expected from West Lynne tonight.

Mr. St. John is in the field against Attorney-General Walker in St. John's parish. The date of the local elections has not been announced yet.

We are still having Indian summer.

Latest From Lake Superior.

COLLINGWOOD, Nov. 22.—The steamer City of Winnipeg arrived last night with 22,000 bushels of wheat and 900 packages of fish from Lake Superior. The Captain reports fine weather on the down trip.

Considerable excitement existed at Prince Arthur's Landing owing to the discovery of a well-developed vein of silver in one of the public streets.

Owing to the discontinuance of the work on the Thunder Bay Branch of the Pacific Railway nearly all the workmen have left, the majority going to Duluth and the south shore of Lake Superior.

Operations at Silver Islet will be actively prosecuted during the winter. At Michipicoten Island a gang of miners will work during the winter, and expect to make shipments of ore in the spring.

This is the last arrival of this line from Lake Superior for this year.

GOOD JUDGMENT.

WE have always noticed that Cash customers exercise the best and soundest judgment in buying. Hence the growing popularity of the

NEW BRITISH WAREHOUSE.

It stands to reason that any one who is always in the habit of paying cash for what they buy, can do better in a Cash store, where they are sure not to pay credit prices for what they buy, as is too often the case where cash buyers patronize credit stores. We are constantly receiving NEW GOODS EVERY WEEK, bought for cash, and the regular discounts taken advantage of.

We mark all Goods the closest figure that they possibly can be sold for, for cash,

ASKING ONE PRICE ONLY,

and we are satisfied that we are in a position to offer cash buyers advantages that cannot be surpassed in the market. Try the NEW BRITISH WAREHOUSE for your next parcel of Dry Goods.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, NOV. 23.

City and Vicinity.

CITY COUNCIL.—A regular meeting of the Council will be held on Monday night.

BUSINESS.—This was a very dull Saturday, storekeepers generally having little to do, in consequence of the rain, which kept farmers and their wives at home.

CHRIST CHURCH.—Rev. Dr. Clarke, Rector of Christ Church, returned from Ottawa this morning, and will perform service in the church to-morrow at the usual hours.

THANKSGIVING DAY.—We understand the ladies of the M. E. Tabernacle intend having a dinner in the basement of the church on Thanksgiving Day. Particulars by advertisement on Monday.

THE MARKET.—What with the rain and snow, which have made the roads very heavy, and the constant drizzle, this morning's attendance on the market was very small, comparatively.

CHURCH PARADE.—The members of Nos. 1 and 4 Companies of the 49th Battalion will have a church parade to-morrow afternoon, when they will proceed to St. Michael's Church, where a sermon will be preached by the Very Rev. James Farrelly, V. G.

THE PETERBOROUGH REVIEW.—The publishers of that long established and very ably conducted journal, the Peterborough Review, purpose issuing a daily evening edition, commencing on Saturday, 30th inst. We wish them a full measure of success.

IN WINTER QUARTERS.—The Battleford (N. W. T.) Herald of October 21st says:—"Mr. Geo. A. Simpson, of the special survey, with his party, having finished their work for the season, have gone into winter quarters here, so as to be able to begin work early next season."

MADOC IRON.—The Cleveland Leader of Tuesday, says: "An effort is about being made to bring iron ores from Canada to the United States, especially from the Madoc district, which connects with Lake Ontario by the North Hastings Railroad. If the ore proves as valuable as it is said to be, parties in Buffalo expect to engage in the business of smelting it, hoping to add that city to the list of iron producing centres."

THE WEATHER.—More disagreeable weather than that of yesterday and to-day it is scarcely possible to imagine. After a steady rain up to about 4 p. m. yesterday, snow began to fall, and continued for two hours or thereabouts, but being moist and heavy the effect was to put the sidewalks in a terribly sloppy condition. Rain first and snow afterwards again fell this morning, and now walking is about as bad as it is possible. Still there is nothing to do but "grin and bear it," as the weather is seasonable in its character.

THE REV. DR. WILD.—We find the following concerning an old acquaintance in the editorial columns of the New York Sun of the 20th inst.:—"Some time ago the Rev. Jo. Wild of Brooklyn communicated to the public a startling discovery, to wit, that Saint Patrick of glorious memory, who drove the snakes out of Ireland, and in whose honor all true Irishmen annually don stovepipe hats and perform the mystic ceremony of drowning the shamrock, was no less a personage than the Hebrew prophet Jeremiah. Now the Rev. Jo. Wild turns up again as a leading member, if not the leading member, of a society whose cardinal tenet is the identity of the Anglo-Saxon race with the Lost Tribes of Israel. The Rev. Jo. Wild would seem to be appropriately named."

THE MADOC ROW.—Three more men who were found guilty of being concerned in the attack on the railroad van at Madoc on Wednesday were brought to town to-day and lodged in gaol.

ROBBERY ON THE MARKET.—We are informed that a lady engaged in making a purchase in the butter market this morning laid her purse, containing $14, down for a moment, but when she looked for it again it had disappeared. Some bold thief, of whom no trace has been found, had snatched and made away with it.

MACHINE OIL.—We are pleased to find Mr. G. B. Stock again conducting his machine oil business personally, as we had entire satisfaction with the use of his extra machine oil, when made under his own supervision, it keeping presses and machinery cool and clean. We hope he will continue to give the manufacture by the same his close and personal attention, so that many may be benefited thereby.

OBSTRUCTING THE RAILWAY TRACK.—The Madoc Review says:—"We are informed that a number of railway ties were found across the track on the bridge crossing the river between Dr. Loomis' and P. Gillen's, on Monday morning last, and that had they not been discovered in time the engine would have been thrown into the river. It is true it is to be hoped the perpetrator of such an outrage will speedily be discovered and due punishment meted out to him."

THE ROSE-BELFORD CANADIAN MONTHLY.—The December number of "Rose Belford's Canadian Monthly" will contain the opening chapters of James Payne's great story "Under one roof," a masterly and pertinent paper by Prof. Goldwin Smith on the Afghanistan question, a delightful study of Shelley by Walter Townsend, an able review of Mr. Stewart's "Canada under the Administration of the Earl of Dufferin," by Wm. J. Rattray, a beautiful poem by H. L. Spencer, an idyl by Fidelis, &c., &c.

NO SMALL-POX IN NAPANEE.—The Beaver says:—"Our neighboring contemporaries, with a subdued tone of something in the writing, have stated that we have the second case of small-pox in Napanee. This is a mistake. Mr. Bartels' was the only case. His wife did not take the disease, and is now as free from it as anybody can be. The Board of Health authorizes us to make this statement and we cheerfully do so, giving them full credit for the success that has attended their preventive arrangements for the spread of the disease, which has been completely and summarily stamped out."

HARPER'S MAGAZINE FOR DECEMBER, 1878.—Harper's Magazine for December opens with four old Christmas poems; by Ben Jonson, George Wither, S. T. Coleridge, and Giles Fletcher. Abbey illustrates with three remarkable pictures: the Christmas Waits, the Shepherds, and the Madonna in the Stable. An illustrated article on "Eton of the Classic Ages," contributed by M. D. Conway, gives a satisfactorily comprehensive view of the various colleges of Oxford, the social life of the students, the most eminent of the professors, and the work accomplished by the University in promoting scholarship in England. The illustrations are picturesque and interesting. The thrilling adventures of the "Red River Colony" belong to the early pioneer history of the West, and are told by General Chetlain, a descendant of one of the colonists. The article is effectively illustrated. An illustrated paper by Charles Barnard describes the mining of silver in all its stages. The brief paper on storm signals by E. H. Knight is also very timely. Ex-Governor Seymour, under the title "Crime and Tramps," makes some important suggestions as to the punishment of minor crimes. Dr. Coan, in "Some Peculiarities of Yellow Jack," presents very curious facts as to the migratory character of yellow-fever epidemics, and other features of the disease. A. A. Hayes, Jr., contributes an interesting and piquant description of the "First Railroad in China," the Woo'tsung Railway—recently demolished by the Chinese. Besides Mrs. Cooke's "Knoware" there are three capital stories. "Two Hundred and Two" is contributed by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps; "Helen," by Alice Perry; and "A Rescue from Cannibals," by Mrs. Frank M'Carthy. Poems are contributed by E. S. Phelps, Will Wallace Harney, Francis L. Mace, Paul Hayne, and W. H. Babcock. The serial novels by Black and Hardy, continued in this Number, will be concluded in January, to be followed immediately with a new novel by Miss Mulock.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Our Street Lamps.

DEAR SIR,—Allow me to call the attention of the "Chairman of the Fire Water and Light Committee" to the fact that last evening between 8 and 9 o'clock, on North Front Street, there were no less than five lamps without any light in them, three gas and two coal oil lamps. Now Sir, as the rate payers are taxed for these public lights, and contracts are made by the Corporation with parties for lighting, and keeping them in order, it certainly should devolve on some person, or persons to see that these contracts are faithfully carried out. In some cities the police are instructed to look after them, and report any neglect of duty. Could not the same plan be adopted in Belleville? Our police however appear to be kept for the centre of the city alone.

If it was too wet and disagreeable last night for the men whose duty it is to light these lamps to travel around and perform their work in a proper manner, would it be too much to ask the Chairman of the above Committee to see that in future a horse, covered buggy and driver be provided and placed at the disposal of these poor men, so that they will be protected from the inclemency of the weather? But in any case the public should have the benefit of what they pay for.

Yours truly,
PATRICK MALONEY.

Belleville, Nov. 22, 1878.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—As so much interest is taken at present in the chief of our noble old English sports of the field, I send you a copy of the celebrated old hunting song, "A southerly wind and a cloudy sky."

It is unmistakably a dog-grel rhyme; and probably for that reason the more suitable to the subject; but as a song which cheered the hearts of our forefathers for a couple of centuries, it cannot be altogether devoid of interest in the present day.

The "conclusion" is strikingly "lame and impotent."

Yours truly, O. B.

"A SOUTHERLY WIND AND A CLOUDY SKY."

A southerly wind and a cloudy sky
Proclaim a hunting morning;
Before the sun rises we nimbly fly,
Dull sleep and a downy bed scorning.
To horse! my boys, to horse! away;
The chase admits of no delay.

On horseback we've got, together we'll trot;
On horseback we've got, together we'll trot.
Leave off your chat! See the cover appear,
The hound that strikes first cheer him without fear;
Drag on him! ah, wind him, my steady good hounds!
Drag on him! ah, wind him, the cover resounds.

How complete the cover, and furze they draw!
Who talks of Adiffe or Meynell?
Young Rockwood, he flourishes now through the shaw,
And Ringwood roars out in his kennel.
Away we fly, as quick as thought;
The new-sown ground soon makes them fault.

Cast round the sheep's train! cast round, cast round!
Try back the deep lane! Try back, try back!
Hark! I hear some hound challenge in yonder spring sedge,
Comfort bitch hits it there in that old thick hedge.
Hark, forward! hark, forward! have at him, my boys;
Hark, forward! hark, forward! Zounds, don't make a noise.

A stormy sky o'ercharged with rain,
Both hounds and huntsmen opposes;
In vain on your mettle you try, boys, in vain;
But down you must to your noses.
Each moment, now the sky grows worse,
Enough to make a parson curse:
Pick through the ploughed grounds! pick through! pick through!
Well hunted! good hounds! well hunted! well hunted!

If we can but get on, we shall soon make him quake;
Hark! I hear some hounds challenge in midst of the brake;
Tally-ho! Tally-ho! there! across the green plain;
Tally-ho! Tally-ho boys! have at him again!

Thus we ride, whip and spur for a two hours' chase;
Our horses go panting and sobbing;
See Ranter and Rich begin now to race;
Ride on, sir, and give him some mobbing.
But hold—alas! you'll spoil our sport,
For through the park you'll lead him short.

Clap round him, dear pack, clap round, clap round!
Hark Lasher! Hark Jowler! hark back, hark back!
He's jumping and dangling in every bush;
Little Rint has fastened his teeth in his brush!
Whoo-hoop! Whoo-hoop! he's fairly run down!
Whoo-hoop! Whoo-hoop! give Tom his half-crown.

THE LOVER'S QUERY.

Her hair was yellow; strands of gold
Fell o'er her shoulders, fold on fold,
Her eyes were as the heavenly blue;
She wore a number seven shoe.

Her taper fingers, taper waist,
Were fashionable to the average taste;
Her nose was high, her jaws were strong
Her nails were sharp (perh ps too long);
And though not young, a comely maid,
Was she when in her best arrayed.

Though many praised her yellow hair,
Though village poets called her fair,
Yet in the heaven of her eyes
At times there shone such stormy dyes,
That never lover left her door
But wont this question probed him sore:
"How would I fare if things went wrong,
Within the reach of nails so long?
If she got mad, what could I do
Against a number seven shoe?"

A Scotch Effort With the Long-Bow.

Concerning the long-bow, no American effort can surpass one that comes to us from Scotland:

"It was told that Colonel Andrew M'Dowall, when he returned from the war, was one day walking along by the Myrock, when he came on an old man sitting greetin' on a muckle stane a' the road side. When he came up, the old man rose and took off his bonnet, and said,

"Ye're welcome hame again, laird."

"Thank you," said the colonel; adding after a pause, "I should surely know your face. Aren't you Nathan M'Culloch?"

"Ye're richt, 'deed," says Nathan; "it's just me, laird."

"You must be a good age, now, Nathan," says the colonel.

"I'm no verra aul' yet, laird," was the reply; "I'm just turnt a hunner."

"A hundred!" says the colonel, musing; "well you must be all that. But the idea of a man of a hundred sitting blubbering that way! "What ever could you get to cry about?"

"It was my father lashed me, Sir," said Nathan blubbering again; "an' he put me oot, so he did,"

"Your father!" said the colonel; "is your father alive yet?"

"Leevin' ay," replied Nathan; "I ken that the day tae my sorrow."

"Where is he?" says the colonel. "What an age he must be! I would like to see him."

"Oh, he's up in the barn there," says Nathan; 'an' no in a horrid gude humor the noo, either."

"They went up to the barn together, and found the father busy threshing the barley with the big flail and tearing on fearful. Seeing Nathan and the laird coming in, he stopped and saluted the colonel, who, after inquiring how he was, asked him what he had struck Nathan for.

"The young rascal!" says the father, "there's nae doing wi' him; he's aye rinnin' oot of a mischief. I had to lick him this mornin' for throwin' stanes at his grandfather!"—Harper's Magazine.

Tasting the Cider.

THE KIND OF PICTURE THAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN DRAWN AT AN AGRICULTURAL FAIR.

(From the Detroit Free Press.)

Yesterday afternoon a farmer, having a barrel of cider on tap in his waggon, was doing a fine retail business near the market at five cents per glass, when a man with a very thin voice and very old clothes softly advanced and said:

"Has the State Inspector of Pomological Juices inspected that cider yet?"

"I—I guess not," replied the farmer, greatly embarrassed in a moment.

"I thought not," contin ued the thin voiced man; "well, sir, you can draw me a full glass."

The farmer drew one, scanning the man with considerable anxiety and when the "Inspector" had received it he held it up between his eye and the sun, and said:

"The precipitation appears most too rapid, while these floating particles denote unusual compression. Perhaps a second glass will be clearer."

He swallowed the contents of the first at exactly four gulps, and taking a second glass, he critically examined it and said:

"Ah! The precipitation is clearing away. This cider seems to have been made from apples."

"It was, sir, and they were nice apples, too," replied the farmer.

"Let's see how a third glass will look. I am not quite satisfied on the point of compression."

He drained the second and received the third, and as he sipped it he inquired:

"You used a hand cider press, didn't you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Ah! I thought so. Worked with a lever, didn't it?"

"Yes sir."

"Did the mill stand in a draught of air while you were working it?"

"I—I—don't know, sir."

"Well, I think it did. Be a little more careful after this. The Inspector of Pomological Juices grades this barrel 'A No. 2,' but if you take a little more pains you can increase the grade every time in the future. All right, sir—go on with your selling."

The man had been gone ten minutes before any one mustered courage to remark that he was a fraud.

"I know he's all right," persisted the farmer. "The minnit I see him draw his coat tail around to wipe out the corner of his mouth I knew he was a big gun, and I was just shivering in my boots for fear he'd ask me why I didn't punch the seeds out of the apples before grinding."

THE PEOPLE WANT PROOF.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue as Boschee's German Syrup for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing everyone that uses it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sold by all Druggists. d&w

The invigorating, Fattening and Nutritive properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lactopeptine & Lime are such as would indicate its sufficiency to "sustain the body" in the performance of its various functions," with the aid of but little solid food. Hence its superior remedial worth in the "Wasting Diseases of Childhood," the "Wasting Away," in those of "Consumptive tendency," —in Consumption itself, as well as in General Debility, and all cases of Prostration and Emaciation. Prepared solely by J. C. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

Too Sharp for a Judge.

At a recent trial of a liquor case, the witness on the stand was under examination as to what he had seen in the defendant's domicile, which he said he had visited "a number of times."

"Did you ever see any spirits there, or anything you regarded as spirits?" asked the presiding justice.

"Why, yes—I don't know but I have," was the reply of the witness.

"Do you know what kind of spirits?"

"Yes."

"How do you know?"

"I kinder smelt it."

"Well now," said the judge, straightening himself for the convicting answer, which he supposed would be given, "will you please tell what kind of spirits it was?"

"Spirits o' turpentine!"

A fellow by the name of Ephraim Hazeltine went home and down his bookseller as follows: "Dore ser; if ye hev gut a book called Danel Webster on a brige pleas to send me a copy by Pyser's express c.o.d. —i want for git it for a surpriser i kin, cause my spelin techer says i oughter hev it."

A friend has a mocking-bird and parrot which are on very good terms with each other. Occasionally their cages are placed together that they may enjoy a little social intercourse. The parrot will then thrust its poll through the bars and say, "scratch my head!" whereupon the mocking-bird will peck the parrot's head with its bill with an air of great gravity.

"Do you believe in ghosts, Mrs. Partington?" was asked the old lady somewhat timidly. "To be sure I do," replied she, "As much as I believe that bright fulminary there will rise in the yeast to-morrow, if we live and nothing happens. Two apprehensions have sartinly appeared in our family. Why, I saw my dear Paul a fortnight before he died, with my own eyes, just as plain as I see you now; and it turned out afterward to be a rose bush with a night-cap on it. I shall always think, to the day of my dissolution, that it was a forerunner sent to me. Tother one came in the night, when we were asleep, and carried away three candles and a pint of spirits that we kept in the house for an embarkation. Believe in ghosts, indeed! I guess I do. And he must be a dreadful sceptic as doesn't."

In this Present Age, when the life-battle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the strongest the tug and stress of it tell so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for the keeping up of our reserve stock of mental and physical stamina by the use of such a nerve-tonic and vitalizing agent as Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Peptine or Lime! Its gently stimulating and nutritive-tonic properties supply the materials, and assist Nature in her efforts to keep up with the exhaustive demands upon her reserves. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Sold only in packets labelled—"James Epps & Co., Homœopathic Chemist, London, Eng." d&w

Retrenchment.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—Now that the struggle of the general election is over, and the clouds of political dust begin to clear away, so that all parties can view the situation more coolly, it may be a good time to turn a new leaf, and begin a new career in our political economy. A few years ago, when the confederation of the provinces was effected, the worst feature in the scheme was its expensiveness. To every reflecting mind, the cost of such a government was out of all proportion to the resources of the country, and the objects to be attained. But, unfortunately, instead of learning wisdom from experience, and by wise legislation mitigating the errors and evils of a first move; every passing year finds us increasing those useless burdens, and sinking the Ship of State lower and lower to the water's edge, the late Government that has just gone out of power eclipsing all previous ones in wanton extravagance, and utter disregard of the public weal. There is no doubt but that the alterations in the tariff contemplated by the in-coming Government will do much to swell the revenues, and encourage the industries of the country; which is all very good as far as it goes, but it does not go far enough. The pruning knife must be sharpened, and applied with vigor and resolution to the overgrown system of extravagance and speculation that now presses like an incubus on the vitality of Canada. In short, if we want to make this Dominion a prosperous country, worthy of the energies of a free and industrious people, we must come down to retrenchment in every department of the State. Without that, all talk about reform is a burlesque.

And where shall that retrenchment begin? Like charity, at home. We the people must make the first move through our representatives in Parliament. Whilst we allow our stewards to go there, take their seats and vote money into their own pockets ad libitum, we can look for nothing but extravagance and public robbery in every department. But, let our legislators cut down their own allowance to an economical figure, and then they can with a good grace attack and cut down extravagance in other departments from the highest to the lowest. Our neighbors over the border are not a people remarkable for economy; in many things they are extravagant, but so far as the cost of legislation goes their State Governments are models of economy compared with ours. Ontario has a population under three millions, yet we send eighty-eight members to the Local Legislature and pay them (or they pay themselves) about $15 a day. The State of New York has a population of about five millions, with wealth untold, yet there are only one hundred and fifty members in the State Legislature, Senate and all included, who get a per diem allowance of $3 a day, and 10c a mile for travelling. Pennsylvania with a population of about four millions, and wealth enough to swamp three Ontarios, makes her laws and enforces them far better than we enforce ours, with one hundred and thirty-three State representatives, who are paid $3.25 a day. Ohio has about three million population and one hundred and thirty-five representatives who receive $4 a day. And Illinois, with a population of nearly three millions, has one hundred representatives, who are paid $4.15 per day. We therefore have 50 per cent more representatives than those States, in proportion to population, and we pay them 400 per cent more for their time.

Now what is the use of all this? Cui bono? what reason can they show for pocketing so much of the people's money? Is it because of their superior talents, and purer patriotism, that they charge us so much more than their neighbors over the line? Alas! I fear that a fair comparison between them would be anything but favorable to our Canadian law makers. We remember when, in the old Legislature of Upper Canada, three dollars a day was the allowance, and for that modest remuneration such men as your MacNabs, your Drapers, and your Robinsons were content to serve their country, how ably, and how faithfully we have not forgotten. Another point to which I would draw attention is the fact that our modern Solons appear to do business by an inverse ratio. The poorer and more distressed the country, the more they bleed it. 40 or 50 years ago there were no such scenes of misery as we witness now-a-days. Mechanics and all other working men were better paid and could get constant employment. The farmers as a class were more independent and could raise money without mortgaging their farms; and amongst business men the terrible failures and bankruptcies were almost unknown. There never was a time in which cheap and patriotic legislation and strict economy in the executive were so much needed as now; to mitigate the evils that have sprung from a reign of extravagance and wanton, selfish peculation. Another point to which I would refer is this, that a large portion of the money thus squandered is not revenue at all. A revenue, in its proper sense, should be self-producing, based on principles by which it will reproduce itself from some productive industry, or commercial profits. Now, the moneys accruing from the sale of crown lands, and timber do not come into that category. As the crown land and timber departments are managed, we are only squandering away the patrimony that nature has given us; and when the country is disforested, (which it soon will be) and the lands all sold where will the millions of dollars come from to satisfy their voracious demands? I suppose they think that they must come down to direct taxation (Turkish fashion) and the people will be fools enough to stand it. Another great error that we commit is in sending so many lawyers into Parliament. A few able and honorable men of that profession are very useful in our legislative halls to draft acts and keep non-professional members right on constitutional points. But, when we look at the crowd of hungry land sharks that get into our Legislatures, and have no other object in going there than to make money and pass laws favorable to their own calling, we are led to wonder at the short-sightedness of those who send them there, and to wonder if the people of Canada are yet in a fit condition for self government. I repeat, then, it is imperative on us to put a stop to such ruinous and humiliating mismanagement. The political horizon in Europe and Asia is not so clear as to lull us into a false security. Disraeli's oft-repeated prediction of a war of races and of creeds such as the world has never seen may yet be fulfilled. England may find herself engaged in a struggle for which history has no parallel, and then I trust we shall not forget that we too are Britons. Whatever be the results, we must stand by the old ancestral pile, and share Britannia's fortunes for weal or for woe. In such event, nothing will place us in such a respectable and efficient position as a flourishing exchequer. Our debts all paid and money in the treasury, will place the sinews of war in our hands, and the manhood will not be wanting. One more remark and I'll draw to a close for the present. We must not forget the difference between the Dominion and Local Governments, although the principle of retrenchment is as imperative in the one as in the other. With the Province of Quebec, in its cimmerian darkness; centuries behind their neighbors in all that is moral and intellectual, as a drag on them, it will be impossible for the House of Commons to do more at present than initiate measures that may be fully carried out in the Province of Ontario—bear in mind also that this is a policy in which all may unite. Grit, Radical or Conservative, we are all equally interested, and can take common ground, and when the next local election comes off let us give our support to no man unless he can give us satisfactory guarantees that he will carry out the principles above enunciated. A man that cannot live on $3 to $4 a day is not fit for Parliament, and is no representative of a poor and struggling people who are obliged to practice strict economy at home. If he is addicted to gambling or debauchery (as we know some of them do) let him do it at his own expense. If he is parsimonious and wants to pile up the dust, let him try some fair and legitimate calling, or some manly enterprise. But to make our laws, we want men who can serve their country con amore, and we have such men amongst us, without reference to their political parties.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately favored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemist, London, Eng." d&w

The Sun for 1879.

THE SUN will be printed every day during the year to come. Its purpose and method will be the same as in the past. To present all the news in a readable shape, and to tell the truth though the heavens fall.

THE SUN has been, is, and will continue to be independent of everybody and everything, save the Truth and its own convictions of duty. That is the only policy which an honest newspaper need have. That is the policy which has won for this newspaper the confidence and friendship of a wider constituency than was ever enjoyed by any other American Journal.

THE SUN is the newspaper for the people. It is not for the rich man against the poor man, or for the poor man against the rich man, but it seeks to do equal justice to all interests in the community. It is not the organ of any person, class, sect or party. There need be no mystery about its loves and hates. It is for the honest man against the rogue every time. It is for the honest Democrat as against the dishonest Republican, and for the honest Republican as against the dishonest Democrat. It does not take its cue from the utterances of any politician or political organization. It gives its support unreservedly when men or measures are in accordment with the Constitution and with the principles upon which this Republic was founded for the people. Whenever the Constitution and constitutional principles are violated—as in the outrageous conspiracy of 1876, by which a man not elected was placed in the President's office, where he still remains—it speaks out for the right. That is THE SUN'S idea of independence. Is this respect there will be no change in its programme for 1879.

THE SUN has fairly earned the hearty hatred of rascals, frauds, and humbugs of all sorts and sizes. It hopes to deserve that hatred not less in the year 1879, than in 1878, 1877, or any year gone by. The SUN will continue to shine on the wicked with unmitigated brightness.

While the lessons of the past should be constantly kept before the people, THE SUN does not propose to make itself in 1879 a magazine of ancient history. It is printed for the men and women of to-day, whose concern is chiefly with the affairs of to-day. It has both the disposition and the ability to afford its readers the prompt est, fullest, and most accurate intelligence of whatever in the wide world is worth attention. To this end the resources belonging to well-established prosperity will be liberally employed.

The present disjointed condition of parties in this country, and the unsettled policy of the future, lend an extraordinary significance to the events of the coming year. The discussions of the press, the debates and acts of Congress, and the movements of the leaders in every section of the Republic, will have a direct bearing on the Presidential election of 1880—an event which must be regarded with the most anxious interest by every patriotic American, whatever his political ideas or allegiance. To these elements of interest may be added the probability that the Democrats will control both houses of Congress, the increasing feebleness of the fraudulent Administration, and the spread and strengthening everywhere of a healthy abhorrence of fraud in any form. To present with accuracy and clearness the exact situation in all of its varying phases, and to expound, according to its well known methods, the principles that should guide us through the labyrinth, will be an important part of THE SUN'S work for 1879.

We have the means of making THE SUN, as a political, a literary and a general newspaper, more entertaining and more useful than ever before; and we mean to apply them freely.

Our rates of subscription remain unchanged. For the DAILY SUN, a four page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price by mail, postpaid, is 55 cents a month, or $6.50 a year; or, including the Sunday paper, an eight page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents a month, or $7.70 a year, postage paid.

Snobbery.

The welcoming to our shores of the Marquis of Lorne, our newly appointed Governor General, and his royal consort the Princess Louise, Marchioness of Lorne, is an event in which the whole people, more especially of those places through which the vice-regal party will pass, would willingly join. The occasion ought to be one of national rejoicing, and would be so, but it is to be feared that, owing to the interference of some snobs and toadies in office a great deal of heartburning, and bad blood will be caused by an event which, if judiciously carried out, would be productive of unalloyed pleasure. Fancy such an order as this being issued in regard to the procession which is to escort the Governor General from the landing place in Halifax to the Admiralty House in that city:

No carriages other than landaus, barouches and broughams, with pairs of horses and properly attired drivers, will be permitted in the procession, and all such carriages will be subject to the approval and under the orders of the Grand Marshal.

Such an absurd "regulation" will be generally read with mingled feelings of anger, regret and contempt—anger at the shutting out of all except people who own a certain class of carriages from the procession; regret that there are snobs in Canada to perpetrate such a piece of folly; and contempt for the feeling which dictated the order in question. The idea that people who drive their own buggies, phætons, demorests or vehicles of any description, or for that matter who prefer to travel on foot, shall not be allowed to testify their loyalty as freely and as openly as those who may perhaps be a little more favored of fortune, is certainly a new one in this country, and could only have originated in the brain of some miserable sycophant. We are happy in the belief, however, that the Marquis of Lorne and his royal spouse do not countenance any such nonsense, as they are generally represented as being unassuming and quiet in their demeanor. Than the inhabitants of this Dominion there are no more loyal subjects to the throne which, in the vast boundaries of the empire, and we hope that nothing will be done to render unpopular in their eyes even one of the family of our beloved Queen. That such will be the case if the example of the Halifax snobs be followed in other places we regard as certain, but a vigorous expression of opinion by the press will, we doubt not, prevent the epidemic of snobbery from spreading, and in this we invite our contemporaries to join, ere further mischief be done.

Political Notes.

The Opposition press are making a great ado about several of the Ministers proceeding to Halifax by special train, at the public expense, to receive the Governor General and the Princess Louise. When members of the Government travel on public business their expenses ought to be borne by the public. Our contemporaries of the Grit persuasion cannot afford to deny this, for they sustained the ex-Premier in carrying the principle a great deal further; for Mr. Mackenzie went to Europe on private business and pleasure combined, and his expenses were paid out of the public purse. What an inconsistent, discontented lot the Grit editors are at present, to be sure! But then their spirits have been crushed by the result of the general election, and they are preparing themselves for "pitching in" when something forming a legitimate subject for comment in Dominion political affairs arises, by keeping up a constant grumbling—a sort of training in faultfinding, as it were.

THE PRINCESS.

DAMAGE BY STORM.—A furious gale prevailed at Quebec on the 23rd inst, doing a large amount of damage. Two batteaux filled with cord-wood were broken in pieces against the city wharves. The large pontoon of the St. Lawrence Steam Navigation Company was torn from its moorings and driven up stream, destroying the market steamer Dixie, and injuring several other vessels.

RAILWAY DISASTER.—On Sunday morning a collision took place between two express trains on the Great Western Railway at Winona. One passenger named Cherette was killed, and ten, chiefly emigrants, severely injured. The engines were both sent off the track, and the baggage cars were then telescoped into the adjoining second-class cars, the western cars, wherein were the poor emigrants, being crushed to pieces, and the stove being upturned set fire to the splintered and shattered wood, among which were lying the poor mangled and dying creatures. There were but few first class passengers, none of whom were injured. Loss $100,000.

First Impressions of the New Governor-General.

VISIT OF THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH TO THE SARMATIAN.

(From the Mail's Halifax Correspondent.)

HALIFAX, Nov. 24.

Yesterday morning the fleet set sail to cruise in the offing about 11 o'clock, the weather then being splendidly fine. But before noon rain had begun to fall and by five o'clock the ships were all back at their moorings, and there was every prospect of a dirty night, and it was supposed the Sarmatian would not try to make the harbor before daylight. The arrival of the Caspian was a pretty good indication that the latter ship could not be far off, and by nine o'clock the showed that a large steamer was in sight. She had in fact been at the mouth of the harbor by seven o'clock, and after waiting for a pilot had run out to sea. In an hour she made another attempt to find a pilot, and failing in that, put her head in with the sun and anchored under George's Island. By nine o'clock the Cunard tug-boat went out for the mails, which were in charge of Mr. Dixon, and the Duke ran in the steam launch of the Black Prince.

This morning broke beautifully bright, and after breakfast your correspondent chartered a small boat, was pulled down the harbor by the brawny arms of two merry-hearted fishermen, and in half an hour from the wharf was alongside the black hull of the Sarmatian, lying still and safe after what an old salt, like Capt. Aird described as

"A NASTY PASSAGE."

The Marquis said that, speaking from no little experience as a yachtsman, the gale, in which some trifling accidents occurred to spars and rigging, was decidedly out of the common. There is no malady, however, from which people recover with more rapidity than from the sufferings of sea-sickness, and none of the party who all gradually put in an appearance on deck, looked the worst for their troubles. The log of the ship, as kept by an officer on the staff, is as follows:

LOG OF THE SARMATIAN.

Friday, Nov. 15th.—190 miles after leaving Moville, experienced heavy weather from the north-east, which continued during the whole night and part of the next day. The ship rolled heavily and took in large bodies of water.

Saturday, 16th.—140 miles.

Sunday, 17th.—331 miles. Ran into finer weather, and the sea moderating, the ship made a good run. Wind N. N. E. to W. N. W. The Princess suffering severely.

Monday, 18th.—311 miles. The morning broke with a strong breeze from the south-west, accompanied by heavy squalls. These gradually increased till noon, when the gale became a hurricane, carrying away the maintrysail and foretopsail, and causing also a very heavy cross sea, which broke over the ship fore and aft. One sea stove in the steerage room. The ship rolled and pitched heavily, nearly all on board suffering from sea-sickness. The gale moderated about 3 p. m.

Tuesday, 19th.—311 miles. All night and next morning the sea very high. Towards evening the wind had died away.

Wednesday, 20th.—335 miles. Blowing fresh from the south-east. Her Royal Highness better. Carried all sail.

Thursday, 21st.—322 miles. Fresh from the southeast. The Princess and suite better.

Friday, 22nd—310 miles. Strong breeze and cloudy throughout. Wind south-east to north-west.

Saturday, 23rd—310 miles. Fog and strong breeze from the south-east. Her Royal Highness on deck for the first time, and though she has suffered severely during the voyage it is confidently hoped she will soon regain her accustomed health. The rest of the party are all well.

AN UNFORTUNATE CONTRETEMPS

was the discovery made not far from the coast of Ireland that the swinging cots and special arrangements placed in the Sarmatian for the comfort of the Marquis and Princess were declined to be entirely useless. In fact they were at once removed, and a bed made on the floor for the remainder of the voyage, which the Princess assured Sir Hugh Allan was exceedingly comfortable.

Shortly after eleven o'clock the Cunard tug conveying Sir Hugh Allan came along side, followed at an interval of a few minutes by the launch of the Belleisle, with Vice-Admiral Inglefield on board. Then another little puffer came dancing over the waves, and surely enough the Union Jack in the stern was seen the Duke of Edinburgh, who was met at the gangway of the steamer by Lord Lorne's aide-de-camp in full staff regimentals. The Drakeforce a show of a uniform and looked remarkably well. He came to invite the Princess and some others of the party to it having been arranged that everything should be quiet and unofficial till the Sarmatian leaves her present anchorage at ten a. m. to-morrow. Among the next boat-load to arrive was the Administrator, Sir Patrick Macdougall, Col. Littleton, and Lieutenant-Governor Archibald. At this moment the assemblage of uniforms on the quarter deck, interspersed with a sprinkling of ladies, constituted an extraordinarily pretty spectacle. The distant view of the city, with flags flying from every housetop, the gaily-dressed ships higher up the harbor, the green ramparts of the ancient Citadel, from which protruded the muzzles of the Woolwich Infants that are to do the thundering to-morrow, the gloomless sky overhead, and the rippling water, covered with men-of-war's boats, were the main features in a picture not easily forgotten.

THE PRINCESS

shook hands pleasantly with the gentlemen presented to her on board, now it was all over, thought, perhaps, the experience of a rough voyage was not such a bad thing after all. Its effects easy to be seen in the shining manner which seemed to sit so gracefully on her, that she would have no difficulty in taking by storm the affections of the people she has come to live among.

THE MARQUIS,

who wore a fur coat and an ordinary low-crowned black hat, looked rather pale, but was chatting cheerfully with those around him. Visitors were not allowed on the ship, which exhibited no indication of the rough weather she had met with, and Capt. Aird's sailors in the new Allan line jerseys and white overalls presented an appearance that did not at all compare unfavorably with the blue jackets who manned the Admiral's boat and several launches lying about in waiting. Capt. Aird looked happy and relieved from what has been a great anxiety, and the Sarmatian, whose excellences have before been described in the Mail, everybody said had behaved splendidly under no ordinary trials.

THE SARMATIAN'S PASSENGERS.

The following is the passenger list of the Sarmatian:—H. R. H. Princess Louise, the Marquis of Lorne, Lady Sophia Mac Namara, Hon. Mrs. Moreton, Miss Moreton, Major Dawnton, Mrs. Dawnton, Miss De Winton, Mr. De Winton, Master De Winton, Col. Mc Neill, Hon. C. Harbard, A. D. C., Captain Chater, A. D. C., Dr. Andrew Clark, Miss Boyle, Mr. Sidney Hall, and twenty-three servants.

The Marquis and the Princess Louise, after landing on board the Black Prince, landed about three o'clock, and drove to Maple Wood, the residence of General Macdougall.

FROM HALIFAX.

The Sarmatian coming into Halifax,

WELCOME FROM THE FORTS AND FLEET.

A Magnificent Sight.

HALIFAX, Nov. 23.—11 a.m.—Salutes are now being fired from the forts. The Sarmatian is moving up the harbor. Official landing takes place at 1.30 p.m.

HALIFAX, Nov. 23.—The Sarmatian left her mooring at 10.30 and steamed slowly up the harbor, keeping in the centre of the channel. The Forts and York Redoubt, Point Pleasant, George's Island and the Citadel, thundered salutes in succession. The wharves all along the harbor and the Citadel were crowded with people. Steam tugs and small boats followed the Vice-Regal party up.

The fleet at anchor off the dockyard also fired salutes as the Sarmatian left her anchorage and on her approach the yards of each vessel were manned and as the Sarmatian passed the men cheered lustily and bands played "God Save the Queen." The sight was really magnificent in the harbor. All the vessels are decked gaily with bunting. The Vice-Regal party were on deck on coming in: the weather is very fine. The city is well prepared for a grand reception.

LATEST FROM HALIFAX.

The Reception To-day.

A GRAND AFFAIR

The Marquis Sworn in.

THE WELCOME.

HALIFAX, N. S. Nov. 25.—The Marquis and Princess had a grand reception to-day. They left the Sarmatian at 2:40 p. m., accompanied by a number of barges and were conveyed to the landing, the war vessels firing a royal salute and yards being manned. The Vice-Regal party was received by the Duke of Edinburgh, General Macdougall, Vice-Admiral Inglefield, Lt.-Governor Archibald, the principal members of the Dominion Government and many naval, military and civic officials.

There was great cheering on the landing of the Marquis and Princess. The procession at once formed and proceeded through the principal streets to the Provincial building, where the Marquis was sworn in as Governor-General.

An address of welcome was then presented by the Mayor and Corporation, to which the Marquis replied. The procession then reformed and went by a circuitous route to the Admiralty house. The streets on the whole route were gaily decorated, and lined with people, who cheered the Marquis and Princess heartily.

GOOD JUDGMENT.

WE have always noticed that Cash customers exercise the best and soundest judgment in buying. Hence the growing popularity of the

NEW BRITISH WAREHOUSE.

It stands to reason that any one who is always in the habit of paying cash for what they buy, can do better in a Cash store, where they are sure not to pay credit prices for what they buy, as is too often the case where Cash buyers patronize credit stores. We are constantly receiving New Goods Every Week, bought for cash, and the regular discounts taken advantage of.

We mark all Goods the closest figure that they possibly can be sold for, for cash.

ASKING ONE PRICE ONLY,

and we are satisfied that we are in a position to offer cash buyers advantages that cannot be surpassed in the market. Try the New British Warehouse for your next parcel of Dry Goods.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, NOV. 25.

City and Vicinity.

ARRIVED OUT.—The Allan steamship Peruvian arrived out on Sunday.

CITY COUNCIL.—A regular meeting of the City Council will be held this evening.

SHIPBUILDING.—The shipbuilding business at Mill Point is very dull. The Echo says that the staff in Messrs. Rathbun's shipyard at that place has been reduced to four men and the "boss."

WINTRY.—The weather to-day has all the appearance of winter. What business men of all classes wish for is the early advent and steady continuance of sleighing. May their wishes be gratified.

TOO THIN.—A man who was arrested on Saturday night for stealing a pair of boots from a manufacturer's place of business, offered after his arrest to pay for them in two weeks. This generous offer was not accepted.

GRAIN MARKET.—The market continues very dull, with light receipts. Probably when the roads become better the receipts will improve, as there is said to be a very large amount of grain in the country, especially rye, the price for which has so far been very low.

A DAIRYMAN'S QUESTION.—The sub-earth duct is still exciting considerable attention among dairymen. Some even go so far as to say that it is unequalled by any other process for cooling milk-houses, cheese-curing rooms, and meat-curing and packing-houses. The light expense of it is one of its most attractive features.

GRAND CONCERT.—Mrs. Goetzel, professor of vocal and instrumental music, who has recently arrived from Germany and is now a resident of this city, is to give a grand concert in the Metropolitan Hall on Monday evening of next week, December 2nd. The programme is varied and extensive, and embraces some items of special interest, the whole promising to be a rare treat. Tickets can be obtained at Reynold's book store. See the advertisement for particulars.

INDUCTION AT PICTON.—The Kingston News says:—"According to announcement, the Presbytery of Kingston in connection with the Presbyterian Church in Canada met at Picton on Thursday last to induct the Rev. Walter Coulthard, late of Gananoque, into the pastoral charge of the Presbyterian congregation there. The Rev. M. W. Maclean, of Belleville, preached a most admirable discourse from the last clause of the 13th verse of the 11th chapter of Romans—"I magnify my office"—in which he pointed out in eloquent and forcible language the benefits which flow from the preaching of the Gospel. Rev. Mr. Burton, of Belleville, then took the Moderator's chair, and after relating the steps taken in the matter, called upon Mr. Coulthard to reply to the usual questions put upon such occasions. Satisfactory answers having been given and the congregation having declared their adhesion to the call, their acceptance of the pastor elect and their willingness to provide for his maintenance, the Moderator declared him duly inducted, and with the other members of the Presbytery present gave him the right hand of fellowship."

CHURCH PARADE OF NOS. 1 AND 4 COMPANIES OF THE 49TH BATTALION TO ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH.—The second Church Parade during the present annual drill of the city companies of the 49th Battalion, took place to St. Michael's Church yesterday afternoon. Rev. Vicar General Farrelly recently sent a very warm invitation to the officers and men, through Lieut.-Col. Brown, to attend service at his church, and the splendid turn out of the companies showed how heartily the invitation was responded to. Not a single officer or man, except a few of the latter detained at home by reason of sickness, was absent. It is with extreme satisfaction that we record the facts connected with this service, for whatever of religious strife and bitterness may exist in other parts of the Dominion, no better proof can be given than yesterday's parade of two military companies, we may say wholly composed of Protestants, to St. Michael's Church, and the truly patriotic and broad Christian sermon delivered to them by the Rev. Mr. Farrelly, that in Belleville all creeds and classes dwell together in unity. The Rev. gentleman's sermon was based upon the words of St. Paul addressed to the Ephesians in the sixth chapter, from the tenth to the eighteenth verse. He expressed his pleasure in having the privilege of addressing, and bidding welcome to St. Michael's, the officers and men of the 49th. He referred in warm and patriotic language to Canada, saying that under the ægis of Great Britain and Ireland its people are the freest and happiest, and it is the grandest country on earth. Such a country, he said, is worth living for, worth fighting for, and, if necessary, worth dying for. Truth, Righteousness and Justice and Faith were the themes drawn from the text and eloquently urged upon, and commended to, his hearers. Many of his illustrations and similies were taken from the glorious records of the British Army. The Bible he described as the Christian Soldier's hand book, the study of whose pages he urged upon his hearers, that they might possess themselves of the "whole armor of God." In conclusion Rev. Mr. Farrelly again expressed the pleasure he had experienced that afternoon, and hoped St. Michael's would again be honored by the 49th. The musical portion of the service was very fine; the beautiful hymn "Nearer my God to thee" being among those rendered by the choir. The Oddfellows' Band accompanied the parade and in very fine style played sacred airs. We need hardly add that the two companies presented a very fine appearance when marching to and from church.

LOOK OUT FOR THE DRAINS.—In every house there is of refuse material a large amount. On washing days many gallons, often barrels, of water in which our clothing has been washed, and which contains all the filth that the skin has thrown off during the week, must be disposed of. As a rule, it is thrown into a drain, which is, perhaps, covered only by a board, and carried only a few feet away, when it soaks into the ground and spreads out and evaporates into the air. If the soil is pervious it may soak into it and some of it eventually find its way into the well.

ST. ANDREW'S DAY.—Miss Barr, who is to sing at the concert here on St. Andrew's Eve, appeared in a concert at Kingston on Thursday night last, and is very favorably spoken of by both of the Kingston papers. The News says:—"Miss Barr's appearance on the platform was the occasion of a warm reception, and as the evening progressed she established herself as a great favorite. In the first part she sang 'Didst thou but know,' in fine voice, receiving an encore for which she bowed her acknowledgments. Further down on the programme she sang 'Fly forth, O Gentle Dove,' in splendid style, and was compelled to respond to a unanimous recall, when she sang 'The Maid of Dundee,' a beautiful Scotch ballad. In the second part Miss Barr sang 'Jessie's Dream,' a Scotch song of great popularity, and in response to an encore she gave 'Baby Mine,' which was the gem of the evening, owing to the simplicity of the ballad and the great taste with which it was sung. Miss Barr is a vocalist of considerable ability, and her enunciation is clear and distinct."

ST. NICHOLAS FOR DECEMBER whets the appetite for more. There is just enough of ante-Christmas flavor about it to let you know the merry season is near, and to assure you that the real Christmas number of St. Nicholas is yet to come. The December number has eight extra pages and fifty pictures, and begins with a poem of home-life that sings itself into the heart. It is by the editor, and describes what the frontispiece illustrates:—a Scotish lassie in the cottage door-way watching her father rowing across a Highland lake on his way home and supper. The picture is a wood-engraving after a painting by John Phillip, R. A. But the most attractive stories are those retold by T. F. Crane from the versions familiar to Italian children. They are the dear old fairy tales that everybody knows and loves, but in strange Italian dress, and delicate illustrated by Alford Fredericks. Mary Hallock Foote supplies a short article illustrated by herself, about the children of a Mexican mining-camp. There is an account of "Mistletoe-Gathering in Normandy," with a picture by W. J. Hennessy. Ernest Ingersoll chats pleasantly about "Snakes and Birds." And Mrs. Treat explains and illustrates some of the wonders she has seen through the microscope. Young students of German are presented with a short legend in that language, for them to turn into English; and Very Little Artists are supplied with white-line pictures to be copied upon their slates. The serial story, "A Jolly Fellowship," by Frank R. Stockton, carries its readers through a "jolly" installment of fun and travel in the sunny south-land. As for the "Half a Dozen Housekeepers," their winter fun and frolic and scrapes continue, and the text is enlivened by three fine pictures from the pencil of Frederick Dielmap. The young folks themselves contribute greatly to the interest of the departments, "Jack-in-the-Pulpit," "Letter-box," and "Riddle-Box"; the letter having a curious cipher, and an illustrated problem based on the new silver dollar. St. Nicholas, the subscription price of which is $3.00 a year, will be sent to our subscribers for $2.25 a year. The Weekly INTELLIGENCER and St. Nicholas will be sent a year for $3.75. The Daily and St. Nicholas for $7.25 per year.

SCRIBNER FOR DECEMBER.—The December Scribner contains fiction by four of the leading American novelists, viz.: Mrs. Burnett's "Haworth's," the second installment, which is full of action and increased literary strength); "The Great Deadwood Mystery," by Bret Harte, complete story in a semi-satirical vein and including one of the most interesting scenes in his writings; "An Irish Heart," a pathetic Old-port story by T. W. Higginson, and the fifth installment of Mr. Boyesen's "Falconberg." The illustrations of Dr. Brewer's fourth paper on "Bird Architecture" (The Humming-Birds) are regarded by the managers of the Monthly as among the most exquisite cuts yet published by the Magazine. "The Cliff-Dwellers," by Emma Chamberlain Hardacre, embodies the latest discoveries regarding the ruins of the San Juan region. "Caribou-Hunting" is described in a personal narrative by Charles C. Ward, whose "Moose-Hunting" a year ago, will be remembered by sportsmen; the author and Henry Sandham furnish the drawings. "The Douglass squirrel of California," has found a friend in John Muir, who writes with enthusiasm and with rare knowledge of this litte forest-planter. Mr. Bolles draws some Indian boys using the Douglass as a target for archery-practice. There is also a sketch of "Dora D'Istria," the eminent philanthropist and social writer of Wallachia, with a portrait after Schiavent. The serials are also illustrated. In public discussion there are some timely papers by experts; "The National Bank Circulation," by Professor W. G. Sumner, "Are Narrow-Gauge Railroads Economical?" by Lorenzo M. Johnson, an engineer who has built both broad and narrow gauges, and a painter's view of "Art at the Paris Exposition." Other papers are "Undergraduate Life at Oxford," by Ansley Wilcox, "My Look at the Queen," by Treadwell Walden, and "He Playing She," a light sketch of college theatricals in former days. Poems are contributed by "H. H.," L. Frank Tooker (a new poet), Anna Katherine Green, and Henry S. Cornwell. Dr. Holland discusses "The Prudential Element," "Literary Materials and Tools," "Social Needs and Social Leading." In a communication Mr. M. S. Beach relates for the first time the way in which the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo originated and how a plot to make the Duke of Mon pensier Emperor of Mexico was frustrated by President Polk. "Home and Society" has a second instalment of "Hints to Young House-keepers," and an account of "The Maternity Society." "The World's Work" has descriptions of new appliances, including "Street-car Motor," "New Electric Lamp," "Improved Ironing Machine," "Improvement in making Artificial Stone," "Automatic Device for Reproducing Music," etc., etc. The fresh and carefully prepared accounts in this department are now widely quoted. Subscribers who wish to subscribe for SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY, one of the best periodicals published in the United States, and the price of which is $4.00, can have the Magazine and WEEKLY INTELLIGENCER sent to them for one year for FOUR DOLLARS AND FIFTY CENTS. Or the Daily and Scribner for $8.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—A Calcutta correspondent thinks that General Brown's column will go to Jellalabad this winter. Major-General Robert's to the Kurum fort, and Major-General Biddulph's Quetta column to Candahar, and that these will probably be their wintering stations.

From New York they go through the United States for an excursion of about 30 days to San Francisco, where they will join the society's steamer Junon.

The only possible clue to unravelling the Stewart mystery now being specially worked is the search for the missing Sheriff Street hackman Kelley, and but little progress is being made in this.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Mayor Ely received an anonymous letter to-day from Omaha from a person claiming to be one of the Stewart grave robbers, and offers to reveal the whole matter if pardon is granted.

A Model Farm.

Why should farming not be scientific? Because the manufacturer labors in a scientific way, his profits are greater and surer than those of the agriculturist who has neither machinery nor system; but it is the unreasonable custom of many to sneer at all innovations, and to look at all methodic variation upon old usages as the fanciful and unprofitable schemes of visionaries with more money than common-sense. It is the people who most need them are usually most deficient in the latter quality, however; and had they a little more of it they might perceive that careful book-keeping and the adoption of improved methods and implements are as necessary in farming as in any other business.

In a side hollow of that hill from which Litchfield first becomes visible to us several very distinct echoes can be obtained, and this responsiveness of the "purple glean" gave a name to this farm. It is Echo Farm—a pretty and poetically suggestive name, indeed, which conjures up visions of loveliness, and sets one to dreaming of intertwining vines knitting their plaint tendrils and sweet scented leaves through the hospitable porch and open lattice; the checked orchard of fruity abundance; the garrulous brook that never tires of its one monody; the reverbant hills that appease life's turmoil with their easy undulations; lofty barns mossy with age; and clattering mills down in the seclusion of grassy hollows. But, alas! dear reader, model farming is not idyllic or Arcadian. It is inflexibly utilitarian; it keeps all its buildings in a perfect state of repair; it subordinates the picturesque, if it recognizes it; it pulls down the old mill because that venerable is in the way of the rectangular new dairy; it diverts the brook from its ferny course into the most commonplace of earthern pipes; it tears away the vines that obscure the light, and it looks upon every thing with a pair of the most practical eyes set in a head that weighs, measures, audits, and analyzes with chemical exactness. The proprietor of Echo Farm conducts it as a manufactory. A record is kept of the milk and butter produced by each cow for each day, each month and each year; all the feed is weighed, and the quantity entered upon the books, both that purchased and that produced; and a separate account is kept of the yield of each field. Nothing is wasted, nothing done by guessing, and nothing passes unrecorded. The implements are of the latest or most approved model. Three sets of "horse" hay-forks are in use, by which hay is unloaded at the rate of a ton and a half per minute, including in some instances the carriage of the hay 150 feet. The other machines also embody some novel labor-saving principle. Milking machines and silos are found necessary, except the 1500 loads made upon the farm, a sort of muck, of which there are several beds.

The history of the farm is interesting. A gentleman of education, intelligence, and wealth came into possession of some seven ago in search of a summer home. He had the most superficial knowledge of farming, and entertained no intention of entering that business. But having purchased sixty-six acres and cleared them, he purchased additional tracts, which became the nucleus of Echo Farm, whose area is now about 400 acres. His interest was enlisted in the raising choice stock, and beginning with a herd of five, he has gradually increased the number to 100, all the herd being pure Jerseys, with authenticated and valuable pedigrees. The rocky fields were cleared, laid out, and inclosed by massive stone walls. Old and inadequate buildings on the consolidated land were demolished, and new ones of improved pattern erected. In 1875 a barn 66 feet by 25 was built; an addition, 100 feet by 40 was made the following year; and in 1876 another addition was made, of 191 by 35 feet. These three buildings form the three sides of the barn-yard. They are built of pine upon massive granite foundations about two feet wide, which are laid in cement. All the wood-work is painted a soft drab color, even the proprietor's residence, and the telegraph poles that line the roadway. A desire for simplicity and durability in preference to ornamentation or showiness is visible everywhere; there is no litter, and there are no gaps in the fences or walls, which are from eighteen inches to twenty-four in thickness, every crevice being filled like a mosaic with a stone that exactly fits it. Care, thrift, and ingenuity have acted like three charms. When the fields were being cleared, such large quantities of stones were gathered that some perplexity arose as to where they should be put. Many hundreds of loads were used in the foundations of the buildings in the fences, and in filling ravines, but more remained, and these were deposited upon several sterile hillocks of no value, where masses of swamp grass were laid over them, and covered with a light dressing of soil. Grass seed was sown upon the soil, and it took well, soon transformed the barren heaps to verdant knolls, whose blades grow remarkably hardy. It was not so much for the sake of this land gained that the stones were thus disposed of, but it was rather to prevent the formation of nurseries for weeds, shrubs, and brambles, which the heaps would have quickly become.

Two and a half acres are planted with beets, which are the only roots fed to the cattle, the crop averaging 1000 bushels an acre, and more than 1000 tons of hay are housed a year.—W. H. REDDING, in Harper's Magazine for October.

Domestic.

BOSTON BROWN BREAD.—One quart sour milk, one cup molasses, two cups rye flour, four cups Indian meal, two even teaspoonfuls soda. Steam three hours and then bake half an hour in a hot oven.

ADHERENT PUDDING.—Three cups of flour, one cup of suet chopped fine, one cup of milk, one cup of molasses, one cup of raisins chopped, one egg, half a teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of cloves; boil or steam three hours.

VEAL LOAF.—Three pounds of veal off the ham; three sliced salt pork, chopped fine, add three eggs well beaten, one-half cup sweet cream, one tablespoonful each of sage, salt, and pepper. Stir well together, and bake one and a half hours. Best when cold.

FRIED OYSTERS.—Take large oysters drained well. Roll some crackers fine, season them with pepper and salt. Have ready some boiling lard and some beaten eggs. Dip the oysters first in the cracker then in the egg, and then into the cracker again; drop them in the hot lard; let them brown, and skim out in a colander to drain. Should be served hot.

CHICKEN SALAD.—Take the meat of a boiled chicken, mince and add an equal quantity of chopped celery, prepare the following dressing and pour over it. Yolks of two hard boiled eggs, two teaspoonfuls of mustard, two of salt a little, pepper; yolk of a raw egg and a little sugar, one pint of cream, and vinegar to the taste.

POTATO PUFF.—Two cupfuls cold mashed potatoes, two tablespoonfuls melted butter beaten together till light; beat in two eggs, one cupful of milk and a little salt; turn into a buttered dish and bake in a quick oven till well browned.

YEAST THAT WILL KEEP A MONTH.—One quart water in porcelain kettle, six good sized potatoes pared raw and sliced in the boiling water, then add half a cup each of salt and sugar and the water in which a handful of hops has been steeped. Remove from the fire and when cool add half a cup of yeast. Use a large spoonful to a loaf.

TYING UP BUNDLES.—Men always say that a woman cannot tie up a bundle properly, and there is only too much truth in the accusation. Too much paper is usually the secret of the ugly parcels turned out by feminine hands, and the fault is seldom overcome, even by girls in shops, who have to do up many packages in a day. A wrapper should never be more than broad enough to be folded over the ends of the object inclosed; the length is a matter to be decided by the number of thicknesses thought best to protect the contents of the parcel. It is worth while to learn pretty ways of tying twine about a bundle, as they not only make it easier to carry but add to the finished appearance. Keep a stringbag, and never throw away any cord; but do not waste half your lifetime in untying knots; scissors were made to cut.—American Cultivator.

MAKING COFFEE.—The art of making good coffee consists in observing one or two things. First of all, it should be freshly ground; the next thing is to draw out the full strength and aroma, and at the same time preserve the fluid perfectly clear and free from grounds. On the continent it is boiled for a short time, but in England it is usually soaked in water kept as near boiling-point as possible. The French are generally allowed to be the best coffee-makers in the world, and they allow one ounce of coffee to each cupful of water. Two pots are used in the making. Into one boiling water is poured on the ground coffee, and allowed to remain 4 or 5 minutes, when it is poured off as clear as possible. The grounds are then boiled with the remaining water for two or three minutes and both lots mixed together. A shred of saffron or a little vanilla is often added, and to make the grounds settle, half a cupful of cold water is sprinkled over the decoction; this descends to the bottom, carrying the grounds with it. Coffee may be clarified also by adding a shred of isinglass or a little white of an egg. The great fault of English coffee-making is the failure to draw out the full strength, and this arises in most households from the use of the water which has not reached the boiling point, or the too great haste with which the infusion is made.—Cassell's Dictionary.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Dear" who can.

It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Rocket your pain low and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain.

The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of diseases in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge" of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price. 25 cents per Bottle.

The Trade supplied through the Wholesale Drug and Patent Medicine Houses of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London.

Two spurious books, one entitled, "The Achievements of Stanley in Africa," and the other "The Complete Explorations and Adventures of Stanley" have been advertised. They are a rehash of Livingstone and other old books of African travel and of Stanley's letters. The first is the Original spurious book published in Philadelphia, written by T. J. Headley. The second is an inferior copy of the first. Both have mostly old illustrations. See that you get the genuine work written by Mr. Stanley. THE ROUTE OF PROCESSION was along Water street, a narrow, dirty affair, with little wooden houses that must have impressed the visitors with the knowledge that raw material for Canadian shipbuilding is in abundance in this part of the Dominion. One after another the dirty houses are passed, the decorations being conspicuous by their scarcity. At length Brunswick street is reached and a very fine arch here bursts upon the astonished view —one of the most striking sights of the whole, its position at the top of a hill, much like that of St. Lambert's Hill, Montreal, giving it full scope. Here also is the splendid railway depot, and a number of tastefully decorated buildings, the whole forming a very fine and effective picture. The arch and decorations at the main entrance are built as if

PLACED THERE AS A FIXTURE.

The design is that of an arched gateway with the section of a dome rising in the centre, while a tower on the side of this is supported in turn by another tower some feet lower in position. Windows are cut all about this arch, so that transparencies may shine for the illumination ordered to take place to-morrow evening. Passing on we come to the top of the hill and are passing under the first large arch erected by the city officials. It is 65 feet high and 70 feet wide. In the centre is a coat of arms, in transparencies, while the mottoes are "Lorne," "Louise," "Welcome to Halifax, the Quay of the Dominion," "Long life and prosperity to our Governor General and his Consort." We pass through this and after a short interval, during which many private residences display their loyalty by waving handkerchiefs, reach a very arch of unique design, being a sort of skeleton affair, constructed of posts and streamers, and which contains the word

"WELCOME,"

the monogram of Dufferin and Lorne, a praiseworthy design. Now we have arrived opposite an old church, labelled "St. George, 1775," where a grand stand is filled with people, and they rise en masse and cheer like madmen, and loyal ladies wave their favors and handkerchiefs, while His Excellency bows in return, and the Princess smiles her appreciation of the greeting. By this time the cheers had died away, the procession has reached the barracks, where an enormous arch has been erected by the engineers—a stupendous affair, like a fortress more than anything else. St. Patrick's Church and the Round Church opposite are also very handsomely decorated with evergreens. Passing another arch, corner of Poplar Grove and Jacob street, we come to another and then through the large arch corner of Buckingham and Argyll streets, then another on the corner of Buckingham and Grenville streets. Here the military have thus far kept the streets remarkable free of the crowds, and all move on in a harmonious stream, which presently arrives at a grand arch spanning four corners, made by the intersection of George and Hollis streets. Flags and mottoes are here in great profusion, and the Argyll arms are conspicuous. Now they have reached the Provincial Buildings, and the first halt is made because here the visitor becomes the Governor-General really, being sworn in by the Hon. Chief Justice Ritchie. The swearing in of the Marquis was one of the most interesting features of the day, and took place in the Assembly Chamber, only the Press and a select number being permitted to witness it. The members of the Privy Council entered the room and seated themselves on each side of the table in front of the throne, Mr. Justice Ritchie on His Excellency's left. As soon as the Marquis took his seat, the Clerk of the Privy Council, Mr. W. A. Himsworth, read the Queen's Commission, all in the room standing until the close.

ELEGANT ARCH.

The Clerk then lays before him

THE BOOK OF OATH,

and Judge Ritchie handed him the Bible. His Excellency took the Bible, and in a loud, clear voice read: "I, Sir John Dougall Sutherland Campbell, commonly called the Marquis of Lorne, do swear that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to Her Majesty Queen Victoria, and will defend her to the utmost of my power against all conspiracies and attempts whatsoever shall be made against her person, crown, or dignity, and I will use my utmost endeavors to disclose and make known to Her Majesty, her heirs and survivors, all treason and treacherous conspiracies which may be formed against her or them. I do faithfully promise to maintain, support and defend to the utmost of my power the succession to the Crown, which succession, by an Act entitled "An Act for the further limitation of the Crown and better securing of the

RIGHTS AND LIBERTIES

of the subject is and stands limited to the Princess Sophia, electress of Hanover, and the heirs of her body being Protestants, hereby utterly renouncing and abhorring any obedience or allegiance unto any other pretending to claim or pretending a right to the Crown of the realm; and I do declare that no foreign prince, person or prelate, state, or potentate hath or ought to have jurisdiction, power, superiority or authority, gubernatorial or spiritual, within the Realm; and I make this declaration upon the true faith of a Christian, so help me God." After the Marquis had signed the above, the Judge administered

THE OATHS OF OFFICE

as follows: 1st. You shall well and truly execute the office and trust of Governor-General of Canada and the territories extending thereon, and duly and impartially administer justice therein, so help you God: 2nd. You shall do your utmost endeavor that all the clauses, matters and things contained in the several Acts of Parliament hereinfore passed and now in force relating to trade in Her Majesty's colonies and plantations be punctually and bona fide pressed according to the true intent and meaning thereof, so help you God: 3rd. You shall well and truly execute the office of Keeper of the Great Seal of Her Majesty's Dominion of Canada, according to the best of your knowledge and ability, so help you God. Judge Ritchie then signed the jurat and handed of the Dominion to His Excellency, who, turning to the Keeper of the Great Seal, Hon. Senator Aikens, Secretary of State, said: "I hereby give to your hands the Great Seal of the Dominion for safe-keeping."

THE GREAT SEAL

The moment the Governor-General is sworn in there crashes upon the ear a perfectly overwhelming

BABEL OF SOUND.

The ships, forts and batteries everywhere boom out their salute, while peals of bells from all quarters and of all keys in the gamut add their clang to the deafening cheers of the people. The ceremony over the procession is rejoined by the Vice-Regal party, and they again start upon the triumphal march. Another arch is encountered at the corner of Hollis and Bishops streets, while on the next corner there is another. By far the prettiest arch of the whole number of arches is yet to come, and is that at the corner of Barrington and Bishop streets, erected by the North British Association, a society composed of Scotsmen and descendants of Scotsmen. The design is of the celebrated castle at Inveraray, and is said to be a very faithful fac-simile of the front portion of that castle. It is built in the form of a castle with of smaller dimensions, between which and the main towers are arches and battlements to connect them. Miniature windows are cut at intervals, and pink curtains with the light streaming through them from the hundreds of lights in the interior, must at night give the whole a very pleasing appearance. The arms of Scotland, and the motto, "Nemo Me Impune Lacessit," are placed over the smaller arch, while over the main arch are the Argyll arms and the words, "Welcome to Nova Scotia," the reverse side containing the Royal arms and "Welcome to Princess Louise." There are placed at proper intervals medallions containing monograms of each of their Excellencies, and many other devices appropriate to the occasion. The general verdict is that the North British Association have carried the palm for

THE BEST ARCH IN HALIFAX.

The procession passed along the rest of the route, and after going through Spring Garden Road dispersed after passing through the arch at that point.

The Vice-Regal party then drove along South Park to Sackville street, down that street to Brunswick, thence into Gottingen street and the Admiralty House, where the Royal Standard was hoisted. The utmost enthusiasm prevailed, and, despite the cold air, there were thousands whose loyalty nothing could cool. These were to be found in crowds at the various advantageous points of observation, and cheer upon cheer greeted the Vice-Regal party as they drove along.

In conclusion, it may be said that a scene has been witnessed in Halifax such as never before was enacted here, and of which will live long in the memory of the welcomed and their loyal hosts. The streets were fairly crammed with people, and the cheering was indeed outspoken in its character that Halifax could have done so well astonished strangers, and one would have fancied that all Nova Scotia was here from the multitude which defied the efforts of the soldiers who lined the streets.

PRESENTATION OF THE ADDRESS.

His Excellency received the address of the Mayor and corporation in the Assembly Chamber, and replied suitably, the Mayor and aldermen being subsequently presented to their Excellencies. The scene in the Council-Chamber was a brilliant one—full evening dress being worn by everyone. The various National societies presented addresses, and other formal congratulations will be tendered as follows:

Rev. Dr. Gilpin, for the Church of England; for the Charitable Irish Society, by William Compton; for the Presbyterian Synod in connection with the Presbyterian Church in Canada, by the Rev. Dr. Burns; the Temperance Society, by Mr. Parsons; the Royal Halifax Yacht Club, by Mr. C. C. Vaux, Secretary.

This evening will be held the reception at the Government House, and to-morrow there will be the drive through the city, with torchlight attendance.

THE PRINCESS TO ATTEND THE BALL.

Sir Hugh Allan has sent the following: "I have just seen the Princess. Her Royal Highness desires that everything go on as in the programme. She will attend the Ball."

THE PARTY AT ST. HILAIRE.

Lieut.-Col. the Hon. E. G. P. Littleton, Military Secretary, having replied to Mr. Bruce Campbell, of St. Hilaire, that the Vicregal train would stop ten minutes at St. Hilaire Station, on its way to Montreal, to enable the loyal Habitants of St. Hilaire to present an address to His Excellency the Marquis of Lorne, the inhabitants of St. Hilaire held a meeting under the presidency of Mr. M. Bessette, and after passing several resolutions, adopted an address, and requested Mr. Campbell to present it to His Excellency the Governor General in the name of the Parish. The Rev. Mr. Godard, parish priest, made a few very appropriate remarks on Sunday, and called on his parishioners to appreciate the great honor that was being done them, by going to honor the distinguished guests when they passed. The greatest enthusiasm reigns, and the ever loyal habitants of St. Hilaire are quite alive to the occasion, and preparations are already being made for the reception of the Royal party. Mr. Archie G. Campbell is in charge of the decorating part. Knowing his taste and skill, we feel sure things will be done handsomely.

WHEN THE TRAIN WILL ARRIVE.

Col. Stevenson has received the following despatch from Mr. Brydges as to the movements of the special train which is to bring the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louis:

"We shall reach Montreal at half past eleven on Friday. The ball will take place that evening and the party will leave for Ottawa on Monday morning."

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemist, London, Eng." d&w

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, NOV. 26.

The Payment of Legislators.

A subject which has attracted a great deal of public attention during the past four years has been the increase of the amount of sessional indemnity paid to the members of the Ontario Legislature, which it will be remembered was increased from $800 to $800 for each member during the first session of the present Parliament. It has been the fashion with many to denounce the act of increasing the indemnity as a "salary grab," and as denunciation of everything which looks like self-seeking on the part of legislators is always popular with the people, not a few persons who ought to be above resorting to clap-trap have, though no doubt convinced of the impropriety of the outcry, lent their influence to spread it abroad, with the transparent object of arousing the indignation of the ignorant and the unreflecting. As a consequence of the hubbub raised concerning this matter, we find men of good intelligence who evidently have considered but one side of the subject, and that not with anything approaching thoroughness joining in the outcry which has thus been raised against our legislators. One of this latter class, who signs himself "Publicola," has written a letter largely devoted to this subject (published yesterday) in which he ably and with moderation, though superficially considers the question, and arrives at the conclusion that not only have we too many legislators in Ontario, but that they are largely overpaid.

Whilst agreeing with "Publicola" that the number of members in the Ontario Legislature might be largely reduced, [illegible] was dissent from the proposition to reduce the indemnity (or pay) of the members of that body. Were the duties of the members of the Legislature such as our correspondent apparently imagines them to be, namely confined to the six or eight weeks' session of the Legislature in Toronto, then there would be reason in his contention; but as the representative of each constituency is at all times occupied to a greater or less degree with the business of his constituents, which he is in many cases obliged to transact, to the neglect of his own—as the member is placed at very considerable expense in maintaining the dignity of his position in many ways, as well as having to submit to great loss of time, and many vexations, it will readily be conceived that the amount of indemnity is not to large, and that many of the members must be at considerable expense besides in serving the public. "Publicola" contrasts the rate of payment of members of the Ontario Legislature with that of those of the New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois State Legislatures; but this comparison ought rather to strengthen our argument that "the laborer is worthy of his hire," in this as in all other instances. When it is stated that the legislators in the States instanced, give their services ostensibly at such "cheap and nasty" rates, it must also be remembered that the public do not profit thereby; for the fact that the State Legislatures are the most corrupt legislative bodies on the continent, and that their poorly paid members amply reimburse themselves by accepting bribes from the bolder rascals who openly fleece the public, is tolerably well known to all conversant with the public affairs of our neighbors. The question then, taking the experience of others as our guide, is, Shall we have poorly paid and personally corrupt legislators, or shall we fairly indemnify our representatives for their loss of time and have honest government? Our preference is decidedly for the latter, because the system has worked well in the past, because it is certain to be the most economical in the long run; and further, it prevents the utter debasement of public morality which would inevitably result from the pernicious example of corruption in high places.

We have no doubt that when the people come to take all the circumstances into consideration they will regard the outcry in regard to this matter in its true light, namely as the buncombe of schemers who are intent on making political capital. On the other question, that of a reduction in the number of representatives, we should like to see them pronounce strongly in the affirmative, as the business of the Province would be just as well, probably better, conducted by a smaller number of legislators representing larger constituencies.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT ON THE LIFE OF ITALY'S KING.—A cable despatch says:—"The Moniteur reports that previous to the arrival of King Humbert yesterday the police seized a placard threatening death to all who joined in the ovation. The report appears to be confirmed that dynamite was found on the rails shortly before the passage of the Royal train to Rome."

The War in Afghanistan.

The war into which Great Britain has been forced, by the truculence of the Ameer of Afghanistan, to enter, has opened auspiciously; the strong fort of Ali Musjid, the key of the Khyber Pass, has been captured after a very brief resistance, and several other important positions have been abandoned by the adherants of Shere Ali without even an attempt at resistance. Several of the native tribes are also reported to be acting with the British, and it is now considered probable that the task of reducing the Ameer to submission will be more easy of accomplishment than was expected, as the rapid movement of our troops has been a surprise to the natives, who evidently calculated upon enjoying immunity from attack until the winter had passed.

However, in spite of the apparent lack of preparedness on the part of the Afghans, the British have made ample preparations to carry out the undertaking which has thus been auspiciously begun. The experience of 1842, when a British army of 16,000 men was massacred at Cabul, has not been forgotten, for we are informed that the invading force numbers 45,000 men, of whom 35,000 are British and Sepoys, and 10,000 auxiliaries supplied by the native Princes. This army is divided into three divisions, the principal of which, numbering 16,000 men, consisting of two divisions of infantry and eleven batteries of artillery, under the command of General F. S. Haines, whose Generals of Division are Sir S. Brown and General Maude, is advancing through the Khyber Pass on Jellalabad, and on the reduction of that strong position will proceed to Cabul. A strong force of Sikhs is held in reserve at Peshawur. The second corps of 6,000 men, with one regiment of cavalry and twenty-four guns, under command of General Robarts, is to advance up the Khurum Valley, and then march on Ghuznee or Cabul. The third corps, of 12,000 men and 60 guns, commanded by General Donald Stewart, is to advance from Quettah on Candahar, at which place little resistance is expected, and thence, regulating its movements by those Sir F. S. Haines' column, it will advance on Ghuznee, Cabul or Herat. For the purpose of reinforcing this army, if necessary, General Primrose is organizing a strong reserve.

Thus it will be seen that the preparations are ample, though it is not likely that the campaign will be terminated before the spring, owing to the severity of the winter in Afghanistan.

Before starting they were given some water. On their way home Mr. Clarke noticed something strange about them. There was not the usual sprightliness about them, and shortly after their arrival home they both died. Upon examination it was found that the inner coating of the stomach was completely eaten away. Some very powerful potion must have been given them. No clue as to the perpetrators has yet been found. A strict investigation should be demanded."

DISASTER AT SEA.

COLLISION.

50 LIVES LOST.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The Hamburg-American line steamer Pommerania, Capt. Schwanson, which sailed from New York on the 14th of November for Hamburg, and arrived at Plymouth on the 24th, came into collision last night about midnight, during a fog, 8 miles south west of Folkestone, with a vessel reported to be the Welsh bark Noel Elien, of Carnarvon, from Rotterdam for Cardiff, in ballast. The Pommerania was on her way from Plymouth to Hamburg. The steamship foundered in about 10 minutes. 172 passengers and the crew were rescued by the iron screw steamer Glengarry, of Middlesborough, and landed at Dover. The vessel with which the Pommerania collided is anchored off Folkestone, with her bows stove in and her forward compartment full of water. A tug has gone to her assistance.

A later telegram just received says that 162 persons were saved, and 58 were missing, including Capt. Schwanson. Another despatch says the collision occurred at 40 minutes after 11 o'clock last night, during a dense fog. The Pommerania sank in 30 minutes. 170 were saved of a total of 220 on board. 50 believed to be lost, including the captain, second officer Fokkes, and third officer Zarnow.

LATER.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Agents of the Hamburg American steamship Co. say that 47 passengers of the Pommerania were to have landed at Plymouth and Cherbourg, leaving 104 on board. Four second and one third class passengers embarked at Plymouth, making the total number when the disaster occurred 109, provided 47 had landed. The agent at Plymouth says the following passengers landed there: Miss Eonigs, Miss Wilson, and Messrs. Proeck, Fasterbrook, Hunt, Nankervis, Pearce Pearn, Phillips, and Thomas. A despatch from Dover says that Helms, chief engineer, Scheiding, doctor, Peters, chief steward, and two stewardesses, are supposed to be drowned. A gentleman named Schneider and Miss Amalie Neumann were saved.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Further particulars of the Pommerania disaster show that she was near Dungeness Point, about three miles from the shore. She was struck on the starboard side amidships, and sank in less than twenty minutes. Distress signals were given and responded to by the steamer Glengarry, which was proceeding down the channel, and which made all speed. There were nine boats on the Pommerania, four of which were crushed in the collision. Five were got off, but one being overcrowded with passengers sank. All the boats pulled away from the doomed ship, leaving the Captain, who refused to quit the ship until the last moment.

The last boat to leave was under a chief officer, who did all in his power to persuade the Captain to leave. After pulling for half an hour the survivors were picked up by the Glengarry. One gentleman was taken from the water unconscious and restored. The Glengarry stayed near the scene till day break, when the Pommerania was seen with her mast above water. No other bodies were recovered. The Glengarry then started to Dover with those saved and landed them at 9 o'clock. They were taken to the Sailor's Home and treated with every kindness and breakfasted. The story told by the survivors tends to show that the greatest possible order, under the circumstances, was maintained by the officers and male portion of the crew.

DOVER, Nov. 26.—The name of the vessel which sunk the Pommerania is the Noel Elian. She is now docked at Dover.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—A Dakka despatch of Monday says that leaving Ali Musjid in charge of a British regiment, General Brown pushed on, the head men of the hill tribes coming out on the route to congratulate him, to Lundi, kana, 13 miles off, where the advance force bivouacked. Major Cavagnarie rode on to Dakka, which he reached about 7 o'clock on Saturday evening, the Khan of Lalpoor, meeting him to offer submission. At dawn on Sunday morning the British troops resumed their march, arriving in Dakka at noon, and finding the deserted fort had been plundered by neighboring tribes.

The British advance had now reached the frontier of Afghanistan proper, destroying by its successes the Ameer's authority in independent territory 30 miles in width from Jumrood to Dakka. The flying Afghan army in its efforts to escape has been plundered of everything, the country having risen against it refusing it shelter. The news is confirmed that Jellaladad has been evacuated, and the garrison is in headlong flight towards Cabul. Mahommed Shahkhan, Chief of Lalpoor and head of Mohmunds, hitherto the Ameer's allies, has placed himself in Major Cavagnarie's hands.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Arrived, Frisia from Hamburg.

It is reported the detectives arrested Caleb Coakley, a noted character, for complicity in the Manhattan Bank robbery within thirty days after the crime was committed; that he was released on a promise to find the rest of the gang, and that he has since disappeared.

AUGUSTA, Ill., Nov. 26.—On Saturday night Dr. Pierson, physician, was called upon by an unknown man who said that he had been sent to call the doctor to attend Mrs. Gorwood. The doctor saddled his horse and started. An hour later he was found lying by the roadside horrible mangled by an iron bar which was lying near him. Pierson was a member of the Board of Town Trustees and was very active in suppressing lawlessness.

The Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, M.P.

(From the Down (Ireland) Recorder.)

Not the least interesting or important change in Canadian affairs is the one which has called to a seat in the Cabinet, as Minister of Customs, the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell. This gentleman is well-known to many in Ulster, having on several occasions visited it as a leading Orangeman; and having, in 1876, been elected President of the Triennial Council of Orangeism, in Londonderry. It will, perhaps, be in the recollection of our readers, that on the 14th of July in that year, Mr. Bowell and other leading Canadians, after visiting Ballykilbeg, were cordially greeted at the Downpatrick station, as they were leaving for Belfast. And those who then joined in this welcome, with many thousands throughout the country, will rejoice in the deserved honor which has been paid to an able, honest, eloquent, and conscientious statesman. Mr. Bowell's career, as a politician, has been remarkable. Holding strong opinions, he has ever pursued an independent course, and fearlessly followed his own judgment, often in opposition to other members of his party. An Englishman by birth, he left his native land for Canada at an early age, and has risen step by step till he now occupies a seat in the Cabinet of Sir. John A. Macdonald. We heartily congratulate Mr. Bowell on his position. This country and Canada have, in him, one who will ever, as he has always done, with power of a high order, and a leal and true heart, seek to promote the welfare of the British Empire, and the honor of the British Crown.

GOOD JUDGMENT.

WE have always noticed that Cash customers exercise the best and soundest judgment in buying. Hence the growing popularity of the

NEW BRITISH WAREHOUSE.

It stands to reason that any one who is always in the habit of paying cash for what they buy, can do better in a Cash store, where they are sure not to pay credit prices for what they buy, as is too often the case where cash buyers patronize credit stores. We are constantly receiving NEW GOODS EVERY WEEK, bought for cash, and the regular discounts taken advantage of.

We mark all Goods the closest figure that they possibly can be sold for, for cash,

ASKING ONE PRICE ONLY,

and we are satisfied that we are in a position to offer cash buyers advantages that cannot be surpassed in the market. Try the NEW BRITISH WAREHOUSE for your next parcel of Dry Goods.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, NOV. 26.

City and Vicinity.

BURGLARY.—On Saturday morning the store of Mr. J. G. Webb, at Colborne, was entered by burglars and a quantity of dry goods and light hardware stolen.

BREAKING LAMPS.—The glass in several of the street lamps on Dundas Street has lately been broken by some rowdies unknown. The police ought to be on the alert and endeavor to arrest some of this class of offenders.

SOIREE.—We understand that the Congregation of St. Andrew's Church intend holding their annual Soiree in Metropolitan Hall on Thursday, Dec. 5th, particulars of which will appear in advertisement to-morrow.

THANKSGIVING DINNER.—The ladies of the M. E. Church announce their intention of giving a grand dinner in the basement of the Tabernacle on Wednesday, December 4th, Thanksgiving Day. Those who attended the dinner at the same place last year will not need any urging to go this year. Tickets 40cts each.

THE G. W. RAILWAY ACCIDENT.—Amongst the passengers injured by the railway accident at Winona, we find one from this county, particulars of which are thus given by the Hamilton Spectator:—"John Ryan, Irishman by birth, aged 29, from Trenton, County of Hastings, had one of his feet almost smashed to a jelly, and lost a great deal of blood before he could be extricated and attended to. He is the section boss of the G. T. R. between Trenton and Brighton. He was formerly in the employ of Mr. Nolan of this city."

LECTURE.—On Thursday evening the Rev. Dr. Jaques will deliver a lecture, being the first of the Mechanics' Institute course, in the City Hall. For some years past it has been difficult to secure remunerative audiences at lectures, but we trust that better fortune will attend the venture of the Mechanics'. Institute, which organization has done and is still doing a great deal of good in the city. The Rev. Dr. Jaques' abilities are too well known to require eulogy at our hands, and we hope to see him greeted by a large audience.

THE STREETS.—The very bad condition in which the principal thoroughfares of this city now are was the theme of some discussion in the City Council last night. It was shown that the cause of this regrettable state of affairs was the heavy and long continued rains of the autumn, but for which the streets would now be in good condition, and that the money granted for street improvements and repairs had been well and carefully expended. Should open weather continue, repairs will have to be made to some of the principal streets, despite the fact that the appropriation has already been exceeded. A little expenditure this season may prevent a large outlay next year, and at the same time greatly benefit the business interests of the city.

Be content to sow the seed though you may never reap. The best part of the work is the sowing. It is a blessed thoughts that you have dropped into the heart of a child good, pure, and holy thoughts, which in time will yield a grand harvest of words and deeds. You may not live to see your scholars grow up to manhood and womanhood. But be satisfied; you have done your part in preparing them for any worthy post which they may be called upon to fill.

CITY COUNCIL.

MONDAY, Nov. 25.

The Council met at 8 o'clock.

PRESENT.—His Worship the Mayor, Messrs. Proctor, Leighton, McIntosh, W. J. Diamond, Geen, Wickett, Foster, Farley, Doyle, Ridley, Robertson, I. Diamond, Brennan, Holden, Jellett, Sherwood, Price, St. Charles and Hambly.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

From John Dillon for rectification of assessments.

From Thomas McGinnis and others for the remission of Mrs. R. Soles' taxes.

From G. E. J. Hanwell and others, for reduction of taxes on the Opera House.

From the Board of R. C. Separate School Trustees for the passage of a By-law to enable them to borrow $3,000.

Communication from the Earl of Dufferin's private Secretary, thanking the Corporation for their address illuminated.

From Melancthon Simpson, offering to build a dredge capable to scoop of the same capacity as Mr. Daly's, lately employed here, for $17,000.

From John T. Hodson, for a readjustment of taxes.

From Mrs. Gainey for the reduction of taxation.

From Mrs. Eves for compensation for damages sustained from a fall on a defective sidewalk.

A number of accounts were presented.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Of the Finance Committee, that sundry accounts be paid; that sundry other accounts be referred to their respective Committees for audit; and that owing to there having been no appropriation for a grant to the Mechanics' Institute this year no grant be made, but that they recognize the justice of the application, and recommend it to the favorable consideration of their successors.

Of the Board of Works, that the petition of Wilson Cummins be not granted; that Jas. Meagher's petition be granted; that other matters be referred for inquiry; and that another block crossing be laid down between the Albion Hotel and Hotel Street on Front Street.

Of the Harbor and City Property Committee that no reduction be made in the rate of harbor dues on saw logs, &c.; that notice be given of application for an Act for the building of a breakwater from the foot of Dundas Street to Mill Island.

Of the Committee on By laws, that the By-law regarding profane swearing, &c., be passed without amendment.

INQUIRIES.

In answer to Ald. Geen, the Chairman of the Poor and Sanitary and Market Committees said no accounts introduced at the last meeting had been referred to them.

The Clerk stated he could not define to what Committees accounts should be referred to, unless it was specified.

Ald. W. J. Diamond asked was there any way of checking the lighting of gas and other lamps.

Ald. Foster said there was no system of checks, but the suggestion was a good one, and he would bring it before the Committee. He also stated that the Gas Company refused to erect three lamps ordered by the Council in Foster Ward, owing to the rocky nature of the soil. In consequence he had ordered the erection of lamps elsewhere. This he had done without any intention to increase the expenditure.

Ald. Holden said he objected to a greater number of lamps being erected than were ordered by the Council, and at places where they were ordered.

Ald. Foster said there were not more lamps erected than had been ordered.

Ald. Holden would venture to say that when the bill came to be paid it would be found as he had stated.

NOTICES.

Ald Patterson gave notice of a Bylaw for the opening of William, Ann and Catharine Streets.

Ald. Robertson asked that his By-law regulating the width of tyres, and his notice re Belleville vs. Cronk be allowed to stand.—Granted.

Ald. Holden gave notice of a By-law for the appointment of a Tax Collector.

BY-LAWS.

Council went into Committee on By-laws, Ald. Farley in the chair.

Ald. Hambly's By-law to amend the Cow By-law was moved for a second reading which was declared carried on a division.

The Committee rose and reported.

The yeas and nays were taken on the report, as follows:

YEAS.—Messrs. Hambly, Holden, Brennan, I. Diamond, Ridley, Doyle, Farley, Wickett, Proctor, St. Charles, Foster.—11.

NAYS.—Messrs. Geen, Patterson, Lingham, McIntosh, W. J. Diamond, Price, Jellett, Sherwood, Robertson.—9.

The report was therefore adopted.

WAYS AND MEANS.

Council went into Committee on Ways and Means, Ald. Hambly in the chair.

The report of the Finance Committe was considered and adopted.

The report of the Board of Works was discussed, Ald. Holden stating that the appropriation had been exceeded by about $600 and it would be improper as well as illegal to expend any more money on streets this year.

Ald. Robertson contended that if, owing to the stress of weather, the roads were very bad and crossings needed, they ought to provide for the exceptional circumstances.

Ald. Patterson said that although the grant had been large, the necessities had been great, and all would agree with him that the work had been done carefully and economically. Some little repairs would still be needed, but he would be entirely governed by the wishes of the Council.

Ald. Hambly said that not for many years had the expenditure been so little above the estimates or the work done so thoroughly. There ought, however, to be an expenditure of at least $500 on the road to the Station which is a disgrace to the city.

Ald. Ridley said the excessive rain was accountable for the bad state of the road, as the traffic is very heavy.

Ald. W. J. Diamond moved that two ordinary crossings be built on Front Street between Hotel Street and the Albion Hotel, instead of one block crossing.

Ald. Patterson confirmed Ald. Ridley's remarks as to the effect of the rain on the streets.

The Mayor considered that, although the appropriation had been exceeded, there were some small matters of detail which must be considered and attended to. The appropriation had been well and carefully expended and we had good value for our money.

The amendment was then carried.

The report of the Harbor Committee was discussed, the clause relating to the breakwater being laid over till next meeting.

Committee rose and reported.

Ald. Robertson moved to refer back the report for the purpose of making a grant of $250 to the Mechanics' Institute.

This was not seconded, and the report was adopted.

The By-law to restrain profane swearing, &c., was read a third time and passed.

Council adjourned.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

FARMINGTON, Tenn., Nov. 26.—On Friday night John O'Neil, a prominent citizen, was awakened by the burning of his barn and as he left the house he was fatally shot by an assassin whom he recognized as Bill Porter, whom he had prosecuted for horse stealing. Porter was arrested. Lynching is feared.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 26.—A sensation was created by a claim that under the amended constitution the legislative sessions must be biennial and that its assemblage next month would be unconstitutional. The Treasury is said to be empty and the Legislature would cost $150,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Washington specials:—

The Tribune says Special Agent Fralech, who was sent to South America last December to inquire into the condition of the commercial and postal affairs of the South American States, reports an immense trade open to the United States on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of South America.

The President's message will urge rigid quarantine against the tropics to prevent the yellow fever epidemic.

Commissioner Hoyt will probably incorporate in his annual report all the official correspondence regarding the Bannock outbreak, and will attempt to show that the responsibility for that event rested largely with the army. The Commissioner will state that the dearth of rations was the result of Congressional economy.

The Times says it is reported that the Duke of Edinburgh will visit New York harbor with his ship immediately after leaving Halifax. He will also visit Washington as a representative of the Royal family, and as such be presented to the President by Sir Edward Thornton, whose guest he will be.

The World says information has been received of the conviction in the United States court at Cheyenne of D. J. McCann, who was found guilty of stealing from the Government fifty-two barrels of sugar. For years he was President of the First National Bank of Nebraska city, and once was a prominent candidate for the United States Senate.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—John McEvoy, pastor for twelve years of St. John's Roman Catholic Church, White Plains, against whom complaints were made of immorality, has been removed.

The Sun states that it was lately decided to establish an Ecclesiastical Court in this country, which reduces the power of the bishops greatly and places the priests on a footing never before known in this country. This confession is held to be a final acknowledgement by Rome that the Church in the United States is longer the same as in missionary countries but that United States is fully and unequivocally acknowledged as a christian nation.

THE AFGHAN WAR.

PROTEST FROM ENGLISH LIBERALS.

BERLIN, Nov. 25.—The Post says:—"At after effect of the Afghan war will be that England will have to renounce the idea of maintaining Turkish rule in Eastern Roumelia, because, even if successful in Afghanistan, she will need her Indian forces in Asia, and be unable to brandish them as a threat on the European theatre of war."

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The Liberal leaders have held a meeting and drawn up a statement denying that the portion of Lord Cranbrook's despatch which endeavors to fix upon Mr. Gladstone's Government the responsibility for the Afghan war is inaccurate and incomplete.

A correspondent at Berlin says it is expected at St. Petersburg that the Ameer of Afghanistan will go to Herat in the event of defeat. It is rumored that a corps under the Russian Gen. Lomakin is ten or twelve marches from Herat.

A despatch from Lahore says the majority of the prisoners taken at Ali Musjid have been released.

Special Notice.

A CARD.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, Bible House, New York City. d&wfm.

A Sudden Death.

There is something terrible in the thought of having our friends stricken down at our side, without a parting word of endearment or consolation—one moment at our side in the flush of vigorous life, cheering our hearts with their loving sympathy; the next at our feet, pale with death, deaf to our cries and reckless of our tears. Every excessively fat person is in instant danger of such a death. Seven-tenths of the victims of obesity die of heart disease or apoplexy. Allan's Anti-Fat, the only remedy for obesity, reduces the weight by regulating the digestion and assimilation of the food. It is perfectly harmless, and its use will insure, in every instance, a reduction of weight from two to five pounds a week.

Police Court.

(Before A. DIAMOND, Esq., P. M.)

TUESDAY, Nov. 26.

LARCENY.

John Perkins pleaded guilty to stealing a whip from Sidney Filliter and was sent to gaol for one week.

Thomas McHugh, found guilty of stealing a pair of boots from Henderson Brown, was also sentenced to one week's imprisonment.

ASSAULT.

Wm. Gilchrist, found guilty of assaulting James Nixon, was fined $10 and costs.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Nov. 26.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the Lower Lake region, moderate to fresh winds, partly cloudy to cloudy weather, followed by rain or snow. For the St. Lawrence, fresh to brisk westerly to northerly winds and partly cloudy weather. For the Maritime Provinces brisk westerly to northwesterly winds, cloudy colder weather with rain and snow, followed by partially clearing.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Indications:—Cloudy, light rain, cold veering to warmer winds.

—A correspondent of the St. Louis Globe Democrat tells the story: "An Irishman, upon his arrival in the United States, noting the great number of military titles, exclaimed, 'What a divil of a battle has been fought near here where all the privates were kilt.'"

In this Present Age, when the life-battle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the strongest the tug and stress of it tell so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for the keeping up of our reserve stock of mental and physical stamina by the use of such a nerve-tonic and vitalizing agent as ROBINSON'S PHOSPHORIZED EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH LACTO-PHOSPATE OF LIME! Its gently stimulating and nutritive-tonic properties supply the materials, and assist Nature in her efforts to keep up with the exhaustive demands upon her reserves. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

Indian Names of American States.

It must be owned that such well-known titles as Crazy Horse, Sitting Bull, Spotted Tail, Two Bears, Little Wound, Blue Nose, Little Big Man, One Horn, Young-Man-Afraid-of-His-Horses, do not suggest any dignified or awe inspiring associations, although the 'braves' of the prairie would doubtless find equal food for mockery in Smithville, Jonesborough, Indianapolis, and other astounding appellations, which stud the Trans-atlantic map from east to west. It is nevertheless interesting to note how many of the most famous names of America are of Indian origin. The long supremacy of the Dutch and French in the eastern and northern districts, and that of the Spaniards in the west and south, have left indelible traces ;but a large number of the yet older names used by the aboriginal possessors of the soil are still familiar as household words, though all memory of those who gave them has long since passed into tradition.

Commencing with New York itself, we find the island on which it stands still retaining its ancient name of Manhattan, given by the Manhato Indians, who formerly held it—though Washington Irving, in that wonderful burlesque which has immortalized the name of "Knicher-bocker," derives the title, with an infinitely ludicrous affectation of learned research, from "the wearing of men's hats by the squaws of the surrounding tribes, whence, 'Man-hat-on.'" Of the thirty-eight States composing the American Union, nineteen are still known by the quaint and fanciful appellations bestowed on them by their ancient inhabitants. Connecticut, slightly altered from its original form of "Quon-eh-ta-kut," is a Mohicon word signifying "long river." Massachusetts implies, "the land around the great hills." Michigan is the Indian name for a fish trap, suggested by the peculiar form of the great lake which has given its title to the surrounding country. Illinois was formed from the Indian word "Illini" (men) by the addition of the French termination 'ois.' The stormy region of Minnesota merits its name of "cloudy water," as does Wisconsin, with its many rapid streams that of "rushing channel." The appellation of Iowa, signifying "the drowsy ones" however appropriate to its original owners, is simply contradicted by the energy of the sturdy farmers who are fast peopling its endless plains. The name Missouri (muddy) has seldom been more justly applied than to the famous tributary of the Mississippi, which latter was styled with equal truth by the once powerful "Natchez," whose name still survives in that of a local town, "The Father of Waters."

Those who have travelled through Ohio can judge for themselves with what justice its Shawnee possessor called its river "the beautiful stream." Indeed the rivers of the various States have very frequently stood sponsors to the States themselves. Tennessee implies "the river with a big bend; Kentucky—Kaintukee—"at the head of the river ;" Kansas, "smoky water," which, with the French prefix, "arc" (bow), gives a name likewise to the adjacent State of Arkansas. Alabama, in the tongue of the Cree Indians, signifies "the land of rest." The name of Wyoming or "great plains," originally given by the Delaware Indians to the beautiful Pennsylvania valley traversed by the northern branch of the Susquehanna, has been transferred to one of the most noted States of the far west. Dakota ("alied,") was so called from the great confederacy of the North-Western tribes, better known by their generic name of Sioux. The Utahs, or Utes, gave their name to a Western State which has since become famous as the adopted home of the Mormons. The name of Texas, hitherto supposed to be of Spanish origin, proves to be the generic name of all the tribes inhabiting it, like that of Sioux or Iroquois. Indiana implies simply "the Indian country."

The titles of the other State tell their story, the Western names being for the most part Spanish in their origin, the Eastern either English or French. The State of New York was named after the Duke of York (afterwards James 11.) when taken from the Dutch by the English in 1664. Sir. George Carter, one of the original proprieters of New Jersey, marked his affection for the beautiful island of which he had been Governor, by giving its name to his Western possessions. Thomas West, Lord De La Ware, one of the earliest governors of Virgenia, stood sponsor to the State of Delaware. Virginia itself was named after Shakespeare's "fair virgin throned by the West," Queen Elizabeth. Another English queen. Henrietta, the wife of Charles I., gave titles to two States—Maine, from her native French province, and Maryland from her second name of Maria. Her royal husband was godfather to the Carolinas, as was George II. to Georgia, and Louis XIV. to Louisiana. New Hampshire was christened after the English county of that name ; and Rhode Island from its supposed resemblance to the famous island of the Levant, although some authorities derive it from a corruption of the word "rood" (cross). William Penn gave his name to Pennsylvania as its founder ; and the French complimented the beautiful hills of Vermont with the title of "Verts Monts," (green mountains), whence the Vermonters are still familiarly known as "Green Mountain Boys."

The traces of Spanish conquest are still visible in the titles of Florida (flowery), Nevada (snowy), Colorado (red), Montana (hilly). California is a much disputed title, its first appearance being in the Spanish romance of Esplandian, where it figures as "an unknown region of vast extent, inhabited by female warriors, black and terrible to look on." The recently incorporated territory of Nebraska takes its name from the Nebraska or Platt River, which traverses it from the north-west to the south-east. The derivations of Arizona, Idaho and Oregon are uncertain.

Of the other Indian appellations still in familiar use, only a few can be given within the limits of the present paper. Niagara, now a household word in every part of the earth, is slightly corrupted from Oni-aw-ga-rah, "the thunder of waters." The grandest of the Western valleys retains its native name of Yosemit (Grisly Bear,) while its most picturesque cascade is still called "Pohono" (the Wind Spirit.) The beautiful lake, which is the admiration of every traveller, has preserved its Indian title of Tahoe ; while the Potomac, Susquehana, Wabash, Missouri, Mississippi, Keuawha, Ouachita, Penobsdot, Suwanee, Cheyenne, Kennebec, Rappahannock, Saska Chewan, and a multitude of other rivers continue to retain their beautiful appellations, and to defy all the efforts of modern Vandalism

—If you want to know just what the world thinks you try to borrow a five dollar bill. That is the crucial test of public opinion and one that is likely to open your eyes unless you were born blind. If you are rich the world will take you at your own estimate of yourself ; but if you are poor it will put its own valuation on you. Not many people in this naughty world have five dollars worth of sympathy for any one.

IS YOUR LIFE WORTH 10 CENTS?

Sickness prevails everywhere, and everybody complains of some disease during their life. When sick, the object is to get well ; now to say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and its effects, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Heart Burn, palpitation of the Heart, Depressed Spirits, Biliousness, etc., can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this go to any Druggist in Belleville and get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two doses wil relieve you. d&w

The invigorating, Fattening and Nutritive properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime are such as would indicate its sufficiency to "sustain the body in the performance of its various functions," with the aid of but little solid food. Hence its superior remedial worth in the "Wasting Diseases of Childhood," the "Wasting Away," in those of "Consumptive tendency,"—in Consumption itself, as well as in General Debility, and all cases of Prostration and Emaciation. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle ; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly, "Deny it who can." It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer. It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time.

Pocket your prejudice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain.

The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge" of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price, 25 cents per Bottle.

The Trade supplied through the Wholesale Drug and Patent Medicine Houses of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London.

SOLD BY ALL ENTERPRISING DRUGGISTS.

Two spurious books, one entitled, "The Achievements of Stanley in Africa," and the other "The Complete Explorations and Adventures of Stanley" have been advertised. They are a rehash of Livingstone and other old books of African travel and of Stanley's letters. The first is the Original spurious book published in Philadelphia, written by T. J. Headley. CHAPTER XV.

MARK'S MISSION.

"You don't say so." It was Sheriff Lathers who spoke, as he did so putting his boots up on the mantel-piece, leaning back in his chair and spitting in the fire place—expectorating by way of facilitating the expression of his ideas. He never could say anything of great importance without stopping to spit, and his little clique of hangers on knew that when Major Tom Lathers thus loosened his mental machinery he was about to say something quite circular. It was the signal for general silence and intense attention on the humble-headed deputy and other interested disciples of the eminent and astute political philosopher, whose misfortune it was that he must repose his boots on the popular mantle-piece in the sheriff's office in Luzerne, rather than on the sofas in the United States Senate Chamber, for which last position of repose nature had clearly intended him. But while I have thus digressed, the philosopher has run his sharp grey eyes in a scrutinizing way around the circle of loafers, has rammed his flat into his pockets, opened and ed his intellectual brow, resumed his meditative stare at the fire-place, in which there are the charred relics of the last fire it contained, destined to remain until the next fire shall be lighted in the fall. And now he is ready to speak.

"Well, I'll be swinged !" Here he paused. Pauses of this sort whet people's appetites. He looked about him once more to be sure that he had now fairly arrested the whole-hearted attention of his devout followers.

"I didn't believe no ways, as Mark Bonamy would go, and he couldn a gone a step of the ole man hadn't a threatened him. Mark's one of this 'ere kind : you can coax him and tole him with a yer of corn, but jist try to drive him and he won't. 'Git up,' says you, 'I won't,' says he. 'Git up there,' says you, 'I'll be dogged of I do,' says he, and lets his heels fly and you keel over backward. I tried drivin' and tolin' last summer, and he kicked up every time I tried the spurs onto him. But he's goin' to Texas shore enough, they say. That'll wear out soon, and he'll be back here, like the prodigal son, eatin' swine's flesh with the rest of us."

Here he gave a knowing look at each of his auditors and received a significant blink in return.

Just at this point Mark Bonamy himself came in to attend to some business with the sheriff's deputy.

"Good-morning, Major," he said, half-conscious at once that he had interrupted some conversation about himself.

"Howdy, Mark ! Goin' to Texas, shore as shooting,' so they say !"

"Yes." This with some hesitation as of a man who would fain make an easy arrival with reserve lest he should want to creep out of it.

"Well, Mark," here Lathers paused, placed his feet on the mantel-piece again and again performed the preliminary rite of expectoration, "I do say that they aint many folks that gives up more'n you do in goin' away on a fool mission to convert the heathen. Now, Mark, it mayn't be a bad move after all. Texas is a staid republic, and you may come to be President there, like Joseph did in Canaan. Hey ! And Texas may be hitched on behind Uncle Sam's steamboat some day as a sort of a yawl. In which case look out for Mark Bonamy, United States Senator. It's better to be capt'm of a yawl than deck-hand on board the 'General Pike.' I don't know wether you're such a fool, after all. Joseph didn't go down into Egypt for nothing. He had his eye on the corn."

Here Lathers winked at the deputy's luminous nose, and then looked seriously at Bonamy. Somehow Mark, at the moment, felt ashamed of his mission, and was quite willing to have Lathers impute to him interested designs rather than to appear to the eyes of that elevated moral philosopher a man who was somewhat disinterested and therefore a fool. The real shameless and sensitive vanity, prone to change color with every change of surrounding.

Mark Bonamy was not yet a licensed preacher, nor even an exhorter, for his probation of six months had not expired. He exhorted in meeting by general consent, but as a layman. A glowing account of his abilities and of his missionary enthusiasm had been sent to Bishop Hedding, who immediately took him in his mind as suited to some dangerous role ; for Hedding looked upon him as a chess-player does upon his pieces—he weighed well the difference between a knight and a rook, and specially a piece with great powers and a mere pawn. The death of Dr. Martin Ruter had weakened the Texan Mission. In Mark, as described to him, he saw a man of force, who might in time prove of the utmost value to the church in that new republic. So he wrote to Mark, asking if he would proceed in the autumn to Texas and take a place as second man on a circuit of some five hundred miles around, with forty-seven preaching-places. The letter came at the right moment, for Bonamy had just returned from the great camp meeting in Moor's Woods, with all his religious enthusiasm and missionary zeal at white heat. He had recovered for the tenth time in six months his solemn consecration of himself to some great work, had made a public and penitent confession of all his backslidings, and resolved to grow cold no more. And of all his spiritual leaders none were wise enough to know and point out to him that this keying himself higher than his impulsive nature would bear was one of his chief perils. Reactions were inevitable while he continued to be Mark Bonamy.

But while he was thus, as Cartwright would have said, "under a shouting latitude," there came the letter from the great bishop like the voice of God telling him to leave his father's house, and to get him out into the wilderness to seek the lost sheep. Many a man gets committed to some high and heroic course in his best moment, often wondering afterwards by what inspiration he was thus raised above himself. Happy is he whose opportunity of decision finds him at highwater mark. Happy if he have stability enough to stand by his decision after it is made.

Mark was not without debate and hesitation. He might even now have faltered but for two things. The influence of Roxy and of his father alike impelled him to accept. As soon as the word came to Colonel Bonamy that Mark had received such a letter, he did his best, unwittingly, to confirm him in his purpose by threatening him again with disinheritance. It only needed to awaken the son's combativeness to give his resolution strength and consistency. Even the religious devotion of a martyr may gain tone from inborn opposiuancy.

Then there was the influence of Roxy. Her relation to Mark was only that of a confidential religious friend. He had had occasion to consult her rather frequently, sometimes when meeting her on the street, sometimes calling at her house. But how often does one have to remark that mere friendship between a young man and a young woman is quite impossible for any considerable time. There is no King Kanute who can say to the tide of human affection, "thus far and no farther." Mark's love for Roxy had ceased to be Platonic—he was not quite Plato. But how should he even confess to himself that he loved Roxy ! For loving Roxy and going on a mission to the Brazos River were quite inconsistent. A man was not supposed to want a wife to help him fight Indians, rattlesnakes, Mexican desperadoes and starvation. And to give up the mission for Roxy's sake would have been to give up Roxy also. He knew dimly that it was only in the light of a self-sacrificing hero that she admired him. Perhaps he unconsciously recognized also that this admiration of him on her part had served to keep his purpose alive.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Canadian Ships in France.

Previous to Hon. Mr. Tilley's departure from Quebec a deputation belonging to that city waited upon him asking him to endeavor while in England to secure the admission of Canadian-built ships into France on better terms than have yet been secured. They receive a promise in accordance with their desire. Quebec and St. John, Mr. Tilley's own constituency, are vitally interested in this matter, shipbuilding being the leading industry of both ports. France admits English ships on favorable terms under a commercial treaty between the two countries, but France does not interpret that treaty to include the colonies of England. There is no excuse for the distinction, since the Canadian tariff is not the same as the British, heavier duties being imposed by Canada than by Britain on French wines. Mr. Tilley will be in a position to ascertain what advantages France will require in exchange for free admission of Canadian ships, and it is not impossible that he will be able to modify the Canadian tariff so as to receive the boon desired from the French Government.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, NOV. 27.

Mr. Buckingham's Removal.

The Stratford Beacon is of course very angry at the removal of Mr. Buckingham, its former proprietor, from the office of Deputy Minister of the Interior and his translation to a position as first-class clerk in that Department, which position he formerly held whilst acting as Secretary to the ex-Premier,—so furious, in fact, that, like a mad bull, it rushes blindly, with true bovine stupidity at any object which attracts its attention. The style of its utterances on the subject in question may be judged of from the following extract, which forms the first portion of its article on the matter:

"That Grand Sovereign Bowell should have commenced his official career by dismissing Civil Service employees regularly appointed by his predecessors, simply because they were supposed to be Reformers, was not a very remarkable circumstance. There is a certain animal from which one expects nothing but a grunt, and a certain kind of Tory politician that may always be relied to do anything that is base, spiteful and malicious. In acting as he did, Grand Sovereign Bowell acted naturally. Had he pretended to deal honorably with Reformers in the service of the country he would have been guilty of the grossest affectation."

Now Mr. Bowell's sole offence against what the Beacon is now pleased to consider the rules which should guide Ministers in dealing with the employees in their Departments (though as we shall show it held differently when its friends were in power) was to cause the dismissal of a man appointed by the late Government, in the last day of its existence, to a position with a fair salary and no duties to perform. As that appointment was made against the expressed desire of the official under whose control the appointee would be placed—as the office will not be filled, and as a saving of $1,200 per annum will thereby be effected, what reason is there for the fury of our contemporary against the Minister who effected this saving—who had the courage and the honesty to prevent the fastening upon the public purse of one of those leech-like creatures who suck the very life-blood of nations? What would the Beacon have Ministers do? Would it have them allow the barnacles that were fastened to the ship of state by the late Government during its last hours cling there and grow fat at the public expense simply because they are "Reformers?" If that be the case, it will find that the Minister of Customs is not the stamp of man it admires, and we venture to say that he is prepared to do his duty to the country, even if such rabid Radicals as those of the Stratford Beacon characterize his action as "base, spiteful and malicious." Instead of applying these terms to the Hon. Mr. Bowell's conduct in this matter, the Beacon should take them to itself; for it is "base" in that journal to conceal the facts that M. Marchand was not dismissed because he was "supposed to be a Reformer," but because his services were not required, and that his salary was saved; it is "spiteful" to use the epithet "Grand Sovereign Bowell," as our contemporary very well knows that the Minister of Customs retired from that high and honorable office in June last; and it is "malicious" and contemptibly false to assert that Mr. Bowell will not deal honorably with Reformers in the service of the country.

But to return to Mr. Buckingham's case. The Beacon falsely terms the translation of that official a "dismissal," though had Mr. Buckingham been dismissed from the service, it would only have been in accordance with the most recent precedent we have in Canada—that set by the Mackenzie Government. Speaking before his constituents in 1873 on the subject of the appointments made by Sir John Macdonald, Mr. Mackenzie said:—"Anything more infamous, "I think, was never done by any governor "ment; anything more unjustifiable could "not be conceived." Sir, I will not waste "words upon this discreditable transaction. "History will speak with only one voice as "to its morality; and, sir, I look with "compassion more than anger upon the "men who could thus prostitute their position as members of Parliament." The general principle which ought to govern outgoing administrations was thus laid down by the Globe, which at that time was even more than afterwards the mere—nay rather the dictator of the Grit party:—"What "ought to be done is to establish as a prin"ciple—departure from which in any case "is an act of political immorality—that so "soon as an administration determines on "relinquishing the reins of power, its patronage ipso facto lapses."

Acting on this dictum, which the Globe expressed for him, Mr. Mackenzie dismissed dozens of the appointees of his predecessor in office and filled their places with his own friends. This too, be it remembered, in a case wherein the administration which made the appointment had no forfeited the confidence of the people and presumably commanded a majority in Parliament when the appointing power was exercised. This action was approved by the Stratford Beacon, which shouted forth its glee at the dismissal without cause of its political opponents.

Now, in a case in which a man appointed to office by an administration against whom an immense majority of the people had pronounced—a man whose well known partizanship would have rendered his continuance in the office to which he had been appointed embarrassing to himself, if at all delicate or sensitive, as well as to his chief, has been removed from that position and placed in another which is well remunerated, the Stratford Beacon speaks of the matter as a "dastardly outrage," and its fellow workers in the ruined cause of Gritism join in in the senseless howl. Perhaps, like the Player in Hamlet, they may feel the effect of their own declamation, but it is none the less artificial and theatrical for all that, as well as thoroughly inconsistent. Taking their own precedent into account, they have no ground of complaint as yet, the treatment of the late Government appointees having been of a merciful character compared with that which they meted out to the officials appointed by Sir John Macdonald in 1873.

One more reference to the Beacon's "blatant dirge," and we have done with the subject. As it begins its comments on the matter with falsehood and suppression of truth, it ends with the same disregard of these, the only solid bases for reflection on the actions of others, by saying:—

"Of course it was to be expected that the Tory organs would fabricate some excuse for this dastardly outrage. It is alleged that a saving has been effected by the dismissal. The statement is false. Another official has been appointed to Mr. Buckingham's place, and his place has been in turn filled. There has been no saving. When did a Tory Government try to save? It is also a falsehood to say that Mr. Buckingham was given his old position in the Public Works Department. At best it was but a mere clerkship and it is already filled. The Chieftain should not have instructed his lackeys to try to palliate this latest outrage by lying about it."

This concluding lie is worse than that which begins the article; for strange as it may appear to those indoctrinated with Grit ideas of "Tory extravagance," the Government has made a saving in the case of Mr. Buckingham, as well as in that of Mr. Marchand, the amount in the former case being $3,000 per annum, or a total saving in the two cases of $4,200 a year. Though this saving may be as nothing in the eyes of the Beacon and its co-laborers in the cause of Gritism, compared with the providing of snug berths at the public expense for faithful members of "the pairty," yet we apprehend that the public will view the matter in its true light, and give credit to the Ministers who relieve the country from the expense of maintaining useless officials, no matter what their political proclivities may be, or under whose regime they were appointed.

Political Notes.

Grip's latest cartoon pictures the hearty welcome of Canada to the new Governor and his royal wife, Sir John and Mr. Mackenzie playing the part of pages to Mistress Canada in her reception of the new arrival.

A preliminary objection was heard on Saturday, before the full Court of Common Pleas, in the Niagara election case. Thomas Hodgins, Q. C., appeared for the respondent, and Messrs. Christopher Robinson, Q. C., and O'Brien for the petitioner. It was a demurrer to the jurisdiction of the Court, and it was contended by Mr. Hodgins that the Dominion Parliament had acted ultra vires in giving jurisdiction to the Superior Courts of the Province of Ontario to try Dominion election petitions, it being within the exclusive powers of the Provincial Legislature to deal with the constitution, organization and procedure of the Provinces of B. N. A., section 91. Mr. Robinson contended that this Court was not sitting as the Court of Common Pleas, taking its jurisdiction from the Act, but that it was a separate and distinct Court specially constituted by the Act for the trial of Dominion election petitions, and of which the judges of the Superior Courts of the Province were constituted judges, and that it was clearly within the power of the Dominion Legislature to constitute such a Court under the B. N. A., Act, Sec 101. Judgment reserved. Decision in this case will govern the West Hastings and South Ontario petitions, to both of which the same objection is taken.

CANADA'S ADDRESS TO THE CAMPBELLS.

Thrice welcome, gracious Princess, thrice welcome noble Lorne.
May your stay with us be tranquil and glorious as the morn.
May your cars be never shocked at tales of Governmental jobs,
And may you discomfit the fools and flatly snub the snobs.—Grip.

ONTARIO BANK.—It is said that Hon. John Simpson is to retire from the Presidency of this Bank, and that Hon. W. P. Howland will take his place.

THE VICE-REGAL TRAIN.—It is stated that a pilot-engine will precede the Vice-Regal train from Halifax to Montreal, and that in order to guard against any possible accident, workmen will be stationed along the track about five to a mile.

BANK RETURNS.—Comparing the returns of the banks doing business in Ontario and Quebec by the return just published in the Canada Gazette, we find that the circulation during the past month has increased by $563,000. A slight decrease is shown in deposits, while on the other side the notes under discount and past due, debts secured and unsecured, are slightly less than in September. Altogether it may be considered a favorable showing.

CATTLE EXPORTATION.—A Toronto report says:—"The cattle and sheep sent from Toronto for England about two weeks ago were sold in Liverpool this week. A cable despatch says buyers from many of the chief cities in Britain attended the sale, and shippers realized handsome profits. The stock brought the highest prices paid in England, the cattle selling at an average of $125 per head, and sheep $15 per head. On Wednesday last the Toronto Export Company shipped 600 head of cattle and 2,000 sheep for Liverpool, by Quebec and Boston."

—A grocer in Quebec has an order from the Duke of Edinburgh for a small quantity of the best maple sugar.

News Condensed.

—A gang of expert burglars are operating in Montreal.

—Mr. Angus Morrison is again a candidate for the Mayoralty of Toronto.

—Hon. Senator Lacoste died at nine o'clock last night.

—The Bonapartist Deputy, Baron Deverbigen de Salat Paul, is dead.

—Mr. Sothern makes his last public appearance at Dublin, on the 7th prox., after which he will retire from the stage.

—The London Daily Telegraph's leader denies that there are dissensions in the British Cabinet.

—A Berlin despatch announces that on the Emperor's return the authorities intend to declare Berlin in a state of siege.

—The propeller Lake Breeze was burned to the water's edge at Leamington, Ont., on the 26th inst. A man named W. H. Bush was burned to death.

—Information has reached Quebec of the wreck of another schooner in the Lower St. Lawrence. Four men on board are supposed to have been drowned.

—Advices from Winnipeg states that the Pembina Branch will be completed and trains running to St. Boniface in about two weeks time.

—Henry Higgs, while picking up coal, was run over by an engine at Toronto on the 26th inst., and killed. His body was so mangled that the remains were gathered in a soap box and taken to the Morgue.

—Yesterday morning burglars entered the law offices of Ray & Bouthillier, Montreal, and carried off an iron box which contained lots of truth, it ends with the same disregard of these, the only solid bases for reflection on the actions of others, by saying:—

"Of course it was to be expected that the Tory organs would fabricate some excuse for this dastardly outrage. It is alleged that a saving has been effected by the dismissal. The statement is false. Another official has been appointed to Mr. Buckingham's place, and his place has been in turn filled. There has been no saving. When did a Tory Government try to save? It is also a falsehood to say that Mr. Buckingham was given his old position in the Public Works Department. At best it was but a mere clerkship and it is already filled. The Chieftain should not have instructed his lackeys to try to palliate this latest outrage by lying about it."

This concluding lie is worse than that which begins the article; for strange as it may appear to those indoctrinated with Grit ideas of "Tory extravagance," the Government has made a saving in the case of Mr. Buckingham, as well as in that of Mr. Marchand, the amount in the former case being $3,000 per annum, or a total saving in the two cases of $4,200 a year. Though this saving may be as nothing in the eyes of the Beacon and its co-laborers in the cause of Gritism, compared with the providing of snug berths at the public expense for faithful members of "the pairty," yet we apprehend that the public will view the matter in its true light, and give credit to the Ministers who relieve the country from the expense of maintaining useless officials, no matter what their political proclivities may be, or under whose regime they were appointed.

Political Notes.

Grip's latest cartoon pictures the hearty welcome of Canada to the new Governor and his royal wife, Sir John and Mr. Mackenzie playing the part of pages to Mistress Canada in her reception of the new arrival.

A preliminary objection was heard on Saturday, before the full Court of Common Pleas, in the Niagara election case. Thomas Hodgins, Q. C., appeared for the respondent, and Messrs. Christopher Robinson, Q. C., and O'Brien for the petitioner. It was a demurrer to the jurisdiction of the Court, and it was contended by Mr. Hodgins that the Dominion Parliament had acted ultra vires in giving jurisdiction to the Superior Courts of the Province of Ontario to try Dominion election petitions, it being within the exclusive powers of the Provincial Legislature to deal with the constitution, organization and procedure of the Provinces of B. N. A., section 91. Mr. Robinson contended that this Court was not sitting as the Court of Common Pleas, taking its jurisdiction from the Act, but that it was a separate and distinct Court specially constituted by the Act for the trial of Dominion election petitions, and of which the judges of the Superior Courts of the Province were constituted judges, and that it was clearly within the power of the Dominion Legislature to constitute such a Court under the B. N. A., Act, Sec 101. Judgment reserved. Decision in this case will govern the West Hastings and South Ontario petitions, to both of which the same objection is taken.

CANADA'S ADDRESS TO THE CAMPBELLS.

Thrice welcome, gracious Princess, thrice welcome noble Lorne.
May your stay with us be tranquil and glorious as the morn.
May your ears be never shocked at tales of Governmental jobs,
And may you discomfit the fools and flatly snub the snobs.—Grip.

ONTARIO BANK.—It is said that Hon. John Simpson is to retire from the Presidency of this Bank, and that Hon. W. P. Howland will take his place.

THE VICE-REGAL TRAIN.—It is stated that a pilot-engine will precede the Vice-Regal train from Halifax to Montreal, and that in order to guard against any possible accident, workmen will be stationed along the track about five to a mile.

POROUS PLASTERS.

IS THE BEST KIND.

This remarkable article contains all the valuable qualities of the slow acting common porous plaster, and in addition an entirely new combination of active vegetable ingredients from which it derives its wonderful pain-relieving, strengthening, and curative properties. It relieves pain almost immediately, and cures where other plasters will not even relieve. The manufacturers of Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster were awarded the highest and only medal of merit given for plasters at the Centennial, 1876. Your family physician will confirm our statement regarding its great merit.

For Lame and Weak Back, Kidney Disease, Rheumatism, Stubborn and neglected Colds, Lung and Chest Difficulties, The Lameness and Weakness peculiar to Women, Nervous Affections of the Heart, Chills and Fever, Sciatica and Lumbago, Diseases of Children, such as Whooping Cough, Colds and Croup, when applied in its early stages; and all Local Aches and Pains of Young or Old.

IT IS SIMPLY THE BEST REMEDY EVER DEVISED OR KNOWN.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER.

There is no other remedy so well adapted for the above class of ailments. No other remedy contains the same combination of medicinal ingredients. Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster is positively far superior to common porous plasters, and to all other external remedies including liniments, and the so-called electrical appliances. Its powerful influence is felt almost at the first moment of application. It gives relief, comfort, strength, and life to the afflicted. It is neat and convenient, also pleasant to wear, as it carries merely a sensation of gentle and stimulating warmth.

Caution

There are FRAUDULENT and WORTHLESS imitations of Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster in the market. One in particular, having a similar sounding name, contains lead poisons. Each genuine Benson's Capcine Plaster has the word Capcine spelled C-A-P-C-I-N-E. Take no other.

Sold by all Druggists. Price 25cts.

GOOD JUDGMENT.

WE have always noticed that Cash customers exercise the best and soundest judgment in buying. Hence the growing popularity of the

NEW BRITISH WAREHOUSE.

It stands to reason that any one who is always in the habit of paying cash for what they buy, can do better in a Cash store, where they are sure not to pay credit prices for what they buy, as is too often the case where cash buyers patronize credit stores. We are constantly receiving NEW GOODS EVERY WEEK, bought for cash, and the regular discounts taken advantage of.

We mark all Goods the closest figure that they possibly can be sold for, for cash.

ASKING ONE PRICE ONLY,

and we are satisfied that we are in a position to offer cash buyers advantages that cannot be surpassed in the market. Try the NEW BRITISH WAREHOUSE for your next parcel of Dry Goods.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, NOV. 27.

City and Vicinity.

THE CELLS.—There were but three inmates of the cells last night and all were tramps.

HORSES FOR ENGLAND.—A number of horses have recently been purchased in this part of the country for exportation to England.

WOMEN'S TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATION.—It will be gratifying to the friends of temperance in this vicinity to know that the Women's Temperance Association of Belleville is in a very flourishing condition, and is doing a good work. We understand the membership already reaches 900 members.

NORTH HASTINGS RAILWAY.—We understand that some of the Grand Trunk officials were to inspect the track of the Belleville and North Hastings Railway to-day, with the view of placing a regular mixed train on the road, to be run regularly, commencing next week.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.—It will be seen by ad vertisement that the subject of Dr. Jaques' lecture to be held to-morrow night will be "Professed Enthusism." It is an interesting subject, and the learned doctor will no doubt treat it thoughtfuly, ably and eloquently. We hope to see a large attendance.

HARPER'S PUBLICATIONS.—The prospectuses of Messrs. Harper & Brothers' standard publications, the Magazine, Weekly, and Bazar, appear in another column, whence information as to terms, &c. can be gathered. The publications in question are widely known, and it is only necessary to say of them that they are a credit to American enterprise, and are not excelled in the world.

OBITUARY.—We learn with regret that Mr. William Johnson, father of Messrs. William and J. W. Johnson, of this city, and of Mr. James Johnson, editor of the Kingston News, died recently at his home in Glenavey, Antrim, Ireland. The deceased had attained the age of 72 years, and was highly respected as a consistent Christian, in the locality in which he resided. The sympathy of numerous friends is extended to the relatives in their bereavement.

A SCOUNDREL PUNISHED.—We are informed that a young girl, daughter of Mr. Moxon, Conductor on the Grand Trunk, was on Monday night followed by a tramp, who attempted to outrage her when near her father's dwelling, which stands on the common to the north of the railway track, near the Canifton road. The young woman's screams were heard by several of the men employed at the station, who went to her assistance, and having caught the scoundrel, who failed to accomplish his diabolical purpose, administered a sound thrashing to him and let him go. It is a pity that he was not given into custody for punishment such as he deserves.

MORE PROPHESYING.—The weather prophets are at work again. They predict a big fall of snow in the last days of this month, and series of severe snow storms in December.

About the middle of next month there will be a break in the cold weather, a sort of lull, in which people can lay in ice. The snow will melt rapidly and cause damaging floods in many parts of the country. Then about the holidays a second series of storms will set in, accompanied by severe cold, which will last, with some short intermissions, well into February. The rivers and lakes will remain ice-locked until an unusually late period, and navigation will consequently be delayed. Now, all this is what the weather wise chaps say. About the first of April, anybody who cuts out this article, will be able to judge how near right they guessed.

FIRE AT CAMPBELLFORD.—A telegram from Campbellford, Nov. 26th, gives the following particulars of a fire : "The old Victoria Hotel of this place, owned by G. F. Willman and occupied by James Gibson, was entirely consumed by fire about two o'clock this morning, neither party having any insurance. Some of the furniture was saved. Total loss about $2,500."

THE NOVEMBER METEORS.—At the present time the earth is passing through the region along which lies the course of the family of meteors called the Leonides, sometimes familiarly known as the November meteors. When at this time of the year the meteor region thus traversed by the earth is densely strewn with meteors, there occurs a display of falling stars, one of the most beautiful and most remarkable of all celestial phenomena.

ST. ANDREW'S CONCERT.—Prof. Maitland, who is to take part in the St. Andrew's concert comes well recommended. We clip the following from the Hamilton Times in reference to the Professor, who recently sang at a concert in that city : "But probably the greatest attraction of the evening was Prof. Maitland of Guelph, and we never heard him sing so well as last evening. His reduction of 'My Ain Fireside' was simply splendid. His accent and the words of the song placed many an old friend in Scotland before his audience. He also sang 'A Man's a Man for a' that' with that stirring style and freedom of expression so popular in his rendering of Scotch Songs. Later on he sang, 'The Scottish Thistle' and 'Scotland's hills and dales.' It is unnecessary to say anything further of Prof. Maitland's singing. As a Scotch vocalist he has, and will always find, favor wherever he goes."

PERSONAL.—We had a call to-day from our old acquaintance and friend, Mr. BULL, formerly Secretary, of the Life Association of Scotland and now occupying the position of Superintendent of Agencies for the Canada Mutual Life Association of Hamilton. The Life Association of Scotland a short time since ceased doing business in Canada, which was the reason of his leaving the service of the Company. On that occasion Mr. Bull received letters from his Directors, referring to his services in the highest terms and deeply regretting the cause that separated them. In fact, there are few men in Canada who are more peculiarly adapted and qualified for the position he occupied, and we have no doubt he will be as successful in his new position as he was when in connection with the Life Association of Scotland. Mr. Bull is at present visiting this vicinity, and is accompanied by Mr. Wellington Boulter, the efficient General Agent of the Canada Mutual Association.

(Before A. DIAMOND, Esq., P. M.)

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 27.

ASSAULT.

Mary Harrison, for assaulting Mrs. Smith, was fined $1 and costs.

Another Fatal Collision.

SEVERAL PERSONS DROWNED IN THE RIVER MERSEY.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 26.—During a dense fog to-day a crowded ferry-boat crossing the Mersey collided with a ship at anchor. A panic occured on the ferry-boat, and several persons jumped overboard. Some account say six were drowned ; others say only two or three.

The Afghan War.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The Viceroy of India telegraphs that Dakka was occupied by the British on the 23rd inst. The Chief of the Lalpoorai came in and paid his respects. Supplies are coming in from all parts. The head men of the villages in the Khurd and Khyber districts have offered their services. The villages in the Jellalabad districts refuse to pay revenue since the flight of the Ameer's master-of-horse. The latter and General Gholam Haidar, commander of Fort Ali Musjid, escaped by the Chora pass. The Khyberees plundered the fugitives. Only one regiment escaped intact.

A Berlin despatch reports that the Russian Embassy to Cabul has gone to Herat.

It is stated that Lord Augustus Loftus, British Ambassador at St. Petersburg, will demand explanations of the speech by Gen. Kaufman when presenting a sword to Shere Ali at Tashkend.

BOMBAY, Nov. 26.—The Gazette reports that the Ameer upon hearing of the fall of Ali Musjid, released his son, Yakoob Khan.

LAHORE, Nov. 26.—It is believed that Browne will profit by the panic of the Afghans to seize the Khurd Cabul pass.

—Arthur Windsor, a brakeman, while coupling cars at Whitby on the 20th inst., was crushed to death.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—The Herald's cable despatches say that a British Courier passed through Berlin on Sunday en route to St. Petersburg. It is rumored that he is the bearer of an instrument to Lord Lofton to demand an explanation respecting the speech recently made by General Kauffman in presenting a sword to the Ameer of Aghanistan.

If Kauffman's action is not repudiated by the Government at St. Petersburg, serious complication is anticipated. Fears are entertained that the difficulty may lead to a general war.

Twelve thousand mill hands are on strike at Oldham. Large crowds walk the streets and their attitude is very determined but no disorder has yet occurred. The local papers which express sympathy with the masters have been burned in public houses. It is calculated that with the assistance of the trades unions the strike will last ten weeks.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 27.—Judge Rivers, of the United States District Court, has just concluded at Danville the trials of about fifty persons charged with illicit distilling and twelve were sentenced to the payment of a moderate fine and imprisonment for a short term. He said he consulted his feelings rather than his judgment, as he believed that slight punishments would be unavailing, but he was light in his sentence on account of the men's families.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 27.—The celebrated Titus-Dickey scandal was settled by compromise yesterday. Miss Dickey, a prominent belle, sued Titus, a wealthy young man, after his marriage, for seduction and breach of promise and obtained judgment, which he evaded by going into bankruptcy. Miss Dickey accepted $3,850 in settlement.

Washington specials :

The Tribune says that Indian Commissioner Hoyt's report states that the methods and management of both the office and the agency have been rendered more effective. Frauds have been discovered, and fraudulent designs thwarted.

A report repeats the details of the Bannock outbreak and charges the army with failure to disarm and dismount these discontented Indians, before their outbreak.

The report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue makes a most favorable showing of the efficiency of various collection districts, presented since the organization of the bureau. The losses from defalcations are trifling. The collections amount to about 113 millions or $1,000,000 more than the previous year.

Commissioner Roum argues against the decrease of the tobacco tax and does not recommend any change in the tax on spirits. During the year five revenue officers were killed in the South and thirteen wounded. The officers of the Government have been treated as if they were emissaries of a foreign and hostile nation, sent to impress and collect tribute. It is not only robbers and cut-laws who resist and attack federal officers, but those claiming to be among the best citizens sometimes take part. The Commissioner recommends Congress to pass a law making all who participate in resisting the revenue officers, guilty of murder, in case the resistance results in the killing of an officer.

The Times says that the general opinion of the members of the House now here, is that a determined fight will be made against the National banks, immediately upon the reassembling of the Congress.

The World says that the President has determined not to recommend any legislation on the subject of the silver dollar. He will deprecate the debased character of the coin, but at the same time he is of the opinion that further agitation of the currency question, which a change in the silver dollar would create, would be injurious to the best interests of the country.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—In the Vanderbilt will case yesterday, Judge Black intimated that the contestant was in possession of remarkable evidence which would be given in rebuttal if proponent persisted in his present line of testimony.

The will of Christopher R. Robert, a New York millionaire, leaves about one-fifth of his estate to the Robert College at Constantinople, which was founded by him.

Three cases of leprosy at the Charity Hospital, Blackwell's Island, are attracting much attention from the physicians.

Nash & Bro., dealers in agricultural implements have failed. Liabilities $60,000.

Ferdinand Blentje was convicted of manslaughter for killing Wolf Adams and sentenced yesterday to three years imprisonment. After the sentence the prisoner, who was very much moved, shook hands with Judge Davis and said "Judge, I'm much obliged."

Arrived, the St. Laurent from Havre.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Arrived, the Australia.

All the survivors of the Pommerania have left, for the continent this morning with the exception of three children, who are supposed to have been orphaned by the disaster. One of these is Martha Meller, aged 4, who says she is the daughter of a sea captain at Buenos Ayres. She is evidently the child referred to by a central news reporter, when he telegraphed it was lamenting Captain Schenken's wife had perished, her 4 year old child being saved, as well as several other children.

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 27.—Intelligence has been received from New Caledonia of a fresh massacre of colonists by the natives.

PESTH, Nov. 27.—Last night while M. Tisza, the Hungarian Prime Minister, was entertaining Count Andrassy and a number of the members of the delegations, a bomb exploded in the alley between the fortress theatre and the Minister's palace. The bomb had been charged with dynamite and the windows of the palace were shattered. Nobody hurt. There is great excitement.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 27.—At the lynching of the four negroes at Mount Vernon, Ind., on Oct. 11th, an old man named Harris, who was in gaol for the murder of Sheriff Thomas, was said to have been cut to pieces. It is now stated by a man who avows that he was connected with the mob, that Harris was taken by five masked men five miles into the country, tied to a stake and burned to ashes with indescribable torture.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—The Pennsylvania Coal Co., has issued a circular of prices of Pittston coal for December, deliverable at the Erie Coal dock, at $4 Weekawken as follows, per gross ton, standard grate and egg each $3 30 ; stove $3 85 ; chestnut $3.40 and small chestnut $3.10.

NEWBURYPORT, MASS., Nov. 27.—On Monday night while after herring for bait Moses Adams, of Grape Island Row, N. Y., Charles Perkins and Wm. Collins, of this city were drowned.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—The agents of the steamer Pommerania have received from Cherbourg a list of the passengers landed at that port on Monday, which comprises 22 cabin and 15 steerage.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27. — Commissioner Hoyt in his report says the statistics show a steady increase in the number of Indians engaged in civilized pursuits, the number brought under religious influences and the number attending schools. The result of a brief trial at the peace policy shows an overthrow of civilization of Indians may be reached through the education of their children and more speedily by that method than by any other.

ROME, Nov. 27.—The newspapers announce several assassinations in the Provinces. It is unknown yet whether they are political.

LAHORE, Nov. 27.—Gen. Roberts has reached Fort Mahommed Azim near Kurum Fort without meeting opposition.

OTTAWA, Nov. 27.—Six hundred cotton operatives have resumed work at the reduction. Others will probably follow.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—Baron Adelsward, Minister for Sweden and Norway in this city, M. Jean Pierre Napoleon, Eugene Chevandier Devalrome, the French statesman and M. Jean Francois Gatineau, late five years Senator from the Department Charente, are dead.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Nov. 26.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours : For the Lower Lake region, falling barometer, brisk to high northeasterly to southeasterly winds, cloudy weather, with rain and snow. For the St. Lawrence, increasing cold, to northeasterly winds and partly cloudy to cloudy weather followed by snow to-night. For the Maritime Provinces moderate winds, partly cloudy weather.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27. — Indications :— Warmer, cloudy, rainy.

The "Grain" of Butter.

When the butter has "come," and appears in little irregular masses, from a pin's head to a large pea in size, is the time to draw off the buttermilk and wash the butter in the churn. This removes most of the buttermilk. After being then gathered and removed from the churn, worked, washed and salted on the butter worker, at the proper temperature, we find upon breaking it, that it has a granular look. The mass seems to be made of little particles with a slightly glistening appearance. This is called the "grain." These small particles are partially kept apart by films of water, (after salting, this water becomes brine) and the peculiar texture thus imparted to the butter is a test of proper manufacture. Over-churn or over-work it, churn or work it at the wrong temperature, and the grain is gone, never to be restored; and with it is gone a large percentage of the selling value of the butter. Enough water (brine) must be retained to produce this appearance, which distinguishes butter from grease. Consequently the most perfect grain is obtained by washing in the churn before the butter is gathered.

Scientific Butter-Making.

The milk stands thirty-six hours before it is skimmed, and after that of the evening has been received, our Perdita, like an excellent clerk, fills out her return for the day. She has printed blanks which give the names of the cows as they stand in the stable. Two columns are ruled for morning's and evening's milk, and the weight of milk given by each cow is recorded as we have said. The disposition made of the whole quantity is then noted, and the dairy is charged with its proportion, when deductions have been made for the house, the families of the men, and the young calves. Such a report is filed daily, and so complete is the system that it takes only a few hours at the end of the year to tabulate a full statement of the 365 days.

The cream is strained or filtered, by which a thorough homogeneousness is secured, and without which it is impossible to obtain all the butter except by a second churning. The strainer in this instance is a cylindrical can divided into two compartments by double bottoms, the upper one having two tube-like sieves with conical mouths, into which two "plungers," worked by a pump-handle, fit. The cream is poured into the upper compartment, and the "plungers" force it through the sieves into the lower compartment, in which it arrives ready for churning. The churning is done twice a week, in a Blanchard factory churn, and, the temperature being 62°, the butter appears in about forty minutes. The next process is known as "working," which is altogether done by a machine, in quantities of thirty pounds at a time. The machine consists of a turn-table in the form of an exceedingly flat truncated cone and a conical grooved presser. Between the revolving cone and the presser the butter passes, and is crushed and crushed again until all the buttermilk is forced out of it, and discharged into a pail at the outside edge of the turntable. The crank that causes the revolutions is attended by an assistant, while Perdita herself supervises, dredging in the salt, and taking care that the work is not overdone.—W. H. RIDEING, in Harper's Magazine for October.

Hints and Suggestions.

SALT THE MANURE HEAP.—Dissolve common salt water, sprinkle the same over your manure heap, and the volatile parts of the ammonia will become fixed salts, from their having united with the muriatic acid of the common salt, and the soda thus liberated from the salt will quickly absorb carbonic acid, forming carbonate of soda: thus you will retain with your manure the ammonia that would otherwise fly away, and you have a new and important agent introduced, viz.: the carbonate of soda, which is a powerful solvent of all vegetable fibre.

FAIRS.—Attend the fairs, and not only attend, but help support them by taking something from your own farm. People cannot all be spectators on such occasions. Those who are most active in the support of fairs do the most good and are themselves the most benefitted. They learn more by taking a part than they would by merely looking on. Take a note-book and pencil and fill it with addresses of men you wish to visit or write to; also get numerous new and valuable ideas for future use on the farm, the grange or Farmers, Club, or at some future show. No farmer in these times can afford to stay away from the fair.

A GOOD MESS FOR A MILCH COW.—A writer who says that one good cow gives all the milk requisite for a family of eight persons, and from which was made 260 pounds of butter last year, gives the following as his treatment: "If you desire to get a large yield of rich milk, give your cow every day water slightly warmed and slightly salted, in which bran has been stirred at the rate of one quart to two gallons of water. You will find, if you have not tried this daily practice, that your cow will give 25 per cent. more immediately under the effects of it, and she will become so attached to it, that she will refuse to drink cold water unless very thirsty; but this mess she will drink most any time and ask for more. The amount of drink is an ordinary water-pail full each time, morning, noon, and night.

GRAPHITE PAINT FOR YACHTS.—Graphite is the best know conductor of electricity, it resists the action of acids and alkalies, is infusible at the highest heat, is not affected in the least by the air, fire or water, and hence its great value as a preservative paint. Applied to iron-work, it prevents rust better than any paint yet used. Applied to tin roofs, it not only prevents rust, but is almost permanent, lasting far beyond any known material. For roofs where the cistern water is used for drinking purposes, it is the only paint that is not injurious to health. Its natural color in paint is slate, and shingled roofs painted with it have every appearance of slate, and by applying three good coats the roof will be perfect for twenty years. The rain does not wash it in the least, the water going over it as if it was glazed, and for that reason it is applied to the bottom of racing yachts.

THE HEAVIEST BULLOCK KNOWN.—A correspondent of the Town and Country Journal, in reply to a question respecting a New Zealand bullock of prodigious size, says it turned the scale at 3,948 lbs., or 35 cwt. 1 qr. The following are his measurements:—Height, 6 ft. 1 in.; length, 11 ft. 9 in.; girth, 9 ft. 10 in., at belly, 10 ft. 11 in.; hocks, 2ft. 1½ in.; arm, 3 ft.; width across loins, 2 ft. 11 in.; yoke, 7 ft. 8 in. His age is eight years, and it is not likely that a larger-framed or heavier beast was ever produced south of the line. The largest heard of in Great Britain weighed 28 cwt., and took the first prize at Edinburgh in December, 1873.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately favored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disase. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemist, London, Eng." d&w

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly. "Deny it who can."

It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer.

It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets.

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammations, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time, (cooked your pea) for and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless internally to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge" of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it many a day.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price. 25 cents per Bottle.

"ROXY."

BY EDWARD EGGLESTON.

CHAPTER XVI.

AFTER THE MEETING.

On the Wednesday evening following Mark's reception of his call to go to Texas and his talk with Roxy, he would fain see Roxy. It was the evening of the prayer-meeting, and if he had been prone to neglect it, he would have found Roxy there, where else. But he had no inclination in his present state of mind to go away from the meeting.

The brethren had heard of the call to the mission, and most touching prayers were offered for his welfare and success. Mark himself prayed with deep and genuine pathos. Toward the last the minister called on Roxy to pray, and she who had been born full of the missionary spirit, who would have rejoiced to lay down her life for the lost sheep in the wilderness, who had been the source of most of Mark's inspiration, began to pray, not with her accustomed directness and fervor, but with a faltering voice. Tyrounet's fortune-teller had awakened in Roxy a sense of the weakness of her own feeling for Mark, and with this came a maidenly delicacy. She faltered, hesitated, picked her words, prayed in platitudes, until at last, after mentioning Mark only in the most general way, she proceeded to pray for those to whom he was sent. All the force of her strong nature found utterance in the cry of the lost, and when she ceased everybody was weeping. And when the brethren and sisters rose from their knees, the old schoolmaster in the "amen corner" started to sing:

"From Greenland's icy mountains;"

and as everybody sang it with feeling, Mark felt ashamed that he should ever have thought of any other than the call to the missionary. It were better to die of malarial fever among the rowdies and rattlesnakes of the Brazos River, than to live a thousand years in ease and plenty. And when at the close of the meeting the military notes of "Am I a Soldier of the Cross!" resounded through the old meeting house, Mark regretted that so much time would intervene before he could reach the field of labor.

In this state of enthusiasm he walked home with Roxy. And this enthusiasm lifted him almost to the height of Roxy's perpetual exaltation. They talked of that in which they both were interested, and it is strange that they were drawn the one to the other by their community of feeling! Mark did not even now distrust himself; he did not once imagine that there was any difference between his flush of zeal, and the life-long glow of eager unselfishness and devoutness that was the very essence of the character of Roxy. He could not distinguish between himself—thin comet that he was, renewing his ever-waning heart, first by the fire of this sun and then by the radiance of that—and Roxy, the ever-burning fixed star whose fire of worship and charity was within herself. But taking himself at the ultimate step of his journey, he rejoiced in having a friend worthy to sympathize with him, and when he parted with her, he pressed Roxy's hand and said:

"Oh, Roxy! if you were only going with me! You make me brave. I am better when I am with you. Think of the good we might do together. Some day I shall come back for you if you'll let me."

He held her hand in both of his, and he could feel her trembling.

His voice was full of pleading, and Roxy was in a flutter of mingled admiration, pity, and love. That this new servant of the Lord, taking his life in hand, casting ambition, friends, and property behind him, should appeal to her? She dared not speak and she could not pray. In a moment Bonanny had kissed her hand. A maidenly recoil seized her, she withdrew her hand, opened the gate and ran up the walk between the rows of pretty by-nights and touch-me-nots. It was not until she stood in the door with her hand on the latch string, that she turned toward her companion and said softly in a voice suffused with emotion:

"Good-night, Mark!"

And then she went into the house with her soul in chaos. Zeal, duty, and love, neither contented nor agreed. The scrupulous girl could not understand nothing. Pitying thoughts of Whittaker strove with her thoughts of Mark.

And that night she dreamed that he had set out to find the lost sheep that had left the ninety and nine and strayed in the wilderness, and Mark had set out with her. But ever they became more and more separated in the thore-thickets of Texas, until at last Mark left her to find him alone while he gave over the search. And the thickets grew higher and more dense, her feet were pierced with thorns, and her body exhausted with weariness. She saw panthers and catamounts and rattlesnakes and alligators and indescribable creatures of terror about her; they hissed at her and rushed upon her, so that she stood at last like pendulum and on through the dense brake, wondering whether the poor lost sheep were not already devoured. But at last she came upon the object of her search environed with wild beasts. Trembling with terror she broke through and laid hold on the far wandering sheep,—the monsters fled before her and the impregnable fold all at once inclosed her and the lost one. Then she discovered that the lost whom she had saved, was, by some transformation, Mark himself. And even while the Shepherd was commending her, while the trembling girl awoke.

"In my airly days," remarked the old man as he shoveled coal into the schoolhouse bin, "they didn't use coal to keep us school young 'uns warm, I kin tell you." "What did they use?" asked a boy near by. A sad, far-away look seemed to pass over the old man's face as he quietly responded: "Birch, my boy. Birch."

Nothing is more melancholy than to study many biographies and note—not the failure of early promise which may mean merely an aiming above the mark—but the progressive deterioration of character which so often follows grief and disappointment. If it be not true that most men grow worse as they grow old, it is surely true that few men pass through the world without being corrupted as much as purified.—Cornhill Magazine.

Annual Timber Returns.

The Ottawa Free Press says:—"Last year there passed through the South Chaudiere Slides 13,536 cribs of square timber, containing 321,906 pieces; 49 cribs of flatted timber containing 1,002 pieces; and 81 cribs of mixed timber containing 1,224 pieces. Totals for 1877—13,666 cribs, containing 324,232 pieces. In addition to the timber, 299 cribs of 3-inch deals, 12 cribs of hard and soft boards, 6 cribs of round cedars, and 13 cribs of dimension timber also passed through from Mr. Rochester's mill for the Carillon locks. For the current year the following are the returns:—8,595 cribs of square timber, containing 204,893 pieces; and 61 cribs of flatted timber containing 1,038 pieces. Total for 1878—8,656 cribs, 205,931 pcs. These figures show that there was a falling off in the quantity of timber taken to market during the season just closed, of a little more than one-third of that of the previous year. And it was well, for the market was glutted in 1877, and the effects of the over-production is still badly felt, as a good many rafts still remain at Quebec unsold. This winter only a limited quantity of timber will be taken out, lumbermen sticking more to logs, there being a fair demand for lumber."

The Oyster Trade.

From a statement recently prepared by the Ottawa Citizen, we learn that for the fiscal year ended the 30th June, 1878, the following were the imports of oysters: In shell, $11,514; in cans, $98,123; and in bulk, $94,371; or a total of $204,008.—These figures, of course, represent the first or wholesale cost of the "delicious bivalves," and as the retailers make a very handsome profit, the amount expended by the Canadian people for oysters may be fairly estimated at $275,000 to $300,000. All this money, it must be borne in mind, is spent for the benefit of the Baltimore and New York oyster dealers. The Citizen asserts that the oysters grown on the St. Lawrence shores are superior to the foreign article, and that there is really nothing against the Canadian oyster except an unfounded prejudice. If this be the case, we do not see why the supplies for the Canadian markets should not be obtained entirely from Canadian sources. The Canadian oyster trade, it is claimed, afford a splendidly remunerative field for the employment of capital and labor. This being the case, and oysters being more of a luxury than a necessity, we see no reason why these natural resources should not be turned to good account, and by the imposition of a reasonable duty on the foreign article, fully developed.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, NOV. 28.

Making Most of his Time.

The Montreal Gazette says :—"The manner in which Mr. Joly has gone about using the public patronage for the advantage of his party during his accidental and corrupted tenure of office, may be inferred from the number of Justices of the Peace appointed by him. From the 2nd March until the 10th November he has added no less than six hundred and forty-five to the list of magistrates in the Province, apportioned as follows :—

District of Montreal	128
" St. Hyacinthe	52
" Terrebonne	56
" Quebec	31
" Richelieu	33
" St. Francis	42
" Saguenay	19
" Joliette	19
" Three Rivers	16
" Arthabaska	17
" Ottawa	19
" Montmagny	12
" Beauce	16
" Gaspe	33
" Kamouraska	22
" Bedford	42
" Beauharnois	33
" Rimouski	3
" Magdalene Islands	6
" Chicoutimi	6
Total	645

We venture to say that there will be but one opinion upon the manner in which Mr. Joly has created Justices of the Peace : that it is calculated to bring the office into utter contempt.

Fair Play.

The Montreal Post having refused to retract the monstrous and utterly false accusation which it made against the Hon. Mr. Bowell, although called upon to do so, some Irish Catholic in this city, with the national love of fair play, has taken up the subject and publishes the following letter in the Irish Canadian :—

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 16, 1878.

To the Editor of the Irish Canadian.

Knowing that you are a lover of fair play to all I take the liberty of writing you these few lines concerning a paragraph which lately appeared in the Montreal Post, in speaking of the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, and which no doubt where he is not known, will create a very bad impression of that gentleman among our co-religionists.

Many of my co-religionists are pained to see in speaking of Mr. Bowell in the article to which I allude, that it was alleged that Mr. Bowell said he would bring 3,000 Orangemen to Belleville to have the Aylwards hanged. Mr. Bowell has many warm personal and political friends among the Roman Catholics of Hastings ; and I do not believe there is one single Catholic gentleman in Belleville would ever believe that he ever made such an assertion ; and I think it would be well for Catholic journals, before making such broad assertions as that, to be first certain of the correctness of the information before it is launched forth to the public. And when an assertion of that personal description is made, and afterwards found to be incorrect, it should be retracted at the first possible opportunity.

It seems to me to be very unfortunate that whenever an election takes place at Belleville the Conservative candidate, no matter who he is, is usually accused of saying some awful thing in connection with the unfortunate Aylward affair. This was done against the Hon. L. Wallbridge at last election, there being just about as much truth in it as in the allegations lately in the Post concerning Mr. Bowell.

These yarns are, in my opinion, got up not by Catholic people, but by others for a political purpose, and to be used among the Catholic people as a political dodge against the Conservative candidate ; and what there is or truth in them should be put down at once by all Catholic people of this country.

Although the poor unfortunate Aylwards were Catholic ; I was present at their trial, and in Belleville at the time of their execution ; and I never heard of any religious feeling agitated here at that time ; and I have always thought if the parties who now make so much talk about it, only interest'd themselves half as much in their affairs as before their execution as they have done since, they never would have been executed ; and I think it the grossest falsehood for any one to allege that either Mr. Bowell or Mr. Wallbridge made use of any such remarks at that time as above stated ; and I am certain all Catholics in Hastings, if even differing with these gentlemen, are pained to see them accused so wrongly in any Catholic journal.

I remain, Yours, &c.,
IRISH CATHOLIC.

THE LIVERPOOL COLLISION.—A cable telegram says :—"It is feared that fifteen persons were drowned by the collision of the ferry-boat with the ship in the river Mersey yesterday."

GREAT CEREMONIES.—"Great ceremonies are necessary," says the Railway News, "to get a train off in Germany. When all is ready a bell rings. Then another bell rings. Then the engine whistles, or rather toot toot toots gently. Then the conductor tells the station-master that all is ready. Then the station-master looks placidly around and says, 'So ?' Then the conductor shouts 'Fertig ?' interrogatively. Then the station-master replies 'Fertig !' positively. Then the conductor blows a horn ; the engine whistles ; the bell rings ; the other bell rings ; the station-master says 'So ?'—the passengers swear in various tongues—and the train starts. That is unless there is a belated fat man—in which case they do it all over again."

Political Notes.

The statement that the Canadian cotton manufacturers have increased their prices 17½ per cent, or about 1½ cents per yard, since the election is denied by the Guelph Herald, which says that on the contrary prices have been reduced. It says :—"The Herald has obtained some other wholesale price lists which show that the Victor Hudon Cotton Mills Co., whose mills are at Hochelaga, have made a similar reduction, that the Lybster mills have done the same, and that the Montreal Cotton Co. with mills at Valleyfield, the only Canadian makers of bleached cotton, have reduced their prices 1c. per yard. The assertion that an advance had taken place was made in the hope of creating dissatisfaction with the national policy. But a contrary result will ensue. The price lists of the four principal mills show that a reduction of prices has been made since the elections in September."

Sir John A. Macdonald has committed another outrage by spoiling a Globe sensation. That most carefully informed journal asserted that the Hon. M. C. Cameron's appointment as Judge had probably been cancelled, because the Conservative party could not afford to lose his services in the Legislature ; and that Mr. Cameron had been placed in a humiliating position. But at any rate the Conservative leader had again shown his "maldaroit propensity for blundering." Alas for the Globe's sensation ! Mr. Cameron was gazetted on Saturday, and now it turns out that the delay in the issue of the commisson was solely owing to the temporary absence of the Administrator of the Government at Halifax.

The Globe makes the following candid confession regarding the financial situation :—"Mr. Cartwright expected to remain in office after the late general election, and acted accordingly. Had he ventured to borrow so large a sum as is now required on the eve of a general election, he would have been denounced for doing so, the more especially as the bulk of the loan was not required for some time, thus entailing a dead loss on the country in the shape of interest. Had he proposed to go to London on such a mission after his party had suffered defeat at the polls, he would have been denounced in still more unmeasured terms, and justly so. He could, in fact, do nothing but what he did—wait till the appeal to the people was decided, and because he did this he is now berated for not doing the reverse." This is very good, so far as it goes, but the Globe might go a little further and give us a good old-fashion "Reform" opinion on deficits, such as it used to express in pre-confederation times.

News Condensed.

—The Manitoba Local elections take place on the 11th December.

—The Lt.-Governor of Quebec has issued his proclamation making the 4th of December Thanksgiving Day.

—Albert Clarke, of Kingston, wanted to commit suicide at Montreal, on the 27th inst., and was arrested and taken to the asylum.

—Intelligence has been received at Constantinople that a revolt has broken out in Kurdistan, and troops have been sent to suppress the disturbance.

—J. & J. Fenton & Sons, private bankers of Rochdale and Haywood, England, have suspended. Their liabilities in Rochdale amount to $2,500,000. The woolen trade is largely involved.

—Mr. Jas. Smart, proprietor of the Novelty Works at Brockville, who sent a most complete assortment of manufactures to the Paris Exhibition, has just received from the French Government the cross of the Legion of Honor,accompanied by a very flattering letter from M. Waddington, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

PUT BACK.—Information has reached Montreal that the Circassian which sailed from Liverpool last Thursday, has put back to that port with the small piston rod of her engine broken. Her mails will, probably, have been transferred to the White Star steamer, which sailed from Liverpool on the 20th, and her passengers to the Moravian, which sails to-day, the 28th.

DEATH ON THE RAIL.—A Toronto report says : The name of the old man killed by the northern train yesterday is Chas. Meager an eccentric and miserly man, who was possessed of considerable property in the city, but was so penurious that his wife would not live with him. His penurious habits led him to pick up his fuel on the railroad track, where he met with his death.

AROUND THE WORLD.—A postal card has been around the world from Chemnitz Saxony, in 117 days. The card contained six different addresses of the German Consuls at Alexandria, Singapore, Yokohama, San Francisco, New York, and that of the sender at Chemnitz, besides a polite request that the card be sent on without delay, and the exact time of receipt and despatch noted on the card ; an explanation of the circumstances of the case being at the same time given. These instructions seem to have been promptly fulfilled, and the card made its appearance again at Chemnitz, 117 days after it had been despatched, covered with the stamps of the various stations. It is stated that it would have gone around in 96 days, if it had been posted an hour earlier.

MORMONISM.—One of the most extraordinary features of Mormonism is its large annual increase of membership by emigration, which has been steadily kept up from the beginning. Inasmuch as every Mormon is taxed to the extent of one-tenth of his income for the support of the church, and as the rate of taxation does not decrease as population increases, it is for the interests of the priests and leaders to add to their numbers as rapidly as possible. Hence they are very active in their missionary work, for which purpose they long ago established a "Perpetual Emigration Fund," with which they charter steamers and railroad trains for the transportation of their new disciples, most of whom are moved to join by the hope of improvement in their wordly prospects. It is estimated that in 1890 the church fold will comprise three undred thousand persons.

ADDRESSES AND REPLIES.

(From the Star's Special Reporter.)

THE SCENE AT THE STATION.

HALIFAX, Nov. 27.—At the departure of their Excellencies the 97th and 101st Regiments were drawn up in line at the depot, and before the arrival of their Excellencies there were in waiting Lieut.-General Sir E. Selby Smythe, Captain Smythe, A. D. C., Mr. Domville, M. P., Sir Hugh Allan, Hon. Senator Aikens, Hon. Mr. Baby, Sir John A. Macdonald, Hon. M. Bowell, Hon. Mr. Masson, and other members of the Cabinet ; Hon. Mr. Beaubien and about thirty members of the press were also there, while immediately opposite their Excellencies' car were a number of naval officers and a bevy of ladies—a brilliant little group. The crowd was so great that a detachment of the 97th Regiment had to be called in to keep a pathway clear for the party, which arrived at the depot and left at the hour amid cheers again and again renewed.

THE SPECTACLE LAST NIGHT.

Some of the illuminations were exceedingly handsome, but the palm must be awarded to the North Street Railway Station. The day decorations were elaborate and handsome, but the illumination has exceeded anything it was supposed Halifax could show. The whole front was ablaze. From the flagstaff surmounting the centre or clocktower down to each of the side towers were strings of colored lights. Across the front of the three towers large colored lights were ranged. The gothic arch at the main entrance was lit up across the front of the building. On the left was the Argyll Arms, and below the Marquis of Lorne ; in the centre the Arms of Great Britain and the motto "Welcome," and on the right the Arms of the Royal Princess.

AT TRURO

TRURO, N. S., Nov. 27.—The Vice-Regal party expressed themselves much pleased with the Pullman palace cars and the Intercolonical road, and they may well have done so, as the arrangements by Mr. Brydges were complete. Comfort is depicted on every face, and the Princess Louise looks bright and happy in a greater measure than has yet been noticed on her. Her Highness took an affectionate leave of her royal brother at the dockyard at 10 o'clock, and there were at that point Admiral Inglefield, Lady Inglefield, Lady Macdongall and a large number of ladies and officers of the navy. On the arrival of the party at Truro was presented to Lord Lorne, to which His Excellency replied as follows :—

AN ADDRESS

Mr. Mayor and Gentlemen,—It was a sincere gratification to me to find that the arrangements made for our journey from Halifax would allow our remaining sufficiently long at your town to accept at your hands the address you have now presented. The loyal and dutiful manner in which you speak of your affections for our Sovereign, and the friendly and sympathetic words in which you allude to our coming among you, increase our pleasure in hearing from yourselves the assurance you have been pleased to give, as we observe with joy that your community is one in which progress is due to the manly and energetic character of its members, and we trust that the neighborhood of the railroad may confirm and extend the prosperity of your town. We have been welcomed with true heartiness at the great sea-port of Halifax and as we pass up the country it is pleasant to hear the good wishes there expressed repeated at towns inland, and to observe that the loyalty towards the British Crown is as conspicuous in every region as is the justice and impartiality in government which it represents.

(Signed,) LORNE.

THE MARQUIS AND THE PRESS.

ELMSDALE, N. S., Nov. 27th.—At different stations along the route crowds had gathered, and as the train flew past, cheers resounded [illegible] His Excellency came into the press car, and the members of the press were presented to him. After shaking hands with THE SUN representative he inquired from him as to the comfort of the party, and had quite a conversation with the representative of the London Standard, Mr. O'Shea. The press then gave three cheers for His Excellency as he left the car, and having acknowledged the compliment he left the car.

AT ATHOL.

The Royal train arrived at Athol, twenty miles from Amherst, at 2:50 p.m.

(From the Mail's Correspondent.)

MORE WAYSIDE DEMONSTRATIONS.

BATHURST, N.B, Nov.27.—The train reached here at 9:15 and left at 9:23. A salute of twenty-one guns was fired and a large bonfire was burning on the station grounds. About 2,000 people were present.

CHARLO, N.B., Nov. 27.—The train passed here at 10:37. There was a great display of torchlights and bunting at the station.

CAMPBELLTON, N.B., Nov. 27.—About three or four hundred people assembled to witness the arrival of the Royal train. There was a bonfire and an illumination around the station buildings and on Sugarloaf Mountain. Three cheers were given for the Princess Louise and the Marquis. The train arrived at 11 and left at 11:10.

STOPPAGE FOR THE NIGHT.

METAPEDIA, Que., Nov. 27, midnight.—The train remains here for the night. The journey up to this point has been an almost continuous line of bonfires and cheering at the several stations passed. The Marquis and Princess, notwithstanding that special preparations had been made for their entertainment in a private car, expressed a wish to dine in the hotel car, where a dinner was served equal to the best obtainable at its celebrated New York namesake.

The Governor-General and all his suite are loud in their expressions of the appreciation with which all arrangements have been made for their comfort. Some amusement has been caused on board by reading in the Montreal papers that objection is taken to the number Ministers who have come down to meet his Excellency. It is now generally known that her Majesty's wish was intimated that the new Governor should be sworn in at Halifax, and as many Ministers as possible should be present on the occasion.

GOOD JUDGMENT.

WE have always noticed that Cash customers exercise the best and soundest judgment in buying. Hence the growing popularity of the

NEW BRITISH WAREHOUSE.

It stands to reason that any one who is always in the habit of paying cash for what they buy, can do better in a Cash store, where they are sure not to pay credit prices for what they buy, as is too often the case where cash buyers patronize credit stores. We are constantly receiving NEW GOODS EVERY WEEK, bought for cash, and the regular discounts taken advantage of.

We mark all Goods the closest figure that they possibly can be sold for, for cash,

ASKING ONE PRICE ONLY,

and we are satisfied that we are in a position to offer cash buyers advantages that cannot be surpassed in the market. Try the NEW BRITISH WAREHOUSE for your next parcel of Dry Goods.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, NOV. 28.

City and Vicinity.

ADVERTISEMENTS FOR THE ALMANAC.—Those who have contracted for Advertisements in the INTELLIGENCER FAMILY ALMANAC, are requested to send them in at once to the office.

SCHOONER SEIZED.—It is stated by the Oswego Palladium that the schooner Annie Mulvey, owned by her master, Capt. Jackman, has been seized by E. W. Rathbun & Co.

NEW CHURCH.—We learn, says the Napanee Standard, that the Presbyterians of Mill Point are moving in the direction of building a new Church. The village will then be well ornamented with churches.

THE ALLAN LINE.—The winter plan of sailings from Halifax of the first class steamers of this line is advertised in another column. Several charges have been made in fares and otherwise, for which the reader is referred to the advertisement.

A RELIC.—A small stone weapon, shaped like a pick-axe, was ploughed up a few days ago on the farm of Mr. Row, lot 4 in the 3rd concession of Sidney. The article was evidently of Indian manufacture, and seemed to have been made with much skill and care.

THE EXTRAORDINARY SEASON.—As ye we have had little really cold weather this fall. The grass still holds its delicate green, and frost has not yet penetrated the ground an inch. Notwithstanding the immense apple crop, this most important of our fruits is not going to be so cheap and plenty as some days ago a month ago. Frost has invaded both the apple and potato bin this season.

TO-MORROW'S CELEBRATION.—The sons of "auld Scotia" will to-morrow celebrate the anniversary of their patron Saint with the usual enthusiasm. They will assemble at the Marble Hall, and thence proceed, headed by their pipers, to St. Andrew's Church, where the annual sermon will be preached by the Rev. Alexander Turnbull. All Scotchmen and sons of Scotsmen, and members of the sister societies, are invited to take part in the procession.

LITERARY AND MUSICAL.—The ladies of the congregation of St. Andrew's Church are to have a soiree and literary and musical entertainment in the Metropolitan Hall on Thursday evening of next week, December 5th. The literary and social events in connection with St. Andrew's Church are always pleasant, and we have no doubt that the forthcoming social will be quite as enjoyable as those which have preceded it. Tea will be served at 7 o'clock.

COMPLIMENTARY.—We understand that Sargt. Major Taylor, of the Queen's Own, Toronto, who has been instructing the city companies of the 49th in their drill, is to be entertained at supper at the Dafoe House to night, prior to his return to Toronto. Sargt. Major Taylor is an able drill instructor, as is proved by the rapid progress of the Companies here whilst under his charge, and well deserves the compliment which is to be paid him to-night.

THE CELLS.—Now that numbers of tramps, many of whose persons are in the most filthy condition, are nightly lodged in the police station, the stench arising from the cells has once more become almost unbearable. The nuisance was to have been abated during the summer now past, by the removal of the cells; but for some reason the plan was abandoned. It certainly is to hoped that another year will not be allowed to pass without decisive action being taken in this matter.

"PROFESSIONAL ENTHUSIASM."—This is the subject which the Rev. Dr. Jaques has chosen for the lecture which he is to deliver in the City Hall to-night, under the auspices of the Mechanics' Institute. The subject affords a fine field for illustration, comparison and instruction, and that the Rev. lecturer will handle it ably and in a practical style there can be no doubt. We hope to see the attendance commensurate with the importance of the occasion and the ability and popularity of the lecturer.

THE BARLEY TRADE.—The Oswego Palladium of the 26th says:—"The receipts of barley from Canada since August 20 to date have been 2,650,762 bushels, against 3,539,285 bushels for the corresponding time last year, showing a deficiency this season of 882,523 bushels. About 120,000 bushels of barley were on the canal yesterday from lake ports for tide water, all but one boat load having been shipped from Oswego. The receipts of new crop barley at tide water to the 23rd inst. were 2,506,000 bushels against 4,232,000 in the same period in 1877. Deficiency this season 1,726,000 bushels."

THE SCOTTISH CELEBRATION.—The entertainment which our Scotch friends have arranged for to-morrow evening promises to be one of rare excellence. In the musical department there are Miss Barr, who made a very favorable impression on her appearance here some years ago at a concert given by Prof. Whish; Mr. Maitland, of Guelph, and Mr. J. L. Morrison, of Toronto, who are both spoken of as able vocalists, besides which several local amateurs of ability will lend their aid. Messrs. Mathieson, Henderson and Robertson are the finest Highland dancers in the Dominion, and we can therefore safely conclude that the entertainment will be of the most popular character, and at the same time thoroughly in keeping with the occasion.

THANKSGIVING DAY.—To-day being thanksgiving day in the United States, no American despatches have been received.

LAID UP.—The schooner Wm. Elgin is now being stripped and will be laid up here for the winter. The other vessels so far laid up here are the steamer Kincardine, the tug John Bright and the schooner Florence.

RE EAST HASTINGS ELECTION PETITION.—In Common Law Chambers, Toronto, on the 27th, before Judge Armour, Mr. Osler, Q. C., for respondent, obtained a summons to take the second petition off the files as not having been served within the five days after filing, limited by the statute.

DANGEROUS.—The police should see that the light placed to mark the excavation in front of Mr. Ashley's new building on Front Street is kept burning during the night, otherwise a disastrous accident may take place. On Tuesday night the light in question had either not been put in its place or had gone out, as a buggy containing two gentlemen was upset by being run on a heap of debris, which could not be seen. Both were considerably injured, though fortunately not dangerously so.

BENEFITS OF ADVERTISING.—M. Monier, the chocolate manufacturer, is one of the wealthiest men in France. He is one of the few Frenchmen who have appreciated the benefits of advertising. One day a man told him he liked his chocolate, but it had one fault—it grew white as it grew old. Menier saw a great point. Next day the papers announced, "Le chocolat Menier—the only chocolate that grows white as it grows old." Thousands have since bought it for this great and peculiar merit. Menier's daughter has married a nobleman, and he has built himself one of the finest houses in the city—a veritable palace.

HINTS ABOUT WATER.—An exchange gives the following valuable hints: No water that has stood in open vessels during the night should be used for drinking or cooking. By exposure to the air it has lost its "aeration," and has absorbed many of the dust germs floating in the apartment. If convenience requires water to be kept in vessels for several hours before use, it should be covered, unless the vessels are tight. Wherever practical, all distributing reservoirs should be covered. Filtering always adds to the purity of water. Drinking water should not be taken from low level. Surface water, or waters in lakes, pools, or rivers which receive the surface wash, should be avoided as much as possible. Do not drink much water at a time. More than two tumblers full should not be taken at a meal. Do not drink between meals unless to quench thirst, as excess of water weakens the gastric juice and overworks the kidneys. Excessive potations, whether of water or other fluid, relax the stomach, impair its secretions, and paralyze its movements. By drinking a little at a time all injury is avoided.

THE EGG TRADE.—Says a contemporary:—"The exportation of eggs is fast becoming one of the staple industries of Canada. Over a half million dollars' worth have been shipped to the States this year, besides large quantities to England. The bulk of this trade is done in the fall, when the eggs which have been in a pickle of lime and brine, are taken out, dried, and carefully packed in bran, oats or chopped straw. If the pickle is properly made they come out fresh and sweet. There is one person in the business who put about 200,000 eggs down in this way in the spring and is now busy sending them off. Sometimes during the summer they are barrelled and shipped at once. Belleville, Simcoe, Seaforth, St. Mary's, Woodstock and other towns are engaged in this business. Collectors go about among the farm wives and those interested in the poultry yards look forward to the egg buyers' visits, and it becomes a paying industry for all concerned. There is no farm pursuit more adapted for boys and girls than the care of poultry, and when it is seen that the produce is in such demand it should encourage them to go into this profitable business."

THE TARIFF HAND BOOK.—A work which has long been needed in Canada has at length made its appearance. We refer to the "Tariff Hand Book," by Mr. John Maclean a well known writer, who has made the subject a special study, which has just been issued by the Rose Belford Publishing Company. There are very few who do not frequently desire a thoroughly trustworthy reference book for facts regarding the customs tariff of Canada and other countries, and this want is fully supplied by the work under notice, which contains a large amount of information in small compass. The following contents give an idea of the scope of the work:—Introduction; Prohibitory French Duty on Canadian Ships; Tariff Changes in Canada—A Review of Thirty years—1849 to 1878; Tariff of 1859—Old Canada; Dominion Tariff of 1868; Present Tariff—Official Copy of Schedules; Present Tariff—Alphabetically arranged; Sugar Duties—Canada and other Countries, with review of 30 years' changes in Canada; Tea and Coffee Duties—Legislation of 1872 and 1874; Canadian Excise Duties; Great Britain—Customs Duties; Great Britain—Excise Duties; United States Tariff—Schedules in full—Comparison of Canadian and American Duties, in parallel columns—Principal Imports into the United States, with actual percentage of Duties on Values—U. S. Internal Revenue Taxes—U. S. Rates of Drawback on Exports—American Tariff on Woollen Goods—Memorial of Yorkshire Chambers of Commerce; Reciprocity—The Draft Treaty of 1874—Memorandum of Negotiations—Hon. Mr. Brown's Speech in the Senate, Feb. 22, 1875; Extracts from French Tariff (General); Various European Tariffs—Extracts from French Tariff, under British Treaty—Extracts from Tariffs of Germany, Holland, Belgium, Italy, and Switzerland—Table of Foreign Weights, Measures and Money; Addenda—Canadian Imports and Exports—British Import Duties on Iron for 147 years, 1679 to 1826. OBSTRUCTING THE STREET.

Indebtedness of the County of Hastings.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—At the meeting of the County Council this month, Mr. Peck, Deputy Reeve of Thurlow, brought up the question of the County's indebtedness, when by his showing he made out the debt to be about $330,000.

In this sum I believe he included $82,699, the amount used from the sinking fund in 1866 and up to 1878. But this sum should not be added to swell the County's indebtedness inasmuch as we do not owe it, we had only spent what we had laid aside to redeem the common debt.

Being quite unwell at the time I did not give much heed to the remarks that fell from those who spoke on the subject, nor would I now do so but for the fear that a wrong impression may be made on the minds of the rate-payers and others outside of the County. I desire therefore to give as nearly as I possibly can the true position of the affairs of the County at the present time.

The population outside the City of Belleville is 45,000. It was by the census of 1871 41,049, and it is but fair to believe, when taken in connection with its former growth, that 45,000 is within bounds.

What was our real indebtedness at the close of 1877? As shown by the audit it was $234,000. From this sum deduct the amount held by the County in debentures of various municipalities for which the moneys had been advanced out of the sinking fund, amounting to, with Dominion stock, $49,899, or say in round numbers $50,000, it would leave the real amount of our indebtedness at the close of 1877, as $184,000.

This sum divided over 45,000 of a population, amounts to a trifle under $4.09 cents per head. The interest on the $184,000 at 6% per cent average, will amount to a trifle under 25½ cents per head, or $11,960.00 per annum.

The actual value of real and personal property outside of Belleville, cannot be less than $20,000,000, and in my estimation that is a low figure. Our equalization is $11,937,000, upon which sum we levy our taxes.

What have we got to show for the amount of our indebtedness? Viz.:

1st. County grounds and buildings	$ 50,000
2nd. 200 miles of free gravel and stone roads, which at a low average are worth $1,000 per mile	200,000
3rd. 200 and over, of free County bridges, many of the bridges are very costly, average at low estimate $500	100,000
	$350,000
It will be seen by this that deducting our indebtedness	184,000

We have in permanent improvement $166,000

In all nearly $2 for every dollar of indebtedness. In the above I have not brought in the County Roads outside of Gravel Roads, and they are numerous, on which for the last few years we have granted upon an average $5,000 per year, which roads are being steadily and slowly put in shape to eventually become gravel roads. I will not now bring the worth of these roads into the account. Should I do so, it would largely increase the value of our County property.

This year the income and expenditure will be nearly equal. It is, however, a difficult thing to provide at the June session for casualties on our County Roads and Bridges, which constantly require attention, and this year has been a peculiarly hard one on our gravel road. The last winter and spring left them in a bad state, while the wet season, and the constant drawing of heavy loads of wood, lumber and grain, has severely tested many parts of the road, and caused extra repairs.

As Chairman of Gravel Roads I found the for extras not provided for, and repairing damages caused by the freshet, we had only exceeded the estimates by $317.31, and the Committee made a further appropriation o $240 to repair late damages in order to prevent the County being put to cost.

Take the repairs on two hundred miles of gravel road, at $68 per mile, would amount to $11,600, and we have spent $11,557.31. Will any one pretend to say that an average cost of $58 per mile is too much to keep up our gravel roads, or for the repairs of bridges, averaging 200, that $32.50 is on the whole too much for an outlay? Then every bridge has not been repaired within the year. Some new bridges have been built, and all needing repairs have been attended to; and I think no rate-payer who travels over our County roads and bridges ought to complain of want of economy in the expenditure of their taxes, and the rate-payers must be prepared to pay the necessary outlay as may be required from year to year, or cease to have good roads and bridges.

The great fault that the Council has committed in years past and gone, is that the June session has not made sufficient appropriation to keep up the repairs on the gravel roads and bridges, and give a fair amount to build during the past week September and October at 9c. This is the last weekly market for the season.

The Fattest Man in the World.

The London Lancet announces as the champion heavy weight, Mr. Wm. Campbell, of New castle on Tyne. He weighs over 52 stones (728 lbs.); is six feet four inches high, measures round his shoulders 96 inches, round the waist 82 inches, and round the calf of his leg 35 inches. He is only 22 years old. It is with difficulty that he keeps his present low weight. He was brought up a printer, but his size compelled him to discontinue all labor. Until recently corpulency has been considered a natural condition, but since, by the use of Allan's Anti-Fat, a sure reduction of from two to five pounds a week is effected, it is believed to be a disease. If Mr. Campbell would use the Anti-Fat, which is a good harmless vegetable remedy, for twelve months, he would be reduced to a respectable working weight. For particulars, ask your druggist, or address Botanic Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE AFGHAN WAR.

CAPTURE OF FORT KURUM.

AFGHANS FLEETING IN FEAR

LAHORE, Nov. 27.—A special says Fort Mohammed Azim, otherwise called Khurum Fort, was occupied by the British troops this morning. The Afghans fled to Peiwar, at the northern extremity of the Khurum Valley, where they are expected to offer resistance to the further advance of Gen. Roberts. One dismantled gun was found in the Khurum fort.

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—It is thought that the speech of Gen. Kaufman, at Tashkend, in presenting a sword to the Afghan envoy for transmission to the Ameer, was made, if at all, previous to the signature of the Treaty of Berlin.

In this Present Age, when the lifebattle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the strongest the tug and stress of it tell so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for the keeping up of our reserve stock of nerve-tonic, physical stamina by the use of such a nerve-tonic and vitalizing agent as ROBINSON'S PHOSPHORIZED EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH LACTO-PHOSPHATE OF LIME! Its gently stimulating and nutritive-tonic properties supply the materials, and assist Nature in her efforts to keep up with the exhaustive demands upon her reserves. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N. B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

International Dairy Fair.

An International Dairy Fair is to be held in New York on the 2nd of next month, and efforts are being made to make it of as much service as possible. The following was read by the Secretary:

The International Dairy Fair, which opens at the American Institute in this city on December 2nd, and continues for one week, represents an interest of marvellous growth and vast importance.

The production of butter and cheese as specialties began in the eastern part of this State scarcely thirty years ago; thence it extended northward and westward until it has become the leading industry of the State. In Pennsylvania the best counties are devoted to dairying; the northern part of Ohio makes it a specialty; several counties of Michigan, all of northern Illinois, the best sections of Wisconsin, portions of Iowa, give almost exclusive attention to making butter and cheese. Colorado has established several cheese factories, and California within ten years has changed from an importing to an exporting State in those articles. Fifteen years ago Chicago merchants obtained their supplies of cheese from the east, while at the present time one hundred millions of pounds pass through that city for New York markets. Canada within a brief period has become our competitor in the English markets to the extent of 80,000,000 lbs. yearly; while she formerly bought from us. With the exception of the States mentioned and a few counties in Vermont and New Jersey, the remainder of the United States buy more than they produce. The entire South is supplied from this city and the west.

The value of the land and cows in the United States employed in furnishing milk, butter and cheese is not less than $1,300,000,000, or the sum of nearly half the national debt, at its highest point. Over three thousand factories are engaged in the manufacture of these articles, and tens of thousands of private dairies besides; more than one-quarter of each are in this State. One manufacturer in Western New York State has over forty factories; others in different sections have from five to thirty each. Different firms in this city handle from two to three million dollars worth of butter and cheese annually. The production of cheese is estimated at 350,000,000 pounds per annum, and of butter about 1,500,000,000, of the former 120,000,000 pounds will be exported this year, and about 25,000,000 of the latter. The value of the two is about $350,000,000, or $50,000,000 more than the wheat crop of the country, three time more than the oat crop, four times more than the potato crop, one-seventh more than the hay crop, one third more than the cotton crop, and but one-fifth less than the corn crop. The number of cows in the United States is over 13,000,000; which is six times the number in Great Britain, over two and a half times more than in Prussia, over twice the number in France, and more than all the countries of England, Ireland Scotland, Wales, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Russia, Finland, Austria, Hungary and Switzerland combined. Although these countries together contain four times the population of the United States. The proportion of cows to the inhabitants here is twenty-three to each one hundred persons.

The productions of cheese and butter have increased thirty-three per cent. this year, and are increasing at the rate of three million yearly.

The cheese and butter exported this year have paid freight to the amount of over $1,000,000 to the ocean commerce of this port, or a sum almost sufficient to support a line of weekly steamers. These articles pay to the railroad companies over $5,000,000 annually for transportation, and the article of milk pays nearly as much more. Loaded on railway cars, ten tons to each car, the butter and cheese produced in this country in one year would fill 22,000 cars, and make a compact line 135 miles long.

At the International Dairy Fair are to be displayed cheese factories and cream-eries in practical operation.

The entries of butter and cheese, each of which is over 200 pounds in weight, last summer nearly 1,000, whose single packages will reach 1,000.

The display of blooded dairy cattle will be one of the largest ever made. The specimens of dairy implements and machinery will be of exceeding interest.

Hints About Horse-Bits.

A writer in a German contemporary strongly counsels horse-owners who value the health of their animals to banish from their harness-rooms all bits but straight ones of the simplest possible construction. Through a long series of years he found, from practical experience, that powerful young horses frequently fell off in condition without any appreciable cause, their food being plentiful and of the best quality, and no symptoms of general ill-health being apparent. On searching carefully for the cause of this state of affairs, he found in nearly every instance, that the horses' tongues had been more or less injured in consequence of the employment of curved, jointed, hinged, or otherwise complicated bits. The sensitive and tender condition of so sensitive an organ as the tongue, necessarily prevented the animals doing justice to their food, and short rations with the usual amount of work, naturally led them to a loss of condition. Unfortunately the mischief generally escapes until it is tolerably far advanced.

When churches and nations are brought out of Egypt, they do not see the long years and wanderings that are before them ere they arrive at their inheritance of freedom and peace. The well of Marah and waters Meribah would terrify them; and yet those have all their lessons of faith and fortitude which qualify God's people for conquering the land of their birthright. From the time Christ took men in hand to instruct them, he has been acting on this principle: "I have many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now."

What is commonly known in good society as "popping the question" is proceeded with in a large variety of ways according to temperament and opportunity. Sometimes it seems to be very easy of accomplishment, and then again very difficult. The shadow of a cypress tree or a moonlight walk or a sleigh ride is eagerly seized by lovers as affording them the chance to get over their tremulous uncertainty. The Scotchman's method, however, was more unique than any we have heard of. The kirk was out, and he said, "Mary, wad you be tak a turn?" They walked through the graveyard, inspecting the various inscriptions, until at last they stood by the lot where Sandy's family were buried. He took her hand in his and said, "My fowk lie there, Mary—wad ye like to lie there yersel?" She concluded that it was as good a resting place as any and so married into the family, and in due time was buried among Sandy's "fowk."

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London, Eng." d&w

Dr. Wm. Gray's Specific Medicine

The Great English Remedy is especially recommended as an infallible cure for Seminal Weakness, Spermatorrhœa, Impotency, and all diseases that arise from the Secret Habits of Youth, as a sequence of Self Abuse, as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature old Age, and many other diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a Premature Grave, all of which as a rule are first caused by deviating from the path of nature and over indulgence.

Dr. Wm. Gray's Specific Medicine is the result of a life study, and many years of experience in treating these special diseases. Pamphlet free by mail.

The Specific Medicine is sold by all Druggists at $1 per package, or six packages for $5, or will be sent by mail on receipt of the money, by addressing

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly, "Deny it who can."

It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on this "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer.

It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, carrying all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in Back, Pleurisy, Stiff Neck, Pain in Shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Protect your property too and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain. The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge" of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has effected, and, we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your house, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price. 25 cents per Bottle.

The Trade supplied through the Wholesale Drug and Patent Medicine Houses of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London.

SOLD BY ALL ENTERPRISING DRUGGISTS.

THROUGH THE DARK CONTINENT.

THE Sources of the Nile; around the Great Lake of Equatorial Africa and down the Livingstone River to the Atlantic Ocean.

BY HENRY M. STANLEY.

With portraits of the author, two large route maps and numerous others, and 147 illustrations from photographs and sketches by Mr. Stanley, prepared expressly for this book. In one volume, demy 8vo., over 1,000 pages, cloth, $4.75.

The magnificent maps, two being 26 x 32 inches, enable the reader to follow every step of Mr. Stanley's wonderful journey.

THE PUBLIC ARE CAUTIONED

that the only book giving the complete history of the travels, explorations, important discoveries, and thrilling adventures of Mr. Stanley in Africa during 1874-1877 is now published, under the title which appears at the head of this advertisement as the Canadian COPYRIGHT EDITION.

Two spurious books, one entitled, "The Achievements of Stanley in Africa," and the other "The Complete Explorations and Adventures of Stanley" have been advertised. They are a rehash of Livingstone and other old books of African travel and of Stanley's letters. The first is the Original spurious book published in Philadelphia, written by T. J. Headley. The second is an inferior copy of the first. Both have mostly old illustrations. See that you get the genuine work written by Mr. Stanley. Each copy in cloth has a cut of the continent and the world "Africa" stamped on side.

"ROXY."

BY EDWARD EGGLESTON.

CHAPTER XVII.

A REMONSTRANCE.

After her visit to the millinery and mantua-makery of Miss Moore, Mrs. Hanks debated with herself what to do. She could not consult Jemima, for Jemima belonged to the enemy. But upon debating various plans she resolved to see Roxy herself. She was Roxy's aunt, and the aunt ought to have some influence with the motherless niece, she reasoned. She was a little ashamed to go to Roxy now, it was so long since she had entered the old log-house which sheltered her childhood in the days when the wandering Indians still traversed at intervals the streets of the new village of Luzerne. But then she had been busy with her own children, Roxy ought to make allowance for that.

These explanations she made to Roxy when she made her call on the next day after the prayer-meeting. She couldn't come before. And then Roxy was so steady that she did not need any looking after. It wasn't every girl that could keep a house as clean and do so much for her father. All this talk troubled Roxy. She was simple-minded and direct, and any lurking suspicion of ulterior purpose in her aunt's words, and the consciousness of having something to conceal troubled her.

"I understand, Roxy," she said at last, "that you've had one or two beaus lately. Now you know that I'm in the place of a mother to you, and I hope you won't do anything about marrying without consulting me."

Roxy bent over her sewing and grew red in the face, Mrs. Hanks interpreted this flush of indignation as a blush.

"I suppose you are already engaged," she said with an air of defience, "I don't think you ought to treat your mother's sister in that way. I was told that you were engaged to Mr. Whittaker. I must say that I don't think it the best you can do."

"I am not engaged to Mr. Whittaker or to anybody else," said Roxy, giving way to her rising anger, and breaking her needle. "I wish people would mind their own business."

"Well, Roxy, I must say that is not a nice way to treat me when I come to give you advice. If I can't talk to you who can?"

Roxy's sense of injury and neglect, which she thought she had conquered by prayer, all revived now, and she bit her lip.

"I tell you plainly, Roxy, that if you marry Mr. Whittaker you'll get a cold Presbyterian that thinks he's a real heart a milliner, she was also a member of the Presbyterian church, and in those days of polemical animosities a small and somewhat beleaguered denomination held closely together.

"I thought I'd run over, Mrs. Highbury, and ask you about the caps to your bonnet. How long do you think it ought to be?"

Mrs. Highbury had a habit of leaving such things to the superior judgment of the milliner. For the milliner to throw the decision back on her, was like asking her to solve a problem in geometry. So the plump, well-fed little lady sank down in her arm-chair and began rocking herself so energetically to and fro in her delight that she almost tilt backward. Her mind was exhausting itself in thinking how impossible it was that she should ever decide what should be the length of a piece of rose-colored silk at the base of a scoop-shovel bonnet.

"I declare to goodness, I don't know, Miss Moore." Here Mrs. Highbury opened her fan, and began to set it in motion more vigorously and cheerfully than before. "Did you see the one that lady from Cincinnati had on at church, on Sunday?"

Of course, Miss Moore had noted every bonnet in the church. She was such a heathen as not to make the most of her "Sabbath and sanctuary privileges." But she did not reply to Mrs. Highbury's question. For here was the opportunity she had sought. It was a dangerous leap from the cape of a straw bonnet in church to the parson's love affair, but there might not come a better opportunity.

"Yes; but now you speak of church, reminds me. Did you notice any change in Mr. Whittaker's appearance on Sunday?"

"No, I didn't. Why?"

Miss Moore felt her superiority now.

"Did you think he had the look of a man just engaged to be married?"

"You don't tell me Mr. Whittaker's going to be married," cried the stout little lady, forgetting to rock and allowing the toes of her shoes to show him.

"Well, I don't say anything about it. I've heard something of the kind."

"Who to, for goodness gracious sake?"

"Well, that's a delicate question, especially in view of my peculiar circumstances; I suppose I ought'n't to say anything."

Miss Moore was human, and she knew that so long as she had a secret which curious Mrs. Highbury did, that lady was her humble servant.

"Yes; but you must tell me," pleaded Mrs. Highbury. "Mr. Whittaker ought not to marry without consulting the session. And if he consults the session I will know, I suppose. You can't keep secrets between man and wife."

"Very likely. But you know with me it's a sort of a family secret. Not exactly a family secret—here Miss Moore tittered and stammered. "Well, you know I didn't mean to let my secret out, but I suppose everybody knows it. I never did see such a horrible town for gossip as this is. They won't let anybody's private affairs alone." Here Miss Moore's face reddened, and she smothered a girlish giggle.

Mrs. Highbury suddenly leaned forward so as to bring her heels on the floor, and began to fan herself again.

"Why, Rachel Moore, what've your family affairs got to do with Mr. Whittaker's marrying? He is going to marry you? You're too old—I mean you are already engaged to Mr. Adams, they say. What do you mean? Don't be so mysterious, or folks'll think you've lost your senses."

"I believe I have," said Miss Moore, and she burst into another fit of laughing, while the aristocratic little dumpling rocked away again for dear life. Rocking was her substitute for thinking.

Miss Moore's habitual propriety and gravity soon came to her rescue, and she attempted to explain to Mrs. Highbury that by "family secret" she meant to allude —che-he—to the family — che-he— with which she was to become the—che-he,—or rather that Mr. Whittaker was not going to che-he—marry her,—but that it was some body else who was going to be a che-he-he —that is, he was going che-he-he-he-he.

Poor Mrs. Highbury did not know whether to laugh or get angry, and, being in doubt, she took a middle course—she rocked herself. Her round face had a perplexed and injured look, as she waited for Miss Moore to explain herself.

"I do believe that I am che-he-he-ho," said Miss Moore.

"I know you are, Rachel. Why can't you control yourself and tell a straight story? Who is Mr. Whittaker going to marry; you, or your mother? You say its in your family."

"My mother! Oh! che-he-he. Not my mother, but my che-he-he."

"Your che-he-he! What do you mean?"

"Not my che-he mother, but my daughter che-he-he.

"Your daughter! Why, Miss Moore you ought to be ashamed of yourself."

"I don't mean my che-he daughter, but my che-he-he-he-hoo!"

By this time little Mrs. Highbury was also laughing convulsively and screaming between her fits of laughter.

"What is—what is che-he! what is your che-he-he?"

"My che-he—my che-he step-daughter that is to be."

Mrs. Highbury grew sober and began to wipe her eyes.

"You don't mean Roxy Adams?"

"Yes, I do."

Mrs. Highbury shut her pretty mouth tight. She didn't know whether she approved or disapproved of Roxy Adams. How could she tell what she thought until she heard Mr. Highbury's opinion. For Mrs. Highbury's role was that of echo. It might be that Roxy Adams would make a good Presbyterian. It might be that she would corrupt the church. She would wait until her husband spoke. Then she would give him back his own opinions with emphasis, and tell her friends that she had "told Mr. Highbury so." People were certain that the little Mrs. H. had great influence with the big Mr. H.; turned him round her little finger.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, NOV. 29.

"Cheapening Knighthood."

The following sentence forms the commencement of an editorial in the Globe on the 29th inst. :—"It is rumored that the "Mayor of Montreal is to be knighted, "and that the honor is to be awarded at "the suggestion of Mr. Mackenzie Bowell." This is a lie, without the slightest foundation in fact or even in probability, and we ask the Globe to contradict it as prominently as it has given currency to the absurd falsehood.

The Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec.

A good deal of speculation has been indulged in, since the defeat of the Mackenzie Government, as to what course the present Government will pursue in reference to the coup d'etat made by the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec in dismissing his advisers to make way for his party friends. This is owing to the fact that the Premier, after a most admirable speech in Parliament on the subject, placed on record in a formal manner by way of resolution, his condemnation and that of the Conservative party, of the partizan conduct of M. Letellier de St. Just.

The matter forms the subject of editorial comment in the St. John, New Brunswick, Daily News, which journal is distinguished above all other Reform newspapers in Canada for the moderation of its tone and fairness towards its political opponents. The News says :—

"The Conservative journals of the Province of Quebec are crying aloud for for the dismissal of Lieutenant Governor Letellier for his action in expelling from office the DeBoucherville Cabinet. The cry is raised by English and French Journals alike, and is probably concurred in by the great majority of the Conservative electors of Quebec.

"The demand is not an unnatural one. M. Letellier's coup d'etat last spring had a maddening effect on those politically opposed to him.

"His course has been defended by men of some note and authority in matters constitutional, as lying within the limits of his constitutional discretion. But by most men of sense and candor that course is admitted to have been hazardous, injudicious and of dangerous tendency, sure, if established as a precedent, to be freely followed by Dominion Lieutenant Governors generally, to involve the country in serious political disaster.

"Then, it cannot be denied that the Federal Government is empowered by the Union Act to dismiss Lieutenant Governors for cause—which, however, must be submitted to the judgment of Parliament. Nevertheless we trust that the Macdonald Government will not bring the head of the erring Governor to the block. The power of dismissal is, we think, wisely vested in the Crown, or practically in the Crown's constitutional advisers. But like some other powers so vested, it should be exercised only in great emergencies, in extreme cases of public necessity. It would, we think, be difficult to show that any overpowering necessity exists in this case. It might be well for Parliament to express an opinion on the coup d'etat, as suggested by Sir John A. Macdonald last spring. Were this done Mr. Letellier would probably resign. But resignation is one thing; dismissal is quite another. We shall not, however, be surprised Mr. Letellier have the measure meted out to him which he in an evil hour dealt out to Mr. DeBoucherville."

This is very fair from an opponent of the Government, and the calmness of our contemporary's suggestions entitle them to candid consideration. That the matter will be dealt with during the coming session we have no doubt, also that the decision of Parliament will be generally concurred in even should they take the strong step of requesting the resignation of an official who, led by partizan zeal, effected a political revolution for the time being in the second Province of the Dominion. M. Letellier has sinned most grievously, and we hope that he will not escape justice, though as his is the first case of the kind, it may in this instance be tempered with mercy.

—The Bishop of Toronto is in such a feeble state of health as to necessitate his abstaining from all work. The Bishop of Algoma will assume His Lordship's active duty.

THE VICE-REGAL PROGRESS.

Reception at Rimouski and River du Loup.

(From the Montreal Witness.)

RIMOUSKI, Nov. 28.—This morning the Governor-General and the Princess rose at eight o'clock, and took a short promenade on the platform at Metapedia. The scenery that met their eyes was very romantic. The village nestles under the shadows of the surrounding hills, intersected by the Metapedia river, along whose side runs the railway. The hills have now lost their bright green which makes them fresh and pleasant looking in spring, and the gorgeous tints which make them resemble paintings in autumn, and are bare but picturesque. The bracing air had the effect of giving an appetite to H. R. H. the Princess. At eight o'clock the engines with the Press car arrived from Campbellton, and the two started off together. The course followed the Metapedia river and lake through a country picturesque in the extreme, although now carpeted here and there with snow. The two engines, throwing out dense clouds of smoke and steam as the train whizzed along at forty to fifty miles an hour, hid much of the scenery from view. In addition, the snow-sheds obtrude themselves on the lovers of scenery, but still enough was visible to show the rugged beauties of this region. The Governor and Princess, as at other meals, breakfasted with the suite without ceremony. The press correspondents are enjoying themselves in their car the "Clifton," with the exception of Mr. Stillman, of the New York Herald, who is ill from over-work and excitement. Dr. Tupper has prescribed for him.

It is curious to note the ideas entertained by English and foreign correspondents of Canada, as judged by the huge wraps they have brought with them, composed of the thickest wraps and heaviest fur. The weather they have so far experienced appears to have astonished them. At St. Flavie Lieutenant-Governor Letellier, his aide-de-camp, all his Cabinet, and Col. Strange got on the train, and immediately on its starting paid their respects to the Governor-General. A new feature of the population became apparent here. About two hundred habitants were gathered in the station, which was decorated with the following singular motto: "Honor and glory to Their Excellence the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise," "Their Excellence" was in the largest type and "Her Higness" very small. The people were singularly undemonstrative, but stood watching with much interest. At Rimouski about four hundred people were gathered. The were received by a band and a company of infantry stationed on the platform, and a salute was fired. An address was delivered in the station room, which was handsomely decorated. His Excellency made a complimentary reply, referring to the fact of it being the first address in Quebec he had received.

RIVER DU LOUP (en bas), Nov. 28.—The reception at Rimouski was very amusing. About four hundred people assembled on the platform, where a company of infantry was stationed. The vice regal train was received with cheers, the band playing "God Save the Queen," and a salute was fired from two guns stationed in a field near by, and which never would go off when wanted. At the station was Bishop Langevin and Hon. Hector Langevin. A room in the station had been decorated, and the Governor was presented with an address, to which he replied. There was great cheering, and the reception on the whole was very successful. The address and reply were in French, in which both the Governor and Princess are proficient. The Governor's pronunciation and accent are good. At this place the Quebec Cabinet got off the train. They had come in a special car to St. Flavie, expecting that it would be attached, but the train passed on leaving it and their baggage behind. The scenery continues very beautiful and the weather has grown considerably warmer than in the morning. The day is a magnificent one. The Princess is in good spirits, and enjoying the journey. She is dressed as yesterday.

Addresses were presented at St. Thomas and Kingsey, and at every other station on the road loyal demonstrations were made.

At Montreal.

ARRIVAL OF THE VICE-REGAL TRAIN

A Loyal Welcome to the Marquis and Princess.

(By Telegraph.)

MONTREAL, Nov. 29.—Montreal is in reality en fete this morning, the streets from an early hour have been crowded with citizens and strangers who have come out to view the decorations. A light frost during the night has made the streets passable, and since yesterday a complete transformation in the appearance of the city has taken place. It would seem as if the inhabitants had been busy all night, and not without effect, as the decorations are on a scale of magnificence unequalled in the past. The finishing touches are being given to the arches, three in number, on the route of the procession, and both in design and finish they are a credit to the city. The public buildings will be gorgeously illuminated, no expense being spared by the corporation and public bodies to make the welcome to the Vice-Royal and his illustrious partner be memorable in the history of the city. Store keepers and private citizens are not illuminating extensively, but very many will exhibit tasteful and appropriate transparencies and mottoes, bidding the august strangers a hearty welcome.

The train with their Excellencies is not expected before nine o'clock. The ticket holders for seats at the depot are already (eleven o'clock) beginning to take up their places.

MONTREAL, Nov. 29.—Although the half-holiday proclaimed by the Mayor does not commence until 12 o'clock, yet the people are out in such dense masses since morning that it is evident most are making a day of it.

At 11:30 the line of intended procession from the depot to the Windsor Hotel is densely packed with humanity of all classes, ages and sexes, who are brimful with enthusiasm and who will give a right royal reception to the daughter and son-in-law of their beloved Queen. The military are on the qui vive taking up their assigned positions and the air resounds with martial music from numerous bands. As the time approaches for the vice-Regal party to arrive, the excitement intensifies in a marked degree.

MONTREAL, Nov. 29.—Punctually at twelve o'clock the train with the Vice-Regal party arrived at Bonaventure station, which was crowded with the elite of the city to the number of 3,000 or 4,000 persons. The fair sex predominated.

The enthusiasm of the assemblage manifested itself in the most cordial cheering as the Governor General and Princess proceeded to the Vice-Regal throne at the east end of the building.

The interior had been fitted up in the form of a square, with the throne forming one side. In front were collected the members of the corporation in full dress, wearing rosettes and headed by the Mayor in his scarlet robes.

On their approach the distinguished visitors were met by His Worship, who presented the Princess with a magnificent bouquet. Their Excellencies immediately ascended the throne, when the Mayor read the city address.

EVADING THE DUTY. — Some farmers near COWANSVILLE, Quebec, clubbed together, and sent over the lines $100 worth of Turkeys for Thanksgiving Day, but evaded paying the duty of 10 per cent. The consequence was the turkeys, with horses, waggon &c., were confiscated by the U. S. Customs authorities.

RELEASE OF FENIANS.—A despatch from London on the 28th says :—"O'Conner, the convicted Fenian confined at Spike Island, has been notified that he will be released immediately, on condition he resides outside the Queen's dominions. Kelly, another Fenian, will probably shortly be liberated on the same terms."

CARDINAL CULLEN'S SUCCESSOR.—A cable despatch from Dublin on the 28th says :—"The parish priests and canons of the Diocese of Dublin to-day voted for a successor to Archbishop Cullen. The Most Rev. Dr. McCabe, auxiliary bishop of the diocese, received 43 votes; the Most Rev. Dr. Patrick F. Moran, Bishop of Oascry, and Right Rev. Dr. Woodlock, rector of the Catholic University of Dublin, one each."

VALUABLE, IF RELIABLE.—The following from the Journal of Health will be worth preserving in every family if the treatment recommended can be depended upon to produce the results claimed for it, and is at least worthy of a trial:—"There is scarcely an ache to which children are subject so hard to bear and difficult to cure as the ear-ache, but here is a remedy never known to fail. Take a bit of cotton batting, put upon it a pinch of black pepper, gather it up and tie it, dip it in sweet oil, and insert it in the ear. Put a flannel bandage over the head to keep it warm. It will give immediate relief."

SHOCKING RAILWAY ACCIDENT.—Intelligence has been received from L'Anse a Giles, L'Islet, to the effect that the down train to River du Loup on Wednesday morning, which had on board the Lieutenant-Governor and local Ministers on their way to meet the viceregal train, ran over and cut to pieces a habitant, who happenedto be crossing the track in his cart when the locomotive whistled, causing the horse to rear and jump and throw him off. The horse and cart got safely off the track. The name of the victim could not be ascertained. His remains were picked up and placed in a bag by the conductor of the train.

THE QUEBEC CABINET.—A Montreal telegram of the 28th says :—"The National of to-day states that the number of Ministers of the Provincial Government is to be diminished by abolishing the office of Solicitor-General, and that the Hon. Mr. Chauveau, the present occupant of that office, will be made Commissioner of Crown Lands, and the Hon. Mr. Langlier, now Commissioner of Crown Lands, will succeed the late Hon. Mr. Bachand as Provincial Treasurer. The chief reason for the abolition of the office of Solicitor-General is that the Government will not risk opening another constituency, which would be rendered necessary by the taking into the Cabinet of a new Finance Minister. The Government will therefore be carried on by the five gentlemen who now compose it and there will be no successor to the late Hon. Mr. Bachand."

The North Ontario "Observer" of last week reports several cases in which H. Belden & Co., Alias publishers, sued to recover for County Atlases subscribed for by the defendants. The defences set up were varied, some claiming that they subscribed their names for influence, others that they were promised a County Directory in connection, giving the Post Office address of every resident of the County. The Judge gave judgment for the Pl'ff's in every instance for the amount of their claim and interest, and decided that verbal arrangements made by the agent could not vary the written contract, and were not binding on the Company. d&wlt

We understand that an offer has been made to the Ladies' of the M. E. Church, to buy up all the Tickets issued for the Dinner on Thanksgiving Day. Of course this is a speculation by some enterprising individual. The offer, however, was declined.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, NOV. 29.

City and Vicinity.

POLICE.—Nine tramps and two prisoners occupied the cells last night.

MAY FISK'S BIJOUXES.—This company will give a performance at the Opera House on Tuesday evening.

BELLEVILLE vs. COLEMAN.—In this case judgment has been given in the Court of Queen's Bench confirming the award.

REMINDER.—The St. Andrew's Society's concert and Highland entertainment will take place at the Opera House this evening.

FIFTEENTH BATTALION.—A regimental order has been issued requiring the men of this Battalion to assemble at the armory each Monday evening at 7:30 for drill.

POSTPONED.—The lecture which was to have been delivered last night by the Rev. Dr. Jaques, has been postponed until Thursday, the 12th of December.

ADVERTISEMENTS FOR THE ALMANAC.—Those who have contracted for Advertisements in the INTELLIGENCER FAMILY ALMANAC, are requested to send them in at once to the office.

MISSION FUND.—Members of the Church of England are reminded that next Sunday (being Advent Sunday) the collection for the Mission Fund of the Diocese will be made in all the churches.

ASHORE.—The Kingston News of yesterday says:—"The steamer Armenia ran ashore on Amherst Island last night, and assistance was asked from this city." She was got off last night.

NORTH HASTINGS ELECTION.—Mr. O'Flynn's expenses in the North Hastings election campaign amounted to $92.69, all of which appears to have been incurred for expenses of canvassers and livery.

TEA MEETING.—A thanksgiving tea and ladies' aid sale is to be held in the Bleecker Street C. M. Church on the night of Thanksgiving Day. See the advertisement for particulars.

ST. THOMAS' CHURCH.—Mr. Northcott, the contractor, is pushing forward the work which he has undertaken in connection with the restoration of this sacred edifice. A considerable number of men are employed on the work, and a large quantity of timber for the roof has been delivered on the ground.

PASSED.—We are pleased to learn that W. A. Dafoe, M. D., Gold Medallist, Trinity College, Toronto, has passed the examination before the Royal College of Surgeons, Edinburgh, and received the degree of L. R. C. S., also that before the Royal College of Physicians, Edinburgh, receiving the degree of L. R. C. P.

SYNOD OF ONTARIO.—The meeting of the Church of England Synod for the Diocese of Ontario, which was to have been held in Kingston, commencing on the 3rd of December, has been postponed indefinitely. The Bishop has acted wisely in this matter, as the clergymen and lay delegates desire to be at home on Thanksgiving Day.

SWINDLING THE FARMERS.—Almost weekly we notice in some of our exchanges the tricks resorted to by sharpers in order to swindle the farmers, and strange to say they meet with comparative success. As we have frequently remarked heretofore, the only safe course is to purchase from those whom you know to be both honorable and responsible.

RIFLE MATCH.—The competition between No. 1 and 4 Companies of the 49th Battalion, will take place at the ranges on Wednesday, Dec. 4th, at 9 a. m., sharp. Conditions—5 men from each Company, (the shooting team from No. 1 to be barred), distance 400 and 500 yards; 5 shots at each range, no sighting shots. No. 1 Company to be Captained by J. Marshall, No. 4 Company by H. Tammadge.

BEARS SHOT.—The Madoc Review says:—"Bruin seems to be unusually cheeky this season, but he cannot encroach too far into the settlements with impunity. On Saturday last two bears were shot about lot 21 in the 1st concession of Madoc, one by Robt. Nichol and the other by Robt. Nelson. Others have also been seen in this township, but so far as we have heard these are the only ones captured as yet."

GENERAL ORDINATION.—The Lord Bishop of Ontario will hold a general ordination at St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock, when the following candidates will be presented:—For Priest's Orders—Revs. H. B. Petton, Joseph Elliott, J. R. Serson and Leslie; for Deacon's Orders—Messrs. C. B. Bliss, Scudding, S. B. Netherby, and C. F. Harris. The latter five gentlemen were examined at the Synod Hall by Canons Bloudell and Jones, and Rev. Dr. Boswell.

TRENTON ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.—The Courier informs us that the annual meeting of the St. Andrew's Society of Trenton was held on Monday evening last. The following is the list of officers for the present year:—President, J. R. Christie; 1st Vice-President, Adam Young; 2nd Vice-President, J. A. McColl; Sec.-Treasurer, R. Weddell; Physician, Dr. Day; Chaplain, Rev. J. L. Stewart. The President, by motion, was appointed a delegate to attend the presentation of an address to the Governor-General at Ottawa.

THE GRAND JUNCTION.—At a railway meeting recently held at Norwood correspondence was ordered with Mr. Bickford, the contractor of the Grand Junction Railway, to find out from him whether there would be any possibility of inducing the directors of the Grand Junction Railway Company to change the route of that line so as to pass through the central portion of the township of Asphodel, or through or near the village of Norwood, the ratepayers of this section of the country of Peterborough being willing to offer such monetary inducements to the Company as to warrant the said Company in doing so.

COMPLIMENTARY SUPPER.—The supper complimentary to Sergt.-Major Taylor tendered him by the members of No. 4 Company of the 49th Battalion, took place at the Dafoe House last night and proved to be a very enjoyable affair. There were present the officers and non-commissioned officers of Nos. 1 and 4 Companies, together with a good attendance of the members of No. 4, the Mayor and several other gentlemen as guests. There was a fine spread, and the night was spent in the most pleasant manner with toasts, speeches and songs. The enjoyment was so general that it is proposed to make the event of last night the first of a series of annual suppers by the members of No. 4 Company.

GRAND JUNCTION RAILWAY.—Progression, though slow for a week past, says the Campbellford Herald, is observable on the road and the locomotive has arrived within hearing distance of Campbellford. A lack of material, two or three days during this week, has occasioned a delay, which will, we fancy, prevent the completion of the line to this place any sooner than the time specified in the contract. The contract extends to the 30th inst., and to fulfill the provisions of the same, there will need to be an extra effort made. Ballasting has not yet commenced, we believe, although it is common for railways to immediately follow tracklaying with the ballast train.

THE SCHOONER "BELLE."—The Oswego Times of Wednesday says:—"Fears are entertained for the safety of the schooner Belle and her crew, from Mill Point, Canada, loaded with 500,000 lath, for E. M. Upton, Charlotte. The vessel left Mill Point more than twenty days ago, since which time nothing has been heard from her. Yesterday morning two men living on the lake shore, about twenty miles west of Charlotte, reported that the lake shore at that point was strewn with lath, washed ashore by the storm. It is feared that this is the cargo of the Belle." The vessel in question was well known in these waters, having been owned in and traded out of Belleville some years ago. The Belle was a remarkably fast vessel—one of the swiftest sailers on the lake.

PARDEE v. LLOYD.—In the Court of Chancery, Toronto, on the 27th, before V. C. Blake, G. D. Dickson for defendant, moved to set aside or vary an order of revivor obtained by E. O. Bickford as assignee of Pardee pendente lite. He contended that the order was erroneous in that it revived the suit in the name of Bickford as sole plaintiff, because the defendant had sent up counter claims against Pardee, and the decree which had been made had referred these claims to arbitration and an award had been made finding a large sum due from Pardee to the defendant. He also contended that the order erroneously directed the suit to stand revived in the same plight and condition as it was at the date of the assignment from Pardee to him and not as at the date of the order, the date of the assignment being anterior to the arbitration and award, which latter proceedings were practically annulled by the order of revivor. H. Cameron, Q.C., for Bickford, argued that the proceedings on the reference and the award were not proceedings in the cause, and were not therefore affected by the order of revivor, that the allegation that Bickford was assignee of all plaintiff's interest was not denied, and therefore the order was right. Motion refused with costs.

In this Present Age, when the life-battle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the strongest and the best of us it tells so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for the keeping up of our reserve stock of mental and physical stamina by the use of such a nerve-tonic and vitalizing agent as ROBINSON'S PHOSPHORIZED EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH LACTO-PHOSPATE OF LIME! Its gently stimulating and nutritive-tonic properties supply the materials, and assist Nature in her efforts to keep up with the exhaustive demands upon her reserves. Prepared solely by J. H. AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 29.—C. Atkinson, a negro, was arrested in Oberlin yesterday on suspicion of attempting a heinous outrage upon a white lady in Johnston County last week. Atkinson is in the Smithfield jail and lynching is probable.

LEXINGTON, Va., 29.—The corner stone of the mausoleum of Gen. R. E. Lee in Washington and Lee University was laid yesterday by Gen. Jos. E. Johnston.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The Herald's cable despatch says a despatch from Mos Sluis, Holland, states that Captain Schwenzen sank with the Pommerania, but was soon brought to the surface by a life belt which he had fitted on. He seized a plank floating on the water, and held on for an hour and a half, when he was rescued. This shows that if life preservers had been used nearly all might have been picked up.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—A party of roughs attacked a company of fantasticals while marching in Battery Park yesterday, when a fantastical named John Ridden drew a pen-knife and fatally stabbed Jas. Kenney.

Princeton defeated Yale at a championship game of foot ball yesterday at Hoboken.

Daniel Brassel, a news boy, was fatally shot on Wednesday night by a companion, who snapped what he supposed was an unloaded revolver at Brassel.

During a quarrel which terminated in a fierce fight with pistols in a lager beer saloon, at Williamsburg, last night, James Guthrie was shot, probably fatally.

Arrived, the Rhein, from Bremen.

The Times' Yankton, Dakota, special says that an army officer is responsible for the statement of supplies for Red Cloud's six thousand Indians are still on the Missouri and cannot be transported to camp, 200 miles in the interior, inside of ten months, by Indians. The Indians are in danger of starvation and will certainly be ready for the war path in the spring. Half a million pounds of supplies must be carried from here to the Spotted Tail agency this winter by wagons, 200 miles. Everybody is crying mismanagement and cursing the Indian bureau.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Bismarck Declines to Lend Himself to Russian Ambition.

RUSSO-TURKISH DISPUTE IN ASIA.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—A despatch from Sofia reports that Turkish redifs and Circassians sacked twelve hundred houses in the Melnik district in Macedonia on the 20th inst., and massacred the inhabitants without distinction of age or sex.

A despatch from Batoum states that a dispute has arisen between the Turks and Russians whether the new frontier shall be upon the line of the Tchuruk river or not. Russian soldiers have been massacred at Adjaro.

A Paris correspondent represents that the Czar's recent disavowal of a policy infringing on the Treaty of Berlin is due to Prince Bismarck's refusal to permit the nullification of the treaty, with which he is closely connected. Russia sounded him to ascertain whether he would not give her carte blanche in the East provided Count Schouvaloff was raised to office. In consequence of Bismarck's refusal the scheme for Schouvaloff's promotion has been abandoned, at least for the present.

The Afghan War.

Russia Demands Guarantees Against Territorial Changes.

INTERFERENCE THREATENED.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—A despatch from Dakka says the roads through the Khurd Khyber Pass are insecure, because of native plunderers. Robberies are frequent and there have been two murders. Three hundred members of one tribe, near Ali Musjid, threw up entrenchments and maintained a three hours musketry engagement.

A correspondent with the Khurum column telegraphs:—"We will probably attack the Peiwar pass on Saturday. A reconnoissance on Wednesday showed that the Afghans who abandoned the Khurum pass were, so far without success, endeavoring to mount cannon on the summit of the Peiwar. The British will consequently make a dash, hoping to capture the cannon and the pass. All the sick and weakly remain in the Khurum Fort."

Russian journals state that the Ameer is concentrating his forces near Cabul, which is strongly fortified.

A Berlin correspondent confirms the report that Kauffmann's speech on presenting a sword to the Ameer's Envoy at Tashkend has become the subject of a communication from England to Russia.

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—A St. Petersburg correspondent says Russia has announced her intention of actively supporting the Ameer in the event of the English occupying any of the forts in Afghanistan, from which the Russian dominions in Asia might be effectively threatened. This announcement is based upon the assertion England has violated the alleged Afghan agreement of Lord Clarendon by the occupation of Quettah. The intention of Russia to interfere in Afghanistan is apparently confirmed by the Moscow Gazette declaring that intervention is indispensable now that the occupation of Quettah has been succeeded by expeditions in the direction of Candahar and Herat.

PESTH, Nov. 28.—A despatch from Berlin says Russia is about to begin a diplomatic campaign with England relative to Afghanistan.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours; For the Lower Lake region, fresh to brisk westerly to south westerly winds, partly cloudy weather, possibly local showers. For the St. Lawrence, brisk westerly to south westerly winds, cloudy to partly cloudy weather with showers of rain or snow. For the Maritime Provinces, brisk westerly to south westerly winds, partly cloudy and cooler weather.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Indications:—partly cloudy, stationary temperature.

"The American Velvet Plant" delights the horticulturists of England. Here it is known as the mullein.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 29.—Arrived, the Galileo, OSWEGO, N. Y., Nov. 29.—The schooner Sweet Home, from Mill Point, Ontario, to this port with lumber went ashore this morning under Fort Ontario. She will be a total wreck.

GLEN COVE, L. I., Nov. 29.—T. J. Service, a young man who kept a furnishing goods store, took a dose of arsenic last night and died. No cause is assigned.

MOUNT GILEAD, Nov. 29.—A sham battle took place yesterday in the fair grounds in presence of a large concourse. During the war several serious injuries were inflicted, and much ill feeling engendered. Bush Fry of the Levering Guards was shot in the face. The wound is quite dangerous.

—TORONTO, Nov. 29.—The condition of the iron and coal trades in the South Staffordshire district is growing worse. The North British Iron Company, of Cradley, one of the largest and oldest coal and iron concerns, has given notice of closing of the greater part of its works, rather than continue operations at a loss.

The blast furnace proprietors of South Staffordshire and East Worcestershire have decided to reduce wages 10 per cent. The Maryport Hematite Iron Co. have also given notice of a reduction of wages.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—2,000 troops and large additional supplies of ammunition and field supplies, are embarking for the Cape of Good Hope as rapidly as possible.

Count Schouvaloff had a long conference with Lord Salisbury yesterday, prior to a meeting of the Cabinet Council.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The $23,000 belonging to one of the rescued passengers of the Pomerania which was found in the small boat of the steamship, was in the shape of a draft.

The Kentish hop growers met at Maidstone yesterday, and resolved in view of the general depression of agriculture and commerce throughout the kingdom, which is largely caused by the protective tariffs of foreign countries, the time has arrived when in fairness to British interests, duty on foreign products can should be revived. The participators in the meeting pledged themselves to use their best endeavors in the Chambers of Commerce and Agriculture throughout the country, to agitate the question of a retaliatory tariff.

GLASGOW, Nov. 29.—The correct liabilities of of Henry Taylor & Sons, grain and flour merchants, are $650,000.

The strike of the cotton operatives at Oldham will probably last a month or more. There are no further signs of a disposition to yield on either side.

Good Templars.

The twenty-fifth annual session of the Grand Lodge of Canada, I. O. G. T., opened in Napanee on the 27th inst. with appropriate ceremonies. There was a large attendance.

The G. W. Secretary presented his annual report, in which he says: "Though there have been important causes to prevent the numerical increase in the membership of our own and kindred organizations, yet, on the whole, we see unmistakable signs of progress on almost every hand. Temperance principles are becoming better understood and more respected by the community at large than ever before. The press of the country is more decidedly in our favor and more outspoken in our behalf. The legislation of the Dominion Parliament is an important step in advance of any legislation we have ever before had in the Dominion in reference to the liquor traffic, and the churches seem to be more generally recognizing the temperance work as a legitimate part of their Christian duty. The Order is now successfully at work in every county in Ontario, and over 500 temperance meetings have been held each week during the past year. The numbers of initiations has been 8,194; reinstated, 78; admitted by card, 308; related, plegis, 1,353; expelled for violation, 879; expelled for non-payment, 4,933; suspended, 975; withdrawn by card, 302; withdrawn from the order, 2,215; deaths 97. Compared with last year's report there has been a decrease in the membership. The report further states that the ribbon movement has told seriously against the number of members in our own and in all the old established temperance organizations in the province, and it is doubtful if in the end it has permanently increased the actual number of organized temperance workers. A letter from the Secretary and President of the Dominion Alliance was read, inviting the lodge to send delegates to a Convention, which will meet in a short time in Toronto. The communication was referred to the Committee on the State of the Order. A special committee, consisting of the Rev. J. B. Aylsworth, LL.D., Oronhyatekha, M.D., the Rev. F. Chisholm, W. S. Williams, R.W.G.S., and W.C. Wilkinson, was appointed to draft an address to be presented to the Marquis of Lorne, on his arrival in Canada.

Some Wonderful Ponies.

In 1865, Mrs. L——Sent a scotchman to the Shetland Islands to buy ponies for her, but with instructions not to bring any one that was over forty inches in height. After six months he returned with Lucy, Rebecca, May Ensign and Jessie; he had brought a fifth, which died on the passage; but it was thought very fortunate that he was able to get four to America; they are rarely transported safely, the change in food being so great. This, man, however, wisely brought enough of their own food to get them safely to America without any change being necessary. The food was dried fish and sea-weed! This seems strange food for horses; but these ponies utter,y scorned grain, grass or hay, until they found they could have no more fish to eat.

Lucy, the eldest, is a black poney, so old that her head is gray, and so gentle that nothing can startle her, and she is always ready to be driven or ridden by children. Rebecca, a brown, is often called grandmother; she is so very staid and correct, that she will never stray away, no matter how many gates are open, and will even virtuously pass by the gate of the kitchen garden if it happens to be open,—a temptation that the others never try to resist. Rebecca has a great affection for a very large family horse named George, and during the summer, it is one of the sights of the place to go to the stable and see George and Rebecca free from their common enemy the fly. Rebecca will stand by the heels of George, whisking her tail around his legs, and he will swing his heavy tail about her body, performing the same kindly service of driving the flies away; they stand in this way for hours, keeping each other very comfortable.

May Ensign, also brown, is the swiftest pony in the collection; and these last-mentioned ponies, Lucy, Rebecca, and May Ensign, are thirty-eight inches in hight. Jessie is the prettiest; she is mouse-colored, with a dark line from mane to tail, and is smaller than the others, being not quite thirty-eight inches high. Here also we find the twin brothers, Henry Ward Beecher and Charley, only thirty-six inches high; they are so perfectly matched that you cannot tell them apart. They came to Buffalo four or five years ago, with a drove of sheep from Scotland; the drover brought them with him, meaning to take them West; but, upon reaching Buffalo, he found them so emaciated, that he feared to take them further, and sold them to a townsman in the city. He afterward sold them to their present mistress. They are justly considered one of the most curious sights of the place, and when their mistress appears in the park with the twins, as leader in her "four-in hand," do you wonder that the children think that there never was such a wonderful equipage seen before! The grown people think so, too, and many the great number that invariably follow her as she sits in her little carriage (made, in London, to suit the size of the smallest ponies) and drives along, sometimes with a child by her side her, of whom, perhaps, she does not even know the name, but who "wants to wide," and with her groom sitting behind in the rumble. But we have not yet mentioned the three ponies which are considered by their mistress as her "gems." On the tape-measure fine thirty-two inches, that is the height of a fine little bay pony, Frank Tracy. Now, look at this beauty, Agnes Ethel, the most perfect little animal, and only thirty inches high; and at this other fellow, George Washington (so named, because it was a Centennial colt), of the same height as Agnes Ethel, thirty inches. Does it seem possible that such ponies are in daily use in a prosaic, matter-of-fact country like ours? But they really are, and many strangers go to see them; and, I presume, some of you children may have heard of them before; and any of you can see them, if you like, and never come to the good city of Buffalo.—Josephine Norman, St. Nicholas for December.

The Fattest Man in the World.

The London Lancet announces as the champion heavy weight, Mr. Wm. Campbell, of New castle on Tyne. He weighs over 52 stone (728 lbs.); is six feet four inches high, measures round the shoulders 96 inches, round the waist 82 inches, and round the calf of his leg 35 inches. He is only 22 years old. It is with difficulty that he keeps his present four weight. He was brought up a printer, but his size compelled him to discontinue all labor. Until recently corpulency has been considered a natural condition, but since, by the use of Allan's Anti-Fat, a sure reduction of from two to five pounds a week is effected, it is believed to be a disease. If Mr. Campbell would use the Anti-Fat, which is a good harmless vegetable remedy, for twelve months, he would be reduced to a respectable working weight. For particulars, ask your druggist, or address Botanic Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

PATENTS

obtained for Inventors, in the United States, Canada and Europe, at reduced rates. With our principal Office located in Washington, directly opposite the United States Patent Office, we are able to attend to all Patent Business with greater promptness and despatch and less cost than other patent agents who are at a distance from Washington, and who have, therefore, to employ "associate attorneys." We make preliminary examinations and furnish opinions as to the patentability, free of charge, and all who are interested in the subject of Patents are invited to send for a copy of our "Guide for obtaining Patents," which is sent free to any address, and contains many full instructions how to obtain Patents, and other valuable matter. We refer to the German American National Bank, Washington, D. C., the Royal Swedish, Norwegian, and Danish Legations, at Washington, Hon. Joseph Casey, late Chief Justice U. S. Court of Claims, to the Officials of the U. S. Patent Office, and to Senators and Members of Congress from every State.

WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

EMPRESS RELIEF.

THE FRIEND OF MANKIND.

AN INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

BALM FOR EVERY WOUND.

It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and kills all pain instantly, "Deny it who can."

It is the only known remedy for Rheumatism on the "American Continent proved by thousands." As soon as applied it gives instant ease to the unfortunate sufferer.

It is rapidly absorbed, penetrates to the very bone, enters the circulation, neutralizing all "Rheumatic Poison" circulating in the blood, and expels it from the system through the natural outlets."

IT CURES

Toothache, Earache, Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Sprains, Swellings, Inflammation, Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Pain in Side, Pain in back, Pain in chest, Pain in shoulder, Coughs, Colds, Frost-bites, Chilblains, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Summer complaints &c., &c.

It will cure the most agonizing Pain internal or external, in one instant of time. Pocket your preju ice and give it a trial; the investment is small and relief certain.

The great secret of its success with all classes is owing to the fact it is safe and harmless, pleasant to take, gives instant ease, and can be applied to a wider range of disease in every day life, with greater success, than any preparation which research, skill, and "Medical Science" has yet produced.

As a proof of its great power over disease, any person, no matter who it may be, Rich or Poor, Old or Young, who is suffering from any of the above painful complaints, will call at the Office in Toronto, any day of the week, will get practical proof, "Free of Charge" of its magical power over pain in one application.

Testimonials from all parts of the Dominion are constantly coming to hand, giving expression to the most grateful gratitude for astonishing cures which it has performed, and we would be pleased to receive testimonials from all others who use it successfully.

Physicians of the highest respectability recommend it as a most effectual "domestic remedy" for the relief of Pain in cases of sudden emergency.

Carry it to your homes, and it will prove a blessing to your families and afflicted friends.

Druggists are selling enormous quantities of it wherever introduced.

I challenge the World to produce its equal.

Price, 25 cents per Bottle.

The Trade supplied through the Wholesale Drug and Patent Medicine Houses of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London.

POROUS PLASTERS.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER

IS THE BEST KIND.

This remarkable article contains all the valuable qualities of the slow acting common porous plaster, and in addition an entirely new combination of active vegetable ingredients from which it derives its wonderful pain-relieving, strengthening, and curative properties. It relieves pain almost immediately, and cures where other plasters will not even relieve. The manufacturers of Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster were awarded the highest and only medal of merit given for plasters at the Centennial, 1876. Your family physician will confirm our statement regarding its great merit.

For Lame and Weak Back, Kidney Disease, Rheumatism, Stubborn and neglected Colds, Lung and Chest Difficulties, The Lameness and Weakness peculiar to Women, Nervous Affections of the Heart, Chills and Fever, Sciatica and Lumbago, Diseases of Children, such as Whooping Cough, Colds and Croup, when applied in its early stages; and all Local Aches and Pains of Young or Old.

IT IS SIMPLY THE BEST REMEDY EVER DEVISED OR KNOWN.

BENSON'S

CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER.

There is no other remedy so well adapted for the above class of ailments. No other remedy contains the same combination of medicinal ingredients. Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster is positively far superior to common porous plasters, and to all other external remedies including liniments, and the so-called electrical appliances. Its powerful influence is felt almost at the first moment of application. It gives relief, comfort, strength, and life to the afflicted. It is neat and convenient, also pleasant to wear, as it carries merely a sensation of gentle and stimulating warmth.

Caution

There are FRAUDULENT and WORTHLESS imitations of Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster in the market. One in particular, having a similar sounding name, contains lead poisons. Each genuine Benson's Capcine Plaster has the word Capcine spelled C-A-P-C-I-N-E. Take no other.

Sold by all Druggists. Price 25cts.

Grandfather's Easy-Chair.

I well remember how he used in summer time to rest
Just here, upon this vine-clad porch, an ever-welcome guest;
And how on winter evenings oft we placed this easy chair
Fast by the cheerful fireside, and throned grandfather there.
And how I filled his long-stemmed pipe, and plied the glowing coal,
And how he puffed in silence till the smoke-wreaths upward stole,
Filling the dear old kitchen with an odor that was rare,
For he alone, in mother's time, could smoke tobacco there.
How many quaint old songs he sang, what curious tales he told;
And how his talk run o'er with wit and wisdom new and old!
And how his jolly laugh rang out at every well worn joke,
Whose flavor seemed to mingle with the odor of the smoke!
One bitter night when we were all drawn up around the hearth,
Awaiting some familiar sign to start the evening's mirth,
I noted that his face was sad—a pensive look it bore;
My gentle mother, always first to hear a loved one's sigh,
To see the quivering of the lip, the moistening of the eye,
Had watched the old man's mournful gaze fixed on the ruddy flame,
And, rising with a hurried step close to his side she came.
"What is it, father?" then she said, as leaning o'er his chair:
"'Tis only this, my daughter; I feel that I must go;
For ninety years I've had my share of blessings here below;
More than my share—far more than I by any right could claim,
Save that I've striven to earn and keep an honorable name.
My future's in the hands of One who doeth all things right,
No cause have I to feel afraid, but yet I'm sad to-night
To think that soon I must depart from those I fondly love—
But, daughter, you and yours I know will meet me up above.
Good night."—Grandfather's hoary head sank slowly on his breast,
He uttered not another word; his spirit was at rest.
Years afterward, when she was old, and life was hard to bear,
My angel mother passed away while sleeping in that chair.
And now you know why, whether rich or whether poor I be,
A monarch's treasures could not buy that dear old chair from me.

AN AIM.

Give me a man with an aim,
Whatever that aim may be,
Whether its wealth or whether its fame,
It matters not to me.
Let him walk the path of right,
And keep his aim in sight,
And work and pray in faith away
With his eyes on the glittering height.

Give me a man who says,
"I will do something well,
And make the fleeting days
A story of labor tell."
Though the aim he has is small,
Its better than none at all;
With something to do the whole year thro'
He will not stumble or fall.

But Satan weaves a snare
For the foot of those that stray,
With never a thought or a care
Where the path may lead away.
The man who has no aim,
Not only leaves no name,
When this life is done, but ten to one,
He leaves a record of shame.

Give me a man whose heart
Is filled with ambition's fire,
Who sets his mark in the start,
And keeps moving higher and higher.
Better to die in the strife,
The hands of labor rife,
Then to glide with the stream in an idle dream
And live a purposeless life.

Better to rise and climb
And never reach the goal,
Than to drift along with time
An aimless, worthless soul,
Aye, better to climb and fall,
Or so, though the yield be small,
Than to throw away day after day,
And never strive at all.

Domestic Hints.

The following from Hall's Journal of Health, properly exposes and refutes a sophism often perpetrated by the apologists of moderate drinking:—

"A glass of beer can't hurt anybody! Why, I know a person—yonder he is now—a specimen of manly beauty, a portly six-footer; he is one of our merchant princes; his face wears the hue of youth; and now at the age of fifty odd he has the quick, elastic step of our young men of twenty-five, and none more full of wit and mirth than he; and I know he never dines without brandy and water, and never goes to bed without a terrapin or oyster supper, with plenty of champagne; and more than that, he was never known to be drunk. So here is a living exemplar and disproof of the temperance twaddle about the dangerous nature of an occasional glass, and the destructive effects of a temperate use of good liquors."

"Now it so happened that this specimen of safe brandy-drinking was a relation of ours. He died a year or two after that with chronic diarrhœa, a common end for those who are never drunk and never out of liquor. He left his widow a splendid mansion up town, and a clear five thousand a year, and a large fortune to each of his children—for he had ships on every sea, and credit at every counter, but which he never had occasion to use. For months before he died—he was a year dying—he could eat nothing without distress; in the midst of his millions he died of inanition. This is not the half, readers. He had been a steady drinker, a daily drinker, for twenty-eight years. He left a legacy to his children which he did not mention. Scrofula has been eating up one daughter for fifteen years; another is in the mad-house; the third and fourth were of unearthly beauty but they blighted, and paled, and faded—into heaven, we trust—in their sweetest 'teens; another is tottering on the verge of the grave, and only one of them is left with all the senses, and each of them is weak as water. The doctor who talks about guzzling liquor every day as being 'healthy,' is a perfect disgrace to the medical name, and ought to be turned out to break rock on the turnpike for the term of his natural-life, at a shilling a day, and find himself."

Let him who gropes painfully in darkness or uncertain light, and prays vehemently that the dawn may ripen into day lay this precept well to heart; "Do the duty which lies nearest thee," which thou knowest to be a duty: thy second duty will have already become clearer.

Bigness and Greatness.

Bigness is not the highest type of greatness. A whale weighs heavier than a man; blubber after all, is not worth so much as human thought and feeling. Bulk indeed, is nothing; quality is all and in all. China covers an area that would swallow thousands of Londons; but the heart of the world beats here, not there; and the civilization of humanity derives its greatest impulses from our seething metropolis, and not from the stagnation of Pekin. Athens was a small State, but two or three of its men have dominated the thought of twenty centuries of thinkers. Pericles in one of his grand rhetorical declarations, affirmed that its whole polity was a school for Greece, and all the cities and towns of Europe yet sit at its feet for instruction in art. Jerusalem is only a small speck perceptible with difficulty, lying in the centre of the great empires of antiquity, of Egypt and Ethiopia, Assyria and Babylonia, Greece and Rome: and yet from Zion proceeded the law, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem; and no voice is so potent to-day, or has been for these centuries, as that which spake in its streets of the coming of a kingdom that should endure from generation to generation. There are thousands of yards of painted canvas in the picture galleries of Florence, but all of them would not buy Raphael's "Mother and Child," as all the quarries of the world would not purchase Michael Angelo's "David." Bulk goes for nothing; quality is all and in all.

Quiet People.

The misgovernment of the world is carried on with such an amount of talk that one has seldom time to think how little would suffice. Half a dozen well chosen words would generally be better than whole conferences and debates. But since people must speak first and choose their words afterwards, everybody's time is taken up in saying that something was said in saying which something quite different was meant, and in saying something fresh, which has to be explained in its turn. It naturally results that both wise and foolish people have broken much silence in praising it; and that, like abstract virtue, it is admired, but seldom practised. It is in vain to point out that the silent fool who has wit enough to know this and act accordingly is not properly a fool. Were he a fool he would not keep quiet. The negroes attribute this wisdom to the chimpanzee, who, they say is a man, but will not speak lest he should be made to work. Silent people get through the world as well as their talkative neighbors; everyone talks to them; their nod is interpreted where another man would have to make a speech; and everyone is willing to excuse them, as the sailor excused his parrot, for if they do not speak, they think the more. Foote the actor boasted of his horse that it could stand still faster than some horses could trot; and the silent man is often enabled, by the value attached to his rare utterances, to say more by his silence than a valuable talker by a string of phrases. No doubt there is a kind of silence which is the reverse of talk, and is in itself eloquent. A prisoner who reserves his defence, a witness who refuses to answer a question, a man who holds his tongue when his character is assailed—in short all the cases in which "silence gives consent," are rather silence as the negation of speech than as a positive quantity.

The Gospel in Small Things.

The power of the Gospel is shown in laying stress on small things. It ascribes more value to quality than to value; it teaches that God does not ask how much we do, but how we do it. The generous widow who put her two coppers into the treasury gave more than all the rest. The Publican who prayed the shortest prayer on record, a prayer in seven words, went down to his house justified more than those who had recited long liturgies. Thus the Gospel rebukes the indolence which will not begin to work, the selfishness which lives only for itself, the timidity which is afraid of God, the scruples of conscience which avoid responsibility. It says to all, "Begin now, at once, to do what you can, for God, for man, for truth, for right. Begin, and He will take the responsibility for the result. Begin, and do what you can, not thinking of the past or the future, but only of that now, which is always the day of salvation. Your past sins shall be forgiven if you begin now to do right, for that is repentance. Your future salvation you may trust to God, while you are doing what you ought to now. This trust which throws off all anxiety about past sin and future salvation, while it does what it can now, leaning on God's help—this is the faith which saves the soul, which casts out all fear, which fills the heart with peace, which takes the sting from death, and surrounds us with the summer atmosphere of hope and love.

Pleasures of Contentment.

I have a rich neighbor who is always so busy that he has no leisure to laugh; the whole business of his life is to get money, and more money. He is still drudging, saying that Solomon says, "The diligent hand maketh rich." And it is true, indeed; but he considers not that it is not in the power of riches to make a man happy; for it was wisely said by a man of great observation that "there may be as many miseries beyond riches as on this side of them." And, yet, God delivers us from pinching poverty, and grant that, having a competency, we may be content and thankful. Let us not repine, or so much as think the gifts of God unequally dealt, if we see another abound in riches, when, as God knows, the cares that are the keys that keep those riches, hang often so heavily at the rich man's girdle that they clog him with weary days and restless nights, even when others sleep quietly. We see but the outside of the rich man's happiness; and few consider him to be like the silkworm, that, when she seemed to play, is at the same time spinning her own bowels, and consuming herself. And this many rich men do—load themselves with corroding cares, to keep what they have already got. Let us, therefore, be thankful for health and competence, and, above all, for a quiet conscience.

The Future Will Weigh the Past.

Look forward, we sometimes say, a few days, or a few months, and how differently will all things seem. Yes; but look forward a few more years; and how yet more differently will all things seem. From the height of that future, to which on the wings of the ancient prophetic belief we can transport ourselves, and look back on the present. Think of our troubles as they will seem when we know their end. Think of those good thoughts and deeds which alone will survive in that unknown world. Think of our controversies, as they will appear when we will be forced to sit down at the feast with those whom we have known only as opponents here, but whom we must recognize as companions there. To that future of futures which shall fulfil the yearnings of all that the prophets have desired on earth, it is for us, wherever we are to look onward, upward and forward in the constant expectation of something better than we see or know. Uncertain as to "the day and hour," and as to the manner of fulfilment, this last of all the predictions still, like those of old, builds itself upon the present. "It doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is."

The body of man, oppressed by excess, bears down the mind and depresses to the earth any portion of the divine spirit we have been endowed with.

Bad Habits.

If, some cold morning, you should go into a neighbor's house, and find him busy at work on his windows, scratching away, and should ask what he was doing, and he should reply, "Why, I am trying to remove the frost, but as fast as I get it off one square it gets on another," would you not say: "Well! kindle a fire, and the frost will soon come off?" And have you not seen people who try to break off their bad habits one after another without avail? They are like the man who tried to scratch the frost from his windows. Let the fire of love to God and man kindle at the altar of prayer, burn in the heart, and the bad habits will soon melt away.

"He's Been a Soldier by His Walk."

These words attracted my attention as, waiting for a train, I watched a third-class carriage and its passengers just ready to start for London.

The above remark, "He's been a soldier by his walk," was in reference to an erect, firm-treading man who had alighted from the train, and had evidently been an object of interest to his fellow-passengers.

"Ay, and he's been a soldier by the way he carries his pack," said another.

"Ay, and by his politeness," observed a third. "Did you see how he touched his cap, only because yon gentleman looked at him? Most of us would have said, 'What are you staring at?'"

The train started off, the man left the station, and I followed. "Did you hear the remarks of your fellow-travellers, my friend?"

He smiled as I repeated them, and said, "Just as it should be, sir, just as it should be! A soldier in plain clothes should be the same as a soldier in uniform. A true soldier ought to walk so as to be known as such wherever he is."

He gave me a military salute, and left me with serious thoughts.

Is my walk such as to elicit from all with whom I associate the remark, "He is a soldier by his walk?"

I have a burden in the form of a daily cross to carry. Do I so bear it as to leave no doubt where I learnt to carry it? Do I bear it soldierlike?

As a soldier of the Lord Jesus I have a character to sustain. Do I sustain it, even in the small kindness and courtesies of life, as to make the remark of me true, "He must also be a soldier by the way he behaves towards all—taking affront at nothing, but supposing the best of our actions?"

Don't Want What You Can't Have.

"Mamma, can we have anything we want?"

"Yes, dear, if you'll be careful not to want anything you can't have."

There is the true philosophy of life—don't want anything you can't have. Happy are the people who follow this rule; unhappy those who forget it.

As long as there is the slightest probability that you can have a thing which it is proper for you to have, "want" it as much as you like. Wish for it; dream of it; strive for it; but when it is out of reach, make up your mind that it would be undesirable. Forget it, if you find that possible—and much more is possible in that way than one would suppose—and you are all right. There are so many things one can have in this world; but to the foolish man the unattainable is always most precious, whether it be the position that never can be his, the fortune which it is impossible for him to accumulate, or the honor to which he dare not aspire.

The wise man does not turn aside from anything he may reasonably hope for, nor fail to see that he may reach it by endeavor. His wisdom lies in marking for himself a possible goal—in knowing what he can have, and saying, "I will have it!"

Judicial Testimony.

The late Rowland Burr, Esq., who was for nearly twenty years Justice of the Peace and Jail commissioner at Toronto, in a statement to the Canadian Parliament, said that nine out of ten of the male prisoners and nineteen out of twenty of the female, are sent to jail by intoxicating liquors. He examined nearly 2,000 prisoners in the jails of Canada, two-thirds of whom were males, and nearly all signed a petition for a Maine liquor law, many of them stating that their only hope of being saved from ruin was to go where intoxicating liquors could not be obtained. In four years there were 25,000 prisoners in the Canadian jails, 22,000 of whom were brought there by intoxicating liquors. He kept a record of the liquor dealers of a single street in Toronto, 100 in number, for 54 years past. In these families there have been 214 drunkards, 45 widows and 235 orphans left, 44 sudden deaths, 31 suicides, 203 premature deaths by drunkenness, 4 murders, 3 executions, 1,915 years of human life estimated to have been lost by drunkenness, and a loss of property once owned in real estate amounting to $298,500.

Gems of Thought.

No man ever stated his griefs as lightly as he might do.

The great man is he who does not lose his child's heart.

Love, faith, patience—the three essentials to a happy life.

Love is lowliness; on the wedding ring sparkles no jewel.

How can'st thou be a judge of another's heart, who dost not know thy own.

Except ye become as little children, ye cannot enter the kingdom of heaven.

To enjoy a thing exclusively is commonly to exclude yourself from the true enjoyment of it.

The best of all prayer is, to act with a pure intention, and with a continual reference to the will of God.

We are often governed by people not only weaker than ourselves, but even by those whom we think so.

We are haunted by an ideal life, and it is because we have within us the beginning and possibility of it.

Ever since the time of Christ, the Divine Helmsman has been steering the world straight towards the lighthouse of love.

It is with narrow souled people as with narrow-necked bottles, the less they have in them the more noise they make in pouring it out.

With time everything vanishes and decays, except the virtue of the true, which will stand like a rock, and guard them unharmed forever.

Never lose an opportunity of seeing anything beautiful. Beauty is God's handwriting—a wayside sacrament; welcome it in every fair face, every fair sky, every fair flower, and thank Him for it, the fountain of loveliness; and drink it in, simply and earnestly, with your eyes; it is a charmed draught, a cup of blessing.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, NOV. 30.

The Montreal "Post" and the Minister of Customs.

It is to us a matter for regret that reference should again be necessary to the foul and utterly unfounded charge made by the Montreal Evening Post against the Minister of Customs in connection with the execution of the Aylwards at Belleville in December, 1862. But the conduct of the journal which made the accusation leaves no alternative.

Although the accusation was at once properly characterized by the Kingston News, the Montreal Gazette, and in these columns, the Post repeated what it then knew to be a falsehood, and up to the present time it has persistently refused to make any amends for the dastardly stab which it made, without being able to produce the slightest evidence to sustain it, at the character of a gentleman occupying a high and honorable position in the country, and whom even those most strongly opposed to him politically know to be incapable of uttering an expression so atrocious as that attributed to him. What makes the Post's conduct still more offensive is that it professes to believe its own information (if it ever had any on the subject from any person worthy of the slightest credit), regardless of the fact that its informant might easily have been mistaken, of the denial above referred to, and even of the following letter from a person who must be known to its editor :—

To the Editor of the TRUE WITNESS and POST.

SIR,—I am one of the party who brought the judicial murder of the poor Aylwards before the Montreal public, and had the subject discussed before the St. Patrick's Society in this city. Then the Grit Government, which hung the Aylwards, had their anniversary in this city for several days to crush out discussion on the subject, and were ably assisted in so doing by men who would to-day be hanged in their stead with shame if the division list was published in the Post, on the subject of relief for the Aylward

I followed the case all through, and made it hot for the then Government, for their part in the brutal affair. I went to Belleville, made full enquiry into the matter, and I most solemnly declare that the name of Mackenzie Bowell was never mentioned as being the author of the bracket saving that, "If the Aylwards are not hanged, I'll bring 5,000 Orangemen to Belleville and hang them myself." The person who used the foul language was then an M. P., and to-day is a miserable drunken wretch.

Yours truly,
AN IRISH CATHOLIC.

Montreal, November 22, 1878.

["An Irish Catholic" should have completed his evidence by giving the name of the M. P. —E. P.]

In spite of all this the Post has the consummate impudence to ask for proof that Mr. Bowell did not use the words attributed to him.

To afford a fair idea of the manner in which it treats the subject, we give space to the following extract from its editorial remarks in reply to the indignant denial of its charge made by the Montreal Gazette, and which appears in the same issue of the Weekly Post as the latter above quoted :

"Who denies that Mr. Bowell did not use the language which, we repeat, is alleged ? Who, but a political partizan, whose policy it is to serve Mr. Bowell. The denial comes from the Kingston News and the now responsible journal of Montreal, but neither give one particle of proof. It may be said that the onus of proof rests upon us, but our case is already proven, for it was generally believed in Ontario that Mr. Mackenzie Bowell did not use the language. We said that the language was alleged, and so it was, by thousands. Not only was it "never charged" against Mr. Bowell, but it was generally charged, and generally believed in. If it is not true, Mr. Bowell has been under it for years, and no notice taken of it; but in face of the general allegation that it was Mr. Mackenzie Bowell who used the language, the now responsible journal in Montreal, will excuse us if we take the denial as a piece of partizanship and nothing more."

As it is a principle underlying all law that a man is to be held to be innocent until his guilt has been proved, such a proposition could emanate only from one whose mind has been so warped by religious bigotry and natural malevolence as to be unable to distinguish right from wrong—injustice from fair-play. The assertion that such a thing was ever previously charged publicly is base almost beyond conception, as it never met the eye or reached the ear of Mr. Bowell or any one of his friends until it appeared in the Post, which now seeks, with characteristic mendacity, to repudiate its invention. Had such an accusation ever been made, it would certainly have been heard of in the political contests in which Mr. Bowell has been engaged from 1863 onwards, but as no such charge was ever made, its appearance at this late date is a genuine surprise.

Now as the editor of the Post, as we have seen, wants direct proof that his malicious invention is not true, in defiance of all rules of fair play, and of that spirit of Justice which should animate all men controlling the columns of public journals, we will stretch a point and gratify him by stating that the assertion with regard to that gentleman is a base and malicious lie, without any foundation whatever in truth. We would also add that the man who wrote, published and stuck to so infamous a falsehood, which he had not one particle of evidence to sustain, is a disgrace to the profession from which he derives his livelihood.

As accusations of various kinds in regard to the hanging of the Aylwards have been made against various persons, and as the letter published herewith seems to point at the Hon. Lewis Wallbridge as having used the "foul language" complained of, we have the authority of that gentleman for giving the charge the most emphatic denial.

THE MARQUIS OF LORNE.

DOINGS AT MONTREAL.

(From the Star's Report.)

His Excellency in a clear, full voice then read the following reply, which was frequently interrupted with cheers :

To His Worship the Mayor and Citizens of Montreal :—

MR. MAYOR AND GENTLEMEN—In the name of our Queen I ask you to accept our thanks for your loyal and eloquent address, and I need hardly say with what pleasure Her Royal Highness and myself have listened to the courteous expressions in which we are now greeted, and for the most hearty and cordial welcome. We consider ourselves fortunate that so soon after our arrival in the Dominion we have an opportunity of passing this great city, and while halting for a short time within its walls; and while on our journey to Ottawa, to make the acquaintance at all events, of some among the community which represents so large and important a centre of population and industry. Your beautiful city sits like a queen enthroned by the great river whose water glides past in homage, bringing to her feet with her summer breezes the wealth of the world. It is the city of this continent perhaps the best known to the dwellers of the old country; and not only is it famous for the energy, activity and prosperity of its citizens, but it is here that the gigantic undertaking of the Victoria Bridge has been successfully carried out, and this traveller in crossing the mighty stream feels as he is borne high above it through the vast cavern, that such a viaduct is a worthy approach to your great emporium of commerce. Its iron girders and massive frame are worthy of the gigantic natural features around, and it stan is spanning the flowing sea as firm and as strong as the sentiments of loyalty for her whose name it bears, and which unite in more enduring bonds than any forged on the products of the quarry or the mine, the people of this empire. It seems but a short time ago since the Prince of Wales struck the last rivet in yonder structure, and yet what wonderful strides have been made in the progress of this country since that day! Every year strikes a new rivet, and clenches with mighty hand that enduring work—that mighty fabric—the prosperity of the Dominion. Long may your progress in the beautiful arts and industries continue and far be the day on which you may point to any marks but those which tell of the well-earned results of indomitable energy and determined perseverance. The people of this country may be well assured that the Earl of Dufferin has carried home with him ample proofs of the profound love Canada bears to the Mother Country, and these assurances have been conveyed by him personally to Her Majesty. (Cheers.) In answering your address, to acknowledge the extreme loyalty exhibited by the French Canadian populations, as well as the populations of the Maritime Provinces, through whose country we have, during the last two days, travelled, and to thank them once again, as we have the opportunity this morning, for the kindness shown towards us personally. This scene, the magnificent reception of your great city, we shall ever remember with pride and gratitude.

LORNE.

At the conclusion of the Marquis' reply he shook His Worship cordially by the hand, after which the aldermen were presented, each shaking hands with His Excellency and bowing to Her Royal Highness in passing, which was acknowledged by a graceful inclination of the head.

THE PROCESSION

did not get into order until near the corner of Craig and Bonaventure streets, where the Garrison Artillery were drawn up. First came thirteen carriages containing the Aldermen of the City Council and members of Parliament. Then followed the Vice-Regal carriage.

THE CORPORATION ARCH

on Bonaventure street had its battlements painted in representation of stone; its wide expanse of green and gold, and its noble tower surmounted with the flag that all true Britons love waving its welcome to the heir of the House of Argyll and a daughter of the Royal Family. Over the centre the word "Welcome" stood out in bold relief, and above it the illuminated coat-of-arms of the Corporation on a field of canvas. Handsome bouquets were showered down upon the Royal party at this point, and the cheers that rent the air were given in truly British style with British enthusiasm. The surging crowd pressed forward, anxious to obtain a glimpse of Royalty; the balconies and windows of the adjacent buildings fairly teemed with beautiful women and gallant men, while handkerchiefs waved and faces glowed in the excitement and pleasure of the moment. Here it was that Her Royal Highness obtained a glimpse of the statue of her noble mother in the beautiful and a smile, which she did not attempt to conceal, passed over her features. At Winks' building the 1st Prince of Wales Rifles were stationed, and as the Royal party reached it the Prince's own gallant salute was tendered. Then the Garrison Artillery, at the junction of Bonaventure street and Victoria Square, followed suit, and did likewise the 65th Battalion and St. Jean Baptiste Infantry. The bands discoursed excellent music. Cheer upon cheer arose from the crowd, and His Excellency uncovered while the Princess bowed and smiled her acknowledgments. At

VICTORIA SQUARE,

ZION CHURCH

Dr. Maclagan's choir were assembled and contributed their share to the general welcome. Onward the Vice-Regal procession moved, and Beaver Hall Hill looked magnificent in the distance with its numerous flags and decorations. At an especial feature of the day's proceedings was introduced, which must have been extremely gratifying to the new Governor General and his consort the Princess Louise. The Choir and Sunday School children under the leadership of Mr. Maffre, organist, sang the national authem, all heads being uncovered. Thousands lined the sidewalks or took places on the temporary platform, and above their heads near the enterance to the Church, in blue and gold, surmounted by flowers, was the word "Welcome." The last words of "God Save the Queen" float upon the air and are re-echoed by excited and enthusiastic humanity, and still onward the Royal procession moves.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

THE LACROSSE CLUB ARCH

was unique and beautiful in design. Situated at the corner of Dorchester street and Beaver Hall Hill; it occupied the most advantageous position on the route, and in every sense was what it intended to be—truly representative of our national sports. The first glimpse of the structure, obtained on the brow of the hill opposite St. Andrew's Church, is imposing, but the next moment the whole fabric bursts into view with its

LIVING CIRCLE

of snowshoeers and lacrosse-players, most of the members of the Montreal Snow-Shoe and Lacrosse clubs being clustered on the arch dressed in their winter uniforms. In the CENTRE, which was circular in shape, with towers on each side, was a group of snow-shoes and lacrosse-sticks, artistically arranged with corresponding groups to the right and left. The towers were covered with evergreens and faced with lacrosse sticks, cornoling, between them the motto, "A Hearty Welcome."

The design for this arch was prepared by Messrs. Hutchison & Steel, the contractors being L. Patton & Co., builders. The work on it was only commenced Thursday morning, but it was practically finished before night, and made so strong that if twice the number of persons had assembled on it, it would have borne them with safety. Ten dozen lacrosse sticks and six dozen snow-shoes were used in its construction.

The scene in the neighborhood of the hotel, as the time of the arrival of the Vice-Regal cortege drew nigh, was eminently characteristic. All classes of our loyal citizens were gathered together on the sidewalks in the vicinity of the hotel, Dominion square, and Dorchester street, to give the new Governor-General a right royal welcome. The balconies and many of the windows of the Palace Hotel presented a gay and attractive appearance, being filled with ladies and gentlemen. The pipers on the arch and the bands regaled the assembled crowds with music, and the time passed away until one o'clock arrived.

Anticipation now ran high, and the appearance of the Vice-regal carriage was awaited with anxiety. The shining helmets of the Vice regal escort were at last seen approaching, and a cheer rose from the assembled crowds. The pipers on the arch struck up "The Campbells are Coming," and the detachment of Victoria Rifles presented arms. At the entrance of the Windsor Hotel the crush was very great, and some trouble was experienced in getting to the entrance. The number of police was altogether insufficient to stay the surging crowd. The voluntary detachment V. R., though supposed to be for the purpose of doing police duty, were on the other side of the arch, and thus were of no practical use. The carriages containing the members of the Council, civic officials and reception passed first, and at length the Vice-Regal carriage arrived. Cheers rent the air, and an unseemly rush for the carriage was made by a lot of men in an eager desire to gratify their curiosity, which they did in an unmistakably vulgar manner. His Excellency rose in the carriage and attempted to address the staff of Volunteer officers and the crowd, but the cheers drowned all his efforts, and he had to desist. Owing to the great uproar his remarks were inaudible, except to those in the immediate vicinity of the carriage.

The Marquis and Marchioness alighted from the carriage and entered the hotel. They were shown to their apartments, and no doubt were heartily glad to escape from such a scene of uproar and confusion.

THE MARCH PAST.

At about a quarter to two o'clock the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise made their appearance on the balcony of the Windsor Hotel, fronting on Dorchester street, when hearty cheers of welcome at once burst forth from the immense assemblage of citizens, who had been impatiently waiting to catch a glimpse of His Excellency and his Royal Lady. This warm greeting was at once responded to by graceful bows and pleasant smiles from the Princess, the Marquis repeatedly lifted his hat. Then commenced the march past of the different regiments in their usual soldierly and brilliant style, which drew forth repeated signs of approved recognition from the Marquis and Princess, the latter evidently enjoying the spectacle from beginning to the end, as from the time she stepped upon the balcony until she bowed adieu, smiles played upon her features almost uninterruptedly, and remarks as to her easy and familiar bearing were so universal as to proclaim her already a popular favorite. The following was the order of the march past :—The staff, consisting of General Sir E. Selby Smythe, Lieut.-Col. Strange, Colonels Fletcher and Basson, followed by the Montreal Field Battery, Montreal Garrison Artillery, 1st Prince of Wales Rifles, 65th Mount Royal Rifles, 5th Royal Fusiliers, 6th Hochelaga Fusiliers, and 3rd Battalion of Victoria Rifles.

(From the Mail's Report.)

BAD WEATHER FOR ILLUMINATIONS.

The elements have been adverse to-night to the success of the illuminations, as the wind has been too high for the gas to burn steadily. The public buildings elaborately prepared to make a fine display, but it was only at intervals, when the wind somewhat moderated, that the designs could be seen in full. The Bank of Montreal must take premier place for its grand and imposing display. Over the entrance was a magnificent arch of gas jets, with the word "Welcome" in Gaelic. The whole front of the building was one blaze of light, the fine pillars standing out in bold relief. The new post office was brilliantly lighted, the Crown being in the centre, with the letters "L. L." on either side. Owing to the prominence of the building, the wind had free play around it, and prevented the lights burning. The City Fathers have been far from lavish in their exyenditure on the City Hall. The display was confined to transparencies of the Queen, with the Marquis of Lorne and Prince Louise on either side. The Court House was elaborately lighted up and presented a very creditable appearance. The Consolidated Bank, Bank of British North America, Molson's and Merchants' Banks made fine illuminations and attracted the attention of the multitudes promenading on the streets. A number of private as well as private houses ornamented the fronts of their houses with Chinese lanterns in a very picturesque manner. The Windsor Hotel is eclipsing nearly all other buildings in the grandeur of its display. The Montreal Telegraph Company, after going to a great deal of trouble and expense, have been rather unfortunate in the wind beating steadily on their building, and preventing the outlines of their design from being seen. A number of private gentlemen in the avenues had creditable displays. Between 8 and 9 o'clock, the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise took a drive through the city to witness the illuminations. On Beaver Hall Hill they were met by the reorganized and loudly cheered. On returning to the hotel they expressed themselves delighted with the display. They were greatly struck with the Mansion of Victoria Square, which had been filled with Chinese lanterns, and presented a most enchanting scene. Everything passed off without any trouble, and not a single accident is reported. A few robberies by pickpockets took place.

FIREMEN'S TORCHLIGHT PROCESSION,

THE ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY BALL,

given in the dining-room of the Windsor Hotel, is now in progress. It was opened by the president of the Society, Colonel Stevenson—who, by the-bye, is one of the only two men wearing kilts in the room with the Princess for his partner in the quadrille. They were faced by the Marquis and Lady Macdonald. The ladies and gentlemen of the suite, Mr. Mackenzie and Mrs. Dalglish and some other couples making up the set. Her Royal Highness wore a low white brocaded satin dress Princesse shaped, trimmed with Honiton lace, pearls and crystals. She wore a necklet of diamonds, clasps of diamonds in her hair, and a white plume. The ladies of the suite were black satin dresses and diamond tiaras. The Princess danced waltzes with Col. McNeill and Col. Littleton, and honored Sir Hugh Allan with her hand in the Lancers. The Marquis danced every dance, among the partners selected for him being Miss Campbell and Miss Macfarlane. The dance in which he especially shone was a reel, in which he acquitted himself with a vigor and activity that won the hearts of the Scotchmen, and elicited considerable applause at its termination. Only four couples had the courage to appear on the floor, and his Excellency's performance was far and away the best. On the whole the ball was a successful entertainment, some five or six hundred being present. Supper was announced attwelve o'clock, the Marquis handing down Mrs. Dow, Colonel Stephenson taking the Princess, Sir John Macdonald, Lady Sophia Macnamara, Dr. Campbell Lady Macdonald, &c., &c. Supper was served in the billiard room on the ground floor. On the return of the distinguished guests from supper a surprise awaited them at the top of the staircase, in the shape of a delay of ten minutes to hear some stanzas of a patriotic song rendered by a volunteer in uniform. Preceded by three pipers, the party then once more found their way to the ballroom, where a second reel was danced, the Marquis even excelling his first effort, and more couples venturing to compete with him in the lists, among whom was Mr. T. White, the member for Cardwell, by no means an indifferent performer. A pretty feature in the ball-room was the posting of a sentinel with fixed bayonet on each side of the dais erected at the top of the room. At one o'clock the strains of the National Anthem and vociferous cheers announced the retirement of the Marquis and Princess who won golden opinions by their gracious bearing at their first ball in Canada.

GOOD JUDGMENT.

WE have always noticed that Cash customers exercise the best and soundest judgment in buying. Hence the growing popularity of the

NEW BRITISH WAREHOUSE.

It stands to reason that any one who is always in the habit of paying cash for what they buy, can do better in a Cash store, where they are sure not to pay credit prices for what they buy, as is too often the case where cash buyers patronize credit stores. We are constantly receiving NEW GOODS EVERY WEEK, bought for cash, and the regular discounts taken advantage of.

We mark all Goods the closest figure that they possibly can be sold for, for cash,

ASKING ONE PRICE ONLY,

and we are satisfied that we are in a position to offer cash buyers advantages that cannot be surpassed in the market. Try the NEW BRITISH WAREHOUSE for your next parcel of Dry Goods.

City and Vicinity.

ADVERTISEMENTS FOR THE ALMANAC.—Those who have contracted for Advertisements in the INTELLIGENCER FAMILY ALMANAC, are requested to send them in at once to the office.

THANKSGIVING DAY.—Wednesday next, December 4th, will be observed as a day of thanksgiving and prayer for the bounties of the past season.

ACCIDENT.—One flange of the steamer City of Belleville's wheel was accidentally broken at Badgely's dock on Big Island this morning.

MARINE.—The schooner Acacia, which got ashore yesterday near Telegraph Island, was towed off by the steamer City of Belleville. The schooner was light and bound for Belleville.

QUALIFICATION OF ALDERMEN.—In response to numerous enquiries, it may be stated that to be eligible for election as Alderman a man must be assessed for $1,500 realty or $3,000 leasehold.

CONSULAR AGENT.—Robert Clapp, Esq., has been re-appointed U. S. Consular Agent at Picton, the late Consul, Sullivan, having taken his departure for his home in Pittsburgh, Pa.

ELECTION EXPENSES.—The election expenses of J. S. McCuaig, in Prince Edward, as officially announced, amount to $171.75; Dr. J. M. Platt's expenses were $186.13.

CONCERT.—On Monday evening Mrs. Goetzel, who will be ably assisted, is to give a concert of vocal and instrumental music in the Metropolitan Hall. The highly favorable impression which this lady created at the St. Andrew's concert will tell much in her favor.

THE MARKET.—To-day's attendance was the largest of the season, the square being crowded beyond its capacity and the adjoining streets being utilized as a stand for waggons. The supply of provisions was very large, and prices generally were moderate, except for potatoes, which are a poor crop this year.

SHORTENING DAYS.—The days have yet to grow 41 minutes shorter—viz.: 33 minutes in the morning and 8 in the afternoon. The afternoon reach their shortest on the 6th Dec., when the sun sets at 4.15. The mornings do not reach their shortest until 28th Dec., when the sun rises at 7.42. The afternoons begin to lengthen on the 15th Dec., and the mornings on the 7th January.

EXPORTS FROM NAPANEE.—The quantity of barley exported from the port of Napanee this season was 582,712 bushels, valued at $582,712, as against 589,990 bushels, valued at $334,376 last year—a decrease of 6,878 bushels, but an increase in value of $248,336. Of cheese the export was 455,308 pounds, valued at $37,009; and of eggs 102,618 dozens, valued at $9,584.

TO BE FITTED OUT.—The Picton Gazette says:—"The str. Armenia towed the Empress of India down to Garden Island on Tuesday last. At this place she will remain during the winter for the purpose of having a new shaft put in. We believe it is also in contemplation to provide her with a more powerful engine, and otherwise fit her up in a first class condition throughout."

THE COBOURG SENTINEL.—This journal has changed hands, having been purchased by a company, who have placed the editorial charge in the hands of Mr. J. A. Wilkinson, formerly of the West Durham News. Mr. D. M'Allister, who established the Sentinel eighteen years ago, and conducted it with great ability and much success, retires from journalism, at least for the present. In Mr. Wilkinson he has an able successor, and we wish the Sentinel increased prosperity under the new management.

INTERESTING SERVICE.—We understand that Rev. Job Turner, a deaf mute, who travels as a missionary among the deaf and dumb, will conduct a service in the sign language in the Metropolitan Hall to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The sermon and service will be explained to the hearing and speaking portion of the audience. It is to be hoped that a large congregation will be present. Mr. Turner is an assistant of Rev. Dr. Gallaudet, who devotes his entire time to laboring among the deaf and dumb.

CITY COUNCIL.—The movement for reducing the number of municipal representatives seems to be more general than was expected. The Toronto Telegram says:—"There should be fewer aldermen in the City Council, and then there would be less wardgrabbing. Instead of sending twenty-seven men to the Council to represent them, the ratepayers should only send nine. This is one of the municipal reforms Toronto is badly in need of." The subject ought to engage the attention of all the municipal Councils in the Province, with the view of having the law amended at the next session of the Legislature, provided public opinion favors the suggestion.

THE ST. ANDREW'S CELEBRATION.

A SUCCESSFUL PROCESSION—AN EXCELLENT SERMON—AND AN IMMENSELY SUCCESSFUL CONCERT.

The celebration in Belleville this year of the anniversary of St. Andrew, the patron Saint of Scotland, was in every respect highly successful, and a credit to the Scotchmen of Belleville.

Between 2 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon the members of the Society, and a few of their friends assembled at the Marble Hall, where they were joined by representatives of the St. George's Society; and the procession, headed by the piper, being formed, proceeded to St. Andrew's Church, where a very excellent sermon was preached by the Rev. Alexander Turnbull, B.A., pastor of the Baptist Church. After service the procession was re-formed, and after marching through several of the principal streets returned to the Hall, where the processionists dispersed.

The Concert in the evening was one of the most successful entertainments ever held in Belleville, the Opera House being crowded to the door long before the hour appointed for the rising of the curtain. Proceedings were begun by the playing of the favorite Scotch air "The Campbells are Coming," by Pipe-Major Smith, of Hamilton. Following this, W. H. Fenton, Esq., President—who was accompanied on to the stage by the Mayor, the President of the St. George's and St. Patrick's Societies, Chief McKinnon, his breast covered with medals, (Master of Ceremonies on this occasion,) and a number of other gentlemen—delivered an able and appropriate address, which unfortunately was indistinctly heard in the rear portion of the house.

As the programme was of extraordinary length, and was added to very greatly by the numerous encores, we will not review it at length but confine our remarks to a brief criticism of the performers. Mr. H. K. Maitland, of Guelph, sang several songs and was received with much favor. He has a fairly good tenor voice, which he uses with skill, and is an acceptable concert singer. Miss Barr, of Hamilton, the prima donna of the evening, is possessed of a very light and rather thin soprano voice, but she sings with so much spirit, her Scottish accent is so true, and her presence and manner so pleasing, that she added materially to her reputation here. Mr. and Mrs. Goetzel made their first appearance before a Belleville audience in an instrumental duet, piano and violin. The lady is a very skilful pianist, whilst Mr. Goetzel's violin playing was highly appreciated, and the impression which they created was so markedly favorable that many will wish to hear them again at the concert in the Metropolitan Hall on Monday night. Mr. John Dean sustained his reputation in a flute solo as a brilliant performer on his favorite instrument. Mr. J. L. Morrison, of Toronto, proved himself a thoroughly accomplished dialectic reader, and also a clever comic singer. Mrs. J.P. Thomas and Mr. Stanistreet also rang selections, both of which were received with approbation. Mrs. A. A. Campbell accompanied Miss Barr's singing in her usual tasteful manner, Mr. Stanistreet accompanied Mr. Maitland, and Mrs. Goetzel accompanied Mr. Stanistreet in his song. The dancing was of the highest order of merit, Mr. G. A. Mathieson, of Hamilton, although he had left a bed of sickness to be present, proving himself once more to be the finest Highland dancer in America. He performed the Highland fling, the Ghillie Callum, and a hornpipe in most artistic style, besides taking part in two four-hand reels and the Lorne reel, in all of which he was received with immense applause. Messrs. Henderson and Brodie, of Hamilton, and Wm. Robertson, of Belleville, also ably filled their parts in the programme. We have seldom attended a more enjoyable affair, and congratulate the St. Andrew's Society on the great and deserved success of their entertainment.

—The Kingston Whig says—The editor of the Montreal Post has found a lizard in his drinking water. He is alarmed. Well he might be. The thing may be an Orangeman in disguise.

—Two thousand British troops and large additional supplies of ammunition are being embarked for the Cape of Good Hope as rapidly as possible.

The sale of Sarsaparillas for blood and liver medicines is almost entirely superseded by the introduction of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which far surpasses in efficacy these old-time medicines.

EAST TORONTO.—Hon. Mr. Morris has received and accepted the nomination of the Liberal Conservative Party, as a candidate for East Toronto, in the Ontario Legislature. There does not appear any doubt of his election.

THE QUEBEC CABINET.—According to report, the death of Mr. Bachand having afforded the opportunity, one of the portfolios in the Provincial Cabinet, that of Solicitor-General, has been abolished, and redistribution of offices has been made, the Premier himself assuming the position of Treasurer. Thus the Cabinet, as reconstructed, will stand: Mr. Joly, Treasurer; Mr. Langelier, Public Works; Mr. Chauveau, Crown Lands; Mr. Ross, Attorney-General; Mr. Marchand, Provincial Secretary; Mr. Starnes, President of Council.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The Herald's cable says the result of Schouvaloff's interview with the Marquis of Salisbury is as follows: The Marquis stated explicitly that Great Britain would not permit on any account the slightest infringement of the Berlin Treaty, nor any prolongation of the time of the Russian evacuation of Bulgaria, nor any intermediary interference in the Afghan affair. The Marquis expressed his surprise that so able a statesman as Schouvaloff should be engaged in such a useless endeavor. Schovaloff, seeing his mission has entirely failed, will probably leave London at an early day.

Th statement that 26 more bodies from the Pommerania wreck have been landed at Hastings is incorrect; only 3 bodies have been recovered. The testimony shows that the sailors did not assist the passengers, and they were obliged to help each other as best they could in the darkness and confusion. The Pommerania's officers do not appear to have had the slightest control of the sailors.

AMERICAN DISPATCHES.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 30.—The express train from New York was wrecked by a misplaced switch at Newington last evening. There were no passengers hurt; the engineer and fireman were injured.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—Robert Heller's estate is valued at between $300,000 and $400,000; the bulk of which is left to his wife and children. His will directs that all the implements of his profession be broken up so that none can have the benefit of his life-long study.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The Herald's Lexington, Ky., special says that Breathill County is in a state of civil war. At the last election great bitterness was developed between J. W. Burnett and Ned Strong, contestants for the county judgeship. Capt. Bill Strong, a noted desperado, assisted by the freedmen Negroes, championed Ned Strong, while Burnett also had special supporters. Other families known as the Allans and the Littles became involved. On Monday John Aikman, leading a dozen horsemen, dashed into the town and furiously attacked Strong's clan. Two men were shot, one of them fatally. Next day the opposing forces again met, and a number of shots were exchanged. When the smoke cleared it was found that Judge Burnett had been shot through the heart. A posse of Allen's men attempted to rescue Little, who had been jailed. Tom Little, a brother of the prisoner, begged them to desist, when he was shot dead from the jail. The mob retired breathing vengeance for Little's death. A guard was detailed to the grave of Judge Burnett by the side of his sweetheart, who died one year ago. The ladies and citizens who came to attend the funeral have beaten a hasty retreat. Lawlessness and disorder are rife. Everybody is leaving town. The Governor has been asked for troops.

The Times' Pottsville, Pa., special says the arrangement of the anthracite coal trade for the next year is a question whether the market shall or shall not be forced to take say 5,000,000 tons more next year than this, involving the financial life or death of scores of private coal firms, affecting the dividends of hundreds of coal and railway shareholders, and regulating the wages of some thousands of employees, as well as the price paid for fuel by a still larger army of consumers, rests now with one man, Asa Packer. He is President of the Lackawanna Valley Railway and Coal Company, and of the Philadelphia Coal Company. It is now expected by the trade that he will veto all measures looking to combination in 1879. The consequence of failure to combine will be a coal war, and this will insure, as it did in 1877, cheap coal and plenty of it.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

MUNICH, Nov. 30.—The Bavarian authorities have asked the opinions of Protestant, Catholic and Israelite congregations and the Board of Health on the subject of permissive cremation. The Catholics will have nothing to do with cremation, the Israelites refuse to express an opinion, the Protestants say it would only imply a change of directions in the liturgy, and the Board of Health recommend cremation in the following contingencies:—1st, after battle; 2nd, during epidemics; 3rd, for the conveyance of remains to distant parts, and 4th, where the soil is unsuitable for burial purposes. The authorities have postponed their decision.

MADRID, Nov. 30.—The rumored intended marriage of King Alfonso is denied.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 30.—The United States District Court has rendered a judgment for the Government against George Atcheson, for failing to account for $15,000 placed in his hands as an army officer for distribution among the Indians in Minnesota in September 1870.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The Times Washington special says that Indian Commissioner Hoyt denies the stories that the Red Cloud Indians will be starved because of insufficient facilities for transporting supplies. The annual report of the register of the Treasury shows that the total tonnage of the country has decreased 29,835 tons, the registered tonnage having increased 17,854 tons, the licensed tonnage under 20 tons, 817 tons, while the enrolled tonnage has decreased 48,506 tons.

LAHORE, Nov. 30.—A signalling party under Major Pearson were attacked by the Afreedies, one of the Hill tribes, yesterday, on the hill opposite the Khyber Pass and two of his troop were killed and one wounded. The Khyber Pass is blocked and several convoys have returned.

A company of the 9th regiment and 45th Sikhs have been sent to the scene of action whence firing had been, but the result is unknown. Heavy firing has also been heard near Ali Musjid since yesterday. The trouble with the Afreedies is not serious, only one tribe hostile.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 30th.—Hon. Lyman Tremain died this morning.

QUEENSTOWN, Nov. 30—Arrived, the Russia.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—The Journal des Debats rumors that Alfonso, king of Spain, is determined to ask the hand of Princess Christina, sister of the late Queen Mercedes, in marriage.

For the Maritime Provinces, moderate to fresh southwesterly to northwesterly winds, partly cloudy weather.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Indications:—clear or partly cloudy, stationary or rising temperature.

In this Present Age, when the life-battle is so fiercely fought, and when upon even the strongest the tug and stress of it tell so heavily, how necessary it becomes for us to provide for the keeping up of our reserve forces of mental and physical stamina by the use of such a nerve-tonic and vitalising agent as ROBINSON'S PHOSPHORIZED EMULSION OF Cod LIVER OIL WITH LACTO-PHOSPATE OF LIME! Its gently stimulating and nutritive-tonic properties supply the material, and assist Nature in her efforts to keep up with the exhaustive demands upon her reserves. Prepared solely by J. H. Robinson, Pharmaceutical Chemist, St. John, N.B., and for sale by Druggists and General Dealers. Price $1.00 per bottle; six bottles for $5.00. d&w

Russia and Afganistan.

The Situation on the Frontier Becoming Serious.

GEN. BROWN'S COMMUNICATIONS CUT.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The Pall Mall Gazette's leading editorial, referring to the statements concerning Russian intervention in Afghan affairs, says:—"Russia cannot suffer us to prosecute our successes in Afghanistan to whatever issue we may think fit. That action will be taken sooner or later is certain."

A Peshawur despatch says:—Gen Browne's communications have been temporarily cut. The hostile highlanders, estimated at 4,000 in number, have collected in the hills below Ali Musjid. They cut off stragglers and fire on armed parties. A section of the pass between Jumrood and Ali Musjid has been closed altogether for the present. A strongly escorted convoy failed to force its way to-day. The situation is serious and strong measures are inevitable.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 29.—The Novoe Vremigya publishes an article saying that the responsibility for the despatch of the Russian Embassy to Cabul rests with Russia and not Afghanistan. England avoids the strong apponent and falls upon her weak neighbor.

THE PROMINENT MAN.

You can hear of him always, wherever you go,
A shining example, a model, you know;
There is nothing without him quite perfect or right,
He can ever be found in the thick of the fight;
A wedding is wanting its liveliest air,
A funeral is only a gloomy affair,
Or a birth, or a baptism under a ban,
If it's wanting that treasure—the prominent man.

The paper he reads can but circulate well,
For its stories and jokes he is eager to tell;
And to take what it costs now he has not—
Their wines and their dinners—he cannot forget.
His wife takes his patronage mildly and meek,
No favors of him need his indigent seek;
And I wonder, as often his figure I scan,
If he'll be in the next world—a prominent man.

Public Education in Knoware.

The streets were clean as a new pin and mortal still, though you could hear little folks laughin' and cracklin' in the cool garden and pleasant houses by the side of the way.

"Where air your public schools?" sez I.

"Here," sez he, stoppin' before a long low house, like a shed some, that seemed to be fixed up with rows o hogsheds, among which several men was steppin' round and talkin' out loud, one at a time; "there's the school."

"But I don't see no children."

"No; you can't see through a millstone no more'n the next man. We head up the boys at six years old in big barrels, and feed an' addicate 'em through the bunghole till the age of twenty. They're extension barrels so's the boys can grow."

I was took aback. I was kinder riled. "What!" sez I, "all your boys in barrels! None o' them things folks lay such stress on in teachers' conventions—home influences, no manly sports, no everlastin' friendships, no Sundayschools, no ——" Here I sort o' give in; breath seemed to peter out. But he took up the talk:

"No, Sir! Cats and pigs and chickens live out all their days in peace here; nobody's a tyrant over mother and the girls from dawn till dark; no broken bones nor cracked skulls. Our boys don't grow up, get drowned, blowed up with powder, tangled up in burr saws, split with hatchets, spilled off'n horses, run over in the street, nor jammed to bits under fire-engines. We don't have boys swearin' and spittin' on every street corner; straining their backs a-boat-racin', and bettin'; no colleges to upset their manners and morals, and let 'em' herd together like swine, and then turnin' of 'em loose on a world lyin' in wicke-tness, as our old parson used to call it. Nobody here's killed in baseball, nor mangled nuther. Marbles, peanuts, and fire-crackers never pester us. We have peace."

"How delightful!" sez I, kinder involuntary.

"More'n than all that, we don't never have no divorces. Them boys come out at twenty year old so orful meek and grateful, their wives have no trouble with 'em at all."—Harper's Magazine.

A Big Dream.

A very amusing anecdote is told of Sir Wm. Jackson, Superintendant of Indian Affairs in the Mohawk Valley, in 1755, and as throwing some light upon the easy manner in which fortunes were made in those days may not be uninteresting to our readers. Sir William by his usual courteous and kindly manner to the Indians, had gained an ascendancy over them generally and particularly over a chief, named Hendrick.

On one occasion Sir William was unpacking a large box of clothing which had just arrived from England, Hendrick happened to be in the room. He was particularly attracted by a richly embroidered coat which was brought forth and shaken out in all its glittering splendor of gold and lace, and gilted buttons and bright silk trimmings. The Indian's eyes sparkled as he could scarcely keep his hands from the coveted prize, but he held back and kept his peace for the time. On the following morning however, the chief waited upon Sir William for a purpose, as was evident from the intensity of his looks. "Sir William" he said, "me have a great dream last night that you say me, Good Hendrick, you have been my friend and now I will reward you,' and you gave me new coat, with the bright gold on it that came in the box." The baronet reflected for a few moments, and finally said: "It is true, Hendrick you have been my friend; the coat is yours." The chief went away fairly beside himself with joy.

A few days after Sir William said to him, "Hendrick I had a dream last night." I dreamt that you took me by the hand, and said: Sir Wm. Jackson you have been my true friend, and I will give you a proof of my love, 'and you gave me the tract of land on the great river and Canada Creek,' describing a square territory embracing nearly one hundred thousand acres of choice land. The chief was a little time confounded. This was the fairest part of his domain. But he was not to be outdone in generosity. "My pale faced brother," he said "the land is yours." After a pause he added with a nod, "Sir William, we don't dream any more. You dream one too big dream for me."

The Fatal Slumber.

There is a little story that has gone the rounds of the American press, that made a great impression upon me as a father. A father took his little child out into the field on Sabbath and, it being a hot day, he lay down under a beautiful shady tree. The child ran about gathering wild flowers and little blades of grass, and coming to his father and saying, "Pretty, pretty!" At last the father fell asleep, and while he was sleeping the little child wandered away. When he awoke, his first thought was "Where is my child?" He looked all around, but he could not hear him. He shouted at the top of his voice, but all he heard was the echo of his own voice. Running to a little hill, he looked around and shouted again. No response. Then, going to a precipice at some distance, he looked down, and there, upon the rocks and briars, he saw the mangled form of his loved child. While he was sleeping his child had wandered over the precipice. I thought as I heard that, what a picture of the church of God!

How many fathers and mothers, how many Christian men are sleeping now, while their children wander over the terrible precipice, right into the bottomless pit! Father, where is your boy to-night?—D. L. Moody.

Rather Thin.

A ludicrous incident occurred this summer, at "Woodlawn," on the Bloomingdale road. Jones' hotel, of that place, is ornamented with a hostler, whose fun is as fearless as his face is ugly. One day, in July, while twenty or thirty fast gentlemen were standing in the front balcony of the hotel, an individual rode up the path, on the thinnest horse mortal eyes ever looked upon. Leaping from his phantom steed, the equestrian said, turning to the hostler;

"Here, John, give my horse some water."

"Sir!" said John, with a look of astonishment.

"Give my horse some water!" thundered the stranger.

"Your horse!" ejaculated John, still more surprised.

"Yes, you fool, my horse!" and the stranger looked savagely at him, and commenced drawing the lash of his whip through his hand.

John walked toward him as though he would demand an explanation, and had taken about six steps, when he suddenly stopped, like one surprised beyond expression:

"Bless my soul!" says he, "I ax your pardon, sir; but your hanimal was a standin' on a line with that ere hitching post, and I didn't see him." The owner of the spectral beast tried to frown, but a roar from the balcony made him change his mind.

"I've stopped to get a bite," said a vagabond to a lady in her garden in an insolent manner. "Here, Tiger!" cried she; and as a huge mastiff came bounding to her side, she said to the tramp, "If you don't leave at once, you'll get one." He didn't stop to expostulate.

IS YOUR LIFE WORTH 10 CENTS?

Sickness prevails everywhere, and everybody complains of some disease during their life. When sick, the object is to get well; how to say plainly that no person in this world that is suffering with Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and its effects, such as Indigestion, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Heart Burn, palpitation of the Heart, Depressed Spirits, Biliousness, etc., can take GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER without getting relief and cure. If you doubt this go to any Druggist in Belleville and get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try it. Regular size 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you. d&w

The invigorating, Fattening and Nutritive properties of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime are such as would indicate its sufficiency to "sustain the body in the performance of its various functions," with the aid of but little solid food.
